The WORD and the WORLD

By Alva J. McClain

The Brethren Missionary Herald

In planning and launching this new magazine, which makes its initial bow in the year 1940, its sponsors made no mistake in their selection of an appropriate name. They began with the name, "The Brethren Herald", very happily chosen as the caption of the Home Council magazine, and simply added the word "Missionary", placing it squarely in the center of the original name; a prophecy, we trust, of the central place that missions shall hold in its pages. Thus the entire name contains three important words, each one indicating a specific task, and which taken together suggest the threefold policy and program of the magazine.

First, It Is a HERALD

The word "herald" occurs but once in our common English Version (Dan. 3:4), where it refers to the herald of a pagan monarch. But there is another word in the Bible which occurs no less than 61 times in the New Testament and is generally rendered "preach" and a few times "proclaim" and "publish". The Greek word means literally "to announce a message after the manner of a herald". Over and over the word is employed of the preaching of the gospel in such passages as 1 Cor. 1:23, "But we preach Christ crucified", and 2 Tim. 4:2, "Preach the Word". In this remarkable verb, so frequently used by the apostles, we may learn something very important about the message which was preached. For it is not enough merely to preach. The really important thing is what we preach. When the workers of the early church went out to save men, they did not save them with social programs, legislative schemes, or new economic policies. They did not call upon men to save themselves. They did not lay down a code of divine laws by which men might become sons of God. What they did do was to go everywhere simply telling a story, the story of the Lord Jesus and what He did at Calvary. As "heralds" they proclaimed salvation through Him, complete, finished forever, the gift of God's grace, without money and without price. And if this new magazine does what they did, it will truly be a "Herald", a herald of good news to sinners. Most pulpits and publications have ceased to be heralds in this sense. Instead of telling sinners what Christ did to save men, they are telling men how to save themselves. And this is to mock the needs of sinners. As the old Chinese said to the modernist missionary, "We are dying for want of Bread, and all you do is tell a recipe for making bread."

Second, It Is a BRETHREN Herald

This magazine is to be a "Brethren" publication in the complete Biblical sense of that term which is deeply precious to many of us. That means its devotion to the whole Word of God. In its pages nothing is to appear which even by intimation puts a question-mark after anything in the Word. On the other hand, it will welcome the presentation of any truth which is clearly taught in the Word. When our Blessed Lord says, "Swear not at all", the editors of this magazine will not exclude this command, nor try to soften its solemn force, merely to hold a few subscribers who may have violated it. And when the Bible declares an uncompromising attitude of enmity toward this present evil world with all its ways, and demands that the Christian come out of it in holy separation, this magazine will never apologize for this demand, no matter what the cost may be in material gain. It has been a vicious practice of the professing church, through the centuries, to lay great stress on the Biblical commands which can be obeyed without any great bother, and at the same time ignore the commands which cost something to obey. The editors, by the grace of God, expect to be chiefly concerned about what is taught in the Word, not what some men may think about it. For this cause there must be constant prayer that we may be delivered from the fear of men and kept in His will.

Third, It Is a MISSIONARY Herald

It matters not how perfectly orthodox we may be in faith, or how zealous we may be about the correct observance of the forms of the church, if we shut up our bowels of compassion for a lost world, God Himself will write "ICHABOD" over the portals of our churches. For the glory has departed from the church which is content to eat the Bread of Life in solitary selfishness. Now it is no secret that the group of churches supporting this magazine, although numerically about half of The Brethren Church, nevertheless give at least ninety per cent of the missionary offerings. This fact is pointed out to show the absolute necessity for a magazine which will give proper emphasis to the cause of missions, not to boast of what we have done. As a matter of fact, in the face of the world's desperate need, we have done nothing worth boasting about. But since we have made a good beginning in the matter of carrying the gospel to a lost world, we need a magazine which will jealously guard this missionary interest and seek to increase it in coming days. There is a type of thought in some so-called Brethren churches which is satisfied to devote its energies and funds upon its own selfish welfare and comfort. It should be the business of this magazine to fight against all such tendencies without ceasing. For the end of these things is death to the church. He that would save his life shall lose it.

"THE HARVEST IS PLENTEOUS"

The Brethren Missionary Herald

We hail the birth of two very important infants this week: First, the year 1940, with all its tremendous possibilities, and its momentous probabilities.

Secondly, The Brethren Missionary Herald, which, if our Lord shall tarry, with this issue is making its initial bow as a representative of the work of The Brethren Church, standing stalwart and true in these times of world-wide apostasy, for, "the faith which was one for all delivered unto the saints" (Jude 3); which faith was proclaimed by the fathers who gave our denomination birth back in those hectic days of the early '80's.

As the faithful sons of those fathers, we reaffirm their creed: "The Bible, the whole Bible, and nothing but the Bible," and pledge our very lives to be absolutely loyal to that creed. If the New Testament of our Lord teaches a doctrine or a duty, we are for that doctrine or that duty, whatever that doctrine or that duty is. If the New Testament (the New Covenant) does not teach that doctrine or that "duty", we shall not force that doctrine or that "duty" upon any man. To that end, as the editor of the organ of The Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church, we pledge ourselves, body, soul and spirit.

While the Executive Board of The Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church must finally determine at its next meeting, the permanency or the temporality of our relation to The Brethren Missionary Herald, yet, we can safely say that only so long as The Brethren Missionary Herald shall stand true in all her issues to the well-known faith of our beloved church, and to the founders of The Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church, can we continue our fellowship. The founders of The Foreign Missionary Society brought the Society into being to carry the message of salvation, as that message is set forth in the New Testament, to the nations of the earth. To that purpose we must be infallibly true.

We have confidence that to that great purpose The Brethren Missionary Herald will ever be true!

Therefore, we greet the new-born child, and pray God's choicest blessing upon it, and upon our mutual relations, until its mission, under the Spirit of the living God, is finished and the Lord calls His workmen home!

The Brethren Missionary Herald vs. The Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church

The Foreign Missionary Editor wishes to make very clear in this issue, our relation to The Brethren Missionary Herald. Therefore, we repeat several matters already set forth in the special magazine published last month.

First. For years, the organ of The Foreign Missionary Society was known as The Brethren Missionary. Some years ago, in order to assist The Brethren Publishing Company, publishers of The Brethren Evangelist, in its hour of financial stress, a merger was formed whereby The Foreign Missionary Society took over as its own, one issue of The Brethren Evangelist monthly. The National Home Mission Board took over another issue; and, The Woman's Missionary Society took over a third issue. Each of these societies ceased the publication of its magazine that had theretofore been unrelated to The Brethren Evangelist.

From this merger The Woman's Missionary Society two years ago, for reasons of its own, withdrew and again began the publication of its own magazine. One year ago, at the National Conference of The Brethren Church, R. Paul Miller was dismissed by The National Home Mission Board, a creature of The National Conference, although a majority of fifty-five voted that he should be retained. The majority vote demanded that he be given a trial upon charges which the members of The National Home Mission Board had against him. Such a trial was refused.

This brought about a division of the national home mission work of The Brethren Church, and a new organization, known as The Brethren Home Missions Council, was born, representing the greater majority of the supporters of home mission work of The Brethren Church. This brought about the revival of the former magazine, The Brethren Witness, that formerly represented the interests of The National Home Mission Board, under the name, The Brethren Herald, which now represents The Home Missions Council. R. Paul Miller is again its editor.

The Foreign Missionary Society remained in the merger with The Brethren Evangelist until last September. At the annual meeting of the Foreign Board, it was learned that there would be an attempt to get control of the National Conference by the utterly illegal means of casting aside enough of the credentials of duly elected delegates known to be favorable to the Home Missions Council, to enable the National Home Mission Board to get absolute control of The Brethren Publishing Company, and thereupon dismiss Charles W. Mayes, as editor of The Brethren Evangelist, and J. C. Beal, as Secretary of Publications.

With the control of the machinery of the National Conference in their hands, with an effrontery that was amazing, especially among men and women professing to be led by the Spirit of God, this was done.

Anticipating such an action, by the same methods that worked so successfully for the Ashland College Group at the Indiana District Conference, the Foreign Board decided that it would not be a party to any such deal, nor could it conscientiously support the deal in any way if carried through. Therefore, the following resolution was passed by the board:

"Many Enemies—Much Honor"

"I have no enemy," you say?

My friend, your boast is poor.

He who hath mingled in the fray

Of duty that the brave endure.

Must have made foes. If he has none

Small is the work he has done.

He has hit no traitor on the hip;

Has cast no cup from prejured lip;

Has never turned the wrong to right;

Has been a coward in the fight.

—Anastasius Grun

"A motion prevailed that, if the Brethren Publication Board shall not support the continuation of the present personnel (Secretary of Publications and the Editor of The Brethren Evangelist), then, at such time as the President, the Secretary-Treasurer and the Candidate Secretary shall determine, The Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church shall cease to be a party to the merger, its electives to said Board shall withdraw from the Publication Board, and the above-mentioned officers of our Society shall arrange for the publication once again of our former magazine, namely: 'The Brethren Missionary', or for a merger with some other magazine as said officers shall deem best, until such time as at the regular annual meeting of the board other arrangements may be effected. Should any steps be successfully taken by any one to deprive any share holders of their rights, then this action shall immediately follow."

By this action on the part of the Foreign Board, it became our duty to withdraw from the merger with The Brethren Publishing Company as soon as that board, by methods unjust, illegal and unChristian, ignoring the rules of the National Conference, should gain control of said conference, and then, contrary to the Scriptures that are our "rule of faith and practice," drag brethren into court in order to wreck its vengeance and oust from their positions two men, as eminently fitted and as successful as ever held the positions of editor and business manager. There were no other reasons for their dismissal than their refusal to bow the knee to the college that was out to control the Brethren Church in its own interests, even to the risk of destroying the church itself.

The plans of the college and of the National Home Mission Board worked, it being all to their advantage that brethren, opposed to its methods, themselves refused to appeal to the courts. Mayes and Beal were put out by process of injunction.

However, the committee, having authority to act for the Foreign Board in the matter of the merger, was loath to leave the merger, fearing that its action might seem vindictive. Therefore, we decided to continue with the now illegally organized Brethren Publishing Company, temporarily at least, and see what the immediate future might hold in store. We soon found out!

Stopping at the office of the Publishing Company en route from Pittsburgh back to California, we left our copy for the November issue, which would have gone into the mails the first week of that month.

Then, upon passing through Winona Lake, and later in Waterloo (Iowa), we learned that the name of "The Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church," as well as our own name as the editor of the Foreign Missionary number of The Brethren Evangelist, had been taken entirely out of the magazine. The last Brethren Evangelist containing either name was that of October 14th, 1939. We then realized that Mayes and Beal were not the only ones who were "out". Henceforth, some one else proposed to be the editor of the Foreign Missionary Number of The Brethren Evangelist.

From Waterloo, we wired our protest to Willis E. Ronk, "President" of the illegal set-up of the Publishing Company, and requested him to return our copy. It was returned, and in a wire from him, he said:

"Your name omitted as editor one copy without my knowledge or consent. I offer apologies."

Apparently, some one in the office had assumed considerable authority. We noted that we had been omitted from "one copy." Therefore, we took it that the name would be immediately restored. We waited—in vain! Meantime, we held our copy. Members of The Foreign Missionary Society were calling for the missionary magazine. Finally, when December came, the names still omitted, and now most surely with "knowledge" and "consent," we decided that again, not being subservient to the powers on College Hill we are not wanted. Therefore, we arranged for The Brethren Herald to publish in its pages a special issue, together with a complete statement of the whole existing situation. The facts have been told over and over. But we felt that because of this break, a statement once more should be made. As often as truth is denied, truth must be affirmed.

But—what next? The largest and most forward-moving churches of the brotherhood, engaged in a common cause, must have a voice—a contact. Their work in common must be known. The Brethren Home Missions Council, The Women's Missionary Council, Grace Theological Seminary—these are going concerns. Then, there must be church news told, and Christian Endeavor and Sunday School plans carried forward. These interests, with the churches back of them, were tagged "disloyal", and refused any recognition in the new Ashland College set-ups, its "National Conference", the district conferences it controls, and the boards it controls. Of course, The Brethren Evangelist, now a college organ, was closed to all who were disloyal to the oligarchy on College Hill.

There was only one thing to do—create an organ to become again the voice of all churches and church organizations that still believe in congregational government, and are free of all other control. All such churches and organizations are welcome to its pages, we are sure. To this end, The Brethren Missionary Herald is born.

It was evident that The Foreign Missionary Society was no longer a part of The Brethren Evangelist merger. Only the name of The National Home Mission Board and its editor, Claud Studebaker, appeared in the official roster. The columns of The Brethren Evangelist would probably open to The Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church under the censorship of Ashland College authorities. The Foreign Missionary Society, however, refuses censorship from that source. The Society pays for its magazine, and therefore has some inalienable rights. The editor of its magazine, under God, is subject only to the Board of Trustees of The Foreign Missionary Society, or to the members of the Society, who are the final word.

What were we to do? The resolution of the Board of Trustees authorized us to publish "once again our former magazine, namely, 'The Brethren Missionary', or for a merger with some other magazine as said officers shall deem best, until such time as at the regular annual meeting of the board other arrangements may be effected."

The group of churches that will be friendly to The Brethren Missionary Herald, most certainly include at least 75% (and probably more nearly 85%) of the members of The Foreign Missionary Society. Therefore, why should we not form a temporary arrangement with the new magazine, taking the first issue each month as our own? For, according to the resolution of the board, any arrangement we may make is to be only "until such time as at the regular annual meeting of the board, other arrangements may be effected."

Therefore, the first issue each month of The Brethren Missionary Herald will be the voice of The Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church until the next annual meeting of the board, at which time the board in council together must decide whether or not such an arrangement may be made permanent, and if not order the matter according to its own best judgment.

In the meantime, The Foreign Missionary Society will faithfully keep all the pledges we have made in the past. The life members of The Foreign Missionary Society will receive the foreign missionary issue of the magazine without cost. The rest of the members will receive their magazines free at least until their present memberships expire. In the meantime, we believe that we shall continue to have the loyal support of all those who are truly interested in giving God's great offer of salvation to all who believe. Pray that the Holy Spirit may guide us all, and give wisdom.

That "Brief Statement of Facts"

As a sample of what we would have to endure and support, were we to remain in a merger with the so-called "Emergency Set-Up" of The Brethren Evangelist, we refer our readers to the black-faced editorial in The Brethren Evangelist dated December 2d, 1939. This statement appeared under the caption: "A Brief Statement of Facts."

It is to be regretted that the "Statement" is so "brief" that not one iota of proof is given to show that the "facts" are facts.

In the first place, we would like to have it shown that any "emergency" existed for an "emergency set-up" in The Brethren Publishing Company, unless it was an emergency in the battle Ashland College is making to assume full control of The Brethren Church, and silence every voice that may not praise its lordship, no matter what it does. The Brethren Evangelist was a voice. The silencing of that voice, except when it shall speak to serve the purpose of Ashland College, gave birth to The Brethren Missionary Herald. Thank God, freemen still can speak!

The editorial states that "The former Editor and Secretary of Publications refused to recognize the place or authority of The Brethren Publication Board as now constituted by National Conference, which refusal compelled the board to dismiss said employees."

The fact in the matter is that "said employees" never refused to recognize the "Brethren Publication Board as constituted by National Conference." If "The Brethren Publication Board as constituted by National Conference" had met, Mayes and Beal would have instantly recognized said board. On that board would have sat Russell Barnard, Foye Miller and R. Paul Miller, instead of J. G. Dodds, F. C. Vanator, W. E. Ronk and A. L. DeLozier.

A "National Conference of The Brethren Church" is not a National Conference of the Brethren Church unless ALL regularly organized and recognized Brethren Churches are permitted to CONFER. When three men on a credential committee sit at the door of a supposed "conference," and with extreme bias, select the list of Brethren churches that they desire to confer and organize the "National Conference," arbitrarily throwing out the credentials of any delegates from supposedly sovereign Brethren churches as they may will to do, such a "National Conference" ceases to be a national conference in any sense of the word. To this, all just men must certainly agree.

Another one of the "facts" of "President" Ronk is that the "control of the assets and properties of the company . . . was granted and has since been made permanent and perpetual." Now, if the foreign missionary editor has not been misinformed, the real fact is that the injunction against Mayes and Beal personally has been made "permanent and perpetual." The matter as to who constitutes the legal Brethren Publication Board, with the absolute right to "control the assets and properties of the company," was not the issue at all. The injunction was against two men—Mayes and Beal—who, receiving all they desired, were willing, as far as they were personally concerned, to have the injunction "made permanent and perpetual." The case was settled "out of court." It was never tried on its merits. We could wish that it had been. It might have settled the really legal status of things.

The editorial further states that "the kindly Christian counsel of the court, and Christian forbearance on our part, led us to effect a settlement" out of court. "Kindly Christian counsel of the court" may be a statement true to fact. But when it comes to "Christian forbearance on our part"—well, we certainly are kind in letting that "fact" be answered with a broad smile! We saw that "Christian forbearance" in action at the last regular National Conference of Brethren Churches held in 1938, and again at "The National Conference of Brethren Churches" that was not "The National Conference of The Brethren Church," but only a "National Conference of Some Brethren Churches," in 1939—"Christian forbearance" that would not "forbear" the giving of any representation on any committee or elsewhere of a single delegate who refused to be a mere puppet! We can only wonder whether it was "Christian forbearance," or whether it was a fear that a judge, even in Ashland, would be just enough to settle the case "on its merits," that caused a hasty settlement "out of court."

Again, the "Statement" of "President" Ronk says: "If this is, as has been claimed, 'a great victory' for the opposition, be assured, it was at a price some of us would not care to pay for victory. We shall not do wrong that good may come."

We know the broad grins—we shall not say "looks of disgust"—that must have crept over the visages of even "President" Ronk's friends when they read that! Since when has "President" Ronk become so careful as to the price he has had to pay "for victory"? Before God, and with all solemnity, the writer is ready to say that he would rather go to his grave than to pay "the price" "President" Ronk and his associates have had to pay, are paying, and will pay in the future for their "victories" at the recent so-called "National Conference of The Brethren Church."

"President" Ronk continues: "We shall do no wrong that good may come." And that is another one of his "facts." Let others pass judgement, as we know many thousands did as they read that "fact." One of the closest and most influential associates of "President" Ronk in his brotherly (?) and "Christian" acts of kindness and "forbearance," was asked this question by a certain very intelligent and cultured school teacher at the last so-called "National Conference":

"Honestly, do you think that you men are doing right?"

This outstanding leader of the college forces hesitated for a moment, and then replied slowly, as if in a bit of doubt:

"Under the circumstances—YES!"

Just what are "the circumstances" that justify men in using the methods that the Ashland College forces at Winona Lake, August 28 to September 3d, 1939, used to make The Brethren Church utterly subservient to it?

And just how will "President" Ronk harmonize his "fact" that "We shall not do wrong that good may come" with the well-known facts, as to the deeds of himself and his associates at the memorable so-called "National Conference of The Brethren Church" that "assembled" at Winona Lake, Indiana, on the morning of August 29th, 1939? Has he come to the place where he calls black white?

"A Real Speaker"

We have just read a letter written by Eld. R. D. Barnard, the up-and-going pastor of our great church in Dayton, in which he says that our Superintendent of our work in Argentina, spent a Sunday with them in that church. This is his comment: "Say, Brother Sichel is a real speaker! Our people fell in love with him. He is leaving tomorrow for the west."

Well, we have always known that Sichel was "a real speaker." That report has come to us through the years of his splendid service in the Argentine. They say that he excels when speaking in the Spanish. He is without the foreign brogue. But, even better than being a "real speaker," Brother Sichel is every inch a man—a Christian gentleman—an honor to our cause in the far-away southland. Every church should hear him at least once before he returns to his post. If you want to make sure of doing this, contact the Deputation Director, Eld. A. V. Kimmell, 2259 N. Tenth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

"The Prince of Peace Movement"

We have just learned of "The Prince of Peace Movement", with its headquarters in Los Angeles. "Movements", "movements", "movements" galore! But what do they move? A circular sent out by "The Prince of Peace Movement" says: "The more powerful the peace movement becomes, the sooner peace will be positively established in the Holy Land and all over the world." Well, peace isn't coming through any so-called "Prince of Peace Movement". There is just one "Prince of Peace Movement" that will bring peace to this poor distracted world of ours. We are looking for that movement. It will be the movement of the Prince of Peace upon His great white charger, riding out of the heavens to the battlefield of Armageddon. And when the smoke of that battlefield rolls away, then "the Son of Righteousness shall rise over the world with healing in His wings" (Mal. 2:4), and peace shall come at last.

A Roman Catholic Is Right in This Case

On matters theological the Secretary-Treasurer is as far away from the theology of a Roman Catholic cardinal as the north pole is from the south pole. However, sometimes these cardinals say things, and we agree with them 100%.

The Roman Catholic Church today is putting up a battle against the brazen wantonness of women who walk our streets today clothed only with the garments that thirty years ago would have made a harlot blush for shame. Cardinal O'Connell of Boston said a few days ago that: Fashion always has been a silly and senseless dame, and she seems to be growing more silly and senseless than ever. A clever psychologist of the day has said that you can tell the quality of a woman's brain by the kind of a hat that covers it . . . One asks in constant wonder how it is that they (women) venture to enter even the portals of the temple of God clothed in the silliest raiment of those who are dedicated to the temple of shame." And then, as he stood before an audience of more than 1000 Catholic women at the Third Diocesan Congress recently, he further stated: "All the modern pagan influences which are attacking the sanctity of the family and the home—divorce, vicious propaganda, immodest actions, the theatre, immoral dancing, and every form of degrading recreation—should be resisted by all God-fearing men and women." To every word of this we say, "Amen!"

The W. C. T. U. Appeals to Foreign Mission Boards

Mrs. Ada Reed Ferguson, who is the Director of the Department of Temperance and Missions in the "World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union", from her headquarters at Bishopville, Vepery, Madras, India, has sent out an appeal to the mission boards of the world which every mission board ought to heed.

After an absence of 12 years from India, she returned "delighted to find that the cause of prohibition is growing in many parts of India." However, she is most distressed because of "the increase of drinking among the educated people of higher classes of Indians." She explains that "many educated abroad have learned to drink, and returning to India keep up the habit, men and women. But the thing which causes most distress is the habit of smoking among both men and women, which is becoming more common among the younger missionary group, and the occasional cocktail which is partaken of, and seemingly without any thought."

"Surely Christians", she says, "at such a time as this, cannot afford to do anything to lower the prestige of their religion and the work of the Master, but these habits are doing just that.

"When Hindus and Moslems are urging the abolition of this traffic, and are willing to pay for the abolition, we as Christians cannot afford to do any less than to throw our influence into the same channels as theirs."

She closes her communication with the appeal: "Will it not be possible for all foreign mission boards to see that those they send out as teachers or regular evangelistic workers in any capacity whatsoever, shall be those who do not use either liquor or tobacco in any form? Is it asking too much?"

Mrs. Ferguson desires a definite reaction from the various foreign mission boards to her appeal. We are happy to say that no missionary supported by The Brethren Church uses either liquor or tobacco in any form. We believe our board would instantly recall any missionary who would set a very bad example for the heathen by such indulgence. We believe that this is a matter for a positive resolution to be endorsed by our Foreign Missionary Society and forwarded to Mrs. Ferguson.

The World's Greatest Book

The dear old Book, the Bible, in spite of the sneer of the atheist and the scoffing of our modern intelligentsia, is still the most popular book in the world. In its sales and in the actual reading of it, it is so far in advance of all other books that there is utterly no comparison. Rev. Wilbur M. Smith, D.D., of Chicago, Illinois, in an address at the Founder's Week Conference at Moody Bible Institute, is the authority for some very interesting figures. He declares that the best selling books published in the English language during the last 60 years are as follows: First, "Tom Sawyer", appearing in 1875. It had the remarkable sale of 1,500,000 copies. Then came "Black Beauty", published 2 years later, with a sale of 1,000,000 copies. Following that came Dr. Sheldon's famous book, "In His Steps", with a sale of 8,000,000 copies. And it is to be noted that this particular book, with its remarkable sale, had to do with the Lord Jesus Christ. Gene Stratton Porter's beautiful story on "Freckles", which appeared in 1904, had a sale of 2,000,000 copies. Harold Bell Wright's, "The Winning of Barbara Worth", reached a total sale of 1,500,000 copies. H. G. Wells' inaccurate "Outline of History", which first appeared in 1926, had a circulation of 1,200,000 copies. "Gone With the Wind", published in 1936, has thus far had a sale of 1,800,000 copies.

Now let us turn our attention for a moment to the old Bible. The British and Foreign Bible Society, from 1800 to 1936, circulated 79,306,000 copies of the complete Bible, and reported September 18th, 1938, that in the previous year alone they had circulated 1,151,000 copies of the complete Bible. Likewise, this same Society, during the first century-and-a-quarter, circulated more than 476,000,000 copies of the New Testament or portions of the Word of God.

Then again, the American Bible Society from 1816 to 1936 circulated approximately 31,000,000 copies of the complete Bible, and 276,000,000 copies of the New Testament and portions of the Word of God. Two Bible Societies alone have circulated, since the beginning of the 19th century, more than 110,000,000 copies of the complete Bible, to say nothing of New Testaments and smaller portions of the Word of God. Now mark you, that is the report for just two Bible Societies. The figures of such organizations as the Oxford and Cambridge Press, and the publishers of the Revised Version, and other societies that have published the Bible, are not included in this report.

More than that, the Bible continued to be read over and over and over again by millions who have it in their homes. And the other books, once read, usually go on the shelves and are practically forgotten.

Shakespeare has been translated complete into 12 languages, and in part into 23 languages. The Word of God has been translated complete, from Genesis to Revelation, into 73 different languages; and, either the complete New Testament or portions of it down to 1938, have been translated into 1,008 different languages.

The story is told of a man who once went into one of the great art galleries of Europe. He surveyed the paintings upon the wall, and then he turned and said to the keeper of the gallery, "Are these pictures here on trial?" The keeper replied, "No sir, the visitors here are on trial."

Aftir these centuries and centuries in which the old Book has been preeminent above all other books, and has engaged the attention of all the cultured peoples of the earth, we have only to say that the skeptic and the scoffer, and the critics are on trial. The old Bible is not on trial. It is the Word of God, and shall endure forever.

Mothering in Heaven

The editor has just received a letter from Mrs. Martha S. Nicholson of Wilmington, Calif. Mrs. Nicholson is known all over the world as one of the sweetest of our living poets. She is constantly expressing in a lovely way the loveliness of the One altogether lovely. As many know, Mrs. Nicholson is a shut-in. She spends much of her time in a wheel chair. She is constantly hovering near the gates of glory. No wonder she sings so sweetly. It is the flower that is crushed and bruised that pours out the sweetest and strongest perfumes. Perhaps that is the reason the Lord lets some of us be crushed.

We have written to Mrs. Nicholson some time ago that we believe the works that we love to do on earth may be brought to perfection and full fruition in glory. We told her then that her poems would be marvelous. If they are marvelous on earth how much more so when she gets to glory and there sings His praise Whom, having not seen, she loves so dearly.

Well now in reply to all that, Mrs. Nicholson wrote as follows:

"I was interested to learn that you think that I may be allowed to write real poetry in heaven. How marvelous it would be to be really able to really get into words the things that are bursting our hearts, and yet we are inadequate to express them. Just the same if I can write up there it will be only a part time job because I tell you I am going to take care of babies part of the time! There are many there that will be motherless, and we know that they will not be grown up at the time of the resurrection of the body, for how could they be growing up when they have not yet received their bodies? That has always been a comforting thought to me about our loved ones who have gone on before, they will not be a bit older when we see them again. The only change will be the glorified body, and we will have our own by that time too—that is, if we wait for the rapture before we go."

There are a lot of great motherly hearts beating in the bosom of childless women to-day. Mrs. Nicholson is one of these. There is just one thing that she would like better than writing poetry and it is the greater thing—bringing into this world a little temple, fashioned in the image of God and filled with one who is controlled by the Spirit of God. To rear a little babe up into the stature and likeness of our Lord Jesus Christ—that she rightly considers the greatest thing on this earth that any woman can do. The reigning of a queen is small business beside fashioning a king for the eternal reign of Christ.

But Mrs. Nicholson's thought is new to us. As a great unselfish spirit, she is thinking of the tragic fact that there are going to be many little children in heaven who will arrive there motherless and fatherless so far as any earthly mother or father is concerned. She is probably right that these little ones will grow up in heaven, and she wants to be the mother of one of them.

However, we were bold enough to write to Mrs. Nicholson and suggest that possibly in heaven God might allow her to mother on her bosom one of her very, very own. Now we know that sounds fantastic to a great many people. There are some that would even accuse us of being unorthodox. However, let this be remembered: When God created man in the Garden of Eden, he created man, male and female, and in His design they were intended so to live throughout the eternal years. Had they not fallen, would they have not remained male and female? If they had eaten of the tree of eternal life they would never have sinned and never have died. What could have been the thought in the mind of God when He created these unfallen spirits for eternity, male and female, unless they were to function as male and female, and bring into existence an unfallen race, happy, beautiful, glorious beings that would be like Him, and be a praise within His glory throughout the endless ages to come? Who shall say that God's creative work—the work of bringing happy spirits into existence to glorify Him—shall not be a work that shall go on through the ceaseless ages. Why not? Let those that believe that space has its limits and that this universe would be in danger of being over-populated—let them object to our suggestion. In the meantime we dare to be a bit unorthodox, if unorthodox it is, to refuse to believe that God has finished His work of creating glory, and has sat down together with all His redeemed children to do nothing—nothing—nothing throughout the endless years that shall roll in and in and in eternally.

Now, then, we presume that some of our readers will accuse the editor of speculating with regard to things spiritual. Well, in the absence of positive revealed statement, we can be excused for speculating a bit, when the speculation is both sweet and reasonable!

Face to Face with Grave Danger

Under the caption, "In Defense of the French Colonial Empire," the World Dominion Bulletin gives us the following bit of information that cannot but cause some misgivings. We quote:

"The projected increase in the French native forces in Africa will be furthered by the offer of a new civil and economic status to natives serving in the French army. During military service and for a year afterwards they and their families will be free of head tax and taxes in kind. At the end of their military service they will be granted free land, inalienable for a period of thirty years. A decree embodying these advantages has been promulgated in French West Africa, Equatorial Africa, Somaliland and Madagascar."

Our Society, in common with all other church societies who are working to advance the cause of Christ in the heart of Africa, is doing its best to educate in our Mission schools young men who shall be used in carrying the gospel on ahead to other unregenerated tribes and districts.

Now comes the state, and naturally they want the brightest young Africans that they can secure for the army. Especially do they want those who have learned to read and have been given a bit of extra training. Naturally, the best they could possibly get are the products of our mission schools. Will they take these boys and force them into military service, instead of permitting them to go on as ambassadors for Christ, giving the Word of eternal life to the perishing multitudes? Even if the government should not draft them, we wonder if the boys themselves will be able to stand the temptation that the government offers in the way of freedom from taxation, free land, etc. The only thing we can do is to go ahead and give them the gospel and trust that the Spirit of God within them shall be more potent than Caesar.

TOPIC FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

Topic for January 21, 1940

PRAYER MEETINGS (Luke 11:1-13)

Suggestions for the Leader

Today is the day for us to insist constantly upon the importance and value of prayer. Years ago the church made much out of prayer. The prayer meeting was the power house for all activity within the organizations within the church. Groups of people met in homes or in the church for the express purpose of prayer. Even our Christian Endeavor started by having prayer meetings and the discussion of Biblical subjects. There is nothing that can ever take the place of prayer. Some may suggest other things but the loss of prayer means the loss of spiritual power. Therefore it is entirely fitting that we should be using this topic tonight. Young people need to be helped in respect to their part in a prayer meeting. At least all of us ought to see the thing that we need to do to make us leaders and contributors to the prayer meeting.

Nearly every church has a mid-week prayer meeting. How many young people here see that it is meant for them as well as the older people? In fact, those who love the Lord and believe in prayer will come to the house of God at the time announced for prayer. It is almost unthinkable that any young person would stay away from the service having already pledged to be true to God. The Lord has added things in mind for those who prove their faithfulness in prayer. Let it be the object of this society to urge every member to attend the prayer service every week.

Prayer is a blessing that few Christians realize. Even those who believe that it is real and works, still fail to ask great things of the Lord. The Bible says that we ought to ask and it will be given to us. Do not let days pass without asking with thanksgiving for the things God wants to do for us.

We call every C. E. meeting a prayer meeting. Have we made it such? This means that we encourage prayer in the meeting. Get many to pray and it will work wonders for the life of the society.

1. The church was born in prayer. Acts 1:14, 24; 2:1, 2.

It was not hard to convince the disciples and leaders of the early church that prayer was a wonderful thing. While Jesus was here they talked with Him and related their problems to Him. They knew something about having One Who could help in the time of need. Of course Jesus taught them of the doctrine of prayer. They were instructed how to pray and urged to prevail in prayer.

Jesus did not stay with them always. When the time came for the Shepherd to be smitten, the sheep were scattered. Then they realized that they could not get along without prayer. Sometimes groups would get together to pray. While waiting to see something happen, the Spirit came upon them and they began to work with power.

The writer of Acts says that prayer was one of the things the early Christians did constantly. Really, they met every day, and with other things turned to God through prayer. While reaching up for God in this manner, God reached down to place them on lofty heights for Himself.

2. Definite prayer for special need. Acts 4:23-31; 12:5-12.

There may be some justification in praying all around the world and mentioning features that are as great as the universe. Nevertheless, there must come a time when we settle down to some specific needs and make definite prayer for them. This does not mean that we should not pray for the nations or our missionaries or the people in war torn countries. It does mean that we ought to use words and terms that can be understood as definite. Never let prayer be aimless or vague.

It is not the long beautiful and flowery prayer that has the assurance of a better reception in heaven. In fact, God wants us to speak in a way that would indicate that we do have the faith of a child or simple faith.

It is a good thing to mention subjects for prayer. Young people ought to be reminded of the things that need special prayer. This does not limit the Holy Spirit in His work because other things can be used likewise.

Remember that you have a right to expect great things of God. If you ask for great things believe that they will be given.

3. Informality of the prayer meeting. Acts 16:13, 25; 21:5.

Informality in prayer means to be free. There are some meetings in the church that follow a special form or order. In such meetings there is a danger of losing the life of the meeting. Informal prayer meetings lend themselves to the work of the Holy Spirit more readily. It does not mean that a meeting would be conducted loosely and in a haphazard fashion; but it does mean that the leader can call for testimonies when he pleases. Prayer can be made at any time, and even several times during the hour.

Such a meeting would be easily conducted. Young people ought to start in definite Christian work by having the mid-week hour. Of course the first will be participation in the C. E. meetings, but from there activity should spread to the prayer meeting.

Another thing about prayer is that it can be made at any time or place. In the Bible days there were people who gathered at a known place during the day and prayed.

In respect to time or length of prayers, the writer remembers one great doctor and preacher who said that we should be brief in public praying but take as long a time as we desire with our individual prayers in the home.

Proverbs 28:9 Mk. 12:40.

4. Prayer difficulties. Matt. 6:5, 7; Luke 18:11, 12;

Experience will help more than we can tell. One thing sure is that the more we pray and are in prayer meetings, the better we are going to be. Each leader will find things that could be improved. There will be some who will insist upon long prayers that nearly become wearisome. Suggest for them at the start that each should be brief and to the point to be fair to all others. You simply must admonish the people to speak distinctly so the others can hear what is said and when the person starts and stops.

If praying seems to be exalting self and condemning others, one must be quick to inform everyone that our position is one of humility. Really we are sinners and undeserving of the things that the Lord does for us.

There is no excuse for irreverence during prayer. Still some insist upon making unnecessary noise. This can be overcome through careful teaching.

5. Hints on taking part in prayer meetings.

Do you find it hard to take part in the prayer meeting? Almost everyone has had the same experience. Will you profit by a few hints, so that you may take part profitably? Do you think you ought to take part? Well, if it is your Christian duty, then your allegiance to your Lord demands that you do your duty or else "die trying to do it." Some little things that are not little.

1. Sit in the front.
2. Take part at the very first opportunity.
3. Sit with those who do take part.
4. Ask them to encourage you to take part.
5. Remember to make taking part a matter of earnest prayer.
6. Determine that you will take part.

Sometimes the very best thing you can do to help a meeting is to fail while trying to take part. Will you ask God for grace to fail for Him, if that is best?

What can I do?

Sometimes people ask this question. Here are five things that you can do. Is the last too hard? Then try the easiest first. Do not stay in the "verse-reading class" long. Remember to be "always abounding in the work of the Lord."

1. You can read a verse of Scripture. But be sure it is on the topic.
2. You can read an appropriate selection or verse of a hymn. Be sure you can read it intelligently.
3. You can preface or follow the reading of a verse by some brief remark; as "I have found this verse helpful."
4. You can illustrate the meaning of a verse or the topic—(a) by some Bible incident that you can read or better, tell; (b) by some story from history or one that you have read in a book or paper; (c) by some incident that has come under your personal experience; (d) Best of all, by some personal experience.
5. You can pray. There is nothing that helps a meeting more than prayer. We have few prayers in our meetings. It is hard to pray. Will you pray? Be sure to prepare your prayer by: praying, thinking and writing.

Questions to be Answered

1. What place does confession have in our prayers?
2. Is the lack of love for prayer a sign of a lapse in the spiritual life?
3. Do you think that we ought to have distinct object for which to pray?
4. What can we do to encourage more young people to take part in prayer?

Additional Scripture

Mark 1:35; Luke 6:12; John 17; for secret prayers. Matt 11:25,26; John 11:41-42; 12:27,28.

Examples of prayer: 2 Sam. 7:18-29; 1 Kings 3:6-9, 8:22-53; 2 Kings 19:14-19; Ezra 9:5-15; Dan 9:3-19; Eph. 1:15-28.

HOW TO CONDUCT A YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY MEETING.

PIGS AND GOATS—AND TABER!

NOTE.—The following letter from Floyd W. Taber, M.D., one of our African missionaries, while written to all the "home folks," a carbon copy of which the editor received, and was not intended for publication, is just so rich, so unique, so like the Taber that grew up from boyhood in our Long Beach Church, that we just cannot refrain from letting all our readers enjoy it. A fine sense of humor is a tremendous asset to any missionary at work in the darkness and amidst the discouragements of the sorrows of heathenism.—L. S. B.

Yaloke, Oubangui-Chari

October 13 (Friday), 1939.

Dear Home Folks:

Pigs! Pigs and goats! Goats and pigs and gardens!

Such are the principal preoccupations of the inhabitants of Yaloke station!

Pigs! Their history forms an epic! Like all characters of mythology, their origin is surrounded with a fog of contradictory legends. But I will relate to you what seems to be the most plausible and best authenticated of extant stories.

Once there was a pig. No, there must have been a pair of pigs! They belonged to a venerable chief at Bozoum named Nakaouine. According to one ancient document, they were given to him by an administrator. But this is evidently a fabrication, because the document does not even give the name of the administrator, much less tell where he might have procured the pigs. Another document (not so ancient, it is true, but much more interesting from our standpoint, and consequently much more trustworthy) affirms that the honorable Chief Nakaouine received these pigs as a present from a party of missionaries who lived, or who later located, at Bassai. Now this is obviously the true record, because it is known from other sources that one member of this missionary party came from Iowa.

But, however these patriarchial pigs came into Nakaouine's possession, the rest of the story may be fairly well established. It tells how the two pigs soon became five pigs, the five pigs twelve pigs, the twelve pigs thirty pigs, the thirty pigs—but I do not want to tax your credulity too much, even though the truth of the story is affirmed by unimpeachable witnesses.

And it is unnecessary to my purpose, for the part of the story that really interests me concerns four of the great-grandchildren of the original pair who, overcome by the wanderlust that had caused their forebears to travel so widely, undertook the long journey to Yaloke—two of them in the possession of missionaries, and the other two in possession of an evangelist who happened to be the son of one of Nakaouine's many wives.

Now, in spite of the care lavished upon them (or perhaps because of the unaccustomed luxury) the pair belonging to the missionaries resolutely remained only two, no more. So finally, in desperation, the missionaries sacrificed first one, then the other, to appease the god of hunger.

Now, the second pair, belonging to the evangelist, were equally obstinate in their refusal to increase their numbers. So, discouraged, he tried to persuade the missionaries to buy them and vow them to the same fate as their cousins. But the missionaries, feeling the god was more than sufficiently appeased by the previous sacrifices, refused. So the evangelist, unwilling longer to be burdened by caring for them to no purpose, sold them to the missionaries unconditionally.

The outcome proved that the missionaries were right; the god was fully appeased; so completely that soon afterwards this pair of pigs had surpassed all the records of their ancestors, and the Yaloke branch of the family was even more numerous than the original Bozoum clan.

The pigs have gone wild. They overrun the whole countryside. They are no respecter of persons, ravaging gardens of the natives and missionaries with equal zeal. Kolowan (successor to old Chief Yaloke) no longer has the slightest idea how many pigs he owns. But nevertheless, they are all his. They are born in a bed of mud constituted by bricks newly made by mission workmen; they grow big and fat by eating manioc and vegetables intended for our workmen, our evangelists, and ourselves; they are carried away in a truck, and Kolowan never sees them. Nevertheless, they are all his; all they eat is his; the whole country is his.

Any red-blooded American would step right in and do something about it. Yes, and he would perhaps undo a good part of the work done by missionaries in the past fifteen years. So we walk softly, softly! In time, with patience, the problem will probably be worked out.

In the meantime, pigs are one of our principal preoccupations. Pigs, and gardens—and goats!

The goats are ever with us. They are less destructive at any one time than the pigs, but they keep on keeping on.

The goats are all around us. They eat our young orchard trees. They come right up on the veranda and disturb us while we are trying to take siesta. And we want goats the worst way, and can't get them for love nor money! Since it is impossible to keep cows, we want to keep goats for milk. So we try to buy them.

But that should be easy. Just capture a few of the goats that came to the mission, and give the owners their value in money in place of them. Why not? First let us find out why the owner does not want to sell them. The natives are certainly not lacking in love for money. Why don't they want money in place of their goats? Because the goats are of greater value to them than the price we offer? But what value do they get out of them? Milk? They never milk them. Meat? They practically never kill them to eat—never except for a wedding feast. To raise kids to sell? But they do not sell them. Then why are they so dumb as not to want to sell them for perfectly good money? What pay do they get for the work of keeping them? Not the slightest—except for one purpose—to "buy a wife." And I put that expression in quotation marks because it is a white man's expression. It is not native.

In the minds and practice of the natives, before the white man came, goats and wives did not represent a commercial value. Goats were exchanged for wives, and wives for goats, but no native would ever have thought of exchanging a wife or a goat for anything of money value.

But why did they want to "buy" their wives, even with goats? They didn't; they exchanged goats and wives, which is quite different. But why did they exchange?

At one time they were divided into clans. A man of one clan had to take a wife from another clan. How would he get his wife from the other clan? They would give her to him. But just suppose one clan was always on the giving end, and had trouble in getting wives for their young men—as would constantly happen if nothing were done to check it, in a country where polygamy was practiced. The clan that received no wives would die out. So, to assure the future life of each clan, they had to assure an equilibrium in the exchange of wives. They had no public records where they could look up and learn that one clan had given so many more wives than it had received, so they had a right to demand that many. But, in the place of the public records they had the goats. The goats were a pledge, a promissory note, that later the clan would give a wife in exchange for the one it had received. Of course these exchanges were not simply between two clans, but circulated among a number. But, no matter how complicated it became, the goats would fulfill their function of assuring that each particular clan would be able to get a number of wives equal to the number it gave.

And so, when you try to put money value on a goat and want to buy it, you are really putting a money value on wives. You are then the one who institutes the custom of "selling" wives, an idea that would never have occurred to a native.

Of course goats are not in all regions the medium of exchange. Among the Karre (around Bassai) a peculiar kind of iron "money" was in use. But "money" was a name given by white men; in the minds of the natives it was simply a pledge to assure reciprocal exchanges, like the goats in our section.

(Note: I am sending copies of this letter to missionaries on the other stations so they can have a good laugh about how well I understand the marriage customs of the natives. You in the homeland will remember that a first term missionary knows more about native mentality than he will after fifteen or twenty years on the field.)

Since we can't buy goats, we have decided we don't want to! We rent them instead. We pay so much a month for milk goats, and then when they are needed to exchange for a wife, we try to get others. The plan is not a whale of a success yet, but it takes time and patience to do anything in Africa.

A week ago Thursday, Volngou left on a three week trip to preach in the villages on the road to Boda, and to hold baptism and communion there. So we have had to divide his work among those remaining on the station. Mary Emmert (with the help of natives) takes charge of the class for Sunday School teachers (every day at 1:30), of teaching the Sango class to write, and of the Tuesday morning chapel service. Doa (captain of our gang of workmen) takes charge of the Fishermen's Club and the Converts' Class on Sundays, then of the prayer meeting on Wednesday evening. Jean Mbo, head school assistant, acts as Sunday School Superintendent. Native evangelists in school, learning to read, take the converts' classes during the week. I have the class in Sango New Testament every day from 2:30 to 4, and bring the messages on Sunday morning and Wednesday evening. So you see, it really is something to take the place of a man like Volongou. Ada has not taken any of his work, but in addition to her own schedule she has been helping Mary with one class every day in French school and with a class to teach women to read.

Now that I have told our principal preoccupations, will refer to a few minor incidentals.

We hear there is a war in Europe. But out here—there never has been such a calm time for getting work done on the station since we came to the field.

At the first announcement of mobilization they called for the Bekoro Dodge truck and for the Bellevue Chevrolet pickup. But now all men and cars in the mission are on their stations at regular work. It is perfectly obvious there is not going to be any fighting out here. We are just cut off from the rest of the world enough to give us the chance to do what we came out here for.

"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace . . .". The Lord has remarkable ways of keeping His promises. He fulfilled this one for us by causing the radio to go on the blink.

It is supposed to be getting near the end of the rainy season now, but we have had very heavy showers every day except one for a long time.

The avocados are in bloom. I have been getting a little recreation pruning them and some of the oranges.

The new leper dispensary is nearly finished. Four out of the five cottages we planned to house hospital patients are up.

Charles and Marguerite took advantage of an invitation and of a trip of the Guineberts to Bozoum to visit Roger Jobson for a few days.

There does not seem to be anything else of interest to say. If I had not "manufactured" most of this letter, it would not have been worth writing. Perhaps it wasn't anyway, but at least you know that nothing has happened serious enough yet to knock any sense into my head.

Oceans of love,

Floyd.

NEWS Briefs From Our Workers

By ROBERT CULVER

Brethren of Flora and Cambria, Indiana closed a two weeks Bible Conference December 16. The meetings were held in the Public Library Building at Flora. Verne Stuber, Indiana pastor and student at Grace Theological Seminary, presided over the meetings of the conference. Interest in the meetings ran high throughout and attendance was very good. Speakers appearing on the program were Alva J. McClain, Herman A. Hoyt, Conard Sandy, Leo Polman, Robert Ashman, and Everett Niswonger. A gospel team from Grace Seminary had charge of one evening.

For the past several weeks John M. Aeby, Pastor of the Middlebranch, Ohio church, has been teaching a Tuesday evening Bible class in Mansfield, Ohio. A recent report reads, "Attendance so far at the South Mansfield Bible Class has increased every meeting."

A recent bulletin bears the news that Brother J. L. Gingrich has resigned as pastor of the Second Brethren Church of Long Beach. He will close his pastorate there December 31.

Rev. Fred William Walter, till recently a missionary in the employ of The Missionary Board of the Brethren Church in Kentucky, has assumed the pastorate of the church at Harrah, Washington. This church has been without a pastor since the departure of the last pastor, Robert D. Culver, in August.

Professor and Mrs. Conard Sandy and Professor Sandy's mother left Winona Lake, Ind., for a brief trip to California. Bro. Sandy will conduct meetings in the churches of Southern California during the Holidays, and will return to assume his duties in Grace Theological Seminary January 9.

In appreciation of their ten years' service, during which time a $41,000 church indebtedness has been reduced to $2,600, and 640 persons have been admitted to membership, 250 members of the First Brethren Church of Dayton recently held a reception in honor of Rev. and Mrs. R. D. Barnard. At that time they presented a console radio to the Barnards. It is reported that the fine spirit at the reception was an inspiration and encouragement, both to the pastor and his family, and to the congregation.

GLEANINGS FROM MISSIONARIES' LETTERS

The "joys" of translating the Scriptures into the native tongues of Africans who scarcely know the meaning of such words as "love", "hope", "kindness", etc., is only too well understood by our missionaries on the field. Mrs. Sheldon writes:

"Chauncey is struggling with the 23rd chapter of Acts just now, and is trying to get a word for 'hope'. Such words are hard to find, and if one must substitute something else he wants at last to get the best substitute. Just now the native helper is giving the word 'believe' for this expression. Many are the difficulties of accurately translating the Word into an unwritten language. But oh, what a blessing it is when translated! We now have Mark and John in the hands of the people and hope to finish Acts before we go home on furlough. Next Sunday our S. S. lesson is on the new birth, and what a blessing it is to have the third chapter of John to read. Yes, and it is nearly a greater blessing to have people who can read it. Our Bible reading classes have wrought wonders. We need to increase them."

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy has written a very interesting letter concerning some of her experiences with the physical troubles of her African children. If anyone thinks that our missionaries in Africa do not earn every penny of the small allowance that they are given, peruse this part of our Sister Kennedy's letter, now in our hands:

"Have had some sad cases in the medical work lately. One little baby they let fall into the fire. Its right arm was broken and actually roasted. Three days after the accident the broken piece of bone fell out; the flesh had sloughed away the second day already. The arm was burnt clear to the shoulder. The fourth day they took it home because they were afraid it was going to die, and it did.

"Another child they brought in had its lower lip and the part of the jaw eaten away by some disease. It may have been yaws or syphilis—I don't know enough about either to know when I see it. Nothing I did helped. Every day it kept eating away more and more. When we washed the mouth, a couple of teeth would fall out, and the flesh on the chin would slough off until the jaw bone was bare. Then it crept up into the eye, and finally they didn't bring it back. That was all in about a week's time."

An African funeral is interestingly described by Miss Crawford in a letter just received. It was written at Bassai, par Bozoum, par Bangui, French Equatorial Africa:

"On the way back from Betare Friday we passed a place where they were having a funeral celebration. When anyone dies they feast for several days, to assure the spirit a happy entrance into the other land and to do homage to the spirit so he won't come back later to punish them. Drinking and feasting seems to be the urge that motivates many of them, however.

"The affair last week had more of the aspect of a street fair than any I've ever seen before. The whole village was full of people, standing laughing and talking before almost every house. There didn't seem to be much evidence of mourning. Only a small group of wailing dancing women was grouped about the drummers who were pounding the drums as though completely demon possessed, which they probably were.

"A laughable, yet pitiful thing happened as I was passing. Suddenly a man broke loose from a crowd and ran as quickly as possible into a nearby house. That attracted my attention to him (I'd have not noticed him particularly in the midst of the group otherwise), and upon second glance I recognized him as one of our Christians who always is having a hard time trying to prove to us his deep spirituality and love for the things of the Lord. I really believe the boy loves the Lord, but material things have a big hold in his life.

"Apparently 'shame killed him' that I should see him in such company, but what hurt me was that he had more concern to keep me from finding it out than to be well pleasing to the Lord. I asked my boy if he thought God could not see him inside the house. You see, human nature is no different under black skin. . . . How many do you have in your church who want you to think they are a model of perfect behavior, while deep underneath lie many things which they like to keep hidden in a house? . . . I wonder how many of us know about . . . perhaps all of us. People at home are so inclined to think crossing the ocean makes us sinless . . . when we are as frail and sinful as any of them."

Fেকেলে may have been once but an "ignorant little bush boy" of Miss Crawford's, but we predict that, if our Lord shall tarry, he shall become a great servant for our Lord and Savior in far away Africa. Of him Miss Crawford writes:

"In my French Bible hour this afternoon with my personal boy we were studying the Lamb of God, and I introduced him for the first time to Isa. 53. How that Messianic prophecy thrilled him as I showed how it was literally fulfilled in Christ's trial and death. Fেকেলে was a member of my first class of ignorant little bush boys when I started French School at Bellevue. He soon went ahead of them and I took him on as my personal boy and taught him to type. When I came back this time he and his young bride were willing to leave their home and come over here with me. He has become my right hand almost, and I feel the Lord has given me a real ministry in the hours I spend with him on the Word. I recently gave him a cross reference Bible, and am teaching him the immeasurable wealth that it opens up to him. He enjoys tracing some New Testament fact back to its Old Testament origin. Yesterday we had the verse, 'No man hath seen God at any time', and in that connection I referred him to the time the Lord covered Moses with His hand until He passed, so that Moses might not see His face; also, the account of the glory reflected in Moses' face as he came down from the mount. Those made a great impression upon him."

Rev. H. G. C. Hallock, a missionary in Shanghai, China, in a letter to the Editor says:

"Our own Sunday Schools have been burned and we are refugees. Our church has been damaged and many useful things have been looted. It may be we were counting them precious instead of counting Him precious. Oh, friends, pray that I, my Sunday School scholars, church members and workers may draw very close to Jesus, so near that we can even take joyfully the spoiling of our goods. It is indeed heart-breaking, but thank God, we still have Jesus, heaven, and our work to do for Him.

MISS MABEL CRAWFORD

"INASMUCH"

By Dr. Florence N. Gribble, French Equatorial Africa
NOTE.—The American incidents in the story are fictitious, but the missionary incidents have all occurred in the writer's personal experience in Africa.—F. N. G.

"Liouar bene, liouar bene." (There is no path, there is no path). They were her dying words. Only a few days had the gospel been preached to her, and in those few days of intense suffering and dying agony she had not been able to grasp the truth. The fact that for her there was a path had not yet entered her darkened mind. She was one of the many who hear the Word through the medical work at the hospital, but fortunately one of the few who having there received it, go out in darkness".

Harvey Manton sat in his room in the city boarding house connected with Smith Medical College in Chicago, as he read this letter from his sister, a medical missionary in Africa. It was a letter of seeming failure. It was a letter which seemed to show that his sister's life was being wasted, but he did not receive it, so. Upon his heart there came simply a greater burden of prayer that the Word might be preached in a speedier way, in a more effective way to souls such as this one who had gone out in darkness. He fell upon his knees in prayer—prayer that he too might sometime be privileged to minister to souls in heathen lands, as his sister was privileged to do, even though like her, sometimes, he might fail to see the immediate reward of his labors.

In Harvey's class in college there were three boys who were great chums. They were always seen together on every possible occasion. They were the sons of Christian parents, and unlike the majority of the young men in that medical college, were earnest Christians seeking to consecrate their all to Him who died for them.

Harvey arose from his knees strengthened and comforted. The pathos of the little incident in his sister's letter had touched him deeply. It would not be long before John and Jack would be coming in to spend the evening with him in study. He would relate the story to them, perhaps to them it would be a blessing also. He then threw himself quickly into his study chair and took down from his shelves a huge copy of "Osler's Practice of Medicine" and was soon lost in deep study.

From this absorption he was aroused by a tap at the door which he knew to be Jack's. "Come in Jack", he called heartily. Jack came in with an open letter in his hand. He was not a hale, hearty specimen of humanity like Harvey, but a silent, very delicate boy, who seemed indeed strangely out of place in the career he had chosen unless it might be to better care for his own health. The sorrow and suffering of one's life usually deepen and intensify one's sympathies. And so it was with Jack Harmon. His face beamed with spirituality, his eyes with a deep sympathy, as he dropped into a chair that Harvey offered him, and said: "Harvey, I can hardly wait to show you this letter".

Harvey thought of his own letter and marveled at the coincidence, but said in a friendly way, "Go on, old fellow, I am ready to hear the worst". "This letter" said Jack by way of introduction, "is from my brother in India. He has just been telling me about some terrible cases that have come into his hospital there. In the first place he has told me of four women—but wait, why tell you? I will read the letter aloud:

Last night there came into my hospital here, four women in extreme suffering. In a military encampment near my compound these women had been sleeping together in one of the small huts. Strangely—I have not yet been able to ascertain how—the hut caught fire. It was not long before the roof crashed in upon the poor helpless women. Their cries of agony brought the soldiers to their relief. As soon as they were extricated, they started walking to the hospital. The military encampment is on the hill opposite that on which our mission compound is situated. Would you believe it, that one of these women dropped dead the moment she arrived at the hospital! So terrible were her wounds that the effort caused her death. Truly the people in this dark land need Christian care, they need Christian hospitals, they need the touch of Christ. I am doing my best for the three remaining women. It will require months of treatment. Pray that they may indeed find their Savior.

I forgot to tell you that the day previous to this accident had been an especially difficult one. I was extremely weary, but as the knock came at my door I heard a voice saying: 'I was sick, and ye visited me'. Could I have hesitated? Had I done so I am sure that same Voice would have spoken in reproachful accents: 'Inasmuch as ye did it not unto one of the least of these brethren, ye did it not unto Me.' "

Jack Harmon dropped the letter. For a moment he was speechless; then he said, "Harvey, you are the most fortunate fellow in the world. Were it possible for me to do so and be a Christian, I would envy you!"

Harvey considered this a somewhat radical change of subject. "Why Jack", he said, "what do you mean?"

"I mean", he said, "that you can go to some of these darkened heathen lands to relieve the suffering in the midst of conditions which we can hardly imagine, while I, alas! I can only pray!"

Jack's physical weakness was a thorn in the flesh. Gladly would he have gone to the ends of the earth for his Master. But alas, he had endured much of opposition even in taking the medical course at home, or thinking of the comparatively easy practice in a civilized land. Thinking to comfort, Harvey said: "You can do more than pray, old fellow; you can give of your means as they accumulate to carry the gospel to places where you yourself can never go".

"Give"! ejaculated Jack sadly, "Gladly would I do so, gladly will I do so, but"—he lowered his voice—"do you really think I shall make a successful physician?"

Harvey had confidence in the brilliant gifts of his young friend and gave him that encouragement which he needed at this moment of testing. "Successful"? he said. "Jack, of course you will be successful. The time has come now for us to choose our specialties. I shall choose none. For the foreign field I must study every branch of medicine. But Jack, you should choose some specialty which will not be a physical strain upon you."

"I had not thought of that", said Jack; "yet, I believe you are right. I will think and pray about it that I may be guided as the Lord would have me. By the way Harvey, before I came over this evening I had an hour with Osler. I believe I could stand for a quiz on the Practice of Medicine".

DR. FLORENCE N. GRIBBLE

"You're right, old fellow, we will quiz each other. I have not spent an hour with him, so I will quiz you first."

The two friends had finished their mutual quiz when there came another knock at the door, ringing and vibrant. Neither doubted that it was John—John, full of life, full of zeal, full also of ambition. "Just in time John," said Harvey. "We have finished our quiz." Good for you," John interrupted, "I have had two hours with Osler at home". "All right," said Harvey, "since Osler is out of the way, I will share with you and Jack a letter I have received today". And Harvey read the sad story quoted above concerning the experiences of his sister in Africa, and then they mentioned briefly the letter which had come to Jack.

"Quite a coincidence," said John, "that you two fellows should have both received letters from your missionary relatives the same evening. I have no missionary relatives".

"You know John," said Harvey, "I am going to be a missionary myself".

"And I would like to be," added Jack quickly, "I would if I could".

"I am a Christian," said John slowly, "as you know. I too want to serve the Lord with my gifts, but I had not thought of the foreign field as a place for my service. You know," he said, "You fellows will excuse me, because you have both spoken so enthusiastically about foreign work, and I have sometimes wondered if there isn't a lot of sentiment about it after all, and especially about medical work. Of course I know the Lord said, 'Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature', but I don't know about medical work and hospitals out there among those ignorant heathen. 'Civilized care for civilized lands' is my motto. They surely have their doctors; they surely have their ways of caring for the sick after all these centuries. Why waste money which might be spent in the direct preaching of the gospel in introducing foreign ways among them?"

Harvey rose quickly to his feet. "I keep all my sister's letters," he said. "Just excuse me John, the file is right back of there. Ah! Here it is, the very one I want. I cannot answer your question myself, John, about their doctors, but here is a letter my sister sent me. We are only young fellows, I know, and we must read it reverently. Doubtless my sister wouldn't have written to me along this line if it had not been my purpose to study medicine. I will read it all."

"Dear Harvey," it ran, "I must tell you about an African night. You don't know I haven't been on the field many months yet, and in central Africa one's freight is often much delayed. I was unpacking some of my special instruments—among them my obstetrical forceps—when a man knocked at the window-sill, having caught a glimpse of me in my little office. 'Can you come at once,' he said, 'and deliver my wife who is in labor?' Yes, I understood him. I understand nearly everything now, although I have difficulty in expressing all I wish to say. However, I have made it a principle not to use an interpreter. I find it makes for rapid progress in the language."

"And this," said Harvey as he interrupted the reading of the letter to make an explanation, "was shortly after my sister's arrival, when she had no hospital and no nurse and no trained medical assistants of any kind."

He then resumed the reading of the letter: "The superintendent of the mission volunteered to accompany me. We found the poor woman, who had been four days in the utmost agony, and whose life was about to be sacrificed according to their horrible custom of abandoning them to the hyenas in the bush. Just as they were about to carry her out, a boy who had been at the mission said, 'There is a doctor at the mission. She helps many people. Why don't you call her?' And so, reluctantly, the husband had come."

"Well, the gentleman who accompanied me gave the anesthetic, and in fifteen minutes (thanks, from the human side, to my forceps which had just arrived) the baby was born. There were cries of 'God! God!' all through the village, and some would have fallen down and worshipped us had we permitted it, but we took the opportunity to preach Christ unto them. I could understand Mr. Downing's wonderful message, although I could never have given it, and I do not wonder that the result was a great turning to the Lord among the villagers. The sad part of it is, that the woman had suffered so many things at the hands of these heathen doctors during those four days of agony without receiving one bit of relief."

Harvey replaced the letter as he finished. "There are multiplied instances in my sister's letters of the horrors of the witch doctor's malpractice." John was silent. Jack spoke quickly: "Again I can only say, I would go if I could."

There was silence in the little room for a moment or two—such a silence as augurs for a change of subject. Harvey as host took the burden upon himself.

"So you feel you are ready for Osler, do you John?"

"Yes, I believe so".

"Well, Jack and I are, too. Let's have a half hour together with Materia-Medica". And again the friends were soon lost in their absorbing studies.

More than a half hour elapsed before John and Jack left Harvey's comfortable room. Jack went home to pour out his heart to his heavenly Father that he might be shown some way to aid in relieving the world's suffering and in bringing Christ to the hearts of men. John went home to a troubled sleep, and as is so often the case with troubled sleepers, to dream.

He was riding in a taxi along Michigan Boulevard. Some way or other an accident occurred, and the occupants of the car were more or less seriously injured and were taken to the nearest hospital. John, however, was neglected. In his dream he lay there upon the cold pavement uncared for. Those around him, it seemed, thought him unconscious; but he could hear voices and understand them.

"After all," said one, "why waste money on him? Our business is to preach the gospel".

"He seems to be helpless, the rest have left him," said another, "Why should we care for him? How do we know that he would become a Christian were he to recover? How do we even know that he would recover? If he did not recover, or, if he recovered without being converted, our time and money would be lost."

"Yes," said the first speaker, "you are right, I repeat it, our business is to preach the gospel". And they left him, like those of old, who passed by on the other side.

In his dream John wished for some good Samaritan to come and minister unto him. He remembered many Scripture texts that had never been so vivid to him before. "What doth it profit, my brother, if a man say he hath faith and have not works? Can that faith save him? If a brother and sister be naked, and in lack of daily food, and one of you say unto them, "Go in peace, be ye warmed and filled; and yet ye give them not the things needful to the body; what doth it profit? Even so faith, if it have not works, is dead in itself."

Thoughts passed and repassed in his mind, coupled with other verses which he had learned in Sunday School as a little child. Among them: "But whosoever hath this world's good and beholdeth his brother in need, and shutteth up his compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?" "My little children let us not love in word, neither with the tongue, but in deed and in truth". To him in his troubled dream came the realization that he was not loved in deed and in truth by those whose voices he had heard. He had been refused care at home, just as others were being refused care abroad. And again he wished for some good Samaritan to come and minister unto him!

The large clock in the neighborhood struck two. He awakened. He realized that it had all been a dream, but he realized too the purpose of his dream. In a civilized land the experience which had come to his consciousness could only have come to him in a dream; and especially in the large city where he was situated it could never have been a reality. He now offered to God that humble prayer which he could not have offered a few hours previous. "Accept me Lord, for Thy service, where thou wilt".

Five years have passed. Harvey has joined his sister in Africa, and John has gone to India, where Jack would have loved to go. Jack is now one of Chicago's most successful oculists. He lives simply, and the larger portion of his earnings is devoted to the Lord's work. Many a check finds its way to Harvey in Africa or to John in India. Many a struggling nurse or medical student with an avowed intention for the foreign field receives a word of encouragement or a timely gift from the man whose success has come in answer to prayer.

In Harvey's work in Africa ten young boys are being trained to be medical assistants. Twenty young girls are being trained to be nurses. Jack has them much on his heart in prayer. For them he does what he can. The allowance of these students is very small, not more than one dollar per month for each. Many of the children in Jack's Sunday School class are interested and have volunteered to support a medical worker in training. Others among his juvenile friends are busy in the preparation of bandages and dressings for the hospitals of which Dr. Jack has told them. Little prayer circles have been formed among Jack's acquaintances where the patients in foreign hospitals are prayed for by name.

Probably the greatest joy which comes to Dr. Jack is to have some young man or young woman come to him and say: "Dr. Jack, I have decided to study for the foreign field through your influence". We cannot tell who is happiest today, Harvey in his hospital in Africa, John with Dr. Harmon in India, or Dr. Jack in Chicago—praying always, giving where he can, and going through countless proxies, which is the consequence of his having done what he could to relieve the suffering in foreign lands and to bring souls to Christ. Have we done what we can? Have you? Have I?

MRS. KENNEDY "ON DUTY"

EDITOR'S NOTE—"BOY! BOY! THOSE MISSIONARIES of ours are busier than a boy in a corn field with seventeen bumblebees up his pants legs, and a dozen more down the back of his shirt!" Yes, that's exactly what the editor said when we read a letter from Sister Kennedy of our Be-Miller Station in French Equatorial Africa. Mrs. Kennedy is our Field Treasurer in Africa. Apart from a lot of business matters, here is a quotation from a letter just received:

Have a few minutes before it is time to eat, so will get my letter started at least. I'd never make a good Christian Scientist, I get too hungry. They say it is noly a habit but I've noticed they themselves don't get rid of the habit. I knew some that actually made themselves very sick eating to much of the same thing. I can do that good myself . . .

MRS. KENNEDY

I've surely had some event-full-days since I've returned from my wonderful vacation. How is this for a full day: 1:30 A. M.—Gentle tap, tap at my front door. "What is it?" "My wife is in labor". "Is she coming to the dispensary?" "Yes." "O. K. I'll be right there." Then a hasty dressing and a still hastier search for something suitable for cord ties. Nothing, nothing available so finally cut the taps from a boudoir cap and boil them up. The next thing was to calm myself. This was the first time I'd had to do it all by myself. Then, too, one of those fierce headaches was beginning to creep up over the left side of my head. I can't tell you how wonderfully the Lord blessed. Everything just went along so smoothly. At 3:00 o'clock we had a fine baby boy.

At 4:00 o'clock back to bed until 6:00, then breakfast and off to the women's class. At 7:45 back to the dispensary again where three of us, with two native helpers, took care of 88 patients. Then back to the house to make an upside down cake. Was invited out to dinner so made the cake as a contribution. No sooner was started on the cake then one of the boys came to tell me a snake case just arrived. I let them wait until I finished my cake, left it with the boys to bake, and off to the dispensary again. Gave the injections of serum and permanganate, and back to the house again to see how the cake turned out.

It was O. K., but that headache had been getting up momentum until by this time it was raving. So we fixed up a dose of lemon and soda and ten grains of aspirin and rested for an hour. At 11:30 went to dinner, had a good dinner and by the time dinner was over the headache was just about gone, too.

Just as I got back to the house for the noon-day siesta, another tap, tap at my door. "They brought a very sick woman to the dispensary just now." So off again to the dispensary. The worst of this case is, we don't know what ails her. It seems like a case of poisoning. (They reported this morning that she is better. Praise the Lord.) Back to the house again for a little rest and up again for 3 o'clock classes with the girls. 5 o'clock, off to the village to care for three sick babies. Back home for a bite of supper, and by 7 o'clock felt fit to turn the world upside down. But I didn't do it.

Last night they called me at 12:30 A. M.—another snake case. The funny part of this case is that the man claims to have a sure cure medicine for snake bites. But when one bit him they brought him to me.

I hope you're not too awful busy but there is just one more—no, two more things—I'd like to tell you. A little fellow here, not quite three years old, asked his father how long it would be until they would be eating their peanuts. The father answered, "When another moon dies, the peanuts will be ready to eat." Then the little boys asked, "How long until the corn will be ready to eat?" The father answered again, "When this moon dies, it will be ready to eat." After a while the little fellow said, "Go and ask Mr. Kliever to take his gun out and shoot the moon so that it will die quickly. I am so hungry."

The Grace of God

Nothing is lacking for the salvation of men. God has provided all. He has not left the garment almost long enough, but needing that we should add a fringe; nor has He proved a feast almost sufficient for us if we bring at least another loaf; nor has He built a house of mercy almost completed, but leaving us to add a few more tiles to the roof. No, no. The work is finished, and from top to bottom salvation is of the Lord.—Spurgeon.

Giving!

"There is something about this thing of giving that blesses us. No man has ever impoverished himself by giving. It cannot be done. Those who give most, have most left. I believe that every one who gives a penny will get it back a hundred-fold. I believe that every one who dries a tear with his assistance, will be spared the shedding of a thousand tears. Give—and somewhere, from out of the clouds, or from the sacred depth of human hearts, a melody divine will reach your ears, and gladden all your days upon the earth."

VERY OWN Page

Hello, Boys and Girls

Of course you have heard mother and father talk much about The Brethren Missionary Herald as they have been looking forward to the arrival of the first issue. Perhaps you have wished you were older so you could better understand and appreciate all the good things its pages contain. But The Brethren Missionary Herald is not a magazine for the grown-ups only—it is for you as well. We hope you will be delighted to learn that each week there will be one page just especially for you.

Start the New Year Right

New year at the Donaldson home is a time when everyone makes new year's resolutions. You know what a resolution is, don't you? When you decide to do or not to do certain things, you are making a resolution.

This year Father Donaldson resolved to be a pal to his children. He usually has scowled when the boys have asked him to help them make their sail boats, bird houses, kites, and the other things boys enjoy making. And he seldom wanted to be bothered taking the boys with him when he went hunting and fishing.

Mother Donaldson resolved to be more patient with the family. Her anger when Father Donaldson has thrown his wraps over the back of a chair, instead of hanging them where they belong, has started many a quarrel. It seems she is always shaking one of the boys for tracking mud in the house or getting into the cookie jar. And little Mary has had many a scolding for dropping jam or gravy on the clean tablecloth.

James resolved to see how helpful he can be. He has decided to surprise father by tending to the furnace, and to run errands for mother, and to do many of the other things a boy of twelve can do around the house.

Donald resolved not to tell any more lies. It seems he can't keep out of mischief, and when he gets caught he tries to deny that he has done anything. Sometimes he has tried to lay the blame on someone else.

Little Mary resolved to be as good as good can be, not only just before Christmas, but throughout the whole long year.

Perhaps the Donaldson family will not keep their new year's resolutions long. They seldom do, for they have never tried the sure way to have a successful new year. They always start out the new year fine, but within a few weeks seem to have forgotten all about their good resolutions.

Let's not be like the Donaldsons. Let's start the new year right, and continue it right, throughout the whole year. If you want to know how to do this, turn in your Bible to the following references, and find the letters which belong in the words in the place of the X's. In each sentence it is the same letter which is missing.

If you have never done so before, you must look unto God and hX savXd (Isa. 45:22).

Then you must hXde God's Word Xn your heart so you will not sXn agaXnst Him (Ps. 119:11). Read it prayerfully every day, and learn at least one verse every week.

Then you must prXy without ceXsing (1 Thess. 5:17). Every morning you can ask God to help you to do the things that please Him. And don't forget to thank Him every night for the blessings of the day.

If you do these things, and do as God asks in this week's memory text, you can be sure of a happy, successful new year indeed.

Daily Bible Readings

This week in our daily Bible readings we will find seven things which our Lord Jesus said about Himself. Each day after you have read the passage, fill the missing words in the blanks.

Sun.—Jn. 6:32-35. "I am the ..... of....."
 Mon.—Jn. 8:12. "I am the ..... of the....."
 Tues.—Jn. 10:7-9. "I am the....."
 Wed.—Jn. 10:11, 14-15. "I am the....."
 Thurs.—Jn. 11:25-27. "I am the..... and the....."
 Fri.—Jn. 14:3-6. "I am the....., the....., and the....."
 Sat.—Jn. 15:14. "I am the....."

This Week's Memory Verse

Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God. (1 Cor. 10:31).

Don't you think it would be a splendid idea, not only to learn this week's memory verse at once, but to make it your verse for the entire year?

Suggestions for Daily Prayer

Have you ever said you would gladly pray more if you only knew for what to pray? Perhaps the following will help you.

Sun.—Pray for your relatives—your father, mother, sisters, brothers, aunts, uncles and cousins. If any are not saved, pray for their salvation.

Mon.—Pray for your friends—your playmates in the neighborhood and at school. Pray especially for those who do not love Jesus.

Tues.—Pray for those who are leaders in your church—your pastor, your Bible School superintendent, your Bible School teacher, and the officers in your class or Christian Endeavor.

Wed.—Pray for the members of your class in Bible School. Ask God to save those who are not His, and to help the others to live lives that please Him.

Thurs.—Ask God to bless the missionaries (perhaps you can name some of them) who are telling people about Jesus in other lands. Pray for the boys and girls, and the men and women, whom they are teaching.

Fri.—Pray for those whom you do not like—playmates or others who have not treated you right. See what God says about this in Mt. 5:44-45.

Sat.—Make a list of those you would like to see saved, and pray for them.

Let's Experiment

PROBLEM

To see why sin has a greater effect on one heart than on another, and to determine what kind of a heart I have.

MATERIALS

A pan of water to represent God's Word; a heart cut out of tin and one cut out of a sponge, representing two kinds of human hearts; and a match to represent sin.

METHOD

1. Drop the hearts into the pan of water for a few moments.
2. Carefully lift them out and lay them on the sink for a few minutes.
3. Pick up the tin heart.
4. Have mother light the match, and hold the flame close to the heart for a few moments.
5. Do the same with the sponge heart.

OBSERVATION

The ..... heart did not absorb any of the water, and soon dried.

The ..... heart absorbed all the water it could hold, and remained very, very wet.

The lighted match held close to the ..... heart soon made it black.

The lighted match did not blacken the ..... heart. Instead, the water put out the fire.

APPLICATION

Those who read their Bibles, and hear God's Word at church and Bible School, but do not give it any place in their hearts, are like the ..... heart.

Those who hear and read and learn all they can of God's Word, and fill their hearts with it, are like the ..... heart.

Sin easily blackens those whose hearts are like the ..... heart. But sin does not blacken the heart which, like the ..... heart, is filled with God's Word. See Ps. 119:11 and Jn. 15:3.

My heart is like the ..... heart.

Topic For January 21

The Saddest Thing in the World

Aim: To show the tragedy of leaving God out of one's life.

Preparations: In colored chalk, sketch on the blackboard a scene with clouds, moon, stars, mountains, streams, trees, flowers, birds, animals, etc. Or if you prefer, cut colored pictures of these from magazines, putting them together to make such a scene, pinning or tacking them to the wall so they can be removed.

LEADER:

Have the children take turns in erasing or removing the picture of one thing which God has made. After these have all been removed, ask them what is left. Show that that is the way with a life in which God has no place. There is nothing left that is really beautiful or lasting or worth while. Although the world may call such people successful, no one who leaves God out of his life is ever really a success. If their lives do not bring great disappointment in this world, their despair and regret when they stand before God to give account of their lives (Rom. 14:12 Rev. 20:11-15) will be indescribable. All the hidden thoughts and acts, whether good or bad, will then be made known (Rom. 2:16, I Cor. 4:5). If your sins were not forgiven, would you want to answer to God for all your thoughts and deeds, some of which you would not even want me to know?

ILLUSTRATIONS

1. People tried to get along without God before the flood, but when trouble came they had no one to help them (Gen. 6-7; Lesson 5, True Stories from the Long Ago). Did it pay for them to do without God?

2. The Egyptians thought they had no need for God, but it got them into lots of trouble (Ex. 5-12; Lessons 24-27, True Stories from the Long Ago). Did it pay?

3. Ahab gave God no place in his life, and this brought suffering and misery upon his whole kingdom (I Ki. 16:30-17:1, 21:25-26, 18:1-18, Lessons 67-68, True Stories from the Long Ago). Did it pay?

4. The rich young ruler decided not to follow Christ, and went away sorrowful (Mt. 19:16-26; Lesson 122, True Stories from the Long Ago). Did it pay?

5. Herod did not give God His proper place, and was smitten by an angel and was eaten by worms (Acts. 12; Lesson 138, True Stories from the Long Ago). Did it pay?

CONCLUSION

People may seem to get along all right without God, but sooner or later they will pay dearly for it (Ps. 37:7-17). Can I afford not to give God first place (Mk. 8:35-37)? Am I ready to do so now?

THIS WEEK'S POEM

In This Coming Year

I will make it a year of faith and prayer,
A year of high endeavor;
I will crowd it with deeds both brave and fair,
I will act the hero ever;
I will travel God's path at God's own rate,
I will welcome both gain and loss,
Nor will I rebel when heaven's gate
Looks tragically like a cross.

Pellets For Preachers

An elderly invalid clergyman said to me, "There are three or four churches that ask me to preach now and then; but I never can sleep the night before, lest I should not get the right message; and I cannot sleep the night after, lest I should not have spoken it right."

I said: "Well, I will give you a little healing medicine. Psalm 37:5, 'Commit thy way unto the Lord. Trust also in Him, and He shall bring it to pass.' That will give you a Saturday night's sleep. And Proverbs 16. 3: 'Commit thy works unto the Lord, and thy thoughts shall be established.' Then you will have a Sunday night's sleep."—Rev. Hubert Brooke.

(at Keswick Convention).

Pointed Paragraphs

He who walks through life with an even temper and a gentle patience—patient with himself, patient with others, patient with difficulties and crosses—he has an everyday greatness beyond that which is won in the battle or chanted in cathedrals.—Dr. Dewey.

"Kindness is not wasted. Even when it seems to fall on unresponsive ground, some one is helped—the person who bestowed it."

The way to preserve the peace of the church is to preserve the purity of it.—Matthew Henry.

READY BIBLE OUTLINE

Scripture Facts About Salvation

God thought it (Rom. 3:19-26; 1 Cor. 1:17 to 2:16).
Christ bought it (1 Cor. 6:20; 1 Pet. 1:18, 19).
The grace of God brought it (Tit. 2:11).
The Church taught it (Acts 8:4; 26:22, 23).
The Holy Spirit wrought it (1 Cor. 2:4, 5; 1 Thess. 1:5).
The Gospel never fails to laud it (Rom. 1:16; 1 Cor. 15:1-4).

That the angels might know its profound and fascinating mystery, they sought it (1 Pet. 1:12).

The Devil fought it (2 Cor. 4:3, 4).

But by grace, through faith, we poor sinners reached out and caught it (Eph. 2:8).

And now it will take a long eternity for us to shout it (Eph. 2:7; Rev. 5:6-14).

Then why, lost sinner, will you go through life and all eternity without it? (Mark 8:36, 37).

And lastly, sinner, what say you about it? (Matt. 27:22).

ILLUSTRATIVE JOTTINGS

A Child's Conversion

A little girl in America, when she was asked by the church committee as to her knowledge of Jesus Christ, and asked to recite her experience, said, "I do not know if I have any 'experience.' All I know is that Jesus said, 'Come unto me,' and I came, and He said, 'I will give you rest,' and He gave me rest." One of the older men said, "But you don't seem to know much about the Slough of Despond, my dear." She dropped a curtsy and said, "Please, sir, I did not come that way."—I. T. Pierson.

A New Year Resolve

Let us make this a truly New Year by filling it full of:
NEW FERVOR in helpful service.

NEW POISE in the careless problems of living.

NEW TENDERNESS toward all our fellow humans.

NEW INSIGHT into the fathomless depth of spirit.

NEW AUSTERITY against all moral compromise.

NEW CHEER in an environment of tribulation.

NEW DEPENDENCE upon the Infinite, expressing itself through PRAYER.

Bible Briefs

The Hebrew word translated "rib" in Genesis 2:21, is used 42 times in the Old Testament and rendered "rib" in only this place. It is usually given as "sides" or "chambers." The word for "rib" is entirely different (see Dan. 7:5). Harper renders Gen. 2:21 as follows: "He took one from his sides and closed the flesh instead of it." Another scholar says the word means "flank"—woman was taken from the flank of man. In any case it should be noted that she was declared to be "flesh of his flesh" as well as "bone of his bones."

Sentence Sermons

EVIL THOUGHTS will in time bear evil fruit for all the world to see.

TOO MANY OF US are like wheel-barrows: useful only when pushed, and easily upset.

EVEN RAILROAD TIES wouldn't last as long as they do if they didn't "give" a little to every jolt and passing burden.

NOW THEY'RE TELLING that a lady in Glasgow went on a hunger strike, and within a week had received twenty proposals!

Enoch was translated (Gen. 5:24) and, like the church, which will be translated, was not left to see the world's evil rise to a head.

The earth was filled with violence (Gen. 6:11). The earliest skeletons show that man had great muscular powers and there are indications of violence and brutality.

"Noah found grace" (Gen. 6:8). The first thing said of Noah and the first use of the word "grace" in the Bible. Grace is the foundation of every life pleasing to God.

"The waters prevailed" (Gen. 7:18). Science says that if the earth were level, there is enough water in the seas to cover the earth to a depth of two miles. Cf. v. 20—"fifteen cubits"—20 or 30 feet.

The raven is the first bird mentioned by name in the Bible (Gen. 8:7).

Gen. 9:13—"Bow in the cloud." The rainbow is the joint product of storm and sunshine. God's grace may be seen on the background of man's sin.

The temperance question was first raised in Gen. 9:21. Confusion of tongues in Gen. 11:7 is seen as an expression of judgment, in Acts 2 as an expression of grace.

"Babel" (Gen. 11:9) means "confusion." Federated selfishness will always end in confusion.

Abraham is the only man called "the friend of God"—Is. 41:8; 2 Chron. 20:7; Jas. 2:23.

There are thirteen recorded famines in the Bible.

Wanted—Peculiar People

I have heard it said, "Yes, he is a good man, but peculiar." I should like to find a church made up of peculiar people—that church would shake the world. Christ said we were to be peculiar, zealous (on fire), full of good works. Elijah was peculiar, but he was worth more than the hundred thousand around him. Enoch—I suppose all pointed to him; and Daniel was the most peculiar man Babylon ever had. When God has a great work to do, He will call some peculiar man to do it—a man who sets his back to the world and his face towards heaven like a flint. And the eyes of the Lord run to and fro to find such an one!—D. L. Moody.

The Bible Supreme

"Suppose you were sent to prison for three years and could only take three books with you, which three would you choose? Please state them in order of their importance." This question was sent by the editor of an influential London newspaper to one hundred prominent men—peers, members of Parliament, professors, authors, merchants—a comprehensive selection. Few of them were keen about religion; many were not even church-goers; others were agnostics or atheists. Yet 98 of them placed the Bible first on their list.—The Missionary Review of The World.

Precious Package

As a teacher I have heard many funny things said by children—but this is the best:

"What is a cowhide chiefly used for?" I said to my class one day. A boy raised his hand. "I know, sir," he said brightly. "Tell the class," I encouraged him. "To keep the cow together, sir," was the reply.

LOVELIEST

Frances Crosby Hamlet
in "The High Road"

Life's common things are loveliest:
Sunlight, a star, cool falling rain,
A budding flower, a robin's nest,
Frost crystals on a windowpane.

Dear simple marvels, old as time,
Yet each recurring season new,
What words could hope to snare in rime
The utter loveliness of you?

Now God be thanked for common things,
Who, shaping worlds, did not disdain
Starlight, a tree where white snow clings,
Frost crystals on my windowpane.

By the breath of God frost is given (Job. 37:10).

He giveth snow like wool: He scattereth the hoarfrost like ashes. He casteth forth his ice like morsels: who can stand before His cold?

(Ps. 147:16-17).

"Like unto Children Sitting in the Markets"

There are some people who have warped their own souls into a state of continual fault-finding against the children of God. In their eyes nothing is right that the true believer tries to do. They have made up their minds in advance to admit no good regarding those who are faithfully declaring the message of the Lord. Argument, no matter how reasonable, has no effect whatever upon their minds. They have decided what they will see, and they are able to see nothing else. To satisfy them is impossible. Even if God Himself should walk once more among men in flesh and blood, as He once did, they would regard all that He said and did with disgruntled and critical eyes.

If the preacher proclaims salvation by free grace alone without human works, they will denounce him as a "sinner" who teaches men to go on living in sin. But if, on the other hand, he condemns the worldly ways of professing Christians who defile themselves with such things as divorce, tobacco and the demoralizing movie, the same people will say that the preacher is a narrow minded radical.

The Lord Himself had to face such carping critics, and He dealt with them effectively with ironical humor. You are "like unto children sitting in the markets," He said, "calling unto their fellows, and saying, 'We have piped unto you and ye have not danced; we have mourned unto you, and ye have not lamented.' For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they said, 'He hath a devil.' The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and they say, 'Behold a man gluttonous, and a winebibber, a friend of publicans and sinners'" (Matt. 11:16-19).

Humanity has not changed in nineteen hundred years. If we lay down the commandments of the Lord and demand that those who profess to be His should walk by this rule, they will brand us as fanatical devils. But if we preach the infinite grace of God to lost men, they denounce us for showing mercy and hope to "sinners," for making salvation too "easy." Well, it is no accident that our Lord just a few verses lower in the passage says this very thing, "For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light" (Matt. 11:30). As the servants of the Lord, we doubtless make many mistakes in our ministry. But let us forever beware of making "hard" what the Lord declares to be "easy."

Can the Christian Endorse Kagawa?

There is no doubt but that Kagawa, Japanese preacher and social worker, is one of the most remarkable men of modern times. His self sacrificing labors in the city slums of Japan are a saga of heroism. So impressive has his work been, that by many prominent religious leaders of this country he has been named "The First Christian" of the present generation. And not long ago a lecture tour through the United States became for Kagawa a veritable march of personal triumph in which church and educational leaders vied with one another in paying tribute to the little quiet-spoken Japanese. His writings have been loudly applauded and sold widely in our country.

Now in seeking to appraise such men as Kagawa, it is necessary for the Christian to examine first exactly what he teaches. And in doing this, we should beware of prejudice either for or against him as an individual. That he happens to belong to another race, not very well liked in America today, should not be permitted to enter our estimate of his message. On the other hand, the unquestionable heroism of his personal deeds must not blind our eyes to anything that may be wrong with his message. Too often people thoughtlessly infer that a man capable of heroic deeds must be a teacher of truth. Unfortunately this is not so. The ancient Stoics were capable of tremendous personal heroism, but their philosophy was false for the most part, and their courage was the courage of despair.

What about the teachings of Kagawa? Let us examine a few specimen passages from his books and writings. In his "Love, The Law of Life" (298-299) he writes, "This is the message of evolution, that the world is still in bud.... Belief in evolution is faith in the progressive entrance into an ever-expanding freedom—from seed to shoot, bud to flower, from anthropoid to human, from man to son of God. What a courageous faith! The belief that there is a direct line of evolution from amoeba to man is a more daring and romantic faith than the belief in the myth of a Creator making something out of nothing. I will not enquire how the amoeba became man. If it is said it became man through the process of Nature, the explanation is simple: The amoeba is cleverer than a bungling god." Again on pages 302-304, Kagawa makes the following statements: "The terms evolution and God point towards the same entity." God is evolution itself at work within the ego." "He who affirms evolution will necessarily affirm God, for the one God is evolutionary power intrinsic."

These clearly expressed statements makes it evident that Kagawa is simply a pantheistic evolutionist who like the ancient Stoics confuses the Creator with His creation. If you want to know what the Apostle Paul would say about Kagawa, read Romans 1:18-25, especially the last verse.

The Pope and our Present Government

More than one thoughtful observer, both in and outside the Christian church, has watched with considerable anxiety the intimacy which is growing up between the Vatican and high officials in this country. Joseph P. Kennedy, devout Roman Catholic and United States Ambassador to Great Britain, was asked in a news interview to describe his impressions at the ceremony of inducting the new Pope into his office. This is what he said:

"It was a day overwhelming in its solemnity, in its magnificence, in its universal appeal. Forty-one nations were represented. But above all the pageantry, ceremonies and cheers stood the figure of His Holiness. It seemed to us no longer the figure of a man, but more a God-like figure."

Holding to the honored policy of our nation, we dare not question the right of such men as Mr. Kennedy to think and worship as they please without hindrance. That is one thing. It is not that anyone wants to deny the Roman Catholic the right to worship as he feels is right. But the thing which should concern us is the political views of the Roman Catholic hierarchy which still holds that the Pope is a temporal sovereign who, because he reigns in Christ's stead, is the rightful ruler of all other rulers.

Recently the Roman Catholic organization has launched a drive in America to put God into government and its affairs. Now such a drive looks well on the face of it, and more than one Protestant has endorsed it. But we do well to ask just what the Roman Catholic means by "putting God" into government. To this question there is but one answer: It is the Roman Catholic "god" who is to be put there, together with his ancient policies and ways, if not now, at least eventually when the fears of men have been quieted sufficiently. For it is the boast of "Rome" that she never changes, and that her official voice is infallible.

There are two distinct tendencies which we should watch and fear: First, after centuries of supporting the divine right of kings against democratic movements, Rome has suddenly become the defender of democracy. Why? Because today Rome needs friends, and she has found that the democracy of this country is the richest and easiest field for exploitation in the world today. Therefore in this country (but not in Italy and other Catholic countries) Rome has become a defender of "religious freedom." On the other hand, the democratic governments of the world, feeling the need of help in their battle against the totalitarian nations, and appraising the amazing organization and influence of the Vatican as a possible help, are looking definitely and favorably toward Rome. Thus the marriage of civil government and organized "Christendom" becomes more and more a possibility. But according to the Word, it will be merely a marriage of convenience. Read Revelation 17.

Who Left What?

Some time ago a certain Methodist minister out in the state of Kansas got sick of the unbelief and apostasy in his denomination, and feeling that he could do nothing more to help the situation he announced publicly his intention to leave the denomination. As reasons for taking this momentous step after eighteen years in the Methodist church, he gave the following: "It is common practice today, in the Methodist Church, either to deny outright the most essential doctrines of the Bible or to hush them up." Among these doctrines, he cited the virgin birth, the resurrection of the body, and the second coming. "Instead of preaching regeneration," he charged, "I am admonished to teach the devil's doctrine that all men are brothers." And he closed his public announcement with the prayer, "God help the Methodist Church."

Now this incident is nothing new today. The same thing has been taking place in various denominations. But the really significant thing about the above mentioned incident is the way the newspapers reported the matter. According to the headline of the article, readers were informed that this certain Methodist minister had "left the faith"!

Ignorance & Hypocrisy

Two things about the whole story will interest the informed Christian: First, the profound ignorance of the press in general about the situation in denominations like the Methodist Church. Second, the deep-dyed hypocrisy of many denominational leaders. As a matter of fact, many denominations have all but scuttled the real Christian "faith" as far as the officials in control are concerned. But let some faithful minister of the Lord withdraw from the camp of unbelief, and the officials at once denounce him as an apostate from "the faith." And the newspapers, often uninformed as to the real issues, sometimes repeat the hypocritical slander. Loyalty to some man-made organization is placed above loyalty to faith in the Lord Himself.

Perhaps we should not be surprised at such ignorance and perverseness. The last days, according to the Apostle Paul, would be characterized by the falling of men from the reality of Christian faith, and at the same time by a fanatical adherence to mere "forms of godliness" (2 Tim. 3:1-5).

For many years the Brethren have warned against substituting loyalty to man-made creeds for loyalty to the faith of Christ. We need to learn that it is no less vicious to substitute loyalty to man-made organizations for loyalty to the faith once for all delivered unto the saints.

The Old Testament deals with Law and ends with a curse (Mal. 4:6). The New Testament deals with grace and ends with a blessing (Rev. 22:21).

NORMAL CHRISTIAN EXPERIENCE FOR EVERY BELIEVER

Herman A. Hoyt

*Professor of The New Testament and Greek,
Grace Theological Seminary*

The little book of Philippians was written to describe normal Christian experience. So observe carefully the phrase "normal Christian experience." While it is true that everyone has experience, for experience is simply to live through the course of events, it is not true that everyone has "Christian experience." And while it is true that every believer has "Christian experience," for Christian experience is simply to live in relationship with Christ, it is not true that every believer has "normal Christian experience." Nevertheless, normal Christian experience is the standard for every believer, and anything less than that is neither completely beneficial to the believer nor pleasing to the Lord.

Most people want to be normal; that is, they do not want to be supernormal, nor do they want to be subnormal, for either extreme is freakish in its department. And while in the realm of mentality we refer to the supernormal and to the subnormal as well as the normal, in the realm of spiritual things we recognize only two levels instead of three. There is the normal Christian who is the spiritual man, and who stands at the very top of the spiritual ladder, and there is the man who falls below the normal level, who is the carnal man. Now it is normal Christian experience of which Paul writes in the little book of Philippians, and into which the Holy Spirit would lead every believer.

Also, let it here be said, that normal Christian experience is the life with fullness of joy, as a careful study of this epistle will attest. Therefore, where Christian experience falls below normal, there will be absence of joy; and where Christian experience follows the course which is marked out as normal, there will there be fullness of joy; for joy is the emotional overflow from the fullness of Christ. It cannot be worked up under any circumstances, and yet in conjunction with the fullness of Christ it will manifest itself regardless of circumstances. And since every believer wants his life filled and overflowing with joy, it therefore follows that he must travel through the realms of normal Christian experience as outlined in the book of Philippians. Therefore note,

First, The Person of Christ is the Philosophy for Christian Living (1:21)

"For to me to live is Christ." Contrary to what a great many have taught, the phrase "to live" does not mean the same as the word "life," for the word "life" may mean the principle of existence, or the span of existence, or the condition of existence; but the phrase "to live" extends far beyond that, referring to the acts and activity that fills one's life; to the events and circumstances which go to make up the daily routine of the believer's life. And since living consists in thinking, willing, speaking, and doing, Paul is asserting in his case, Christ is to fill up his thinking, his willing, his speaking, and his doing. Christ is to be the subject of his thoughts, the object of his will, the message of his speech, and the substance of his deeds.

Thus, Christ becomes the philosophy for normal Christian experience. Nor should the Christian shy away from the word philosophy as though it were a pagan idea. For as a matter of fact the word simply means a system of thought or a world-view which motivates one's life. And the Christian, no less than the average man of the street, needs a philosophy by which to motivate his life. And for him, that should be Christ, Who will cause the aimlessness of life to disappear, mental confusion to become order, and disturbances to cease. This philosophy will undergird him for all the experiences of life and equip him for a life of fruitful service.

Second, The Mind of Christ is the Principle for Christian Conduct (2:5)

"Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." This is to remind the believer that normal Christian experience does not consist alone in a philosophy to motivate one's life, although that is primary and basic, but include a principle to guide one in his conduct. That there is a need for such a principle is very definitely demonstrated in the quarrels and clashes that occur in every congregation of believers. So Paul describes the principle that should guide Christian conduct in verses 1-4 of chapter two, and follows this description with a superb illustration from the life and ministry of Christ in verses 5-11. When the salvation of men was at stake, He did not selfishly cling to what rightfully belonged to Him, but gave it up that He might accomplish the work of the cross, and all of this He did for the glory of the Father. That is the mind of Christ, and the principle which should guide every Christian in his service for the Lord.

Selfish ambitions will wreck the most well-organized society and throw it into a confusion where order can never be restored. Lucifer, the son of the morning, now the arch-enemy of God, once wrecked heaven, and has since wrecked the earth, all because he selfishly sought his own glory (Isa. 14:12-14). But Christ, in that He wrought out the whole plan of salvation for the glory of the Father, has supremely demonstrated the principle that should guide every Christian

Third, The Mark in Christ Calls for Progress in Christian Life (3:14)

"I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." And in this verse it is definitely implied that every believer should be making progress toward the mark in Christ. It is not enough to have a philosophy of life, and a principle to guide conduct, but the believer should employ both of these in making progress in the direction of the mark in Christ. Now that "mark" is the perfection which is in Christ, and which every believer will experience when Christ comes again and calls us out of this world. But the fact that we shall then be perfect is no occasion for indolence today. At least Paul found no such occasion in that blessed fact. On the contrary, to him there was in it a definite incentive for progress in the present life toward that goal. And as one of God's saints has said,

"If we expect to look like Him some day, then it follows that we ought to begin to look like Him now." And toward that goal Paul found joy in continually pressing.

Nor is that goal vague and indistinct, for all that Christ was and is morally and spiritually is the image of what we shall be some day when we shall see Him as He is. For the present any believer has access to the blessed book, mirrored in whose depths there is the image of the face of Him who is altogether lovely. And that child of God who faithfully and persistently gazes upon His face as reflected in the Word will be "changed into the same image, from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord" (2 Cor. 3:18). Thus he makes progress toward the mark in Christ.

Finally, The Riches of Christ are the Provision for Christian Life (4:19)

"But my God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus." And with this the cycle of normal Christian experience is completed. With the philosophy for life in the person of Christ, and the principle for conduct in the mind of Christ, and the mark in Christ for progress in life, and now the riches in Christ as the provision for life, the journey of the Christian through life can be successfully undertaken and completed. Best of all it can be traveled through regions that are wholesome and healthful and spiritual. And all of this is provided out of the bountiful riches of God in Christ.

Though a motorist may have a vehicle in which to travel, and a steering apparatus with which to guide his machine, and a destination and a road over which to travel, he still cannot make the journey without supplies of gasoline and oil. And so it is with the believer. He may have a philosophy which is the Person of Christ (1:21); and a principle for conduct which is the mind of Christ (2:5); and a point of destination which is the mark in Christ (3:14); but he still needs provision for the way which alone can be found in the riches in Christ (4:19), for without Him we can do nothing (Jn. 15:5).

Nothing short of joy can rise in the heart of one who has experienced all of these things during his life. He must rejoice when he realizes how completely Christ solves every perplexing problem of the journey through life. He must rejoice when he realizes how perfectly the mind of Christ motivates every service for Christ. He must rejoice when he realizes how easy it is to make progress toward the clearly revealed goal in Christ. He must rejoice when he realizes how remarkably God has made provision for every human need. This is normal Christian experience and the life of joy.

True Sacrifice

True sacrifice consists, not so much in giving up great things as in daily relinquishing personal enjoyments for the sake of others, without looking for love or gratitude in return.

"THAT I MAY KNOW HIM"

Phil. 3:10

By Blaine Snyder

*Senior and Vice President of the Student Body
Grace Theological Seminary*

The particular word in this passage which suggests our theme is the word "know." We are much concerned in this day with knowledge. Public schools, colleges, universities abounding on every hand bear a silent testimony to the truth of this statement. So much emphasis is being placed on education that the religious life of the nation is being engulfed. While men have progressed in their learning, they have perverted the truths which we value so highly, turning their backs on the only source of all true wisdom. To a large extent the standard by which men are being judged today is the academic alphabet which follows their signature. More and more the emphasis is being placed on the knowledge which a man possesses. Since this is such an important theme we do well to consider for a few moments the thought of knowledge in relation to the Biblical standards bearing on the subject. Therefore let us notice a few things about knowledge.

Knowledge is a Universal Passion among Men

From time immemorial there has been an evident unrest and discontent in the hearts of men, a longing to know things which were beyond their present experience. This desire first made itself known among men in the experience of the fall in the Garden of Eden. Human nature has not changed since it was created, so down through the ages men have expended their energies to satisfy the longing of their hearts. Picture the experience of the Apostle Paul in the city of Athens (Acts 17), or a missionary on the field today, and you can very readily see what we mean. A passer-by with some strange teaching or trinket can always create a following. Thus you see that no matter what age you examine or what country you explore you will find evidence of the fact that men are continually seeking to satisfy an insatiable appetite for something which they do not possess.

Knowledge is a Fundamental Basis of One's Belief

Here again we may appeal to history and experience to prove what we have to say. It is easy to see that the training one receives to a large extent determines the course and nature of his thinking. The great philosopher Plato certainly furnishes us with an example of the influence which one person can wield in the world. Every age from his to the present has had to deal with the teaching which he instituted. In our own day the power of modern Romanism is no less unique. The better one understands any code of faith or ethics, the greater the probability that he will abide true to it.

Consequently the great value of training for service becomes evident. This is especially true when preparing for Christian service.

At this place we desire to express a word of appreciation as a personal testimony to the three years spent in Grace Seminary. Believing that a knowledge of God's Word is one of the greatest factors in a life of service, Grace Seminary has presented a consistent course of study in the Scriptures. Here, under the guidance of consecrated instructors, the Word of God has been faithfully presented. While the World is ever learning and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth we have had fellowship, not only in the truth, but in the Author of the truth. My desire is that many other young people may have the privileges which have been mine in the last three years.

Knowledge to be Complete must have Christ as its Object

There is a limit to human wisdom. For millenniums men have been studying, writing books, ferreting out new discoveries, exploring the world below and the stars above, and yet natural man has never been able to come to a knowledge of the truth. In all their searchings men have been only partially successful in solving the problems which confront them. We said above that there is a limit to human wisdom. We believe that this limit is reached the moment a man refuses to recognize God in his life. Men may search where they will, but till they find Christ they have not found the truth. When they have found him the search need no longer continue spiritually, for he himself said, "I am the truth." We can know all about the world, its philosophies, its sciences, but till we know Christ we do not know the truth. With the wisdom of the ages as our heritage one would expect that the world would naturally be getting better and better. But we must face the fact that just the opposite is true. Thus no matter how much knowledge a man has, no matter what his experiences have been, till he has found Christ he has only a partial solution for the problems of this world and none at all for the problems of the world to come.

To know Christ fully means more than to know something about Him

Rarely do we find a person who knows nothing concerning the facts of Christ's life and person. Yet what a great want of knowledge we meet when we speak of having a personal knowledge of him as an indwelling Savior. Paul in this passage prays that he might know him. "Know" in this instance means a knowledge derived from personal experience. Thus there is a great difference between simply having an objective knowledge of Christ—that is, a knowledge of some of the facts about Christ—and having the experience of the presence of Christ as a person living in one's life. This, of course, can be had only by receiving Christ in one's life. But above this there is a phase of this knowledge which we dare not overlook. That is, to really know Christ means to grow in the knowledge of Him. It might require a lifetime under the most severe and trying circumstances before one could truly say that he knew his Lord. Paul was continually buffeted, beaten, exposed to danger and death. He had suffered the loss of all those things which we hold dear. Day by day he had both internal anxieties and external afflictions. But none of his losses were to be compared with the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus his Lord. The experiences of the Apostle Paul have been promised to all who will live godly in Christ Jesus (II Tim. 3:12). It is after reminding the believers that such is their lot that Peter in his second epistle tells us to "grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." This growth in knowledge can be ours only by continual consecration and communion with him. There is no substitute for it.

To know Christ personally is the guarantee of eternal life with all its blessings and privileges

The world has its knowledge. This seems to be increasing every day. Sometimes we are discomfited when we realize that the children of this age are wiser than the children of light. They do seem to make progress faster than the sons of God. However, all their knowledge apart from Christ only leads men farther into darkness and despair.

But there is a knowledge which presents a most glorious and happy contrast to that of the world. We find this expressed in the words of our Lord himself, "This is life eternal, that they might know Thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ Whom Thou hast sent." Here is wisdom indeed! All the satisfaction that the world can give to relieve that passion in man is but for a moment, but here is a solution for all the problems which men meet, both for time and eternity. Again and again in the Bible we are urged to learn of Christ, by experiencing his presence within. To refuse to listen to these calls is far from an act of wisdom. Thus, if you would know the truth, if you would have that wisdom which is from above, there is only one way to get it, and that is by receiving Christ into your life. For in the words of another, "A man might be a great astronomer, so that he could talk learnedly about the stars and planets, of the heavens and their wonderful movements in the universe; and yet he might not be able to discover 'The Star of Bethlehem.' A man might be a great botanist, able to speak learnedly about all the flowers, plants, and trees, and their technical and scientific names and classifications; and yet might not be able to identify 'The Rose of Sharon or the Lily of the Valley.' Again, a man might be a great geologist, able to discourse in an erudite way about the rocks, fossils and the diversified strata of the earth's formation; and yet he might not know how to take his stand on the 'Rock of Ages.' Once more, a man might be a learned mathematician, competent to solve all the problems of his recondite science; and yet he might not be able to solve the most fundamental and important problem of all, namely, "what would it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Here, then, is the final solution to that great longing within the hearts of men for something which so far has not been their experience. That solution is the knowledge of Christ which comes with acceptance of Him as Lord and Savior, and growth in His wonderful grace. Do you know Him?

THE MAN TRAP WITH THE WORLD'S LARGEST PEARL

By Tom M. Olson

From "Pic" comes the following incident telling how the primitive tribes of the Philippine Islands depend upon the ocean to give them much of their food. In diving for shellfish which abound in the warm waters of the South Pacific, they often come in contact with sharks and octopuses, yet, odd as it seems, these denizens of the deep do not hold the terror of a clam that inhabits the South Seas. Science calls the clam tridacna gigantea but the natives call it the "man-trap." The clams which weigh as much as 350 pounds, lie upright and open on the ocean bottom ready to snap up passing objects. The diver, in searching for shellfish, stirs up the black ooze of the ocean floor, and is unable to see the waiting man-trap. When a foot or hand touches the clam, the half parted shells snap like a pistol shot. If the victim is fortunate, he loses an arm or leg and escapes to the surface, but if his arm or leg isn't amputated, he dies a horrible death.

One such diver died in May of 1934. When his comrades got him to the surface, the clam still held his arm at the elbow point. There was no chance of reviving the drowned man, and it was hours before they succeeded in prying the shell apart. But when it was at last parted, they saw a sight never before seen by humans — a 14-pound pearl. The pearl is 9½ inches long, 5½ inches wide, and 6 inches through. It was 300 years in forming. The shell which enclosed the pearl weighed 320 pounds. It is more than 600 years old.

The pearl was given to the tribal chief, who put it under special guard and rarely displayed it. The chief recently gave it to Wilburn D. Cobb for curing his child of malignant malaria.

This striking story of the world's largest pearl recalls a parable which the Lord Jesus related. He said: "The kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls: Who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it" (Matt. 13:45-46).

Much misunderstanding prevails regarding this pearl; for many think the Lord Jesus Christ is the pearl of great price.

But in this parable the Lord Jesus is seen under the figure of the merchant man—not the pearl. He it was who sought "goodly pearls." He it was who found "one pearl of great price" and went and sold all that he had to make that pearl His own.

The sinner cannot be the merchant man, for even if Christ were the pearl of great price, the sinner has nothing but "filthy rags" (Isa. 64:6) to sell—and they are worthless.

The Lord Jesus Christ is not for sale, but even though He were, He could not be bought with the "filthy rags" of man's own righteousness.

The Lord is the One that "was rich, yet for your sakes became poor" (2 Cor. 8:9). He was in the form of God, but made Himself of no reputation and took upon Him the form of a servant and was made in the likeness of men, and being found in fashion as a man, humbled Himself and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross" (Phil. 2:6-8).

The church is seen in the parable under the figure of the "one pearl of great price." For although the church is composed of every redeemed person, it is "one body in Christ" (Rom. 12:5).

The church cost the Lord Jesus Christ His all—and His death!

The church of God is referred to as being "purchased with His own blood" (Acts 20:28). Believers are spoken of as being "bought with a price" (1 Cor. 6:20); and "redeemed with the precious blood of Christ" (1 Pet. 1:18). We required purchasing for we were "sold under sin" (Rom. 7:14).

Thus it is evident that Christ is the Purchaser, not the pearl. The world's largest pearl may be this fourteen pound one found in the South Pacific, but the Lord's one pearl of great price is the church which He loved and gave Himself for—and which He will soon present to Himself, a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle, or any such thing" (Eph. 5:25-28).

If the church is the pearl of great price and is, so to speak, to be displayed by the Altogether Lovely One throughout Eternity, how eager we should be to glorify Him here and now in our bodies and in our spirits which are His!

Would You Be Ready

"Suppose the trumpet were to sound to call the dead and living saints to meet the Lord in the air in one hour from the time you read these lines (and who can say it will not?), are you ready to meet Christ? Does the thought give you joy? Are you sure you are His; that your sins are forgiven; that He is your Saviour, your righteousness, your sanctification, your all? John 14:1-3. Thess. 4:14-18.

"Is this your Blessed Hope? or, are you afraid to think of the possibility of this taking place so soon?"

The Candle's Story

"I'll soon be dead," the Candle said;
I inch by inch decline;
But I make light of my sad plight,
For while I live — I shine."

Thou art the way; to Thee alone
From sin and death we flee,
And he who would the Father seek Must seek him Lord by Thee.
Thou are the truth; Thy word alone
True wisdom can impart;
Thou only canst inform the mind,
And purify the heart.—Sel.

God Is Faithful I Cor. 10:13

"God is Faithful" — not He has been,
Not He will be; both are true;
But to-day, in this sore trial,
"God is Faithful" now to you! M. M. D.

The present tense is so beautiful. The words were written to saints when in trial. Isn't it comforting? For there is never a day but we are in greater or lesser trials: but in each "GOD IS FAITHFUL."

BIBLE SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

By Tom Hammers

This department of our magazine will be known to our readers as the Bible School Department. Not that we object to the name Sunday School, but that we believe there is real need for a greater emphasis upon the Bible in most of our schools.

A church may have a Sunday School, and yet — not a Bible School. There are some Sunday Schools, it is true, which are genuine Bible Schools. Fortunate indeed is the church and the community where this is true. Too often however, the Bible is conspicuously absent in the class, in the lessons, in the teaching, in the life and activities of the individuals as well as in the general program of the school.

We are also aware of the fact that many false religions of our day have their Sunday Schools. Even Communists conduct Sunday Schools in which the boys and girls are well indoctrinated with the tenets of Atheism and are even taught to sing "hymns" which are nothing more than godless parodies on our own Christian hymns.

So, whether we may call them Bible Schools, or Sunday Schools, the chief concern of this department will be to place proper emphasis upon the Bible, in order that Christ might be the very heart and soul of all our work.

The Bible Has Not Lost Its Appeal

As in the pulpit, so in the Bible School, God's Word still has the greatest appeal to the hearts of young and old. When intelligently and attractively presented, folks will listen to the teaching of the Scriptures. True, the Old Devil would have us believe that the Bible is out of date, and would encourage us to offer our people "substitutes." Hoping to capture the crowds, lectures and discussions of "popular" subjects have been substituted for Biblical instruction. As for the children, they are now spending most of their time playing games, doing hand work, singing songs, (all of which may have its rightful place) but it certainly does not deserve preeminence over the study of God's Word. The ignorance of the scriptures among both children and adults who attend our Bible Schools today is appalling. The reason—the Bible is not being taught under the pretense that it has lost its appeal for people of this modern day.

Having listened in on the teaching of some Bible classes we are not surprised that folks show little interest. The fault, however, did not lie in the Scriptures but in the teacher and the very poor presentation. The teacher must make adequate preparation through prayer, the study of God's Word, and then such helps as may throw light upon problems arising in the lesson. Too often, Bible classes are dry business because the teacher simply mulls over the comments found in the Bible Class quarterly, material which each member of the class can read for himself. Nothing new is added and as far as the individual in the class is concerned, it would have been much easier to sit at home and read the lesson than go to all the trouble of going to church.

It seems that a word is in respect to the use of Quarterlies and helps for lessons. Too often they have taken the place of the Bible. Such was never the intention of the writers or of those who planned them for Bible School use. They were designed as aids to study and preparation of the lesson on the part of both teacher and student. They were intended for "home use," and should be left at home. Take your Bible to the Bible Class. Study your lesson beforehand and then you'll be able to intelligently discuss the lesson in class.

Try such a plan in your Bible School and you'll be surprised just how much folks are really interested in the study of the Bible, for the Bible has not lost its appeal. And—if folks don't come back for more in your Bible School, don't blame the Bible, but look elsewhere for the trouble.

Bible Teaching Produces Results

We have discovered that the largest, fastest growing and most successful Bible Schools in this country have been and are being built around an intensive Bible teaching program for all ages.

The first objective of such a program is the salvation of every soul in the school, regardless of age. Too long, we have been putting the cart before the horse in Bible School work. Instead of evangelizing the children for Christ, we have been telling them Bible stories and have been telling them to "be good." This is not enough. To ask anyone to "be good" who has not first of all been "born again" is asking the impossible. We must teach children as well as adults about SIN and the awful consequences of sin, we must then teach them God's plan of Salvation and if possible, lead them to accept Christ. And only in schools where a real Bible teaching program is in force is this kind of thing being done. It does produce results for scores are being saved, are being baptized and are uniting with the churches of which the School is a part.

Those who have studied statistics of Sunday Schools and churches tell us that "on the average, five out of seven (who enter our Bible Schools) pass out of the church school without having confessed Christ, and many of these are lost to the church at least for a time, if not altogether." This is a terrible indictment of the present day Bible School. However, we are thankful that there are many schools where such is not the case. But, lest we be satisfied with our own work and the results which it is producing, we suggest that you take the records of your school for the past five years, and of all who have entered your school during that period, check and see just how many are still with you, how many have accepted Christ as Savior, and how many have been baptized and have become members of your church. You may be shocked by the results. And if shocked, may it drive you to your knees in earnest prayer for a Heaven-sent Revival, in which the Word of God shall go forth in the power of the Holy Spirit, convicting and converting men, women, boys and girls. And be sure of this one thing—that nothing short of a real Bible teaching program will produce results pleasing to our Lord.

The second objective in this program is to so train the saints that they might become real witnesses for the Lord. We have no statistics at hand, but we know from experience and observation that there are some folks who have been attending Sunday School for five, ten, fifteen, twenty, maybe forty years and yet—have never gone out and won a single soul for Christ. What's wrong?

Any number of things might be wrong. They might not be saved, and therefore have nothing about which to witness; or they might be saved and yet have no assurance of salvation (thinking like many folks and unscripturally, that we can't know until we die); or being saved they are ignorant of scriptures, and therefore would not know how to lead a soul to Christ; or being saved are indifferent to the needs of others or are just lazy, the "let George do it" type of Christians. But no matter what we discover about those who do not witness for the Lord, we will probably discover that behind this entire problem is the failure of the Bible School to properly teach those who come within its doors.

On the other hand, we find that schools with real Bible teaching programs are the ones in which there are many soul-winners—folks who through the week are going out into the shops, the stores, the homes, and are "talking Christ" to the people and are then leading them to the Lord as Savior and are bringing them into the churches and schools for public confession, baptism and church membership.

And only in proportion as the Bible School grows will the church grow. The two are inseparable—and not separate as some superintendents and leaders seem to think. Always, the Bible School is a part of the church and as such works in harmony and cooperation with the church and not in competition to the church.

Plan Early For The Summer Camps

Mid-winter and near zero weather may seem like a strange time to be talking about summer training camps for the young people of our Brethren Churches. However, now is the time to be developing plans in order that the summer camps of 1940 might be the greatest in our history.

We believe every person associated with the Bible School should have a vital interest in camps. The contribution which they have already made toward the development of capable, willing, and trained leadership for our Bible Schools is a matter of common knowledge. And, in most schools, the demand for trained leadership usually far exceeds the supply. This being true, superintendents, teachers, officers, and pastors should begin early to encourage their young people to attend one of our camps. In fact, we recommend that when possible some definite financial aid be given to those young people who have proven themselves worthy. A simple and effective plan for determining just who is worthy of such aid is to require perfect attendance at Bible School over a definite period of time such as one quarter, four months, or even six months. A week at camp with expenses paid would be as fine an award as any school could make to its deserving young people.

A fine response to the above path will usually follow where it is announced well in advance and it is made clear that a certain portion or maybe all of the camp fee will be paid for those who have a perfect attendance record for the specified period. Other plans are also in use, but no matter what the plan—it must be put into effect at an early date. It has no value if you wait until a week or two before the camp starts. Now is the time to get busy.

Do You Have A Camp In Your District ?

Many Brethren young people do not attend camp simply because there is no camp near enough at hand for them to attend. In many cases young people find it difficult enough to raise sufficient money for their camp fee, let alone pay the expenses of a long trip to and from the camp.

This year we should see the opening of a number of new camps. We owe it to our young people to provide camps where none now exist. There is still ample time if those with a vision will get busy at once. First locate a good camp site (maybe you can rent one for a week or ten days). Then organize the staff with men and women who know how to reach the hearts of young people. Next, plan a curriculum which is Biblical from beginning to end. Finally, be sure to make ample provision for recreational activities, sports, and of course, plenty of good food. Why not have a camp for the young people of your district this year! It's possible.

There is no more thrilling, nor more profitable work among the young people in our Brethren churches today than camp work. For some reason, camp seems to fill a peculiar need not otherwise fulfilled in the local church and Bible School. In camp as no where else, young people learn how to assume responsibility, to cooperate, to work together, to live together and even to play together. Even more important is the fact that many young people first accepted the Lord Jesus Christ as their own personal Savior while attending camp. For others, camp was the place of decision for full-time service for the Lord, while for others it was the place of victory over sins and habits which had beset their Christian experience.

A Camp Directory

It is our plan to publish through the pages of this department a directory of our camps scattered throughout the United States and available to young people of Brethren churches. In this manner, Bible School superintendents, leaders, parents, pastors and the young people themselves will be able to get first hand information concerning the camp in their own immediate section.

We are asking the various leaders of our camps to submit as early as possible, factual information concerning their 1940 camp. Name, location, dates, ages, prices, sponsors, courses, as well as the Dean or Secretary of the camp to whom inquirers may write for information should be sent in as quickly as possible. May we hear from you?

Plan Early For That Daily Vacation Bible School

A successful vacation week day Bible School depends largely upon the preparations which have been made well in advance, according to Rev. Wm. H. Schaffer, Pastor of the First Brethren Church of Conemaugh, Pa. Last minute plans cause a lot of confusion and embarrassment on the part of those responsible, and, he continues:

The superintendent should have plenty of time to select the teaching staff and the type of material to be used. He should also have regular sessions with the teaching staff.

If the superintendent and teachers do not have access to a regular Vacation Bible School Institute such as are held in various communities, a series of discussions among the members of the staff will be profitable.

Where can we get the materials such as we need? A number of church schools have successfully used the program and lesson materials as published by the Summer Bible School Association of Chester, Pennsylvania. This material can easily be adapted to our Brethren emphasis. This program will give a systematic study of the Word of God with public school efficiency, yet with no handcraft. Another highly successful program and lesson materials can be had from the Scripture Press, 800 N. Clark street, Chicago, Illinois. Both of these materials are strictly Biblical and have proven to be superior in teaching the Word of God, to those programs which make large use of handcraft.

This type of Vacation Bible School will pay large dividends in your church and Bible School work. Never arrange for a Week Day Vacation Bible School of less than two weeks duration if at all possible.

Child Evangelism And The Bible School

A comparatively new movement with which every Bible School superintendent, teacher, leader, as well as pastor should be well acquainted is the Child Evangelism Fellowship. As the name implies, its sole purpose is to bring Christ to the little boys and girls of America and to lead them to accept Him as their own Personal Lord and Savior. Its first concern is the evangelization of the more than 27,000,000 boys and girls in our land who never go to any church or Bible School. However, it has a definite relation to the organized Bible School in any church, and while not intended to take the place of the Bible School, we do believe it will make a most profitable contribution to your present program.

Brethren Churches will do well to give more attention to the "little children" than we have done in the past. We seem to have forgotten that Children need a Savior from sin, just as do adults, that before God it is a great sin to neglect the salvation of boys and girls and that boys and girls can be born again. Besides this, we know that children often die and it may be that they will have reached that "age of accountability" (which none but God knows) and died without ever having an opportunity to accept Christ. A more urgent reason for their evangelization however, is the imminence of the Lord's return, in which event we fear that many boys and girls about whom we have shown no concern, will be left behind.

Through these pages we are planning to present material on Child Evangelism. Should you desire further information write us. The following article is written by Rev. Harry H. McArthur and is published as a part of the Child Evangelism Correspondence Course offered by the Bible Institute of Los Angeles.

Meaning of Evangelism

It is necessary at the beginning of this study to clearly define the term Evangelism. It is an old term and yet there is a great deal of misunderstanding and confusion as to its meaning.

It is not merely teaching the Bible or seeking to interpret its meaning to the children. Yet this, properly and conscientiously done, is vital in Christian work, in that it provides a foundation for the reception and understanding of the gospel message. It is a school-master that leads to Christ. There must come, however, the point in the process of every properly taught young person or child where he or she should have a distinct consciousness of having entered the Kingdom of God, of enjoying a personal saving relationship with Jesus Christ. That is what all teaching and training must lead to, and children must be made to understand.

It is not teaching children the morals and the ethics of the Scriptures, yet this should not be minimized nor neglected in the teaching ministry of the Bible School.

It is not baptizing children. Baptism, it is true, is a divine command, but it is a believer's ordinance, and should be administered only to those who have first been evangelized.

It is not bringing children into the membership of the church. It is possible for one to unite with the church without having first been evangelized. Yet we should do all in our power to persuade those who have been evangelized to unite with some church.

There is a danger that baptism, confirmation, church membership and participation in the church ordinances may become substitutes for saving faith in Christ, or be put in place of regeneration.

It may help us to answer the question by looking into the meaning of the word Evangelism. The Greek word "Evangel" and the English word "Gospel" mean the same, that is, "Good News" or "Good Tidings."

Evangelism is therefore the telling of the Good News of the Gospel of Christ to the children, and winning them to Christ, or persuading them to yield their lives to Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord. It is the regeneration of the individual soul.

Faith And Prayer

Faith is rudimental; prayer is monumental. One is a cornerstone on which all is built; the other a capstone in which all that is built reaches a climax of completeness.

A Trip To Africa

Have you ever wished you were a missionary's child so you could take a trip to Africa or some other foreign land? Perhaps you have wondered how it would seem for your playmates to be children with a different colored skin. When she was a very little girl, Mrs. Harold Dunning, who was then Marguerite Gribble, went with her father and mother to Africa. Letters which her mother wrote for her at that time tell some interesting things about her first days in Africa.

Loanda, Portuguese W. Africa
Feb. 23, 1918

I wish you could see me now running around the broad veranda of the big mission house at St. Paul de Loanda. I am hand in hand with a little girl a few shades darker and a few inches taller than myself. My mamma is sitting in a rocking chair on the veranda, writing this for me, and every time I come where she is I say, "Mamma, I am afraid." Do you know why I am afraid? It is because the little girl is black. Put mamma puts her arms around the little black girl, and pats her little hand and says, "What a nice little girl you are!" So I go around the big veranda another time, wondering as I go why she should be so black, and my own little hand looks so white as it lies in hers. Mamma tells me many things from the Bible about Jesus, and He is helping me to love this little black girl, who is indeed very kind to me.

We have had a pleasant time here at Loanda, which is our second stop since we left New Orleans. One was because our boat was leaking, the other was for cargo. We are very glad to be in Africa, but mamma says she will be gladder still when we at last reach our destination.

Test Your Knowledge Of The Bible

Let's play a game of A's. The names of all the following Bible characters begin with A. The dashes tell the number of letters in each name. Every character whose name you can complete without looking it up counts ten points. Those you complete after looking them up count 5 points. What is your score?

A — — —. The first man who ever lived. Gen. 3:20.

A — — —. The wickedest of all the kings. I Ki. 21:25.

A — — — —. The priest whose rod budded. Num. 17:8.

A — — — — —. The man who was called the friend of God. James 2:23.

A — — — — —. The king who made Esther queen. Esth. 1:1, 17.

A — — — — —. David's son who was noted for his thick hair. II Sam. 14:25-26.

A — — — — —. The man who took his brother to Jesus. Jn. 1:40-42.

A — — —. A prophetess in the temple when Jesus was a baby. Lu. 2:36-37.

A — — —. The man whom Cain killed. Gen. 4:8.

A — — —. One of Judah's very best kings. I Ki. 15:11.

The first article from our Personal Problem editor, answering a question concerning worldly amusements, will appear in an early issue of The Brethren Missionary Herald. Be sure to watch for this, as you will not want to miss a Scriptural discussion of this timely subject.

Sh-h! Don't tell anybody, but we need your pastor's birthday and favorite Scripture verse right away. Don't wait for someone else to tend to this, as we're in a big hurry. Call your pastor right now, get the information, and drop a card to your news editor. And remember, don't tell anybody.

A new Christian Endeavor Society for the Junior High age has recently been started in our home mission church in San Diego. We always watch with interest the progress of C. E. in our new churches.

How To Conduct A Young People's Society Meeting

(I Tim. 4:1-16)

Suggestions for the Leader

One of the most active Christian Endeavor workers in Pennsylvania once said that it took only one person out of a group to make a society successful. He meant that one person on fire for Christian Endeavor could save the society and make it go. That is as much as to say that any society that is dead or dying must have no one to care, at least no one feels able to do anything about it.

Today we do have a problem of leadership. After we have the proper leaders in active work every problem will be easily met. For any young person to reach out to be a leader among young people means that he looks forward to a noble work. Eternity will reveal how many persons were led to accept the Lord because someone was interested enough in them to do a work for their salvation. Can you say that because you have lived others have come to know the Lord?

There are many little things to be done in a public meeting that contribute to its success. We simply can not remember all of these at one time, but constant care will help any leader to be able to do better and accomplish more work. Remember that the Lord's work ought to be done decently and in order. Any meeting ought to have a purpose that is greater than simply to have another place to go and something to do. It seems that the original idea of Christian Endeavor was to bring young people to Christ and strengthen those who were already Christian.

Most every person has a feeling of timidity at the first. This ought not hinder one's work for the Lord. Timidity can be overcome. A person must develop a certain amount of self confidence. Then, too, remember to trust in the Lord. We ought to go to a meeting with a prayer that the Lord will help us and supply the needs.

1. Preparation. 2 Tim. 2:15; 1 Tim. 4:15-16.

It is wrong to think that any person can lead prayer meeting without preparation. The leader must know what the topic is about and what to suggest to make the meeting interesting. These things can come about only through study. The Bible does say that we are supposed to study to show ourselves approved unto God.

In our day school work, the teachers make assignments and expect the pupils to bring in their home work. Nearly every school boy and girl knows what home work is. Now if the teachers feel that each lesson requires a special preparation, how much more should be given to that which deals with the Word of God!

Unless proper preparation is made it is not fair to the speakers. Let them know in plenty of time that you want them to speak during the meeting as they have preparation to make too.

Prayer is an important factor in a leader's preparation. No one has a right to attempt a service in which the Word of God is handled without praying for guidance and leadership.

2. A Good Beginning. Ps. 147; Eph. 5:19.

If the meeting is to have any inspiration and life in it, most likely it will come in the early part of the service. Therefore the success often depends upon the start of the meeting. Select a good song of praise. Do not use some old song that puts half the people asleep. Of course there are extremes and we do not aim to use the wrong songs at either end. This all proves that a leader ought to be careful with the details of the meeting. Do not let any art of it "drag." Sometimes it is fitting to have an invitation song for the first. It will call the people to worship. Get songs that go with the subject under discussion.

Promptness always pays. Try to be one of those persons always on time. It is a trait that is commendable in any person and desirable by those who look for good things in another's life. If you start on time and let it be known that you expect to continue to do so, others will develop a habit of promptness. We ought to have a way to express our feeling of sympathy to those who are always late. No matter what time is set, they are late anyway.

Those people who did come out are going to watch what is done at the very start. Try to have a good beginning and the rest will come easily.

3. A Place of Prayer. 1 Tim. 2:1-8.

If we believe in the importance and power of prayer, we ought to be concerned in making our prayers meaningful and not merely following a form. It is possible that in a prayer meeting people might pray by saying words and yet not have their hearts in it.

When we pray in public it ought to be as an urge from the Holy Spirit and be to the point. Certainly there are things that are placed upon us to be items of special prayer. Requests and needs should be honored as a ministry of intercessory prayer.

There is always a place for quietness before the Lord that He would be able to speak to us. Silent prayer brings us to the place where we let the things of the world flee away and we can think on things of the Spirit.

This is a day when we need young men and women to be consistent in prayer. How wonderful it is for any church to have youth that are interested enough in the Lord's work to be faithful in prayer. It is a sign of spiritual growth and the lack of it is also a sign of a dwarfed spiritual life. The future of our church will be bright from the time we can see scores of young people prevailing with God in prayer. Never think that it is overdone in the C. E. meeting. Pre-prayer — sentence or chain prayers and others — are always wonderful and should bring us closer to God.

4. Special Features. 2 Tim. 1:6; Ps. 107:2.

Young people have many talents and gifts that differ. It is a wise C. E. organization that is able to recognize these and use them for the good of the cause of Christ. Nearly everybody likes to hear special features. Music, poems, testimony and such have a real place in a worship program. There are cases where men have been converted through the singing of a song or hearing a testimony.

Remember that these things can be over done. Try to have a happy use of them and not crowd the main discussion of the topic. After all, the matter of salvation is the most important. We need constantly to honor the Lord and present Him as the only hope of the world. He alone can save. It is our purpose to have every part of the meeting directed toward this one thing.

One lack that is noticeable in our meeting is the matter of testimony. Really we ought to have some word that we should say for the Lord. In some places young people never bear a testimony. To try to develop a testimony meeting during the year would be a great thing for the society.

5. Seek to Understand. Matt. 13:19, 23.

The prayer meeting will never mean much to us unless we put ourselves into it. We need to keep our minds upon the topic and seek for something that will be of benefit to us. If there is anything said that seems strange to us, we ought to ask about it in order that we might understand.

According to the parable of the Sower and the Seed, there was a different reception of the seed. It all depended upon the nature of the soil. In some cases the hearts of the people are hard or filled with other things and the Word of God can not have free access. It is a matter of concern to each of us that our hearts are open to the truth. Be ready and willing to be led into the things of the Spirit. He can take of the Word and make it clear to us.

The more we make something out of the meeting, the more interest will be shown. Any problem along this line can be solved by asking the Lord to stir up within you a hunger and thirst for the Bible knowledge and a love for it.

6. The Necessity of Action. John 13:17; James 1:22-25.

Once a speaker said that it was easy to preach or teach, but quite a different matter to live the gospel. This means that we must be extremely careful in our behaviour if others will come to know the Lord Jesus because we have lived for Him.

Talk is cheap and we do hear many things. Even our discussions in these meetings will avail but little unless we are ready to go out to live what we learn. The Lord will reveal His will to us little by little. Unless we are true to the trust that He gives, and do something for Him, however small, He will hardly call on us to do something great. This means that we ought to be true to the commission that comes to us and then be ready for greater tasks.

"Leaders of meetings remember much more than others, partly because they have studied it and partly because they have done something to put it into action."

7. The Close of the Meeting. Rom. 12:1.

Much of the value of a meeting depends upon the close of the discussion. There is a necessity for application that can be handled in different ways. There should be a consecration song used in some cases to suggest yieldedness to the Lord. Then, too an invitation song is always proper because we cannot tell how near a person is to accepting the Lord. It would be a good thing for decisions to be made in the meeting. Of course it has always been customary for a person to come before the church to make a public decision for Christ. The Christian Endeavor does not want to take undue rights here and we expect converts to meet the church requirement before becoming members. On the other hand, a step toward becoming a Christian in a C. E. meeting will make it easier in the other service.

Let the leader make some summaries or draw some lessons at the close for every person present. The repetition of the most outstanding thoughts will make an impression upon the minds of all.

Questions to be answered

1. What is the value of testimony in a prayer meeting?
2. What decision should be made before one becomes a Christian?
3. How can we put something in a meeting in order to get something out of it?
4. Do you think that the Lord holds us responsible for good order in a meeting? 1 Cor. 14:40.
5. What does it mean to say that we should pray in the Spirit?
6. How can we best put in action the things we learn in a C. E. discussion?

JUNIOR TOPIC FOR JAN. 28

Sin Is Too Expensive

Aim: To show the importance of turning immediately to Jesus for cleansing from sin, whether one is unsaved or whether he is saved and has fallen into sin.

Approach to the lesson

Ask each child what he wants most of all and how much he would be willing to pay for it. Write these facts on the blackboard. If any of the prices are far more than the objects are worth, show how expensive that thing would be. If not, multiply the actual price by ten, and ask what they would think of anyone who would pay that much. Then show that sin is always very costly. It may look delightful, appealing, and enjoyable, but it always costs far more than it is worth. That is why anyone is a fool to play with sin (Prov. 14:9).

Illustrations

Cain would not let God cleanse him from his sins, and it cost him earthly happiness and fellowship with God. Gen. 4; Lesson 4, True Stories from the Long Ago.

David wanted a beautiful woman, and had her husband killed so he could marry her. It cost him his son's life. II Sam. 11; Lesson 58, True Stories from the Long Ago.

Ananias and Sapphira lied to God, and it cost them their lives. Acts 5; Lesson 133, True Stories from the Long Ago.

In contrast, Nehemiah made confession of sins, and God blessed him mightily and made him a great blessing. Neh. 1-6; Lessons 101-102, True Stories from the Long Ago.

Conclusion

God has good news for you. He sent Jesus to save you from your sins (1 Tim. 1:15). Now is the time to let Him do it if you have not already done so (II Cor. 6:12).

In Ps. 32 David tells of a great discovery he made. When he kept silent (did not confess his sins) he was miserable, but as soon as he confessed them, God forgave him. If we are saved, let us remember and obey I Jn. 1:9.

To keep sin out of your life, study and heed God's Word (Ps. 119:9-11).

NEWS Briefs From Our Workers

By Robert Culver

News We're All Glad to Hear: The Second Church of Los Angeles has recently called Walter W. Lepp, student at the Bible Institute of Los Angeles, to be Assistant Pastor and Director of Music. In this capacity he will begin his association with the pastor, Paul R. Bauman, about February 1.

Bulletins from the following churches, containing prominent announcements of the publication of The Brethren Missionary Herald, crossed the writers desk this week: Tracy, Calif., Fort Wayne, Ind., Peru, Ind., Whittier, Calif., South Gate, Calif., and Middlebranch, Ohio.

Practically every church that has made any kind of report states that its offering for home missions is far in excess of last year's offering. Perhaps these reports are only evidence of renewed spiritual vigor in the churches. Many reports, like the following from the Rittman, Ohio church of which L. L. Grubb is pastor, so indicate. "Praise the Lord for the salvation of four souls over the last week-end." Equally encouraging is the note from the bulletin of the church in San Diego, of which Albert Flory is pastor, that two had been baptized and received into the church the week preceding.

Some Typical Signs of Health in a New Church: A goal of $400 for home missions passed; a young man of the church in training for the ministry, home preaching in the pastor's place over the Christmas week-end; a men's gospel team in full swing; a layman, converted since the founding of the church, now moved from the locality but conducting a large Bible class, busy for the Lord, in the place to which he has moved; a Bible Conference to begin soon. The church? Covington, Virginia. The pastor? Bernard N. Schneider. The young minister? Phillip J. Simmons. The layman? George C. DeHart of Carthage, Virginia.

Five Iowa Churches, Williamsburg, Garwin, Waterloo, Leon, and Dallas Center, cooperated in a Brethren Bible Conference November 24-26. The conference was held in the Dallas Center church of which James Cook recently became pastor. Speakers for the conference were Professor Herman A. Hoyt of Grace Theological Seminary; Harold S. Parks, pastor of the Garwin Church; Miles Tabor, pastor of the Leon Church; and R. H. Kettel of Marengo, Iowa. Attendants at the conference organized themselves into an association to be called the Iowa Brethren Bible Conference. Enthusiastic reports of the conference relate that it was a great spiritual and inspirational help to all the churches.

THIS WEEK'S POEM

Questioning

I asked the New Year, "What am I to do
The whole year through?"
The answer came,
"Be true."

I asked again, "And what am I to say
To those who pass my way?"
"The kindest words," he said,
"That you can say."

"What thoughts am I to think, day long, year long?"
And clearly as a quick-struck gong,
The answer,
"Think no wrong."

"And what roads take across the earth's worn sod Where many feet have trod?"
Swift came the answer—
"Those that lead to God."

—Grace Noll Crowell.

Two Times To Preach

It is said that an old time English bishop sent for John Berridge to reprove him for preaching at all hours and on all days. "Sir," said he modestly, "I preach only two times" "Which are they, Mr. Berridge?" "In season and out of season, my lord" (2 Tim. 4:2).

Pointed Paragraphs

Charles Spurgeon once said, "Why should I dread to descend the shaft of affliction if it leads me to the gold mine of spiritual experience? Why should I cry out if the sun of my prosperity goes down, if in the darkness of my adversity I shall be better able to count the starry promises with which my faithful God has been pleased to gem the sky? Go, thou sun, for in the dark we shall see ten thousand suns which were hidden from us by thy light. Many a promise is written in synthetic ink which you cannot read until the fire of trouble brings out the characters."

Five "Ifs" To Beware Of

1. "If thou wilt." Luke 5:12. Doubt of divine willingness.
2. "If thou canst." Mark 9:22. Doubt of divine power.
3. "If I may." Matt. 9:21. Doubt of personal fitness.
4. "If it be thou." Matt. 14:28. Doubt of divine word.
5. "If the Lord would make windows in heaven."
2 Kings 7:2. Doubt of divine providence.

A Child's Prayer

"Whoso shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me" (Matt. 18:5).

A missionary lady had a little Hindu orphan named Shadi living with her. She had taught him about Jesus, and one night, when he was six years old, she said to him: "Now pray a little prayer of your own." And what do you think Shadi's prayer was? It was this: "Dear Jesus, make me like what you were when you were six years old."—Pacific Baptist.

When Children Become Christians

A teacher asked when children should begin to be Christians. One child said, "At thirteen;" another, "At ten;" another, "At six." But a little girl who loved Jesus answered, "As soon as they can understand enough to love anybody."

—Christian Endeavor Times.

Words From Lovers Of The Word

W. H. Griffith Thomas, D. D.

"The seed is the Word of God." (Luke 8:11). I am convinced that every great truth that has ever been expressed by the lips of men or ever will be expressed, whether they knew of the existence of the Bible or not, has its seed in the Word of God. There is absolutely no incentive to great thinking in the world to compare with Bible study, and when I say great thinking I mean clear thinking."

T. R. Miller.

"If we would live strong, noble, beautiful, radiant and useful Christian lives, we must get seasons of secret prayer into our busy days. But we must take our Bible with us into the closet. While we talk to God we must also let God talk to us. God feeds us through His word. Seasons of prayer without meditation on some word of God cannot yield the full blessing that we need."

James Stalker.

"Bible reading requires the whole force of our thinking. The Bible will richly repay study, but only if the conditions are observed which common sense dictates. It has no power to work a charm so that a chapter can be read in a few minutes with a preoccupied mind, to much profit. The mind must rest upon it, give itself time to receive impressions. It requires the whole force of our thinking and the whole force of our feeling."

Bible Briefs

In Paul's letter to the Ephesians, he has seven times spoken of "one": "one body," "one Spirit," "one hope," "one Lord," "one faith," "one baptism," and "one God" (Eph. 4:4).

Please note that the three "ones" precede the "one Lord," and three "ones" follow the "one Lord." So HE is the center of these seven ones.

Christianity has suffered little from those who bear not the name of Christ. It has suffered much from those who do.

The secret of a Christian's life is to walk upon a narrow path with a wide heart.

The true Christian is like the figure 6. Turning it upside down only increases its value.

The puddle does not contain the heavens, but it reflects them. Can we not reflect the Master's image?

The Bible, like the star, was not meant to dispel the darkness, but it was meant to guide the mariner.

The most helpful commentary on the Bible is affliction.

Literature is a gymnasium. Go there to stir up the blood. The Bible is a pantry. Go there for something to eat.

The everyday Christian has seven chances to the Sunday fellow's one.

It is much easier to die bravely for religion than to live bravely for it.

Men are religious naturally. They are Christians supernaturally.

It may cost you a lot to be a Christian now. It will cost you a heap more later not to be.

In the street you learn a man's manners; at home, his breeding; at church, his creed; in the shop, his religion.

To be on the way to heaven is to be already partly in heaven.

Some men use their religion only as a life preserver; only during a storm.

Men are clamoring for "religious liberty." What they really want is irreligious liberty.

That is true Christianity which enables even the poor to become givers and even the rich to become receivers.

The evidences of Christianity which were never meant to be out of print are the lives of Christians.

To see earth, open your eyes. To see heaven, shut them.

In the early centuries Christianity suffered most from its avowed enemies. In recent years it suffers most from its professed friends.

No binding to the Bible is lasting that is not sewn together with scarlet thread.

WALKING WITH GOD

Who walks with God must take his way
Across far distances and gray
To goals that others do not see,
Where others do not care to be.
Who walks with God must have no fear
When danger and defeat appear,
Nor stop when every hope seems gone,
For God, our God, moves ever on.

Who walks with God must press ahead
When sun or cloud is overhead,
When all the waiting thousands cheer,
Or when they only stop to sneer;
When all the challenge leaves the hours
And naught is left but jaded powers.
But he will someday reach the dawn,
For God, our God, moves ever on.

You are never in danger on the precipice of life when you walk with God.

WE WISH TO THANK YOU

Just eleven months ago The Brethren Herald was born. We were just preparing for our first anniversary next month when we found that, in order that our testimony for Christ should have unity, we should have a weekly national magazine. Now the Herald is being enlarged to take in our foreign mission work and all the other departments of our Brethren work and become a weekly under the name of "The Brethren Missionary Herald."

In this, our first issue of the new magazine, we wish to voice our sincere gratitude to all our readers who helped us with many letters and words of encouragement to make the Herald a blessing to many. The growth of the circulation of our magazine was most gratifying. The last two months have seen the largest growth of all. We also wish to speak our hearty appreciation for the wonderful help given us by the authors who wrote such splendid and challenging articles for the pages of the Herald. No small amount of our success was due to them. Above all we thank our Father God for His blessing, without which nothing could have been done. We only trust that He has been pleased with our work.

We earnestly entreat that our readers will all give as loyal and hearty support to the Brethren Missionary Herald.

Send in your dollar for your subscription at once. Get the first copy!

We Welcome the New Magazine

Our December issue was the last issue of The Brethren Herald.

Beginning with this number, all material that would have appeared in The Brethren Herald is found in this, our new weekly magazine, The Brethren Missionary Herald. In this new magazine, the first issue of every month will be the Foreign Missionary Number. The second issue of the month will be the Educational Number. The third issue of each month will be the Home Missionary Number. The fourth issue of each month will be the Women's Missionary Council Number, and general material.

THE PRICE OF THE NEW MAGAZINE IS ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR!

This low price was based on the belief that we could get 5000 subscriptions for it at once. That is the only way that such a low price could be maintained at all.

Because of this low price there will be no allowance made for gifts to the various mission boards.

If the members of the Brethren churches really want a magazine with life and power in it, now is the time to get busy and send in these 5000 subscriptions.

Pastors, now is the time for you to get busy and get this new magazine into every home in your congregation. It will work wonders in your church.

Our "Unceasing Prayer" Band

"But prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God" (Acts 12:5).

*"Thou art coming to a King!
Large petitions with thee bring,
For His grace and power are such,
None can ever ask too much."*

1. Pray for Israel. Remember in a definite way the Jewish Mission in Los Angeles, Calif., which is under the care of the Home Missions Council. Ask God to bless the ministry of Elias Zimmerman, who is in charge of this work. Share the rewards that come with having a part in winning lost Jews to Christ.

2. The Lord has placed in the hands of the Home Missions Council the responsibility and care of many new fields. Pray that our Thanksgiving offering may be sufficient to meet the tremendous need.

3. The Wooster work needs your help in prayer. God is opening a real field in this gospel-hungry city. Pray that God shall use the testimony of John Squires and his wife as they take charge of this new work.

4. A great field in Waterloo, Ia., is prospering under the hand of God. The laymen are going right ahead with the work and have already started a new building. Hold these people up before the throne of grace and pray for their work.

5. Arnold Kriegbaum entered the new field in East Los Angeles January 15th. Pray for a great outpouring of God's grace upon his ministry in that wonderful field. Watch this work as you pray and see it grow.

6. Here is a great need in Kentucky. Pray for Sewell and Hazel Landrum as they carry on the school evangelism which is being wonderfully blessed of the Lord. Remember them also as they undertake the construction of the new building which they plan to build themselves.

Does God Love Jews More Than Gentiles?

Recently an attendant at one of our meetings came to the writer and asked, "Why are the Jews called the chosen people? Are they better than the Gentiles? Does God intend to save the Jews in spite of their sins? Doesn't it seem that God is showing them favoritism? The Jews that I know are not very attractive characters."

This question has been asked a thousand times, the doubts soaring from the idea that because the Jews are called the chosen people, therefore God has decided to save them just because they are Jews regardless of how they live, but that the Gentiles have to pay for their sins! It is an entirely erroneous conception of things. The reason they are called the chosen people is not because God has decided to save them and bless them regardless of their sins. It is because they were chosen to be the people through whom God would reveal Himself to the world of nations. God the Father had promised Abraham that through him and his seed all the nations of the earth would be blessed. Gen. 12:3, 7; Gal. 3:16; Rom. 3:2. To be chosen as the people through whom Jesus Christ, the Savior of the world, should come as pertaining to the flesh, and to be the people to whom God has committed His own revelation of His will to all the world, is the high charge to Israel.

True it is that they rejected the will of God, and refused to be His "oracles" of His Word to the world. True it is that they rejected the "Divine Seed," the "Blessed," "The Light of the Gentiles and of my people Israel," and cried for His crucifixion. Nevertheless, the "calling of God is without repentance": Israel is still the chosen people. They will not be excused of their sins. They will not be saved except through faith in Christ. For 2000 years poor Israel has been paying an awful price for violating their high calling and rejecting their Messiah. Finally, through the chastisement of the hand of God upon them, they will return to their homeland, and receive their Messiah when He returns to reign. Zech. 14:3, 4; 12:10. It won't be long now.

We Could Hardly Believe It !

While browsing through a newspaper the other day we ran across a most astounding report of an address supposed to have been given by a Brethren preacher in a Methodist church. No criticism could be had of a Brethren preacher in a Methodist pulpit, for there are still some Methodists who like to hear good Brethren gospel. But when we read the following report of what this preacher said to those Methodists as a Brethren preacher, we confess to a spirit of resentment. Here is what we read:—

"There are four fundamental facts which all may understand and which must be embraced and adhered to if civilization is to survive.

"First: God is my Father.

"Second: If God is my Father, then all men are my brothers.** Certainly then we must be considerate, kind and helpful toward the members of every race.

"Third: This world in which I live is my temporal home.***** —a beautiful, preparatory school in which to labor and strive to be fit to live in the world beyond.

"Fourth: Heaven is my eternal home.****"

This is modernism pure and simple. There is no place in this scheme for an "old rugged cross." The "fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man" sounds very nice, but it is utterly deceptive. Such an idea is wholly contrary to the gospel of Jesus Christ. It ignores the need of a Savior. It is noted that Christ is not so much as considered in the above scheme of salvation—Christ becomes merely an example in such a plan of things.

Not all men are sons of God by any means. The devil is the father of some men. "Ye are of your father the devil" (John 8:44), shouted Jesus Christ to the self-righteous Pharisees who claimed to be sons of God (spiritual sons) simply because they traced their lineage back to Abraham (John 8:41). The Apostle John in I John 3:10 declares plainly that there are two classes of people in the world spiritually speaking, "The children of God and the children of the devil."

These two concepts cannot both be true. If all men are by nature sons of God, then they need no Savior, they need no new birth. All they need to do is to "labor and strive to be fit to live in the world beyond" as the preacher is reported to have stated above. He is consistent and thorough-going in his ideas to say the least. But to discover that it was a Brethren preacher setting forth such an unsound and utterly modernistic message is astounding indeed. How such a message can be tolerated among those who claim to be 'Historic Brethren' is beyond our ken.

Is This Daniel's League Of Nations?

"The Federated Nations of Europe," is already being planned to be formed as soon as the present war is over. With the three fold aim of ending the war, bringing in lasting peace, and preserving democracy, a strong and swiftly growing movement among the liberals of Europe and America, headed by Lord David Davies, member of British parliament, is already under way.

United Press dispatches carry the news that it is planned for Great Britain, France, Holland, and the United States of America to form the foundation of this great coalition of countries already committed to the democratic form of government. It is planned that they should pool all their resources financially and materially, so as to be so strong that no other nations could obtain sufficient raw materials to wage a successful war against these democratic nations, thereby making this world "safe for democracy." It is hoped that to this group of nations may be added other western European countries until a permanent world peace would be a reality and no nation would be strong enough to oppose this powerful association of governments.

The prophet Daniel, in 2:41-42 of his book, plainly reveals that the last form of the old Roman Empire will be a common federation of ten nations of varying colors of political preference, part of iron, and part of clay. This condition shall persist till the "Stone cut out without hands" shall smite the whole setup and instead bring in the "kingdoms of our God and of His Christ." Can it be that now, after it has seemed that the league of Nations has been thought dead and past reviving, it shall suddenly be found attractive to the nations of occidental Europe, and shall be raised up and be used to bring about the last form of the nations constituting the Old Roman Empire as Daniel has so clearly foretold?

Is This Gog And Magog?

Representative Harold Knutsen of Minnesota has just disclosed the startling information that when he was at the Inter-parliamentary Union Conference as a Congressional representative held at Oslo, Sweden, in August, he learned on first hand authority that a Federation of European Nations was also the goal of Adolf Hitler, of Germany. His alliances with Italy, and his absorption of Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, and Poland, and lastly, his sudden coup with Soviet Russia, were a part of this plan of his.

If both of the above federations are carried out, the Word of God will be fulfilled in a most remarkable way. From Ezek. 38:1-4, 6 it is quite evident that there will be a coalition of Germany with Russia and Turkey and Armenia, with Russia becoming the dominating element and Germany losing her identity. In the windup of the age during the tribulation period when antichrist will be sweeping across the world, these nations in one group will form the fiercest antagonist against the reign of antichrist in Western Europe.

What a thrilling day for the Christian who knows his Bible to stand and observe the wondrous Word of God being unfolded and fulfilled right before his eyes! What a strength to his faith it should be! He knows that while Satan is forming the nations of the world for their last great conflicts of self - destruction, our Lord Jesus Christ will also soon appear to establish His kingdom over all the earth when "righteousness shall cover the earth as waters the sea." Hurry, Lord, the skies are getting dark!

Higher criticism is a torrent which, rising in the mountain, may be harmless to the mountain, but it is sure to bring devastation to the valley.

ACROSS THE NATION

—with Our Secretary

Sterling, Ohio Revival

After 25 years of evangelistic work within The Brethren Church, we went to Sterling, Ohio, to preach in a church which we had never entered before. There are mighty few churches among the Brethren in which we have not labored, but this was one of them. It was a pleasure to labor there from the start. The first night found the church building practically full. It was a fine beginning. The spirit in the meetings was always good from the start. John Squires, the pastor, had done a good work in preparation. While we were there those two weeks we had a fine delegation from the West Tenth Street Brethren Church of Ashland, Ohio, and we were glad to see Brother Mayes and his people. Brother Lew Grubb brought a fine group over from his Rittman church one night. One night Ray Gingrich brought over a group from his Ellet congregation. But the way the folks from the new congregation at Wooster came night after night was a real treat. Those folks are surely full of the Spirit and enthusiasm for the establishment of their new work in their city.

We studied this field carefully while there and have concluded that from several angles, there is a real need for the Sterling church in that community. While the town is small, yet there is no real testimony for Christ in that section outside of our congregation. The church is strong and vigorous and has been growing in spite of many handicaps. We believe that they will grow more swiftly in the future than in the past. There is a fine spirit of confidence among the members in their own field, and that is a lot when it comes to success. They already have an addition started to their church building for Sunday School and young people's services. This is a sizeable addition and the best part about it is that they already have the money raised to pay for it. It will likely be dedicated without a cent of debt on it. That is most commendable and seldom equaled.

We had a fine time among the people. They have a fine spirit of hospitality. Our home was with Brother John Squires and his wife, and it was a most pleasant stay I can assure you. This young pastor and his faithful wife have a very fine prayer life. This is a wonderful thing and will do more to make them the leaders they should be, and to help them to solve the problems that are ever facing those who seek to build up the cause of Christ than anything else could possibly do. It is hard for the devil to destroy a praying man, but he will try it.

Among the many who made decisions during the meeting was the Sunday School Superintendent. He is a most promising young man who feels the call to preach the gospel. As soon as he can make arrangements he plans to attend Grace Theological Seminary. God is raising up men for His expanding fields today.

All in all, it was a very fine meeting, and we were happy to have had a part in it. May these dear folks keep close to Jesus Christ..

Frank G. Coleman, Jr. Goes To Waterloo

Waterloo is booming right along. This group was hardly organized when they bought a piece of ground and drew plans for a beautiful tabernacle type structure. On October 20 they started digging the basement. And dirt has been flying ever since! They expect to be in their new church home shortly. We will carry the story of the dedication and give all the details of the work then.

The securing of a pastor for Waterloo has been a matter of prayer for some time. It now appears that we have found the will of the Lord in the matter. Rev. Frank G. Coleman has consented to take charge of that field April 1st. The congregation has unanimously approved of the choice and the directors of the Council have also approved. We believe that he will be greatly used of God to build a great work in that city and win a multitude of souls. He will have a mighty fine group of people to work with, a people that any pastor would delight to have in his church.

New Location In Kentucky

Since Brother Sewell Landrum was dismissed by the old Home Mission Board in September, he and his people have been seeking a new location for their work. After these weeks of praying and waiting, God has sent us the very best location that could be had. It is about one half acre, four miles on up the highway toward Hazard. It is right on the highway which does away with the need of bridges of any kind, and is above the highest water yet known in that section. The site was formerly used as a school ground and is level and ready for building on at once. It is far superior to the former location at Lost Creek, which has been badly flooded many times and was under several feet of water this last spring. One of the large landholders in that section, Mrs. Allen, deeded the property to the Council as a gift. Road-houses and gas stations had applied for the purchase of it at good prices, but she chose to give it to us for the preaching of the gospel. We praise God for this, which is very evidently His own doing.

A New Thing In Day Schools

After looking over the new site on our recent trip to Limestone, Tennessee, we drove over to the Caney School, where Clyde Landrum, Brother of Sewell, is principal. No sooner had we arrived, than Clyde began gathering the students from every room into the main hall that we might talk to them. That was a real sight for anyone. I wish every reader could have seen it. The hall was full, the stairways were crowded in each direction. All children gave perfect attention. First of all, Sewell led the children in singing gospel choruses. And let me tell you, those children sing. You would have thought that you were in one of our finest churches where children have been well trained in the gospel for years. Then he asked for Scripture verses. That was the best of all. Every pupil had a different verse, and each one also told where it was found after he recited it. There wasn't a dull moment as those 300 children responded. We learned that there would have been many more verses, but for the fact that some of them toward the close had heard recited all of the verses they knew, and they were ashamed to repeat a verse that someone else had spoken! The atmosphere of that school was simply fine. The teachers were sympathetic and helpful and did all they could to lend their influence to the work. Sewell has done a great work in this school among these children, but of course much of his success has been due to the fine cooperation of Clyde, who loves the Lord, and who has the making of a real preacher himself. We hope to have him in Grace Seminary next year. He has his college work already. Sewell has several other schools aside from this school where he does the same work every week.

A Call For Pity

While standing there watching the children march back to their rooms, Mr. Mize Landrum, the father of Sewell and Clyde, was standing beside me. He pointed out one little fellow about seven years old. He was undersized because under-nourished. "All that little chap has on is a thin shirt and a pair of overalls," he said. It was cold that day and we were both wearing our overcoats. "His father is a drunkard." He pointed out several other little fellows just like him. It would make your heart ache to see that sight. The little chaps can't help it that their home conditions are as they are. To put some warm clothes on that little boy's body and tell him that Jesus sent them is a real privilege for someone. Little children's clothes are greatly needed this fall down there. Brother Landrum reports that very few clothes for children have been sent down this fall. Most of it has been for grown-ups. Here is a chance for some kind hearted mothers whose little children have outgrown their clothes to send them down at once to Sewell. Be sure and address all packages to Sewell Landrum. Parcel post addressed to him at Lost Creek, Kentucky, is the best way. All express should be sent to him at Jackson, Ky.

Ready To Build

The crying need for this Kentucky work right now is for a building in which to carry on the work. Brother Landrum is now using a room in the school, but it is too small to hold near all of the children and adults who want to come to the services. Our local people have offered to do the labor, and the lumber is being provided by local people. There is a sawmill right across the road from the new site and this will enable us to get materials cut to need. But the local folks will need help to provide the windows and the doors, and roofing and paint. We are praying that God will lay it on someone's heart to provide these needs. We have no doubt about it, for He has so clearly led in all other things. Then we will need a cottage for the pastor next door. God will provide them one at a time. Let the praying folks remember these needs.

Our New Publications Setup

A group of Brethren have now formed The Brethren Missionary Herald Company. This company is designed to take over and produce all of the literature our churches will need. The aim is to produce a type of literature that will properly set forth the things that all true Brethren believe, to provide literature that can be used to hand to the unsaved and others to whom we should desire to bear witness to the truth. We aim to become a people that is fired with the spirit of spreading the gospel everywhere.

Cleveland Now Has A Church Home

Just as we are going to press word comes that Cleveland Brethren are now in their new church!

For 5 years, ever since they started, our young church at Cleveland, Ohio has had no church home at all. They have been meeting in public school buildings. Five years of such experience for a new group of people is not conducive to success by any means. The fact that these years of waiting, disappointment, and trials have not discouraged them bears eloquent testimony to the untiring faith and leadership of Brother Tom Hammers, the faithful pastor. Many a time his heart has been like lead over the situation, but he has never once voiced it. Now he will have a real chance to build up a real church.

It was hard for many of us to understand why the many attempts that we had made to get a new church built for these folks had all come to naught. We believe we can see now why it was. God had something letter. He has sent us a  $3\frac{1}{2}$  acre estate right on Noble Road. It is a better location than we could have even dreamed of because of the high prices of sites on that main thoroughfare.

The house is so constructed that it is ideal for church services without one bit of alteration. It has plenty of rooms for Sunday School classes. It is well built, with hardwood floors throughout. There is also a five room house on the grounds for use as a parsonage, and a two-car garage with cement floor. The grounds are spacious for growth in days to come.

The property has been a private home every since it was constructed 20 years ago, and is in fine shape.

Wooster Church Is Now A Fact

Finding a location for the new congregation at Wooster, Ohio, has been an easy one. The first plan we had was to buy a vacant lot and build a tabernacle. Just as we were about to buy the ground we had in mind, by a quick turn of affairs it was sold to another man and we were without anything in sight. But it seems that God had something for us all the time and we did not know it. That is one reason why it always pays to keep close to God and be willing to let Him lead you to what He has for you. Twice as we passed through the city we made arrangements with the men of the new group to look over large homes that were well located. Vacant ground was simply unobtainable in good locations. Finally we were led to a property just a few doors from the high school, on Market Street, with all improvements in, and in a wonderful residential section, just a few blocks from the center of the city. The price was within our range, and so we bought it. Several loyal Brethren loaned the Council the money to make the deal and now we have possession and the folks are busy at the alterations, expecting to hold their first services in it by the first Sunday in January. The people are enthused over their new church home and are working day and night to get it ready. God is blessing them and they are rejoicing in His wonderful leading. A sample of the wonderful spirit among them was shown when, on the last night our meeting at Sterling, Brother Johnson, the treasurer of the new group, handed us their Thanksgiving offering. It was $94! For a people who as yet have no pastor and no church to meet in, that seems to us as being pretty good. That is always the way when the hearts of the people are truly stirred for God. Brother John Squires plans to take over the pastorate at Wooster on January 1st, and after that we can look for reports of real progress. Pray for this new work daily.

NEWS BRIEFS

From Our Workers

By Robert Culver

A Building Boom! That is what seems to be going on in the East Central District of Brethren Churches.

The Sterling, O. Church, where Bro. John Squires has been pastor for two years, is completing an extensive addition to their church building, in the form of a Sunday School wing that may be opened into the main auditorium. It is reported that this will increase the capacity of the building by about one hundred persons.

The husky new church at Wooster, O., where Bro. Squires became pastor January 1, 1940, has recently secured a building which is to be altered for use as an auditorium and for Sunday School rooms.

Pastor Tom Hammers of the Cleveland, O. Church, which has been praying for a building of its own and a permanent location these past few years, reports that they have at last secured a good building. The church had bought two lots upon which they had planned to build. Recently they have traded lots for a large estate upon which there is a commodious building, easily adaptable to church purposes with little alteration.

There is evidence, too, that while there is some building of church buildings, there is also some building of churches. The West Tenth Street Church of Ashland, reports a successful Young People's Rally at a banquet held in the church Dec. 29. There were 70 young people present, all from the local congregation. Following the banquet, a candlelight service was conducted under the leadership of Bro. Leo Polman. Many definite decisions for Christ were reported to have come through the ministry of the Spirit. That night, according to reports, will remain a remarkable one in the history of the young people of that church.

Changes At Ankenytown

On the first Sunday of 1940, the Ankenytown, O., Church changed pastors. Bro. Arnold Kriegbaum who had been pastor for three years closed his work there Dec. 24, to take up the pastorate of the new church in East Los Angeles, Calif. Bro. Kriegbaum completed his course at Grace Seminary at the close of the fall semester. Bro. Robert D. Culver, student at Grace Seminary, took up the work Dec. 31.

Taking a Long Jump to the Northwests—We hear the news from pastor Fred Walter of the Harrah, Wash. church that a revival campaign is to be conducted there this month with Bro. J. C. Beal as evangelist. Pray for these meetings.

And Back to Indiana: We hear that the church at Osceola, under the leadership of Bro. Robert S. Williams, student at Grace Seminary, has recently moved from its old location to a new one, better located, in the center of the little town. Reports are that attendance increased greatly immediately. Pray for these Brethren!

In The News Again, Gerald B. Winrod, self acclaimed fundamentalist, editor of "The Defender," candidate for governor of Kansas in 1938, made a place in the report of the Dies committee.

The report as printed in the Fort Wayne News Journal follows: "...in addition to the Communist Party and the German American Bund, there are a number of ... organizations which seek a radical change in the American form of government and collect dues from 'such mis-guided citizens as will contribute to their support.'

"Many 'essentially Fascist groups' have sought from time to time to get together..... The following organizations and individuals took some part in that effort. 'Militant Christian Patriots (Mrs. Leslie Fry), William Dudley Pelly, Gerald B. Winrod... James True, .... E. N. Sanctuary,'".

Winrod has published articles by True and Sanctuary in his "Defender." Last summer, Time Magazine gave some space to expose Winrod as an anti-semitist. When even the public press wakes up to the character of this man's views and purposes, surely it is time Christians have his number! He has forfeited the right to respect in Christian circles.

One More Word: If you would like to see news of your own church written up in this column, send your church bulletin or calendar to Robert D. Culver, Winona Lake, Indiana. In addition to that, write up 25-100 words of news on a post card every month or so and mail it to the same address.

AROUND THE COUNCIL TABLE

God Is Working !!

God has simply showered new fields and obligations upon the Home Missions Council during the last few months. Now He is sending another shower upon us in the Thanksgiving offering! Never was any group of hearts more deeply apprehensive, and moved to utterly cast themselves upon God for the work, than were the 14 directors of the council this fall when the influx of new fields began to show up. Now we are beginning to see the answers to our prayers.

Our isolated members of The Brethren Church are a wonderful example of the way God is working in many hearts for His work. These folks have no pastors to help them. What they get they must get only through the Lord's leading. In ninety per cent of their gifts they have increased from twenty five to one hundred per cent in their giving. This caused us great rejoicing.

Our little group of folks in Wooster, Ohio, without even a pastor or a place to meet as yet, took up an offering and sent on $94.00. The Berne, Indiana, church, where the secretary lives, took up their offering and it was $594.00. It happened that the secretary was out there last Sunday during a few days at home. The pastor asked him to speak a few words about home missions, and at the conclusion of the talk those folks raised their offering to $800.00. How is that for a country church? The secretary would like to establish a hundred country churches like that. The Cleveland mission church raised $340.00. They don't even have a building of their own as yet. The Fort Wayne, Indiana, mission church raised $600.00. (This is the church that was supposed to have been ruined a short time ago!) Tracy, California, has raised $215.00, about four dollars per member. Dayton has over $1000.00 and may reach $2,000.00. Los Angeles 2nd church wired that they had $1,020.00. Now comes the big news! Dr. Bauman writes that the First Church of Long Beach has raised $3600 for home missions! When the secretary got that letter he just about fell off his chair. He actually shouted.

We can only praise God and give Him all the glory, for it is all His own working. From all indications, we will have enough now to care for the new points that we have undertaken since our annual budget was made up. If the rest of the offerings of which we have no knowledge have increased as these have, we will have enough. Our Father God will take care of things for His own work.

LET US ALL PRAISE GOD!

San Diego, California

About four weeks ago, our people were brought to see that it would be possible to start a building in January of 1940 provided that we were able to care for the remaining indebtedness on our lots.

With this realization came a new vision. An offering was received and the indebtedness of $400 was quickly cared for, (part being pledged, payable by January 1st). Attendance in all departments of our work has shown a marked increase. Our Sunday School is averaging 88, and our morning services are running nearly as high. Other services, particularly the weekly Bible class, are reaching strangers and good prospects. On the whole, the work is in the best condition that we have seen it since our arrival about a year and a half ago.

Negotiations are in progress at a local bank for the securing of a loan so that we can start building. We expect to get a final answer from them in a few days.

Our building plans, drawn free of charge by our Sunday School superintendent, R. A. Laughlin, have been through the office of the city planning commission and are held up at the present only by a few minor details in the office of the city building inspector. After these few changes, they will get the go sign there.

Our plans call for a single unit structure 38' x 74' designed so that it can easily be added to. This structure will include auditorium, baptistry and dressing rooms, pastor's study, and choir room on the first floor, with a full basement most of which will be out of ground due to the slope in the lots.

Actual construction has not begun and many problems must be solved before it can begin, but we are praising the Lord for the remarkable answers He has already sent to our prayers relative to the building. We ask an interest in the prayers of the brotherhood regarding these problems that yet face us.

—Albert Flory.

Revival At The Trinity Brethren Church At Seven Fountains, Va.

The church is one of the most isolated churches in the entire brotherhood. It has a natural line of mountains surrounding it like a well-planned fort. In fact the valley is known as Powell's Fort. There is one easy entrance to the valley along Passage Creek. Here the road follows a deep and rocky gorge. Other approaches are over steep and almost impossible mountains.

The community has been taken by Brethren people many years ago, and represents some fine Christians who love the Lord and are concerned about winning souls for Himself. Most of the people depend upon the income of small farms and are pressed at present to make a comfortable living. Nevertheless, real interest is always shown in matters pertaining to the work of the church and especially during a time of revival effort.

The writer was asked to conduct the series of meetings this year. This was the second time he did this. The results were happy and hearts were encouraged in the matter of Christian living. The last day in the Fort, it was our good pleasure to baptize eight who had received the Lord Jesus into their lives and also extend a hand of fellowship to them for membership into the church. Our disadvantage this year was that we could not have Sunday meetings. Inasmuch as the work at the Winchester congregation required a return to that field over Sunday, it was not neglected.

Trinity Brethren Church is near the new camp site. We are developing a fifty acre tract of land to be a permanent young people's training camp for The Brethren Church. To our great advantage, we are among sympathetic friends and families who want to see both the church and camp be a success.

Our most recent indication of progress in the Winchester church is the decision of the church to secure a parsonage. This shall be the possession of The Brethren Church in the city. On Monday, October 2nd, our School of the Bible will open, and Dr. Baker has consented to teach again for the school. Scores of Bible students and teachers are anxious that classes be taught again and will support it as they can. We have set 150 for a goal in Bible School for our Rally Day.—Norman Uphouse.

A Glorious Thanksgiving Day At Our Jewish Mission

*By Ellias Zimmerman
Our Jewish Missionary in Los Angeles*

For weeks and months we had been hoping and praying that somehow the Lord would make it possible for us to have a real Thanksgiving dinner for the many Jewish boys and men who come to our mission. Many of them are without employment, homeless and friendless, and do not know what it means to have a decent meal for months at a time. We felt we could not enjoy our own Thanksgiving dinner, knowing that so many of our boys were hungry. So we hoped and prayed, and in good time the Lord abundantly provided even beyond what we hoped or expected. Through the generosity and help of our Brother Joseph H. Cohn of the American Board of Missions to the Jews we were enabled to go ahead with our plans for Thanksgiving Day—and what a glorious Thanksgiving Day it was!

The long tables, which we borrowed from a nearby church, stretched from one end of our mission hall to the other. They were beautifully and artistically decorated by one of our Jewish young men as if for a magnificent banquet. We were prepared to feed and take care of about forty people. Long before the appointed hour many of our boys were at the mission, and soon every chair was occupied. Still they kept on coming. We had no room, but we just did not have the heart to turn anyone away hungry on Thanksgiving Day. Somehow we managed, and we had almost sixty—all Jews with the exception of the few who helped—instead of the forty we had prepared for. Yes, we had real turkey with all the trimmings that usually go with an old fashioned Thanksgiving dinner.

Appreciated Dinner

As we watched the cheerful faces and beaming eyes, we could not help overhear some of them say that this was the first time in their lives that they had a real Thanksgiving dinner. The ladies who did all the cooking and baking and planning and serving felt well repaid for all their trouble. For we could not help but think of what our Master said: "And whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water in the name of a disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward" (Matt. 10:42). And "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my (Jewish) brethren, ye have done it unto me" (Matt. 25:40).

Indeed many of us felt that the Lord was in our midst. For the Thanksgiving feast was followed by another feast—a spiritual feast. While sitting around the tables each one told what he or she was particularly thankful for. These brief talks were interspersed with appropriate instrumental and vocal music by Hebrew Christians and touching. It thrilled our soul to hear so many of our Jewish brethren give their sincere and earnest testimonies by way of thanksgiving unto the Lord for what He has done for them in opening their eyes, whereas before they were blind now they could see. One of our converts put it this way: "I thank God for finding Him Who is the Way, for without Him there is no going; for trusting in Him Who is the Life, for without Him there is no living."

However, the climax was reached when one of our finest young men, with whom we had been dealing for some time, and for whose salvation we had been longing and praying for, stood up and made public confession of his faith in the Lord Jesus Christ as his Savior and Redeemer.

Faithful Attendant

This young man had been coming to our mission for some time. He had a job in one of the Jewish stores some blocks away from us; and though he worked hard from 9 or 10 o'clock in the morning until 9 at night, yet he never went to his room to change his clothes or rest. He would rush to the mission, and often apologize for being so late.

At times we prolonged our service for his benefit. He came to us as an atheist. Then one evening we spoke on the subject, "Why I Believe in God." Something was said that made him stop in his track and think. From that day on he began to read the Bible. Finally we saw that a marked change had come over him. One night after the service we took him aside and had a heart to heart talk with him. Yes, he was convinced that Christ was the Messiah, but his mother, whom he loved dearly, was coming to Los Angeles and he could not face her if he accepted Christ. It would break her heart. Our heart went out to him. We knew the struggle that went on in this young man's heart. We realized the momentous decision he had to make. At last the love of Christ conquered, and he stood up and made public confession of his faith. How our hearts rejoiced! After a brief message and the reading of Ps. 103, we went away with praise and thanksgiving for such a blessed and glorious Thanksgiving Day.

Religion is man forcing himself upon God. Christianity is God implanting Himself in man.

NEW ANNUITY DEPARTMENT

At our Annual meeting at Winona Lake, in August, the Directors of the Council voted to establish an

ANNUITY DEPARTMENT to begin January 1st, 1940

This department will receive Annuities in cash, or property in the form of real estate, First Mortgages, or negotiable stocks and bonds.

Annuities provide an income that is higher than any other safe investment.

Annuities make certain that your means will go to the work of the gospel after you are gone. Wills are most uncertain.

Annuities take care of you in life, and preach the gospel for you after your death.

Annuity income is based upon your age. At fifty years of age you receive 5 per cent. At eighty years of age you receive 8 per cent.

Annuities enable you to give to the work you desire to assist while you are still alive. Your desires and instructions have little weight after you are gone. Others don't always feel about things as you do.

Annuities are safe. As long as the Church of Christ is on earth they are safe. After that, you won't be here.

If you have funds to invest to form an income to live on—

If you have property you would like to give, or— If you have other investments you would like to turn to Christ—

Tell Me A True Story

Is there any story which you like better than a true story? Of course not. Since this is the Home Missions Number of The Brethren Missionary Herald, we will tell you a true story from the Fort Wayne church. This is one of the home mission churches which the very pennies, nickels and dimes you put in the Thanksgiving offering helped to build. Aren't you glad you had a part in making it possible for Suzette to know Jesus?

Knock! Knock! Come In

By Mrs. Leo Polman

A group of happy children were gathered together in a week of Bible School. The teacher was teaching a new chorus:

I will love Jesus with all my heart

And try to be like Him each day.

After singing it several times, the teacher said, "Jesus stands outside the heart's door of every one. Sometimes we do not know it is Jesus knocking until someone tells us about Him. Then we recognize His knocking. Sometimes little children hear Him, sometimes older children, and sometimes men and women. When we hear Him, we should say, 'Come in, Lord Jesus.' Then He will come in and stay in our hearts, and help us to be like Him. Then we will love Him with all our heart."

Right in front sat the littlest one, Suzette, a blond fairy-like girl. She sat so quiet, listening so intently. As the teacher paused, Suzette said, "Teacher, I hear Jesus knocking at my heart."

Pleased, the teacher turned to the other boys and girls and said, "See, even our smallest child can hear the Lord Jesus knocking. He said, 'Behold, I stand at the door (our hearts' door), and knock: if any man (child) hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in.' Even a little child can love Jesus with all her heart, and try to be like Him each day. Just open your heart's door to Him."

Suddenly little Suzette spoke again, "Teacher, I said, 'Come in, Lord Jesus' He came in, and now He isn't knocking any more."

Just so simply we take Jesus into our hearts and lives. Jesus said we must become as little children if we want to see the kingdom of heaven. Let us all have the childlike faith of little Suzette, and begin loving Jesus with all our hearts while we are young. Give Him the best of our lives—our youth—like a candle tall and white, a long time to burn for the Lord; not a candle half used or just a stub left for Him, all used in our own pleasures first.

If God Be For Us

Aim: To show how completely God provides for us if we are His.

Approach to the lesson

Turn in your Bibles to Rom. 8:31. How would you answer the second question in v. 31? Now look in v. 52. How many things is God going to give us if we are His? Just think of that! Look again in that verse and find the word which shows that God is not going to be one bit stingy about giving us these things.

Now think of all the wrong things you have done—the lies you told, the naughty things you did when mother was not around, the impure thoughts you would not want anyone to know. God knows all about every one of those sins, and every other sin, too. Let's read the question of v. 33. This is another way of asking, "Who is going to accuse you of any of your sins?" Will God? No, not if we are saved, for God justifies us. This means that because Jesus saved us from our sins, washing away our sins by His blood, God looks upon us as justified (just as if we'd never sinned)—not because of what we've done, but because of what Christ has done. Then who will condemn us (v. 34)? Will Christ? Not if we are saved, for He died for our sins and now lives and makes intercession for us. This means that He pleads with God for us, whatever our need may be.

Since God will not hold anything against us who are saved, and Christ will not do so, can anything separate us from His love? Can the awful things mentioned in v. 35 do so? The answer is in v. 37. Can death separate us from Him? Can angels? Can anything present or future do it? Can anything at all separate us from His love? Find the answer in v. 38-39. How gracious God is toward us!

Points on the lesson with illustrations from Scripture

1. God makes all things new when He saves us (II Cor. 5:17). III. — Saul's conversion, Acts 9; Les. 136, True Stories from the Long Ago. (Give children opportunity to tell how Christ changed their lives.)

2. God has made victory possible over every temptation (I Cor. 10:13). III. — any of the following: The three Hebrews' temptation to wrong worship, Dan. 3; Les. 92, True Stories from the Long Ago. Daniel's temptation to stop praying, Dan. 6; Les. 94, True Stories from the Long Ago. Peter's and John's temptation to quit preaching Christ, Acts 3-4; Les. 132, True Stories from the Long Ago. (Give children opportunity to tell how Christ has helped them overcome temptation.)

3. God enables us to endure every circumstance (Phil. 4:13). III. — Paul, II Cor. 11:24-28; 12:7-10; Les. 145, True Stories from the Long Ago. (Give children opportunity to tell what hard things Christ has helped them endure.)

Do You Like Puzzles?

Then, here is one for you. Begin with the C in the middle. Then take the letter to its left, the letter to its right, the second letter to its left, the second to its right, and so on. After arranging the letters in that order, separate the words, and you will have something God wants you to remember to do.

What Would You Have Done?

A little girl in an Italian Sunday School told her mother how the other children had teased her.

"Why didn't you do your best to defend yourself," her mother asked. When she made no reply her mother said, "What did you do?"

"I remembered what Jesus did for His enemies," she said, "so I prayed for them."

Winning The Children To Christ

(Mt. 18:1-14)

Suggestions for the Leader

Winning the children for Christ is one of the most promising fields of Christian endeavor. Children can understand all that is needed in order to be saved, and if properly led, can experience salvation. The exact time when a child ought to become a Christian by receiving the Lord Jesus cannot be set. Educators recognize a great range of individual differences in children. Whenever a child reaches accountability, that is the time he should come to Christ. If any mistakes are to be made in child evangelism, it would be better to start too early than to wait until it is too late.

The writer once witnessed a child of six years come to Jesus and express love for Him. This may be an early age to expect children to make decisions, but after that we should look for them. The horrible thing is that many parents refuse to let their children of 12, 13, and even older, make a public stand for the Lord. To interfere with the good intentions of children might bring many tears in after years.

Child evangelism is the one place we young people can be assured of doing something definite for the Lord. It is not enough simply to tell children Bible stories and entertain them while they are in a class or Endeavor meeting. The great duty of every teacher and leader is to present Christ constantly as the only hope for salvation. Children should be told how they can love Him too.

We need to remember that a child needs to be cleansed from sin. He can distinguish between good and evil and ought to reckon with the tendency to do wrong. How wonderful it is to see a child start off right early in life and be saved from the misery and disappointments of sin. It is not right that they should fall into the things of the world. Do what you can to bring children to Christ now.

1. Children need a Savior. Mt. 19:14.

One thing that will help us see the difference between infancy and childhood is that in some places babies are brought to the church and presented to Christ, while children come to Christ of their own free will. Jesus is ready and willing to receive any child that comes to Him. The Bible says we should be faithful in teaching and leading them, and then let them decide for Christ.

Everyone is born in sin, having a nature to sin from the start. This can be seen early in life when small children have outward expressions of temper, selfishness or meanness. One man said it made no difference whether the lead pencil was new or used, it made the same black mark. Parents like to think their children are better than any others. They seem to feel their children do not need salvation. This is an error. Their great concern ought to be to know that every child in the home has been born again. Never shield a child in sin. Lead him to claim the Lord Jesus as his own.

2. Children are teachable. Mt. 18:4.

Tests show that adults up to fifty are as teachable as children if they want to learn. The difference is that adults close their minds on certain subjects, but children will listen to the truth. Many times they lead older people, sometimes their whole families, to receive the truth. Herein lies a great opportunity for have an entering wedge in reaching the others in the Bible School and C. E. Seek the children and you have an entering wedge in reaching the others in the home.

A person need not understand all about Christianity before claiming it. In fact, none of us fully understand it. It takes a lifetime to grow into the knowledge. Seek the child and let him profess faith in Jesus as soon as he will. Heaven will be glad for one child coming home, the life will be saved from sinful experiences, and the Lord Jesus will be exalted. Everything is in favor of child evangelism. Hardly a one in the church can say it is too hard a work to do.

3. Children who believe have a fine foundation for a life of service. II Tim. 3:14-15.

In some cases great men of God were converted late in life after living a life of sin. This is the exception and certainly the most dangerous way to live. It would be far better to take no chances in delaying to come to Christ. In after years it would bring the convert satisfaction to know he kept himself pure and clean for the Lord's work, and would save lament for the sinful past and for the loss of time that might have been used in preparation for larger service for God. If one unprepared, though thoroughly converted, can do much for God, the same person properly prepared could do more.

The things learned in childhood are remembered longest. This is the time for Bible study and memorization, and is where the foundation should be laid for years of work in the church.

If you have to choose between these two propositions, always take your stand for an early decision for Christ and a life of usefulness for Him. It has less regrets and many more happy experiences with Christian people and with the Lord.

4. Preaching to children. Mt. 18:2.

Some people oppose preaching before children. Some churches keep them busy doing other things during the preaching hour. Children ought to hear the sermon as well as adults. None may fully understand or remember what was said in detail, but little by little they ought to get some good and help. Unless children are started early, they will not likely come to church later.

Any minister ought to be conscious of the children in his service. The selection of words, the wise use of time, and lessons illustrated with stories, will help keep their interest. All children like to hear thrilling stories. Jesus frequently used objects and stories or parables to help in His teaching. Preaching to children will bring favorable results because they can be led to do the thing that is right and of God. The preaching should be positive, not telling them only what they cannot do or what is bad, but what is proper and acceptable in their conduct.

5. Children and the church. I Sam. 2:18; Mt. 21:15.

There was a day when children were given no place in the church. They were supposed to be seen but not heard. When the Sunday School came, children were helped. The Junior and Intermediate C. E. did more for them. Today happy is the church that cares for the children.

"If children can receive the Lord Jesus as Savior, they can also serve him. Their testimony is often used of the Lord to the salvation of parents and friends. They ought to have a part in the one work of the church, and should be recognized as a part of the band of workers." It makes them feel good to have a part in a meeting or a work within the church. One Junior C. E. makes a regular pledge for foreign missions which amounts to more than $100. These children find enjoyment in carrying out the pledge.

Additional Scripture.

Testimony of children II Ki. 5:2-4; Mt. 21:15-16; Ps. 148:12, 13.

Questions to be answered

1. How much of the Bible must one understand in order to be saved?
2. Do you think it a good thing to make a child wait until older before becoming a Christian?
3. How is the future of this church largely dependent upon what the children do now?
4. What should the S. S. teachers and C. E. leaders do to win children to Christ?
5. What are the ways a child can be used in the work of the church?
6. Do you think we dare set an age limit on a child concerning conversion?

"He Didn't Read His Church Paper"

"What religious paper do you read?"
 "None."
 "Why?"
 "No time to read."
 "What progress is your church making?"

 "Of course you are a church member?"
 "Don't—I mean yes!"
 "Is the church making any progress in your neighborhood?"

Jewish Bible Conference

Pastor, have you arranged for that Jewish Bible Conference yet. The support of our new Jewish Mission in Los Angeles, California, depends upon the offerings raised in Jewish Conferences held in our churches during the year.

Our responsibility begins January 1st. Plan at once for a real spiritual feast at the same time you provide for the great work God has given to our churches to do in bringing Israel to Christ.

Remember the words of Jehovah:

"Pray for the peace of Jerusalem, they shall prosper that love thee" (Psalm 122:6).

You may arrange your conference directly with the speakers, or through the office of the Council at Berne, Indiana.

Sentence Sermons

We are all black, only some are bleached blacks.

The anchor of the Christian's hope is cast upward not downward.

Christians are living far too much in the newspapers and far too little in the Bible.

The church is full of willing people. Some are willing to work and others are willing to let them.

Some believe in a very great God in Nature but a very little God in Grace.

Set the pillow of God's promises between your back and your burdens.

CLOTHES FOR CHILDREN NEEDED AT ONCE!

Brother Landrum has sent us an appeal for warm winter clothing for little children. What clothing has been sent to him this fall has been mainly for adults. Will all who intend to send clothing to help our brother in this noble work kindly remember the little children.

WHAT DOES IT HOLD?

By C. H. Ashman

"The coming of the Lord draweth nigh!" "Little children, it is the last time" (1 John 2:18). "The time is short" (1 Cor. 7:29). When the "fulness of time was come," God sent Jesus Christ in His first advent. When the fulness of time is come, God will send Jesus Christ in His second advent. But we believe that it is time to look up, lift up, be ready to go up!

What does 1940 hold in store in prophetic development and fulfillment? Soothsayers, astrologers, crystal-gazers, fortune tellers, and other quacks try to peer into the future. God has put a curse upon all "possessed with a spirit of divination." We must be ever careful in our prophetic messages not to come under this curse. Yet the Lord expects us to discern the "signs of the times." God has a prophetic clock. All the future is timed. With the precision of nature, the future will unfold according to this prophetic timepiece. When the time arrives, when the hour strikes, the bright and morning Star will appear. Will this be during 1940?

Some years ago in the New Outlook, there appeared an article on "Technocracy." It ended with these words, "We have reached the end of an age." Is the end of this age drawing nigh? Sir Arthur Geddes has said, "In Europe we know that an age is dying." Is our age dying? "But the end of all things is at hand" (1 Peter 4:7). Is the end drawing near? Is it at hand? Will it come for the church during 1940? What time is it by God's prophetic clock?

The Times of the Gentiles

We believe that 1940 will witness the world's darkest midnight of poverty, perplexity, and paganism. The Lord's prophecy that there should come upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth" (Luke 21:25-26), will increase in the intensity of its fulfilment. The times of the Gentiles are in the last stages of decay. The city of Jerusalem has been "trodden down of the Gentiles" for centuries. It will be so until the "times of the Gentiles be fulfilled." From A. D. 70 until 1917, the Gentiles were in full control of this prophetic capitol of the world, Jerusalem. When General Allenby captured Jerusalem in 1917, there was a striking fulfilment of the prophecy of Isaiah 31:5, "As birds flying so will the Lord of hosts defend Jerusalem, defending also he will deliver it; and passing over he will preserve it." Upon good authority we learn that the sight of airplanes flying over the city persuaded the Turks to offer a peaceful surrender of the city. The Lord defended, delivered, preserved the city. From that hour the times of the gentiles have been drawing to a close. Ever since the world war the Gentile nations have been degenerating in power. They have been decaying from within and are being attacked from without. They threaten to devour each other. Will 1940 witness their total collapse?

Political and Diplomatic

The diplomatic world is crumbling and crashing. What do parleys, pacts, treaties, leagues, etc., amount to? They are more worthless than "mere scraps of paper." On the tenth birthday of the League of Nations, when the corner stone of the Palace of Peace was laid in Geneva, leaders of over 20 of the leading nations of the world were present. They voiced enthusiastic forecasts of a glorious future of peace and prosperity for the nations in the league. What has become of these forecasts? 1 Thess. 5:1 could well be applied to them, "For when they say, peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh upon them." Roger Babson a few years ago warned America that unless she would cease from her selfishness and get back to God three things would result, namely, financial collapse, national collapse, and international collapse. America has not ceased from her selfishness nor has she turned back to God. The financial collapse came, national collapse is threatened, and behold the international collapse all about us. The sea of nations with its waves is roaring. Nation is rising against nation. There are wars and rumors of wars over all the earth. On land, in the air, on the sea, and under the sea, the mighty conflict is raging as never before in the world's history. In 1916 I. M. Haldeman wrote, "It has been foretold that during the absence of Christ enormous political changes would take place within the countries now occupying the territorial limits of the old Roman Empire. There would be the overthrow of monarchy, the uprising of red democracy, its overthrow, and finally a federation of nations in western Europe." Twenty-three years have witnessed the rapid fulfilment of these things. What will 1940, one more year, bring forth? Will these prophecies come to a climax? Will there come the Federation of Nations of western Europe over which eventually the Anti-Christ shall rule?

Social and Criminal

The social world is breaking all restraints and flooding the earth with paganism and civilized crime. Paganism is awful, but civilized crime is worse! The days of Noah are being repeated with their violence, atheism, agnosticism, and moral corruption. The days of Lot are being duplicated. They were "marrying and giving in marriage" in Lot's days. Does this mean just a multiplicity of marriages only? No! It means not only giving in marriage, but "giving out" also, that is getting out of the marriages into which they had entered. The days of Lot were days of divorce! In that period during which the U. S. has doubled its population, it has increased its divorce ten times! Five times as fast as the increase of population has been the increase of divorce. We are rapidly becoming an "adulterous generation." Witness the unnatural sex crimes. Behold the nudism in pictures and in person. You know, we are coming to that state which we stamp as educated licentiousness. We are not being overcome in our sins and by our sins, but we are planning them, plotting them, and with modern inventions available we are becoming a nation of educated licentiousness. R. E. Neighbor has described our day in these graphic words, "We are living in a day when modesty and morals are fast touching the bottom of the mire. Young people need to be talked to in plain and unvarnished words about this. Everything—dress, pastimes, reading and conversation — is conducive to looseness of morals. Virtue and modesty, the two bulwarks of a Christian girlhood and womanhood, seem to be in the last throes of death. This age is rushing headlong into the vortex of unbridled sexual debauchery." Yes "Evil men and seducers are waxing worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived." Iniquity is abounding on every hand. Behold the robbery, rape, assault, suicides, murders, the diabolical and atrocious deeds of men, even mere lads! God save America! What will 1940 witness in increase along these lines? We believe the world will go deeper into the darkness of sin and crime during the coming year, bringing moral corruption closer to its inevitable harvest of judgment.

Religious

The religious world is plunging into the apostasy—"departing from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and the doctrines of devils, speaking lies in hypocrisy, having their conscience seared with a hot iron." This prophecy in 1 Timothy 4:1-2 is meeting fulfillment today. Many have a "form of godliness, but deny the power thereof" (2 Tim. 3:5). Yes, they have the outward profession and appearance of godliness, but they have denied the power thereof. They still keep up the appearance, the profession, after having renounced the authority. The most subtle form in which this appears today is that described in Romans 10:3, "for they being ignorant of God's righteousness, and going about to establish their own righteousness, have not submitted themselves unto the righteousness of God." This description is supplemented in 2 Cor. 11:13-15, "for such are false prophets, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ. And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works." Professing to be good and do good, to be the apostles of righteousness, they are deceiving many. Herbert Lockyer has written, "Churches there are of all sorts, faithful, fancy, and false. But the church today is impotent in the face of its challenges, it is retrenching instead of going forward. Her feet are embedded in the mud of indifference. She is a well-dressed corpse instead of a living body." What will 1940 bring to pass in the religious world? If the Lord tarries in His coming, we believe it will witness the line of separation between pre-millennialism and post-millennialism drawn sharper and sharper. The denominations will be torn asunder between "the righteousness which is of faith" and that which is of human merit of works. It may be, God grant it will be, that the true church will be caught up to meet the Lord in the air. But, if He does not come during 1940, the winning of precious souls, genuine evangelism, will become harder and harder. It will become more difficult to even induce lost sinners to come within the church buildings. The hearts of men will become harder and harder. We will have to triple our prayers, our efforts, our influence or suffer staggering losses.

Deliverance and Preservation

Will 1940 bring deliverance to the redeemed? Lot was delivered before the fire of judgment fell on Sodom. God said, "I cannot do anything 'till thou come out." "God hath not appointed us unto wrath," but unto salvation. It is unthinkable that He will permit His bride to go into the judgments toward which this world is plunging. Before these vials of wrath are poured out upon this sinful world, "the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first. Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord." The bodies of the saved which are now being planted in the graves will not remain there long. Deliverance awaits us!

We are sure that 1940 will bring preservation to Israel. Noah went into and passed thru the flood, but was preserved from the flood. The Jew will pass into the judgment period following the rapture of the church, but God will preserve His people. In Rev. 12:13-17, there is a prophecy of a flood which foretells the persecution of Israel. But God has a place of preservation for Israel. He will fulfil his promise "when thou passeth through the waters, they shall not overflow thee."

The Coming Miracle of the Conversion of All Jews

What hope is there for the Jews? There seemed to be high hope when, in 1922, Great Britain accepted from the allied powers a mandate for Palestine, making herself responsible for putting into effect the declaration of 1917 "in favor of the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people." For some years the most amazing things began happening in the Holy Land, —agricultural transformations, business and financial prosperity, —and Zionism flourished. Then came jealousy of the Arabs, riots, bloodshed, and it looked as though the prophecy of "Jerusalem a burdensome stone" (Zech. 12:3) was beginning to be fulfilled. Now, after increasing riot and bloodshed, Britain has abandoned her pledge.

But God's Word stands. He has promised Israel to bring her people back to the land from the whole world. And the miracle of the conversion of all Jews is coming.—S. S. Times.

Fellow-Christians, let us "redeem the time for the days are evil." Let us "walk circumspectly." "What thou doest, do quickly." "The Lord is at hand." "The business of the King requireth haste." We must live on tip toe! Let us love, long for, and look for His appearing.

NO IMAGINARY HURT

A certain Christian Science woman in Mineola, N. Y., according to the newspapers, recently sued a motorist for injuring her in an automobile collision. Because she had refused medical aid after the accident, in loyalty to her Christian Science creed, saying that her hurts were only "imaginary," the court refused to award her damages. However, the court required her to pay $75 to the man for injuries to his car, which injuries were by no means imaginary.

No amount of minimizing of sin's hurt to the soul can make that hurt only imaginary. Such delusive claim may prevent men from obtaining the salvation provided for sin, but it cannot absolve from the penalty for sin's damage. Our heavenly Father loves us, but he does not mince matters. Unerringly he puts his finger on the source of all our woe: "If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted? And if thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door" (Gen. 4:7). God calls sin by its right name. He bears down heavily upon it, in the individual and in the nation: "Sin is a reproach to any people" (Prov. 14:34). "The Lord... will not at all acquit the wicked" (Nahum 1:3).—Sel.

ANSWERING YOUR QUESTION!

Many are asking, "If we have given $5.00 or more to Brethren Foreign Missions or to the Brethren Home Missions Council, is it necessary to pay $1.00 or less to receive all copies of the new Brethren Missionary Herald magazine, for one year?"

Both The Foreign Missionary Society and The Brethren Home Missions Council are going to keep faith with all their members. If you have been on either list, or both, and desire that the Foreign Missionary Society or The Home Missions Council take, as was customary, 50c from your gift or $5.00 or more to pay for your subscription to the new Brethren Missionary Herald magazine, they will do that.

However, if you will subscribe for The Brethren Missionary Herald for one year, paying the subscription price of $1.00, you will receive not only The Foreign Number and the Home Mission Council Number, but all four copies of the new magazine each month, and these two boards (the Foreign and Home Council) will be able to use your 50 cents for missionary work. We feel that you would rather have them do so.

This office is ready to cooperate in every way possible that our blessed Lord and The Brethren Church be served in the most effective and fruitful way.

Our Publication Interests

The month of February is publication month. At some convenient time during that month we are expecting our people to give toward the establishment of the new Brethren Missionary Herald Company. In spite of the handicaps in starting a new company, our work has already made remarkable progress. The office routine has been established. All needs for a complete literature have been met so that our churches may now secure everything they ever could get in the past from the graded series. Other quarterlies in the high school series are also available. The large orders for quarterlies have been gratifying. Many of our churches are planning for the largest publication offering in all history. Our purpose is to make a desperate effort to place The Brethren Missionary Herald in every home in our churches. The next few months will reveal startling progress in this direction. It is also our goal to raise $5,000 for our publication day offering. Pastors and workers, get busy. With a magazine unhindered by controversy, we expect to present a publication second to none in its defense and exposition of the faith. We are optimistic. The greatest day for our people is just ahead.

A Great Opportunity

It takes courage to stand for one's convictions, especially when one seems at the time to be in the minority. We believe the new venture of this magazine is supported by some of the finest Brethren the centuries have ever produced. We are a people with convictions, united not only by the bonds of a common faith, but with a common purpose. Although Brethrenism down through the years has not had a careful system of theology, today we have come to know both what we believe and why we believe it. Never have we had such harmony in viewpoint in our emphasis on the fundamentals of the faith. Never have we had an educational institution so united as Grace Seminary. Never have we had such enthusiasm and determination in the establishing of new churches as we see in the Council. Never have we had so many young men willing to go into the centers of population to establish self supporting congregations. Never have we had so many fields ripe for the harvest. Truly great opportunities are before us. Let us not fail God in this time of crisis. Ours is a great opportunity and a great task.

More Than Religion

The Evangelical Christian reports that Madame Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Chinese Generalissimo, prepared an address which was read a few months ago in New York City before a certain organization. The address is said to have included the following most interesting statement.

"Unless a radical change comes over the hearts and the minds of men, some of us, at least, will live to see civilization perish by the very means used so long and so ruthlessly to destroy China. There is only one thing that can prevent such a disaster to humanity—it is religion, whose partial eclipse I lament. When national consciousness and individual consciousness are developed through the central pivot and motivating force of life and a belief in religion, when religion is accepted as conduct, then the doom of civilization may be averted, but not until then."

One cannot help but admire the spirit of this world figure and honor her for the place she gives to "religion." However, we also find ourselves hoping that she has the proper conception of religion. How much better if she had said Christianity, or the truth of God's Word, or best of all, Christ. Religion can do nothing for this lost world. Only the crucified, risen, and living Savior can be the hope of the world. Even the message of salvation as it has been proclaimed for 1900 years will not correct the world's sickness—because men will not receive His message. The hope for the world is the second coming of Christ as King of kings and Lord of lords. Until the day of His appearing the world will go on in blindness, sin, war, and unbelief, rejecting the sufficiency in Christ. The living Christ will settle the world's problems when He comes again. Madame Chiang Kai-shek, when you spoke of the world's hope being wrapped up in "religion" we hope this is what you meant.

"Greetings From Your National President"

By Rev. Robert A. Ashman, Pastor—First Brethren Church, Peru, Indiana

President, Brethren National Christian Endeavor Union

It is still January and therefore New Year greetings to you all are in order. May the blessings of the Christ of Christian Endeavor bring to each and every society and member victory thru faith in Him thruout the coming year.

By the time you have received this issue of this new Brethren magazine, each society shall have been supplied with a letter including samples of the goal cards and other items of interest. If your officers did not get one of these letters, please inform us and we will see that they get it promptly.

First of all, may we express our thanks for the honor placed on us by your other officers in making us president of Brethren National C. E. There are many things which can and ought to be done if we will unite our forces "for Christ and His church through Brethren C. E."

Our projects and goals remain the same with the addition of aiding toward the support of the Bible coach and tent work in South America in connection with our foreign missions project. Your executive secretary will send you upon request enough goal cards for every member. We urge every Endeavorer to continue in prayer for these projects and goals. Keep them before your society at all times.

We join with the treasurer in asking each Endeavorer to make sure your Easter offering envelope is marked "C. E. Kliever". Jake is our C. E. missionary. We have covenanted with the Lord to support him on the field. We dare not fail. There ought to be no less than $500 coming into the foreign mission offering thus marked.

Then, too, there are the "to the Jew first" and home missions projects which call for the support through prayer and finances of each society. The only way your national organization will be able to make these projects what they ought to be is through the prayers and support you will lend. Make your society pledge. Report that pledge to the executive secretary and then forward it as soon as you can to him.

No, Brethren C. E. is not merely asking for your financial support. Indeed this is needed but more than this it is the desire of all your National officers that each endeavor may be on fire for the Lord in these trying days. A most important goal is "some one won to Christ by individual effort." How many has your society won in the past year?

"Jake Kliever Takes Moving Pictures In Africa"

By Rev. R. D. Crees, Pastor

First Brethren Church, Waynesboro, Penna.,

Treasurer, Brethren National Christian Endeavor Union

Jake Kliever, our very own Christian Endeavor missionary to Africa, is right now taking moving pictures of African villages and natives, and will send them to the United States to be shown to our Christian Endeavorers! Just think of it!! Many times we have seen stereopticon slide pictures of our African work, but never have we seen moving pictures! Our missionaries all tell us you will enjoy action pictures of the natives, for they are never still.

Now here is our plan. We have purchased the films, with the help of the money you sent us, and have sent them to Jake. He has a movie camera and started taking the pictures around Thanksgiving time, 1939. They will be developed in France, then sent back to Jake for editing, so we know what the pictures are all about. Jake will send the completed pictures and story to us about May of 1940. We expect to show them in our summer camps, to C. E. societies and churches, and at the National Brethren Bible Conference in August at Winona Lake, Indiana. War-time conditions may affect our shipments, so will you please pray with us that the moving pictures of Africa will arrive in our hands safely?

Jake writes that he and Ann Celeste are just thrilled by the thought that all the C. E.-ers in the United States are supporting them. Of course, you know that Ann Celeste is that grand little baby daughter of the Kliever's and is supported by our Junior Endeavorers. Jake asked me to thank all you Christian Endeavorers for "your prayers and faithful support as evidenced by your offerings." That made me feel very much ashamed, for although in the Easter of 1938 we went "over the top" in our Foreign Missionary offering, yet in the Easter offering of 1939 we fell way below our goal. I'm afraid some of our societies did not do their best. No use crying over the past. Let's forget it, and may God help all of our Brethren C. E. Societies to do their best this Easter by giving the greatest offering ever for Jake and little Ann. Their allowance is pitifully small as it is—just $350.00 per year for Jake and one-third that amount for Ann Celeste. Then we have the expense of the films, etc. We ought to have at least $600.00, but I feel as if it will go over $1,000.00 if every Brethren C. E. Society does its part!!

Please Read These Directions Carefully:

1. This Easter or before, receive an offering in your Intermediate, Young People's, or Adult C. E. Societies for the support of Jake Kliever. Junior Societies will receive theirs at the same time for Ann Celeste Kliever.

2. Give your individual offering this Easter to Jake or Ann Celeste.

3. Mark on your offering envelope, whether it be for the society or the individual, the words, "C. E.-Kliever" or "C. E.-Ann Celeste."

4. Hand in your offering on Easter Sunday through your local Brethren Church, which will also get credit for the offering.

5. The local church will send your offering to the treasurer of the Foreign Missionary Society of the Brethren Church, and he will credit your gift to the Klievers through the Brethren National C. E. Union.

I want to thank our societies in advance for their loyal support of Jake and Ann Celeste this Easter, for I know you will not fail them nor your Lord. Don't forget to mark your envelope "C. E.-Kliever," or he will not receive it, and you will get no credit.

What C. E. Has Done For My Church

Louis S. Bauman

Pastor of First Brethren Church of Long Beach, California

The First Brethren Church of Long Beach of which it is my privilege to be the pastor has nine Christian Endeavor Societies in operation every Sunday evening. And better yet, they "operate" also every day of the week. An international C.E. officer several years ago publicly gave us credit as having the largest Christian Endeavor body of any church in the world. We may yet hold that position, unless some other organization has passed the mark we held, for one thing is certain, we have not grown smaller since then. At that time, we were averaging about 360 in attendance at the C. E. services every Sunday evening. A few days hence, when the annual reports will again come in, we shall know exactly what our present figure is.

But what has Christian Endeavor done for my church?

In the first place, it would be impossible for the pastor and his associate to give personally all these young people (and older ones as well) the spiritual touch they so much need for the deepening of their spiritual lives. Being fortunate in having real spiritual leadership in all our societies, they get this touch. The social life within these societies means much. But the social end of the work becomes secondary in them all. There is a marvellous spirit of testimony and prayer pervading the lives of our young people; and that is largely the result of these fine Spirit-filled C. E. meetings.

In the second place, Christian Endeavor had broadened the spiritual outlook of the youth of my church. This is due to the great C. E. conventions that they are privileged to attend—city, state, national, and international. The Los Angeles County Christian Endeavor organization is in the control of real Spirit-filled men. (We regret that this is not true of all county organizations). Scores of the young folks of my church attend these conventions. They receive a tremendous spiritual impetus there, and after three or four days contact with from 5000 to 6000 other Christian youth, out and out for Christ and His church, they return home with a new and almost boundless enthusiasm for Christ and His church. This alone is invaluable.

Thirdly, Christian Endeavor is helping to give a solution to the youth problems of today—a genuine Christian solution. And to the so-called "youth problems" confronting the world, there is only one solution—Jesus Christ. "Remember Jesus Christ!" One way Christian Endeavor helps with the problem of youth is in keeping the social life of our boys and girls well within the walls of the church. This helps toward "the separated life."

Fourthly, there is seldom a Sunday that from four to ten (and often more) souls do not walk down the aisles of the church and accept Christ as a Savior. Without this result, of what great value is all the other work of the church? Many of these are won by these enthusiastic Christian Endeavorers.

What C. E. Has Done For My Church

Rev. Homer A. Kent,

Pastor First Brethren Church, Washington, D. C.

The church of which I have been the pastor for a number of years has been blessed with a fine group of young people of consecration and ability. These young folks in many instances have shown splendid leadership qualities and in no little measure this may be attributed to the place that Christian Endeavor has occupied in our church. From the Junior age they have been trained to talk and pray and sing and lead in their groups. Thus when they come to maturer years they do not find it difficult to assume places of leadership in the church.

Oftentimes fine Christian people of the church remark that they are not able to do what they see the young people of the church doing with apparent ease, and they add that they never had any leadership training in their younger days. They did not belong to a C. E. society. It has been evident to the writer for a long time that Christian Endeavor provides the opportunity for training in Christian leadership and develops capable servants of the Lord in the church.

Christian Endeavor serves to bind the young people of the church together in a wholesome fellowship and provides an outlet for the expression of their Christian life. It is a mistake to think that Christian Endeavor is simply a society for the purpose of training for Christian service. Christian Endeavor makes possible a present service for Christ and the church. Oftentimes some of the finest service rendered by the church is accomplished by Christian Endeavor young folks. We have found this to be true in our church.

Bush Murmurings From The Vicinity of Bekoro— French Equatorial Africa

By the Klievers, our C. E. Missionaries

The grass is now tall, the winds are blowing and the rains are falling. All tends to make a peculiar murmuring sound in the "gonda" or bush. The lions are running wild and plentifully. Tracks of them are seen in the neighboring gardens. The elephants have been heard near by. Chickens are found, bitten by wildcats, and some folks have come in wounded by leopards. The water buffalo, equally as fierce if not more so, are about; and ligums, the wild scavenger dog of Africa, comparing to the timber wolf of North America for fierceness, leaves his tracks in the neighborhood. The sound of the dance drums, when the moon is shining, is heard until the wee hours of the morning, the songs of hunger and weakness because of much work and not too much food right now, because they made too much into beer and the animals have spoiled gardens, is heard also.

Among this great veldt or frontier wilds of Africa, stands a little mission station, half way from all places and near none, sending out a few voices into all this murmuring, hoping that some will hear this message and be freed first of all from the greater dangers and evils that lurk in the heart, and then go out giving a testimony that will change the song of Africa from noise and madness to joy and gladness. Our evangelists that are better equipped for service than any of the rest are at school right now in Bozoum; and so we are, as you might say working with substitutes. But as in all good clubs, the substitutes are real stuff also, (I was one myself once!) so they have been going out to the villages in the vicinity of a 10 mile circle, and have faithfully preached the gospel with encouragement and thanksgiving - worthy results.

On Saturday, when there are no classes, we will (the missionaries and the substitutes) get into the truck and go along the auto road, dropping off the speakers until they are all gone, and the missionaries have been picked in the villages. Yours truly takes the last village. The Word is preached in all these stopped-at places, and hearts again hear another little installment of the gospel whenever time, means and opportunities allow.

We can't start before 5 P. M. as they are still in their gardens at that time, so at 5 P. M., we start. Last night we did likewise, but at the first village they hadn't started to come back yet as it was a real nice warm day and they wanted to take advantage of it to the full. We were on a bush auto road, so we went slowly, not by choice but for sensible reasons. We saw a few wild fowl, that we put into our larder, and going on we saw a small herd of antelope so we bagged one of those also. Anne saw me shoot, saw the antelope jump almost straight up into the air and over backwards and to the ground to run no more. She said, "poor antelope, he's tired!"

We drove on until all speakers were placed. The moon shone brightly and we held services. Many came to listen. In our service, 7 came to confess Christ. The others reported similarly, there being a good sized group for the size of the bush villages, so our joy was great on returning. But at the same time our hearts were burdened for these new born babes, to be left as it were out in the cold, to try to resist the ravages of sin and the cold world; but how glad we are that the Lord knoweth his own, and keeps them. How they pray that someone who knows about the affair of God might come and teach them more about it. If only someone that has heard more than they have would come and teach them. So we are praying with them that it will soon be possible.

How the already heavy load of the missionary can be increased to take in the supplying of material for these villages also, is something that we are committing to the Lord. If it means sleep a little less than the 6 hours that we sleep now, we'll trust Him for strength; if it means speaking to the hearts of home folks that they give of selves and means to make possible more missionaries, that is being committed to Him also. There is a hunger, even a begging, for the Word of God; and here we are with only two hands, and only two feet, and only one mouth to speak, and know only one of their languages as yet, altho the second is on the way. What can we do among so many, when we can only be one place at a time, and only have one mouth to speak with in telling them the blessed story they are so hungry to hear?

On this little bush station, we are having a baptismal class for the women wishing to receive baptism, and one for men, which are taught 3 times a week; a post baptismal class for the men and women, also 3 times a week, a class preparing the speakers for their village visitation, twice a week; a personal workers class 5 times a week; 6 men's and boys reading classes 5 times a week, 3 women's and girls' reading and Bible story classes 5 times a week, and a class for teaching them to write so they can keep records etc.

In the baptismal classes there are 169 enrolled; in the personal workers class, 24; in the evangelist class, 4; in the reading classes, 221; and in the writing class for men, 33. These classes occupy much of the time of Mrs. Kennedy, my wife, myself, two vernacular teachers and two helpers. Besides these things, and the preaching and village visitation, we are trying to keep the concession in a presentable manner, the buildings in repair, the orchard weeded, the grass cut, etc., etc., as well as preparing to place a permanent building of somekind here in the next year if possible. Then what time isn't taken up in study, eating and keeping the wife sweet (?), we might spend in a little sleeping. This of course doesn't take in making trips that are required because we happen to be the custodian of the mission truck. If we didn't feel that we were in the Lord's will for our lives, and weren't in love with Him who loved us first, this would be hard work; but now it is a joy, because the more the work, the harder the task, the greater opportunity we have of giving a testimony to His all-sufficient grace and power!!

We are in fine health at this time. Some trials and testings have come along this line, but our hearts are filled with praises to Him for His faithfulness and goodness.

Anne is keeping busy. She attends some of the classes and can recognize as many of the alphabet as the others in the class, and then comes home and teaches her dolls and cats the lesson she heard in the class room. She also teaches them the songs, and gives them some very good advice. The other day, right after the Sunday morning service, we were walking down the auto road as a little form of relaxation. She heard a specie of pigeon making its songs or call, and she said, he is calling "Gepoudou," which is the name of our boy that does the ironing and washing. She is always legging us to tell her stories and sing songs to her. We ask her what we shall tell her, and what she wants us to sing, and the answer is always the same, "About Jesus." Has she gotten that feeling from the native who is always wanting to hear about Jesus, or is her own little soul already thirsting for her Savior? When she has eaten all she wants to eat, it is always "Anne got plenty."

The church services are well attended. It is quite a sight to see them come at 6:30 Sunday mornings, carrying a stick that is smoking on one end, to keep them warm. The mornings are cool, especially since all that the women wear is a string of beads around their hips, from which they suspend a few strands of beads in front and behind, or a few leaves attached thus, and the men wear a loin cloth or shorts. Some of the folks that come are dirty with dirt and filth on the outside. How it must be inside we can only guess. Some are all shiny, having oiled their bodies. Others are just plain washed, and others we see, as if they have a suit (their own skin of course, but it looks about 6 sizes too large for their body. They are the old people, and they are all wrinkled and not only wrinkled on the bodies, but pleated.

This morning one of these old souls came forward, led by two grand-children, as she was totally blind. She said she had been living a life of sin. She drank both native beer and tobacco juice, and other evils were her practices, but she had heard the good way. She wanted this blood to wash her evil heart clean, and although she couldn't see things here, she wanted to go to God, and see Him who had loved her enough to provide for her salvation. In another meeting, some came forward with this word, "We were sinners, children of the devil, but now we accept the Jesus way, and becoming children of God, we greet you as your new brothers and sisters." Who told them to testify thus? To us it is evidence of the Spirit of God working on these sin-blinded hearts, opening them wide to the blessed gospel, and such is the evidence of their faith.

I trust you have gathered a little news; that this will be considered as a personal letter by all who read, but most of all that you will receive a greater burden for the work here than before; and that you will continue earnestly in prayer—increasingly more so if possible—that many precious souls may find Christ precious to their souls, being loosed from the awful death-hold of sin and darkness, and delivered into the marvelous light and joy found only in and through our blessed Lord and coming Savior—I say coming Savior, since when He returns, as He will soon, I believe, our salvation will then be completely realized.

A Call To Intermediates To Enlist In The Army Of Jesus Christ

Miss Lena Marie Kortemeier

Intermediate Superintendent, Brethren National Christian Endeavor Union, Mabton, Washington Greetings, Intermediates. May the Lord bless you each one, through this year of 1940!

The call to youth is insistent these days. The nations' leaders are depending on the youth of their countries to carry out their programs of aggression, destruction and death. Many hundreds of young lives are sacrificed. Many are following these leaders.

But to you who have the privilege of knowing the Lord, comes the call to follow a Leader who will lead to certain victory, and the service now is glorious, the reward sure; not death and destruction, but life — eternal life — and an eternal reward.

Can you say, "I'm in this army, this glorious army, and the God of battles will defend me?" If you can, you have the assurance of the reward of which Paul writes in II Tim. 4:7,8, "A good fight...a finished course...a crown of righteousness...at that day."

This glorious army is made up of volunteers. None are drafted. Your equipment for effective service is provided. It is complete, and described in Ephesians 6:10-18.

The soldier upon entering the service of his country, must lay aside his civilian clothes and wear the uniform provided by his government. Even so, the soldier of Jesus Christ must "put off the old" and "put on the new." Colossians 3:9, 10. A Christian is known by his uniform. What you are is shown by what you do. "Christ in you" shines out through your personality.

Why not resolve now to "lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus." Heb. 12:1, 2. If Christ is your Captain you cannot be defeated, for we are "more than conquerors through Him that loved us" (Rom. 8:37).

C. E. NOTES and NEWS

Send all news letters, or other items of interest, to your news editor, Miss Grace Allshouse, 3326 S. Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The regular young people's topic is omitted this week as you will want to follow the suggested program for Brethren National C. E. Day on page (?)

Here's the good news most of us have been waiting for. Bethany Camp at Winona Lake has been engaged for Brethren young people during conference week next August, and again the Polmans will be in charge! If you missed Bethany Camp last year, you really missed something. So say both old and young—ministers, seminary students, Brethren Student Life Volunteers, parents and others—from coast to coast. For instance, Brother L. L. Grubb, pastor at Rittman, Ohio, writes, concerning Bethany Camp:

"A place where one is brought close to the great God of nature; an atmosphere in which Christian experiences are deepened and strengthened; a hallowed spot where Christ becomes Lord of the life; a center for the finest Christian fun and recreation. To be convinced, try Ethany Camp this year!"

Yes, Bethany Camp last year was certainly all of that, but those who attended "ain't seen nothin' yet!" The Polmans will soon have some real announcements to make regarding our next national Brethren camp, so don't fail to watch the C. E. Notes and News.

Roll call at your consecration meetings need not be monotonous. There are many novel ways to make it an interesting contribution to any meeting. For instance, call the names by states in which the members were born, by month of birth, by streets on which they live, etc.

Thirteen societies received awards last year for meeting the Brethren National C. E. goals: Y. P., Canton, O., 100 per cent; Adult, Ft. Wayne, Ind., 100 per cent; Sr. Y. P., Peru, Ind., 95 per cent; Adult, W. 10th, Ashland, 90 per cent; Y. P., Oakville, Ind., 90 per cent; Y. P. Clay City, Ind., 90 per cent; Y. P., Center Chapel, Ind., 90 per cent; Sr., Roanoke, Va., 80 per cent; Y. P., Roan, Ind., 80 per cent; Jr., Washington, D. C., 100 per cent; Jr., Leon, Ia., 100 per cent; Jr., Ft. Wayne, Ind., 100 per cent; Jr., Roanoke, Va., 100 per cent.

The president of the Center Chapel society writes regarding the awards, "We received the books and were pleased to get them." If your society has not been working toward the goals, why not begin today? For 1940 they are as follows:

NOTE: All societies who attain the 100 per cent in points of these goals, will be awarded three Christian Fiction Books. Those attaining 90 or 95 per cent will be awarded two Christian Books. Those attaining 80 or 85 per cent will be awarded one Christian Fiction Book.

These goals and the statistical blank must be in not later than July 31st.

If your society is not getting the letters sent out regularly by the Brethren National C. E. Union it is because your statistical report has not been sent in. You cannot afford to miss these letters. Statistical blanks and goal cards are furnished free upon request. Write Rev. Leo Polman, 4007 S. Tacoma Ave., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

An old lady expressed her opinion of a certain person, saying: "I never see her beat! She'll lop down in a cheer an' she'll set an' set, doin' absolutely nothin' fer hours an' hours day after day. 'Pon my soul, I sh'd think she'd mildew!" The expression is a good one for some Christian Endeavor societies. They lop down and set and set, and they are completely covered with mildew. But a single wide-awake member following the suggestions of the Standard C. E. Manual, can roust them out of their chairs, wipe off the mildew, and arouse them to happy activity. Order manuals today for every member of your society from Brother Polman. Price, in lots of a dozen or more, 12 1-2c each, single copies, 15c.

Many more interesting items which you will not want to miss (party plans, answers to personal problems and to society problems, etc.) will appear soon in the C. E. columns of this magazine. Watch these columns and keep up to the minute with Brethren C. E.

Don't throw away last year's Christmas cards or Scripture text calendars. Brother Claude Pearson, whose address is 261 W. 10th, San Pedro, Calif., can use the Christmas cards in connection with his mission work among seamen in the San Pedro harbor. Brother Sewell Landrum of Lost Creek, Ky., in connection with his work among the school children in the Kentucky Mountains, can also use Christmas cards which have verses from Scripture text calendars pasted over the names. The pictures on Scripture text calendars will be useful for sand table cutouts, flannelgraphs, etc., in the children's departments.

The Scripture verses from the calendars are useful also in making calendars of comfort for the sick. Paste the verses on sheets of paper of uniform size, and distribute them among the members. After pictures, poems, messages of comfort, and anything else that would add to the attractiveness and usefulness of the sheet have been added, the sheets are arranged and dated so that there will be a message of cheer for each day in the week.

This announces another Scrap Book Contest which will end the first day of our Brethren National Bible Conference in August. Every society could have a scrap book of ideas, plans and suggestions for every officer, committee and phase of C. E. From C. E. Notes and News and many other sources such material can be found. Not only should the collection include methods of value to the members assigned to the various duties, but there should be reference material for the leaders—Oriental customs which make Bible passages more clear, archaeological findings, methods of varying the meetings, etc. All material should be indexed to conform with the Standard C. E. Manual. Neatness, variety and cleverness of material and percentage of material secured from our Brethren publications, will be among the things taken into consideration in judging the scrap books. All books submitted will be displayed at the national Bible conference, and the society sending the best work will receive an award.

Ironing Out Your Society Wrinkles

Send all society problems which you would like to have discussed to your news editor, Miss Grace Allhouse, 3326 S. Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind., and they will be referred to one who knows the ins and outs of C. E. for the ages found in your society.

Question: Many of our Endeavorers refuse to lead a meeting. How can we get them to take part?

Answer: It is not always wise for young, inexperienced Endeavorers to try to lead a meeting until they have helped some one else to lead who has had considerable experience. In other words, the Prayer Meeting Committee should choose experienced leaders to lead, and they should use others to help them until the inexperienced leaders become experienced. Sometimes the leaders can have two or three sitting up front with them, giving them whatever part they can do; for a poor leader makes a poor meeting.

Question: No matter what topics we use, our meetings are so full of matter of fact. How can we make our meetings lively and full of interest?

Answer: One of the main reasons that meetings are not interesting is lack of preparation. One person should not plan a meeting alone, but should plan it out with the prayer meeting committee. There should be:

A good song service.

A worship service.

Special features (music, solos, drama, etc.)

A time for testimony.

A five minute summing up of discussion with spiritual emphasis by someone chosen before the meeting (the pastor, sponsor, or some capable adult).

It is rather difficult to give a general remedy for all meetings in one article, for each society needs to be studied separately. There are a number of books issued that make helpful suggestions, but an adult advisor or counselor should be very close to the young people and be able at all times to render assistance by making criticisms and constructive suggestions.

Roy E. Creighton, Executive Field Sec'y, Los Angeles County C. E. Union.

Note: If you are interested in the books to which Mr. Creighton refers, write Rev. Leo Polman, Secretary of the Brethren National C. E. Union, 4007 Tacoma Ave., Ft. Wayne, Ind., for names and prices.

"To The Juniors"

By Miss Miriam Gilbert
Junior Superintendent, Brethren National Christian Endeavor Union, Washington, D. C.

Greetings to you in the name of our blessed Savior, Jesus Christ. I want not only to extend greetings to all our Junior Endeavorers, but I want to extend to you my heartiest wishes for a wonderful year of service for your Savior, Jesus Christ.

It is my prayer as your superintendent that you may grow in grace and knowledge of your Savior during the coming year.

At the close of an old year we always look back and think of the things we might have done, but we also look forward to the new year with great anticipation. If we could spread the new year of 1940 before us like a map we would coose the things we would like to do and fit them into the pattern of a year. But this is not for us, for God holds the pattern and lets us work out the pattern each day, each week of the year. There is much we ought to do in our Junior societies, so many things we want to accomplish for our Lord this year. I am sure if we will let God lead the way during the days to come, He will fit each day into the pattern that He has for our individual lives and our local Christian Endeavor societies as well as our National Christian Endeavor work. Let this be our prayer for the days to come.

God grant me the strength to do
Some needed service here,
The wisdom to be brave and true.
The gift of vision clear,
That in each task that comes to me
Some purpose I may plainly see.

We are not attempting to present to you a long list of goals for the remainder of our Christian Endeavor year, but are presenting to you one project, that we want you to get behind and really put across during the few months remaining.

For several years the Juniors have had the privilege of contributing toward the support of Anne Celeste Kliever, who is living with her parents in French Equatorial Africa. It is hoped that every Junior Christian En-deavorer will place Anne Celeste's name on his prayer list and remember her daily in his prayers.

We are furnishing only 17 scripture verses for our memory work this year.

What God Does For His People

Cut the lids from two small boxes, and cut a round hole at the bottom of each box. Paste a piece of red paper over one hole, and a green one over the other. Turn the boxes on their sides with the covered holes toward the audience. Put a flashlight or small electric bulb inside each box to give the effect of a traffic light.

The society having been divided into two sides previously in order to prepare for competition in the traffic contest, each member is expected to take part. The leaders of the groups sit behind the boxes and turn the lights on and off at will. The red light indicates time for one group to take part, the green light for the other. Any person who does not take part in his turn has blocked the traffic and counts against the side. If desired, judges can decide which group presents the best program, consisting of Scripture reading, songs and choruses, prayers, special numbers, testimonies and talks, all of which should fit in with the theme of blessings which accompany a life lived in the will of God.

Approach to the lesson

Short talk by leaders on blessings which come from God; or quotation of Scripture verses naming some blessings which come from Him, to be summed up in a short talk by a member. The talks could be built around such passages as James 1:17 (every good gift comes from God); Eph. 1:3 (in Christ God gives us every spiritual blessing); Rom. 8:32 (God gives us all things freely); II Pet. 1:3-5 (God gives us all things pertaining to life and godliness).

Scripture illustrations

The children can choose ahead of time any of the following characters, and be prepared to tell briefly how God blessed that character for trusting Him. All lesson numbers refer to lessons in True Stories from the Long Ago. Those who do not take one of these characters can tell of some blessing God has given them personally.

Noah—Gen. 6-9; Les. 5-6.

Abraham—Gen. 22; Les. 12.

Joseph—Gen. 41; Les. 19.

Rahab—Josh. 2, 6; Les. 40-41.

Gideon—Judg. 6-8; Les. 45.

Ruth—Book of Ruth; Les. 48.

Samuel's parents—I Sam. 1-3; Les. 49.

Elijah—I Ki. 16-19; II Ki. 2; Les. 67-68, 73.

Jehoshaphat—II Chr. 19-20; Les. 71.

Naaman—II Ki. 5; Les. 74.

Elisha—II Ki. 6; Les. 75.

Hezekiah—II Chron. 29; Isa. 36-38; Les. 83, 85.

Josiah—II Ki. 22-23; Les. 87.

Daniel—Dan. 1-2, 6; Les. 88-89, 94.

The three Hebrews—Dan. 3; Les. 92.

Esther—Esth. 3-8; Les. 98-99.

Nehemiah—Neh. 1-6; Les. 101-102.

Any of the people who came to Jesus.

Peter and John—Acts 3-4; Les. 132.

Peter—Acts 12; Les. 138.

Paul and Silas—Acts 16; Les. 141.

Let's see how many societies can have 50 per cent of their members memorize these verses before June 30, 1940.

This makes only three goals:

First, let us have definite prayer for our little missionary friend, Ann Celeste Kliever.

Second, let us all have a part in her support on the African field by sending a contribution to Rev. Leo Polman, our executive secretary.

Third, let us have 50 per cent of our members memorize the above prescribed memory work.

A Word About Our Monthly Programs

These are suggested programs. There is no compulsion to use them slavishly. No one person, surely not your editor, has it in herself to be the last word in such matters. In future years, if the Lord tarries, a committee will work with the editor at national conference to get out the devotional programs for the year ahead. This year we must needs work this out alone.

Now About The Mission Study

We are not making a place in our suggested programs for this study, because we know that some Councils prefer to have a study each month at the regular meetings, while others like to gather at some other time and devote a whole day or part of a day, perhaps twice or four times in the year, to a social gathering at which the mission study is undertaken. The editor's own district, East Central, had already undertaken a mission study before National Conference, having organized in July, and we are going forward with that study. We think the Executive Board will bear us out in saying that our work this year is to be flexible; we are not to be poured into a mould in order to produce an absolutely identical result in each of our Councils. Our women should use their own God-given talents, consecrated to Him, to work out that which promotes missionary zeal and energy.

Where To Get Your Supplies

For Membership Cards and sample Local Constitutions, send to the president, Mrs. Kent.

For dime collectors and all literature except devotional topics, send to the literature secretary, Mrs. Monroe.

For the mimeographed Devotional Topics each month, just send the name of your local president to the editor, Mrs. Kidder.

For addresses of all of the above, turn back to the beginning of this section, just under the heading The Brethren Women's Missionary Council. Preserve this number for future reference for this information.

One Rally Reported This Month

The devotional meeting and organization service was held on Saturday at 3:30 P. M. Forty ladies were present. Individual councils represented were Leon, Dallas Center, Waterloo, Pleasant Grove and Garwin. All are organized except Garwin.

Officers elected were: Mrs. James Cook, Dallas Center, president; Mrs. John Myers, Williamsburg, vice-president; Mrs. A. A. Bontrager, Waterloo, secretary; Mrs. Gordon Carter, Dallas Center, treasurer.

A Letter From Our President:

Dear Sisters: Several months have passed since we stepped out upon faith to undertake a new ministry for our Lord. We began in such an unpretentious manner, yet so much has already transpired. We cannot help but witness the hand of blessing upon our efforts. We began with no financial endowment—in fact we began with a very loose organization. But these very facts have thrust us upon Him to clear each step of the way. We have His inexhaustible grace as our endowment, and what more could any child of God need? We are moving so rapidly in every realm of activity today that we must pause and reflect upon His wonderful direction.

Letters from many of you, written to me personally, have been a real help and encouragement. Since we have had no opportunity to hold an executive meeting, it has become necessary for me to make many decisions for you. But I know you are faithful in prayer for our administration, and prayer truly changes things and causes God to reveal His will more definitely to us.

During the month of January, you were asked to make an offering toward the expenses of carrying out our work. I am sure that the carrying out of this objective brought blessing to your local councils. Thus far we have been able to go forward with some gifts that have come in from here and there, to Mrs. Herman Koontz, our financial secretary. Now we must launch out into more expensive expansion. We must look forward toward printed programs, objective lists, mission study material, miscellaneous expenditures. These things must all be provided and brought to next National Conference at Winona in order that you may receive them there.

Perhaps our major expenditure will be the publication of our number of The Brethren Missionary Herald, with which you are now familiar. The fourth issue each month will be primarily our own, however, carrying the regular departmental features of the church. We trust you are satisfied with the offering you have made; and that you will be abundantly blessed, we have no doubt. But I do want you to know the purpose of the offering.

Now to look ahead a bit. We must concentrate upon objective number 4. Bouca Station in French Equatorial Africa has been so recently opened by Brother and Sister Joseph Foster. We have pledged ourselves to contribute largely to that work. We turn in our offering not later than February 25, to Mrs. Herman Koontz, our financial secretary. Pray much as you plan to aid this missionary enterprise. How sorely the gospel is needed and how anxious the missionaries are to give it forth. Our giving should be the most sacrificial we have ever witnessed.

We trust our women are faithful in reading the New Testament or the chapter a day of their own choice. It is our earnest desire that we shall become real searchers of the Word in these difficult days in which we live. The more familiar we become with the precious promises of God, the more real the Lord Himself becomes to us personally.

May you experience a fresh vision of Him as you labor diligently toward that day of His appearing.

Yours because of Him,

Mrs. Homer A. Kent.

NEWS FROM THE FIELD

By Mrs. W. A. Ogden, Vice-President

Dr. Floyd Taber writes from Yalohe:

"Just to make myself feel really at home, I started out by doing some sawing. Since the administration did not want the timbers, we might as well saw up the logs that have been hauled in for them, to use the lumber in the mission. I started building cottages to house our hospital patients, and planting palm trees along the driveway. Neither of these jobs would take much of my time if the natives had any conception of a straight line, a right angle, and of measuring distances. It so happens these ideas are entirely foreign to their thinking. What is a straight line, anyway? The shortest distance between two points? But who but the enigmatic white man would ever think of such a thing as wanting to find the shortest distance between two points? If a path, or a row of trees, or a wall begins here and ends there, isn't that enough? Why get foolish notions about having it straight?"

The only native nurse who knew the difference between paregoric and castor oil, said he wanted to leave. I did not try to dissuade him, because his spiritual attitude had been unsatisfactory for some time; and I would rather have no help at all, or have nurses who do not understand why you put medicine in your stomach when the pain is in your head, than to have one who knows all about medicine, but cannot have a spiritual ministry. Since then I have been breaking in nurses.

Two Months Language Study in June and July

My trip to Bozoum was planned to come at the same time as the opening of the Bible School for native evangelists from all over our field, so I could take the wives and children of the evangelists in the wagon. The men walked as there was not room for all to ride.

On Monday began the regular schedule of studying Sango, which is the trade language used in all this part of Oubangi-Chari. Each little tribe has its own language, but there are some in every village who understand Sango. So you will agree that it is a great handicap for anyone who travels around out here not to know it. Here is the schedule. On arising, private devotions—in the Sango New Testament. At 6:00, chapel—in the Sango. At 7:00, breakfast (permitted to speak in English). At 7:30 (this item was not on the schedule but it happened more regularly than some that were), seeing natives who wanted medical care. Of course, this had to be in Sango. From 8:15 to 10:30, sitting in on the Bible School for evangelists—of course in Sango. Just as fast as I could say anything, Brother Jobson called on me for comments. From 10:30 to 11:30, Brother Jobson gave me a private lesson in Sango. After dinner, siesta (I had the right to dream in any language I liked!). Afternoon was spent in Sango study, which took the form of preparing messages. After supper, family devotions from the Sango Testament. Now isn't that a good schedule? To enumerate all the interruptions will simply tire you and take up paper. Suffice it to say that the schedule worked all forenoon, without interruption for five days. Out of the month I spent two weeks at Bozoum.

Then came the second month of study at Boali chapel. It is located at the government post 100 miles on the road to Bangui. I drove into Boali after visiting all the chapels along the way.

On Sunday I had announced that I brought fifty Gospels of John in Sango with me, and that I would Teach out of this Gospel every evening at five o'clock, and that I would sell them for fifty centimes (half of a day's wage for a laboring man). By three o'clock the next day they were all gone and groups of men were sitting around everywhere chanting over the first few verses of John under the direction of improvised teachers.

After supper I read I and II Corinthians with the evangelists. Salaouchi is an old man as natives go—perhaps around forty. When we stopped reading Corinthians he would hunt through the Testament and read to me passages that had become especially precious to him. After a painful word by word reading, he would lift toward me his face, aglow with a light not of this world, and say, "You see? The Word of God says..." An experience like that will keep you from asking, "Is it worth while?"

Roll Of Local Councils

We are more than anxious to compile a complete roll of local councils as soon as possible; so we herewith publish the roll as we have it up to date, and ask that you look it over. If your council is not mentioned, drop a card to Mrs. Kent to say so. This we will be able to correct the list and your council will be published later.

A Few Words From The Editor

We made an appeal a month ago for much prayer concerning the new paper and our part in it; also for co-operation in making our paper a newsy, interesting publication for our women. We are not blaming you, because as yet we have not received our copy of the Herald, and must now send in copy for the new Missionary Herald. So we are just calling your attention again—please send in to the editor the news about the doings of your local councils or district rally, or any suggestion which you wish to pass on. If it is interesting to you it will be to the rest of the Brethren women.

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS VERY OWN PAGE

A Little Girl's Tooth Money

(from "Our Jewels")

I want to tell you how a certain little girl brought more money for missions than any of the others in her class. This little girl's name was Nancy. The teacher invited Nancy to tell the class how she happened to get so much money for her mite box. It was through having some of her teeth pulled, and this is the way the little girl told it to her class. She said:

"Well you th-ee, thi-th tooth wa-th loo-th, tho-o I pulled it out. N'en daddy and mamma gave me th-ome money for my mite bok-th. Th-o I worked thi-th one till it came out, and then thi-th one, and thi-th one. Th-o you th-ee I got a lot of money for my mite bok-th."

The little girl could not say this any better, for she had four teeth out in the front of her mouth, and it made her lisp. Maybe you cannot understand what she means, saying it in her lisping way, so I shall say it the right way also for you. This is what she meant to say:

"Well you see, this tooth was loose, so I pulled it out. Then daddy and mamma gave me some money for my mite box. So I worked this one till it came out, and then this one, and this one. So you see I got a lot of money for my mite box."

Not many little girls, or boys either, would be willing to work their teeth loose, and then pull them out, to get money for the Lord Jesus, would they? This little Nancy did not think about herself. All she thought of was that she wanted money for missions, and she knew that her daddy and mamma had given her money for the one tooth which had come loose of itself. She then thought it would be a good idea to work some more teeth loose and pull them out, to get more money.

Dear little Nancy! She had a loving heart for Jesus, and was willing to give up even her teeth to give something for His sake. I am sure the Lord Jesus looked at her heart, and blessed her for it.

A Bible Puzzle

When you solve the puzzle you will have a verse of the Bible. The letters in the verse are numbered in their order.

Key to the Puzzle

Each statement below will give you a clue to a word. The numbers before the statement will tell you how many letters in the word, and where these letters belong in the puzzle above. For instance, 61-31-16-40 stands for a four lettered word in Ps. 23:1 which tells you my Shepherd is. Ps. 23:1 says the Lord is my Shepherd, so Lord is the missing word. Write the letters L-o-r-d in order above the numbers 61-31-16-40 in the puzzle above; that is, L goes above 61, o above 31, r above 16 and d above 40. Can you complete the puzzle?

61-31-16-40 My Shepherd (Ps. 23:1).
28-75-19-24 We ought to ..... one another (I Jn. 4:11).

11-46-60-4-22 Have ..... in God (Mk. 11:22).
48-66-50-37 The first word in Mt. 11:28.

17-49 The first word in Mt. 28:19.
5-12-47-45 The verb in Jn. 3:36 which shows that everlasting life is ours now if we believe in the Son of God.

56-27-43-23-55-64 You cannot serve God and ..... (Mt. 6:24).

73-1-32-25-35-65 The man who tied firebrands to foxes tails (Judg. 15:4).

10-2-58-69-53-6 The man who saw Elijah go up into heaven (II Ki. 2:11-12).

39-51-8 What Peter and Andrew cast into the sea (Mt. 4:18).

7-59-63-30-57 The number of times God appeared to Solomon (I Ki. 11:9).

77-26-38-74 The third word in Jn. 11:2.

70-29-68 The man who told Samuel to say, "Speak, Lord; for thy servant heareth" (I Sam. 3:9-10).

41-20-21-9 The man whose sons sold Abraham a burying place (Gen. 23:3-6).

34-72-42-3 When Moses' rod became a serpent, the Lord told him to take it by the ..... (Ex. 4:2-4).

67-15-44 Nebuhadnezzar's body was .... with the dew (Dan. 4:33).

71-76-52 When Stephen preached, they were .... to the heart (Acts 7:54).

54-14-33-36 The last word in Mt. 25:3.

62-18-13 The first half of the first word in Jn. 13:33.

The book in which the verse is found has the same name as the man mentioned in Jn. 1:6.

The chapter in which it is found is the same as the number of chapters in the book of Ephesians. Subtract two from the number of chapters in the Old Testament, and you will have the number of the verse in which it is found.

Separation

By Mrs. O. Baylor

Does the path of separation
Grow more narrow, day by day?
Does it lead thru lonely shadows?
Take thee from thy friends away?
Is thine heart forever aching,
'Till with tears thine eyes are dim?
Still—the path of separation
Is the sweetest walk, with Him.
For He knew the pain of heartache,
As he climbed the hill alone:
Like a sparrow on the housetop,
From whose side each friend has flown
For He bore the stares and taunting
Jeers and sneers of wicked men;
So with heart of understanding
He will bear thy pain again.
And He'll come with loving comfort
All thy loneliness to cheer.
Hence no matter what the testing,
Choose His way without a fear.
For the path of separation
Tho it leads thru valleys grim,
Thou wilt find, as twilight deepens,
Is the sweetest walk, with Him.

My God Shall Supply All Your Need (Phil. 4:19)

We may not want our needs, and we may not need our wants. God loves us too much to give us everything we want—and He loves us too much to hold back anything we need.—S. S. Times.

I Do Not Fear

By Rawley Lemley

Though dark the night, I do not fear,
For well I know that God is near!
I talk to Jesus in my prayer;
I know He has me in His care.
His little stars, like candles bright,
Shine down on me throughout the night

NEWS BRIEFS

From
Our Workers

By Robert D. Culver

From The New Brethren Church started in Fremont, O., on Dec. 25, comes the following report of their first meeting: "We had Sunday School in two different homes and had an attendance of 33 and an offering of $10.91, which we do not think is so bad for the first time. . . . We are thinking of calling our group the "Grace Brethren." Other reports tell us that the group has been meeting since then, and at the time of this writing, Phillip J. Simmons, student of Grace Seminary, is on his way to Fremont to preach January 14. These Brethren are to be commended for a firm stand.

The Following Excerpt from a Waterloo, Iowa newspaper is of interest to Herald readers. "Designed in modern style of architecture and constructed of light weight insulating blocks, the Grace Bible Church, will be completed early in January at an estimated cost of $5,000. Exterior of the church, which is 52 by 64 feet, is finished in cream-colored stucco. It consists of one story and basement. Two lots, a total of 100 by 126 feet, were purchased for the site, which leaves room enough to add a parsonage and Sunday School annex later. The church auditorium will seat 300 persons. . . ." This is also a group of Brethren who have found it necessary to seek new company and new quarters. Frank Coleman Jr. goes to this new church as pastor the first week of April.

Joe Gingrich, lately pastor at North Long Beach, Calif., will take the pastorate of the Allentown, Pa., church which Bro. Coleman is leaving.

One Of Our Largest Brethren Sunday Schools is that at Dayton, Ohio. The following news, clipped from the church bulletin, will be encouraging to those who know the vicissitudes that have assailed that church these last three years. The average Sunday School attendance for the last twelve years is 526 per Sunday. Last year the attendance averaged 550. "1939 is a tie with 1933, the second highest attendance in the twelve year period. Congratulations Sunday School." May we say with the last three words of that report Congratulations, Sunday School.

An Interesting Item: Dr. V. C. Kelford of Waterloo, Iowa, well known in many of our Brethren churches, will be speaking in our Fort Wayne, Indiana church and twice a day at Grace Seminary, during the week of January 14-28. After serving in these two places, Dr. Kelford will go to Alberta, Canada, for some Bible conferences, and then to California for a meeting in the Whittier church for the first two weeks of March. Dr. Kelford will be available for other conferences while on the West Coast, and any church desiring his services may address him at Grace Theological Seminary, Winona Lake, Indiana, or at Fort Wayne, Indiana. It is also reported that Dr. Kelford is coming into the membership of the Fort Wayne church.

From Sunnyside, Washington, comes the report of another Sunday School with a good report for 1939.

Average attendance for the year was 170. Earl W. Reed, pastor of this church, is holding a two weeks' series of meetings in another Yakima Valley, Washington church which began January 7. Last year Bro. Reed was the instrument God used to harvest 26 souls, over half first time decisions, in this same church. May God bless his ministry likewise again.

Is This The Right Road Home?

Is this the right road home, O Lord?

The clouds are dark and still;

The stony path is hard to tread;

Each step brings some fresh ill.

I thought the way would brighter grow,

And that the sun with warmth would glow,

And joyous songs from free hearts flow.

Is this the right road home?

Yes, child, this very path I trod.

The clouds were dark for me;

The stony path was sharp and hard.

Not sight, but faith, could see

That at the end the sun shines bright

Forever where there is no night

And glad hearts rest from earth's fierce fight.

It is the right road home.

God's Way Is Best

By O. Baylor

All sattered on the ground, bright blossoms lay,
For in the night a storm had passed that way.

But did I hear the mother-bush lament,

Because of perished hopes and beauty rent?

Ah no! Her rain-wet face to God was turned

And thru that humble praise this truth I learned:

He gives us grace to bear the bitter test,

When we look up and say, "God's way is best."

Tell The Good News

There's only one way that the lost world can know

That Jesus for sinners had died;

To tell the glad story He's bidden us go,

And no other way doth provide.

If Christ's disciples had silently gone,

And been to their great trust untrue,

His plan of salvation we could not have known—

His mercy for me and for you.

He's counting on us the story to tell,

His plan of redemption for man;

He's counting on me—He's counting on you;

The Master has no other plan.—Sel.

What Is The Brethren Student Life Volunteers?

By Kenneth Ashman

Conemaugh, Penna., National Superintendent

Many folks, young and old, have been reading our column in the Brethren Herald. A number of them have been a little uncertain as to our organization. They are asking questions. Here's a brief explanation and introduction.

To Brethren Student Life Volunteers is a Christian fellowship of Brethren young men and women. It was organized by the Home Mission's Council and started in March, 1939. It already has a membership of 200 and is growing daily. It is an organization committed to the dedication of Brethren young men and women to the ministry of Christ. Its key Scripture verses are 1 Cor. 6: 19, 20. "... know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own? For ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's." The members of the B. S. L. V. are trying to do, by the power and grace of Christ, just what those verses command.

Another question from the young people has been, "Why haven't I heard from the Superintendent and why don't I receive the B. S. L. V. literature?" It is true that some names have been missed in our rapid growth. For this we are sorry. A postcard to the Superintendent will soon remedy the trouble. However, most of you have been missed because your local leadership has not supplied the Superintendent with your names and addresses. Urge your leaders to organize a B. S. L. V. movement in your local congregation. It will bear fruit in no time at all. This is a soul-winning and a soul-consecrating movement.

Student Aid Fund Announcement

You have been patiently waiting for the opportunity to assist in the Student Aid Fund. Here are the plans: This part of our work will henceforth be known as "Sharing for Service." The purpose is just what the name implies. We are going to pool our gifts from month to month and use these gifts to help worthy ones through the difficult years of preparation for the ministerial and missionary fields. This will not be a loan system. It will rather be a gift system and will extend as far as your gifts enable it to go. How are you going to give?

First of all, "as the Lord hath prospered you." He asks no more and we should give Him no less.

Secondly, we will give with prayer. As your each and every gift is sent to the Superintendent, we would be happy to know that its sending is accompanied with the raising of a prayer God-ward. Your prayers will be a great factor in the proper disbursement of these funds. Don't neglect this part of the "Sharing for Service."

Thirdly, we trust that your giving shall be regular. We are not asking for pledges. Each month when you receive your "Personalized Letter," included with it will be a special "Sharing for Service" envelope. This envelope, properly identified by yourself, should be returned to the Superintendent as soon as convenient with your gift for that month. You may desire to keep the envelope and add to it until the next one arrives. It matters not what method you follow. It is up to you. We only ask that you give as you are led of the Spirit.

In the fourth place, let us add that "Sharing for Service" is not limited to any one group of Brethren members. If you are through with your preparation, you should feel desirous to help those coming along. If you are in preparation, you should think of those at your heels. If you are looking to preparation, you should be laying up "treasures in store" in the fund for your own future help.

How much will we have available for distribution by the fall of 1940? Frankly, we do not know. We are certain, however, that there will be many requests, requests worth answering. We do know for sure that the Lord has means of answering these needs. We are confident, that you, B. S. L. V. members and friends, will submit yourselves unto the Lord that He may use you as the channel through which these needs may be supplied. Do your share in the "Sharing for Service."

B. S. L. V. Rallies

The schedule for the B. S. L. V. rallies is not yet complete. We are glad to announce the following:

Canton, Ohio. December 22, 1939. Ralph Rambo, with other Grace Seminary students, will have full charge of the N. E. O. C. E. Rally. Ralph will report on the good time enjoyed there in Canton. There are many B. S. L. V. members in the Canton district. Brother Rambo will conduct rallies throughout Indiana, Ohio, and the mid-West. Ft. Wayne (Jan. 27), Peru, Dallas Center, New Troy and Flora, are all included. Definite dates for these will be forthcoming soon. Orville Lorenz and Kenneth Ashman will be quite active in the east shortly after the first of the year. Together they plan to conduct a preaching and singing tour to P. S. L. V. centers in Pennsylvania, Virginia and Maryland. They want to be sure and visit the active groups in Allentown, Philadelphia, Winchester and Washington, D. C. Already a rousing rally has been held in Iistie, Pa., and the "Volunteers" there are asking for another.

We don't know whether the West Coast has slipped into the Pacific or not. At yet we have received no word as to rallies from Paul Bauman. He's the helper on the West Coast. However, we promise that you B. S. L. V. members in the far West shall not be neglected at all. Watch for the date and the place of the rally nearest you. Be sure to attend and take part. Report the same to your Superintendent with your own personal comments.

Many Thanks

Our appeal for help in the December "Herald" brought many kind and appreciated offers. A number of such have been accepted and much has been accomplished that would have otherwise been left undone. We thank you greatly in His name.

He Must Have Been Grieved

It amused me when she bounded boisterously into the restaurant. It embarrassed me when she sat opposite, a little too fresh. It riled me when she applied the paint to her lips and I ate with mine. I left when she lit a "coffin nail" and blew smoke in my face. It disgusted me when I paid the bill for a meal I hadn't eaten. Of course, I had every reason to act as I did. But I didn't feel satisfied about it at all. My pocket was full of gospel tracts, my Testament was in my vest pocket. But my hands, my lips, and my heart had been without a testimony for Him. I went back—she was gone—maybe she'll never hear the gospel at all. The whole affair grieved me sorely. But oh, how much more it must have grieved Him. He placed a soul before me to win. I let the soul slip away towards hell. May God forgive! "Volunteers," He loves them all. He desires them all. He sends us to them all. Don't grieve the Master. He is worth pleasing. Go to them all!

SENTENCE SERMONS

How much good talent is lost in the church, merely for the want of a little courage!

What most people need in their work is not more brains, but more pains.

Live so as to be missed.

Don't forget that victory is by submitting.

The crosses we fear are heavier than the crosses we bear.

When Fear knocks at the door, send Faith to answer and you will find nobody there.

We can tickle people's ears but only the Holy Spirit can prick men's hearts.

THE COMING EASTER OFFERING

Easter Sunday, March 24th, 1940, Foreign Missionary Sunday in all Brethren churches, just seven weeks away from the date of this magazine! Are we all getting ready for it?

As the very last moment of our Lord's days upon the earth drew to a close, He gathered His own about Him on old Olivet's brow, and made His last request:

"Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you."

And then He gave unto them His last precious promise:

"And, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world." Dare we—dare any one of us—go over into His presence without first having done as much as in us is, to tell the story of His redeeming love in all this world to every human being for whom Christ died?

We, in The Brethren Church, all firmly believe in the rite of Christian baptism. It is impossible to read the New Testament Scriptures, and not to realize its importance. Moreover, we cling tenaciously to the one form—we believe the correct form, as taught by the great Master and practiced by His apostles—even trine immersion. We believe in it so strongly, that save for one or two rare instances, no church has dared to receive any one into its full fellowship without it. The churches that did it have been condemned therefore.

But, let us remember that the matter of baptism, important as it is, is the less important side of the Great Commission. Surely, surely, no intelligent man—no man who is spiritually minded—would hold that the amount of water or the form used, in Christian baptism, could be equal in importance to the command, "Go, teach all nations," making known to all men the love of God that provided the Lamb whose shed blood makes a sufficient atonement for our sins.

What must the world of men—what must God Himself—think of a pastor or of a church, that preaches the rite of water baptism so strongly, and then minimizes the importance of carrying the good news of the salvation that our God has brought to us, to all the nations of the earth? Is it because water is so cheap, and steamboat tickets are so costly, that some pastors speak so little of foreign missions, and some churches are so apathetic towards the great command of our Lord: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature?"

The Brethren Church has as fine a band of missionaries as any church can boast. They are out there now, on the firing line for Christ, facing foes that we in the homeland know not of. Is there a Brethren Church with soul so dead, that it will not answer to their Macedonian call: "Come over yourself and help us; or, send one in your stead to help us! Either way, only help us! The story must be told!"

Every pastor will soon be receiving the usual pre-Easter material to be used in getting his people into readiness for the Easter offering, which offering enables us to carry on the great work for another year—or, "until He comes." This when received, should be given first attention.

Yours for Christ and His church,

Secretary-Treasurer of The Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church

TRIBUTE TO THE CHURCH

Being a lover of freedom, when the revolution came in Germany, I looked to the universities to defend it, knowing that they had always boasted of their devotion to the cause of truth; but no, the universities immediately were silenced. Then I looked to the great editors of the newspapers whose flaming editorials in days gone by had proclaimed their love of freedom; but they, like the universities, were silenced in a few short weeks. Then I looked to the individual writers, who, as literary guides of Germany, had written much and often concerning the place of freedom in modern life; but they, too, were mute. Only the church stood squarely across the path of Hitler's campaign for suppressing truth. I never had any special interest in the church before, but now I feel a great affection and admiration because the church, alone, has had the courage and persistence to stand for intellectual truth and moral freedom.—Albert Einstein.

ISRAEL'S DAYS OF SORROW

A letter from a Polish Christian Jew has been sent to the editor by the Hebrew Christian Alliance of America, it is dated Dec. 12, 1939. This letter contains this paragraph. We quote:

"The misery of our Jewish people in Central Europe cannot be described. The bestial inhumanity that they suffer at the hands of the demonical persecutors cannot be put down on paper. It is unmentionable. Apart from wanton persecutions, they suffer from the ravages of war. Think of 450,000 in the city of Warsaw! Think of 3,000 Jews, brethren of Christ, according to the flesh,—men, women and children wandering in fields and forests in the wintry dawns in Poland, dressed in rags and half naked, sick, starving, desperate, half crazed people. As one eye witness says, "The living envying those that are dead."

And Poland is not the only place in which the Jews are suffering all the horrors of earthly hell these days. Surely the Lord God of Israel liveth, and as He lives, He is looking down seeing that which men, women, and little children are suffering all because of their blood relation to the Lord Jesus Christ. How much longer can he tarry? We cannot help but believe that the hope of Israel cometh quickly! Come, Lion of the Tribe of Judah, come!

A PREDICTION

The great apostasy is on. Practically all our larger denominations are being rent and torn asunder by it. Independent congregations of Presbyterians, Baptists, Methodists, and others are springing up all over the country. This is due to the fact that God still has His "seven thousand" that refuse to bow the knee to that late god known as modernism.

Several years ago the Great Commission Prayer League of Chicago issued a prediction that is certainly coming true. We quote:

"My prediction is that not a generation remains between us and the formation of a mighty body of believers, the strongest and the most powerful that ever shook the world; they are massing from the rivers to the ends of the earth. They are ready to break with any and all denominations when the call of God shall sound. They will not abide the presence of that foe who could cut the Old Book to shreds, depose Jesus Christ from His throne of deity, and rob man of the mighty change known as the new birth, as taught by the fathers, whose eyes were fixed on the cross, and whose messages never wandered far from a fountain of blood. It will all but tear the heart out of some of us when the rending of the timbers is heard. But we will not be led into the trap of the deceiver and the snare of the despoiler by our leaders. They must lead toward God or we will refuse to follow."

MORE AND MORE scientists whose opinion is worth considering acknowledge that behind and around everything is the sure evidence of a conscious intelligence in our universe. The idea that the heavens and the earth, and the people of the earth, and the marvelous arrangements for mankind's sustenance and enjoyment on the earth and from above it—the idea that all of that "just happened" is no longer tenable. Sir James Jeans says, "If the universe is a universe of thought then its creation must have been an act of thought." Another scientist, Sir Arthur Keith, states, "Whether we are laymen or scientists, we must postulate a Lord of the Universe, give Him what shape we will."

DICTATORSHIPS HIT

In addressing the sixty-second annual meeting of the District of Columbia Baptist Convention, Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, Secretary of the district body, declared that Evangelical Christianity is facing the most serious crisis in all its history. This crisis, he averred, is due to totalitarian governments which today control the lives of humanity.

He said that Baptists' work is restricted by decrees, by punitive measures and by actual persecution, if not wholly wiped out, in all countries where totalitarian governments have been established.

Calling attention to the rise and spread of totalitarianism in the past 25 years he said:

"All over the world we hear the doors slamming against the free proclamation of the gospel, and wars in Europe and Asia are increasing the difficulties of our foreign missionaries."

"GODLINESS WITH CONTENTMENT"

A prominent Presbyterian layman of Southern California, who has read something of our denominational difficulties, and knowing something of the missionary editor's tribulations these days, has just written us as we are about to go to press, saying:

"I am led to send you a word of cheer. I know you are not looking for praise, but we are all human, and these unkind things that people do and say cannot help but affect one more or less. . . . I am enclosing a clipping I found in an old publication and this article expresses what I want to say."

We have learned since receiving this that the "clipping" he sent us was written by the well known Southern Methodist pastor, Rev. "Bob" Shuler. We had never seen it before. As soon as we read it, we felt that it was worth passing on to others. It brought us "cheer" and we believe it will bring "cheer" to others of our brethren who are standing steadfast for "the faith once for all delivered unto the saints" in these apostate times. Of course, it brought to our minds instantly the words of the Apostle Paul, who himself was sometimes desperately in need of "a word of cheer." The words of Paul are, "but godliness with contentment is great gain" I Tim. 6:6.

CONTENTMENT

"If thou shalt be content—

"If thou shalt be content to do thy best and fail, nor count thyself defeated—

"If thou shalt be content to do battle all alone, the multitude against thee, thy friends deserting, none but God to cheer thee on—

"If thou shalt be content to do thy work, to play thy part, to take a stand for truth and righteousness and battle like a man, to thrust thy sword into the heart of wrong and take the sword thrust of hell's minions, undisturbed by numbers that oppose thee, unterrified at the noise and smoke and conflict—

"If thou shalt be content to smile and onward go through storms of condemnation, through bitter lies of evil tongues, through wilful purpose to misstate thy case, through gossip's muck and slander's mire, through hate and venom, while thy brother man, whose battles thou art fighting, stands by, nor lends a helping hand—

"If thou shalt be content to trust thy God and dare to do His will, with lion's dens and furnaces of fire ahead, happy to know heaven cheers thee at thy task and one like unto God's own Son walks through the fiery trials with thee, thy strength the strength of God's right arm—

"If thou shalt be content—

"Oh, man, if thus contentment dwells within thy breast on battle fields for righteousness and for the common good, be well assured thy battleaxe shall keener grow with coming years, thy strength of heart and soul a conquering force, unequalled by the puny darts of evil men. God's resources lie behind, about, beneath thee. The strength of heaven's hosts, the swiftness of the chariots of the skies, the banner of a king whose cause has never met defeat—all shall attend thee on those battlefields.

"Therefore, think not to tremble at the multitude's contempt nor fear before the allied forces of the hosts of sin and wicked deeds. Hold firmly in thy hand thy trumpet. Break thy pitcher with the challenge of a heart that knows its God. Flash thy light into the face of darkness. And know full well that God is bankrupt and heaven is a pauper's refugee, if that invincible Captain of every righteous cause doth not defeat the powers of hell that camp before thee.

"And yet, Oh man, thy eyes may rest before the victory. Thy hand may sleep in dust before the God of thy salvation and of right, shall reign. Others may take thy place and battle on for generations before the conquest that thy soul hath pictured. The violets may lift their faces from thy grave to kiss the dews of centuries before the dawning hour when those black wrongs and damning evils thou hast battled with shall be subdued.

"But oh, if thou, shalt be content—

"Content to hope and pray, content to dare and do, content to battle and be brave, content with faith to see the victory approaching, content to know thy God is near and never will desert, content to leave the victory with Him—

"How happy, now swelling full of joy thy soul, how surfeited with strength, how overflowing with heaven's certainty thy heart, how sure the victory—

"If thou shalt be content."

A NON-STOP WALK FOR 2000 YEARS

India has so many villages that if one were visited every day it would take 2,000 years to visit them all. The people living in them constitute 60 per cent of the British Empire. Missionary policy which in any way overlooks this fact is neglecting the main problem of India and also of the empire. The village Christian congregations of India today are the hope of the new India.

The first woman has been elected to the Indian Legislative Assembly—Mrs. Subbarayan.

YOUNG CHINA REFUSES TO BE OVERWHELMED

The invasion of China has had a remarkable effect upon the younger generation. Multitudes of both male and female students—usually impulsive, distrustful of leadership and antagonistic of law and order, with marked determination and insight into the perils of their country, have joined the fighting forces. Apparently Chiang Kai-shek has gained the confidence of their enthusiastic bands and with the Central Army forces intact he awaits the attack in Central China.

Unhappily it is not the fighting forces alone who suffer. In thickly populated areas millions of hard-working peasants and small traders have lost all their possessions, and are wandering about the country, bewildered, starving and dying like flies from privations unthought of in our Western civilization.

Notwithstanding the continued severe endeavours to break the spirit of the Chinese there are no evidences of bowing down to the armed invaders.

The very fact that Japanese forces are pushing further into the interior bears witness to the fact that they have failed to crush China's resistance. The future of both China and Japan is far from bright. War makes terrible demands on all parties. No wonder that in both countries the Christian church makes its appeal to all friends to share with it a sense of responsibility in these perilous days and to adopt whatever measure it can within its power to set in motion the corporate conscience of the world.—World Dominion.

GLEANINGS FROM MISSIONARIES' LETTERS

Brother Jobson, our new Superintendent writes from Africa: "I observe that the responsibilities of superintendent have been definitely committed to me. This humbles me before my Lord, for I am very conscious of my insufficiency for the task. However, after having remembered very definitely the board's deliberation before the Lord during the week that you were meeting, I take it that He has led you, and I accept this as His will. It encourages me to know that the choice was unanimous; that means that I can count on the united prayers of the board. 'And such trust have we through Christ to Godward: not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think anything as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God.' It is my desire that my service for Him, in whatever capacity He shall choose, shall always be 'my human best, filled with the Spirit' Filled with the Spirit of God, weakness is turned into strength and foolishness into wisdom.

"How gracious of you to say that you 'have every confidence in my good judgment.' You, more than any other on the board, have observed my grave and frequent mistakes. Whatever the past has been, it is under the blood of God's blessed Son, and so we rest that with Him. As to the future, He will guide us as we yield to Him."

Mabel Crawford seems to keep busy. She writes:

"These are certainly busy days for us. I have added some more classes to my already full schedule:.... have taken on part of the girls three afternoons. I have the big girls that can read:.... There are so many of them that they got the best of Estella; so I had to come to her rescue. I already had part of the women on Monday and Thursday. Sometimes I think I can't get through the day. My first class is at 6:30 in the morning, and it is a steady rush from then through to 6:00 in the evening."

An African Duck That Refuses to be eaten, is the sad tale told in a letter from Miss Crawford of Bassai, A. E. F. "Ho hum, I've been having a terrible time this day. I decided to have roast duck; and thereby hangs a tale! When I went to open the pressure cooker to turn the duck the lid wouldn't budge. I did everything I could think of, but still the duck defies attack. When noon came we had to sit down to an omelet instead of the anticipated duck. I haven't the slightest idea how to get the thing open."

Dr. Floyd Taber, in writing from Yaloke, par Boali, under date of September 13, writes a most interesting letter from "a civilized part of the world"—even the heart of Africa!

"On Friday evening we listened to the radio news of German troops entering Poland. Saturday eve Miss Tyson's radio stopped working. I had to work on it all Monday a.m., but at last I triumphed—I was able to get static! So I tried to get the Hathaway's radio into working shape with not quite as good results—I was not able to get static! So, since then we have contented ourselves with second hand news from rare passers by:.... So we are completely cut off from the world, and our nervous systems are in a thousand per cent better condition than they would be if we sat up half the night listening to stories of European savagery. It is certainly a great comfort to live in a civilized part of the world:....

"Seriously, we are living in the most favored spot on earth right now. We have absolutely nothing to fear. We may have reason to worry about you in America:.... But who would come all the way to the heart of Africa to bother us? The natives? There are ten times as many who would give their lives for us as there are who might want to harm us. Then who? Nobody on earth. Only the devil. You would think he would be enjoying himself to the full in Europe right now, and would leave us alone; but he doesn't. He knows his time is short. He never was more active. We need your prayer help every day for protection, not only against physical danger, but spiritual."

Dr. Taber

Westervelt Home—Our readers we know are greatly interested in the welfare of our missionaries' children. One of the greatest problems that any Foreign Missionary board faces is the problem of the missionary's child:.... Up to a certain age they can be cared for upon the field; but, for more reasons than one, and especially for the educational reason, all foreign boards so far as we know, are agreed that it is better for the children of missionaries in mission lands such as Africa and China to remain in the homeland. At present time, and for some years past, two of the children of the Superintendent of our African work, Orville D. Jobson, have been in the Westervelt Home for missionaries' children at Batesburg, South Carolina. This home was formerly in Columbia, but now is located about twenty miles south of that city. We are sure that the friends of our missionaries will all be interested in the following paragraphs taken from a letter that the editor has received from Kathryn Jobson:

"The home is wonderful here, so much more space than Columbia and such nice buildings. How we do praise the Lord for this. He certainly does exceeding abundantly above what we ask or think.

"We have 42 acres of ground. We have four buildings—teachers' and workers' building, with the dining room in the basement; the large dormitory divided for girls and boys; the school building, with three rooms beside the library; and the gymnasium.

"We have a baseball diamond and a tennis court in the making, besides our gymnasium for various other sports. ....

"We have a grammar school, high school, and Bible school; with lovely teachers and good Christian training.

"We have children of all ages and from many countries, such as Africa, South and Central America, India, and the islands of the sea. We truly enjoy the Christian fellowship with all. The Lord has blessed us with lovely Christian friends. ....

"This home is wonderful. How thankful I am to the Lord for bringing me to such a home — a home where Christ is honored and exalted, with Christian surroundings and friends. He has grown very dear to me and I have grown to Love Him as never before. His compassions fail not, they are new every morning; great is thy faithfulness.

"David is a Freshman in the high school, and I am a Junior. We have domestic work in with our studies. The girls and boys take turns in getting meals and doing dishes, which helps so much.

"The older ones have Christian service assignments. I had one among the colored ones of our town. They truly are needy people, and how we pray that from time to time they will be brought into a deeper and fuller knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ as their Savior, as the One Who loves and cares for them, enough to die for them. ....

"We do covet your prayers for this home and us, that Christ truly may be glorified in our lives; that 'Naught of self may mar His glory,

'Naught of sin may make it dim,
But just a glorious, glorious shining
That the friends around see Him.'

"We appreciate your thought and care and know that He never fails. How thankful we are for that."

ILLUSTRATIVE JOTTING

BACK TO THE SHOP

Let him return unto the Lord. Read Isaiah 55:1-8.

Four-year-old Barbara sometimes utters cryptic sayings. Resentful of an action of her nursery school teacher, she said to her mother, "Miss Jones is cruel to the children. She ought to be sent back to the shop."

After the difficulty had been smoothed out, the teacher asked Barbara what she meant by wanting her "sent back to the shop."

"I meant that you ought to go back to God who made you, and get fixed."

Ah, little Barbara! You have put your tiny finger on what is the cause of all our sinning; we must return to Him Who alone can make right what is wrong with us.

HOW ARE NATIVES TO BE FREED OF THEIR BELIEF IN MAGIC?

(Summary of the "Revue Missionaire" July 1938, entirely devoted to a study of this question by the Missionary L. Cattaneo, Mozambique, Portugese East Africa.)

Experienced missionaries are often nonplussed by the persistent superstition and fatalism of natives who, finding it easy to believe in a life-giving Creator, pay but lip-service to the articles of the Christian faith, and tend to develop a syncretism fatal to full trust in God.

Native believers of ten or even twenty years' standing find it very difficult to get deliverance from their primitive beliefs. How are they to be set free at once and for always? When sickness comes, when a member of the family dies — especially an only child — when something extraordinary happens — an accident or a prolonged drought — or when the crops are destroyed by wild beasts or insect pests, the native consciousness is swamped and overcome by a flood of magical beliefs.

What Has The Native To Be Set Free From?

His poor sense of cause and effect leads uncivilized man to magical beliefs and practices in which imagination is confused with actuality, and the casting of spells is a very real thing to him. These and the wrath of a god, or demon possession, or the neglect of a taboo, are to him the supernatural causes of misfortune. And for every piece of "bad luck" as for every occasion requiring guidance, the heathen consult their "oracular bones", which constitute the veritable stronghold of Bantu paganism.

How Is The Native To Be Set Free?

Let us admit we do not understand the native mentality. Let us confess, too, that civilization has not succeeded in delivering the native from his age-long bondage to magic and superstition. On the contrary, alas! his weakness is even exploited by Europeans who sell him books dealing with mysteries, dreams and astrology.

An enquiry in 1936 elicited the reply from African correspondents that magical practices are on the increase, that witch doctors are more respected and feared than priests and chiefs. A very high percentage, it is said, of native Christians believe in sorcery and go in dread of its powers or have recourse to it in secret.

The Colonial authorities while they "respect native customs", discountenance accusations of witchcraft, yet external repression would not be as effective as internal conviction in changing the Africans' attitude.

The child's parents are, of course, a great hindrance to progress and freedom, and can undo good work, except perhaps where mission boarding schools have had the opportunity of training the young aright; for to be successful here schools need to have a definite moral and religious bias.

As to medicine, the blacks who are often clever in their empirical way, do not admit the complete superiority of the white doctor, for in the fear of the unknown —in sickness and death—scientific knowledge (e. g. of microbes) has merely pushed back a bit the frontiers of ignorance and awe. In itself explanation does not offer security. But medicine as it is practiced by missionaries, that is, accompanied by the Word of God does suffice, M. Calvin Mapope declares, to deliver the native from his magical obsessions.

Biblical Teaching And Magic

The Bible provides us with the one remedy to cure the native of his weakness and error, because it gives us the perfect revelation of the love of God in Jesus Christ whose coming was foreshadowed in the Old Testament. Even in the Pentateuch magic is attacked as being the worst enemy of true religion. Intercourse with familiar spirits was strictly forbidden (Lev. 19:31; Deut. 18:11; Isa. 8:19). On the positive side, moreover, there is definite help against fear and despair. Jesus Christ, the Living Word incarnate, is alone capable of freeing the slaves of fear. "Jesus" is the satisfaction of all the needs of a soul caught in the toils of magical charms. He alone gives to a soul in anguish the consciousness of being loved with everlasting love.

To deny the existence of spirits and spells does not help very much, but to insist on the power and authority of the Lord Jesus is of great avail. "There is nothing from without a man, that entering into him can defile him" (Mark 7:15). Here is the condemnation of all taboos. "Out of the heart of man proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, murders, thefts," etc. (Mark 7:21, 22). Here is the revelation of moral defilement and the condemnation of sin. The Lord touched the leper and cleansed him; God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son; he that believeth in Me hath everlasting life; fear not, only believe; who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Utterances like these, says Calvin Mapope, drive out fear and form an anchor for many a native Christian in distress, keeping them true to the Word of God, and persevering in prayer, and he quotes striking examples of victorious faith.

The Church And The Fight Against Magic

Since criticism arouses antagonism, preaching should be positive rather than negative, proceeding by addition rather than subtractions, but catechumen classes can deal with these questions and problems.

Finally church discipline is necessary to check the recrudescence inside the church itself of magical practices, rebuking any who, ungrateful for redeeming love, turn their backs on the living God and revert to paganism.

Attention Rev. Chas. W. Mayes, Ed.

Dear Friends:

It was with real appreciation that the Missionary Number of The Brethren Herald was received, with the announcement of your new publication, and of the fact that Brother Mayes, whose editorial work I have felt was superior, is to be the editor of this new publication.

For many months—about four years—we read the Brethren Evangelist, and rejoiced in its fine, clear testimony. We felt that it was among the most choice of our exchanges. It was with real sorrow that we followed the controversy which arose, and its unhappy developments. We felt that it was a personal loss when the editorial personnell of the magazine reflected the changed situation. We are most happy, therefore, for the privilege of resuming the fellowship which we so much enjoyed.

If agreeable to you we would like to exchange "The Christian Reader's Digest" for your new magazine, and in anticipation of a favorable response we have placed your name on our exchange list. God bless you.

Yours in Christ,

HAROLD A. WILSON, Pastor.

MISSIONARIES ON FURLOUGH

Rev. and Mrs. Clarence L. Sichel, 2424 Fourth St., La Verne, Calif.

Rev. and Mrs. Curtis G. Morrill, 713 Fairbanks St., Ashland, Ohio.

Miss Elizabeth S. Tyson, Care of L. S. Bauman, 1925 E. 5th St., Long Beach, Calif.

A few weeks ago you enjoyed reading about the little black playmate of Mrs. Harold Dunning (Marguerite Gribble) in Africa when she was a little girl. We know you are waiting to hear more about Mrs. Dunning's life in Africa.

Once while she was at Brazzaville the missionaries could not find a house in which to live, so they moved into their tents. At that time Mrs. Dunning wrote in a letter:

"We did not have to stay very long in the tents, as it was only a few days until we found a house. This house has three rooms and a "cook house" or kitchen. Mamma calls it the "smoke house" as the only stove is a sort of brick stand on top of which the house is built, and there is no chimney or any other place for the smoke except to fill the room and filter through the roof.

"We all like it so much better than the tents. We sleep on our little camp beds, under our mosquito nets that were made for us by the ladies of Dayton. We sit on the chairs that were given us at North Manchester. Daddy uses the chairs for a work bench also by putting a heavy plank over the backs of two. (See picture). We eat from the tables that daddy made in America. Daddy has made us a cupboard and a case for the kitchen utensils.

"Aunt Toddy, Aunt Mae and mamma take turns keeping house. We have two boys who help us with the work. One is named Loubaki, and the other is Mompoyo. Aren't they funny names? They make the fire and keep it burning, carry the water, prepare the vegetables, wash the dishes and kettles, make the beds, sweep the floors, do the washing, ironing, etc.

"We have a man who brings us food every day, which he buys in the villages with francs which we give him. These are some of the things which he brings: fish, chickens, eggs, nsafu, ikwa, turnips, cassava root, sweet potatoes, beans, lettuce, etc. We sometimes can get radishes, onions, water cress, etc., at the gardens. It is very hard to get chickens and eggs, and we seldom have them, but fish are very plentiful as we live right on the banks of the Congo River.

"Nsafu is a strange food which is much the size and shape of a white walnut or butternut. It grows on a tree and is prepared for eating by boiling a very short time in salt water. It is brown, has a stone and a strange taste like turpentine, but we all like it very much. Ikwa is a root which we grate up and make pancakes from the batter. Cassava root is the root from which the tapioca is made which you children eat in America. Aunt Toddy made some flour and some tapioca from the root. Yesterday she cooked some of the tapioca and I liked it so very much that I ate it nearly all.

"We do not use lard of animal fat here, but an oil made from the nut of a palm tree."

Our Bible Character Alphabet

This week we are beginning an alphabet of Bible characters. Each week we will take the next letter of the alphabet and find a Bible character whose name begins with that letter.

A was a king who cut off the great toes and thumbs of 70 other kings. When the children of Israel fought against the Canaanites, they captured this king and cut off his own thumbs and great toes. Find his name in Jud. 1:1-7.

This Week's Memory Verse

Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you (Jn. 15:14).

Daily Bible Readings

Sun.—God's command about Himself. Mt. 22:37-38.

Mon.—God's command about others. I Jn. 4:7-8.

Tues.—God's command about worldly things. I Jn. 2:15-16.

Wed.—God's command about the gospel. Mt. 28:19-20.

Answer To Last Week's Puzzle

The missing words needed to solve the puzzle are:

|                       |                   |
|-----------------------|-------------------|
| Ps. 23:1—Lord         | I Ki. 11:9—twice  |
| I Jn. 4:11—love       | Jn. 11:2—that     |
| Mk. 11:22—faith       | I Sam. 3:9-10—Eli |
| Mt. 11:28—Come        | Gen. 23:3-6—Heth  |
| Mt. 28:19—go          | Ex. 4:2-4—tail    |
| Jn. 3:36—hath         | Dan. 4:33—wet     |
| Mt. 6:24—mammon       | Acts 7:54—cut     |
| Judg. 15:4—Samson     | Mt. 25:3—them     |
| II Ki. 2:11-12—Elisha | Jn. 13:33—lit     |
| Mt. 4:18—net          |                   |

The verse when the puzzle is solved is Jn. 6:37, "All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out."

WHAT IS BROADMINDEDNESS?

"It is a fallacy of the most dangerous kind to attack the issue of tolerance and intolerance to a practice which destroys health, wastes time, befuddles the intellect, undermines character, disturbs the peace, and wastes money. It is not customary to tolerate disease and waste, and insanity, and stupidity—yet many people today pride themselves on broad-mindedness about drinking. 'Live and let live,' they say...."

"The worst that prohibitionists predicted is coming to pass. It's time that reaction set in and particularly among college students."—The Daily Trojan, official organ of University of Southern California, Los Angeles.

MISS BYRON HEARS FROM AFRICA

A native boy writes to Miss Grace Byron from Bouzoum. She gives here the literal translation of his letter:

Dear Mama.

Grace Byron.

I greet you well in the name of our Jesus Christ. I rejoice for work on paper to give. We sit well, the School of Bible. We pray to God on top of your head. I forget you not. I wish for you all day and I pray God over you all days.

Everything rests well in the church at Bassai. We have not finished. We will have vacation at the end of the month.

I greet you three times in the name of Jesus.

Child friend of yours who likes you much.

Your future servant,

PAUL YATENZI."

THE HUMDRUM OF A MISSIONARY'S LIFE

By Grace Byron

I wonder if it is going to rain tonight. It has been lightning all evening, but there don't seem to be many clouds. Maybe the storm will pass over. Let's take a chance and sleep on the veranda. It seems so stuffy to sleep in the house after sleeping on the veranda all during the dry season.

About 1:00 A. M. we are awakened by the wind blowing out the mosquito net. What's that rattling? We'd better get up; the storm is coming. I reach down by the side of the bed for the coal oil lantern, old reliable, take the matches from under my pillow and light the lantern. (Flash lights are a great convenience if good batteries are obtainable.)

Between the flashes of lightning we manage to get the mosquito net down and the mattresses and bedding in the house, and then make a rush to close the shutters. The wind is driving the rain across the nine foot veranda. The bolt on the door will not reach, for the door has warped and shrunk during the dry season. It takes our combined strength to hold the door shut and get the sewing machine and some chairs piled up against it to hold it closed.

Now we'll put the bedding on our cots, where we will finish the night's rest. We are soon awakened by a terrible crash, and discover, next morning, that a tree near the hospital was struck.

Drip, drip, drip, the roof is leaking; and the rain will soon be filtering through the mat ceiling. So furniture is pushed around and replaced by cooking utensils to catch the rain. This accomplished, we go back to bed; but what is that strange rattle on the veranda?

The next morning dawns cold and gray. We stand around the charcoal stove, soaking in the heat. The goat boy comes with the milk. Why is there so little milk? "All the goats are with young, Mademoiselle," he lies. (No doubt he has gotten up late and only milked part of the goats, and is planning on going to his garden to plant his peanuts.) Tomorrow, I think, I will go down to the goat pen and watch him milk; and no doubt the amount of milk will be back to normal.

Pierre notices that a pumpkin has been blown down on the veranda, and, picking it up, discovers that it has fallen down on a can of nails and imbedded it into the pumpkin; which accounts for the mysterious rattle of last night on the veranda. The boys think it's a huge joke!

"Hekele Tiya (There is no charcoal)," complains the cook. "Call the boy who makes it and tell him to bring some at once." Although the boy lives a half mile or more away, the cook goes to the edge of the terrace and bellows the message; and in a few minutes his little son appears with a bushel basket of charcoal on his head. His father will put in his appearance later, in the hope that his neglect to have charcoal on hand will be forgotten, and thus save a palaver (affair).

Remembering the inconvenience the night before of only having one lantern, the missionary asks, "Where is the lantern?" "In the outdoor kitchen," promptly answers the cook. We watch, and the cook sends the chicken boy on an errand; and after a whispered conversation, the lantern is discovered later on the edge of the foundation of the house.

Next arrives the garden boy with a nice basket of lettuce and green beans. "Worromo (greetings), Mademoiselle," "Worromo," responds the missionary, "Waka na belta? (Is the garden all right?)" "The wind blew down seven banana plants, and the bananas are not big enough and will not ripen," the garden boy informs her.

"Transplant the tomato plants and plant another bed of lettuce and endive, and I will be down to see the garden this evening" (to insure that the instructions are carried out). He looks dissatisfied, and I know he wants to go to plant his peanuts, so I inquire if he has cleared a place for a peanut garden. He responds in the affirmative and asks for permission to go and plant his peanuts.

(We always encourage the natives to have gardens, as it is hard for them to buy food because each one just makes enough garden to supply his personal needs.)

"Who will watch the garden so that the goats or sheep will not destroy it?" I ask.

"Koue will."

"Me jibokoke, (I agree) but do the work I told you to do first, and I will be down in the evening."

"Merci! (thank you), Mademoiselle;" and he goes off singing.

REASONS FOR THE FAMILY ALTAR:

1. Because it will send you forth to the daily tasks with a cheerful heart, stronger for the work, truer to duty and determined in whatever is done, therein to glorify God.

2. Because it will give you strength to meet the discouragements, the disappointments, the unexpected adversities and the blighted hopes that may fall your lot.

3. Because it will make you conscious throughout the day of the attending presence of an unseen, divine One, who will bring you through more than a conqueror over every unholy thought or thing that arises up against you.

4. Because it will sweeten your home life, and enrich home relationship as nothing else can do.

5. Because it will dissolve all the misunderstandings and relieve all the friction that sometimes intrudes into the sacred precincts of the family life.

6. Because it will hold, as nothing else, the boys and the girls when they have gone out from underneath the parental roof and so determine very largely the eternal salvation of your children.

7. Because it will exert a helpful hallowed influence over those who at any time may be guests in your home.

8. Because it will powerfully reinforce the work of your pastor in pulpit and in pew and stimulate the life of your church in every activity.

9. Because it will furnish an example and stimulus to other homes for the same kind of life and service and devotion to God.

10. Because the Word of God requires it, and in thus obeying God, we honor Him, Who is the Giver of all good and the Source of all blessing.

JUST A SKETCH

By Florence N. Gribble

(Dr. Florence N. Gribble sends us "Just A Sketch" from somewhere in Africa. This sketch certainly can not have been made within any village wherein we have missionaries. Too many clothes! Later on, we may be able to say just where this sketch was made. It was probably in some fairly good-sized native village where Mohammedanism predominates. In the meantime, it is interesting.—L.S.B.)

The natives come strutting by; but O, what a parade! Here comes a young man with felt hat, ragged shirt and colored loincloth!

Next in order is a woman with black turban and black umbrella, in marked contrast with her pink dress. The young man following her is in stripes, not only his coat and trousers, but suspenders! Overhanging all is a large felt hat with strangely drooping corners. The plain black shoes are an anti-climax.

Dressed Up!

Africans wear any clothes they can get hold of. Imagine our missionary's surprise to find her discarded under-clothing worn by this African boy.

A smiling little girl stops near me and looks at me with an admiring gaze (just why I do not know). Her immaculate white shoes are guiltless of laces; she rejoices in a black and white dress with a brown and white turban ornamenting her jaunty head. The only touch of truly African color about her is the necklace of green beads around her neck.

A woman hurries by, shapeless in a black and red Mother Hubbard; a black and yellow turban adorns her head. As if trying to surpass hers, a green and yellow Mother Hubbard now saunters by—a slender girl with—in proud of her dress and of her brown and tan headed kerchief. "Mbolo, mama," she says smilingly as she passes, giving the Boulou greeting.

The young man hurrying down hill across the street has an aristocratic air with his snow-white helmet, blue shirt, brown belt and black trousers. The next man too has a helmet, but a very dirty one. His shirt and trousers are also a dingy, dirty-white. The next boy is wiser, for except for his black belt, he is all in khaki.

A butterfly girl now flits by. She has a green dress and red head dress, but is barefooted. But the next one surpasses her, having a purple turban and blue and green dress; with a figure in purple dress following on behind.

But now the monotony of the parade is enlivened by a Parisian lady with hat on one side; closely fitting, open-backed dress. And so they follow in quick succession, a green and yellow dress clashing with a purple turban, etc.

Here come a woman with a red dress, a gray hat, and a basket on her back! In front of a store a little boy with khaki trousers and a ragged white shirt sits admiringly before a French fashion plate. "Faites votre choix" was in a glaring headline. He is attracted more by the ladies' faces than their gowns, and soon admiringly points out to a ragged companion the lady of his choice.

Colors of the Rainbow

Green, black, purple, red and yellow gowns flit by. These are the predominating colors, but every hue of the rainbow is in evidence on the gay colored streets.

Here comes a lady of quieter taste — a white silk dress, brown shoes, and a brown turban betoken an extraordinary taste (for our colored ladies). There is a bright red dress with an old-fashioned white overskirt. Dark green and purple are our next lady's choice.

There are few Mohammedans on the street, but here pass two in purple robes with broad sashes. And, not to be outdone, follows a boy in khaki shirt and black trousers with a blue and white sash!

Who makes all these clothes? Men and women, boys and girls sit in front of the shops sewing—some of them, doubtless, on rented machines. There are no less than ten sewing machines across the street. Five bicycles are standing there, too, evidently belonging to employees.

The store itself is of stone foundation. The roof and walls are of corrugated iron, a perfect furnace for heat. A little girl in a blue and white princess gown sits languidly in the heat—queen of all she surveys.

The cross is the only ladder to Paradise.

We do not always know the dangers that we are guided past.

The way to do a great deal for Christ is to keep on doing a little.

The cross is easier to him who takes it up than to him who drags it along.

A prudent man is like a pin: his head prevents him from going too far.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

February 18, 1940

THE PRESENT PROSPECT OF THE MISSIONARY ENTERPRISE

II Tim. 3:1-17.

Suggestions for the leader

During the year we studied phases of the history of Christian missions. We found that at various times the people had different attitudes concerning the work of missions, and that the interest in missions largely determined the growth of the church. Tonight we will sum up what has been said, and see whether there are favorable prospects for the work today.

Today there is a falling away in interest and support, many mission fields suffering because the people at home refuse to maintain the work. Many denominations have withdrawn missionaries, and mission stations have been closed. From the human standpoint, the faithfulness of those who believe in Christ is the reason that we have not lost a station nor recalled missionaries.

Missions today have great prospects. Though the missionary's work may become harder and the results fewer, it is our great responsibility to take advantage of every prospect while the Lord delays His coming. We who are still young must soon assume the missionary work others have started. Now is the time to become concerned and informed of our missionary activities. The Lord calls us to support the work, and every member should send in a mission offering. Then we shall not be ashamed when the Lord asks us what we did for missions. At first our offering may be small, but if there is a willing mind, the Lord will increase the ability to give.

1. OPEN DOORS. I Cor 16:9.

Although we would be killed if we tried to preach Christ in Russia, there are many doors open and waiting for missionaries to enter with the gospel. Africa, Asia, South America and other places present open doors for us today. It would be wonderful if our Christian Endeavorers became so enthusiastic over missionary work that large numbers of volunteers would come from the societies and the others would stand back of them as they go forth. God will give us plenty of time to walk through an open door, but the time comes when that door closes. We may soon witness the close of many doors. Let us do something while we have the assurance of an opening and a willingness to respond to the gospel.

2. CLOSED HEARTS. Ezek. 33:7-9.

The great testimony of the missionaries is that the natives respond to the gospel and their hearts are open. If there are closed hearts, they must be among the people at home, where disinterest in mission work begins. So much depends upon us that we simply cannot afford to retreat or become cold toward our own work. Regardless of the conditions about us, or what other churches are doing, let us put forth a greater effort this year to maintain missionary work.

There is no better place to start to talk missions than in Christian Endeavor. Present the work as an urgent and needy thing and ask for decisions for Christ. We still have the solemn commission to go out to the heathen. We still are expected to be true to the Lord in doing His bidding.

"Education, contact with a godless civilization, visits of foreign students to our schools, these things have resulted in an increasing coldness to the gospel."

3. GOLD, GOVERNMENT, AND GOD.

The difference between the settlement of North and South America is found in the letter l—the difference between God and gold. The early settlers came to our country in search of religious freedom; those who went to South America were in search for gold.

Today some nations hold provinces in other continents for financial gain. They spoil the people and the resources. Missionaries tell of the feeling against the white men because of this. In some cases barriers had to be broken down before missionaries could work.

By delaying the work or refusing the missionaries permission, governments have hindered missionary endeavor more than they have encouraged it. Strange as it seems, some governments want to keep natives in ignorance, probably to exploit the people and try to get more gain from them.

Missionaries have witnessed the work of God in removing great problems and obstacles. These things have strengthened them and held them to greater trust in God.

4. THE ENEMY WITHIN.

The devil does the most destruction from within. He would do anything to cause the church to become confused on the mission program. He has held the superstitious natives and sin-laden people so long that he does not surrender easily. He has learned the effectiveness of striking at the heart. He started the teaching of the social program on the mission field. Some missionaries actually go out to teach a brand of unbelief they have learned in church schools. Frequently controversy has arisen over policies and practices on the missions field. As a result, many withdraw support and the work suffers. We must be on guard because the devil has his helpers to destroy mission work and will start by sowing seeds of discord.

5. BACK TO THE PROGRAM OF PAUL.

"Over against the depressing circumstances which have cast a cloud over much of organized work, there shines a ray of light. Many independent movements are at work going out into the unoccupied fields, doing somewhat as Paul did: preaching, leaving instructions, going on, and returning to strengthen the disciples and the churches as opportunity offers. These units of work are often small, depending on the gifts of a small group of God's people to supply the need.

"The greater faith movements in China and other countries in Asia, Africa, South America and Europe, with the Alliance work in many lands, point in the same general direction and bring courage to our hearts as we pray and work for the gospel to be proclaimed to all men everywhere."

6. THE URGENCY OF THE WORK IN THE LIGHT OF HIS RETURN.

By many methods and many workers, God is calling out from among the nations a people for His name. Some day the work will be completed, and the Lord will descend from heaven with a shout. We do not know what moment that will occur; but it will mean to every Christian the greatest joy and blessing that can be imagined.

In that day, we shall be privileged to lay at His feet all that we have done to make the church complete. Many obscure Christians who have helped to support a missionary, will be glad to have had a part in the salvation of his converts. Many poor folks will find out how much their prayers have meant to those laboring in far places. We ought to think of these things whenever we think about the urgent work of missions. There are many enemies. There is much to be overcome. The time is short; how short, we cannot tell. The work must be done. God give us uneasy nights, and burdened hearts, and no peace, until we have assurance that we have done all He requires of us!

Questions

1. Do you believe this is a good time to do missionary work? Why?
2. Name some obstacles to missionary work today.
3. What are we doing as a denomination to further missionary work?
4. Why do the nations usually interfere with missionary efforts?
5. What method and message did Paul use for missionary work (Acts 13, 14, 26:13-23)?

Junior*TopicGOD WANTS TO BLESS OTHERS THROUGH MEFebruary 18, 1940

Have with you a sponge, a funnel, a hose, and some water.

Dip the sponge in water, showing that it absorbs all it can hold, but gives nothing forth unless it is squeezed. Compare it with those who call themselves Christians, but keep to themselves all the good things they receive.

Pour some water into the funnel, showing that the water passes through it slowly, and that showing no matter how long it receives water, it holds more than it gives forth. Compare it with those who keep to themselves most of the good things of God which they receive.

Fit the funnel into one end of the hose and pour water into it, showing that the hose gives forth all the water it gets. Compare it with Christians who do likewise with the precious things of God.

From Acts 20:35b, have the pupils decide which kind of Christian most pleases the Lord.

Someone once asked the son of a medical missionary where he could find his father. The boy replied, "I suppose he is where people are sick or in need of other help." This missionary was a blessing wherever he went.

For discussion

Have the children suggest ways they can be blessings. Perhaps they would enjoy searching the following verses for some other ways:

I Tim. 4:12 (By being an example to other Christians).

Gal. 6:10 (By doing good to all men).

Mk. 5:19 (By telling others what God has done for them).

I Pet. 2:9 (By showing forth His praises). Suggest some ways they can do this.

Scripture illustrations of people who were blessings

(Lesson numbers refer to lessons in True Stories from the Long Ago.)

Joseph was a blessing to Potiphar (Gen. 39; Les. 18), the prisoners (Gen. 40; Les. 18), Pharaoh and his whole nation (Gen. 41, Les. 19), and to all his own relatives (Gen. 45-46, Elisha was a blessing to many people in many ways. (II Ki. 4-7; Less. 73-75).

The pupils can give from memory some of the ways Christ was a blessing to others.

CORRECTION

The Candidate Secretary of the Foreign Board has just called our attention to an error in the minutes of the Foreign Board, published in the Foreign Missionary Number of the Brethren Evangelist, September 30, 1939. In this issue "Minute 39, Approval of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller and Ruth Snyder" should read thus: "Minute 39. Approval of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams and Ruth Snyder.

A motion prevailed that we approve Miss Ruth Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams to be sent out whenever the Board deems expedient."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller had formerly been approved. In checking back over the original minutes, taken by the office secretary in the Foreign Board meeting of last August, we find the names of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williams as having been approved.

The Foreign Board did interview Robert Miller at this meeting, however; and Robert Miller stated before the board that the Home Missions Council had sent him to Tracy, California, for a term of three years and that he feels he should fulfil this term, although he is ready and willing to go to Africa.

THE GREAT COMMISSION: WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO YOU?

By Paul R. Bauman

Few words that fall from human lips are considered more important than the words of a loved one who is about to leave this world. How the ear strains to catch them! How indelibly they are written upon the memory for life-long retention! How they are treasured in the innermost recesses of the heart! Nothing can snatch them from us! If, perchance, they come in the form of a request or charge, no amount of effort is considered too great to spend in their fulfillment!

Just before our dearest loved One, our blessed Lord Himself, departed from this world to the Father, having given His very life as a sacrifice, and having risen that His pledge would be made sure, He gave a message to those who were His own. Though the words were not many, they were some of the most important He ever spoke, for they were to mean life to countless thousands of men through centuries to follow. Yet, of all the words spoken by Jesus, few have been taken more lightly by those who profess to love Him than those of the great commission: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature" (Mark 16: 15, 16. See also Matthew 28:19, 20; Luke 24:46-48; Acts 1:8, 9).

HOW DOES THE AVERAGE PERSON INTERPRET THE GREAT COMMISSION?

In his desperate attempt to evade the last words of Jesus, the average professing Christian has come forth with a great array of excuses. Of these, two are so outstanding that they may well be given some consideration.

"JESUS WAS SPEAKING TO HIS DISCIPLES ONLY"

Christian, read the above-mentioned passages in your Bible and read them carefully. Do you for one moment believe that any person who handles God's Word honestly can so interpret these? Have you thought what such an attitude would mean if followed consistently? You would be compelled to say that the precious promises given by the Lord in these same Gospels—the promises that speak of the "Father's house" and the "many mansions"—were spoken to the disciples only! Are you ready to say that?

Again, read the great commission, and you will see that it embraced a world-wide ministry. Jesus said, "Go ye into all the world." Such a commission, if given to the disciples only, would have laid upon them an impossible task. Could eleven (or twelve) men have gone into the whole "inhabited world"? It would have been physically impossible for the disciples to have baptized their converts apart from the larger task of "preaching the gospel to every creature."

Once again, you should observe that this work was to continue "always, even unto the consummation of the age" (Matt. 28:20 R.V. margin). After a few short years of the most faithful service, the disciples were destined to make their departure into the presence of Christ. Did this departure mean the "consummation of the age"? No Christian who knows his Bible will make such an assertion!

But, let us look for a moment at another, and perhaps the most common, of our present-day attitudes toward the great commission.

"THE GREAT COMMISSION IS FOR MINISTERS AND MISSIONARIES ONLY"

Whether spoken in so many words or not, honest reflection will show that this is the attitude most prevalent in our churches today. "That doesn't mean me!"—and the implication is that the commission refers only to those who have been set apart as ordained ministers or missionaries of the gospel.

An examination of several passages will show that this second interpretation is likewise impossible. "For the Son of man is as a man taking a far journey, who left his house, and gave authority to his servants, and to every man his work, and commanded the porter to watch" (Mark 13:34). Literally, a portion of the passage reads: "to each man his own work." Now, what is this "work" which has been given to "every man"? In 2 Corinthians five the Apostle Paul makes it very plain, as follows: "Wherefore we labor (i.e., "work"), that whether present or absent we may be accepted of Him. For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad. Knowing therefore the terror of the Lord, we persuade men. . . . For the love of Christ constraineth us; because we thus judge, that if one died for all, then were all dead, that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto Him which died for them, and rose again. . . . And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to Himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation; To wit, that God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them; and hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation. Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us, we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God" (2 Cor. 5:9-11, 14, 15, 18-20).

Christian, do you believe it? "We labor. . . . we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ. . . . Knowing therefore the terror of the Lord we persuade men. . . . the love of Christ constraineth us. . . . God. . . . hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation. . . . hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation. . . . we are ambassadors for Christ." Can you read these words and say they were intended only for ministers and missionaries? Were not the Corinthian Epistles addressed to a church, just such an one as your church? Were they not likewise addressed to "all that in every place call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord," and to "all the saints"? (See I Cor. 1:2 and 2 Cor. 1:1).

This being true, then ours is the ministry of reconciliation! Let us remember that the Word of God sets forth only one real work for the Christian. That is the business of making Jesus Christ known to lost and dying men. The Christian's task is to "take out" of this world "a people for His name" (Acts 15:14). All other work must be subservient to that.

HOW DOES THE BIBLE INTERPRET THE GREAT COMMISSION?

The Bible always has been its own best interpreter. The great commission is there. How shall it be interpreted? The safest method will always be that of one of God's great missionaries who was once asked: "How do you interpret the great commission?" He replied: "I don't interpret it; I just accept it!"

Sometime ago the writer asked one of our finest missionaries this question: "What were the circumstances of your call to the foreign field?" "What do you mean?" she replied, apparently a bit perplexed by the query. "What were the circumstances that led you to believe you were called to go forth as a missionary?" the writer asked again. "I hardly understand you yet," she replied; "I read the great commission and could not see but what it meant me. So I went!"

The statement of this missionary made a profound impression upon the writer as one who, at that time, was facing the problem of his own responsibility to the great commission. Since then we have thought many times, "Oh that more of God's people would take the same attitude toward the commands of Christ. How soon the world would be evangelized!"

THE BIBLE SAYS, "GO!"

Can we say that most of us have not taken the words of our Lord altogether too lightly and impersonally? Christian young people, especially, should think with all seriousness before they turn carelessly away, saying, "That doesn't apply to me!" There is only one valid reason, in the light of the Scripture, that anyone can give for failure to go in person. That is the absolute physical impossibility of going. Those who seek a special manifestation in looking for the call to go should rather consider the Word. The special manifestation should be received when one is called to remain at home. The "go ye" clause has already been given, and it is still in the great commission!

THE BIBLE SAYS, "SEND!"

While it is true that the Lord does not expect every Christian to go personally, this fact does not relieve any person of his responsibility to Christ's last command. This is evident, for, in discussing the condition of the lost and the ministry of the saved, the Bible says, "Whoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. How then shall they call on Him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher? And how shall they preach, except they be sent?" as it is written, How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things! (Romans 10:13-15).

Now, who is the man whose walk is said to be "beautiful"? Is it not the one who has himself gone to "preach the gospel of peace"? It is not the one who, because he could not possibly go himself, has "sent" in his place another to bear the "glad tidings of good things"? Certainly this is what the passage teaches! The average Christian today should face these questions, if he takes the great commission seriously: "If I cannot 'go', then am I ready to 'send'? If my seriousness in sending is to be determined by the amount of my present investment, what is my Lord to believe about me? Should not my sacrifice in sending be equal to that which I should make if I were to go? Should it not be equal to the sacrifice of the one who is going in my place? If I am not able to send, then what should my responsibility be?"

THE BIBLE SAYS, "PRAY!"

God has not given all of His people an abundance of this world's goods. This fact has been used all too often, however, as a means of sidestepping responsibility to the missionary command. If one finds it absolutely impossible to "go," then he must "send" someone forth as his representative. On the same basis, if one finds it absolutely impossible to "send" then he is duty-bound to "pray." Jesus said: "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few: Pray ye the Lord of the harvest, that He will send forth laborers into His harvest" (Matthew 9:37, 38).

The command to "pray," given by Jesus, does not mean that a man can be content with spending a few moments each Sunday or each Wednesday praying "the Lord of the harvest" It means that he will dedicate his life to a ministry of intercessory prayer, petitioning God "without ceasing to thrust forth laborers into His harvest" He will pray constantly for those who have gone forth to represent him. He will pray continually for those who are being given the gospel. He will "always in every prayer make request" (Phil. 1:4) for those who have believed the gospel. What a missionary challenge this is! How sadly neglected a ministry it is today! Christian, is this to be your answer to your Lord's last request? If it is, then begin it today!

WHAT IS YOUR INTERPRETATION OF THE GREAT COMMISSION?

Forget it not! Your Lord is the One who said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." The command is there. What have you done with it? Why not say with the first great missionary of the Christian church, the Apostle Paul: "As much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel!" (Romans 1:15). And remember, as you recognize your own great responsibility—the fact that you are "a debtor"—you have One who has said, "Lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

Beware of having the wheel-barrow religion — the kind that moves only when pushed.

Error runs down an inclined plane. Truth has laboriously to climb its way up hill.

PELLETS FOR PREACHERS

"Any preacher who allows himself to hanker after an easier job is on the toboggan slide already. It does n't fit with the message and spirit of the gospel."

When preaching doesn't taste good to me, it's time for me to get to the woods. Our message must be a fire in our bones or it is not worth while."

"When we cease to bleed, we cease to bless. The two words come from the same root."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

THE DIFFERENCE—A great Bible teacher was once asked the difference between the Bible and other books. He answered the question by saying, "other books are given for our information, but the Bible is given for our transformation."—Meyersdale Calendar

Whosoever thou are that enterest this church, remember it is the house of God. Be reverent, be attentive, be thoughtful and leave it not without a prayer to God for thyself, for those who minister, and for those who worship here.

The WORD and the WORLD

By Alva J. McClain

DOES GOD HAVE A SENSE OF HUMOR?

A prominent minister of Cleveland, Ohio, delivering the baccalaureate sermon before the graduates of a college of that city, suggested that men are not fully equipped for their jobs unless they possess a sense of humor. Certainly there can be no serious argument on this point. As Solomon once wrote, There is "a time to weep, and a time to laugh" (Ecc. 3:4). In fact, there is nothing healthier than to cultivate the ability to look at our own selves objectively and laugh. It will keep our feet on the ground and guard us against the pompous notion that we are more important than we are.

In support of his argument, the above mentioned preacher reminded his hearers that even God himself had a sense of humor. Here again, we must admit, the speaker was right. The Bible contains much that is humorous. Our Lord had a keen sense of humor, as the Pharisees discovered to their discomfiture, but it was always with a point. And some one has suggested that to spend a few hours looking at the animals in a zoo will demonstrate effectively that the Creator must have felt that humor should have a place in the scheme of things. If not, it would be hard to explain why He made some of them the way they are.

But in his argument the baccalaureate speaker slipped badly when he tried to prove his point with Scripture. To show that God has a sense of humor, he quoted from the second Psalm, "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh" (4). What a tragic misunderstanding of the Word of God! One cannot help but wonder whether this preacher ever read the whole of this Psalm at one sitting. Certainly there is nothing humorous in the divine laughter here. As anyone should know laughter has a hundred subtle meaning. And when God laughs in accordance with the prophecy of the second Psalm, it will be the laughter of divine wrath and judgment. When God laughs here, it will be man's "time to weep."

WHAT THE POPE SAID TO TAYLOR

When President Roosevelt, ignoring the American Protestant principle of complete separation of church and state, appointed Myron C. Taylor as Ambassador Extraordinary to the Vatican in Rome, Mr. Taylor was asked by reporters to comment on his appointment. His reply was deeply significant, an ominous prophecy of what may become a reality in the near future.

"I am greatly honored in my appointment by President Roosevelt as his personal representative to the Vatican," said Mr. Taylor. "I am emboldened to refer to a remark made to me by Pope Pius in a personal conversation at our home in New York about two years ago, in effect that in the days soon to come all the forces of religion would need to align themselves together against a revival of paganism if our civilization were to be saved." And then Mr. Taylor added, "How true a prophecy that was current world events will bring home to every right thinking man."

These words from Mr. Taylor will indeed be prophetic to "every right thinking" student of the Word of God. They prove exactly what many of us have been fearing, namely, that the present Pope favors and is working for a union of religious bodies of which he will be the head. For, as every historian knows, Roman Catholicism will enter no union of which the Pope is not the head. Furthermore, the utterance of Mr. Taylor proves that both he and Mr. Roosevelt know exactly the seriousness of the step they have taken. For both have talked with the present Pope and they know his views.

If the Protestant churches of America align themselves with the Vatican for the purpose of fighting the paganism of Hitler and Stalin, they will simply be joining in one kind of paganism in order to fight with another kind. Better by far to let the paganistic Vatican fight its own battles, for those who join with Rome in this battle will ride to certain doom. The great harlot, aided by apostate Protestantism and an unbelieving Israel, will indeed wield the rod of ecclesiastical authority over the paganistic political beast, but she will pay a fearful price for that brief season of authority. For the nations she rules will at last "hate" her, make her "desolate and naked," "eat her flesh," and "burn her with fire" (Rev. 17:15-16).

In President Roosevelt's letter to the Pope, explaining the appointment of the new Ambassador to the Vatican, he referred to the words which appear on the reverse of the great seal of the United States—"novus ordo seclorum"—and expressed his intention of extending the motto to international relations. The words mean a "new order of things." Well, thank God, some day there will be a "new order of things." But it is utter spiritual blindness to suppose that it can be realized under the leadership of the Vatican. If ever America needed statesmen who know their Bibles, it is today.

When the Christian sins

There are some very curious and tragic notions about man's ability and his sin held even among those who are truly born of God but not instructed in His Word. For example, you will find some who think that the cross of our Lord covers all our sins up to the time we become Christians, but after that we must either stop sinning completely or else (if we sin) atone or make restitution to God for the post-conversion sins. Others suppose that if the Christian sins after conversion, he is lost and must be saved all over again. Still others, finding by bitter experience that they do sin every day in spite of their profession, try to escape the problem by the Roman Catholic scheme, that is, they divide their wrong-doing into two kinds of sin. The one kind, they affirm, will send your soul to hell. The other kind, they think, is not really sin but merely what they call "infirmity," which God overlooks. Just where the dividing line should be drawn, no two of these folks have ever agreed, which means that every sinner draws his own lines. And of course, when we do this, we are careful to put into the category of "infirmity" the sinful practices dear to our hearts.

Making God a Liar

What we need to learn as Christians is that all sin is sin, that black is black, and white is white; and furthermore, that not one of us can kneel down at the end of the day and say, "O God, I have not sinned today." For if we say anything of the sort, we make God a liar (1 Jn. 1:10). We need to know also that sin for the saved is even worse than for the unsaved, for when we sin we are not only breaking the law of God but also sinning against His blessed grace that saved us.

"THAT EVERY MOUTH MAY BE STOPPED"

What then shall we say to these things? Well, in the first place, we should confess frankly that we do sin in spite of the fact that God has made every needed provision for victory. In the second place, we must understand that there is no possible way for us personally to remove or even mitigate the dreadful guilt which attaches inevitably to all sin. Third, we must see that in every and all cases of sin, the wages of sin is death and without the shedding of blood there can be no remission. There is no class of sins which are excusable for anybody. Neither is there any convenient "purgatory" where we may discharge our obligations to a holy God. The smallest sin is an affront against an infinite God, Whose righteous law cannot be relaxed to suit the infirmities of sinners who are too weak to keep it. And finally, when we have come to this place, with the very jaws of hell yawning beneath our feet, we shall begin to realize clearly that the shed blood of the Son of God is our only hope, not only for the sins committed before we were saved but also for the sins after we are saved.

The blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth (present tense—continuously) us from all sin" (1 Jn. 1:7). Were it not for the continuous and eternal efficacy of that blood, we would all be in hell before the end of the day. To see this clearly will shut our mouths from all boasting and self-righteous claims.

Additions To The Library

The Seminary acknowledges gratefully valuable gifts of books to the Library from the following donors: Pastor H. Walter Nowag of the First Brethren Church of Iistie, Pa.; Pastor George E. Cone of the First Brethren Church of Portis, Kansas; Mr. J. F. Strombeck, member of the Board of the Winona Assembly; Dr. Dunham of the Fundamental Truth Publishers, Findlay, Ohio; the Library of the University of Oregon; and also from a friend of the seminary whose name we are not at liberty to publish.

We also desire to express appreciation to Dr. L. S. Bauman for the loan of a very rare set of books dealing with the doctrine of "The Theocratic Kingdom." This set of three large volumes by Dr. Peters has been needed very badly, and we are glad to report that very recently a good friend has supplied us with volumes II and III. Now if someone can dig up the first volume, we shall be well supplied. (Of course, the seminary would not refuse all three volumes, if anyone should have them.)

While on this subject of books, perhaps it should be said that we have been asked several times whether the seminary could use second-hand books. The answer is yes. However, before sending them, it would be well to mail us a list of the titles and authors, so as to avoid duplications and also the shipping of books which might not be usable.

The Annual Day of Prayer

Following the registration of students for the second semester beginning Jan. 22, the first week of the semester brought to the seminary Rev. V. C. Kelford of Waterloo, Iowa, for a series of lectures and addresses, closing with the annual Seminary day of prayer. Brother Kelford, who is well known to many of the friends of the seminary, spoke twice each day and three times on the day of prayer, bringing rich blessing to both students and faculty. While this ministry was intended primarily for the seminary group, and therefore was not widely advertised, a number of the local people of Winona and Warsaw attended the service. We thank God for Brother Kelford's uncompromising loyalty to the Word of God and his clear presentation of the gospel of grace.

FREEDOM BEHIND THE BARS

(It is our custom in Grace Seminary to assemble at the regular chapel period each Tuesday morning for the special purpose of reporting the spiritual results from the various meetings and speaking engagements of students and faculty members over the week-end. The first of these report meetings in the New Year was an event of unusual interest because it was the initial gathering following the Christmas holidays, and there was a great deal to tell of the blessings of God which had been experienced by students and teachers in the different places they had ministered. What was perhaps the greatest triumph of the Lord's grace was related by Garner Hoyt, who was one of the few students that spent the holidays in Winona Lake. In order to share with the Herald readers this remarkable story, I have asked Garner to tell it here in writing as an illustration of the unfailing power of the gospel of our Lord. For several weeks the students had known of this young man's presence in the jail, very closely guarded because of the nature of his crime, and they had been praying that somehow the way might be opened to reach him with the gospel.—Alva J. McClain)

"It was on the last day of 1939 that I went to the Warsaw jail where a 17-year-old boy from South Carolina was sitting alone in his cell on the second floor, guilty of first degree murder and awaiting the sentence of either life imprisonment or death.

"All the other seminary students were away for the Christmas vacation, and therefore I had gone alone on Sunday morning to the Warsaw jail to speak to the prisoners about their souls. It was the jailer's wife who opened the door for me. Upon entering I had no idea that I would be permitted to speak with this young man who had been especially on our hearts. But evidently the Lord had all things worked out ahead of time. As I removed my coat she said to me. 'We have never permitted anyone to talk with Frank Potts, but I don't see anything wrong with it. If you wish to speak with him, you may.' At once I knew that this was a definite answer to prayer. She opened the iron doors leading into the corridors surrounding the prison cells, and I went up to the second floor where Frank was seated alone at a little table in his dreary cell.

READS BIBLE IN CELL

"He seemed happy to see me, and I told him at once that it must have been an answer to prayer that I had been permitted to talk with him. And then I added, 'Frank, I have come to talk with you about your soul.' After these words the Lord seemed to open his heart, and he said, 'Ever since I've been placed here I've been thinking about that, and I know now that the only hope for me is to come to Jesus.' He pointed to an open Bible on the table and told me that his brother had sent it to him. He was reading it when I came to his cell.

"I knew then that Frank was ready to receive the Lord Jesus Christ as his Savior. I turned in my Bible to four or five of the prominent passages on salvation and explained them. In each case I left it to him to draw the conclusion. After each verse he would say with tears of joy in his eyes, 'Then I'm saved.'

"What a blessing it was to see the joy and peace of God come into his life! At once he began to think of the future, and he asked me what he could do for the Lord. He realized that he would never have the chance to work for the Lord as I could. I immediately told him of the Apostle Paul and how he had served the Lord in a prison. During the remaining moments of that hour we read from God's Word, and just before parting we knelt by the bars, I on one side and he on the other side. I asked Frank if he would lead in prayer. He prayed a wonderful prayer of confession and thanksgiving and then I closed with a word of praise for the soul that Jesus had saved that hour.

JOINED CHURCH ONCE

"Frank's last words were, 'I joined a church once and was baptised but I was never saved. This morning I have come to know Jesus.'

"During the following week I received a letter from Frank asking me to come again, for he had some questions to ask me. When I reached his cell the following Sunday morning, he took a large sheet of paper from the table. On the paper were Scripture passages and questions that he wished me to explain. He had been reading the Bible all week and had been writing down the things which he had not understood.

"Strangers who come to see him do not understand why he is not sad. He takes those opportunities to tell them how he has found the Lord. Pray for Frank Potts that the Lord will make a real servant of him and use him to win many other lost prisoners for Jesus Christ."

GARNER E. HOYT.

Student NEWS

ARNOLD KRIEGBAUM, senior and president of the seminary student body, having completed his residence hours and thesis, has resigned the pastorate of the Ankenytown Brethren Church to become pastor of the new Third Brethren Church of Los Angeles, California. Students and faculty gathered for a social evening in his honor and to wish him Godspeed. He will return in May to receive his degree and participate in the graduation services—also in another important event.

ROBERT CULVER, formerly pastor at Harrah, Washington, now a Junior in the Seminary, has been called to the pastorate at Ankenytown.

PAUL A. DAVIS has been doing supply preaching in Ohio churches.

BOB HILL spent the holidays in the east preaching at churches in Philadelphia and Cape May, New Jersey. He reports six who accepted Christ and several rededications.

GENE ALLEN spent the holidays at his home in Washington, D. C.

GARNER HOYT is conducting a class in French for the five members of the senior class who are under appointment to foreign missionary service in French Equatorial Africa, passing on to them the results of his year and a half recently spent in the schools of France.

Important also in this connection is the arrival of MISS MYNA MORRILL from California to register in several seminary courses as a special student.

WALTER H. MIEKLEY, Junior from Philadelphia, has been called as pastor of a Christian church near Winona Lake. He is about to begin two weeks of evangelistic effort assisted by Bob Hill.

MILDRED MILLER, second year student in the English course, during the holidays presented the gospel in the Barrett Home for delinquent girls, Akron, Ohio.

GLENN O'NEAL, junior from Sunnyside, Washington, spent the holidays in Michigan, preaching two Sundays at a Methodist Church.

RALPH RAMBO with MRS. RAMBO motored to Philadelphia and other eastern points during the vacation period.

HENRY REMPEL, senior in the seminary and newly elected president of the student body, spent the holidays conducting a two weeks' evangelistic meeting for the Pleasant Grove Brethren Church at Williamsburg, Iowa. In spite of the cold weather, Henry reports good attendance, five confessions, and some young people who are interested in seminary training for full time Christian service.

PHILLIP SIMMONS spent Christmas at his home in Covington, Virginia, preaching and conducting the church services during the absence of his pastor, Brother Bernard Schneider.

BLAINE and RUTH SNYDER, seniors in the seminary, were at their home in Conemaugh, Pa., during the holidays. On their way east they served on the Gospel Team which conducted a young people's meeting at Canton, Ohio.

EARL UMBAUGH, junior in the seminary, recently preached in the First Baptist Church of Warsaw, Indiana.

ROBERT WILLIAMS is serving as the pastor of the Osceola Brethren Church, where he is beginning a series of evening evangelistic meetings assisted by Harold Dunning as the speaker.

Under the leadership of Ralph Rambo a GOSPEL TEAM of seminary students conducted a young people's rally in Canton. Over 100 attended, and several lives were offered to God for His service.

JUST HIMSELF

Once it was the blessing—now it is the Lord;
Once it was the feeling—now it is His Word;
Once His gifts I wanted—now Himself alone;
Once I sought for healing—now the Healer own;
Once 'twas painful trying—now 'tis perfect trust;
Once a half salvation—now the uttermost;
Once 'twas what I wanted—now what Jesus says;
Once 'twas constant asking—now 'tis ceaseless praise;
Once it was my working—His it hence shall be;
Once I tried to use Him—now He uses me;
Once the power I wanted—now the Mighty One;
Once I worked for glory—now His will be done!

The present circumstance, which presses so hard against you, if surrendered to Christ, is the best shaped tool in the Father's hand to chisel you for eternity. Trust Him, then. Do not push away the instrument lest you lose its work.—Sel.

TWO BOXES

I thought of it once as I sat by myself
And looked at some boxes that sat on the shelf.
One, so large, with a contrast so grim:
A band-box for me, and a mite-box for Him!
I paid for my hat, and I paid for my gown,
And I paid for my furs that I purchased down town.
And when I returned it was as plain as could be;
A mite-box for Him, and a band-box for me!
I put in a sixpence,—it did not seem right;
I could not be proud of that glorious sight;
So I took out my check book and tried to be square,
For I wanted my giving to look like my prayer.

M. S. HAWLEY.

The thickest cloud brings the heaviest shower of blessings.

The shedding of tears never saved a soul. Even our tears need washing in the blood of Christ before they can be acceptable.

THE MINISTRY OF THE SON OF MAN

Professor Conard Sandy
Department of the Old Testament
Grace Theological Seminary

"Even as the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many" (Mat. 28:20).

These words were spoken by Christ just a short while before He went to Calvary to fulfill them in our behalf. He was already in the vicinity of Jerusalem on His last visit there before His betrayal and crucifixion. He knew what was immediately ahead and thus He spoke these words.

Here our Lord uses the name for Himself that He most often used. He was the Son of God from all eternity; but at His incarnation by virgin birth He became the Son of man. He now had identified Himself with the human race—even to the place of taking upon Himself our sin and bearing the penalty thereof. Thus He completely identified Himself with us, that we through that complete union might become, in turn, the sons of God.

From this verse we learn at least three things concerning the atoning ministry of the Son of man. First, that it was volitional; second, that it was vicarious; and third, that it was valuable.

1. THIS ATONING MINISTRY OF THE SON OF MAN WAS VOLITIONAL

Note the three verbs used in the passage: "came," "to minister," and "to give." They denote that the subject carries on willingly and is not involved in something over which He has no control. Each action is the result of the will of the actor, or as in this case, the result of Christ willing that it should be. To the Christian there is only one event that can fulfil all this, which is the crucifixion of our Lord at Calvary "to give his life a ransom for many."

His presence at the cross was volitional, as is revealed in the phrase: "the Son of man came." Upon another occasion He said: "I am come that they might have life" (John 10:10). Although He knew beforehand all that Calvary would mean in aloneness and agony, in punishment and death, He still willing to be present to bear the burden of sin. He was not driven by a blind fate, but led by His own willingness to save the lost.

His purpose for being at the cross was volitional, for He said He had come "to minister." This verb denotes willingness on the part of the "minister" to serve and care for the needs of others. It is a verb that speaks of definite activity toward someone else. Our Lord engaged in a vigorous ministry that culminated in the cross. But as a true servant He was always thinking of others. He gave His all that He might be both the Offering and the High Priest on the brow of Golgotha.

His passion at the cross was just as much a matter of His own willing. He went to the cross "to give his life a ransom for man." We as human beings suffer much physical pain and mental anguish, but can we ever say it is done willingly or in that same degree in which He suffered for us? "O how much He was willing to bear! With what anguish and loss Jesus went to the cross! But He carried my sins with Him there." Christ went to Calvary because He willed it so, for He saw the end from the beginning.

2. THE ATONING MINISTRY OF THE SON OF MAN WAS VICARIOUS

When He willed to go to Calvary it was not to atone for any sin He had committed, for he had none; but it was to take the place of those who had "sinned, and come short of the glory of God." "For He hath made Him to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him" (2 Cor. 5: 21).

He engaged in a ministry of selflessness for He came "not to be ministered unto." Most of our service is selfish. We too often labor and serve for some personal gain. But the eternal Son of God stooped to the place of the servant and desired to minister unto others rather than have them minister unto Him. Angels were held back from ministering unto Him while He was in the act of ministering for us at Calvary.

He came to engage in a ministry of service to others. Mark's Gospel presents Him as a servant constantly doing something for others. His supreme passion was to perform the one great service of redeeming man from sin unto Himself. It is no wonder Isaiah could speak of Him as God's Servant.

But above all He came for a ministry of substitutionary sacrifice. He came "to give his life a ransom for many." The word "for" denotes substitution, wherein one takes the place of another. This same Greek word is translated in Matthew's Gospel by the phrase "in the room of" (2:22).

*"I gave My life for thee—
My precious blood I shed—
That thou might'st ransomed be,
And quickened from the dead;
I gave, I gave My life for thee,
What hast thou giv'n for Me?"*

3. THE ATONING WORK OF THE SON OF MAN WAS VALUABLE.

The world has seen nothing else that in anyway compares to the crucifixion in its eternal value.

In its atonement it was God's satisfactory answer to the sin problem. He gave all that we might have eternal life. "Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls; who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it" (Matt. 13:45-46). The merchant man was none other than the Lord who gave His all to redeem us unto Himself.

It was valuable in what the Son of man assumed for He might give us His holiness, His life, His strength. He took unto Himself everything that was rightfully ours, none of which had any value, and gave to us all that was rightfully His, every bit of which is of infinite value. Read Isaiah 53 for the complete picture of this truth.

It is also valuable in its appropriation, for in this it gives each individual an opportunity to exercise his own free will. Though the Son of man died for the sin of the world, yet none are forced to receive His salvation. It is God's free gift to those who willingly receive it from His hand by faith. Salvation is for all as we appropriate it. A gift is of little value until we take it to ourselves and begin to use it. We either appropriate or reject it. The decision is with the individual. And so also with salvation.

In the thick of the battle a certain soldier lost one of his arms, and as he lay on his hospital cot the chaplain said: "You have lost an arm in the great cause." But the soldier was quick to make reply: "No, I didn't lose it—I gave it." After the same fashion, but in an infinitely deeper sense, the Son of man lost nothing but gave His all that we might have eternal life. Hallelujah, what a Savior!

Promoted to Glory

AGLER, Harlow was born July 7, 1864, and departed to be with Christ at the age of 75 years, 4 months and 25 days. He was a son of Frank and Christine Brake Agler.

On Oct. 18, 1883 he was united in marriage with Miss Samantha J. Foreman. They enjoyed their companionship until April 11, 1936, when his wife passed away.

Surviving are the following children: Chalmer of Columbus, Ohio, Glen and Mrs. Alva Smitley of this community, Mrs. Neva Lantz of Spokane, Washington; Charles of Fort Wayne, and Clarence of Geneva. A brother Joe and a sister Bertha Ann of Columbus, Ohio and another sister, Mrs. Cora Cow of Oakland, Calif.

Mr. Agler had served as deacon of the Bethel Brethren church in Jefferson township for over 28 years and he also served as treasurer of the Sunday school in that church. He was a faithful member.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. John Parr, assisted by Dr. J. C. Beal and Rev. Leo Polman.

BLOUGH, Evelyn Mae, departed to be with Christ in November, 1939. Her accidental death at a B & O R. R. crossing near her home was a shock to the entire community.

Sister Evelyn united with the Listie church at the tender age of eight years. During the fifteen years pastorate of the writer, we were strengthened in our ministry by her loyal support.

Her interest and activity in the church covered a wide field. She was recording secretary of the church, teacher in the Sunday School, president of the Sisterhood and organizer, and adviser of the Y.P.S.C.E. Her life personified the hymn "I Want My Life To Tell For Jesus."

The twenty years of her life spent in the church were filled with more activity than many others who spend the allotted "three score and ten" in the church.

CHILD EVANGELISM IN THE BIBLE SCHOOL

By Tom Hammers

Following is another section from the Child Evangelism Correspondence Course published by the Los Angeles Bible Institute and written by Rev. Harry H. MacArthur. Before studying this material however, turn to the January issue of The Brethren Missionary Herald and read the article entitled, "Meaning of Evangelism." Then with Bible in hand, proceed with your study of this material.

1. Importance of Evangelism In The Bible School

1. Children Need A Savior From Sin.

Children, according to God's Word, are potentially lost. They soon become conscious of the fact that they are sinners. Early in life they feel the shame, guilt and even remorse of their sins. They need to be taught, not only that there is a just God, to whom they will be held accountable for their sins, but that there is, also, a loving, sympathetic Savior who can and will forgive their sins if they confess them and turn from them; and that He will impart to them a new strength within, which will enable them to overcome their sinful habits and passions. They are easily convicted of their sins if the truth of God's Word is brought to their minds properly. If Jesus as a loving, powerful Savior is brought to their hearts and minds, they may be led to accept Him as Savior gladly.

Matt. 18:1-14 has reference to the salvation of the child. Read it carefully with this thought in mind, and then look particularly at the following verses in the chapter.

V. 6. "But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in Me...."

Here is a reference to the possibility of faith on the part of the child (little one).

V. 11. "For the Son of man is come to save that which was lost."

Jesus here refers to the lost condition of the child. By referring to the context it will be seen that the message of this chapter on the "child in the midst," does not close until the 14th verse, therefore, this refers to the child. Children are potentially lost, that is, they will soon grow up in sin and be lost, if they are not won to Christ.

V. 12-13. How think ye? If a man have an hundred sheep, and one of them be gone astray, doth he not leave the ninety and nine, and goeth into the mountains, and seeketh that which is gone astray? And if so be that he find it, verily I say un- to you, he rejoiceth more of that sheep, than of the ninety and nine which went not astray."

The straying sheep in this parable is a lost child. Straying children are seldom, if ever, wilful sinners, but rather creatures of environment; still they are really lost or will be soon. Jesus has commanded us to "Go"—"Seek" and "Find" the straying child.

V. 14. "Even so it is not the will of your Father which is in heaven, that one of these little ones should perish."

In this verse Jesus not only speaks of the possibility of the child being saved, but the desire of the Heavenly Father for his salvation.

In Matt. 19:13-14 Jesus commands that the children be brought to Him. We lead and ask adults to believe in Christ, or to receive Christ, or to confess Christ. Have we done our duty to the children if we do not teach them and lead them to receive Christ as their very own Savior?

When a child can be conscious of sin, he is old enough to accept the Savior, or as someone has put it, "When a child is old enough to knowingly sin, he is old enough to savingly believe."

2. It is A Great Sin To Neglect Them

V. 6. "But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in Me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depths of the sea."

To offend (cause to stumble) a little child is a great sin because of the child's helplessness. It would be, our Lord said, a lesser calamity to be drowned in the depths of the sea, than to offend a little child.

V. 7-9. "Woe unto the world because of offenses, for it must needs be that offenses come; but woe to that man by whom the offense cometh. Wherefore if thy hand or thy foot offend thee, cut them off, and cast them from thee; it is better for thee to enter into life halt or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet to be cast into everlasting fire."

"And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee; it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire."

Woe is pronounced on those who offend children. Jesus is, as we have already seen, dealing here with the child. It is a serious and great sin to neglect to evangelize him, or to oppose or discourage a child in regard to his being saved through faith in Jesus Christ. In fact it is a graver sin to neglect to evangelize a child than an adult.

3. They Can Be Born Again

Jn. 1:12-13. "But as many as received him, to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name.

"Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of man, but of God."

The Word of God which promises regeneration to those who receive Christ does not limit the promise to adults.

Jn. 3:16. "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him, should not perish, but have everlasting life."

The wonderful promise of salvation above is to "who-soever"—and we limit the scope of this promise if we do not apply it to the child.

Mk. 16:15-16. "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

"He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, but he that believeth not shall be damned."

We are commanded to evangelize "every creature"—this necessarily must include the child.

The testimony of experience proves that children can be born again. Some of the most useful servants of God were saved and regenerated in childhood. Biblical characters such as Samuel (1 Sam. 2:11, 18, 26), Josiah, the boy king (II Kings 22:1, 2), and Timothy (II Tim. 3:14, 15), were all saved during childhood.

Also other Christian leaders like Polycarp, one of the apostolic fathers who was converted at nine; Matthew Henry, the prince of the commentators, at eleven; Isaac Watts, the greatest writer of church hymns, at nine; Henry Drummond, the notable scientist-evangelist, at nine. This list could be added to almost indefinitely.

The testimony of Christian leaders also proves that children can be born again. Mr. Spurgeon is given credit for this remarkable statement: "I will say broadly that I have more confidence in the spiritual life of the children that I have received into this church (Metropolitan Tabernacle in London) than I have in the spiritual condition of the adults received. I will even go further to say that I have usually found a clearer knowledge of the gospel, and a warmer love to Christ in the child-convert than in the man-convert. I will even astonish you by saying that I have met with deeper spiritual experience in children of 10 and 12, than I have in certain persons of 50 and 60." This man of experience is the man who has a right to speak. Surely, such a statement from such a man should be sufficient to stop the mouths of the gainsayers as to child-conversions.

In one of his sermons, Spurgeon makes this statement; "A child of five, if properly instructed, can as truly believe, and be regenerated, as an adult."

Dr. R. A. Torrey said: "When I see a child walk into the inquiry room of a Sunday evening, I feel quite certain that if a worker of any sense gets hold of that child it is going to be converted; but when I see a man or woman walk in there I do not feel at all so sure."

A great Christian leader once made this statement; "If Protestantism loses out it will be because it has lost faith in the reality of a child's religious experience."

4. Children Often Die

We look at the white-haired man and say he is liable to die soon, but we look at the child and think that the child has many years before it. Bible School workers should realize that any one of the boys or girls in the class that they teach may die any day. This thought should make us zealous to win them to Christ as speedily as possible.

C. E. NOTES and NEWS

By Grace Allshouse

(Send all news items to your C. E. News Editor, 3326 S. Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind.)

Don't forget that we're in a hurry for your pastor's birthday and favorite Scripture verse. Don't wait for someone else to look after this. Phone him now, and drop us a card with this information. And remember, we're in a hurry!

While you're sending us the birthday, include a few words about your society's activities for this column. Let's have some fresh, newsy items!

This word comes from the high school C. E. of the First Brethren Church of Long Beach: "Our society is doing fairly good work this year. We have 53 members and the average attendance so far has been about 46. Several have accepted the Lord, and interest has been as good as could be expected in these days."

Endeavorers of all ages, this announcement is for you. We know that at some time or other you have had a C. E. meeting which was of unusual interest. Perhaps it was just the kind of program some other society would like to try. Accordingly, we are starting a C. E. Topic Contest in which any society or individual may compete, and in which each contestant can submit as many programs as he desires. Some of the things you will want to include are poster suggestions to advertise the meeting, type of meeting, the entire program of the evening (including special features, topics discussed, Scriptures used, etc.) and any other items which would make the meeting outstanding. Make all comments brief, but be sure important details are clearly stated. The outline you submit should not exceed 600 words. The plans submitted need not be original, but if you wish to test your skill writing a topic of your own, that is permissible. Watch this column for further details, and announcement of awards.

The Ellet C. E. sends in this news: Ellet Christian Endeavor has chosen a theme song, 'The Light of the World Is Jesus.' We also have as a favorite Scripture verse Mt. 5:16. Our last meeting was very well conducted by a men's gospel team just recently organized. We have started our Buckeye Camp contest in which the winner will have all or part of the expenses paid."

Start now to save your dimes and quarters so you can attend Bethany Camp at Winona Lake during Bible Conference week next summer. If you want fun and frolic, that's the place to get it, as you can readily guess from Brother W. H. Schaffer's reply to our inquiry as to whether he had any statement to make regarding Bethany Camp last year:

"I cannot really give you a writeup on Bethany Camp for all I did while there was eat and try to get some sleep. Am I glad Norman Uphouse is married? My cot was right by the front door and the rest of the boys thought it was a good joke to lock him out every night after 12:00."

Well, maybe Rev. Schaffer could explain how Norman Uphouse's bed got demolished and how the bed clothes got outside beneath the bushes!

LIKED BETHANY CAMP

Bethany Camp, however, was not all fun and frolic as you can see from the testimony of Miss Mildred Flatten:

"As I prepared to attend the conference of 1939 and stay at Bethany Camp, it was rest and peace I sought. After a strenuous winter and a trying summer, something was needed as an uplift before starting another school year. At Bethany Camp the bill was more than filled. The lodge was well equipped for the much-needed rest. The program, so well organized, even provided time for this.

"The vesper services and other times of fellowship afforded that 'peace that passeth all understanding.' One felt so away from the world, yet so filled with the joy of meeting old friends in the Lord.

"Until we can meet with Him and our believing sisters and brothers, Bethany Camp seems to me as a place of homecoming—a bit of heaven on this old earth—a place where Jn. 14:27 was made real to me, 'Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.'"

If you were at Bethany Camp and have any statement to make regarding it, let us hear from you at once.

Could you use $1.00? Brother Polman says he will pay $1.00 each for the ten best pictures he receives which were taken at Bethany Camp last year. The pictures may be any size and you can send as many as you want. All pictures submitted will become his property

INTERMEDIATE C. E. QUERY CORNER

Question: How can we get our committee chairmen to question?

Answer: Three things are essential. 1. Enthusiasm. 2. Enthusiasm. 3. Enthusiasm.

No task is accomplished satisfactorily if there is an absence of enthusiasm for the work, be it secular or for the Lord.

Someone has said, "Emmanuel means, God with us. Enthusiasm means, God in us. Ponder that and you will realize the importance of knowing the Lord, Who working in and through His children will accomplish that which would otherwise be impossible.

The president must be enthusiastic if he would expect results from the chairmen.

It is important that each chairman know the Lord and have a desire to serve Him.

It is important that each chairman know what is expected of him.

Each chairman should have a vision of the importance of every phase of Christian Endeavor. Every department is needful for a well rounded life for our Christian youth.

If your "cup is full and running over" your enthusiasm is bound to be contagious and result in growth for your C. E.—Miss Lena Marie Kortemeier, Intermediate Supt.

C. E. FUN CORNER

A SNOWBALL PARTY

The Invitation:

Come to our Snowball Party,
Come, there'll be lots of fun.
A jolly good time awaits you,
Everybody come — on the run.
Time. Place. Date.

The decorations:

Cotton, icicles, artificial snow, imagination, will add the "winter" touch.

The Refreshments:

A few suggestions in "white"—ice cream, marshmallows, popcorn, white sandwiches, white cake.

The Preparation:

Come on Social Chairmen, here's your chance to put it over. Be generous with your preparations. Make careful announcements. Plan for more games than you can use—unused ones will keep until next time. Begin promptly. Keep things moving. Stop on time.

A few suggestions for games:

The starting mixer: Pin slips of paper with words that have to do with snow or winter on each guest. Armed with paper and pencil they are to greet each other, shake hands, then write down word, each one to gather as many different words as possible in a given length of time, say five minutes. Collect stories and read aloud. Special recognition may be given the one voted best by the group.

Snowball contest: Make ten artificial snowballs of cotton. Make a cardboard snowman with a hat on. Place him at end of the room, let each player in turn toss balls trying to knock his hat off. Can make this game competitive by choosing sides, and giving points.

Guess What: Each guest writes down a brief description, some idea connected with snow, using five sentences, but not name it. Then each one reads his description while others try to guess his idea. The one guessed by fewest number is winner.

The Devotions: Do not forget the sacred privilege of a good "sing" and a few well chosen thoughts by your pastor, your president, or a member of your C. E., or someone invited for the specific purpose of giving the devotional message ere you sing "Good Night Ladies." How about a Bible study on "Snow?" Job 38:22 "Hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow?" will get you started.

Yours for a good time,
AUNT POLLY.

COUNSEL FOR CHRISTIANS—(1 Jn. 1:1-2:2)

Suggestions for the leader

Personal work involves more than simply bringing the unsaved to Christ; it means to make contacts with weak Christians. Paul urged us to bear the infirmities of the weak if we are strong in the Lord. Many times we discover a real opening to help someone that is about to give up or go back into the world in unfaithfulness.

Real Christian living calls for a sympathetic and helpful attitude toward those who make mistakes and fall. They cannot be helped much by criticism but can be brought back into their first love for God by kindly advice.

Never assume a holier-than-thou attitude. People resent that. We should be humble, admitting that we, too, are sinners needing the constant cleansing of Christ from sin. We should encourage others that there is hope for the worst person. No sin is too great for the grace of God to help the sinner.

Victory in Christian living cannot come while we harbor unconfessed sins. God withholds blessings from those who refuse to bow for forgiveness. If there is trouble in the Christian's life, usually it is a sin question. Sin robs one of a sweet testimony, destroys interest in the Bible, causes indifference toward the church, and eventually leads to defeat.

The best way to deal with individuals is to use the Bible freely. Have such knowledge of the Word that you can use some texts. At least give the meaning of the verse so the person can have courage.

Strange things are taking place within the church and by church members. The need was never greater than now for personal work among those going astray from God.

1. SOME CHRISTIANS ARE CARNAL AND NEED WARNING (I Cor. 5:1-8; I Jn. 1:9-10; 2:1-2)

There are no perfect people. As long as we are in this body we will have the tendency to sin and will actually become contaminated with sin. This is no excuse for a person to give up and live in open and habitual sin. It ought to make us sober and create within us a desire to be free from the thing that harms our Christian living.

Jesus Christ is the Advocate of all who trust Him. If we sin we can come to Him for forgiveness. This does not give one liberty to sin as he wills and think he can have forgiveness. There is a difference between habitual sin and falling into sin. An unsaved sinner practices sin as a habit. A Christian will fall into sin but it is his nature to refrain from the same sin again. He experiences forgiveness and has a hatred for sin.

It is possible for Christians to be limited in blessings because they do not honor the Lord as they have opportunity. Warn Christians that it is possible to be disapproved in God's sight. Faithfulness to Him always brings great reward.

2. SOME CHRISTIANS ARE DISCOURAGED AND NEED STRENGTHENING. I Ki. 19:4-8.

Life does have disappointments. Some about us have troubles and problems that make it hard for them to maintain interest in Christian things. Here is a wonderful opportunity to insist that no discouragement should ruin our love for Christ. There are Biblical reasons for suffering. Some cases we may not understand now, but we can be assured that things which come to Christians will work out for their good.

A new born babe in Christ will meet with severe opposition in the world. The enemy will make it hard for him. The old time friends will scoff at his decision. At this time he needs help. It is important not only to bring people to Christ but also to strengthen them in the faith. Let those who are weak in respect to falling into sin be taught from the Word that the victorious life means to be completely surrendered to the Lord.

3. SOME CHRISTIANS ARE SORROWFUL AND NEED COMFORT. Lk. 4:18-19; II Cor. 1:3-4.

Much of the Bible is written to comfort the sorrowing. Sin leaves its mark of sorrow in the world and Christians are made to feel some of it, but we need not sorrow as those who have no hope. Regardless of what happens, we always have the promise of Christ's return and the accompanying blessings. We lift up our eyes from the present course of affairs and look to the Lord Jesus.

Christian fellowship is of great value during sorrow. People appreciate a sympathetic friend in whom they can confide.

Much of Christ's earthly ministry was among those who were in trouble—in homes where death had entered, and among the outcasts and the incurables. To those that sat in the region of the shadow of death, light sprang up.

4. SOME CHRISTIANS ARE IGNORANT AND NEED TEACHING. I Co. 6:19-20; I Thess. 4:13; I Jn. 5:13.

As a rule the average Christian's knowledge of the Bible is meager. Scores of people in the church have not given proper time to Bible study and have but a fragmentary knowledge of its teachings. Great doctrines like sanctification, the baptism of the Holy Spirit, the return of Christ, and others, are not clearly understood by many people in the church. Before we can do much to help others we must understand these things.

Today a great deal is said about the separated life. Unless we actually believe it and practice it, others will hardly be led into this avenue of blessing. It is important to know what the Bible teaches in respect to the curse of worldliness and the joy of Christian victory over the world.

ADDITIONAL SCRIPTURE

Some reasons why people are discouraged, Num. 21:4; Neh. 4:10; Ps. 73:2, 3; Prov. 13:12. Examples of dependency. Num. 11:15; Josh. 7:7; Job 10:1; Jer. 15:10. Spiritual ignorance of the teachers of Israel. Matt. 12:7; Luke 19:42; John 3:10. Some "know ye not" passages. Rom. 6:16; I Cor. 3:16; 5:6; 6:2, 3, 9, 15, 16, 19; 9:13, 24; James 4:4.

QUESTIONS TO BE ANSWERED

1. Would it be better for a personal worker to start dealing with Christians rather than sinners? Would this help to overcome timidity?

2. What place does the use of the Bible have in helping defeated Christians?

3. How spiritual must we be before we can be a help to those who are weak? Rom. 15:1.

4. In Christian work, should we have a holier-than-thou attitude or go in the spirit of meekness? Gal. 6:1.

5. In what way can Christians bear the burdens of others? Gal. 6:2.

WHY ALL MY TROUBLES?

Aim: To show that the trials of the Christian life are the greatest blessings God can send into our lives if we let Him have His way.

Approach to the lesson:

Nellie was eight years old when she accepted Jesus as her Savior. Her parents did not want her to be a Christian, and thought they could "whip it out of her." But the more they whipped her the more she prayed that they might love her Jesus, too, and the more she wanted to go to Sunday School to learn more about Jesus and to receive new strength to suffer for him.

Do you know why God allowed this small child to suffer for Him? The answer from God's Word will show why Nellie never regretted the hard things she endured for Jesus before her parents and sisters loved Him. Before we answer the question, we want to be sure never to make the mistake of thinking God ever allows any Christian to suffer because He does not love him (Heb. 12:5-11). Did you ever see a child whose parents never punished him? He was "spoiled," wasn't he? and none of the children liked to play with him. God in love corrects us like a father does, that we might be "good children" of His (v. 11).

WHAT THE BIBLE TEACHES ABOUT OUR TROUBLES:

Ps. 119:67, 71. Our troubles keep us close to God.

Jn. 15:2-5. Grape vines bleed when they are purged (pruned) to remove the branches which keep them from bearing fruit. So our troubles cause heartaches, but God uses them to remove the things which make our lives unfruitful.

II Cor. 4:6-10. Almost any plant looks nice in a pretty flower pot, but one cannot help but be impressed with the beauty of a plant which looks nice in a common flower pot. Our lives are just common flower pots, and if the beauty of Christ can be seen in our lives in spite of all our troubles, others cannot help but marvel at the wonderful Savior we have.

Rom. 8:17-18. Our sufferings are very small compared with the glory which shall be ours when life is over.

II Cor. 4:15-18. We can suffer for Jesus only a little while, and we will have all eternity to enjoy the fathomless blessings which such suffering brings.

ILLUSTRATIONS FROM SCRIPTURE:

(All lessons referred to are from True Stories from the Long Ago.)

Ex. 13-18, Les. 28-29. Israel's troubles showed them the blessedness of complete dependence upon God.

II Chron. 20, Les. 71. Jehoshaphat's troubles taught a whole nation the power of prayer, the joys of complete trust in God, and the greatness of deliverance when God undertakes.

Jonah 1-2, Les. 79. Jonah's trouble taught him the importance of obeying God.

Acts 8:1; 12:44-14:26. The persecution of the early church became the means of spreading the good news of salvation to those who had not heard.

EVIDENTLY WE ARE NOT LIKED !

"I am not a subscriber to the enclosed paper and do not desire to have my name listed as a subscriber. Please remove my name from such list if same is listed that way."—E. E. M., Indiana.

Able to do

All that we ask.

All that we ask or think.

Above all that we ask or think.

Abundantly above all that we ask or think.

Exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think.

According to the power which worketh in us.

Ephesians 3:20.

His heart cannot be pure whose tongue is not clean.

God never calls youth to venture for Him, but with Him.

The world's joys cause sorrow. Hell is truth seen too late.

The Bank of Heaven is still doing business! The interest rate has not changed; the dividends have never failed.

Next Wednesday will be Valentine's Day. It makes us think of hearts, and of love, so this week we want to think about God's love and how we can express our love to Him.

What We Can Give To Jesus

An evangelist had just led little Mary to the Lord. She wanted so much to do something nice for him, but was too poor to buy even the smallest gift. As she walked across the lawn wondering what she could do she suddenly stopped. At her feet were some clover blossoms. Carefully she picked the largest ones, and adding a few clover leaves she arranged a little bouquet. This she gave to the evangelist at her first opportunity.

"Why did you bring me a bouquet?" the evangelist asked after thanking her for her little gift.

"Because I love you," was her reply.

"And do you give little gifts to Jesus?" he asked.

"I give myself to Him," she answered, for the very best she could give the evangelist was not good enough for Him Who saved her from her sins.

What gift do you give the Lord Jesus? Like little Mary, you may be poor, but you can still give Him the gift that would please Him more than anything else—yourself. Have you ever given Him this gift?

Make Mother A Valentine

If mother has not destroyed the Christmas cards she received last year, perhaps she would let you have them. Find one that has enough pretty paper so that you can cut three nice hearts from the parts on which there is no writing. If you cannot find anything suitable among the Christmas cards, perhaps you have some red construction paper or other heavy paper around the house.

First cut a heart from a plain piece of heavy paper for a pattern. If you do not know how, have someone show you. After the pattern is made, trace three hearts on the paper from which you wish to make the valentine.

Next you must decide whether you want to have the three valentines side by side or one underneath the other. If you have them side by side, overlap them just enough so that when you paste them together they will stay in place. After the paste is dry, punch a hole at each side of the center heart where it overlaps with the heart on the outside. If you do not have a paper punch, you can make the holes with an ice pick. Put a piece of colored ribbon through the holes and paste the ends on the under side of the valentine. Then the valentine can be hung on the wall when it is finished, if it is neat enough.

If you want the hearts underneath each other, punch one hole near the top and one near the bottom of each heart. Draw the ribbon through the holes in each heart, spacing the hearts one-half inch apart on the ribbon.

On the first heart carefully print, "God is love (I John 4:8b)." Jesus will help you to do this neatly if you ask Him to do so. On the second heart print, "We love Him because He first loved us (I Jn. 4:19)." On the third heart print, "Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another (I Jn. 4:11)." Perhaps you had better practice printing this on some plain hearts before you try it on the good ones.

Your mother will be pleased with such a valentine, and will be sure to get a blessing from its message if you give it to her with a prayer that God will use it to His glory.

Our Bible Character Alphabet

Answer to last week's Bible character alphabet: Adonibezek.

B was a man who started to go where the Lord had told him not to go. On the way he heard an animal speak. Num. 22:22-33 tells what the animal said, and why. Who was the man to whom she spoke?

NEWS BRIEFS

From
Our Workers

By Robert D. Culver

A MID-WINTER BIBLE CONFERENCE sponsored by the Northeast Ohio Brethren Ministerial Association was held in the Ellet Brethren Church January 3-7. The conference speaker was Herman A. Hoyt, professor at Grace Theological Seminary. Eleven churches cooperated in the conference: Ankenytown, Ashland W. Tenth St., Canton, Cleveland, Danville, Ellet, Homerville, Middlebranch, Rittman, Sterling and Wooster.

FROM THE SOUTHWEST comes an encouraging report via the bulletin of the Second Brethren Church of Los Angeles. "The first fruits of the new Jewish Mission project, undertaken by the Home Missions Council, showered down upon our church two weeks ago in the three young men, Jews, who have recently received Jesus Christ as their Messiah and Savior, and who were baptized by the pastor and received into our church."

AND SPEAKING OF ISRAEL, a true child of Abraham who has been for years a messenger to his people the Jews and to Gentiles as well has been received by his Lord into glory. Rev. Oscar Wago, after a long period of poor health, died Jan. 1 in Florida after a heart attack.

AN ASSOCIATE OF BRO. WAGO, Rev. H. P. Centz, who has shared his ministry in a number of our churches, closed a four day Bible conference on Jan. 10 in the Conemaugh, Pa., church, of which Bro. W. H. Schaffer is pastor.

A RECORD of a good piece of real home mission work comes to us from the Conemaugh bulletin. For about a year, the Conemaugh church has been sponsoring in a neighboring community what is known as the Franklinboro Mission. Mr. Ray Starr, a member of the Johnstown First Church, has been superintending the mission Sunday School. The following record, given at the last quarterly business meeting of the Conemaugh church, speaks for the quality of work being done. "Sunday School attendance, 666; average attendance, 55. Thursday night Bible class, 367; average attendance, 46." (All reports are for Oct.-Dec. quarter.) "Revival meetings held for two weeks from Nov. 26 to Dec. 10, with an average attendance of 68, resulted in 55 conversions from boys and girls ranging in ages from 7-16."

SPEAKING OF WORK, a useful collection of statistics has been assembled by the Board of Deacons of the church at Allentown, Pa., of which Bro. Frank Coleman, Jr., is pastor. In June a long list of questions, all concerning the elements and manner of conducting the three-fold communion service, was sent out to the pastors of 150 Brethren churches. The results, compiled from the 56 churches which responded, are both interesting and useful. We hope this information will be made available to all.

FROM THE SOUTHEAST comes the report of another up-and-coming Sunday School. We quote from the bulletin of the First Brethren Church of Washington, D. C., of which Bro. Homer A. Kent is pastor. "For the 14th consecutive month the Sunday School reports that the attendance for the last month exceeds that for the corresponding month of the preceding year. The average attendance was 343." This report is several weeks old. May the Lord have poured out added blessing in the meantime!

THE MID-WINTER BIBLE CONFERENCE of Brethren Churches in Southern California was held in the First Church of Los Angeles Jan. 18-21. The conference speaker was Dr. Herbert Lockyer of England. Services were held each afternoon and evening.

THE SECOND BRETHREN CHURCH OF LOS ANGELES, of which Paul R. Bauman is pastor, reports a net gain of 71 members during 1939. The total Sunday School attendance for the year was reported at 19,545, a gain of 1,346 over the previous year. The average attendance per Sunday was 386, an increase of 18 over the previous year. The total Sunday School offerings were $8,522.35.

CLIPPED FROM THE BULLETIN OF THE SECOND CHURCH OF LOS ANGELES: "Dr. Kenneth M. Monroe, Dean of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles, is to be teacher of a Bible class sponsored by our church and the First Brethren Church of Los Angeles. The class will meet each Tuesday evening in the First Church. Dr. Monroe will lead the class in a series of studies in the Book of Daniel. Subjects selected from that book will enable him to discuss current events in the light of the prophetic Word, and to illustrate them each night with slides from his summer travels in Palestine and Europe." This class is to begin Feb. 6.

BRETHREN CHURCHES OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA are evidently keeping Dr. Monroe busy, for the Whittier Church of which Bro. Charles A. Ashman is pastor, has announced a series of three lectures to be given by Dr. Monroe Jan. 16, 23, and 30. These are slide lectures on archeological work in Palestine and Egypt. The following interesting report also comes to us from the Whittier Bulletin. "There were 35 members received during the year, bringing the membership of the church to 486. Twenty-two special speakers occupied the pulpit during the year."

GRACE THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY enjoyed the ministry of Dr. V. C. Kelford of Waterloo, Iowa, during Jan. 23-26. Dr. Kelford addressed the faculty and student body twice on Tuesday, twice on Wednesday on the subject of "Grace". He spoke three times on Thursday to the seminary and to visitors from the community on the subject of "The Yielded Life". On Friday, the seminary's annual day of prayer, he spoke three times on the subject of "Prayer". The writer was an attendant of all these addresses and can bear testimony to the spiritual quickening the Spirit of God imparted through these lectures.

Greetings

FROM THE FIELD

From Your Mission Point
—One Sunday At Fort Wayne, Ind.

We humans are inclined to view the ordinary church worship and Sunday services as just common and sometimes monotonous routine. Not so at The First Brethren Church at Fort Wayne. Every Sunday is a special treat! With all its Bible School departmentalized, it is a veritable beehive of activity every Sunday morning. At the close of the classes each week, Brother Leo Polman teaches the children by an object lesson (needless to say, the older folks get the point as well!). The worship hour moves along and comes to a close seemingly in no time. But, even as in points of longer-established work, the folks enjoy fellowship after services and tarry until the dinner bell rings!

Sunday evening calls together four Christian Endeavor groups. These are growing in grace and numbers for which we're glad. Mrs. Polman's nimble fingers dancing all over the keyboard of one piano (and what I mean, they dance—the dance which is a praise unto Him), with assistance of two other pianos, tell us that the evening service has begun. Folks participate gladly and heartily in lively song service.

Special numbers, both vocal and instrumental, are heard at every service. Every Sunday is a special day at Fort Wayne!

Another clear-ringing message from the Word of God closes the formal Sunday service, but the day is not yet over—as many as can stay joint in informal fellowship of the singspiration and have a fine half hour to crown the events of the day. This time is filled with chorus singing, specially-prepared numbers—duets, solos, quartets—vocal music and instrumental. Then, too, there are some impromptu renditions! (This service verily fills the place which otherwise is left empty in our Christian association.) With auditorium lights turned out, in the gleam of a radiant, illuminated cross, "The Old Rugged Cross" or some other appropriate hymn is sung. Lights on again and the group forms a fellowship circle, sings "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and is dismissed with prayer.

Our invitation is open to any who wish to and can to visit us and share the joy of worship.

We have found it a blessing to be amidst the number enjoying all the fine fellowship here. It has been a heart-touching experience and the novelty and thrill of such meetings do not vanish with regular attendance.

Added blessings and spiritual feasting are the reward of all who are faithful in attending all regular services and the special weekly meetings.

How great things God hath done for us! Wherefore we are glad. Ever in His Grace, GENEVA G. KUHN.

The First Brethren Church Of Long Beach

Held its annual business meeting January 9th, and though it was almost midnight before adjournment was in order, the reports were so interesting and inspiring that one did not weary.

Our church roll now numbers 1,422, and the treasurer's report showed a cash balance in the bank of $1,421.16. (If we had had but 84c more, wouldn't that have been a coincidence?) Here are some other interesting figures from the treasurer's report:

Total offerings during 1939:

|----------------------------------|-------------|
| To Foreign Missions .....        | $10,574.67 |
| To Home Missions .....           | 3,610.89    |
| To Grace Theological Seminary... | 3,218.64    |

The Bible School rejoices in an average attendance of 1,291 each Sunday of 1939, with an average offering per Sunday of $196.45. Much of the credit for this splendid attendance is due to our Transportation Committee, which is composed of 60 volunteer autos that call on over 400 homes each Sunday, bringing an average of 582 boys and girls, or a total of 30,834 during the entire year.

Then, there was a report from the "baby" of the Southern California District, the Naples Bible School of which our Brother Ralph Colburn is superintendent. He reported an average attendance of 30 at Bible School and an average of 12 coming to the midweek prayer meeting. Also, there were 11 confessions last Sunday, and Brother Ralph says they are about ready for a baptismal service.

Another interesting phase of the work is the Child Evangelism classes—37 of them held in various homes during the week, with 27 teachers. The superintendent of this work reported a total attendance during the year of 11,789 children, among whom there were 364 confessions of Christ. Total receipts during the year, $202.67.

"The Seventy" Committee reported a total of 7,271 calls made during the year; 174 first confessions of Christ as Savior; 38 members gained for the church; 136 members of the Bible School, and a total of 11,552 Bibles, Testaments and tracts distributed, not to mention 162 baskets of food given to those in need.

There are many other interesting departments of the work, but let us close with the church nursery report. This department takes care of babies and young children every Sunday morning and evening, thus permitting the parents to attend the church service. The nursery reported that they cared for an average of 20 babies per Sunday, with the highest number (51) on Easter Sunday.

Surely, we have much for which to praise the Lord as we enter 1940 for another year if service unto Him.

MRS. L. E. ANDREWS, church reporter.

Pleasant Grove Evangelistic Service

Williamsburg, Iowa

On December 26 the Pleasant Grove church started an evangelistic service which lasted till Jan. 7 with Brother Henry Rempel of Grace Theological Seminary presiding.

The roads were excellent and the first few days temperatures moderate and attendance increasing. Then the temperature dropped to below zero and continued very cold the remainder of the meeting.

We had a fine meeting. The spirit was good and co-operation of adjoining communities fine as well as the loyalty of the faithful membership.

Five confessions were made, four new family altars established, and much Bible reading done. One lady read 293 chapters in one day; others read as many as 134.

Those were the visible results but we feel even greater were the invisible results. The spirituality of membership was enriched; greater interest in Bible created; interest of outside people gained; and many outside folks contacted by Brother Rempel in his fine spiritual interest and concern for their souls' welfare. He is a fine personal worker as well as a good speaker; earnest talker; excellent Bible instructor and enthusiastic song leader. We all enjoyed his accordeon music as well. To become better acquainted with Brother Rempel is to love his Lord more and appreciate the entrepreneur more. Rev. Rempel was much appreciated by those in whose homes he was entertained.

The Lord certainly had a hand in sending Rev. Rempel to us and we wish God's most rich blessings on him in his school work and continued service for his Master whom he so much loves to serve.

MRS. JOHN R. MYERS, Cor. Secretary.

Spokane, Washington

The Spokane church sends greetings to all of like faith.

We just closed a year of delightful fellowship in service for the Master. The spirit of unity and worship is fine. During the year 1939 we received a group of fine young folks, two men and three ladies, who prove themselves to be real born again workers, finding continued opportunities in His vineyard.

We are especially happy to report that the work here is seemingly being revived. Rev. A. L. Lantz, our pastor, administered baptism and received into the church four children and two adults on the second Sunday evening of this month. We praise God for the continued efforts being made here to gather a people unto Himself.

The Spokane church covets the prayers of the entire brotherhood that we abide in His will and be led by Him to greater work. MRS. J. E. ALLEN, Rec. Sec'y.

Send in for the date that will suit you best now, and then you can rest easy till the time comes. Requests are beginning to come in. Some of our churches have already held their Jewish conference.

REMEMBER — this is the only way we have of financing our new Jewish Mission in Los Angeles.

PASTOR — you will not want your church listed among those that did nothing to help take the gospel to Israel this year.

250,000 Jewish hearts have been entrusted to us by God to evangelize. This is one task in which we dare not fail.

Our responsibility began January 1st. It is now up to us.

Send all offerings and pledges to the office of the Council in Berne, Indiana.

GREAT IS OUR LOSS

It is with deep regret that we express our sorrow at the passing on of our beloved Brother Oscar Wago. This wonderful witness for Christ has endeared himself to all who knew him with a lasting affection. The story of this dear man's life of trouble and suffering before he found Jesus Christ as His Savior is one of the most thrilling accounts in the annals of the victories of the gospel. The way God used this faithful son of Abraham after his conversion to Christ was most remarkable. He was a true witness to his own people, the Jews, and also to the Gentiles. He greatly loved the people of the Brethren churches, and deeply endeared himself to all who knew him in his ministry.

Brother Wago greatly rejoiced to see the action of the Brethren churches in undertaking the Los Angeles Jewish Mission as their especial responsibility. He was looking forward with the keenest of anticipation to having a part in helping the Brethren churches to make a success of this great work of saving Israel. He was in the office of the Brethren Hime Missions Council shortly before he died, accompanied by Brother H. B. Centz. At that time he was not well, but made no mention of it at all, instead manifesting a sweet spirit of optimism and cheerfulness that was catching.

We shall miss our brother immensely, but we shall try to show more of his spirit in our own lives, I am sure. May the comfort of the grace and power of our Lord Jesus Christ be given without measure to Sister Wago, who feels this loss more keenly than any other. We feel that it won't be long now until we shall all hear the call, "Come up hither."—R. P. M.

Rev. Centz

True sacrifice consists, not so much in giving up great things as in daily relinquishing personal enjoyments for the sake of others, without looking for love or gratitude in return.

THE FARCE OF MORAL RE-ARMAMENT

Nothing indicates the close of the age of grace more than the way religious fads and fakes sweep across the world of men these days. Right now it is "Buchmanism," more popularly known as "Moral Re-armament," and is the present offspring of what was known as the "Oxford Movement" which was so popular a few years ago.

With a Christless, crossless, message that is acceptable to Jew, Hindu, Arabian, Confucianist or pagan, this MRA movement sweeps on. To a Christ rejecting world of men with the holocaust of an awful world catastrophe of misery and death as the harvest of their sins hanging over their heads, such a movement, holding out the promise of deliverance from all war if its principles are accepted, seems to be a real refuge.

With an imposing emblem of four pillars holding up three massive letters M R A representing "Moral Re-armament;" with the explanation that the four pillars stand for absolute purity, absolute honesty, absolute unselfishness, absolute love; and with a press agent department that uses every resource of the show business to make a striking impression on the mass mind; this new religious idea flows on like a tidal wave.

It Is Popular

While using the name of God frequently, the word Christianity now and then, the name of Christ seldom, if ever, and the cross never, the blood of Christ, never, and never a mention of life after death, salvation from the penalty of sin, hell, or judgment, yet thousands of preachers and church members are being led into this thing thinking it is Christianity. England, which only a few years back was swept with a wave of spiritism, is being swept now with this new fad. That poor nation, once a bulwark of Christian truth and missionary zeal, now seems the prey of every religious quack that asks for a hearing. The morale of that nation was so alarming in face of a great war that this movement looked like a God-send to its leaders. 10,000 billboards were donated to advertise its catch words and phrases; 5,000,000 milk bottle caps were printed with its words on them; special stamps were printed using its phrases; transportation systems gave advertising space; and business men gave their approval and support. The wave is still rising higher. In this country a great show was given last summer in Hollywood Bowl before 30,000 spectators. It claimed to be the "pre-view of a new world order."

If Satan can get men to follow anything but Christ, he is satisfied—anything but repentance and the confession of sin; anything but a Savior on Calvary; anything but the real Christ; anything but a real turning away from sin and its pleasures.

More Despair

It will all fail miserably. The ideals they set up of absolute honesty, absolute purity, absolute unselfishness, absolute love, are totally impossible of realization apart from the cross of Christ and its power. If the human heart could have achieved such things without Christ, Calvary would have been unnecessary. "Without Me ye can do nothing" said our blessed Lord. After this spasm is over the hearts of men who trusted in it will sink back into a worse despair. Such movements appear when the real thing has been lost or repudiated.

How we need to preach the gospel today as never before. How the Brethren churches need to rise up to our greatest opportunities and "cry aloud and spare not."

"Son of man, I have set thee a watchman unto the house of Israel; therefore thou shalt hear the word at my mouth and warn them from me. When I say unto the wicked, 'O wicked man thou shalt surely die,' if thou dost not speak to warn the wicked from his way, that wicked man shall die in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at thy hand." Ezek. 33:7, 8.

When Your Knees Knock

We read the other day of a sign in front of a church in London, England. It read, "When your knees knock, kneel on them." No more timely word could be spoken. The knees of the world are knocking today as never before. And Satan is keeping the knees of the Christian knocking almost constantly these days also. There never has been a time like today when Satan has been trying to knock down and discourage the true Christian. Never before have the difficulties of the preacher been so great. Never have enemies risen up on every side as they rise up today against those who preach the gospel. An hour with God alone will put more strength into trembling knees than anything else in the world. Jesus said, "Men ought to pray and not to faint." The hard tasks, the difficult duties that you must perform, the unpleasant situations you must meet, the disappointments that take the heart out of you, the crushed hopes that make your feet to drag like lead, the living sorrows that seem never to leave you, all can be met and overcome through prayer.

"And they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles, they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint." Isa. 40:31.

Jewish Persecution In America

Of all countries where racial discrimination and persecution would be unexpected, America is that nation. Written into the constitution of our land is the guarantee of freedom and full human rights for all men of all races if they regard the welfare of their fellow men. A land of churches, where from over 200,000 pulpits each week for generations a book, the Bible, has been read, with every section of it written by Jewish fingers, yet today America is turning from the Jew. This is made plain by the way in which one of the most popular, capable, and worthy governors in America, Herbert H. Lehman of New York, is being totally ignored by his political party for the nomination of president. It can't be said that he lacks ability in any sense, for he took the state of New York which had been left in terrible debt by the former governor, F. D. Roosevelt, and has practically wiped out that debt in the few years he has been in office. He has not been spectacular nor self seeking. He has been a quiet and able administrator of the people's affairs. He would undoubtedly be the most probable nominee because of his record, were it not for the fact that he is a Jew. He is related to Jesus Christ according to the flesh, therefore he feels the hand of the god of this world.

It was for this same reason that Hore-Belisha had to go from his high position as Minister of War of Great Britain, we are told. In the short time he had the position he had completely rebuilt the British military machine. But he is a Jew. He had to go!

In talking with a Jewish man one time I said to him, "Come down to the Brethren Church in this city and receive a blessing." "No, they wouldn't want me down there," he replied, "I am a Jew." He had learned it somewhere.

As much as we who know the Lord Jesus Christ and love the Jew regret it, yet we know that this is just what Jesus said would come in the closing days of this age.

"Ye shall be hated of all nations for My name's sake."

All of this only means that it won't be long till Israel, back in their homeland, spurned and hated by the world they chose when they turned from Christ at Calvary, will turn to "Him Whom they pierced" and say, "What are these wounds in thy hands?" Then shall He reply, "These are the wounds I received in the house of my friends." In that glad day a nation shall be born in a day. Haste the day Lord!

Perverved Ideas of the Church

A new woman's organization has been formed, called "The Fellowship of Equal Service in the Church." The reason for this organization is the claim that women are not accorded equal privilege in the church with men. They complain that the higher positions in the church are not open to them. So they propose to "give their services where there are no fetters, and no closed doors on womanhood." It is further stated that a large number of young and ambitious women are withdrawing from the church because they see in it no future for their sex!

Now isn't that something! Because the higher positions in the church are not open to them, they are leaving the church. They see no future ahead without places of prominence. We wonder what their idea of the church amounts to anyway. What do they look upon the church as; a place for personal elevation, a field for individual aggrandizement regardless of fitness? We wonder. We read of an old apostle named John who once wrote of a fellow by the name of "Diotrophes" who loved to "have the pre-eminence among the church," and that this fellow rejected John. Women who take such an attitude toward the church may be indeed sincere, but in our estimation, they need a real Bible-teaching pastor who will show them what kind of an organization the church is. Do they realize that the church belongs to God, and that He has laid down very clear directions as to the place women should have in His church? That women are not to be the head of the church, nor to assume positions of dominance over men in spiritual things? Paul taught us plainly these things, "I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence" (1 Tim. 2:12).

God has not crushed the women into futility. He has simply laid down rules for His women that would guard them from the dangers to which they would be exposed as leaders of the church, and for which they are not equipped. The apostle Paul wrote of Euodias and Syntyche as being "fellowhelpers" in the gospel. Such a position reveals the high place of usefulness that spiritual women may find in the gospel. But we never read of either of them or of any other women envying Paul's position as an apostle. We are reminded of the words of our Lord, "He that would be greatest among you, let him be your servant" (Mt. 23:11). We praise God for our women who glorify God in their faithful ministry for Christ in the church, who "adorn themselves with a meek and quiet spirit, which in the sight of God is of great price" (1 Pet. 3:3, 4). Poor indeed would be the church without them. But we know of no women who entered the church with the purpose of getting high positions for themselves who ever glorified God.

THANKSGIVING OFFERING CLOSES MARCH FIRST!

The comparative report of the Thanksgiving offering will appear in the March issue of The Brethren Missionary Herald. In order for this to be done, all balances of home mission offerings not yet sent in, must be forwarded to the office of the Council during the last week of Feb. After that it will be simply impossible for us to include any receipts in the offering. All that comes in after Mar. 1st will have to wait for the annual report, August 1st.

PASTORS ! TREASURERS ! SECRETARIES !

Please look after this at once, and help us to make the best report possible.

A more glorious victory cannot be gained over another than this, that when the injury began on his part, the kindness should begin on ours.

FIRST FRUITS OF OUR JEWISH MISSION PROJECT

By Paul R. Bauman

Rev. Zimmerman (front) with three Jewish Christians.

Lord. The thrill was ours of hearing from the lips of each shortly before he entered the baptismal waters, the story of how he came to know Christ as his Savior. It was the story of God's power to remove the dark veil of spiritual blindness. It was the story of how each had been brought out into God's glorious light. This light and its accompanying joy was literally radiated upon the faces of these three young men as they spoke. All who heard the testimonies realized how very much worth while is the work God has led us to carry on among our Lord's brethren according to the flesh.

With these young men at the morning church service were Brother and Sister Elias Zimmerman, in charge of the Los Angeles Jewish Mission, and a delegation of Jewish Christians. These too spoke of the way God is working among the Jewish people.

The Lord is blessing this work and its future is bright. Let us pray for Brother Zimmerman, that he may be given wisdom from above and the power of the Spirit of God. Pray for the Jewish people among whom this work is being carried on. Pray for these fine young men and for others who have been accepting Christ. The pathway of their Christian experience is a far more difficult one to traverse than is that of the average Gentile believer.

Christ is not recorded in the Gospels as having quoted from the books of Ruth, Ezra, Nehemiah, Song of Solomon or Obadiah. None of these books have been under the fire of higher critics. The only ones that are disputed are those which Christ Himself endorsed.

A NEW THING IN KENTUCKY!

It has been customary through past years that when church buildings were erected, the mission boards have had to do the erecting themselves. But today we are seeing a new day in the spiritual development of our people whom Brother Sewell Landrum is shepherding in the field. They are planning to go right ahead and build their own building. They are going up into the hills and cutting down the timber that has been donated for the new church. They are hauling the logs to the mill that is right across from the new site. The people on every side said to the Secretary when he was there a few weeks ago, "We will do all we can to help." One generous lady of means who owns much property in that section deeded the ground to the Council outright without a cent of cost. It is an attractive site that other interests had been seeking for roadhouse, stores and garages, but she chose to give it to the Lord's work rather than accept a good price for any other purpose.

While these folks have plenty of timber, and plenty of time to help in erecting the building, they are short of cash with which to buy windows, doors, paint, roofing, and hardware. If any of our readers feel led to help supply any of these things, here is a list. Pick out anything you want to, designate it with your gift and send the amount to the office of the Council and it will be sent direct to the field for that purpose.

10 windows, $5.00 each.

2 front doors, $10.00 each.

5 regular doors, $5.00 each.

Hardware, hinges, locks, nails, bolts, etc., $30.00

23 rolls roofing, $2.25 per roll.

30 gallons of paint, $2.90 per gal.

"The Lord will provide."

Brother Landrum is now holding meetings in the school building, but it is too small to hold half of what would desire to come. We now have a Sunday School of 125. It will be necessary to wait till the church is up before we can bring in any more.

This announcement is made for those who pray as well as those who give so that the needs may be known.

SENTENCE SERMONS

Faith is rudimental; prayer is monumental. One is a cornerstone on which all is built; the other a capstone in which all that is built reaches a climax of completeness.

Don't be too easily scared. The devil uses a good many blank cartridges.

You don't have godliness in triumph unless you can carve contentment out of God's providence, whatever the dish is that is set before you.

Pray for others. By making an errand to God for them, you will get something for yourself.

ACROSS —THE— NATION

—with our Secretary

DOWN IN TENNESSEE

For the first time we have been privileged to hold a meeting in Limestone, Tenn. We have had many invitations but previously we have been unable to accept any of them. Limestone is a country church and is one of the earliest churches organized by the Progressive Brethren. We were surprised at the vigor and zeal of this congregation. We learned however, that a strong human factor rests in the person of Miss Mary Pence. She has been a tower of strength of this church. But she is not alone responsible for the strength of this people. There are quite a number of spiritual, Bible-taught Christians is the leadership of this church.

Walter Lewis, who is one of Brother William Clough's young men from Uniontown, is pastor. He attends the Johnson City College, majoring in music. He loves the Lord, he loves souls, he is a good preacher, and we enjoyed our fellowship with him. There is just one thing wrong with him—he needs a wife!! It is time that some fine young lady convinced him that he needed a wife. His people love him and the community hold him in high esteem.

The meetings were well attended from the start. Hardly a night passed that the building was not full. There was an excellent interest manifested throughout the meetings. Faithfulness is a marked characteristic of these people. They know how to lay other things aside for the work of the Lord. Many decisions were made during the meetings and God blessed His people abundantly.

These people have a real vision. There is a missionary spirit that is leading them to reach other sections of Tennessee. They had a mission started in Johnson City, eighteen miles from their present location. It was begun while Brother Hill Maconaghy was pastor of the church. During the depression they were compelled to let it go. However, Johnson City is a fine field and a good place to start a string of Brethren Churches throughout the south.

The fine southern hospitality that we enjoyed there was without peer. Our home was with the Pences and we had many invitations to dine out. It will be a pleasure to accept the hearty standing invitation given by the congregation to return soon. There is a real Brethren Church at Limestone.

CHRISTMAS AT HOME

Leaving Limestone we drove through Cleveland, Tenn., the home of Bob Jones College, to pick up a son and daughter to bring them home for Christmas. One evening while there taking dinner in the college dining hall, some handy individual entered the automobile and helped himself to two winter suits, two shirts, a rain coat, and a fountain pen. It was quite an introduction to Christmas. Since then, we have been admiring every nice looking barrel that we saw. It is peculiar how quickly our ideas change under varying circumstances! We wonder what the old devil will think up next for us.

WATERLOO'S NEW BUILDING

The zeal and progress of this group is simply amazing. Without a pastor or any guiding hand, except the Lord's, these people have gone ahead with remarkable success. They have purchased two fine lots, and they have their building already up and completed on the outside. Much of the interior work has also been finished. Their heating plant has been installed and it is likely that services will be held in the new structure in a couple of weeks. We plan to run the announcement of the date and program of the dedication services in our next issue.

The New Waterloo Church
and Congregation

There is a local minister who has been preaching for these folks for some time. Dr. J. C. Beal is expected to take the pulpit if these folks beginning Feb. 1st, and to continue for two months. Brother Frank Coleman, Jr. has been secured as pastor at Waterloo and will begin his services there April 1st. Brother Graham Hay has favored us with a fine newsy report of the doings in Waterloo and he has also sent us a picture of their group as it meets today, and also a picture of their building at the present state. We believe that God will glorify Himself in Waterloo through this work in the days that shall follow, until Jesus comes. Let all the praying folks remember this earnest band of God's people in Waterloo.

MEETINGS AT JUNIATA

Our first meeting of the new year was held in our mission point at Juniata, Penna. There is a splendid group of Bible loving Christians in our Juniata church. The church has been having quite a struggle and has not made very great progress, due to many adversaries and difficulties.

Brother Ernest Pine is pastor of this field and has been doing some very fine work in organizing and molding the policies of the work for a great future. His has been foundational work since the very beginning of his ministry in Juniata. God has blessed and much has been accomplished. The people are working and sacrificing in a real way in order to complete their building. They are beginning to realize the futility of trying to build up a large Sunday School without accommodations. To have all of the classes in one room, with the attendant confusion and distractions, is a handicap that they are trying hard to overcome. They now have the rest rooms finished in the basements, they have their cement floor all in, their furnace room is about completed, and now they are planning to lay a new floor in the main auditorium and put in comfortable pews in the place of the very uncomfortable benches that they now have. They have most of the money on hand to do this, part of which has been provided by the Council and the balance by the local people.

Our home while in Juniata was with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kime and it was a real home indeed. Every kindness was shown us and we were very grateful for it. In fact, the entire congregation were most hospitable and kind to us. It was a pleasure to work again with Brother Ernest Pine, this being the third meeting that we have worked together in winning souls.

We believe that there is a real future for the Juniata church as a group that stand out for the fundamentals of the gospel of Christ in no uncertain way. There is need in this community for a real Bible conference church. May our Father God bless these folks and lead them on to real victory in the days to come, is our prayer.

USE ME TODAY

Use me today, O Savior divine;
Cleanse and renew this servant of Thine.
Lord, with Thy Spirit fill me, I pray,
Then in Thy service use me today.

Use me today, Lord, use even me,
Use me to lead some lost one to Thee.
Lead where Thou wilt, Lord, open the way,
And to Thy glory use me today.

Use me today to scatter the seed,
Bringing the blessing someone may need.
Whether I toil or quietly pray,
Blessed Lord Jesus, use me today.

FIELD REPORTS

MODESTO ECHOES

"I thank my God upon every remembrance of you, always in every prayer of mine for you all making request with joy, for your fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now" (Phil. 1:3-5).

The text clearly reveals that the great work of God is accomplished through fellowship in the gospel. Though God alone can give the increase, He is pleased to use His redeemed on earth for a great work of planting. As a small company of Bible believers in Modesto, facing the problems which attend the establishing of a Bible witness in a new field, we have this sweet confidence that by actual fellowship in the gospel, we join hands with many hundreds in whose heart God has planted a desire to extend the true gospel witness to the ends of the earth. We thank God upon every remembrance of you Brethren. May we be faithful stewards of the manifold grace of God.

The most of our friends know that this gospel work in Modesto is only in its beginning stages. It has begun in a very small way, and has small people in leadership; but we serve a very great God Who is blessing the testimony and honoring His Word.

The erecting of the gospel tent was a great event. It really marks our first public appeal in Modesto. The five day Bible conference in which Dr. Louis Bauman ministered the Word was a feast of fellowship and a fine introduction of our witness in this community. The most of our work so far has been planting the precious Word. We have good reason to believe that Modesto is fertile gospel soil and we shall soon see the harvesting of precious sheaves. Thus far, we have baptized three; but many have been blessed, interest is generally good, and we have confidence in God that He is soon to give a great ingathering.

At our first communion service, held at the close of Dr. Bauman's Bible conference, there were 44 at the tables and a goodly company of onlookers.

Our Bible School now has five divisions. The attendance is becoming more regular and stabilized. Our highest attendance, without special program, has been 59, and at our Christmas program we had 72 present. The church services are proportionately well attended. All our people are generally faithful to the prayer meeting, and God is answering prayer in a very real way. A wonderful spirit prevailed in our first church business meeting, Jan. 5, at which time a full staff of church officials were elected, as provided by our constitution. We are expecting great victories in the year 1940 if our Lord tarries, and if in 1940 our Lord shall rend the heavens with the trumpet call that shall rapture to Himself all who are redeemed in His own precious blood, to be presented in bodies like unto His own glorious body, that will be the greatest of all victories.

May our Lord Jesus Christ be praised.

GLEANINGS FROM GLENDALE

Rev. and Mrs. Richardson

In many parts of the country today there are churches without pastors, pulpits without preachers. The funds of several denominations have been decreasing for some years past and money is no longer available to maintain the ministry at full strength. Missionary operations also have had to be curtailed, and many an outpost for Christ at home as well as in foreign lands has been abandoned. When the idea of a Brethren church in Glendale was first born there were those who were skeptical and voiced their opinions in words such as these, "Why another church in Glendale?" or "It's just a waste of time to try to start another church in this city." But even in the face of this pessimistic criticism a few Brethren who had faith in God and His Word met in the home of Brother J. R. Dunn for prayer. The first meeting was held in this home on Palm Sunday five years ago, and these few prayed the First Brethren Church of Glendale into existence. God has richly blessed us and truly we can say with the Psalmist, "I love the Lord, because he hath heard my voice and my supplications. Because he hath inclined his ear unto me, therefore will I call upon him as long as I live. Gracious is the Lord, and righteous; yea our God is merciful" (Ps. 116:1, 2, 5).

We closed our year with a fine report showing an increase in every department and auxiliary of the church. All bills were paid and a small balance was reported in the treasury. Our Bible School has been a real joy to our hearts and if you are not too easily bored with statistics these will give you somewhat of a picture of our Bible School. The average attendance for 1939 was 191 with an average offering of $14.32. A total of $1101.12 passed through our Bible School treasury. Total expenditures were $973.45 leaving a balance of $127.67. Our Bible School is self supporting, is paying for our New Bible School building, and helps the church in many ways. In special offerings alone the Bible School gave $68.17 to foreign missions; $50.85 to Grace Theological Seminary and $83.50 to home missions. One new department was organized with an average attendance of 30 or more. Space will not permit me to tell you of the joys and victories in each department of our school and the faithfulness and sacrifice of each officer and teacher.

REGULAR PRAYER MEETINGS

Our prayer meetings have been a real source of power and blessing to the church. Our Wednesday evening prayer meetings have averaged about 40 in attendance and many times we have close to 50 in attendance. There are two small prayer groups meeting each Tuesday and Thursday evening praying for a revival and the salvation of the lost. Each Thursday morning a small group meet at the church and together with the pastor unite in prayer for the various problems of the church and its membership and this group over a year's time has proven to be a great source of power.

The auxiliary groups of the church such as the Women's Missionary Council, Christian Endeavor, and Men's Brotherhood have a real ministry and are showing a definite growth. The Brethren Women's Bible Class meets each Thursday afternoon. Twenty-six were present at last Thursday's meeting. A new personal workers' class has been organized and the problems of personal work are being studied with a view to putting our knowledge into immediate practical experience.

Membership in the church has shown a steady growth. We averaged four new members a month last year. Our roll has been purged of a lot of dead timber and we are looking forward to great victory in the Lord during 1940. Financially the church is in excellent condition. It has given us great joy to assume another large portion ($250.00) of the support given toward our pastor's salary and are looking forward to that day in the not too far distant future when we can assume all responsibility, enabling that money that has been used toward our support to be used in other channels. More than $1200 was given last year to support various missionary endeavors. Again it rejoices our hearts to report the year closed with all bills paid and a sizeable balance ($219.00) in our treasury. God has certainly been good to us. We have preached His Word to the best of our ability and many strangers are being attracted to us through the preaching of the Word in its simplicity and power. It is true that the path has not always been one of victory and the way has been filled with discouragements but all of these have enabled us to prove over and over again that our God is El Shaddai, the All-sufficient One.

The First Brethren Church of Glendale is truly thankful for your prayer and sacrifice for if it had not been for your willingness to be used of Him the above report would not be possible. Brethren continue to pray for us.

This report is truly God's answer to the pessimistic outlook of those who questioned the advisability of establishing a Brethren church in this city and to anyone anywhere who questions the establishment of Brethren churches throughout the length and breadth of this land.

There are 365 "fear nots" in the Bible, or one for every day in the year.

Are there some things in the Bible you do not understand? Rest a while on Deut. 29:29.

Psa. 119:11 suggests one way to carry the Bible.

Note the three sentinels that are placed to guard the Scriptures: one in the beginning, one in the middle and one at the end: Deut. 4:2, Prov. 30:6, Rev. 22:18-19.

This week we hear from another of our home mission churches—not from one of the grown-ups, but from a girl in the Junior Department. Perhaps she would never have known the Lord Jesus if you had not given your pennies, nickles, dimes and quarters for home missions. We will let you decide for yourself, after reading Cecle's story, whether you think she is glad that you did all you could for home missions.

How My Family and I Were Saved

By Cecle Stivers

On a summer day several years ago, a nice young lady came to call on my mother. She was working for the Lord. My grandmother and her friend had asked the young lady to call and ask my mother if I might start to Sunday School.

My mother let me go. She knew I should be in Sunday School because she said she always attended when she was a little girl.

My daddy would take me to the little store building where the First Brethren Church of Glendale then met, and then come after me. Mother and daddy didn't go. Mother said it was because my little sister was too small yet. She was a tiny baby.

One Sunday Brother Donald Carter (our pastor at that time) and his fiancée, came behind us in his car. They were going to the new church for services. I begged mother and daddy to follow them and go to church too, but they said, "No," and I cried and cried.

Some time later my big cousin Mildred told mother I was the first one to go forward when Brother Carter gave the invitation to accept the Lord Jesus as my Savior. Mother said she was so ashamed of herself because she hadn't been the one to get me in Sunday School. So my mother started to Sunday School too. My little sister stayed home with daddy.

Mother and I used to kneel by the bed and pray and cry, and pray for daddy to know the Lord Jesus too.

One time Brother Carter and R. Paul Miller came to talk to daddy. Daddy said he loved the Lord Jesus and wanted Him as his Savior. My daddy was baptized on Easter Sunday, and he wrote this poem about sinners accepting the Lord Jesus as their Savior:

Prisoners of the World

Come, all you young sinners, and listen to me:
Accept the Lord Jesus; then you will be free.
Accept the Lord Jesus and say you'll be mine,
For eternal life is a mighty long time.

Accept the Lord Jesus with hearts brave and true.
Don't take any other—you're beat if you do.
Don't take any other, no matter what kind,
For Jesus is holy and truly divine.

Now listen, young sinner, I know it too well
That Satan would have you in the pits of hell;
So take the Lord Jesus and praise Him each day,
And He will keep you along the right way.

—Albert William Stivers.

Now my daddy and mother and Milly Jane (my sister) are saved because our Lord Jesus died on the cross for all of us.

Won't you tell your daddy and mother about Him too so they will go to heaven and live with Him?

We all go to Sunday School and church now. Daddy says it is because "a little child shall lead them"—that means me—but I'm in the Junior Department now.

Sunrise and Sunset Prayer

Tune — "Jesus Loves Me"

As the dewdrops catch the gleams
Of the golden sun's first beams,
Let my life forever shine,
Subject to thy will divine.

Cho.

Yes, He is coming,
Yes, He is coming,
Yes, He is coming,
First Thessalonians, four, sixteen

If between the dark and dawn,
Ere the twinkling stars are gone,
Christ descends from mansions blest,
Waiting, let me rise and rest.

—Sophie Meader.

Our Bible Character Alphabet

Answer to B: Balaam.

C was a man who was sent as a spy into a land God had promised to give his people. 11 other spies went with him. All the spies liked the land, but 10 of them were cowards. They were afraid of the giants and told their people they could not conquer the land. C knew God would help them, and was not afraid, but the people would not listen to him. If you do not know his name, find it in Num. 13:30-33.

NEWS BRIEFS

From
Our Workers

Vital Statistics:

In a letter from Frank Coleman: "Elizabeth Anne Coleman (weight 8 lbs., 3 oz.) came to live with us Sunday, Jan. 21. Mrs. Coleman and the baby are both tip-top."

Another "moral" to the story: John Stephen Morrill, born to Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Morrill (our missionaries) of Ashland, Ohio, Jan. 22, 1940. Weight, 8 lbs., 1 oz.

From First Church of Long Beach Bulletin: "Lois Carter arrived in the home of Elder and Mrs. Donald F. Carter, La Verne (Calif.) on Jan. 17, weighing 7 lbs., 4 oz."

WHAT FOLKS ARE SAYING ABOUT "THE HERALD":

Frank Coleman writes: "Incidentally, the new copy of the new magazine came yesterday. I took a copy of it down and asked Elizabeth Anne (that's my new daughter, she's a very precocious child) what she thought of it. She avows it's the most readable periodical she ever saw, and a credit to the ones who produced it. Really it is to be described in superlatives."

Ellet (Akron) Ohio Bulletin: "Have you seen it — The Brethren Missionary Herald? It's one of the finest Christian magazines we have ever seen. And to think it can be had for the almost unbelievable subscription price of $1.00 per year."

Conemaugh, Pa. Bulletin: "Brethren Missionary Herald subscriptions are coming in fine!"

Sunnyside, Wash. Bulletin: "Did you get your copy this week? Did you read it? $1.00 a year.... Give your name and $1.00 to the pastor....today."

Second Church of Los Angeles Bulletin: "See for yourself that you can't do without it. Then hand your dollar for a year's subscription to....the pastor. Do it today."

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS IN OUR CHURCHES:

"Attend the 'Back to the Bible' evangelistic services Jan. 30-Feb. 18 at the First Brethren Church, Waynesboro (Pa.)." This is the church of which Bro. R. D. Crees is pastor. (From an invitation card.)

"Paging you! to come and hear Evangelist H. L. Dunning, at the Bethel Brethren Church, Osceola, Ind., in the 'Back to the Bible' campaign." (From a card.)

The West Tenth St. Brethren Church of Ashland, O., entertained the "America Back to God" quartet for five days recently. The brief series closed with an attendance of 351. A number have come to Christ as a result of these meetings.

We read with regret that the Vinco Brethren have not been allowed to worship in their church owing to the fact that the doors have been padlocked. The case has received considerable publicity through the newspapers. We request prayer for the pastor, Brother Ord Gehman, and the people who desire to know and do God's will in that congregation.

Interesting Statistics from the Waynesboro, Pa. Bulletin: "1939 is reported to be the best financial year in her history. $5395.10 was received during the year for current expenses and missions ($1200 over previous year). 18,138 people attended a total of 123 services during the year, an average of 148 per service. A partial report told of $139 given for Grace Seminary on Christmas Sunday.

A Fifth Anniversary and Dedication Service was held in the new home of the First Brethren Church of Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 28, 1940. Rev. A. L. Lynn, pastor of the First Church of Johnstown, delivered the dedicatory address. Tom Hammers is the pastor of this church which after five years without a permanent location has at last located itself permanently (till the Lord comes) in a new building.

Teacher of Ethics: According to an Indiana newspaper, Dr. Harry F. Ward, professor of Ethics at Union Theological Seminary, has lost his office as president of the American League for Peace and Democracy. The fact that the organization was one of Moscow's babies was dug up by the Dies Committee, and the League disbanded. At a banquet, the dying breath of the organization, Dr. Ward declared the Dies Committee had created the Communist myth and criticized movements to aid Finland against Russia. Among those sending felicitations to the doctor at his retirement was Earl R. Browder, head of the American Communist Party.

A Challenge to Brethren Home Missions came to the writer recently in the form of a folder entitled "The Christian Rural Fellowship Bulletin." It contained an article, "Rural Poverty and Rural Morale," which purported to be an analysis of the "spiritual" needs of America's under-privileged and an answer to those needs. The exact source of the folder we do not know, but from several internal evidences, it seems to be a child of the so-called "Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America." The writer bemoaned the admitted fact that millions of the uneducated and under-privileged are turning to what he called "Holy Roller" sects. This he said was because the "liberal" churches, the only ones "culturally" and "intellectually" qualified to give them a message that would lift them, do not seem to be interested! Evidently the social gospelites aren't too enthusiastic about their own message. Among the suggested cures the writer gave were: a better economic base and a better education for the poor, patience with the "Holy Roller" denominations during their adolescence, and last and most astounding, he asked the question, "Why should not a liberal message be warm and personal as well as rational and social?" What an outlook for America if it must depend upon a message like that for its spiritual salvation!

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC FOR MARCH 3

IN SEASON AND OUT OF SEASON

(Eccl. 11:1-6; II Tim. 4:1-8)

Suggestions for the Leader

For several months our topics have brought us face to face with the great need of personal work. How many have actually decided to profit by these studies and do something for the Lord? It requires determination to start getting decisions for Christ, but determination avails but little unless carried out. The young man astray from his father's home determined to go back; the real benefit came when he actually arose and went to the place of blessing.

In witnessing for Christ, we are liable to neglect our responsibility and wait for a better time and place. About us are plenty of opportunities to testify for the Lord. "Be instant in season and out of season" means to do it always.

A gold miner in the far west who lived in a hut along side of a mountain spent his days panning gold. When he died the company that purchased his property discovered a rich vein of gold in his back yard. He lived with it for years but didn't know it. So it is with us. Some day we will see that our opportunities in this land in our communities are great. How few there are who actually take advantage of them. If we have good intentions, let us put them into practice. Undoubtedly the Lord expects us to do great things as He assures us of confidence and strength.

1. GOD HAS HIS SEASONS.

ECCL. 3:1; PS. 102:13; GAL. 6:9.

God has order and a system to the operation of the universe. Things are done on time and never haphazard. The springtime follows the winter. The movements of the great bodies in the heavens take place with the accuracy of the finest clock. These laws may be called laws of nature but God is back of them and brings them to pass.

In the history of the church, we see regular seasons for spiritual revivals. Every time there is serious lack within the church, God has taught the importance of a revival. Even in the hearts of individuals there come times for conversion. The Lord so directs and arranges events and circumstances that in His own time men should be converted to Himself. It does not mean that the salvation of souls is like raising a crop of wheat. We can have conversions all through the year and not only at special drives.

It is wise to see where the Lord is working and get in there to work too. If we know prophecy and the signs of the times, we ought to know where to work most effectively. These are the dark days but still days of acceptance for all those who will come to Christ.

2. WHY SHOULD WE IGNORE GOD'S SEASONS? ECCL. 11:6.

Seed-sowing and harvesting are going on at the same time. While the Word of God is finding its way into the hearts of some people, it will be ready for harvest in another. If we are instant in season and out of season, we will be looking for those who are about to yield to Christ.

Jesus told the disciples the field was white unto harvest. He meant there were plenty of opportunities to lead the lost to salvation. He proved this statement by talking to the woman at the well and immediately bringing her to realize her need for the Lord.

How easy it is for us to be side-tracked and get on another issue even though we would like to talk about the Lord. To have victory here will require strength to bring the discussion back to the important thing. The disciples may have thought that a great work was to be done and somehow they would help in it. They had not yet learned the importance of starting with the individual and converting that one to God.

In our work this year, we can do nothing better for our society, and for our Lord too, than to bring someone to Christ. Set out with the purpose to talk about the Lord. See whether or not the field is ready for harvest.

3. DOING CHRISTIAN WORK MERELY AS A CONVENIENCE. ACTS 24:25; MK. 6:31; ACTS 17:21.

Putting off Christian things because we feel we are too busy or it would cause us some effort now is one of the devil's ways to gain victory with some people. They know soul-winning, encouraging weak Christians, or teaching new converts, would be the thing to do, but they draw back from the responsibility. If we do only what is convenient, it does not cost us much. Real discipleship requires some sacrifice. Self-denial is a Christian trait. We often have to assist in unpleasant things.

Do not let timidity rule your future. It is possible to overcome those things that hinder. The first attempts for the Lord may seem imperfect or failures. Nevertheless, persistent trial makes us better. Practice in the little things prepares us for greater things. If we wait for a more convenient time we may not make progress in the next ten years. There is no better time than now to speak a word and do a deed to prove your interest in personal work.

4. CIRCUMSTANCES WILL NOT UNITE TO MAKE OUR WORK FOR GOD CONVENIENT. PROV. 22:13; 20:4.

Conditions about us will never be ideal to conveniently make a stand for the Lord. The enemy sees to it that we have these unfavorable conditions. We can expect them in the world. The Shepherd has been smitten by those who were cruel, and they do not have anything better in mind for us. If we are to be a power with God, it will be because we take an active stand against sin and indicate some real convictions for the Lord.

In times of severe stress, God needs men like Noah or Daniel or Elijah. These men along with many others pledged to be true to the Lord regardless of the surrounding conditions. In some cases, the people were sinful and even turned away from God for idols. These men determined to die before they would be untrue to their God.

We can not tell what we will experience in the years to come. Now is the time for the decision. Can we say like Joshua, "As for me and my house we will serve the Lord." We may be in the minority.

Additional Scripture

The anger of Ahab and the horde of Baal's followers when Elijah witnessed at Carmel: I Kings 18:17, 18, 22.

The rain at the confession meeting in the day of Ezra; Ezra 10:6-17.

The wrath of Sanballat and Tobiah and the ruined wall, in the time of Nehemiah. Neh. 2:10-17.

The danger about the path of the Lord Jesus. John 11:7-8.

The objections of the desert and the single hearer in the matter of Philip; Acts 8:26-29.

Questions to be Answered

1. How do we know that now is the accepted time to do personal work? 2 Cor. 6:2.

2. What excuses are usually made by those constantly refusing to do Christian work?

3. What does it mean to be one of God's "minute men" for testimony?

4. How are circumstances altered by a Spirit-led and Spirit-filled life?

the Lord has done that which would have been too hard for anyone but God. At the meeting the sides take turns describing these events, while the opposing group tries to guess what event is being described. The purpose is to see which side can present the best set of description. In case they are needed, the superintendent should be prepared to describe other events in which God's great power was seen.

Approach to the lesson

A man who had been a very great sinner before he was saved was holding an evangelistic meeting. Just before he arose to speak someone sent an envelope to the platform containing a long list of sins and crimes he had committed in that very city before he was saved. At first he felt like running away; but he stepped to the platform and said, "I will read a list of sins and crimes I am accused of having committed in this very city." After reading each one he said, "I am guilty." When he had finished, he said, "Do you wonder why I dare to preach to you since I am guilty of all those crimes? It is because 'This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief.'"

If that man had not been a Christian, people would not have wanted to hear him after they learned he had been a criminal. But in spite of his sinful past, hearts were stirred that night and many people were saved. Do you know why? It is because God can do some things no one else could possibly do. He can take such a man, forgive his sins (Eph. 1:7), make him a new creature (II Cor. 5:17), give him power to live a holy life (Phil. 4:13), make all things (even a sinful life) work out for his good (Rom. 8:28). Truly we have a wonderful Savior! (Eph. 3:20; Jer. 32:17; Dan. 4:35 can be used before the children describe the wonderful things He has done.)

DON'T WAKE THE BEAST UP !

By Bernard N. Schneider

An English officer was sitting at his desk in his little office in India, reading over some reports. By his side, and gently licking his hand, lay a young tiger, a big cat with sleepy eyes. Ten minutes before the officer had been warned by well meaning friends to get rid of the fearful looking pet. They tried to convince him that it would be dangerous to keep the almost full grown beast any longer. But he had laughed at their fears. He had raised the cub from the time that he had been a few days old, and ever since, the cub had followed him around like a faithful dog. He had been very careful not to feed the young tiger anything that might arouse his jungle nature in him and thought that he had succeeded in completely taking his beastly nature from him. To some he might be a terror, but to him he was nothing but an interesting pet, a complete slave to his master's wishes, and altogether harmless.

While he sat there reading his reports, his left hand suddenly felt a sharp pain. Obviously, the cat was using his playful tongue a little hard on his hand. He started to withdraw his hand when he was startled by a deep growl. Instantly, he knew that something was wrong. He allowed his hand to remain in its position and looked down. The sight he saw made chills go up his spine. There was the beast, now sitting up, his tail twitching back and forth, his sleepy eyes glowing with a strange light as they gazed into his own. The hardy action of the beast's tongue had brought forth a drop of blood from his hand, and the taste of just one drop of warm life blood had awakened the sleeping nature of the tiger. He was no longer a harmless pet, but a blood thirsty beast, ready to kill if his desire for more was not gratified. Without moving his left hand, or speaking a word, the officer calmly opened a drawer in the desk, pulled out a revolver and shot his pet through the head.

The born again child of God has a sleeping nature, which he will do well not to arouse. The Bible calls it "the old man," and warns us to "mortify" this sleeping tiger, and to "put him off." Some Christian people think that the old nature is completely gone in them and get careless. But just a little food, just a little petting, and the old tiger is awake, going forth and demanding to be fed with the passions of sin. Then follows the experience of Romans 7:21-23.

Beware do not feed the tiger.

Matthew writes for Jews; Mark for Romans; Luke for Gentile converts, and John for all believers.

The resurrection of Christ is mentioned 108 times in the New Testament.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY COUNCIL NUMBER

TWO TREES

Outside my room there stands a tree,

Lofty, and straight, and bare.

No traces of its former life

(Last summer's leaves) are there.

One of these days shall burst to view

Buds, blossoms, leaves—but all things new.

Beside it stands another tree

With dead leaves hanging still,

Unightly, but still clinging there

Though winter's blasts blow chill.

But when new life bursts forth in spring,

No longer can those dead leaves cling.

O, God, may I like first yon tree

Reach heav'nward. May there be

No traces of my former life

(That life of sin) in me.

May there burst forth to others' view

Thy life within which made me new.

But should I, like the other tree

Still cling in any way

To cherished things of former years,

O, fill my life today;

For when Thy Spirit reigns within

No longer can I cherish sin.

CHRIST OUR SUFFICIENCY

When our Women's Missionary Council was launched at National Conference last August, time did not permit us to set up a complete organization and then work out the problems presented. Our executive board had on their hands the duty of filling offices and laying plans for the year, and all had to be done in a few hours' time. They had to outline programs and duties broadly, and then scatter to their various homes. And what a scattering! Some went east, some west, some south; each to work out her part of the problem, their only contact for months to be through the mails.

The rank and file of our women returned to their task of organizing or reorganizing their local councils to work out the objectives set before us. A well-nigh impossible task, it is true, but the setting of the task was in answer to prayer, and we realized that its carrying out must depend upon One whose power is Almighty, and that power is released by prayer.

Being assured that we were in the will of our Heavenly Father, we dared to face the future undaunted by the hugeness of the task, or the obstacles already looming in our path.

Now the results are beginning to be apparent. As we look back to that day when we left Winona Lake behind, we are led to an appraisal of what the Lord has done for us. In a final hasty interview our Vice-president suggested for our devotional topic: Christ Our Sufficiency. Another suggestion came in later, and we felt incompetent to make the choice alone; so we called together a group of our local women, and asked them to help prayerfully in that choice. The vote was almost unanimous. In all this we see clearly the hand of our gracious Lord.

Christ has been and is our sufficiency. His helping hand has been held out to us in our task; The Home Missions Council offered us space in The Brethren Herald; and now we are using space in The Brethren Missionary Herald. And we want to praise Him in this first editorial and to declare that the Women's Missionary Council, its national officers, its district officers, its local officers, and its loyal members, look not to man, but to Christ our sufficiency; and in that spirit we go forward in His service.

THE W. M. C.'S CHOICE OF WEAPON

These are war days, and we read much about weapons; the W. M. C. is not a military organization, but we are perforce engaged in a warfare against "the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness." Being at war, our choice of weapon is important. If we are to judge by the number of requests by mail and by word of mouth, asking us to finish and publish the Bible study begun at National Conference, the weapon chosen is surely the "sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God."

We are acceding to that request by publishing the study in the W. M. C. section of this number of The Brethren Missionary Herald. May God bless His Word to all our hearts and build us up in our most holy faith.

ANOTHER OBJECTIVE

In our regular columns we are stressing our objectives for the year. These eight objectives might seem to be enough to keep our women busy; but our W. M. C. women are exceptional women, because we have Christ for our sufficiency; so we are going to propose a ninth objective.

We have no opportunity to put this before our executive board; therefore we must put it before each member of the W. M. C. as an individual.

Inasmuch as The Brethren Missionary Herald Company is asking for an offering of $5000.00 to meet their obligations, and as our W. M. C. is definitely a part of the new set-up, should not our women feel it their obligation to pray for this need, and in every way to get behind this offering? We have an opportunity for personal giving, for taking it up in our local councils, and for using our influence to promote a special offering in our local churches.

Helping to get subscriptions to this fine paper will be of value to the company also. And now that we have four numbers on hand to show as samples it should be easy to interest new subscribers.

BIBLE BRIEFS

The Bible begins with God and ends with man. In the middle verse of the Bible (Psa. 118:8) the two are brought together.

There are 850 Old Testament quotations in the New Testament. Christ Himself in the Gospels quotes from 22 out of the 39 books.

It is said that there are in the Old Testament 198 definite prophecies concerning Christ's first coming, and 333 that center indirectly in Him.

President—Mrs. Homer A. Kent, 1420 G St. S. E.
Washington, D. C.

Financial Secretary—Mrs. H. W. Koontz, 105 Ot-terview Ave., Ghent, Roanoke, Va.

Literature Secretary—Mrs. Lilly Monroe, 1234
East 60th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Editor—Mrs. A. B. Kidder, 211 Girard Ave., S. E.
Canton, Ohio.

We are repeating the above addresses for your information. We know that the paper is going into new homes each month, and that as new councils are formed, they will require this knowledge as to where to write for certain supplies. So again we say: For your membership cards and sample constitution write to Mrs.
Kent; for dime collectors and missionary literature to Mrs. Monroe. Send your president's name and address to Mrs. Kidder for the devotional topics. And please note well—all money should be sent to Mrs.
Koontz. We emphasize this because we have learned that some has gone to the treasurer, Mrs. Polman, and she just has to remail it to Mrs. Koontz.

OBJECTIVES SUGGESTED FOR THE YEAR 1939-1940

1. Regular monthly devotional meetings.
2. Missionary prayer circle.
3. Bible reading—entire New Testament, or a chapter a day of your own selection.
4. Missionary project—support of Bouca Station, with dime calendars turned in not later than Feb. 25.
5. Special offering lifted in January and July (for administrative purposes).
6. Thank offering received at National Conference for Home Missions Council.
7. Public service held and offering lifted for Grace Seminary not later than May 1.
8. Mission study class using "Biographies of Brethren Missionaries," Study II.

Are you stressing these objectives in your local councils? We are now past the turn of the year and must have in mind that the time is growing short till National Conference and final reports.

If you have not a missionary prayer circle, it is not too late to start one. Keeping our women in touch with our missionaries through prayer will increase their enthusiasm for all the rest of the program of the W. M. C.

As to Bible reading—surely each and every member of our Council wants to meet this objective. As we read the Word we learn God's will for our lives and are brought into touch with His power to help us in our service for Him. Here, too, if yours is a new council, or if you have been negligent in this matter, it is not too late to read the New Testament through before the final reports go in. A chapter a day of your own selection is the alternative.

It is a good idea to have a definite plan for the thank offering to keep it in view all the year round, instead of a grand rush to fill the boxes at the last moment.

The next outstanding objective is that public service with an offering lifted for Grace Seminary. May first is the final date set for this project, so we must have it in mind for consideration.

Of course your mission study should be of interest to all the women. The better informed we are about missions and missionaries the more constructive will be our program and work.

By the time you see this in print your offering for Bouca station will no doubt have been forwarded to the financial secretary, but if not, do not hesitate to send it in after Feb. 25. It will be most gratefully received and there will be a use for it.

We regret that we have no report to give you in this number as to how we came out with our first offering for administrative purposes. This copy must be made up at the beginning of February, so it is impossible to get the information from the secretary. We have been told by officers of several councils that the free will offering method is bringing in much more than the assessment method, and we are hoping that will be true in the majority of our councils.

DEVOTIONAL MEETINGS

Our topic for the year was surely happily chosen:
Christ Our Sufficiency. His sufficiency has indeed been realized thus far as we undertook in His strength alone to carry through the great work of our W. M. C.

AN INTERESTING LETTER

The editor's appeal for news of your local councils did not reach you in time to get any copy for this number, but we are looking forward to much of such material from month to month. We will publish as much as we can in the space we have. If not the letter as written, we shall use the news items in some way.

But the Lord has answered our prayer by putting it into the heart of one secretary to send us an interesting letter about their work, and we herewith offer it as a sample:

Dear Mrs. Kidder:

Greetings to all our new national officers and members of our Missionary Council.

The first of September our council launched a new program and as we have had such wonderful response we want to tell others.

At our regular monthly devotional and business meetings we ask each lady to bring needle, thread and thimble. We have quilt blocks already cut out and while the meeting is being conducted our women sew and by the close of the meeting we have much accomplished.

Then every Thursday at 9:30 A. M. we bring our lunch and meet in the church basement to sew. Some bring their sewing machines. We use bleached sugar sacks for the linings and have 18 comforts (crib size) completed. Almost everything has been furnished so far (although we have a little black baby in a basket with a sign, "I would like more than a band"). With this money we buy outing for diapers and gowns.

We have hemmed three dozen diapers and have 15 gowns nearly completed.

We take old and new goods and have made 75 little colored dresses.

At these "work-days" if we run short of material for baby clothes we roll bandages. We have 450 rolls of six yards each, and still more material to use.

We are expecting Miss Tyson here the last of January and want her to have all that we have made if she can use them for the new maternity hospital.

Our council has increased in membership since we launched this new sewing program. Our free-will offerings are just as large as when we had dues and every one seems to like it better.

Each member has a card with a picture of two of our missionaries and on the back a short biography. We keep these a month and pray for them individually and then they are exchanged at the next meeting.

Our Council will be four years old March 3rd. We are hoping that this year will be the most profitable for the Lord's work. Pray for us.

Sincerely in His name,

MRS. RALPH WILLIAMS, Sec'y.

Second Brethren Church, Long Beach, California.

QUARTERLIES AVAILABLE

We still have a few Bible School Quarterlies (International lessons) for the first quarter (Jan.-Mar.) 1940 that might be used to good advantage in Bible School or Home Department. We would be glad to dispose of them at the price of 5c each in lots of 10 or more.

NEWS FROM THE FOREIGN FIELD

Commenting on the war and its relation to the work in Africa, Miss Mabel Crawford writes home folks, "We are all right here, and even though we might be cut off from outside supplies for a long time, we could live very nicely on the land. In produce, the Lord has blessed wonderfully this year. Our garden gives us fresh vegetables all year round and we have lots of fruit, varying with the seasons. Our only real need is flour for we have a good supply of sugar and our goats supply our milk and butter. As for meat, we can buy beef, at least for the present, from the natives; then, too, we have rabbits, chickens, ducks and goats.

We don't know much about what is happening in Europe so probably are much more at rest than you who have constant access to radio and newspapers. We are just going ahead day by day trying to keep panic from striking our natives, reassuring them and urging them to stay in their villages, to listen to and obey carefully all commands of the government. This talk of white man's war cannot be understood by most of them. In native warfare of olden times when two villages fought, as soon as half a dozen people were killed they all got to feeling so bad that they had to quit fighting to mourn for the dead. They can't see how the white man can fight for years and not get sorry and quit. In any event their path of duty is to the French government, and for those who are Christians, this world can offer nothing worse than death—but in the after world life everlasting. I believe that we have a large group here who really love the Lord and have enough faith to stand no matter what tests may come. Pray much for us and them that we may all meet any test unflinchingly. We are willing to bear any privations if we can just be permitted to serve our Lord unhindered till He himself takes us out.

Everything is torn up in my home now for a general house cleaning before conference. I don't have enough kalsomine for all three rooms so I think I'll do some experimenting on one. I may add bluing to the white wash or I've thought of a little purple ink to make lavender, or pound up some papaya leaves to make green, only to break the monotony of white walls.

These days are almost too full for anything but it is good to be busy. Miss Myers is working on translation of Old Testament stories. We have one book of 25 stories, from creation to Moses, nearly finished to be used in our reading classes. In addition to my regular program of Bible classes, French school, reading classes for women and girls, I'm proof-reading translations, also making a dictionary of Karre, Sango, French and English. I will be closing school on Nov. 17. I can't help having a twinge of regret over losing the boys I've had so long. If the French school is kept open next year I'll have to start an entirely new set of boys. They are so hard to calm down but now that they all have some vernacular before they come it isn't so bad as it used to be for they aren't right from the bush.

We feel that these are days of great opportunity here and we must make the most of them. Pray for us."

ROLL OF LOCAL COUNCILS

We are glad to say that our roll of councils is growing each month. As you send to Mrs. Kent for membership cards, etc., she is able to add you to her list. Then the editor gets requests for devotional topics and various information and so she adds and then we compare and compile the list; but we are certain that it is not complete as yet and we are going to publish it in the hope that more information will be sent in. Will you not go over it carefully and notify us of any mistakes you find; also please note these two statements: If some member of your council or your pastor is not getting the devotional topics each month, it is because the editor does not have a name and address to which to send them. Please send in the name of your president. Secondly, with the March devotional topics will be enclosed a Semi-Annual Report Blank—will you not hand this to your local secretary and see that the report is sent in according to the directions upon it?

For your convenience, we have arranged the councils according to state:

BIBLE STUDY—

Ephesians 3:16-21

In these six verses we have the word "be" used four times. This little two-letter word signifies an exhortation, a command; not a command to do something, but to be passive in the hands of God, to let Him do something in and through us. And the basic "be" is found in verse 19—"Be filled." This is the secret of all the other "be's," and so we consider it first.

We need filling, it is said, "Nature abhors a vacuum"—that is the scientist's way of putting it. We find that God abhors a vacuum too, especially when He finds that vacuum in the life of one of His children. Do I hear someone say that we find a use for a vacuum? Yes, we use vacuum sweepers to pick up dirt—and that is just how useful a vacuum Christian is—he just naturally soaks up all the dirt and filth of this Satanic world-system he can hold. What would happen if you filled the bag of your sweeper with diamonds? Well, it wouldn't pick up dirt. That might not be the proper use for a vacuum sweeper, but if we will let God fill us with the Holy Spirit, we will not go around picking up the filth of the old sin-cursed world any more. How full does God want to fill us? 100 per cent? Nay, more—with all the fulness of God. But we can not hold more than 100 per cent! Of course we can't—and then the rest will overflow unto others.

Now, let us look back at v. 16 and find there, "Be strengthened." How conscious we are in these days of our need of strength! And we are to be strengthened with might. In ourselves we have no might, no power; and so the apostle does not pray for an increase of our strength and power, but that power may be given to strengthen us.

The agent of that power is the Holy Spirit. We are mindful of our Lord's words to the eleven just before He went back to heaven, "Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you" (Acts 1:8). That was His promise and Paul enlarges upon it by encouraging us who have received the Holy Spirit to be filled with the Holy Spirit. Not that we are to seek more of the Holy Spirit, but we should let Him have more of us.

We are to have this strength in the inner man. We need physical strength, of course, but that is not in view here. Neither is the Word here dealing with strong, mighty works; they are the results of power, and no results can be expected until that power is placed within.

The spiritual nature needs to be fortified against the flesh, that we may live in the Spirit, fulfilling the desires, not of the flesh, but of the Spirit.

Let us look at the next "be" in v. 18—"Be able"; and let us pause a moment and ask, each of her own heart, am I an able Christian? It reminds one of a nautical term—an able seaman, which is applied to one who has the knowledge and has learned by practice to perform certain tasks. Too many Christians are weak rather than able.

The knowledge referred to here is not to be limited to a few favored ones, it is for all, "that ye... may be able to comprehend with all saints." Then we are introduced to the arithmetic of Christian knowledge; and in spiritual arithmetic there are four dimensions: breadth, length, depth, height. But of what are these measurements? The clause is unfinished, but it can refer only to the work of God and His ways.

The breadth includes all His creatures, all His creation. They tell us there are 1500 billion stars in the galaxy to which our earth belongs, and that there are 1,000,000 such galaxies. It is God who put them there, who keeps them in place, and in motion; He calls them by name! Can you comprehend such breadth?

The length stretches from eternity to eternity, and all that which we know as time is just a short pause in God's eternity. How far beyond our finite comprehension!

The depth is that to which Christ descended for us. Have we any conception of how far He had to come to reach us in our lost estate?

The height speaks of the place God has given us in Christ, our position in the heavenlies. This is supernatural arithmetic—we are to know that which passeth knowledge (v. 19). Only the infilling of the Holy Spirit can make us able Christians; able for the task to which He has called us, able to endure whatever shall come into our lives, able to give a true witness to Him who is the true and faithful Witness.

Finally v. 21 brings us "Be glory"—how startling!

We who so lack strength may be strengthened, we who are so weak may be able; but what about this last be? Can we who are so inglorious ever hope to be glory unto Him? That is what it says—in the church—and we are in the church which is His body—members of that body—such inglorious members! We heard Dr. B. B. Sutcliffe say, "How His body must bother Him!" "But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto His eternal glory by Christ Jesus" (1 Pet. 5:10).

How then are we to be glory? We have seen above that it is by God's call; Eph. 5:25-27 tells us that it is by the work of Jesus Christ in cleansing us; 2 Cor. 3:18 shows us that it is through looking into the mirror of the Word; while in Phil. 1:11 we learn it is by our works.

When are we to be glory? Back in our original passage, v. 21 says "throughout all ages." Let us consider that carefully—all ages—but many ages had rolled by e'er the church began at Pentecost. However, Romans 9:23 tells us that before the world's beginning God planned the church to His glory; and that which is purposed in the mind of our God is just as surely accomplished at that moment as when it becomes a fact in time. The manifestation of that glory lies still in the future (Col. 1:27; 3:4).

In Eph. 1, Paul had given a complete outline of the church's glory: 1. Before the foundation of the world she was chosen to the praise of the glory of His grace (Eph. 1:4, 6). 2. This is applied to the early church in the 12 verse. 3. The redemption of the body is to be unto the praise of His glory (Eph. 1:14). 4. The 18th verse speaks of the riches of the glory of Christ's eternal inheritance in His saints.

Thus we see that every redeemed soul is a living "glory to God." And this being true, let us heed well Peter's warning—2 Pet. 3:17, 18.

OUR BOYS and GIRLS VERY OWN PAGE

What Other Boys And Girls Are Doing.

Some people think children have to wait until they are grown to be used of the Lord, but this is not so. In the Bible we read of those who were used of the Lord while they were young. The boy Samuel was one of these. If you do not know the story, you will want to read it in I Sam. 3.

Not only can we serve God while we are small, but I Tim. 4:12 tells those who are young to be good examples of believers in every way. That is what the children in the First Brethren Church at Peru, Ind. are trying to do. When they see people whispering in church or doing other things which are not a very good example, they have their superintendent write it on the blackboard at Junior C. E. Then they decide what is the better thing to do, and try to set the example themselves. Don't you think it would be fine if every boy and girl in your church also would try to be an example to others for Jesus' sake?

If in your church you boys and girls are doing anything which might be of interest to the other readers of this page, write the Children's Editor, The Brethren Missionary Herald Co., 3326 S. Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind., and tell us about it.

Singing The Books Of The Old Testament

Have you tried and tried to learn the books of the Old Testament, and still can't remember them in their order or in what divisions they belong? Then perhaps this song to the tune of "Did You Ever See a Lassie" will help you. Perhaps the superintendent of your department in Sunday School and Christian Endeavor would like to know about it too.

Let us sing the books of Moses, of Moses, of Moses;
Let us sing the books of Moses, for he wrote the law,
First Genesis, second Exodus, third Leviticus, fourth Numbers,
And the fifth is Deuteronomy, the last of them all.

Let us sing the books of history, of history, of history;

Let us sing the books of history, which tell of the Jews.

There's Joshua, and Judges, and the story of Ruth,
Then First and Second Samuel, and First and Second Kings,

Then First and Second Chronicles, which give us the records,

Then Ezra, Nehemiah, and Esther, the queen.

Let us sing the books of poetry, of poetry, of poetry;

Let us sing the books of poetry, the songs the Jews sang.

Job, the patient; Psalms of David; the Proverbs of a wise one,

And then Ecclesiastes, and the Song of Solomon.

Let us sing the major prophets, major prophets, major prophets;

Let us sing the major prophets, who told what would come.

Isaiah, Jeremiah, who wrote Lamentations,
Then Ezekiel, and Daniel, who were true to their God.

Let us sing the minor prophets, minor prophets, minor prophets;

Let us sing the minor prophets; there are twelve of them all.

First Hosea, then Joel, and Amos, Obadiah, Jonah, Micah, Nahum, Habakkuk;
Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi.

Our Bible Character Alphabet

Answer to last week's Bible character: Caleb.

D was the lover of a young man who was so strong that he killed a lion without any weapon in his hand. Her people asked her to find out what made him so strong so they would know better how to overcome him. Find D's name in Judges 16:6-21, and see whether her people found out the secret of his strength.

What Do The Africans Wear?

Kenneth E. Sheldon, the 13 year old son of our missionaries, Rev. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Sheldon in Bellvue, Africa, has written the president of the Junior-Intermediate C. E. Society of the Long Beach church. We feel part of his letter will be of interest to all our boys and girls. He writes:

"You asked how the natives dress in your letter. Well, this is how. The men around places where there are white people wear clothes almost like us, only they are more patched up and dirty. But when you go to an out-of-the-way place they just wear a loin cloth. The women and girls wear certain kinds of leaves, strings, shredded cactus, and a certain kind of palm leaves, on the front and rear of their lower quarters, while the richer ones wear cheap calico for Sunday and special days as well as most of the time. Most of the tots go naked.

"I'm beginning the 7th grade and am at both the head and foot of my class.

We know you are especially interested in hearing from the boys and girls who are living in other lands, so from time to time we will be printing some more items from our missionaries' children across the seas.

A Bible Puzzle

The letters in each of the words are jumbled. When they are properly arranged you will have a verse found in John 15. Which verse is it?

THE GROWING CHRISTIAN

"Grow in Grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ—2 Peter 3:18"

LETTERS TO A COUSIN.....By Art

Dear Cousin Bert:

Let me assure you that the most thrilling message we received in all of our Christmas mail was your most welcome letter containing the information of your remarkable conversion. To those who know nothing of the grace of God in its working, they would exclaim "marvel of marvels." I know something of the sinfulness of your past life and the contempt with which you held the Christian faith and those who have embraced it. But, praise God, there is nothing too hard for Him. Prayers have been answered and another precious soul has "passed from death into life." You will understand what this means by turning to I Timothy 5:6 which reads, "But she that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth." Surely you were living in all of the pleasures the world had to offer, but now you are in the position to enjoy the "pleasures forevermore" the Psalmist speaks about in Psalm 16:11.

Your good letter reveals the fact that you had a genuine conversion. I was interested in some of the things you didn't write as well as the things contained in your letter. So often people tell about how they were not satisfied with the way they were living and decided to try the Christian life by taking Jesus as their example. Some talk of how they turned over a new leaf. Some state their determination to live the golden rule and keep the ten commandments. Others talk of how they have joined the church. All of this is very splendid, but unless they have made an honest-to-goodness contract with the Lord, resulting in their new birth, as you evidently have, all will end in failure.

Bert, I am glad you learned that to become a Christian one must take the death penalty of sin through a substitute, and that Substitute is Jesus Christ. Yes, He died for you, was buried for you and He arose from the dead for you. And I believe your baptism meant more to you than it does to the ordinary church member, because in trine immersion, you demonstrated your identification with Christ's death, burial and resurrection. Do you recall when I was baptized how you said you would never give up to such foolishness? And it was foolishness to you because you did not have any spiritual discernment. Now you say your baptism was one of the greatest experiences in your life. The Lord bless you!

IGNORANT OF TRUTH

It was thrilling to me the way you exalt Christ's righteousness in your letter. In my Bible selling, I get a chance to talk freely with hundreds of active church people. Many of them have never been taught a thing of this precious truth which you have learned so soon. They are just like the Jews Paul speaks of in the tenth chapter of Romans; "They being ignorant of God's righteousness, and going about to establish their own righteousness, have not submitted themselves unto the righteousness of God." They have never found out that "Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth." It is a joy to me to instruct them.

I was glad to read your statement that you give the Lord Jesus Christ all the praise and glory for your salvation and for the peace and joy which has come into your life. This certainly is as it should be. The author of the hymn, "Jesus Paid it All" tells the reason why. I want you to read it through sometime soon. You will love it early in your Christian life.

I do not wonder at the admiration you express for the pastor of the Brethren mission in your community. We rejoice with you for such a consecrated worker for the Lord and his patience and tireless efforts with you which brought you to a knowledge of your lost and undone condition. I know that he considers himself as nothing more than an instrument in God's hands — an ambassador for Christ, to whom has been committed the word of reconciliation. (Read 2 Cor. 5:19-20). And you, along with the others who have found the Lord Jesus Christ through his faithful witnessing of the Word, are his "hope and joy and crown of rejoicing." (See I Thess. 2:19).

OTHERS HAVE HELPED

Perhaps, as a young Christian, you have not thought about thanking God for the many faithful Brethren over the country whose sacrificial giving for home missions put your pastor into that territory where you were found for the Lord. In this connection, you will appreciate the contents of 2 Cor. 9:10-15 where credit is given to those who furnish seed to the sower and supply the needs of those who bring precious souls like yours into subjection to the gospel of Christ. And don't forget the many earnest prayers which these givers send up to God for new converts as spoken of in v. 14. Isn't it all wonderful! No wonder Paul says "Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift."

It is our hope that some day, if the Lord should tarry in His return to rapture the saints to glory, that many others will become trophies of the grace of God because of the program of home missions in The Brethren Church. It is my prayer that you will be led of the Lord to prepare yourself to be used as such a worker. May God grant it!

We are enjoying excellent health from the Lord. We had a lovely Christmas with Dolmans and Brainards as our guests. I have a funeral to preach tomorrow so must bring this letter to a close and plan for that. If you have any problems troubling you in your Christian life while your pastor is away on his evangelistic tour you spoke of, feel free to write me. I will be glad to help you all I can. I remain,

Your happy cousin,
ART.

JEWISH DEPARTMENT

By Arthur Carey

John 10:16; Matthew 18:12-14 and 10:6
Romans 1:16 and Acts 15:26

The Neglected Race For Whom Christ Died

WHO'S GUILTY

Of What?

It is evident that the Jew is unevangelized. Very few know what the gospel story is. Less of them have accepted the gospel of salvation through Christ's atoning work, and seldom have these people appropriated Christ as their all-sufficient Savior. Moreover, an antagonism has developed over a period of many centuries to the claims of Christ. This is due possibly to two things. One is that human nature revolts at the admission of wrong, of an untenable position. But some day the brethren of Christ shall look upon Him Whom they have pierced (Zech. 12:10), and thus acknowledge their Savior and their part in the guilt (Acts 4:27) of placing Him on the cross. The other reason for antagonism to the gospel rests in the attitude taken by the so-called Christian church and the so-called Christian nations throughout the centuries past in regard to Israel. It has been an attitude of superiority and mistrust, sometimes culminating in anti-Semitic demonstrations and outrages. Naturally, Jews under such circumstances have encased themselves in a hardened shell of bitterness and solitude. The shell today is softening and the Jews are highly penetrable with the gospel.

Not Christ

No one can accuse Christ of shunning the Jews. Not One who was born in a lowly manger, after laying aside the official robes of the Creator and Sustainer of the universe! Not One who could have chosen nations with greater worldly prestige! Not One who said, "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest!" Not One who instructed His followers to avoid Gentiles and Samaritans, but to go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel! Not One who exemplified by His own death His willingness to go the last mile to reach that lost one of which He spoke in the parable of the hundred sheep! Not One who would shed tears of sorrow for the proud, impudent, and impenitent city of Jerusalem! Not One who in the intensity of suffering from the throes of the struggle with a death compounded by hideous and eternal aspects could say, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do!" Not One whose final instructions to His earthly ambassadors were that they should begin witnessing at Jerusalem and Judea! Truly could the Jew of all ages sing the chorus,

No One ever cared for me like Jesus,
There's no other Friend so kind as He,
No One else could take the sin and darkness from me.
O, how much He cared for me!

Not Paul

No one can say that Paul neglected the Jews. He sat under the teaching of the best Jewish teacher of his day. He affiliated himself with the most popular religious sect of his day. He, according to his own testimony, was a Hebrew of the Hebrews, a Pharisee of the Pharisees, a blameless keeper of the law. After his conversion, he became a messenger of Christ to the Jews. He spoke so many times in synagogues to the Jews on Sabbath days, that Seventh-day Adventists have jumped at these Scriptures as proof that Paul was a Sabbath-day keeper. This man who was set for the defense of the gospel established firmly the principle of Jewish evangelization when to the Jews at Antioch he proclaimed, "Men and Brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is the word of this salvation sent. . . . Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this Man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins. . . ." Paul's slogan was, ". . . to the Jew first, and also to the Greek."

Not The Early Church

On that great day of Pentecost, Peter declared to the Jews, "the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call (Acts 2:34)." Upon another occasion, he again emphasized the priority of the Jew in the opportunity of accepting the gospel by declaring (3:26), "Unto you first God, having raised up His Son Jesus, sent Him to bless you, in turning away every one of you from his iniquities." The early church was founded at Jerusalem, and it ministered almost solely to Jews. Jewish historians admit the worthwhile effort of the early church amongst the Jews.

Are We?

The unwelcome fact remains that the church in general since that early church has either, and generally alternately, sought to compel conversion of the Jews, or else has studiously avoided the great commission which includes their evangelization. The modern religious movement of today has practically recognized Judaism on a common level with its so-called Christianity. The Jews can look for no salvation from that quarter. The task of evangelizing the Jews, then, rests with the fundamental groups. The question that looms definitely large on the horizon of 1940 in the ranks of our own Brethren Church is what we shall do with the challenge of Christ's all-inclusive great commission. Shall we be guilty of neglecting the Jew?

This Department

It shall be the purpose of this department to invest all energies in the interest of Israel's redemption, that a great awakening of interest, sympathy, and zeal on behalf of evangelism may spread within our ranks. In its columns will appear articles bearing on history, types, and prophecies concerning Judaism. Also there will be little briefs and news notes of human interest dealing with the brethren of Christ according to the flesh. Our own Brethren Jewish mission will be heard from. Let us "pray for the peace of Jerusalem; they shall prosper that love thee."

I AM that I AM" lieve that I AM ye shall die in your sins"—Jn. 8:24

In The Fulness of Time

That there was a definite point in the history of the race, and of God's redemptive dealings with man, at which the advent of the Savior of the world must of necessity occur, is explicitly taught by Galatians 4:4—"But when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son." Had he been sent earlier, the way would not have been adequately prepared. Had His advent been delayed, the whole history of mankind would have been meaningless. Four millenniums were needed to prepare the world for that cross which might conceivably have been erected at the gates of Eden had the race at that time been able to understand and to accept it. But the sons of men were not prepared for the visitation of the Son of man.

The History of Man—A Preparation

The cross was not for Eden's exiles to behold, for sin was not yet known for the hideous thing that it is in the sight of a holy God. Man must needs learn the true nature of sin, a lesson only to be learned in the annals of human affairs, mercilessly recording for his instruction the history of sin in the acts of fallen moral beings. 4000 years of human history demonstrated beyond all cavil that sin is sin, the inherent principle in the very nature of men that gives downward impetus to the depravity of the sons of Adam.

Man must learn something of the depth of his depravity as the lurid record of his depraved dealings with men and with God led him toward a knowledge of his utter abandonment in sin and godlessness. And should he refuse to learn, the record must stand, a silent witness condemning his wilful ignorance, that he might be without excuse. Not until the history of sin and the race demonstrated the utter depravity of man, and inscribed in indelible words the course of that depravity from the little rivulet that sprang forth in Eden to the flood of the days of the Son of man, could He come Who alone was able to stem the tide and cure forever, in the individual hearts of those who trust His grace, the ravages of the disease which had wasted the world.

Again, man must learn the lesson of his own powerlessness to preserve for himself and his posterity a pure knowledge of God. Paul, in the first chapter of Romans, brings an indictment to this effect against the heathen world, saying, "When they knew God, they glorified him not as God. . . . their foolish heart was darkened. . . . they became fools." And then, he tells us, they fell into inexcusable idolatry. This was the record of man's spirituality, a universal apostasy from God. Nor did the record reveal that man had ever regained, by his own efforts, an adequate knowledge of God.

But more than this, the history of the world and the sinners who inhabited it revealed the importance of man to effect his own regeneration. All the culture of the ages, all the progress of the millenniums, all the wisdom of the ages, had not availed to stem the tide of sin in the heart of a single one of earth's fallen ones. Man could not deliver himself from his sin—this was the testimony of the 40 centuries of his history. Not until this was the only conclusion to be drawn from the facts, could it be said that "the fulness of the time was come" for the entrance into human affairs of the Redeemer.

Israel—A Preparation

"God. . . . in times past suffered all nations to walk in their own ways. Nevertheless he left not himself without witness" (Acts 14:16, 17). Into the darkness of the world God began to give light. A nation was born of the loins of a man called out of idolatrous Ur. And God began to educate a people in the majesty, the unity, the omnipotence, the holiness, of God. To them He gave divine instruction in the sinfulness of man and his moral and spiritual helplessness. And, in the face of man's abject poverty of hope, he set before His peculiar people the lesson of the certainty of a coming salvation.

Law

Israel was a nation tutored by law, that in the theophanies and the miracles attendant upon its being given to the people there might be born faith in a personal God. In the schoolroom of God's presence a nation was to learn something of the almightiness of her God, and her faith in Him was to be cultivated. Under the tutelage of law, with its commands and warnings, the dormant sense of sin was to be aroused, for the knowledge of sin must pave the way for the Savior from sin. John the Baptist must come before Jesus of Nazareth. And then, having learned something of God, and man's responsibility to Him, Israel was to be given the inspired hope of a way of pardon and access to Him. Through the priestly and sacrificial system she was to be prepared for the full and complete redemption to be given in Christ.

Prophecy

Israel was a people chosen to an education by prophecy. From the protevangelium in the garden to the words of Malachi she was instructed in the very Word of God as transmitted through His chosen spokesmen. Faith in the Word of God was to be the essence of her walk. Her prophetic education was furthered in the providential careers of typical persons whose lives in a measure foreshadowed the work of the One in Whom all prophecy centers. In the typical acts of the Old Testament history she was given a glimpse into the mysteries of God's redemptive grace. The sacrifice of Isaac, the lifting up of the brazen serpent, were prophetic of the coming sacrifice for sin. In the tabernacles she could, with enlightened understanding, see foreshadowed the whole redemptive program of God. In her prophetic education God used every means to prepare her for the Christ to which all the types and testimonies pointed. When prophecy of every kind was complete there was a brief interval, and then He came of Whom Moses and the prophets wrote.

Judgment

But Israel's education was not complete in law and prophecy. She needs must be educated by judgment. Here was a continued education by chastisement for sin, an education intensified in her exile in Babylon. It was there that she gave up once for all time the polytheism that had brought her woe upon woe. In Babylon the synagogue system was established to preserve and propagate the monotheism to which God's judgment had finally driven her. And it was in Babylon, in exile, that the nation turned from agriculture to the arts of trade. Let no one condemn the Jew for his keenness in trade, he was apprenticed in the bazaars of the Gentiles! So it was that the Jew became a world citizen, going wherever there were wares to be bought and sold.

God Sent His Son

With Jews in all lands, with their firmly implanted monotheism as the starting point for the gospel in every heathen city, with their synagogues established as places of assembly in the things of God, God had prepared a people to receive the gospel and to propagate it throughout the whole world at the very time when the world's consciousness of its need was at its height. And "when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth His Son." Not until the great heathen world had been prepared, not until a chosen nation of evangelists had been educated, dare He give His greatest gift.

BRETHREN STUDENT LIFE VOLUNTEERS

Sharing for Service

To Lawrence Judge, Garwin, Iowa, goes the credit for having turned in the first dollar for the "Sharing for Service" fund. This fund is for the express purpose of aiding worthy students through the years of preparation to become Brethren preachers and missionaries. Send all gifts for this fund to your national superintendent. Appropriate envelopes will come to you regularly for this ministry along with your personalized letter.

Beginning Our New Page

According to the present plans, the news of the B.S. L. V. will appear in the 4th issue of each month of the new Brethren Missionary Herald. We thank The Brethren Missionary Herald Company for this privilege. We urge all our members to subscribe for this weekly Christian publication at once. Don't miss another issue.

Good News from Cleveland

Late in the old year eight fine young people of the First Brethren Church, Cleveland, O., of which Rev. Tom Hammers is pastor, stepped out for full time service for the Lord. These eight have been sent introductory letters and questionnaires. We hope to hear from them soon. We hope that many of you will follow the example of these few. It takes courage to stand out from the crowd, but the rewards are above counting.

B.S.L.V. Summer Revivals

An offer comes from several of the Grace Seminary students to spend the next summer in evangelism throughout the Brethren churches. These would go forth to hold two and three week revivals under the sponsorship of B.S.L.V. If there is enough demand, and we feel certain there will be, a schedule will be arranged and the messengers chosen. Members, get busy in your own local congregation at once. Urge your pastor to arrange for such a meeting in your church. Necessarily there will be a limited number of engagements, so first applicants will be given preference.

How About a Song?

Several have suggested that we have a B.S.L.V. song. It's a good idea. Several tunes have been suggested. Grace Allhouse, C. E. News Editor, sends in this word: "Why not have a little contest in the writing of appropriate words? When the words have been chosen, print them and then have another contest to see who can compose the best music." That's a fine suggestion, Grace. Get busy now, every member. Have your B.S. L.V. song to us by March 25. We suggest I Cor. 6: 19-20 for its theme. Who is the best poet? We'll soon find out.

200 Strong for Christ

To date we have 200 members. That's a fine record for so young a group. However, one young man or one young woman, really dedicated to the Lord, can do more in soul-saving than a whole legion of careless so-called Christians. It is true, though, that 200 dedicated young men and women can do much more than a few. Every member a soul-winner is our desire. Testify with your words, your thoughts, your attitudes, your actions, and your all.

You may get men interested in religion by preaching the supremacy of Christianity, but you can only get them saved by preaching the efficacy of the blood of Jesus.

There are some people whose friends are more to be pitied, than their enemies.

Wisdom is ability to use knowledge aright. The Holy Ghost is the fountain of true wisdom.

If you are "sealed by the Holy Ghost" as the property of your Master, there will be no need for anyone to ask, "Whose is the image and superscription?"

TOPIC FOR MAR. 10, 1940

THE MISSIONARY PROGRAM AND THE LORD'S COMING
(Acts 1:1-14)

Suggestions for the Leader

Beginning with this topic, we find that it is necessary to cut down on the volume of material in each topic and ask the leader and speakers to do more individual work on the part assigned to them. We will carry an outline with Scripture verses at convenient places. Let each speaker enlarge upon the talk. Select other verses and be sure to put the talk in your own words if possible. In this way we hope to avoid having a society merely reading papers. Next we have a limited space in the Herald and do not feel that it would be right to demand too much of the paper.

This is missionary night. We are particularly interested in the relation of world-wide missions and the return of Christ. There is a relation between the two because the Bible predicts things about the preaching in the last days. We know that the gospel of the kingdom will be preached after He comes; but even before this a faithful witness will carry the word of salvation to many places in the world.

We are able to see where God is working to win people to Himself and ought to be in there. Today, foreign missions present one of the best fields of endeavor for the church. There are more conversions there and thus the bride of Christ will be made complete sooner. Therefore the more people that are saved now, the sooner we shall be taken to heaven by the Lord Jesus.

Jesus left the earth with the instruction to His followers that they should witness into the uttermost parts of the earth until He comes again.

1. THE THREE COMINGS OF CHRIST

a. His coming as a Babe in Bethlehem (Luke 2:4), to be the Savior of men.

b. His coming into our hearts as Lord and Master (Col. 1:27). To abide with us in fellowship (Rev. 3:20).

c. His coming again into the world (Heb. 10:28).

(1) As Bridegroom for the church (I Thess. 4:16).

(2) Later as King of kings and Lord of lords (Rev. 19:11-16).

In many ways these three constitute the three events of all time.

2. MISSIONS AND CHURCH HISTORY

COINCIDENTAL. ACTS 8:4.

a. This means that the history of the church and of missions happened at the same time and that one was dependent upon the other.

b. The church grew in proportion to its mission endeavor.

c. Lack of mission interest in a church will eventually bring indifference in other things of special interest.

d. The return of the Jews to Palestine, the readiness of many to become Christian, and the church's interest in Jewish evangelism, are evident indications of Christ's return.

e. No church that has neglected missions has long enjoyed God's great favor.

3. PREACHING OF THE GOSPEL AND HIS COMING ARE INTERRELATED.

a. The preaching of the gospel will hasten the day of Christ's return.

(1) Thus men will watch, pray and be ready for His appearing.

b. When the bride of Christ is complete, the Lord will return to get the bride.

c. Preach peace in a troubled world or heart will not accomplish as much as preaching salvation. The important thing is salvation and then comes peace. Paul wrote the order should be grace, mercy and peace.

4. KNOWLEDGE OF CHRIST'S COMING BECOMES A REASON FOR HASTENING

THE PREACHING OF THE GOSPEL. Acts 1:8-11.

a. The Jewish idea was to secure a prominent position in the kingdom. Jesus insisted that it was more important to be prepared for Him at His return.

b. The knowledge of how to be prepared ought to be a great urge for us to bring others the Christ.

c. We will be able to live an attractive life for Him (I Jn. 3:3).

d. We will take part in foreign missions.

5. THE TIME OF HIS COMING IS NOT SO IMPORTANT AS THE WARNING
INVOLVED IN THE CERTAINTY
OF THE EVENT. Matt. 24:42.

a. The exact time can not be determined by us. We can only know times and seasons.

b. The knowledge of the fact of His coming is the important thing.

c. He will come quietly and suddenly.

d. He will come when many do not expect Him.

e. The Christian attitude in this matter becomes our blessed hope.

ADDITIONAL SCRIPTURE

The other related Scriptures are Ezek. 33:1-11; Matt. 13:24-30; Rev. 22; I Thess. 4.

THE LESSON ILLUSTRATED

Several Scriptures illustrate the lesson beautifully.

1. The man who went (Matt. 21:28-32).
2. The unprepared guest (Matt. 22:1-14).
3. The ten virgins (Matt. 25:1-13).

QUESTIONS

1. What are the three comings of Christ mentioned?
2. Why is the missionary program an essential part of our work?

Salute

Pledge

Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, I promise Him that I will strive to be kind, attentive, reverent and quiet during Junior C. E.

LESSON: GOD'S HELPERS.

1. Scripture: I Sam. 1:11-28; 2:18-19.

We find many places in Scripture where boys and girls were used in God's service. The story of Samuel is one of the best. His mother had prayed for a baby boy, and God had heard her prayer; so now she gave him back to God for service.

Boys and girls that love the Lord will want to start serving him early: at home, your duties faithfully done, because Jesus is faithful to you; at school, lessons well done and fairly given, because you want your mind to grow, and to do it fair would please our heavenly Father; at church, in our S. S. class, in C. E., and in church services, be regular, on time, with lessons learned, always well behaved. A child that does not behave in God's house has never learned the first lesson in being a Christian lady or gentleman.

2. Scripture: I Sam. 16:13, 21-23; 17:32-50.

This Scripture gives us the story of David, a shepherd boy, called of God to be a king. But while he was growing up he served the Lord in any way he could. He killed a lion and a bear while caring for his father's sheep. He played the harp for the unhappy king. Later he killed the giant, the enemy of God's people, with a smooth round stone. He could do this because he had practised throwing straight and true when a shepherd boy. Perhaps when a lamb would start to waver away he would clip a stone on its hoof so it would scamper back to its mother, or perhaps he would use his sling to kill some animal about to steal a sheep. You see, we must do well the things that do not seem important now, because God may want to use us in Africa or South America or China or India to tell boys and girls there about the Savior you know and love. Then we can use our hands, feet, eyes and ears all to His glory if we have them well trained and clean. Of course we know they should be soap and water clean, but most important of all is that they are clean of sin and disobedience.

3. Scripture: Jn. 6:9-13.

Tell of the little lad with the five biscuits and two small fishes. His lunch used and blessed by Jesus helped many people. Let us learn to give the best we have to Jesus when we are young. Then as we grow older it will be easy and natural to give Him our best and ourselves in His service.

Christians, Blowing Bubbles

The other day I saw a clever cartoon in a daily newspaper. A man with an umbrella beside him was playfully engaged in blowing large bubbles from a clay pipe. One such bubble had just burst, labeled, "League of Nations." A new bubble was expanding which was labeled, "United States of Europe Talk." This was meant to represent future after war conditions. The whole cartoon was labeled, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles," meaning Europe of course.

When I thought on the truth of this cartoon about a groping Europe, I could not help but think about a passage in the Word of God which speaks about bubbles which men are blowing. "I have seen all the works that are done under the sun; and, behold, all is vanity, and vexation of spirit" (Ecclesiastes 1:14). The original Hebrew word here translated "vanity," means, a breath, a breeze, or a bubble. Yes, that picture too is true. Solomon ought to know. He continues in the next chapter.

"I said in mine heart, go to now, I will prove thee with mirth, therefore enjoy pleasure: and, behold, this also is bubbles. . . . I sought in my heart to give myself unto wine, yet acquainting mine heart with wisdom; and to lay hold on folly, . . . I made me great works; I builded me houses; . . . I got me servants and maidens. . . . also I had great possessions. . . . I got me men singers and women singers, . . . and whatsoever mine eyes desired, I kept not from them. . . . then I looked on all the works that my hands had wrought, and on the labor that I had labored to do: and, behold, all was bubbles" (Eccl. 2:1-11).

Surely, when taken into the light of eternity, many of the worldly pursuits which now seem so valuable, become nothing but plain bubbles, which will burst at the judgment seat of Christ. It is sad but true, that many Christian people are engaged in blowing bubbles.

NEWS BRIEFS

From
Our Workers

By Robert Culver

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR PRESIDENT Robert Ashman, pastor of our church at Peru, Indiana, evidently believes that young people's activities are worth while. We note from the Peru bulletin that a young people's gospel team has been organized. At present the young people of B. S. L. V. and other young people are meeting for instruction in doctrine, personal work, how to conduct a service, how to prepare a talk, and other subjects every Christian worker ought to know. There is also a children's meeting held once every week, and from reports, it is well attended.

CLIPPED FROM THE PERU, IND., BULLETIN: "Plans are under way for the purchase of a church building which has not been in use for some years, in Sharpesville (Indiana). It will be used to start a Brethren work with Brother Verne Stuber in charge as pastor."

A CARD from the pastor of the Juniata, Pa., church, Ernest F. Pine, bears the following interesting news. "The Juniata Brethren Church has just completed their basement and has installed new pews in the auditorium. The latter project was made possible in part through the generosity of The Home Missions Council. Our people are grateful for what the Council is doing to establish a work for Him here. The Juniata Brethren Church has a one-half hour program over radio station WFBG. Altoona, each Sunday evening at 6:30. Those within radius of this station will be glad to know of this program. Our church has just completed an evangelistic meeting with R. Paul Miller. The church has taken on new life and activity."

YOU WILL REMEMBER that it was noted in this column some time ago that Bro. Arnold R. Kriegbaum had taken up the pastorate of the new church in East Los Angeles. The following encouraging report comes from him: "The work is coming along in fine shape here at East Los Angeles and we are praising Him. I am certainly kept busy, but oh what joy it brings to be busy for the Lord. We had two confessions week before last and one last week. There are a number ready to make the decision and a good number interested in our church. Prayer will bring the victory."

THE BETHEL BRETHREN CHURCH of Berne, Indiana, observed the fiftieth anniversary of their organization Dec. 17. The number of members at the time of organization was 16. The total membership at present is 219. On the first Sunday of the year they observed a "Jew First" Sunday, with R. Paul Miller bringing the message. On the second Sunday of the new year an offering for Grace Seminary was taken. Jan. 15 a two weeks evangelistic meeting was begun with Bro. E. B. Niswonger of Canton, Ohio as evangelist. Good results have been reported.

FROM THE KING'S BUSINESS magazine: "The addition of Paul R. Bauman, A. B., Th. B. to the teaching staff of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles has been announced by Kenneth M. Monroe, Dean. Mr. Bauman expects to begin his service as professor of Archeology and Christian Philosophy at the beginning of the second semester, Jan. 29.

PASTOR ALBERT LANTZ of our Spokane, Washington, church reports through the church bulletin the baptism and reception into church membership of six on Jan. 24.

THE FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH OF DAYTON, OHIO, announces a two week's revival meeting beginning Feb. 11, with Dr. Louis S. Bauman as evangelist, and Rev. and Mrs. Leo Polman of Fort Wayne in charge of the music. Pray for these meetings.

A COMPLEXION is something seldom seen these days. There are plenty of color schemes.—Long Beach First Church bulletin.

IT IS NOT SURPRISING that there is such an affinity between a negro and a chicken. One is descended from Ham and the other from eggs!—Selected.

THE ONE KEY TO SCRIPTURE

STUDIES IN THE HEBREW EPISTLE

"Search the Scriptures for in them ye think ye have Eternal Life; and they are they which testify of me"

—John 5:39.

STUDY NO. 1 — By ORD GEHMAN

Introduction.

A careful and prayerful study of the epistle before us tends toward the conclusion that this is one of the profoundest epistles in the New Testament. Although we cannot tell conclusively who the human instrument was in its production, its canonicity cannot be invalidated. Back of the human instrumentality we are fully aware that none other than the Holy Spirit of God could have given us such a masterpiece. It was probably written around 65 A. D. to the Hebrew Christians in Palestine; quite likely expressly to those in and around Jerusalem where the persecution against the church of the Lord Jesus Christ had been most severe. Beyond doubt, those to whom the epistle was addressed were intimately acquainted with suffering and trial.

The Epistle to the Hebrews presents a marvelous series of contracts between Judaism and Christianity. One word characterizes this epistle better than any other: Better. Bear in mind that the law is not condemned, for it had efficiently served its purpose as a tutor, or schoolmaster, to bring us to Christ (Gal. 3: 24). The whole burden of the epistle centers around these facts: that the new covenant is better than the old covenant; that Christ is better than Moses; that the rest of God is better than the rest of Canaan; that Christ's atonement is better than the sacrificial system of the Old Testament; that the hope of an eternal city is better than the hope of an earthly abode. In short Grace supercedes Law.

Then, as we study this epistle, let us bear in mind that the author is writing to those who had recently turned from Judaism to Christianity. Judaism was an important factor in the life of the Hebrew community. To turn from its precepts of the law, which had been a vital part of every genuine Hebrew's spiritual make-up, to the teachings of the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ was a big step for anyone who wanted to go the whole way with Jesus Christ. It was the same old question which had precipitated the first church council held in Jerusalem as recorded in Acts 15. The apostle had taught that "the Word is nigh thee, in thy mouth and in thy heart: that is, the Word of faith, which we preach: because if thou shalt confess with thy mouth Jesus as Lord and shalt believe in thine heart that God raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved: for with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation" (Rom. 10:8-10). The Judaizers had readily accepted the doctrine of grace but had desired to make circumcision and the keeping of the Mosaic law a necessity thereto. The prevalence of the Judaizers among the early Christians caused the apostle to guard carefully against their teaching which had caused widespread confusion. It is my humble opinion that this epistle was written to the Hebrews in an attempt to point out the tremendous advantages of vital Christianity over Judaism.

As we approach this epistle we are at once aware of the fact that it does not begin like the other epistles of the New Testament. It does not contain an introductory greeting as usual for such a letter, but the writer launches at once into the subject matter he has in mind. This is to be expected however, when we consider the impersonal nature of the epistle.

Advancing in our study of this portion of the Word, we discover that much is quoted from the Old Testament, but from the Septuagint. But even in these quotations, the writer seems determined to make slight reference to the human instrumentality in Scripture. So successfully has he covered his own identity that it appears natural that he should seek to obliterate all possible of the human element in the divine Scriptures. Thus he states "But one hath somewhere testified, saying, 'What is man, that Thou art mindful of him?'"

Or the Son of man, that Thou visitest him?
Thou madest him a little lower than the angels;
Thou crownedst him with glory and honor,
And didst set him over the works of Thine hands:
Thou didst put all things in subjection under his feet."

The writer here quotes from Psalm 8 but makes no allusion to it in this passage.

That the writer of the Hebrew epistle was a philosopher and a logician cannot be gainsaid. The convincing arguments used herein for establishing the fact of our superceding Christ are bulwarks of the Christian faith. Let us notice that there are three outstanding approaches which the writer makes to the greatness of our blessed Lord. If we are able to study this marvelous epistle together and see these things I am quite confident that our efforts have not been in vain. To Him be the glory and the honor forever more!

The Hebrew epistle presents a powerful Christ; One Who is able! As we thus view Christ, we find a guard against lessening the power of our blessed Lord. His power is greater than the angels through whom the former covenant had been mediated to the earthly people of God. He stands above Moses as the Builder of God's eternal house. There is a crying need today to re-emphasize the greatness of Christ's eternal power because of man's philosophy of man's deification. To detract from Christ's power as the Son of God tends to weaken vital faith. It is Christ Who saves by His divine power.

Again we notice a pre-eminent Christ. To gain any conception of Christ which is less than this is to violate His personality. To attempt to rob Christ of His pre-eminence as the Lord of glory serves only to leave the robber poorer and His Person more glorious and brilliant.

liant. The pre-eminent Christ, as presented in this epistle, guards against far-fetched, man-made philosophies. It is our pre-eminent Christ who keeps His children safe day by day.

Lastly, but far from least, we reach through to Him and find a personal Christ presented as a final guard against apostasy. How we need to learn that we can touch the hem of His garment! Yea, more, we have One Who can be "touched with the feeling of our infirmities," for He "hath been in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin." What a glorious privilege is ours to "look unto Jesus, the Author and Perfecter of our faith," and to know that His precious blood which was shed on Calvary paid the purchase price of our redemption. Only a personal Christ can sustain His saints. Such is our Christ as He is presented in the Hebrew epistle.

Our Easter Appeal

Any true picture of heathenism is a picture that is black beyond expression, but in an attempt to express it Mrs. Whitfield Guinness has done about as well as anyone after whom we have read. And here is her picture of it.

"Men and women are toiling without a Bible, without prayer, without songs of praise. They have homes without peace, marriage without sanctity, young men and girls without ideals and enthusiasm, little children without purity, without innocence, mothers without wisdom or self-control, poverty without relief or sympathy, sickness without skilful help or tender care, sorrow and crime without a remedy, and, worst of all, death without hope."

Brothers and sisters of the Brethren churches of America, as the Spirit of Christ in you is, how will this picture of the world's heathenism move you at this Easter time as we all rejoice in our knowledge of a risen Lord and the glory that lies beyond the resurrection? These people who are born in heathenism are human beings. In their breasts throb the same passions as throb in our breasts. Among those passions is a passion for life eternal, the passion for meeting loved ones in the other world, the passion for holiness, the passion for peace with God. What will be your response on Easter Sunday? What is the extent of your interest? We soon shall know.

Do We Want The White To Rub Off?

Forty years ago among the missionaries of Porto Rico was a fair haired, sweet faced, little woman. She noticed one day that a little colored girl was keeping very close by her side. Kindly she turned to the child and asked her why she clung to her so closely. The reply was, "You are so white, Senorita, that I thought perhaps if I kept close some of the white would rub off on to me." Thank God for a missionary that lives so sweetly and so cleanly that the black want the white to rub off on to them. However, this incident occurred 40 years ago. We are beginning to wonder as the black races become more and more acquainted with the white peoples of the earth whether they are very anxious to have the white rub off on them. In all sincerity we are beginning to wonder whether it wouldn't be well for some of the whites of the earth to pray for some of their black to rub off on us.

"The Little White Sobbo"

A missionary in Africa tells us that "the biggest attraction of all to the little black children is a white baby. They have never seen a white child, and they are fascinated by the missionary's baby. They call him their 'Sobbo' (king) and gathered about him reverently.

So the tiniest one in the missionary's family in Africa can help in the work of the Master, who loves all children everywhere, whether they be white or black." After all perhaps the children of our missionaries in Africa are missionaries too in a very real sense of the word.

Even men modernistically inclined say some worthwhile things. E. Stanley Jones says: "When Christianity can no longer produce the miracle of conversion it will lose its right to exist." On that ground there are a good many churches that seem to be possessed of a "Christianity" that has lost its right to exist.

"Stop And Tell Us The Story"

We are told that in Korea, great placards are placed at crossroads, on which is written this request, "If any of Jesus' people come this way let them stop and tell us the story." Whether the placards are up in Africa or not, this is absolutely the cry that is reaching the ears of the missionaries all over the heart of Africa. They are calling loudly to our missionaries, "If any of the Jesus people come this way let them stop and tell us the story." Dare we, who profess to be in possession of the Spirit of Christ, refuse to heed that cry? No wonder the great apostle cried, "So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel (good news) to you that are in Rome also." And no wonder, that he cried later, "Woe is me if I preach not this gospel." Anyone in possession of the "good news" and enjoying the gift of God which is life eternal, who can refuse to heed the cry of the millions for whom Christ died — well, it is just beyond us!

"I Will Go For Christ"

We have missionaries in Africa who if they were to give their talent to great business concerns in this world could easily be receiving four and five times as much as they receive upon the field. It is hard for worldly Christians to understand the spirit that dwells in these missionaries. We heard once of a missionary who asked a Burmese boatman if he was willing to preach the gospel to his fellowmen. The man was getting good pay as a boatman, and the missionary told him that he would be able to pay him only 8 shillings a month instead of the 30 shillings that he was receiving. "How is it?" the missionary asked, "Will you go for 8 shillings?" It was a bit hard for the man to decide, but after some moments of pondering he looked up and said, "No, I will not go for 8 shillings, but I will go for Christ." Can you imagine the apostle Paul going through what he went through for any other reason than the one he gave, "The love of Christ constraineth me?"

Enough to Make Angels Weep!

We have just heard of a pastor who declares that he is determined to attract into his church the "thousands of people who parade through the center of the town" on Sunday. Thus he would help solve the youth problem. His scheme is to put on a cabaret show on each Sunday evening showing "shapely legs, cafe bar and everything!" In our humble opinion, the young people of that town would be far better off parading themselves through the streets on Sundays, than they would be, sitting in the pews in the church of this particular "Reverend"!!

It is enough to make the angels weep that the unregenerate world these days has the opportunity of sitting back and guffawing while some of these degenerate clerics race with the godless old world to see which can arrive in hell first.

A Testimony

One of the most faithful supporters of our foreign mission work—one who gives regularly each month to it—is a school teacher in a certain state in this union. She provides for the support of one of our missionaries.

With her last monthly check came a testimony. We feel it will honor the Lord to pass this testimony along, for we believe it is not only a testimony of this sister, but of others. We quote:

"As you know, I paid in advance for the summer months, even though it crowded me painfully I thought. Just to show you how the great Provider works, here is my testimony. This is the first summer vacation in which I came out even financially when school started. Usually this first check is swallowed up with little debts here and little debts there. I never saw a dollar go as far as my dollars went last summer. I have no one to whom to give the credit but to the One Who keeps the banks where everlasting treasures are kept."

Just another testimony confirming the fact that no one ever loses who does business with God.

Bandit Tactics!

A Soviet newspaper recently complained because Finland's white clad ski units were resorting to the "use of bandit tactics in sudden attacks on our columns." The paper in describing these bandit tactics said: "The enemy does not engage in open battle. Hidden under white robes and thus skillfully camouflaged, they suddenly dart from the woods to shoot at our advancing units, and then in all haste they run!" Now what a pity it is that those 3,500,000 Finns don't walk out in front of these 180,000,000 of Russians and engage in open battle! And from the latest reports, those miserable Finns have even quit running. From the latest reports, it is the Russians who now run! In our humble opinion the Soviets had better complain about the "tactics" of the God that they have mocked and blasphemed!

On another page the reader will find a very interesting article under the caption, "In This Place Will I Give Peace." This article comes to us from the American Mission to Lepers whose National Headquarters are at 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City. The Foreign Missionary Society of the Brethren Church is cooperating with the American Mission to Lepers in the work of healing the bodies and saving the souls of the many lepers in the heart of Africa. The American Mission to Lepers is making regular contributions to our work. They are in close touch with Dr. Floyd W. Taber and together are working on this problem. We are just getting our work under way, but in due time we believe that The Brethren Church will have reason to be proud of her part in the work of redeeming these formerly hopeless and forsaken people—yes, redeeming them body and soul! The Bible has much to say about the Master as He went about healing lepers. "Hereunto are we called that we should follow in His steps." Any gifts at Easter time designated for this particular work will be so used.

Might we say that the first lodge was called "The Shinar Association for the Exaltation of the Human Name". Gen. 11.

The first Epistle of John is called the book of "knows." The word occurs forty times.

Who was the first grafter? Perhaps II Kings 5:20 will suggest.

You will find the "key of the morning" in Psa. 5:3. The same key should be used at night also. (Psa. 4:8).

When temptations are fierce, make haste to the "safety zone." (Psa. 18:2).

DOES IT PAY?

By Mrs. Hattie C. Sheldon

Does it pay The Brethren Church to spend some forty or fifty thousand dollars a year to take the gospel to the heathen in Africa, or to those chained in Romanism to South America? The expense is great in dollars and cents, and even greater in lives, for the African field has paid a heavy toll in missionary lives for her advancement in this dark land. But even though our view is through a glass darkly, yet we can see even now that it pays to take the gospel to those who are lost in heathen darkness.

It is not yet thirteen years since the gospel of salvation was brought to this heathen Gbea tribe. While the missionaries were still living in the little, round, mud, rest house in Kewane's village, a young man became interested in the good news and said he wanted to accept the Lord Jesus Christ. An uncle, who had heard the gospel briefly at Bassai, had recounted to this young man what he had heard, and now he wants to take this Lord as his Savior. There on the narrow, mud veranda of the rest house, he was instructed in the way of life. That young man was Jacob Yase, who has been with the work through the years, and for some time has been native pastor at Bellevue.

Last week, Jacob Yase's wife Rachel, was unable to bring forth her babe and suffered and died. Jacob Yase lovingly stood by her and cared for her, not as a heathen would for a polygamous wife, but as a Christian in our own land would care for and love and cherish his companion. He prayed, asking the Lord to heal Rachel and spare her to him and to their two small children, Sara and David, if He saw fit. But he also prayed for the Lord to do as He saw best. Verily, no heathen ever prayed such a prayer to his fetishes. For some reason, which we as yet cannot see, Rachel was not spared, but went to be with Him, Whom she also loved. Her place will be hard to fill in a land where so few are really consecrated to His service, and especially the women. Her Sunday School class had to be taught by another today, and she will be missed in other classes. So many of the women are indifferent and hard to reach. They have been taught from time immemorial that a woman knows nothing and now it has a great influence on their lives and they are slow to emerge out of their lethargy.

A death in Africa calls forth all the powers of darkness, and why not, when they have no hope beyond the grave except for a vague idea of the spirit disassociating itself from the body and coming back to do evil to others, if offerings are not made to appease it. The heathen relatives all gather; clothing if worn, is torn off; ashes are rubbed on the body. The women turn somersaults and beat their heads against the wall or anything that happens to be near. Men sometimes cut themselves with knives in their desolation. Everybody wails; even the little children who are too young to know why, are wailing.

*Jacob Yase, Rachel
and Babe*

But, when they really take Christ into their lives, it really makes a difference. Rachel told the people around her that she didn't want them to wail for her, but rather to prepare to come where she was going. After she went, Jacob Yase kept the people singing, even starting the hymns himself, until he was so hoarse, he could hardly sing above a whisper. This helped to keep the wailing down, for there were many heathen relatives present. On the way to the grave they sang, and when Rachel was lowered into the grave with the hope of the resurrection, we could not help but feel that it pays to preach the gospel to the heathen whether in Africa or in America.

But, don't forget to pray for Jacob Yase as his home is broken up and he is left with his two motherless little ones. As all of you know, who have been bereaved, the first sting of losing a loved one is not always the hardest to bear, but the days to come will be more difficult. Remember him in his work which needs him so much, that he will come out of his sorrow stronger than before.

Suffering for His Name's Sake

By Orville D. Jobson,
Bozoum, Oubangui-Chari, F. E. Africa

"For unto you it is given in the behalf of Christ, not only to believe on him, but also to suffer for His sake"

—Philippians 1:29.

We sometimes forget that suffering is a gift of God's grace and a part of our salvation. It is not until we see some saint of the Lord drawn into a rich and abiding fellowship through sharp and shameful suffering that we begin to realize the truth of the words, "To you it hath been given, on behalf of Christ. . . to suffer for His sake."

It is rare these days to hear of men and women suffering for Christ's sake. It is rarer still to be permitted to meet such saints. But whenever it is our lot to hear such testimonies our hearts are warmed and we realize anew that His richest blessings are not in deliverance from sufferings, but in granting patience through them.

Such a rare case is that of a woman whose heart the Lord opened in a small Baya village not so far from Bozoum. When she attended one of the first meetings held in her village, the Lord spoke to her soul and she found peace through faith in His blood as a sacrifice for her sins. But her husband was bitterly opposed to her attending the meetings, for she was his first wife and must care for his idols. However this faithful little woman attended daily the morning prayer meeting and sunset service. Her husband became more and more furious. He threatened to send her away and even kill her if she continued to follow the Lord. But Founkeya has found the Lord and is willing to suffer for Him.

Husband Strikes Her

One evening when she returned from the sunset service her husband was sitting by the fire in front of her house. Enraged to see her returning from the service, he grabbed a good sized stick out of the fire, with the flame still burning on one end, and struck at her head. The blow made a gash in the upper lip, and left part of the lip hanging in her bleeding mouth. She fell to the ground, while her husband stood over her pouring out cursings and threatenings.

A Baya Family and Their Home

Without missing any services her lip healed again, but left a scar that she will carry until she receives her glorified body.

A year later Founkeya was among the first group to receive baptism in her village. Her husband was not at the stream, and still inwardly opposes her new found joy. At the love feast held several days later she gave her testimony. There were 18 at the love feast, and most of the eyes were wet with tears. After we told her of the Lord Who had scars which He received from the wounds her sins had caused and how we are called into the fellowship of His sufferings, she said "I'll follow Him unto the end"

Lord, if it's suffering we need to draw us closer to Thee, and Thou seest fit to send it, give us grace to bear it for Thy dear name's sake.

$50,000

That is the sum that is needed to carry on the great work of the Foreign Missionaries of The Brethren Church for another year! Tens upon tens of thousands through them will hear the "good news" of eternal salvation for the first time in their lives. Will this be true of a similar sum of money spent in the homeland? Dare we fail those whom God has sent and is so marvelously using? No, we shall not fail!

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR BRETHREN IN NORTH AMERICA

"Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity" (Psa. 133:
1).

Dear Brethren in Christ Jesus, greeting:

First of all, I desire that the grace of our God and Heavenly Father may cover you with every blessing in this present year. Then, I ask you very urgently to pray much for us. It is very necessary that your hands be lifted up on our behalf. Do not sin, therefore, in failing to do so.

Last night, the eighth of January, I found myself meditating on the immense benefits that the gospel of Christ has brought to me and to so many others here. Suddenly a thought crossed my mind, plowed a path through the seas, and then rested upon you Brethren, my beloved ones in Christ. I remembered your unbounded liberality which, through your love to Christ and to us, led you to give freely that which by grace you had received, and you gave with full hands and continue giving without murmuring. For what purpose? To the end that you might receive the approval of that One Who instilled into you so much love, and to the end that you might see us saved and happy.

Brethren, permit me to tell you that your offerings have been transformed by the divine touch into notable conversions. Many homes have been transformed from hells into paradises, because in them Christ now reigns. Even the physical and financial conditions have improved for many of them. Lives that before were being lived like the Gadarene of the Bible, today are in their right mind and publish the good news. Persons who carried knives and revolvers and were a constant danger to their fellowmen, today carry only "the sword of the Spirit" and the cross of Christ, and are a protection and blessing to their neighbors. Yes, brethren, Satan has lost many of his faithful ones since your self-denying missionaries set foot on the soil of our native country. It is true that not all of the holy seed has borne fruit to thirty, sixty, and a hundredfold, but it is also certain that some fell into good ground and has given good results. I firmly believe that the "latter rains" shall cause to germinate many of those upon which, it now appears, labor was bestowed in vain. Who is able to limit the power of our wise and all-powerful God?

That which we must say with sorrow and lamentation is, that at times those whom God had destined to sow only the good seed, carried in their sacks tares also, and have sown them without scruples. These have sprouted and produced their disgraceful fruit. But we trust that God in His time will clean out those injurious roots that seek to ruin the work of God. On the other hand, that which is of God, no one shall be able to ruin.

Now, brethren, it only remains for me to express to you in my name and in the name of all the brethren here, who directly or indirectly have received and do receive your loyal support and help, our sincere and profound gratefulness. God shall repay you with increase your service of love. Many bless you daily, you may be assured, and when we shall be together there in the glory of the Father you shall rejoice in triumph to see how much good you have done for us. Thanks for your love and fellowship.

Sincerely yours in the service of Christ,

LUIS SICCARDI,

Pastor Brethren Mission,
Cabrera, Cordoba, Argentine.

GIVE!

Imagine the pansy bed saying to itself, "I cannot afford to give away all my beauty and sweetness. I must keep it for myself. I will roll up all my beautiful petals and I will withhold my sweet fragrance." As everybody that knows a pansy bed knows, the pansy bed that would say that to itself, would simply roll up, go to sleep, wither and die. It is the pansy bed that gives that lives. Human selfishness defeats its own ends always, and the man who withholds the fragrance of his sympathy and love soon loses the very thing he tries to keep. The springs of his manhood dry up, his finer nature becomes atrophied, he grows deaf to the cries of his fellowmen. Tears that are never shed for others' woes, sour to stinging acids in his own heart.

"Give!" says the sparkling little rill;

"I always give, am giving still;

And yet I have enough always,
God fills my fountain every day;

"Give!" says the little rill,

"The cups of others fill."

"Give!" says the pretty garden flower,

"I give my fragrance to the bower,

I give the bee his morning meal,
And yet no want I know or feel,

And my reward is this—

The dewdrop's morning kiss."

"Give!" says the bird upon the tree;

"I sing my best, my song is free;

I never knew a bird sung out
And left forlorn to fly about;

To sing my song and give

Is my best way to live."

"Give!" says the twinkling star above;

"I shone before you saw me, love;

I give the sailor on the sea—

I give the light God gives to me.

"Give!" says the tiny star,

"The light shines very far."

"Give!" says the Lord of earth and sky;

"I gave myself, I came to die;

I gave my love that you might live;

All mine is yours. Can ye not give?"

Yes, Savior, we will bring

Our gifts to thee, our King.

THE MACEDONIAN CALL

A veritable Pentecost is being witnessed by our missionaries in Africa. When the gospel call rings forth from the lips of a true minister in America, in England, and other favored lands in these last days, men, even as our Lord said they would, "with one consent, begin to make excuse." It is also as He said that it would be: the Holy Ghost has thrust forth missionaries, to tread the pathways that wind through the tall grass in the heart of Africa—pathways banked by brushy hedges—to tell the story of redeeming love to those who have never heard. Multitudes are hearing that story; and our faithful missionaries have the unspeakable joy of hearing thousands upon thousands confess Christ as their Lord and Savior.

Read the "Gleanings from Missionaries' Letters." Do you wonder that the missionaries that come home on furlough are always so anxious to get back to their grass-covered huts with earthen floors, to the land where the hot sun blisters, and pests abound? They have looked into that darkness and have seen those faces turning with an indescribable appeal for the Light. No wonder the very souls of them cry out:

*"Across the ocean stealing,
For life and health and healing.
A voice:—my soul is reaching,
In plaintive tones beseeching,
O'er dusky faces falling,
My heart turns to Oubangui,
Their tears are ever calling;
And I must go!"*

*"The Master's earnest bidding,
Within my soul is ringing:
'Go thou, proclaim glad tidings,
To teeming millions dying!'
All earthly ties forsaking,
And Jesus only taking;
My heart for them is aching,
And I must go!"*

*"I'm going to Oubangui, I'm going to Oubangui!
The call is growing stronger,
I can't stay here much longer,
O'er dusky faces falling,
Their tears are ever calling;
My heart turns to the Oubangui,
And I must go!"*

By all means read Jake Kliever's story of his first trip out among the villages. Read it, and you will know that the day of miracles is not passed. The day when the Holy Ghost can move marvellously upon the hearts of men is still here. Jake Kliever must have experienced the joy and pain his Master once knew when He—

*"Went about all the cities and villages teaching
....and preaching the gospel....But when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion upon them, because they fainted, and were* *scattered abroad as sheep having no shepherd.

Then sayeth He unto His disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few: Pray ye therefore the Lord of harvest, that He will send forth laborers into His harvest"* (Matt. 9:35-38).

Once again the indescribable ache of the Master's heart is felt, and it throbs in the bosom of Jake Kliever, and of every other one of our missionaries in that dark, dark land. The call for helpers rings in our ears day and night. Brethren, dare we falter? Dare we march up to the judgment bar of God without first having done as much as in us is to see that every eye that peers out of that African night shall behold the light, and every hand that reaches out for the Bread of life shall receive it? With countless thousands of lost souls knocking on the doors of The Brethren Church, pleading with us to share our Bread with them, it is time we forget all our petty excuses and rally to the support of those who are out there trying to make known the salvation of God, and put the Bread of life into those out-stretched hands!

*"A cry is ever sounding upon the burdened ear—
A cry of pain and anguish, A cry of woe and fear;
It is the voice of myriads who grope in heathen night;
It is the cry of Jesus to rise and send them light.*

*With every pulse's beating, another soul is gone,
With all its guilt and sorrow, to stand before the throne;
And learn with awe and wonder the story of that grace,
Which God to us entrusted for all our fallen race.*

*Oh, how the Master's bosom must swell with love and pain,
As evermore they meet Him, that sad and ceaseless train!*

*And if He holds us guilty for all our brother's blood,
What answer can we offer before the throne of God?"*

DON'T RETRENCH ON MISSIONS

Robert Carter loved to tell a story of one of the elders of the Scotch church, who came to New York a poor boy, and when he had earned ten dollars by wheeling goods in a barrow, attended one evening a meeting of the church called to pay off a debt. When subscriptions were asked for, the lad gave five dollars, which in after life he declared to be the largest gift he had ever made, being one-half of his earthly possessions. This good man afterward amassed quite a fortune, but a large portion of it was swept away in a fire. Shortly after, Dr. McElroy was going about, as was his yearly custom, collecting money for the various church charities; but he passed Mr. R... 's door, thinking that he would spare him the pain of refusing his usual gifts. Mr. R... met him on the street, and said, "You have not called on me yet for my subscription." "No," said the doctor, "I have not the heart to ask you, knowing how heavy your losses have been." "Retrenchment with me must not begin at the house of God," was the noteworthy reply. "I shall double my subscriptions this year."—John T. Faris.

"IN THIS PLACE WILL I GIVE PEACE"

Written by Dr. Charles T. Leber, a Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

A short while ago I visited a leper village in southern China. Over 100 lepers had isolated themselves, living in small huts in a grove of trees. Two medical missionaries took me there that I might hear the leader tell what the Christian religion had done for them. Standing on a crutch and speaking through an interpreter, this leper told how evil he and his companions had been. They had been bandits of the worst kind. They had been diseased in mind and soul as well as in body "But," said the leper leader, "we are not like that any more. These friends came and brought healing for our bodies and new life to our souls. Because of Jesus Christ we are trying to live decent, kind, Christian lives."

Leaving the leper village, I went toward Nanking, where I was later met by a friend who had visited it a few weeks later. He told me this pathetic story: On the Wednesday before Easter some soldiers in that area invited the lepers to come out to the edge of the village early each morning; there the soldiers would give to each a small piece of money. The poor lepers were glad to respond and each morning went and received their coin. On Sunday they went as usual with great expectancy. That Easter dawn the soldiers shot every one of them to death.

Not a pleasant story, is it? It is a parable revealing two forces that men are applying today to the eradication of a terrible plague. By the cruelty of men, lepers all across the earth are wandering helplessly or hiding pitifully or are driven from town to town until in loneliness and destitution they find release in death. Over against this, ever since Jesus walked on earth, there has been a group of men and women moved with compassion by the suffering of the lepers. They have tried and are still trying to do something about it. Down over the years, in Asia and Africa especially, there has been developing a movement for the care of the leper. And this movement has found its highest expression and its most statesmanlike leadership in The American Mission to Lepers, cooperating with the Protestant missionary boards.

As I journeyed around the world I met the work of The American Mission to Lepers in a number of countries in Asia. Thinking back over what I saw, again and again I am reminded of that strong word, "In this place will I give peace." In fact if I could place a sign over the gateways of the leper colonies the world over I would surely write, "In this place will I give peace."

The first leprosarium I visited was in Miraj, India. One evening just at dusk I drove down a winding road through a corridor of beautiful trees, then with my guides, Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. Richardson, turned into an attractive compound which appeared at first sight to be an exceptionally progressive Indian village. For over 30 years Dr. and Mrs. Richardson have ministered here to lepers. With the cooperation of The American Mission to Lepers they have developed a unique work, amazing in its accomplishments.

The first building you come to is the chapel. Nearby is the well-kept clinic. Across the clean and neat campus-like area are rows of comfortable little cottages, each with a cook stove, and here and there a garden. I was taken into the chapel. There approximately 200 lepers were assembled. A song was sung; a word of greeting by Dr. Richardson, and then by wistful lamplight I tried to speak words of comfort and cheer. Because of the progress of science approximately one-third of those who enter such a leprosarium are sent out into the world with the disease arrested. For many years within the bounds of that compound, whatever the circumstances, there has been no despair. If ever these words could be spoken as a tremendous reality it is here: "In this place will I give peace."

A day's journey to the north of Bangkok, Siam, brings you to the city of Chiangmai. On the outskirts of that appealing oriental city there is an island on which Dr. James W. McKean, then director of the McCormick Hospital of the American Presbyterian Mission, long ago established a great leper colony. Though I had heard of this project many times, I did not expect to see so spacious and inspiring an enterprise....

My visit was just before Christmas. In that tropical country it was very difficult to appreciate that Christmas was really near. Yet I shall never forget the service in which I participated that sultry December morning. Carols were sung by the congregation, seated on the floor. The choir sang anthems of the Nativity. A group came forward for baptism. Representatives rose to pray. And as the climax of the occasion, an elderly man, whose features revealed the long increasing marks of leprosy, arose and for almost an hour told us what his life in that colony had been over the past 20 years. In positive words, under deep emotion, he spoke of how he had found new life, abundant life—a life of hope and peace. Then I was called upon to speak. That Christmas, in that far away place, I spoke words which I have said many times but never as I was able to say them that day: "God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life."

There are two deep convictions which live within one as one thinks of the work for lepers. First, no other venture in this world so validates the fundamental purpose of the missionary movement. Though there are non-religious organizations caring for lepers here and

Yambourou,
one of Miss Tyson's leper patients.

there, the pioneering and the most effective motivation come from those who have committed themselves to serve mankind in the spirit of the Master.

Second, in the face of evil and need today we are tempted to give way to mere human processes as a means of solution. The soldiers referred to in the opening paragraph of this article were not madmen. They were but individuals moved by leadership which held, as a philosophy, that force and destruction could eradicate evil and make a better community. There stand the soldiers. There stand the missionaries. Both groups see evil. Each group uses the power in which it believes. So the question arises in every thoughtful individual, to which side shall I give my support? In which do I really believe?

The American Mission to Lepers has a dual ministry. It not only brings peace to stricken persons but demonstrates and establishes the great conviction that in the philosophy of Christian love in action there is the way of peace—not only for the plague of leprosy but for all the evils of body, mind and spirit which cause such misery today throughout the stricken world.

1940—AND YOUR MISSION AMONG LOS CORDOBESES

By J. Paul Dowdy

1940 !! And yet there are thousands of men, women, and children, in this Province of Cordoba (Argentina) who have not heard of Him who is the Light of the world. Shall they hear the good news? How shall they hear it? It is certain that The Brethren Church shall be responsible for a large number of them. There are other missionary groups working in this Province, but they have large sections for which they are responsible, and therefore we cannot expect them to do the work that we ought to do. Though it is true that much remains to be done, the task is not an impossible one, and it need not require an unreasonably long period of time.

Indeed, we may not have a long time in which to tell a lost world of our Lord who died to save sinners. We look for His coming, and if He does come soon, may we be able to say we have proclaimed His message of grace throughout this land. This much we certainly can do, and it is our duty and privilege to strike in with renewed effort this year, now! We may never be able to see a large membership in our churches in Argentina, but we can surely give the gospel of saving grace to every town and village in this section.

Regarding membership, The Evangelical Handbook of Latin America for 1939 gives the figure, 55,162, as the membership of all Evangelical bodies in Argentina. In proportion to the population, 12,561,361, the membership is not large. But just think what a great throng of redeemed souls shall arise from this land to be with the Lord in glory! Some of these shall shine as gems in your crown. Are you planning this year to invest more heavily in these jewels of eternal worth that our Lord is gathering out from this Province of Cordoba?

Your Help Counts

Remember, salvation means just as much to a soul in South America as it does to one in any other place. Fathers, mothers, young men, and young women, changed from servants of Satan into servants of our Lord; little children, accustomed only to the midnight blackness of sin, transformed into bearers of eternal light; these may be realized through you. It is certainly true that many such transformations may never take place without you and your help.

During recent months we have seen the work of saving grace wrought in the lives of three very elderly people, persons who had passed beyond threescore and ten years. It is very unusual to see people in the very late evening of life turn from sin and idolatry to the Lord Jesus Christ. These elderly souls all came to the knowledge of the truth and to conversion in different ways.

One was an elderly woman, left alone in the world, her eyesight almost gone, but healthy and active. Years ago her husband had learned the truth of the gospel, but she had held back. Finally, being alone, and with time to think, she mustered up courage to come to the door of the mission to listen to the singing. Being afraid to enter, she remained outside, and then slipped quietly away. Before long she came back, slipped inside, listened, and was pleased with the message of God's Book. Gradually she came to the knowledge of the truth, was convicted by the Spirit, and accepted the Lord as her Savior. She comes faithfully to the services. Although alone and seeing very poorly, she comes, and even rain does not often keep her away. She says, "I make propaganda for the mission, too!"

The second of these is an old Argentine woman. She also came very slowly to the knowledge of redemption. This old lady was led to the Lord by her daughter who was gloriously saved a couple of years ago. The mother, even after being convinced of the gospel of salvation by grace, still kept in her home an image of Saint Antonio. She felt that surely he must be of some value to her. It took some time for her to be convinced that the Lord Jesus was not interested in sharing her heart with Saint Antonio. Then finally she disposed of the little image and accepted the Lord and now is happy in Him. Needless to say, her daughter and son-in-law and many others are very happy also.

Hates Own Children

The third of this trio of late-comers-to-the-Lord was the father of one of the members of the Rio Cuarto congregation. He had come years ago from Europe, where, as a child he had learned of the gospel and many other teachings of the Bible. He retained a considerable knowledge of the Scriptures in spite of a broad, deep, and ugly chasm of many years of the basest of living that intervened between childhood and his conversion in old-age. During long years he had entertained and openly expressed the bitterest hatred even toward his own children.

One morning toward the close of his life, lying sick in bed, he asked God, the God whom he had blasphemed, to raise him up that he might go and kill one of his daughters for whom he held a special hatred. Through the ministry of the Word and prayer, that man was led by another daughter to the pierced feet of the Savior. About half an hour after he asked for strength to commit murder, the same old man with broken heart was crying out to God for pardon and salvation. God heard, granted his petition, the Holy Spirit gave him a new heart, and immediately out of that new heart poured a flood of praise to the Lord Jesus. Quickly matters between father and children were forgiven, put away, and the enmity of years gave place to love and joy unbounded. He lived only a few days, but they were days of great joy, days spent in the Scriptures in communion with his long-rejected Savior who had patiently awaited through the years the opportunity to flood his life with joy unspeakable.

There have been others saved also, young people, who have many years yet in which to serve the Lord. But in every case, salvation brings joy to men and women and glory to our Savior. The ministry of your mission in this place is worthwhile. Let us then, at home and on the field, rise to our opportunity. Let us, with renewed hope, renewed energy, and enlarged vision, looking for the coming of the Lord, enter in and take this land for Him this year.

it, and to train Christian workers and teachers. Courses in Bible Exposition, Bible Prophecy, Principles of Interpretation, Life of Christ, Biblical Introduction, Bible School Teaching, Missions, Personal Evangelism, Christian Evidences, Elementary Greek, and Homiletics are being offered. The opening date is to be announced. Classes will be held in Mansfield, Wooster, Ashland, Norwalk, and Sandusky, Ohio. Brethren in these communities may well take notice and make use of this opportunity for study of God's Word.

FORTY-TWO CHILDREN IN A SCHOOL BUS!

That is the way the Brethren Sunday School at South Gate, California, brings the children in. 42 was the number brought on January 14 in the bus the South Gate Sunday School owns. Sunday Schools, take notice! The bulletin which supplied the foregoing item also bears the news that Dr. Louis T. Talbot, pastor of the Church of the Open Door, of Los Angeles, began a series of Friday night illustrated prophetic lectures in the South Gate church on Feb. 2. An interesting lecture and good attendance was reported for the first meeting.

A VICTORY REVIVAL and Evangelistic Campaign was begun in the First Brethren Church of Uniontown, Pa., on Feb. 4. The meetings are to continue till Feb. 19. Pastor William H. Clough, through the church bulletin, announces that Rev. John W. Troy, evangelist, soloist, and song leader, is the speaker of the campaign.

NINETY-ONE SUBSCRIPTIONS AT ONCE!

That is what The Brethren Missionary Herald Company received from the Waynesboro, Pa., church recently. This is an example for other churches till some church does better. Says the pastor, R. D. Crees, "Go and do thou likewise."

TWENTY-NINE MORE SUBSCRIPTIONS last week brought the Cleveland church up to 100 per cent subscriptions, or a magazine in every family. This is another challenge to other churches in the brotherhood to "go and do thou likewise!"

A SUNDAY MORNING RADIO BROADCAST is conducted from station WJW, Akron, Ohio, weekly at the 8:30 hour by the Ellet Brethren Church, under the leadership of their pastor, Bro. Raymond E. Gingrich. If you are in range, tune in.

THE FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH of Rittman, Ohio, enjoyed the ministry of a gospel team from Grace Theological Seminary Jan. 28. The team was composed of Ralph Rambo, Blaine Snyder, and Robert Hill. Three decisions for Christ and a fine offering for the seminary were reported.

FROM THE FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH OF WHITTIER, CALIF., the pastor, Charles A. Ashman, sends the following report under date of Feb. 11. "A day of victory today, 5 confessions in the morning and 11 at night, 16 for the day at the two regular church services. There was just the pastor on the job, no special services. Praise the Lord for revival! Rejoice with us!"

JAKE KLIEVER CIRCUIT-RIDING IN AFRIC'S HEART

"Dear friends of the homeland:

It is quite some time since I have taken to writing a general or circular letter. The Lord has been blessing abundantly above all that we have asked or thought, and we praise His name.

I will not tell you of some of the things that have recently transpired, other than that because of the war in Europe the situation on the field has changed somewhat; and we are praying that soon there may be a readjustment that will allow proceeding as before the war. All autos are registered and subject to military authority as soon as they are ever bought; and thus our truck was at a military camp for 22 days, and I was with it, as we had no chauffeur for it.

I dined with the administrator, was invited out to dine with the captain several times, and slept in the captain's house, while other white folks had their quarters in the rest house, etc.—that is, those were not officials—thus you see I have nothing to complain of. The French treated me like a brother, and I believe they, as a whole, feel that way toward true Americans.....

I will give you some notes from the log or diary of my first trip into the bush. I had never been on itinerated work with another missionary, so naturally I asked all kinds of questions of those whom I could see as to what they did when they were in the bush, how they went about the work, etc., etc.; and I packed a small trunk (clothes, a few books, Scriptures and portions, etc.), a duffle bag with sleeping outfit, chop box, cooking utensils; and with five boys as porters and a cook, I started out, wondering what would happen and knowing only that it was the Lord's will for me to go and that He would bless.

The Monday I wanted to start, a palaver came up, and I spent most of the day looking through that; then, in the process of that I had a small accident on the moto-bike, hurting my ankle, and by doctor's orders I had to postpone the trip another day.

On Wednesday, Oct. 11, I started the trip. It was cloudy and a small shower fell, so the men waited until almost noon before starting the trip. I had planned on going directly to a village called Bebeuleum, but was told the bush path was only good for walking and not passable by bike, so we changed plans a little and went to Bedam, the Canton chief's village.....

I have a lantern....so at night I lit it (even if I knew that it would attract all kinds of bugs, etc.) started playing the trombone, and the villagers started coming.....

The chief's son, who had caused a little stir in former services held by the evangelists, came to the service, and I asked him what it was all about. He said he had been drinking, etc. He was all dressed up in a nice white (?) coat, long (used to was) white trousers, and a pair of tennis shoes—all worn out but miraculously hanging together. It didn't matter that they were about three sizes too large and were on the wrong foot. His vallet must have forgotten to lay out a shirt as he had none on, no socks, no necktie, but just the same all dressed up. We dealt with him in the gospel, and believe he will come out O.K. as he shows an entirely different spirit right now at least.

Twenty-Three Accept Christ

In these two days we got to speak to 587 souls, out of which 23 accepted Christ for the first time, and 35 confessed sin and came back into fellowship.....

We then left for the village to which we wanted to go first—Bebeuleum.... We arrived almost noon, having seen much game tracks, such as antelope, wild fowl, leopards, etc.; but since our guns are in cold storage as yet, we had to forget that we might have been able to get a little fresh meat for the larder.... We are not having fresh meat other than chickens right now, and they aren't too plentiful.

We called in the villagers that were left, as most of the men and some women were doing road work.... 85 were left, and they came to hear. 7 accepted Christ and 9 came back. Among them was an old, old woman. It gives one a thrill to see the real old folks come and embrace the gospel.....

We arrived in good time to set up camp at Bedwa, and I had just cleaned up and eaten a bowl of soup when the big chief of Bedaia canton came and greeted me. One of his teepoyers had cut his foot on a snag, so I 'first-aided' that and after a short conversation he left. He wants us to work his field thoroughly also.

About 5:00 P. M. just about the whole village gathered. I played the horn and we had a good song service..... There were about 185 there, and just as I was starting the message a sudden storm came up and all took to shelter at top speed. My hut was black in more ways than one. It was filled with natives. My cook had supper ready. I couldn't ask them to get out into the rain, and all the huts close by were the same as mine, filled with natives. Freda had sent some fruit and a small portion of cheese, but with it a small bottle of oil of cloves for tooth aches, not for my teeth but for the boys and for the natives who needed it. Well, this oil had flavored the cheese, and I didn't feel that I needed to eat it, so gave the natives a taste of cheese. Well, the expressions would have been good camera food for any movie camera!!!

They had all promised to come back if it quit raining, or in the morning if it didn't, to hear the rest of the message. It slowed down enough for them to go back to their huts and I proceeded to move my bed around, trying to miss all the rain coming in through the roof. After several moves, finally I got it in the right place and at the right angle, provided the wind didn't change! The natives came and borrowed my small lantern in order to teach those in their huts some gospel songs, so I went to sleep!!! with their beautiful singing!!!!..... It is beautiful when you think of how they love the messages they sing, even if they can't produce the accidentals or half tones, and thus change the tune to a state of almost not being able to recognize it.....

Lion Pays Visit

I say I went to sleep. The mosquitos were humming, and they sounded like a tea pot. I was glad I had a good net. I was suddenly awakened. In the moving around of the last evening, I had lost my flashlight, and what woke me made me think I had gone to sleep in the zoo. There was a lion with a nice deep bass roar, singing his song right close by.....

Then the natives started to yell and light their flares of grass torches. I came to enough to remember I was all alone, no fire in the hut and my light was missing—yes, all alone, but not alone. It is no affair for a lion to push in the light grass door that is before the rest hut, or to jump over it, and its good-by world, good morning Savior. There was nothing to do but turn over and go back to sleep, and if the Lord wanted to keep me until the morning, I would finish my message, and if the lion came to eat me, he might get a case of indigestion from eating all white meat!! But to go home by the way of a lion's stomach wouldn't be so bad, so to sleep I went. And as day was breaking, I awoke, and returning from the outhouse when it was still almost dark, I was again greeted by the good morning roars from a few lions.....

An hour later I had breakfast. The folks had gathered and all had come back to hear. Again some old folks made the confession—17 first confessions and 6 confessed sin and wanted to return to the Lord. This village although a bush village has been visited several times.....

We then proceeded to Bebaouda, a small village one hour's walk from Bedwa. We saw lion tracks where they had been chasing buffalos. The grass is tall here, and the natives never walk alone or go alone on bikes as they would be attacked, therefore we always went in groups. They had heard the gospel only once, that is only once before had someone been to preach the gospel to them. 40 gathered here and 6 believed on Christ

Interior of Yaloke (Fr. Equ. Afr.) Church. Built 1927

By Modena Minnich Studebaker

No footfalls, no sound on early Sabbath morn.
Silent, waits the mud church, plain, unadorned.
Soon now will flow within its calm, deep walls,
Life which is eager, pulsating, warm.
Comes now—
The man who has stolen during the night;
Lithe black children, carefree, gay;
Quiet, respectable women and men;
An old and tottery beer-drinking man;
A beaming young mother with her babe at her breast;
Earnest young students, with serious eyes;
The woman whose sharp tongue cuts the air,
The man whose face is so very kind.
Good Shepherd, hold thee, each one, to Thy heart.
They are so alone, who walk apart.
Here now within these calm, deep walls
Give strength. Give peace, richly, to all.

—Lassa, Africa.

—(From "Gospel Messenger")

Then we went to another small village and preached there to 86. Some accepted the Lord and others returned. We had a sandwich here and some lemonade. I have never tasted such rank water as they had had in the last few villages. And even after boiling all the bugs to death and flavoring it with lemon and sugar, it had a swampy taste. We walked (by bike) in the noon day sun and arrived at another very small village. There is a native here that comes to the mission from time to time and then goes back and gathers the people to tell them what he remembers. I hope he hears and remembers straight. He can't read so I have asked him to come to the mission to learn how. ....

195 Accepted Christ

After another half hour we arrived at another small village. Although it is small, it is large for a bush village. Here there were men from many villages far and near, who were doing work on the road and cotton houses. We stayed here Saturday and Sunday night, and had 4 meetings with them. Twice we had 325 come to the meetings. 195 accepted Christ as their Savior and 80 came back to the Lord. ....

Sunday evening, after the service, it was unbearably hot inside of the hut as there is hardly any ventilation, and it was sultry. I got into my 'jamas' and sat outside the hut in the air, as it felt almost cool. I noticed some shadows in front of the door as I was undressing and redressing, so I saw I needed to empty the wash basin, and of course not knowing there were any natives there (?) at least they wouldn't want me to know it, I poured this water right out the door in their way. There was a shout and laughing and a scattering. The campfires were lighted and flickered like little stars, only they were on the earth, and around each were natives, either eating their food or getting ready to eat. .... Then they started to leave, I thought, but they gathered again under the tree and after another short conference, here they came again. They sat close to me in a semi-circle and said not a word. I waited, saying not a word either. That is the way of the African. They come and sit and say nothing, and as you say nothing they know that you are waiting for them to tell their affair. ....

Soon after, one spoke for the five and said, "We want to stay with you." At first I thought I hadn't heard right and so I asked them again. Then the thought came to me that when Christ asked his disciples if they would leave Him, they replied, "To whom shall we go, Thou hast the words of eternal life." They wanted to be by me to hear the gospel and thus be able to tell it to their brothers. If there were quarters for such inquirers, I would have taken them; but now I had to say, "I have no place for you to sleep, I have no food for you, what can I do?" Then I told them that I was planning on sending a teacher here once a week to teach them the Word and to read it to them. That sounded good to them, but it wasn't happening yet.

See Power of Gospel

Then, one said, "My brother is with Mr. Jobson." I asked what his name was, and he said, "Sangobe."

What Missions Really Are

(1) Missions are a matter of common honesty. We are trustees of the gospel we hold, and embezzlers if we withhold it from others.

(2) Missions are a matter of simple obedience. Whatever the world says of missionaries or converts, our duty is plain—to obey Christ, Who unquestionably commanded us to evangelize the world.

(3) Missions are a matter of national self-interest. Where we have evangelized, there we have prospered; where we have been false to our trust, trouble has befallen us.

—The Missionary Review of the World.

Then I said, "He was with Mr. Jobson, but is with me now at BeKoro." He was the boy of one of the evangelists we sent to the Bozoum Bible School. He said, "I will come and see him." I said, "Your brother hasn't as yet built himself a house, and is sleeping in another's." He said, "I will go and help him build one!" Then I said, "If your chief lets you go, and your father says you can, and your brother wants you, you may come."

The next morning there was a new face among my boys. His father had given him permission, and some food, and his very own man-sized spear, and thus the little 10 year old, future evangelist (we pray) started to BeKoro. .... We started north. On our way we passed several small road gangs and invited them to our evening service. Then we arrived at Yene, put up camp, and that evening preached in this very small village to 115. Another chief with his people had come to hear also. We had had definite prayer the day before and thus the large results at Bemankesara. And so tonight we were to see again the power of the gospel. ....

It strengthened my faith and also the boys. Well, they were as in a dream and praised the Lord for all that was happening. Out of 115 again some old folks came, some taraways (influential men in the village), and one man especially stands out in my memory. He confessed to murdering men, stealing women, praying to his idols faithfully to help him in his evil, but he knew there was no life there. He even thought he was a big and evil man, and even though it probably meant death at the hands of his father and bigger brothers, he was coming out to the meetings and he confessed faith in Christ. ....

73 confessed Christ and 1 came back to the Lord. Meanwhile I had sent 2 of the fellows to another village and they had preached to the same 80 twice (morning and evening) and 23 accepted Christ and 40 came back to the Lord. ....

In the next village 85 heard the word, 19 accepted and confessed sin. .... We rushed on to the next village ahead of the recruiter. 53 gathered to hear the Word

(It was a small village). 18 accepted and 1 came back to the Lord. As the porter arrived we had to tell them that we would go back to Bedam and preach at Be-Gouradje. They were willing and thus again in the heat of the noon day sun we traveled in order to get to a large group for the evening.

Lord Richly Blesses Meeting

We again preached to a large group that evening, but they were mostly those that had heard in the villages that morning. The Lord blessed again, and after preaching in Bedam in the morning, I put the bike into high gear for BeKoro, and was very cordially received again.....

In all the bush trip (my first) and no doubt doing a lot of things that should not be done, and missing many an opportunity, just the same, we had 2244 listeners out of which 390 professed to accept Christ and 175 confessed sinning and came back to the Lord. I was only out for 8 days, as I heard of sickness on the station and thought I had better get back to see how serious it was. The Lord had worked, and although Dr. Gribble is still weak she is apparently on the road to her usual health and strength.....

My impressions and depressions were somewhat as follows. This was the first time that I had seen many of these villages. I had seen their names on a few of the maps that I had found, begged, borrowed or bought, and thus I knew about what I would find as to the number in the villages. But as to the road or path conditions, all was unknown as well as the food situation, that is whether we could get food for the porters, etc. All the villages had been located before so I went by the maps and according to the reports of the evangelists we had been sending out, and thus we found no new or unlisted villages. We were delightfully surprised by the fact of the new auto road going to the river between BeMakesara and Guili, and this will be a tremendous aid in evangelizing this and the Laka field. We will save about a day's travel in the direction of a village named BeGorns, and in a few hours by bike, or an hour by auto, we are at the door of the Laka tribe, a sister tribe to the Kaba.....

Expected Too Much

I was disappointed that so many of the villages were so small, but then I had never seen any bush villages, and thus I was expecting too much I guess. I imagine it is the same with all bush villages, no matter where they are. But they need the gospel as well as the large villages. The field has opened itself (that is this part of the field, which is about a seventh of our charge) and I believe we are going to make real headway from now on. We are trusting the Lord to raise the men to send and train and teach.....

We don't want a one to go unless they feel they must .....Missionaries have had some heart breaking experiences so we have decided to wait the Lord's hand in this. We are thus asking you to join in prayer with us to pray that the Lord of the harvest will send forth laborers into this ripe field, for really I couldn't begin to tell you, and you couldn't know the hunger for the Word by those who have tasted just a little....They are at the stage where they know it is real and they want it. They have been in such darkness that they are overjoyed by the light and power that is in the gospel and they want to know more of it.....

If only some of the real old folks were really saved; all of them real....But I would be the last one that would want to say that the Holy Spirit wasn't able to take the Word, touch their hearts and work the work of regeneration in their hearts. Also would I be the last one to say that this or that one wasn't serious, and will have to know more before saving faith takes hold .....

But now we ask, who will go and feed the sheep and the lambs? It is this that makes us lie awake at night, praying, hoping and wondering how this is going to happen. Oh, if only we had been born quintuplets and all five of us were here, we might be able to start to do a small portion of that which has been put into our hands to do here at the present time. If a person doesn't want to have a real uncontainable joy and at the same time a burning and uncontainable heaviness, he had better not come to Africa as a missionary. There is such abundant joy at seeing the hand of the Lord working through His Word, but O the sorrow and heartache, to see so many hands reaching for the gospel—yes, I say reaching for the gospel, because we know that it is needed. They are reaching for freedom from the slavery of sin and superstition, and we are so few.....

Attendance Increasing

At the chapel or station gospel meetings, the attendance is increasing. We have long timbers by the side for benches, and the chapel is crowded so that there is no aisle—just a mass of blackness as we look ahead of us, and the wings at the side are as thick black also. The chapel holds, by crowding, 300, and there are about 625 that are coming from Sunday to Sunday.....

Last Sunday, 75 made the great confession, and 26 came back to the Lord. After the after service, I asked from what villages they were and there were 22 different villages represented. Some had walked 35 miles to get to the services here just to hear a little more. Do you wonder our hearts swell and burst over, as it were, with tears, as we think of the hunger and so little to work with and so little time each day to work!.....

Over 200 are coming daily to learn to read, and we have a limited baptismal class right now, and there are about 100 in that. These classes only touch the few villages right near the mission station. We are hoping to be able to send teacher and catechists out to the villages regularly soon—hoping yes, but almost against hope—but with your prayers, and by His grace, we will....

With the present world situation, it is not hard to believe that at any moment the heavens will break forth in the shout for which we long, when we shall ascend, leaving this flesh that is corruption to be changed into His glorious likeness. Oh may many more be called at that shout, because we have done our part! pray, pray pray!"

GLEANINGS FROM MISSIONARIES' LETTERS

NOTE:—News from our missionaries in Africa begins to remind us of the days when the Holy Ghost rested upon the apostles themselves as they went among the villages and cities of old Judea and then out to Samaria and beyond. The Spirit of God can still work, and if the white man in the pride of his civilization and boasted learning turns away from the lowly Christ of Galilee, Who is now exalted at the Father's right hand, then the black man of Africa is going to glorify Him. A mighty host will be swept into the kingdom, for every seat at the marriage supper of the Lamb must be filled. What a glorious privilege it is that we brethren can have part in this work.

Read the gleanings from their letters and then inquire of the Lord what He would have you do this coming Easter Sunday. The editor of this magazine has no regret that last Easter a church in Long Beach forgot the fact that it had a very heavy debt resting upon it and that they came forward and laid $11,000.00 at the Master's feet as an offering that this work might go on. And now as we read of the moving of the Spirit of God in Africa how our hearts rejoice. Thank God for the privilege that we here in the homeland have, of having a real part in the doing of this work and a part in the joy that will be ours when we stand on the hilltops of glory and witness these children of the sun, fashioned into His own glorious image, sweeping through the gates.—L.S.B.)

Mrs. Sheldon Writes

War or no war, the uplifted Christ continues to draw men unto Him, according to a letter from Mrs. Hattie Sheldon of Bellevue. We quote from her letter, written Oct. 19th:

"Two weeks ago the government gave back our car, and we praise the Lord for it. We are allowed 100 liters of gasoline for the time. Don't know if we will be able to get more or not when it comes to going to conference. The Lord is able. So far, we have been able to buy sufficient flour, although it is rationed. Butter, lard, sugar and wine are rationed. The last one doesn't interest us, of course.

Estella Myers Writes in a Letter To Miss Grace Byron:

"The crowd in the church is so large we do not have seats enough. Children sit on the floor. We are making benches.... We praise the Lord for the faithfulness of the natives...."

Mrs. Kennedy's Message

The best preparation for war is being made by hundreds of Africans on our mission stations. Mrs. Kennedy writes from the Be-Miller station:

"We certainly have been having the crowds out to service on Sundays. In the last month there have been nigh on to 300 new confessions here in the church, not counting those in the villages daily. Some who have been putting it off a long time are coming. They say they know it's the truth, and now since they don't know when the airplanes may fly over and drop their bombs and kill them, they want to get right so that if they die they'll be saved."

The Fosters Write

"We praise the Lord for the Easter offering. We will be able to carry on another year. The Lord surely does provide. If we would only look more to Him and less at circumstances and people! He will not suffer His work to stand still as long as we look to Him for the supplying of every need, and the power and strength to carry on. That is our blessed hope in the present crisis. God is above all. He rules and overrules to bring all His plans and purposes to pass. If His work is not finished in the land to which He has sent His servants, then the door will not yet close. We are sure that all of you are praying to this end. Victory for France and England means the continuation of the going forth of His blessed Word."

War or no war, the living Word of God is being given to tens of thousands surrounding our African stations. The Fosters write:

"Speaking about the Word of God, perhaps it will be interesting to you to know that we are having great blessings in circulating it among the people. We received 2000 copies of the Gospel of John just a short time ago. Then too, we had received 450 through Bro. Jobson in June; all of those are gone and about 400 of the last lot. Besides this many New Testaments have been sold. There is great desire for the things of the Lord, and everywhere many are turning to the Lord. It seems as though the Lord is working in a very special way in the hearts of the people to call them unto Himself. Ask your church to pray that God will give us strength and opportunity to go far and wide with the words of eternal life this dry season. It is the most important work that we have to do.

God has blessed us with a very fine group of men, who are interested in getting the Word to the people. They go willingly and without pay. The one great difficulty is that they themselves need much more teaching before they are ready to be placed at chapel points. If God wills we hope to send some to Bible School the beginning of the New Year."

War Brings Handicaps

One of the most difficult problems of these war times is the transfer of money to the field. Another is the problem of securing gas for our automobiles on the field. Mrs. Foster writes:

"We have not the slightest idea how our money will come through. We have received the notice from you of having forwarded two months allowance, but we have not yet heard from Mr. Warren. We are only allowed to draw 100 francs per day, and it may be when the Mandats come through that it will be necessary to wait until the full time has expired for the entire amount, before we can draw it. However, the Lord will take care of this as He does with everything else, for we have committed it to Him. The Lord is providing for us day by day so that we have need of nothing materially. We cannot tell you now how gracious the Lord has been the past month, but in many ways we have seen His hand working for us. We have the V-8 and are allowed to use it provided it is possible to obtain gas. We believe that the way will soon be opened whereby it will be possible to purchase gas as usual. Pray that it may be possible, so that we will be able to do the great amount of itineration that needs to be done during the dry season."

News From Miss Crawford

One of the most "newsy" letters that we have recently received from the field comes over the signature of Sister Mabel Crawford, in charge of our French school for boys and girls at the Bassai station, F. E. A. The letter is a bit too long to publish in full, but we will give it in a condensed form.

"Right now we can neither cash nor buy money orders out here. Fortunately Orville cashed all money orders on hand just a few days before war was declared so we don't have a lot of our money tied up in uncashed checks. . . . I imagine you think I have to live on peanuts out here but don't you worry. . . . I don't nearly live up to my allowance and I live well. Of course, prices may soar, supplies may be hard to get, money may not come through good and I'll be thankful for my "reserve fund," but the Lord will take care of us no matter what happens. Speaking of living on peanuts, I guess we could do that if we had to. This year produced a bumper crop. My French school boys had about 75 bushels in the school garden alone. Their tithe made quite a show one Sunday morning.

By the time you get this Thanksgiving will be at hand. (Did she mean Thanksgiving, 1940? This letter was dated "Oct. 7, 1939.") We received it Jan. 16, 1940! Thanks to Hitler, Stalin, and Co.! L.S.B.) . . . So you take me to task for wanting to die in Africa. . . . Yes, I know what you mean and love you for it. Even

Elaine Morrill writes the Editor:

"My uncle Bob took my picture when I had a "happy birthday—three years old." I wanted a baby brother for my "birthday-Christmas." My Aunt Anne gave me a doll, and I thought that was my baby brother; then today my daddy took me to the hospital where my mama went "to get well," and there was another baby brother in bed with her! I can't quite understand it all, but she says it's a real one, and his name is "Stevie."

if I didn't understand you and thought you were 99 1/100 per cent wrong I think I would still love you, Bro. Bauman. . . . I'm looking for the call upward just as truly as anyone else, you know that, but what I meant to say was that I was not unwilling to pay the supreme sacrifice if He so willed. I counted that cost years ago when He called me and I'm just as willing to meet it now as ever, more so since I've tasted the blessings of service in this land. What a glorious day when He shall call us to Himself, but what a day of shame it would be if He should find some of us homeward bound because fear was driving us from the place He had placed us.

We are anxious to know how long war conditions will hold up new recruits. There isn't much use of them planning on bringing out cars just to be grabbed by the government or to sit unused if we can't get gasoline. At present, gas can't be bought and if fighting gets to be in earnest it will be harder than ever to get. We will have to go back to the old days of evangelizing by push and bicycle. Personally, I think that is the better way. We rush through village after village in our cars and if we weren't in such a hurry to get some place we would have more time to be concerned about the souls we pass with merely a lifted hand in greeting. We are looking forward to as much time as possible in the bush this coming dry season.

Mail Is Censored

Our last mail, for which we waited four weeks, was all censored at Bangui. Only one of your letters was opened. I guess they read one, decided you were harmless and didn't waste time on the other one.

Right after lunch yesterday Miss Myers and I started by push to visit a village five or six miles up the line where we want to put a new teacher. On the way back we stopped to visit a couple of classes that have recently been organized.

We are having almost a mass desire to read these days. People are calling for teachers who can teach them to read the Word of God; and not only the children, but women and old men as well are trying to learn. Some of the chiefs are even attending the classes. How we do long and pray for the time to come when every Karre who desires may read God's Word for himself. He is wonderfully blessing Miss Myers as she is speedily getting it ready for printing and we hope to have hundreds ready to read it by the time it is printed. . . . If we don't have some help here next year I don't see how I can conscientiously persuade myself that I'm in the Lord's will to be content to spend next year teaching beginning French to such a small group of 10 or 11 years old. If our other work was adequately being taken care of I'd go at the task without a word, but the Bassai work is not getting a square deal right now. Oh well, I shouldn't bother you with such a detail of field policy and perhaps the Lord will work it all out when our conference meets.

May God bless you day by day in your large ministry for Him, may His blessing rest upon The Brethren Church and guide through any deep waters.

Yours in Christ and Africa, till He come."

Maconaghy's Not Discouraged

Not discouraged in Argentina! From a private letter received from our Brother Hill Maconaghy we quote:

"Dolly and I are not in the least discouraged with things. We know the future of this work is as bright as the promises of God, and these promises are yea and amen in Christ Jesus.

"Recently we have been reading the life story of that great missionary, Goforth of China, and it has been a great blessing to us. One of the chapter headings is a statement by Hudson Taylor: "How often do we attempt work for God to the limit of our incompetency rather than to the limit of God's omnipotency.

As we look out upon the work carried on in this land, the above statement seems to be sadly true. To our knowledge there has never been, nor is there now in any place here in the Argentine a real turning of things upside down for the Lord—men in great numbers being saved. This has taken place many other places in the world, even in far harder places than this is.

"Romanism is no excuse, as I see it, for this not being possible; for Romanism is nothing but idolatry, and Paul had a wonderful time watching the Lord work in idol-filled Ephesus.

"Hudson Taylor seems to have hit the nail on the head, as far as Argentina is concerned—of course, unknowingly. Certainly, as we look at ourselves and then round about us there is tremendous incompetency, as far as accomplishing the great work of evangelizing this land immediately is concerned. And if we tackle the job no further than the border of our incompetency, verily it will never be accomplished. But the Lord has given us a wonderful revelation in this statement of Taylor's, and also in the well known verses in Matt. 28:18,19. He says, 'All power is given unto me in heaven and earth. Go ye therefore. . . .' According to this, we are convinced that He never wants us to go to the limit of our incompetency, but the limit of His omnipotency—"all power. . . in earth."

Walk In Faith

"Argentina is still a part of this old sin cursed earth in which He has been given all power. Therefore, the immediate evangelization of this land is possible. Lack of men, money, or anything else is only part of our incompetency; but we are not to stay within these limits. We must step by faith over on to His omnipotency. This we are, by His grace, doing now. Pray for us that His purposes may be fully accomplished in and through us.

"Perhaps you would like to know about the tract distribution which is being carried on systematically here in Rio Cuarto and also in other places. Brother Wagner has been covering about seven or eight towns in this manner. Here in Rio Cuarto, Dolly and I have had the great privilege of thus bearing our testimony for the Lord. Several thousand tracts have been distributed thus far in this city. One time we take one tract with us; the next time we cover that same section, we take another. We take opposite sides of the street, and leave a tract at every house, in the stores, and give them to those on the street. Numerous opportunities have been ours to witness further to inquirers.

"Day before yesterday I had the opportunity to speak with three interested men in a business establishment. Yesterday two young men followed us for half a block and made inquiries about our meetings. I gave them more literature and they promised to come. Also, yesterday a nurse receiving a tract and having read it, came back and asked Dolly for more to take to the children in the hospital. She said she would ask permission of the Sister, and while she may have refused, apparently the nurse thought that they should be distributed. Instances like these occur every day we go out. We believe that in this way many people shall be reached for Christ who would never be reached through the services here in the mission. Some would not come here, while others could not because of distance. We are praying for a special tract fund to provide the literature for this work."

Word From China

Mrs. Rosemary Foulke Wang, a member of the Long Beach church, sends the Secretary-Treasurer some "joy bells," even from war-torn China. Mrs. Wang and her mother, Mrs. Rose M. Foulke, are connected with the Evangelistic Orphanage and Rescue, Tamingfu, Hopei, China. She writes, under date of Nov. 25th:

"Joyful bells, joyful bells, even from far off war-torn China, comes, as I heartily wish you a very 'happy Christmas' on China's bamboo paper. No pretty Christmas card comes from uncivilized Tamingfu, as you so lovingly send me yearly....

"You cannot understand the full blessing of that 'peace' until you experience the conditions that surround us....Consequences of war in the form of famine, pestilence, floods and utter despair are raging, unchecked among the thousands. Malaria, dysentery and flu are taking toll of lives.

"I wish you could picture 'li'l Rosemarv' with her basket (I call myself Martha and mother Mary) as I tread along in ministry among the many needy....

"I found one old lady—starving for two days—kneeling on the cold hard floor, praying for help for herself and bed-ridden son, the only child of her widowhood, paralyzed from gun-shock! A silent prayer, but her face lit with joy! A wonderful lesson to me! I silently prayed I would give her joy, happiness, and a vision of Jesus to help her to carry on at her post.

"Another young woman awaits my call. She too, only twenty years old tomorrow is suddenly paralyzed. Lord, help me to leave her a new vision of Jesus. I pray each one will not see me, but Jesus, as I meet and serve them for His sake.

"Whole villages of people sit huddled in their cheerless homes, starving, freezing, no one caring—no hope and no God! Lord, help us to do our best for them, that the loving, caring Christ be revealed to them and comfort them. In your far away home at this happy time, do not forget li'l Rosemary as she treads around ministering unto even these, precious souls in God's sight. Pray for us.....

"May our Lord richly bless you and yours this coming year, and spare you from war and its consequences."

From Mrs. Wagner

Mrs. Ricardo Wagner of Almafuerte, Prov. Cordoba, under date of Dec. 13, 1939, from Berrotaran:

"As you see, we are now in Berrotaran. We finished our Vacation Bible School in Elena last week, and this week began here. We had better attendance in Elena than we had anticipated and if I have not miscounted, 42 notebooks will be given, in all. That represents 10 mornings and 5 nights of work, because we have the classes for children in the morning and classes for adults in the evening, taking two lessons each evening. With practices for a Christmas program thrown in for good measure, it makes a pretty stiff program. O yes, and if I counted all of the fleas that were present the attendance would be somewhat higher!....

"My children, especially the two girls, have red-eyed, sneezing coughing colds, and I'm afraid it's going to be measles... If that is what my kiddies have and it is going to effect the attendance any, we may have to postpone the school. I would like to finish, now that we have begun, for we still have the school in Almafuerte to think about and we would like to have some more special meetings in the three towns before summer is over...

P.S. This did not get off when I intended it should....It was measles that the girls were coming down with, and we also had some very rainy weather at the same time; so Bible School was postponed. Measles aren't any special fun at any time, but having them to take care of when one is away from home is extra troublesome....If the Lord wills, we hope to have the Bible School, beginning next Wednesday.

TOO GOOD TO HEAR ALONE

"Too good, this Word, to hear alone!" Thus thought

Samaria's daughter standing by the well;

And, hastening village - ward she quickly brought

Others to hear what Jesus had to tell.

"Too good to hear alone, and I must share

With other folks the gladness of this Word."

So spoke a daughter of Ceylon, who ne'er

Before the gospel of God's grace had heard.

And we—who know the power of Jesus' name

And countless precious gospel blessings own—

Can we account ourselves as free from blame

Whilst myriad souls in heathen bondage groan?

Oh, may these women make us feel some shame

And deem that word "too good to hear alone!"

A LETTER FROM AFRICA

The Juniors of the First Brethren Church of Long Beach received the following letter from Mrs. Sheldon, one of our missionaries in Africa. They liked it so much they decided to share it with you.

Dear Juniors:

How are you this A. M.? To tell the truth I don't believe that most of you are yet out of bed, for it is only about 5:30 in the morning in California. We see the sun about eight hours before you do. It looks as if it might rain this P. M. Just two more weeks of rainy weather and then the grass will dry up and die and the natives will go on their big hunts. They don't get much meat to eat during the year, for they have no guns, but how happy they are when they kill an animal in the bush fires.

Last night a buffalo passed right through our place. Of course we didn't know it until we saw his tracks this morning. The children here are afraid to go outside at night without carrying a torch, for there are so many leopards lurking in the dark places. Quite often one of them kills some person, but more often they kill our goats. About two weeks ago when our goats were out grazing, a leopard jumped out and killed four of them. Last night the natives caught a leopard in a trap and today they have been having great fun carrying him around on a stick, rejoicing that he will kill no more of their people or goats.

The old hippo in the river near us often bellows during the night. When he gets hungry he raids someone's corn field. Sometimes he visits our garden and gets what he can find to eat. His big feet just about spoil things wherever he walks. There are elephants around too, but we saw them only once. In August a hunter killed one, and we had elephant stew from the trunk—and it was quite tough! There are crocodiles in the river also, and some big fish. Once a lion came and broke into our goat pen killing 11 goats. He had also killed many people. But that was some time ago, and we haven't seen one since our people killed that one.

But you know we aren't hunting for animals, neither are we looking for precious minerals; but we are hunting for men, and women, and children, and telling them about the Lord Jesus who died for them. How would you like to live in a land where the name of Jesus was not known—a land where you prayed to idols of wood or clay? I'm sure you wouldn't like to live in such a land, and you or I wouldn't want anyone else to live such a life. That is the reason we are here to tell them about the Lord Jesus. Many children in this land are taking Him as their Savior. Aren't you glad that you can help them to find their loving Savior? You can, by your prayers; and if it were not for your gifts, missionaries could not come out here to bring them this "good news."

This afternoon Mr. Sheldon is conducting the funeral of one of our Christian women. Had she died a few years back, she would have gone to her grave without knowing that Christ ever came to earth. Her relatives would be trying to offer food to the evil spirits, so they wouldn't take another of their family. They would be wailing and falling on the ground. But what are they doing today? Their hearts are heavy, it is true, for they sorely miss their mother; but when they lay her away they know they will see her again in heaven where there will be no more weeping, no more sorrow. How we praise the Lord that they have heard and accepted the "good affair of God."

We have been told of the gift which you boys and girls gave at last Easter time to help tell some more people about our Lord Jesus. We want to thank you and ask you to pray for us as we labor for Him in this land.

In His Name,

MRS. C. B. SHELDON.

What Other Boys and Girls Are Doing

The Juniors of the First Brethren Church of Fort Wayne, Ind., in appreciation of what the Lord has done for them, deny themselves gum, candy and other things they would like to have, and put the money in a Thank-you Bank on Sunday morning. This thank-you money is used for missionary purposes. The first two Sundays in February they contributed $1.50 to this fund.

Answer to Last Week's Bible Puzzle

Jn. 15:4.

Our Bible Character Alphabet

Answer to last week's Bible Character: Delilah.

E was a man who was so hairy his blind father mistook his brother wearing goat skins for him. You should know E's name without looking it up, but you will want to read the story again in Gen. 27.

Some Things For Which to Pray

Ask God for a large Easter offering for foreign missions.

Ask God to bless and use the missionaries' children with their parents in foreign lands.

Pray for the missionaries' children in America, whose parents are in foreign lands. You know how homesick you would get so far away from your parents.

Ask God to make it possible for more missionaries to go to the field. War in Europe is keeping some of them from going out.

TOPIC FOR MAR. 17, 1940

Abraham, The Hero of Faith

(GEN. 22:1-19)

Suggestions for the Leader

During the year of 1940 we will make a special study of sacred biography. Outstanding persons will be considered and the outstanding trait or traits will be pointed out. The lessons will fail to accomplish much if we simply throw out a volume of material without drawing applications and lessons for ourselves.

Abraham stands as the great illustration of faith. He lived a life of faith. The writer of Hebrews said that he went out not knowing whither he went. His trust was in God and when He spoke to him to go, that was enough. One of the marvelous things to be said of this man of faith is that he believed God and it was counted to him for righteousness. Once a covenant was given to Abraham that meant he would have a son. As a result the descendants would be numerous. However there came a time when Abraham and his wife were very old and yet no children were born. As long as there was life there was hope with the man of faith. Somehow God would fulfil His word. Then after Isaac was born and had grown to be a strong boy, the test came to Abraham to sacrifice the son. Now Abraham did not question the wisdom or purpose of God. He proceeded to carry out the instructions.

Be sure to tell all the speakers that outlines will be given as a guide for talks. These can not be written in full by the topic editor. Let each person add original material. Use a concordance and try to get additional material to bear upon your subject. It is hoped that during the new year we can develop more people to give talks freely instead of merely reading clippings. Do your best, a little at a time and we shall have a better meeting.

1. THE DEFINITION OF ABRAHAM'S

FAITH. Gen. 15:6; 18:21; 19:27-28.

c. He was willing to be obedient to what God had for him.

d. He demonstrated an element of trust.

2. ABRAHAM'S PILGRIM FAITH.

Gen. 12:14; Heb. 11:8-10,13.

a. He possessed the spirit of adventure common to frontiersmen.

b. He possessed the courage to withstand the enemies who preoccupied the land.

c. He believed that life consisted of more than the abundance of things that a man possesses.

d. He was as a city dweller moving into the "back woods."

e. He looked for a permanent city whose builder and maker is God.

3. ABRAHAM AND LOT. Gen. 13:5-18.

a. Abraham was willing at last to leave all to follow God.

b. God's covenant was not confirmed to Abraham until he was released from the hindering influence of Lot.

c. Abraham turned to the hill country by faith and God gave him mountain top experiences.

d. His success was not a mushroom success. This is not God's way of victory.

e. He lived a life of victory. He prospered and became strong even to the extent that he could help the weak brethren when they were in trouble.

4. NOTHING HELD BACK. Gen. 22:1-8;

Heb. 11:17-19; James 2:21-23.

b. The birth of the promised son was a miracle and yet given up as dead on the altar.

c. Abraham's faith was so great that he believed that God would raise up his son from the dead.

d. We can never have rest or be perfectly blest until all on the altar we lay.

e. God gives back to us, as He did to Abraham, more than we sacrifice.

5. ABRAHAM THE FRIEND OF GOD.

Gen. 18:17-19; James 2:23.

a. It is a great compliment to be a friend or servant of the living God.

(2) Offering up Isaac as a sacrifice.

c. Faith without works is dead.

d. Others could see that Abraham walked with God.

e. Power comes to those who trust God. (Abraham was victorious in conflicts).

THE WORK OF AN ENEMY

Preparation for the lesson

The home and foreign missionary magazines are full of incidents illustrating the work of Satan where the gospel is being proclaimed. Make this a missionary lesson, using such items to illustrate the points in the lesson.

Approach to the lesson

People who have lots of friends are usually likeable. Those who have lots of enemies are usually folks with whom no one can get along. But sometimes it is the likeable people who have the most bitter enemies. The reason is usually that their enemies are jealous and do mean things to try to make others think less of them.

You would not think that anyone as good, kind, loving and merciful as God could ever have an enemy. But God's great enemy is the bitterest foe of all. He was jealous because God had power and glory he did not have, so tried to overthrow God (Isa. 14:12-15). He could not do this, and ever since has been trying to spoil both God's work and God's plan.

Scriptures bearing on the lesson

1. Sometimes a nice toy (a stream-lined wagon or a beautiful doll) makes a child popular with other children in the neighborhood. Every once in a while a jealous child will steal such a toy so he can ruin it, not wanting the owner to have the popularity it brings. Satan does not want people to receive God's Word into their hearts, because that pleases God, so he watches his chance to steal it (Mt. 13:19). (Illustrations from the Bible Coach work in South America are especially appropriate here.)

2. When your baby brother is fussy because he is tired, your mother rocks him to sleep. In the Greek, I Jn. 5:19 pictures Satan lulling the world to sleep in his lap. He does not want them to be concerned about the judgment ahead if they continue in their sins. (Home missions illustrations of people's indifference to the gospel would be fitting here.)

3. What would you think of one who took a squirt gun and shot acid into another's eyes to make him blind? Satan blinds people's eyes so they will not see how wonderful salvation is (II Cor. 4:4).

4. If a lion escaped from the zoo and was running around your neighborhood, what would you do? God tells us to be watchful because Satan, like a roaring lion, seeks to destroy those who try to serve God (I Pet. 5:8). (Illustrations from Africa showing the temptations to fall back into sin which the native Christians have to face would be good here.)

5. Perhaps there are boys in your neighborhood who like to play mean tricks. Satan is always playing tricks, called wiles in Eph. 6:11. V. 12-18 show how we can be prepared for his tricks.

*Editorials by President Alva J. McClainPrayer and Can openers

At a gathering of eminent British doctors and surgeons a very famous French chef was asked to address the meeting. Among other interesting things said by Chef Emile Aymoz, he deserves praise for the following remark: "In the old days a meal was opened with prayer; nowadays in many homes it is opened with a can opener."

Now, like all humorous sayings, the reader should not take this too literally. Doubtless there are can openers used in many a home where there is also a practice of genuine prayer. In general our daily diet has been improved greatly by the men who have learned the art of canning foods safely and cheaply. The cult of the can opener is not necessarily anti-Christian. In fact it has saved much energy and time for those whose duty it is to prepare the family meals.

But we wonder at times just how these saved minutes are being used today. Is there more prayer in the home because there is more leisure time? Or does the can opener merely give the family more time to spend at the movies or in other similar profitless pursuits? It all boils down to this: modern inventions are good or bad, depending on how we use them.

Why Don't Monkeys Talk?

For a long time among the worshipers of the evolutionary idol there have been certain scientists who felt that it would help their cause tremendously if only they could show that animals had the faculty of speech. And so there has been much study and observation of the great apes, but with little to show for the labor. At Yale University, for example, the institution is supporting a class of chimpanzees for the professors to watch. And Dr. Robert Yerkes thinks that these brutes might make the grade and talk "if they could develop a little more imagination;" and this end might be accomplished, he argues, if they could only "grow a little more tissue in the fore part of the brain."

The common man, who knows little about these profound matters, can only hope that — if and when the professors get the apes started to talking — they will not repeat some of the foolish notions at present being uttered by their teachers. When Balaam's ass began to talk, we recall, he displayed more sense than his owner.

The shortest and most complete answer to all this professorial nonsense, in my judgment, is as follows: The reason animals do not talk is because they have nothing to say! If a chimpanzee really had something to say, he would find a way to say it. This is just another way of reminding the reader that language has no value of any consequence except as a way of expressing ideas. Thought and idea precede language. Words are merely the symbols of ideas. Whenever animals begin to have ideas, they will begin to talk, and not before. That is why no animals will ever talk, because man alone was made in the image of his Creator. And in all the brute world there could be found nothing "answering to" the first man as he came from the hand of his Maker (Gen. 2: 18 ARV marginal rendering).

The Rickety Bridge of the "Bridge-Builders"

In the face of prophetic warnings from the Word of God, and in spite of the cries of faithful watchmen upon the walls, the drive for the unification of Christendom moves on inexorably in many devious and subtle ways. In the Inter-Seminarian, an organ distributed by the American Association of Theological Seminaries, there is an illustration of this drive in an appeal written by Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, noted Presbyterian leader and recently the head of Princeton Seminary.

Dr. Stevenson writes, "The present generation of ecclesiastical leaders is preparing the way for this unity.....The causes of division are too unimportant to justify separations.....Theological students should therefore acquaint themselves with the world situation which can be met only by a united church; with the oneness which the church of Christ should exhibit as His body; with the movements culminating in a World Council of Churches, all of which contemplate one holy cath olic apostolic united church.....Thus they will become 'bridge-builders'."

Now all this has a certain plausibility that will deceive many a sincere Christian. Suppose that all the various branches of the great sprawling tree of Christendom could be brought together into this "World Council of Churches," would not that be a magnificent achievement? Think of making it possible for all the hundreds of millions of professing Christians to be able at last to speak with one voice in social and religious matters! Such an organization could almost direct the course of the world. Well, according to the prophetic Word of God, this is exactly what will happen at the end of the present age. The "bridge" will be built, and across that bridge sinful humanity will attempt to pick its precarious way to the mirage of a man-made millenium. But the "bridge" will fail. To say this is not popular today. It will gain you the bitter enmity of men in high places. You will be counted an obstacle to "spiritual and social progress." But it is nevertheless the truth.

There is a genuine spiritual unity in the true church of God, a unity of the Spirit, a unity which does transcend all human barriers, a unity which springs out of that divine Life which became the common possession of all true believers on the day of Pentecost. But this true unity is centered in Christ. He is the Bridge that spans the chasm of human futility and failure "so safely for man." All other ways, no matter by what high-sounding names they are called, lead only to temporal disaster and finally to eternal doom.

Even The Doctors Do Not Agree

President Roosevelt, in one of his recent speeches, rendered a condensed financial accounting of the present state of the Union. It is unnecessary to recall the exact figures—they were astronomical in size—but the point the President was making had to do with the exact indebtedness of the government. Reading them as he gave them, the figures to the ordinary man sounded plausible. But a few days later Mr. Thomas E. Dewey, presidential candidate, took the President's figures and "proved" to his own satisfaction at least that Mr. Roosevelt had made a little mistake of about $26,500,000,000.

Now the editorial columns of The Brethren Missionary Herald are not the place for political partisanship, and I have no intention of recommending the figures of either Mr. Dewey or Mr. Roosevelt. Readers of the Herald, so far as I am concerned, are at liberty to make their own choices. But the point I want to make is this: Here are two of the leading politicians of the United States. One has been our President for a period of nearly eight years, with the bare possibility of actually being reelected for a third term. The other man is also regarded with high respect by millions, and it is possible that he may become the next President of this the greatest nation in the world today. According to the working of democratic processes, we have here in a sense the two most important men of the present hour. To one of them, in a very real sense, we shall soon have to commit ourselves and our hopes temporally in the gravest crisis that the nations of the world have ever experienced. Yet in attempting to diagnose rightly the immediate problems of the nation, they disagree by the staggering amount of twenty-six billions!

The more I think about this, the more I am inclined to get discouraged about the resources of mere human leadership. Is it possible, with all our universities and colleges and foundations, that the Democrats and Republicans cannot get together in this tremendously important matter and select a few wise men—men who can count and add up figures—and thus find out who has made what Mr. Dewey calls "the greatest financial error in history"? This is doubtless what any sensible and unprejudiced spectator from another world would suggest. But you may be quite sure that nothing like this will be done. And so probably about half of the people will go on believing Mr. Roosevelt's figures and the rest will think that Mr. Dewey is right. Government "by the people and of the peo-

"GOD LOVETH A CHEERFUL GIVER"

It is our lot in the office to be recipients of all types of letters. Some express a glowing warmth of love and prayer in our behalf, some express dislike, some are just matter-of-fact business letters—all go into the make-up of the routine of our service. Some stir us and move us as we see the depth of sacrifice some are making to aid in the carrying on of the work of the Lord, and we cannot help but know that the Lord is well pleased with such a spirit and act, even as of old (Mark 12:41-44).

The following letter enclosing 20¢ came to our office just recently:

"Dear Christian Workers,

I haven't much to give. Maybe it will help a little. You all have my prayers in your work."

As we read this, our souls were stirred profoundly and our prayer ascended to the throne that a deep blessing may rest upon this donor. This one incident has moved us to labor more fervently and has caused us to realize the scope of the effect of such true and humble service. Thus, we are passing it on to you.—From the Business Office of THE BRETHREN MISSIONARY HERALD CO., Fort Wayne, Ind.

ple" is the best we have in this present world, but those who have read their Bibles carefully find themselves at times longing for the coming of our Lord and the establishment of His kingdom, when the government shall be "on His shoulder." In that day men will not be staggering in the darkness of human uncertainty, but they shall have the truth in all their problems.

Toy Guns, Movies, and Human Depravity

The city of Chicago has been stirred up considerably over the selling of toy guns. Many anxious mothers, supported by legal and other authorities, argue that the sale and possession of toy guns should be prohibited by law because the children play "cops and robbers" and thus the way is paved for the later criminal use of real guns when they grow up. Another angle to the problem is that real hold-ups have been staged by the use of toy guns that looked like the real thing.

Now this may be all very well, but are not these mothers and judges concentrating on symptoms rather than the disease? The other day as I drove up to the curb in a certain city and stopped, a little four-year old boy dressed up like a cow-boy sneaked up behind a post, drew a bead on me with his "trusty gun," and began to bang away. Now there may be some people silly enough to believe that little boys just naturally know what to do with a toy gun when they get one in their hands, and that if they could stop the manufacture of such guns the little boys would know nothing about shooting with guns. As a matter of fact, however, the little boys do not get their wild ideas from toy guns, but from the movies where they see what guns are for. Give a toy gun to the average child, brought up in a decent home, with his mind unspoiled by vicious movies, and he would not know what to do with it. But you might stop the manufacture and sale of toy guns, and your movie child will turn sticks into guns. It is not a toy gun problem, but a movie problem.

Even this, however, does not touch the spiritual problem. If you wonder why little children take so easily to guns and shooting and killing, the answer will be found within, not in mere external things. "From within, out of the heart..... proceed evil thoughts..... murders" (Mk. 7:21). If all the movies were shut, and all the toy gun stores closed, the human heart would remain the same in its unmeasured possibilities for evil, whether in children or in adults. Only the power and blood of the Lord can deal with that.

Gone With The Wind

On the subject of the theater and its players, I am not at all well informed. It is not my habit to read discussions and gossip of Hollywood, nor to listen to it over the radio. But there are some things about Hollywood that could be missed by no one unless he happened to be deaf, dumb and blind. For the past two years at least there has been an incessant public blare in building up the public mind for the movie production of "Gone With The Wind." First, there was the book itself. Whooped up by the critics, people who had not read a book for years ran to the public library and got on the waiting list. Those who had the money bought a copy. Next we heard how the great companies were bidding for the movie rights. Then for several months the public was choked with interminable arguments about who would play the part of its rather tough-minded heroine. When that was at last settled, we were fed on the magnitude and cost of the production. It was to be truly "colossal." Then came the grand opening at some great city of the south, I forget where, with governors, society celebrities, and other famous people in attendance. And now the newspapers are advertising "Gone With The Wind" dresses, prints, patterns, costumes, sweaters. All this fanfare of publicity was planned evidently with but one end in view—to bring millions of people to the ticket offices at the steepest prices ever charged for a similar production. And the end has been reached. The millions are attending, and the money is rolling in.

Now we come to the climax, or the anti-climax, depending on your personal view of the case. The leading lady, if you wish to call her that, has become the central figure in two divorce suits. Her own husband has sued her for a divorce, naming another man as the co-respondent. And the wife of the other man has sued him for a divorce naming the leading lady as co-respondent. In less polite language, this means that both the leading lady and her paramour were charged with the sin of adultery. According to newspaper reports, Hollywood was not surprised at the suits, which will not be contested, and the two co-respondents will be married as soon as the legal matters are settled.

If you are old-fashioned enough to suppose that all this will cause the lady to lose her reputation and job in Hollywood, or keep the "church people" from paying their money to see her picture, you are mistaken. In these days of moral darkness and spiritual apostasy, it may even help the attendance. And if you are wondering what have become of America's Christian ideals of marriage and the home, it is not facetious to say these things have just about gone with the wind. Now we are about to reap the "whirlwind," thanks in part to the unspiritual preachers who either defend the movies or else lack the courage to tell the truth about them.

Perhaps the first recorded young men's prayer meeting is that mentioned in Dan, 2:17-18.

Contrast the eight "woes" of Christ (Matt. 23) with the eight "blesseds" in Matt. 5.

EDUCATION IN FRANCE

By Garner Hoyt

Foreign Missionary Candidate and Junior in Grace Theological Seminary

(Editorial Note: As some readers of the Herald already know, Brother Garner Hoyt went to Europe about two years ago and spent a year and a half in language study for the purpose of preparing himself under our board in French Equatorial Africa. He returned last year and entered Grace to complete his theological course. In addition to his regular work as a student, he is conducting a special class in the French language for the benefit of the five students who will sail for Africa next summer if war conditions permit. Knowing that Garner literally walked by faith while taking his work in France, I have asked him to write a series of articles on conditions in France and his experiences while in that country. This is the first of the series.—A. J. M.)

During my study of the French language in Paris, many and interesting were the experiences that came to me. And the Lord made all these things possible, for He provided the means to go; He blessed me and guided me in all my study; He cared for all my needs and protected me from the harms of the world around me; and He brought me safely home that I might continue with my Bible training preparing for the Master's work in the foreign field. So it is with thankfulness of heart that I have consented to write this little series of articles telling of what the Lord has done for me during my stay in France. It is my prayer that these words might be not only of interest but a blessing to those who read them; and above all that His name might be glorified.

I have chosen to devote this first article to the matter of education in France, relating just a few of the outstanding facts of interest. As a word of explanation I might say that these articles are composed wholly of my own observations and from information that has come to me personally while I was in France.

Perhaps the most outstanding and widely recognized fact concerning the standard of education in France is that it is superior by far to that of our own country. This fact is no doubt due to the system of education that is used in that country, and to account for that system, one must look back in the history of France to Napoleon who was a genius not only in military affairs but also in the field of education. He played a great part in this field by bringing into existence the secondary school called "Le Lycee." That school could be compared to our high school and junior college combined. Through these past years, France has developed a system of education which ranks foremost among the educational systems of the world.

This is quite evident from the fact that Paris and other large cities of France are literally filled with foreign students from every nation on earth. It can almost be considered a custom in this day that those who wish to pursue higher education naturally go to Paris. Paris is fast becoming a city of foreigners. It is of interest to know that already there are more foreigners in Paris than there are French people.

2-Year-Olds In School

A few words about the types of schools in France would perhaps be of interest. It will surely be astonishing to you as it was to me to know that many French children start to school at the age of two years. They usually spend about four years in this school called "l'ecole maternelle" and then they enter "l'ecole primere" where they remain until the age of about twelve or thirteen, depending upon the pupil. On leaving this school the child does ones of three things, which depends to a great extent upon the financial standing of his family. He can continue in a general course of education, or he can enter a special school where he begins at once his study in a certain profession, or he can drop out of school entirely. A great number of French children do the latter, not because it costs so much to go to school in France, for that is not the case; but rather because the people are so poor. I am speaking of course from our point of view.

Then the next group, the middle class financially, is able to continue in school. They decide upon their life work at once and concentrate their time and efforts in that direction. They would enter such schools as "l'ecole pratique de commerce et d'industrie," "l'ecole de metier," "l'ecole d'agriculture," or "l'ecole enfantine militaire," etc., as the child with his parents decide. Those who are of families more well-to-do nearly always enter "Le Lycee" where they spend about six years in a general course, but of course majoring in a certain field. A very small percentage of these students ever go any further in their training than this. However those who are pursuing official positions in the government and in the army continue on in "l'ecole polytechnique" and in "l'ecole des mines," etc.

In these schools and universities, however, it is not a matter of just entering and following the desired courses. It is really a very difficult thing to be admitted into these government schools. One Thursday afternoon during the time that I was in Paris, I took a walk down to "l'ecole polytechnique," to see a young Frenchman by the name of Paul de France, one whom I had learned to know through correspondence even before leaving this country for France. In the course of a short conversation concerning the school, he told me that each year there are about 2500 young men who apply for entrance in this school and only 250 are ever accepted. This is all decided by an extremely difficult examination that is given to each applicant desiring to enter.

Examinations Are Severe

In France one must be a good student to go very far in education. It is not so much a matter of money but rather of talent and intelligence. At the completion of all their schools there is a final examination that the student must pass in order to receive the degree or diploma. He looks forward constantly to those final examinations as a matter of life and death. One can understand that it would be a constant strain and worry for a student to wonder through six long years whether he were going to pass or not. The failure of a student is a most serious disappointment. It is no wonder that some of them lose their minds. Just before leaving France I read of a young boy who, having failed his examination, went out into the school yard at once and took his life. So far as I am acquainted with the educational system in France that is the only thing that I do not like. It is too hard upon the minds of its youth. It is true that the nation finds its best minds that way, but at the same time it is certainly a terrible misfortune for the weaker ones.

In closing I would like to leave just a few sentences concerning the school where I took my language training, and then just a word concerning the religious education in France. The language school is called in French "l'Alliance Française." It is a branch of the "University of Paris," and is devoted entirely to the teaching of the French language, and therefore its students are all foreigners. For the missionary, that school is truly a foreign missionary field. There are students from every nation in the world before whom the missionary can bear a testimony for his Lord.

System Is Unique

The system used in this school is quite unique but very effective and efficient. Each day the new students that have come in are taken into a room where they are given a short dictation and a few elementary questions on grammar. From that the professor is able to place the student in the class where he can make the best progress. He continues there until he is asked to go to the next class. There are three types of diplomas given in the school: "Le diplôme moyen" which concerns the language alone; "Le certificat d'aptitude," which covers the same material but gives the possessor the right to teach the language to foreigners; then the highest diploma is "Le diplôme supérieur" which covers not only the language but also the history and literature of France and gives the person the right to teach the history and literature as well as the actual language. A student must have an average of seventy before he can even take an examination, and then it is very seldom that more than half of the students pass the examination.

Religious education in France is a field that is sadly neglected in the Protestant church. And yet the influence of the Protestant church is remarkable when one realizes that the percentage of Protestant churches in France is so very small compared to that of the Catholic churches. It is true that France flourishes with religious institutions of the Catholic church, but it is quite the opposite on the Protestant side. So far as I know there are only two Protestant Christian institutions in all of France, one seminary in Paris and one Bible Institute just outside of Paris at Nogent sur Marne. As to the system of education in these institutions, it is practically the same as that of our own Christian schools in America. With these few facts one can easily understand that the low moral and spiritual condition of France as a nation is due to the lack of true Protestant Christian training.

Financial Report of Grace Theological Seminary

October 1, 1939 - January 20, 1940

The reader should note that this report does not include all contributions to the date of this issue of the Herald but only to Jan. 20. Later receipts will be reported in the issue of next month. Also this report does not include a 1,000.00 dollar annuity received from Brother Abe Bowman of Long Beach, California, since numbered receipts are issued only for gifts which are immediately available for expenditure, and no part of the principal of any annuity is ever expended during the lifetime of the donor.

The seminary desires to express gratitude to all of our many friends for the gifts sent in, and especially for those who have prayed for the work. The Lord has answered in a multitude of ways, and we have learned the blessing of walking by faith in His promises.

While the need is not immediate, we feel led to ask all friends to pray that God will provide in the future for the erection of our own building. For some steward of the Lord desiring to leave a useful memorial fund, surely there could be no finer investment than to provide a place where men and women might be taught the Word of God and prepared for His service until the coming of our Lord. We ask that each one add this definite request to the daily prayer list.

Competing or Cooperating — Which?

On almost every hand today, we are witnessing the tragedy of broken homes, in which strained relationships between husband and wife have brought separation, and in many instances permanent divorce. We are witnessing a similar tragedy in all too many churches and Bible Schools, all because of strained relationships between the two. Where such conditions prevail, disastrous results will inevitably follow unless a reconciliation is effected and an indissoluble union between the two is formed.

Take for instance the spirit of cooperation which has given way to a spirit of competition. We do not question the value of competition of the right sort in trade and industry. It has its place. But any church or Bible School has enough competition as it is from the world, without fostering it within the church. If the Lord has blessed the work of the Bible School in such a manner that great numbers are enrolled and in regular attendance, and that interest and enthusiasm are at a high pitch, praise the Lord for such blessings. It should be so. However, it is the responsibility of the Bible School leadership to so direct the school that it will fall right in line with the church, that the two shall work hand in hand not independent-ly of each other as is so often the case.

Not independence, but interdependence is what we need; not rivalry, but harmony. In fact this spirit of independence has become so widespread that the Bible School has become a substitute for the church. The school has its opening services, its classes, its reports, its benediction and good-bye and not only a large percentage of the members of the school, but many times the officers and teachers as well, call it a day and go home. They do not attend the church services, nor do they frequent the prayer meeting. As far as they are concerned, the Bible School is the main tent and the church is merely a side-show. And be sure that where such a spirit prevails, in which the Bible School is an end in itself, such a school will never be of any value to a church.

A bit of inventory of our own situation would certainly be in order. If your church and school are competing instead of cooperating, then find out just why. And no matter wherein the fault may be found, whether in the pastor, the teachers, the superintendent, the officers, or the members of the church or school, get busy at once and correct the situation. Unite your efforts for the Lord in order that souls might be won for Christ. After all, souls come first and all other things are but secondary.

The following is the third in a series of studies in evangelism in the Bible School, written by Rev. Harry H. MacArthur, and published as a part of the correspondence course on Child Evangelism by the Bible Institute of Los Angeles.

Important Factors In Child Evangelism

1. THE SEED.

"The seed is the Word of God" (Lu. 8:11).

Our Lord so speaks of the Bible or the gospel in the parable of the sower (Lu. 8:4-15).

The calling, commission, and mission of the Bible School worker is that of sowing this seed.

We ought to be diligent and earnest in sowing and scattering this precious life-giving and wonder-working seed in the hearts and lives of those in our Bible School.

It is this seed (Word of God) that creates faith (Rom. 10:17), and when applied by the Holy Spirit imparts spiritual life to the soul (I Pet. 1:23 and Jn 3:6).

2. THE SOIL.

"The soil is surely the pupil's mind and heart" (Iu. 8:15).

The study, preparation and cultivation of this soil is the delicate task of the Bible School teacher and worker.

No pastor can effectively and successfully minister to his people if he is not acquainted with the home life, habits, needs, problems, short-comings, weaknesses, heartaches, and aspirations. It is just so with the Bible School worker: he must be familiar with the home life and its conditions, the habits, companionships, reading and amusements of the pupil, if he is to be successful in sowing and applying the Word of God to his heart and mind, that it may bear fruit unto eternal life. In other words he must know the pupil.

3. THE SOWER.

"And let us not be weary in well doing; for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not" (Gal. 6:9).

The teacher, the parent, the superintendent, the pastor, all are sowers. In song, in sermon, in the lesson taught, in the word of loving exhortation, in the prayer, in personal interest, the letter, the leaflet, the pressure of the hand, the example of a sincere Christian life—in one, or several, or all of these ways, the seed is being surely sown.

The essential in it all is that there be a vital contact with the Master on the part of the sower, a real love for the work, and skill in the sowing.

4. SATURATION.

"They that sow in tears shall reap in joy" (Ps. 126:5).

This is the brooding of a heart over a soul. It is the burden or anxious interests of the worker for souls, that God has laid upon his heart. There can be no harvest without this "rain" of the Spirit (Isa. 66:8; Acts 20:31).

This burden will manifest itself in believing and prevailing prayer, and will eventually result in joy and salvation.

5. SUNSHINE.

"Them hath He filled with wisdom of heart, to work all manner of work, of the engraver, and of the cunning workman, and of the embroiderer, in blue, and in purple, in scarlet, and in fine linen, and of the weaver, even of them that do any work, and of those that devise cunning work" (Exodus 35:35).

This is the power to make Jesus real to others. It is only the radiant, Spirit-filled believers who carry this sunshine that makes the Christian life so attractive and creates a hunger in the hearts of the unsaved for it.

Sour exteriors never recommend the goods of salvation. Sunshine is the best salesman: sunshine that is in the heart, revealed in the face and only made possible by the Holy Spirit of God.

6. THE SICKLE.

"But when the fruit is brought forth, immediately he putteth in the sickle, because the harvest is come" (Mk. 4:29).

How and when shall we put in the sickle?

Special decisions will be necessary and this subject will be dealt with later, but the wise and efficient teacher will, the year round, sense golden opportunities for using the sickle and the gathering in of precious sheaves.

"Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh the harvest? behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest" (Jn. 4:35).

Every farmer is in partnership with God. Both are absolutely essential to the harvest. The farmer has to prepare and cultivate the soil, sow the seed, gather the harvest. God furnishes the seed, the sun, the saturation of the rain and the operation of the chemical ingredients of the soil. This partnership has borne results for thousands of years where the human side has not failed God.

It is just so in the spiritual harvest, we are co-workers or partners with God, and results are assured where Bible School workers are faithful in doing their part.

Frank Brown in "Plans For Sunday School Evangelism" suggests these six factors that enter into the law of the spiritual harvest, which has been discussed above.

"Sow in the morn thy seed,
At even hold not thine hand;
To doubt and fear give thou no heed:
Broadcast it o'er the land.
Thou canst not toil in vain;
Cold, heat, and moist and dry,
Shall foster and mature the grain,
For garners in the sky."

Attention! Camp Leaders and Directors

Factual information relative to the 1940 camp to be sponsored in your district is needed just as quickly as possible, if it is to be included in the Camp Directory to be published in this department at a very early date. We don't want to miss a single one of our camps which will be meeting throughout the United States this summer. Therefore every reader of this announcement who is interested in the success of the camp in your district will do us a favor by urging the proper persons to send us the needed information at once.

Already many Brethren young people are "talking camp," planning "camp rallies," and are "saving" nickles and dimes for their "camp fee." However, we can greatly aid the young people of our different districts in making their "camp plans" for this summer, if we will as quickly as possible, publish the following information about our camp: the name, location, dates, ages, price, sponsors, courses, as well as the dean or the secretary of the camp to whom inquirers may write for additional information.

If you want your district camp listed in our directory, see that the information reaches us no later than April 1. Mail directly to Tom Hammers at 2706 Noble Road, Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

PREPARING COPY FOR THE MISSIONARY HERALD

In order to avoid errors and expediate the printing of the Brethren Missionary Herald, it would help us greatly if all who prepare copy would please observe the following:

1. All material to be printed should be in the hands of the editorial office at 3326 S. Calhoun St., Fort Wayne, Ind., three weeks before the date of the issue in which it is to appear. All magazines are dated on Saturday.

2. All manuscripts should be typed, if possible, and double spaced. Single spaced manuscripts have to be retyped before being printed.

3. Leave about 1½ inch space at the top of the first page, and ¾ inch at the top of the other pages, for notations relative to printing. Leave 1 inch margin on either side.

4. Only words which are proper names or references to God should be capitalized.

5. Words to be emphasized should be underscored instead of all capital letters.

6. Abbreviate books of the Bible, months, days of the week, etc. Use figures for numbers over nine.

Thank you.

THE EDITORIAL OFFICE.

The most important thing right at this moment is for us to have the birthdays of your pastor and his wife, together with the favorite Scripture verse of each. The societies which have sent these to us up to the time we write this are Allentown, Pa.; Ankenytown, O.; Dallas Center, Ia.; Kittanning, Pa.; Leon, Ia.; Portia, Kans.; Spokane, Wash. and Winchester, Va. As you notice, only from one district has more than one society reported, and three districts have not reported at all! If your church is not in the above list, please let us hear from you at once.

The Spokane society included this news item with their report of their pastor's birthday:

"Greetings to our Fellow-Endeavorers:

"We enjoy reading letters from the other groups, and I thought others would be interested in hearing from our loyal group in 'Sunny Old Spokane.'

"Our President, Craig Ettenborough, is doing splendid work, and with the cooperation of the young people the work is moving forward. Our C. E. is sponsoring a half-hour radio service each Sunday, 9:30 A. M. over KFIO. We covet your prayers that the brethren message might go forth with great power and people be saved.

"We are stepping out on faith. We know our Lord is able to meet the need for this great venture.

In His service,

June McBride."

We appreciate this word from this society, and trust that the rest of you will follow their example and send us some news with the information regarding the birthdays.

Our first monthly prayer calendar will be found elsewhere in this department. We suggest that someone in your society (probably the one in charge of the quiet hour) shall see to it each week that a different name is assigned to each member of your group. From now on, this prayer calendar will appear in the last issue of The Brethren Missionary Herald each month. Be sure to look for it.

The first entry in the C. E. Topic contest has arrived. A young woman in Iowa submits plans for two fine meetings. If the committee decides to print either of these, she will receive a Standard C. E. Manual.

What unusually interesting meetings has your C. E. had? Write them up according to the rules printed in the issue of Feb. 10, and mail them to your news editor. This contest is for all age groups, and any contestant may submit plans for as many meetings as desired. A Standard C. E. Manual will be awarded for every topic printed, and a banner will be awarded the district whose efforts in the contest bring the best results.

In the Scrap Book Contest announced in the issue of Jan. 27, in addition to the society awards, the district showing the best response will likewise be awarded.

Be sure to read. "Your Personal Problems Considered," in this issue. The young people's society at Sunnyside, Wash., used this material with great interest in one of their C. E. meetings last summer. Some of the young people had heard Mrs. Lichty discuss this subject at the Northwest camp.

If you have any pictures taken last summer at Bethany Camp, Winona Lake, be sure to send them to Brother Polman. Remember, he is paying $1 each for the best ten pictures submitted.

Two delightful banquets were held in Indiana during Brethren National C. E. Week. The first in Peru carried out a red and white color scheme. A strip of red crepe paper, ruffled, twisted, and placed on a white background, extended the full length of each banquet table. Red balloons suspended at various lengths over the table made the room indeed inviting. Delegations from several nearby churches were present.

The second banquet was sponsored by the Fort Wayne societies, carrying out the theme, "Christ our Captain on the Sea of Life." Those making the voyage went up a gangplank and presented their passports previously secured. Red ships with white sails formed the centerpiece of each table.

Table decorations were made complete by programs with red and white covers; red, white and blue napkins picturing a sailing vessel at sea, and secured in white napkin rings to which was attached a red anchor, and red lifeboat favors. Musical numbers and messages were in keeping with the theme.

C. E. FUN CORNER

April Foolish Fun

The Invitation:

No foolin'—get this straight,
On April first you have a date;
Come foolishly dressed for an evening of fun;
Games, stunts, contests, and a prize to be won.

The decorations:

Cut pictures from magazines, hang them upside down about the room with inappropriate titles. Make foolscaps for each guest. Pin a kerchief to the rug. Place box of candy in room with sign "Take one"—see how long they last.

The Refreshments:

Nutty sandwiches—nuts in sandwich filling.
Dunce salad—salad moulded to represent a dunce cap.
Clown cakes—cookies with frosted foolish faces.
Cracked skulls—cracked nuts.

The Games:

Present each guest on arrival with a dunce cap, to be worn during the evening.
Slyly pin slips of paper on backs of some bearing statements like the following:
Please tell me my name. Pinch me easily. Call me nice names.
Have a prize for the most foolish costume.

Partnering: Two each of names of animals. Pass one to boys, other to girls. Boys are to imitate animals whose name they have drawn, girls must recognize their partners from their actions.

Twenty ways to arrive: Each couple must cross the room in a different way from any other. Leader to call for couples by the animal names given out. May skip, walk backward, hop, etc.

Foolish Relay: Two teams. Two tables. Two marbles. Two hairpins. Seat contestants in line with tables. At signal each leader must push the marble with rounded end of hairpin across the table, leave it there, return to seat, next in line pushes it back. Side finishing first wins.

Foolish Bubbling: Divide crowd into two groups. Each chooses captain. Stretch line across the room, or use long table with line down center. The captain blows bubbles, the rest aim to keep the bubbles from breaking on their side of the line. Side on which bubble breaks loses a point.

Foolish statements: Write the following statements on cards and place about the room. Let each one make a list of corrected statements:

1. Our National C. E. President wrote "Gone with the Wind."
2. L. S. Bauman is a famous tenor.
3. Jonah was an English poet.
4. Alva McClain wrote "Pilgrims Progress."
5. Caruso is a famous preacher.
6. Margaret Mitchell had the first "undersea" voyage.
7. Robert Ashman is President of Grace Seminary.
8. Rudyard Kipling preached in Nineveh.

Motion Pictures: Announce that Bethany (or whichever camp you attend) pictures will be shown. Prepare a room with seats for your audience. Have some special music. Place sheet on wall, fine wire stretched across on which are hung the pictures you will show, pushed aside and concealed until time for presentation. When all are seated the leader will with great flourish give a talk on Camp life and then quickly draw the pictures across the sheet. Didn't they move? Finis. Fools' exit—the open door.

The Devotions:

Nothing could be more profitable than a meditation on what the Bible has to say about fools: (Psalm 53:1; Luke 24:25; 1 Corinthians 3:19); many others.
Here's hoping you have a good time.

Aunt Polly.

Monthly Prayer Calendar

On their respective birthdays, the names, favorite Scripture verses, and prayer requests of pastors, missionaries, and others in the brotherhood who are prominent in Christian work, will appear under this head. Please see that each member in your society is assigned one of the following names for daily prayer. Assign a different name to each member weekly. If you know of others whose names should have appeared this month, please notify your News Editor at once.

Mar. 1—Mrs. George E. Cone, wife of pastor at Portis, Kans. II Tim. 2:15. Requests prayer for Max Kurman, Hebrew coach in their high school; Bible class in prophecy started by pastor last Monday night; a young man planning to enter Grace Seminary; the way to be opened for a Jewish Bible conference in their church.

Mar. 11—Mrs. Herman A. Hoyt, wife of professor at Grace Seminary. Phil. 4:19. Requests prayer for the salvation of her father who now lies on death bed.

Mar. 12—Rev. Herman A. Hoyt, professor of the New Testament and Greek, Grace Seminary. Gal. 2:20. Requests prayer for Grace Seminary and for The Brethren Missionary Herald Company.

Mar. 17—Rev. Henry Rempel, pastor at Flora, Ind., and president of Grace Seminary student body. Col. 3:17. Requests prayer for the two C. E. societies less than a month old at Flora, and that the seminary student body shall be used in winning souls for Christ.

Mar. 19—Rev. Vern Stuber, Grace Seminary student who is starting a new church at Sharpville, Ind. His prayer requests did not reach us, but we are sure he would appreciate prayer for the new work.

Mar. 21—Mrs. C. B. She'don. Time has been too short to get her requests, but we believe one of them would be that the Lord will open up the way for the new missionaries to get to Africa, war conditions now preventing their sailing.

YOUR PERSONAL PROBLEMS CONSIDERED

By Mrs. Emma Lichty

Young People—This column is conducted especially for you—Send your problem to C. E. Editor, Leo Polman, 3326 South Calhoun St., Fort Wayne, Ind

Problem

I am a Christian, and do not indulge in worldly pleasures such as dancing, card playing, and theatre going, for I feel they are wrong. Yet I cannot explain to my companions why it is not consistent with a Christian life. Is there any portion of Scripture on which to stand?

Discussion

In my early life I also faced this very problem. I am especially fond of music, and you can readily judge which amusement hindered God from having His way in my life. As long as I compromised I could not win souls. I soon became a very unhappy Christian. When on Satan's territory I was timid about inviting my associates to fellowship with me in my church, and when in church circles, I hesitated asking them to join me in my worldly pleasures. If you want a hectic Christian life, try mixing worldly amusements with spiritual things. Like oil and water, it simply does not mix! Soon I did not feel at ease in either environment, and I had to choose one or the other. Rest assured it was a battle! Different methods were tried, but none solved my problem. In desperation I decided to settle it on Bible grounds. The following Scriptures are a result of this investigation:

Nothing takes care of the amusement problem as well as a thorough knowledge of the rapture. "Do I want to be found on Satan's territory when Jesus comes to take out a people for His name?" is the acid test. Once you surrender your life to the Lord regardless of the cost, amusements will take care of themselves.

You ask if a surrendered soul winner can engage in these pastimes. Let me ask how many of these questionable pleasures a surrendered soul winner will want to indulge in. Just how much tree climbing does a brook trout want to do? But perhaps you are thinking, "Times have changed, and we live in a more liberal age." My heart goes out to you, for you do live in a very different age from the one most of us adults lived in. That very thing is a sign of the Lord's near coming! Turn to Heb. 1:9-12. Times change, but God and His Word—never! Heb. 3:12 exhorts us to take heed lest we depart from the living God.

Take your Bibles and follow from the printed page. I want you to see for yourself. It makes no difference what you or I think, or what your chum across the alley thinks—it is what God's Word says that counts. Gal. 6:14, "God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by Whom the world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world." When you take Him as your personal Savior you become a new creature. Old things have passed away. If you become a new creature, what should become of these habits? II Tim. 2:19, "Depart from iniquity." II Cor. 3:17, "Come out from among them, and be ye separate." V. 3 clearly gives the reason, "Giving no offense in anything that the ministry be not blamed." Have you ever heard of a Christian doing or saying anything that would cast reflections on the church? The world is quick to judge us. Why shouldn't they be when their father the devil accuses the saints daily at the throne, bringing even the smallest matter before our Intercessor? The unsaved set a much higher standard for us Christians than we set for one another. Since we are "epistles known and read of all men" (II Cor. 3:2) "let us not eat of their dainties" (Ps. 141:4), but instead "abstain from all appearance of evil" (I Thess. 5:22). "having your conversation honest among the Gentiles; that, whereas they speak against you as evil doers, they may by your good words, which they shall behold, glorify God in the day of visitation" (I Pet. 2:11-12).

The Spirit of God is very plain in the limitations of Christian liberty (I Cor. 8:6-13). Satan would have you reason that if worldly indulgences doesn't hurt you, that is all that matters. Suppose it doesn't hurt you. That gives you no license to go into questionable places of amusement, for you are warned to take heed lest by any means this liberty of yours become a stumblingblock to them that are what? Yes, weak. You have knowledge (v. 10), and you partake. The weak brother, misled by your example, becomes encouraged to do likewise. The Spirit of God goes on to say, "Shall the weak brother perish?" He doesn't say you will perish, but that your example will cause another to perish. That is a horrible catastrophe, isn't it?

Let's you fail to get the full significance, He adds concerning this weak friend, "For whom Christ died." Weigh that! That alone should cause us to fall on our knees. But v. 11 puts on extra emphasis, "When ye sin so against the brethren and wound their weak conscience, ye sin against Christ." Think of it! By that so-called innocent pleasure you not only cause a weak one to stumble, you not only cause him to perish, you not only wound him for whom Christ died, but you wound Him Who bought him with His own precious blood! It must have made Paul shudder to think of such a far-reaching thing, for in the last verse he sums it all up with a resolution, "Wherefore, if meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no flesh"—till I get into the city where no one knows me? No, "while the world standeth." Why? "Lest I make my brother to offend."

Turn back to I Cor. 10:21, "Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of devils, ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table and of the table of devils."

Perhaps the adversary says to you even now, "Lots of good church members, even preachers themselves, do these things. Many churches have these pastimes as a part of their program. Why can't you?" We have a jealous God Whose very righteousness can't permit sin and compromise. Read on in I Cor. 10. Paul sums it up with, "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God. Give none offense, neither to the Jews, nor to the Gentiles nor to the church of God." Imagine glorifying God with the modern methods of dancing!

Paul in writing to the Romans said, "Destroy not him with thy meat, for whom Christ died. Let not then your good be evil spoken of" (Rom. 14:15-16). You may be compromising, thinking your friends will eventually be won. It seldom works that way. Satan accuses you on high, and the world points its finger at you, and your good is evil spoken of. There's no room for compromise in a Christian. The Bible says so much about being a bad example. Evidently it must be a serious thing. So "be ye not conformed to the world" (Rom. 12:2).

I used to think there were only a few landmarks in the Bible to guide us pleasure-loving saints, but there are many. Look at Rom. 6:12-22. "Neither yield ye your members as instruments of unrighteousness unto sin; but yield yourselves unto God as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God." Do you realize you are not your own? You are bought with a price! Your fruit should be unto holiness (v. 22). And if it is, what is the result?

Yes, "everlasting life"—not an evening of fun and then a dark brown taste the following morning, but everlasting life!

We usually think our members are our feet. Your feet may be a large portion of your anatomy, but this refers to even more. How about playing for worldly amusements? How about using your eyes to enjoy pictures that are distasteful to our Lord and Master? Read Jude 23, "Hating even the garment spotted by the flesh," and James 4:4, "Know ye not that friendship of the world is enmity with God?" Also, "Whosoever will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God." That is pretty plain language, isn't it?

Need there be any doubt in your mind whether a Christian's amusement and that of an unsaved person should be different when the Word says, "Neither be partakers of other men's sins; keep thyself pure"?—I Tim. 5:22 Rev. 18:4 also shed light on your problem.

You are living in an age when society makes demands of you, and my prayers go out for you; but you have a loving Father Who understands your situation and Who will reward you for faithfulness. "Ye have not yet resisted unto blood, striving against sin." True, you may have a rough road, but your heavenly Father has promised you a safe journey. "If ye suffer for righteousness' sake, happy are ye and be not afraid of their terror, neither be ye troubled (I Pet. 3:14). They may even persecute you because "they think it strange that ye run not with them to the same excess of riot, speaking evil of you: who shall give account to Him that is ready to judge the quick and the dead" (I Pet. 4:4-5). "Rejoice inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's suffering" (I Pet. 4:14).

You may stand alone and have to "suffer all things lest we should hinder the gospel of Christ." Jeremiah has an interesting passage (15:16-17): "I sat not in the assembly of the mockers nor rejoiced: I sat alone because of thy hand." You say, "I can't face standing alone." You aren't asked to stand alone. You have a Father Who created the very heavens and He will care for you. "God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound unto every good work." (II Cor. 9:8).

You asked me a question. May I, as my closing thought, leave one with you? When Christ comes to meet us in the air, when He comes to take out a people for His name, when He comes as a thief in the night, would you want to be found on Satan's territory?

From a brethren of a different denomination:

"We have been receiving your fine little magazine for some time now and can only say 'God bless you all,' for we have enjoyed it so much. Enclosed is $5 for your publication day and $1 for THE BRETHREN MISSIONARY HERALD."—C. C., Ohio.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

for March 24, 1940

JOSEPH THE DREAMER

(GEN. 37:1-11)

Suggestions for the Leader

The title of this topic does not have the same meaning as we apply it to dreamers today. It means that God revealed His perfect will to Joseph through dreams. That was His approved way of talking to many people before the Scriptures were written.

Joseph is an outstanding character in the Bible because he stands with a few men to receive great praise from the Lord. In the writing of his life the Holy Spirit did not point out moral lapses. On the other hand, He did in the lives of Abraham, Moses, Noah and others. Joseph belongs in the class with Daniel, and Enoch.

Of all the types in the Bible that direct us to Christ, Joseph is the most complete. We understand all types to break down at some point; but in this case there is a marvelous likeness in the experiences of Joseph and Jesus. The leader ought to list many of these. For instance, both were beloved of their father, chosen to be ruler, hated by their brethren, given up for dead, proved to be a blessing to the nations, selected a Gentile bride, and will finally be made known to the brethren. There are many more.

Joseph was a young man with many temptations. He lived a life above reproach and discovered that God stood by him in time of need. He ought to be an example of one young man that believed that it paid to please God. Some people have found fault with him because he secured a corner on the grain market in Egypt. They fail to see that it was for the salvation of the people. God revealed the meaning of the dream and He must have instructed Joseph as to the best thing to do about the oncoming famine.

1 Joseph, the Dreamer of Dreams, Gen. 37:5-11; 44:14-16.

a. God was pleased to speak to men in different ways at different times. He spoke directly to Adam, through an angel to Abraham, through a vision to Daniel, but through a dream to Joseph. (Heb. 1:1).

b. Dreams hardly have the same meaning today as they did before because we have the Holy Spirit as well as the written Word.

c. Joseph's brethren were unsympathetic because of jealousy.

4. Stephen compared the Pharisees to the hateful brethren.

e. God brought to pass all He showed Joseph in the dreams.

2. Joseph, the Interpreter of Dreams. Gen. 40:1-8, 41:15-16.

a. God gave His insight and understanding.

b. It was God's way of promoting Joseph.

c. Joseph's humility was an honor to God.

d. In a sense, God's own people are wiser than the people of the world. (The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.)

e. Many times God brings His people to bear a message to a perplexed world.

f. We have a right to ask God for the answer to hard questions.

3. Joseph, Kept by the Power of God. Acts 7:9-11

a. God will not suffer or let the righteous be moved.

b. Stephen said that God was with him.

c. He was informed in his dreams of his favor with God. (This gave him confidence and assurance.)

d. Trials came but only to perfect patience.

e. Apparent losses to a Christian are for a purpose. Find out what it is.

f. We have assurance of God's keeping power. (1 Peter 1:5). This deals with salvation, too.

4. Joseph Rewarded. Gen. 41:42-44.

a. Faithfulness to God merits reward. Salvation is not earned by good deeds; it must be accepted as a free gift.

b. There is a danger of running ahead of God as well as running behind. Moses, Saul and Elijah ran ahead while Jonah lagged behind.

c. If we wait on the Lord we shall see His salvation. He always vindicates His Word. (Ps. 27:1-4).

d. We get more than salvation; we get an abundant entrance into heaven.

5. Joseph's Faith Commended. Gen. 50:24-26; Heb. 11:27.

a. In the hall of fame, Joseph's name stands with those of great faith. He believed God and obeyed Him.

b. His walk with God was a blessing to Jew and Gentile.

c. He had faith in Israel and believed that the nation would be regathered in Palestine. He asked that his body would be taken along to be buried there.

d. Without faith it is impossible to please God. (Heb. 11:6).

Additional Scripture

Servants of God cast into prison for their faithfulness to Him: 1 KINGS 22:26-28; Jer. 37:13-38:6; LUKE 3:18, 20; Rev. 2:10.

Out of prison to victory: Judges 16:21-30; Acts 12:5-17; 16:22-34.

Dreams given by God: Gen. 20:3-7; 31:24; JUDGES 7:9-15; Dan. 2: 24-28, 45; Matt. 1:20; 2:12-15, 19,20.

Questions

1. Do you think jealousy is a sin? What harm did it bring to Joseph?

2. Why was Joseph especially beloved of his father? Gen. 37:3; Gen 30:25.

3. Do you think that God will reward those that have faith in Him?

Who Is a Sinner?

By Geneva Kuhn

First of all, let us define a sinner. The dictionary says he is one who sins; an offender; a transgressor; one who is unregenerate. Now, don't be frightened at those long words! This definition covers all, but now we shall make a definition of our own. A sinner is anyone and everyone who is outside the Lord Jesus Christ, or anyone who is not redeemed by the blood of Jesus Christ. John 16:9.

Just as you find different kinds of people the world over, there are different kinds of sinners, so let's put them in groups where God's Word has them.

1. The Good Sinner. (Luke 18: 9:14).

This class includes persons who are good morally, upright of character and have high ideals, living clean, moral lives. This is good, of course, and necessary, but this life will not save anyone from eternal death, which is separation from God. Without the blood of Jesus Christ as the only redeeming power, these folks are still lost sinners. Heb. 9:22.

2. The polite sinner. (Mark 10:17-21).

Includes persons with the highest degrees of politeness and courtesy, yet rejecting Jesus, lacking one thing, they are lost sinners.

3. The handsome and beautiful sinner. (II Sam. 14:25, 26).

Good-looking, beautiful, and proud of their beauty! These folks, rejecting Christ, laugh at "the idea of such a thing" as being saved by the blood of Jesus. Lost souls outside the Lord! Ezek. 28:17; Prov. 31:30a; II Cor. 4:4.

4. The wise and educated sinner. (I Cor. 1:19-21).

This group includes men and women of learning, with scientifically-trained minds. They have no place in their work for God and try to prove things to be opposite from what the Word of God and even nature teaches, using modern theories of thought. Trained, intelligent and cultured as these folks are, they are absolutely lost without Christ. I Cor. 1:25-29.

5. The hard-working sinner. (Titus 3:4-6).

The people of this class spend most of their time working and slaving to make a living—not much time for anything else—and are angry because other folks don't have it quite so hard perhaps. They say, "I don't have time to be a Christian, to go to church, to serve the Lord, to read the Bible." When they are told that the blood of Jesus is the only way by which they can be saved, they turn away with scorn and reply, "Don't you think that God knows how hard I work? I don't need the blood of Christ to save me, my hard working will do it. Do you mean to tell me that God would condemn me after all this hard work and trouble?"

Lost without Christ! Eph. 2:8, 9.

6. The ignorant sinner. (Acts 17:22-32).

This classification includes those people who know not of the saving grace of our Lord Jesus Christ. Those who partake of the things of the world (enjoy them, of course), but know no better. These, too, are lost not knowing Jesus Christ or God's plan of redemption. Acts 17:22, 23.

7. The vile sinner. (Rom. 1:18-23).

This class is made up of persons who openly and proudly commit things which they know are sins and which the world knows are sins, and take pleasure in doing wicked things. In their sinful lusts, they are completely lost without Jesus Christ. I Kings 21:25; I Kings 16:30.

8. The REDEEMED sinner. (Rom. 3:23-25).

Although it is a good thing to have high ideals, live clean, moral lives, be courteous and polite, have a good education, and take the responsibility of hard labor, and although we would all like to be handsome or beautiful, these things in themselves have no power at all with the very God of heaven. The thing that counts eternally is what you do with Jesus Christ in your personal, individual life. Take Him as your Savior, live close to Him every day, and add these good things to that life and you will have the life that really counts before God. Eph. 2:8-10, 13; Gal. 2:20; 3:13.

NEWS BRIEFS

From
Our Workers

THE GROUP OF BROTHERS IN FLORA, IND., who recently sponsored a Bible Conference in the city (reported in this column) are preparing to complete their organization as a church. In a business meeting Feb. 15, they extended a unanimous call to Bro. Henry Remple, a senior in Grace Theological Seminary, to serve as their pastor. Mr. Remple has been speaking there regularly for several weeks. Sunday School and church attendance have been as high as 78. Two Christian Endeavor Societies have been organized which meet regularly every Sunday night. The group is continuing for the present to meet in the basement of the Flora Public Library. A building fund has already been started and plans are under way for the launching of a building program in the immediate future.

IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA: All the churches of the district united for another "singspiration" meeting in the Glendale Church, on the afternoon of Feb. 11. We understand that these churches meet for these united services given over to the singing of gospel music once every month.

From the First Church of Long Beach bulletin. "122 souls made decisions for Christ during the two weeks' evangelistic services which closed last Sunday. 46 of this number made public confession at the evening services. 76 boys and girls came forward at the special service conducted in the Bible School hour. 14 have thus far united with the church." These services were conducted by the pastor himself, assisted by the Eureka Jubilee singers, a group of colored musicians.

A GREAT EASTER OFFERING

Our Brethren churches have been going through what we believe to be a purifying experience. We believe the Spirit of God has been leading us. We believe we have been pleasing God in the position we have taken. We believe we are true to the whole Word of God in our teaching.

Now—the most eloquent proof of this can be demonstrated by making our greatest sacrifice to foreign missions in the form of our largest Easter offering in history.

This responsibility rests upon every pastor and every member of every congregation. We must prove to God that we are worthy of His blessing and favor by putting the great work He is most interested in, foremost in our own work: Getting the gospel to the lost.

The directors of the Home Missions Council sincerely believe that no greater stimulus could be given to our home mission work right here in America; no greater justification of the value of pressing our work here in this land, than to increase our foreign missions. Any home missions work which does not build a passion for taking the gospel to all the world is not worthy of the name. The best assurance possible for the continued growth and prosperity of the whole gospel here in America is to discharge rightly our debt to Christ for the lost in other lands.

We of the Home Missions Council are praying for our greatest Easter offering

HATED OF ALL NATIONS

How little did the Jews realize the true meaning of the words of Jesus when He said in Mt. 24:9, "Ye shall be hated of all nations for My name's sake." But the events of these later days surely should make many of their leaders take note of those significant words. Shipload after shipload of Jewish refugees, among whom are thousands of refined, cultured and formerly wealthy business men and their families, are now reduced to destitution, drifting aimlessly over the seven seas, unable to find a country that will receive them. With reports of countless thousands of destitute Jews along the German-Jewish border; fathers, mothers, and little children; homeless, friendless, clothed in nothing but rags, and not too many of them even; with nothing to eat, so way to earn a living, and no one either in Poland or Germany caring whether they live or die; like hunted animals they seek shelter behind clusters of bushes and trees, in fence corners, behind pieces of old doors and scrap tin, and dream of the home they used to have. Now comes the report of tens of thousands of Jews being forcibly ejected from their homes in Germany and hauled to an all but barren section of Poland. From London we learn that two thousand Jews are stranded in barges in the Danube River where they were stopped trying to escape from the terrors of Hitler's hate. Other thousands are reported trying to cross the mountains from the Balkan countries where Jewish hatred is so fierce and unrelenting, hoping that they will succeed in slipping across the borders into Palestine under cover of night. Many die from exposure and sickness, but resolutely the rest push on with bleeding feet hoping, against despair for one favorable break. Sad indeed is the picture. No story ever written can compare with it. Well did Isaiah write in chapter 27:12,13,

"And it shall come to pass in that day—ye shall be gathered one by one, O, ye children of Israel. And it shall come to pass in that day, that the great trumpet shall be blown, and they shall come which were ready to perish in the land of Assyria, and the outcasts of the land of Egypt and shall worship the Lord in the holy mount at Jerusalem."

Can anyone doubt that they are in distress today? Aren't they ready to perish? Actually perishing they are! Aren't they coming from the land of Assyria as well as the rest of the world? How soon the iron hand that bars them from Palestine today may be removed; how soon England may have more warfare on hand than she can take care of and thus lose her control of Palestine or be compelled to change her policy there; how soon the way may be open for the Jews to slip through the fingers of the nations pre-occupied in great wars and thus flock into Palestine, we do not know. But return they will. God hath spoken! When the Jew goes to Palestine, the true Christian goes to glory. Hallelujah! Keep looking up.

THE BISHOP IS SLIGHTLY MISTAKEN

Great Britain's Bishop of Ely, a very famous churchman, is quoted by the United Press as having stated,

"Unless there is some change in the minds of nations I cannot see any hope for the future of the world in the rest of this century."

What the Bishop should have stated is that unless there is a change in the hearts of the nations there is no hope for the future of the world. That is right. The mind thinks as the heart directs and chooses. It is the servant of the emotions and desires of the heart of man to attain his desires. General Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff of the United States army, who died several years ago stated the truth,

"Will there be another war? Of course there will be more wars. Not until the heart of man is changed will wars cease."

The old general knew what was wrong with the world. He knew that the basis of all wars and all other of this world's strife was based on innate selfishness. Selfishness is the basest of all human characteristics. It is the foundation of all sin and rebellion against God. In its name has been sacrificed all the blood of man slain since the foundation of the earth. Jesus our Lord stated the truth when He said to Nicodemus,

"Except a man be born again he cannot enter the kingdom of God" (Jn. 3:5,6).

In spite of the sneers of the worldly wise, the faithful preacher of the gospel is doing more to make this old world fit to live in, he is doing more to end all war and all misery, than all the law-makers and all the social schemes known to man. God sent you to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ, brother. He knows what is the matter with this old world. He knows what to do about things. Nobody else does. Whether the world appreciates it or not, you can know that you are doing the greatest work for the real uplift and salvation of mankind for time and eternity. Stick to the job till He comes.

Plough Ahead, Brother!

There is no doubt but that today Satan is making his greatest onslaught on the Christian church. He has instituted a world system that is so distracting as to make thousands of church members to be swept from their feet of faith. He has succeeded in garbing infidelity in robes of the clergy and is thus killing thousands of churches.

He has succeeded in getting churches to seek numbers instead of strict conversion with the result that now this unborn-again multitude within the churches is making havoc of things by worldliness and dissension. The churches have lost their power and testimony. Worldly men and women have been elected to offices in the churches. Spiritually minded preachers go into their pulpits with fire burning in their hearts only to come away with their hearts chilled and spirits broken. One pastor said to us the other day,

"It just seems useless to go on. I am tired of all this strife and bickering in the church. Our churches are full of it and our conferences are full of it. I am tired of it."

There is no doubt but that trouble is being heaped upon the door-step of God's true servants as never before, just to take the heart out of them. We ran across a wonderful word for all of us written by Maltbie D. Babcock the other day.

"Pay as little attention as possible to discouragement. Plough ahead as a steamer does, rough or smooth, rain or shine. To carry your cargo and make port is the point."

Keep your eye on the port, brother, not on the storm. Remember Peter!

Are Catholics Slipping?

In a letter reported in the newspapers announcing Lenten regulations, Cardinal Dennis Dougherty, Arch-Bishop of Philadelphia, stated of the membership of the Catholic Church,

"Faith has grown weak, fervor has been chilled, and not a few Catholics never fast, even during Lent. It is bad enough to disobey the church law of fasting particularly during Lent, but what shall we say of Catholics who, in our day, seem to spurn the Holy Season of Lent by attending during it, banquets, theatrical shows, parties, and other worldly amusements!"

It is a hard job the cardinal has on his hands. It is hard to keep people away from things that their hearts run after. It is hard to get spiritual responses from people who are not spiritual and know nothing of the new birth. It is hard to compel people to stay away from shows and all manner of worldly amusements during Lent when the church itself sponsors and profits by such things all the rest of the year! The other day we were passing a Catholic Church and saw a large flaring sign outside announcing, and we learned that it had been a regular weekly affair till the authorities had to pass an ordinance to close it up because gambling was forbidden in the city.

"BINGO PARTY HERE TONIGHT!"

Can We Fast Away Our Sins?

The cardinal further states in his letter, "Catholics deny themselves food and drink for the purpose of reducing, but never think of fasting to atone for sins" (underscore ours).

Now just when did God arrange that by fasting we could "atone" for our sins? If we can "atone" for our sins by fasting, then where is the need for a Savior on Calvary? To support this unscriptural statement the cardinal quotes a perverted verse from the Douay version (Roman Catholic) of the Bible.

"I say to you, except ye do penance, ye shall all likewise perish."

Naturally, any scheme of salvation that is based upon anything but the sacrifice of Calvary must resort to "wresting the Scriptures" in order to get some apparent authority for what they teach. How utterly perverted such a statement that by "fasting" men could atone for their sins is, is shown in Hebrews 9:22,

"And almost all things are by the law purged with blood; and without shedding of blood is no remission."

To make fasting or any other works of self merit a means of cleansing from sin in order to bring the doers under the power of the church is under the severest condemnation of God.

"If any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed" (Gal. 1:9).

We know of no better answer to all such error than the Apostle Paul's mighty declaration in Tit 3:4,5,

"Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us, by the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Ghost."

Beyond this there is nothing more to say on how to get rid of sin.

Like the darkest hour preceding the dawn, like the last storm barring the mariner's way to his desired haven, despair has enveloped the children of Israel as they confront the waves of savage persecution which threaten their existence in almost every quarter of the world.

Civilization, long the guiding star of Jewish hope, is itself in the grip of paganism, and by this time it has been conclusively demonstrated that there is no hope for the Jew in a pagan world, whether ruled by Hitlerism or Communism. Even democracy has brought forth its "White Paper" to close the gates of Palestine, the only country on earth that is properly his home.

The Jew himself is as yet too greatly bewildered to take account of his sorrows. But from Christian hearts that derive their comfort and hope from "the promises made unto the fathers," there rises today as never before the question, "Watchman, what of the night?" And to those who have ears to hear there comes the reassuring answer of the Word of God, "The morning comes as well as the night." The night of weeping is not to last for ever. The night is but the harbinger of the morning. For there is a point at which the stream of Christian hope—the blessed hope of the glorious appearing of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, absorbs into itself the gentle rivulet of the faith still cherished by those who wait for "the consolation of Israel," and flows on toward the day predicted by the prophet Malachi, when for those who fear His name "the Sun of Righteousness shall arise with healing in His wings."

To the devout student of the Word of God, the intensification of Israel's sufferings, taken together with other Biblical signs of the times, such as the apostasy of the church and the decay of civilization (see I Tim. 4; Jude 11-19; II Tim. 3; James 5), is but an added indication, perhaps the clearest indication, that we are witnessing the closing days of the present age. To use a phrase from the ancient Rabbis, "These are the birth-pangs of the Messiah." But the Christian's heart thrills at the thought that "the coming of the Lord draweth nigh."

From the standpoint of prophecy it was not a matter of accident that the outbreak of Jew-hate served as a prelude to the European war, nor is the fact that the Jew now finds himself at the very center of the international storm, bearing the brunt of its fury, incidental. The fact is now plain that we are living in the "feet and toes" period of Daniel's prophetic image. The nations of the world have run their course. Feudalism and autocracy are now things of the past. Democracy is fighting a losing battle. Dictatorships have arisen to occupy the center of the world's stage, and in them we see the inception of those end-time kingdoms which shall be dashed to pieces at the coming of the kingdom of our God and of His Christ. The Northern Confederacy of nations is already in the making. The revival of the Roman Empire is as yet only a dream of the Italian dictator, but one which is destined to become a reality before long. Small wonder, then, that the elimination of the Jew is the prime plank in the programs of the modern dictators. The real conflict today is not between Gentile and Jew, but between the kingdoms of this world and the coming kingdom of Christ. "Why do the pagans rage, the peoples imagine a vain thing, the kings of the earth take their positions, and the rulers take counsel together?" Because, when God sets His King upon the holy hill of Zion, it will be to rule over the house of Jacob for ever.

The re-establishment of the kingdom of Israel, with the greater son of David as the King, is the goal of history and the climactic point of the Messianic program. New Testament prophecy declares it to be so. The disciples understood it to be so when, prior to His ascension, they asked of the Savior, "Lord, wilt Thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?" As a result of this question we have in Acts 1:6-11 the Lord's own outline of the events that must take place before the promise of the kingdom can be fulfilled: 1. The publication of the gospel throughout the earth. 2. His visible return to the earth. To this also the Apostolic declaration recorded in Acts 15:13-18 gives witness. The unique, for-the-first-time-in-history visitation of God among the Gentiles, is to be followed by the return of the Lord from heaven, and this, in turn, by the restoration of the tabernacle of David from its ruins, or the return of Israel to God's favor.

In the light of these truths, the present scourge of Jew-hate takes on a more than local significance. It is not alone the survival of the Jew that is at stake, but the whole program of God centering in the Jew, including the kingdom of His beloved Son. The Jews are the people over whom the Father determined from of old that His Son should reign for ever and ever (see Lk. 1:31-33).

Granting the truth of these things, what should be the attitude of Christians toward the Jews in their present hour of suffering and loneliness?

1. Inasmuch as Satan's fury is raging not only against the mass of Jews, but also against those out of the mass who have espoused the Lord Jesus Christ as Savior of their lives, we should make every effort in our power to help our brethren in the faith in a material as well as a moral way. As members with them of the body of Christ, we are in duty bound to share their afflictions (see Heb. 13:3; I Cor. 12:26).

2. Toward the still unbelieving Jews, our duty is plainly indicated in Romans 11:30,31. "Mercy" is the keyword here. Seeing that the age of witnessing is still in effect, we must bring our love and our testimony to bear upon them, for we know not when a deed of kindness or a word fitly spoken will be used of God to bring a Jew to Christ. For some Christian waits the happy privilege of bringing to the faith the last person who shall complete the number of the elect body of Christ, and that one person may be a Jew.

Our Jewish Mission Is Dependent Upon Offerings Taken At Special Jewish Conferences Held In Brethren Churches.

Brother pastor, have you been delaying the matter of securing the speakers for your Jewish Conference for this year?

Do not put it off any longer. In their suffering today, and for the sad days ahead of them, poor Israel needs Christ. God has honored us with the privilege of evangelizing the 250,000 Jews of Los Angeles, California. We must not fail in this. To rightly care for this work is an open door to all the blessings in God's hands.

Here is a list of the speakers for your Jewish Conference. Write to the man nearest you and he will come to you at the earliest possible date.

Wooster At Work

After the close of the Juniata meeting, we drove through Wooster on our way to Berne. The Wooster people were in the midst of the remodeling of their building for church services. When we stepped inside it was a sight to behold. There was John Squires, the preacher, so covered with brick dust and dirt that I could hardly recognize him. I knew his voice however! That didn't change, no matter how he looked. Then Harold Jolliffe came over from somewhere and began talking and I knew who he was. Wayne Baker was there helping but he seemed to stay away from the dirt more than the others. But everybody was working at top speed to get the building ready for use by Feb. 1st. A fine spirit of optimism was everywhere.

We sympathized most for the preacher's wife who had to sit in her end of the building and watch the dust roll in and all over everything. When we mentioned it she smiled and said, "It's just no use to try to clean up for it keeps coming through all the time." She was cheerful under mighty difficult circumstances for a housewife. But they all had the spirit of a great cause for Christ. That is what counts. There wasn't much we could do right then so we drove on.

Fremont, Ohio Our New Mission Point.

On Sunday, Jan. 28, we drove to Fremont that early Sunday morning to meet with this new group of Brethren. This is a group of Brethren who were formerly members of the First Brethren Church of Fremont. They are now starting a new work in another part of the city where there is no real Christian work going on. The section they are locating in is a new section where new homes are going up right along. This city is a live community of 18,000 people supported by a strong industrial business. There is a great need for a strong fundamental church in that city and one that has a passion for reaching lost souls. The blessing of God has rested upon this new work from the very beginning. By the leading of the Lord they have secured a small Presbyterian mission hall on the outskirts of the city for their services. The Presbyterian people very graciously rented the hall to our folks for all the services they need. The Presbyterians have a Sunday afternoon Sunday school that meets there but that is all. They are pleased to have the building used more fully for the Lord. Already our people have selected a site for their new work. They plan to buy lots and build as quickly as possible. The spirit of devotion for Christ among the group is most gratifying indeed

The work has been growing right along. On the Sunday that we were there the room was just about full. Everyone was enthused by the way the work was growing. The men were busy bringing folks to the services in their machines. On every side there was the spirit of desiring to do something to make the work grow. It was catching. You could not help but feel it once you got among them. They already have a young people's Christian Endeavor of over 20. The group has accumulated a nice sum of money for buying equipment. They have bought chairs and a piano. They are getting these things ahead of time so that when they have the building to care for they will have these on hand. They have already pledged a splendid sum for purchasing their lots. We hope to help them buy them on our next trip through going west.

On the day we were there they were organized into a real Brethren church and chose for their name, "The Grace Brethren Church," of Fremont, Ohio. They elected all their officers, chose a constitution committee, and a building committee, and authorized purchase of certain equipment. Then they voted unanimously to come under the administration of The Brethren Home Missions Council. Finally, they elected Brother Jack Simmons, one of our most promising young ministers who has one more year to complete his work at Grace Seminary, as their pastor.

We are glad to have a couple of pictures to publish showing the group outside of their present meeting place and also one of the pastor, Brother Simmons. You will hear more of this work right along.

Revival At Waynesboro—

Though we have worked all around this city for the last ten years, yet we had never before held a meeting for this church. One thing sure, we are mighty glad that we came to Waynesboro this time. Brother Crees, the pastor, with his usual efficiency, had everything ready. Nothing escapes this man's eye. He has everything in mind every minute. He had a radio hour set for the meetings for three nights a week at the Hagerstown station. He had his advertising in every corner of the city and in the newspapers. He had his own people ready with Spirit-filled prayer meetings for weeks before the campaign opened. Needless to say, when we got there things were ready.

From the first night there was fine attendance at the meetings and the interest continued right up to the last. There were delegations many nights from the Brethren in Hagerstown. Brother Homer Kent and members of his group drove all the way from Washington, D. C. to the meetings. A ladies quartet from the local Church of the Brethren sang for us splendidly. The famous Jubilee Male Quartet from Washington, D. C. came over and sang for us on two Sundays. Orville Lorenz and his wife drove over from Meyersdale one Monday and we had a fine time together. In fact there was real fellowship at Waynesboro all around during these meetings.

Brother Robert Crees has done a wonderful work in this church. They are doing the biggest things for Christ in the history of the church. Their offerings are larger to missions. They have purchased a fine new parsonage and have it practically all paid for already. Their Sunday School packs practically every available space in the building. And best of all there is a fine spirit of unity throughout the entire congregation. Everybody works and helps along. There is a splendid group of capable laymen in this church who are standing by the pastor to a man. There is a real future ahead of this church if they continue in the will of the Lord. The influence and testimony of these people are already felt far and wide.

This was our fourth meeting with Brother Crees and it was the best of all. He is now in a field where God can use him at his best. It is a pleasure to work with a real workman for God. And our home was with the pastor and his wife once more. It is always a blessing to spend a while in their home. Everything is simply turned over to a guest and nothing more could be asked. The true spirit of Christ is there and what more could be asked? May God bless them all and all the precious ones who made their way to Calvary during the meetings. Amen.

Back In Wooster Again—

From Ellet we drove through Wooster to see how the building was progressing and found that it was about finished. The finishing touches were being put on then. They were sweeping out the main room for a meeting that night. They will use their own building from now on. Papering, painting, and the fire escape, and then they are done. It is going to make a fine meeting place. The pastor and his wife like it better the longer they stay there. That is a good sign. The people are standing by the work with their time and their money and are caring for their obligations promptly. Soon there will be more people to share the load with them. Now it is hard and means real sacrifice. But it is the sacrifices that we are happy to look back on when we think of serving our Lord. The easy times give us little comfort. A real witness for Christ is needed in Wooster and The Brethren Church is going to give it. That is our calling.

The Executive Committee Meeting—

The mid-year executive meeting was held on Washington's birthday. We didn't chop down any cherry trees or tell any lies, but we certainly did a lot of business during 12 hours of that day and night. A lot of business can be done if all the information is at hand and all things are ready. The committee was deeply moved at the way our Father God had blessed the work during the last four months. It was a cause for real rejoicing to see how God had already sent in $22,600.00 since our annual report. There was also rejoicing over the many new fields that had come to us just since conference. We closed our budget last August with 10 mission points. Our new budget for the rest of the year has seventeen points, with several more fine fields just waiting for approval by the Board of Directors. While such evidence was cause for comfort in the manifest favor of God upon us, yet it also meant that these added points called for more men and means, and we do not have them. We have enough for our first budget, but what shall be done for all the rest? Just one thing is left for us to do, and that is to tell the whole story to our people and leave it with them, and our Lord. It is likely that if we are to take care of the fields God is sending us, that we will have to ask for another offering about June. The directors are now deciding that matter. Later announcement will be made of this.

Our Newest Brethren Church—

Right after the close of our Executive Committee meeting we drove to Flora, Ind., on the following Sunday and met with the new Brethren group in that city. There are about 85 Brethren in this work and they are going forward for God. Their Sunday School attendance was 79 the day we were there. There was a fine attendance at the church service also. The spirit of these people is simply fine and they are stirred to make a real work for God in that city.

AROUND THE COUNCIL TABLE

Triumphs At Tracy

A. R. P. has become a trilogy of the alphabet more often spoken and seen in the British Isles than N. R. A. or W. P. A. have ever been used in America. No street, nor road, no bit of country is without an air-raid warden responsible to insure the perfect blackout as the main factor in Britain's air-raid precautions. The country was forced to go black or else the cities would have appeared from the air as pools of darkness in the midst of light.

A new industry has grown up in the furnishing of air-raid precaution shelters. Each of the family knows the one closest to his home and the shortest way to it. This in a civilized world!

God has long provided a fully furnished shelter for every need. David learned to say, "What time I am afraid, I will trust in Thee" (Ps. 56:3). In the precious Word of God we have our refuge from every difficulty and every sorrow.

In Tracy we are experiencing today a blackout! It is the "blackout of sin." Jesus said long ago that men loved darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil. Do sinners seek the house of God? How many unsaved people attend your church which has been established for a decade or more? Tracy is no different from any other American small-town industrial city which is at the same time a center for an agricultural area of highly specialized farming? Everything is seasonal except the season for attending the spiritual services of the church! That season somehow doesn't have its autumn or spring.

But God in Christ has triumphed in the midst of the blackout in Tracy. Let us be fair with God and count our many blessings. It has been well said, "No minister, however gifted, can build up a parish without the enthusiastic cooperation of the membership. Any minister, however limited, can do it if he has that cooperation." All that has been accomplished in the Lord's vineyard in Tracy is due to the blessing of God upon us in the cooperation of faithful members. "The faithful few" from this humble work will not be the last nor the least in the day of rewards.

Through persistent prayer that prevailed upon our God to prosper us in winning souls, the Lord Jesus has saved souls for His eternal glory. During our first year on the field a score of precious souls have been won for Him. Others have dedicated their lives in full time Christian service. Not all have been baptized in the case of young people because of parental opposition. Please pray for these parents. It would do your heart good to see two full rows of young people in the mid-week prayer service giving precious promises, testifying, and making prayer requests for the salvation of their parents. To the pastor's faithful and diligent companion goes the human credit for the very splendid "Grace Choir" numbering about 20 young people of junior and senior high school ages. God bless each one!

God triumphed in our special offerings during the year. Our goal last Easter was $200 and we went over the top with $260 for foreign missions in 1939. Believing in "dollar for dollar" we set the same goal for home missions and reached over $240.00!

We now look forward to an evangelistic Bible conference in April with our beloved Dr. J. C. Beal. God richly blessed his Spirit-filled ministry among us last year. In May we are praying and planning for a Jewish conference with Bro. Zimmerman of the Los Angeles branch of American Board of Missions to the Jews, which branch is now our own Brethren Jewish Mission project.

By Robert D. Culver

THE GHENT BRETHERN CHURCH of Roanoke, Va., of which H. W. Koontz is pastor has scheduled a revival meeting March 19-31. R. Paul Miller will be the evangelist.

JUST A WORD OF GREETING FROM DANVILLE, (Ohio). We had a wonderful day yesterday with Bro. Curtis Morrill speaking at both services. Icy roads and sickness lowered our attendance, but nevertheless we had a great day. For Sunday School we had 100% Bibles—a card from Nellie Magers.

THE PIKE BRETHERN CHURCH, (Pa.), Kenneth Ashman, pastor, have just completed a new parsonage east of the church. The parsonage was constructed mostly by volunteer help from the members and paid for in the same way.—Bulletin, Conemaugh, Pa.

GOOD NEWS FROM RITTMAN, OHIO, L. L. Grubb, pastor, taken from bulletin of Feb. 25. Sunday School is increasing with a transportation committee doing good work. Christian Endeavor organization has grown from one small society to four and another is about to be organized. Nine have been taken into church membership recently. This about the Herald, "The Brethren Missionary Herald in every home, is our motto.

THE WEST TENTH STREET BRETHERN CHURCH, Ashland, Ohio, of which C. W. Mayes is pastor, has cause for real rejoicing. The pastor reports 11 conversions in the morning service two weeks ago, and two baptisms the evening of the same day. 253 were in Sunday School last Sunday. The church has practically crowded out its quarters.

THE YEAR BOOK FOR 1940 OF THE LONG BEACH FIRST CHURCH recently published bears some interesting and happy information. A few items follow. Since the founding of the church 2,668 members have been received into membership, 2,438 of these by baptism. Present membership is 1415. Average Bible School attendance last year was 1,291.

BROTHER CURTIS MORRILL will be available for missionary message in some of the eastern churches for a few weeks. Those desiring to secure his services may write him at 713 Fairbanks St., Ashland, O.

DR. J. C. BEAL, field representative of The Brethren Missionary Herald Co., also has a little time available for Bible conference and evangelistic work. Fine results of his work in the Grace Brethren Church of Waterloo, Ia., prior to the arrival of their pastor, Rev. F. G. Coleman, have been reported. Brother Beal may be contacted by writing him at 326 S. Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

OUR BOYS and GIRLS VERY OWN PAGE

The Price Mary Jane Paid

By Mrs. Ernest Pine

Do you boys and girls have to suffer to become a Christian? Do you have to keep it a secret that you are a Christian? Many boys and girls do keep it a secret when they shouldn't and they never tell anyone else about Jesus. Today I want to tell you about a little girl I know that really had to suffer to be a follower of Jesus.

Some children's meetings were being held in the community, and little printed announcements had been passed out in the school yard. One of these slipped into the hands of a little girl about ten years old, by the name of Mary Jane. She responded to the invitation and entered the little church where choruses were being lustily sung by the children. She couldn't sing the choruses or give any Bible verse when verses were called for, because it seemed all new to her and she didn't know any. But she paid attention and listened to all that was said and done.

At the close of the lesson the teacher asked if there were any boys and girls there that would like to know Jesus as their own Savior, and would let Him come into their hearts. While they were singing a chorus all you boys and girls probably know, "Into My Heart, Come Into My Heart, Lord Jesus," Mary Jane walked up to the front and said she wanted to know more about Jesus. Other boys and girls came, too, but the teacher noticed that Mary Jane seemed so sincere and wanted to know more about Jesus. The teacher explained the wonderful plan God has provided to save our lost souls through accepting His Son Jesus Christ, and Mary Jane whole-heartedly gave her life to Him. She also told the teacher she had no Bible, and that there was none from which she could read in her home so she could come to know more about her new-found Savior. So she was given a testament, and she went home apparently very happy.

Mary Jane was late the next week for Bible class, but she had brought a brother and sister with her. The teacher noticed that she was quite nervous, and that she kept looking back at the door as if she were frightened. When the teacher asked her to find a verse in her own Bible, she saw that it was dirty and abused, so after the class she asked Mary Jane to wait because she wanted to talk with her.

"Mary Jane, why is your Bible so dirty?" asked the teacher.

"Well," answered Mary Jane, "you see I have to bury it in the back yard when I go home, because I would receive a whipping if I should dare to bring a Bible home."

"Why, aren't your parents Christians?" asked the teacher.

"No," answered Mary Jane. "You see we are Catholics and I am not supposed to be coming to your church, but I just came over here while my mother thinks I am out playing on the street somewhere."

It was some weeks later that Mary Jane seemed to have dropped out of the Bible class, and also her brother and sister did not come. Finally on the street one day the teacher of the class happened to meet Mary Jane.

"Why, hello, Mary Jane. We have been missing you at Bible class. Have you been sick?"

Mary Jane looked around her like a frightened rabbit before answering, hardly knowing whether to talk to the teacher or not.

"Well," she began, "the priest came to our house and threatened to put my mother out of the church if she let us continue coming. He found it out somewhere, and then mother found my nice Bible and burned it up. She beat me and my brother and sister that had come with me. I was sick in bed from the beating. But I still love Jesus, and I'm going to remember what you told me about Him, and maybe some day I can come to Bible class again."

The teacher assured Mary Jane that they would pray for her, and maybe some day the Lord would make it possible for her to come to Bible class again.

Boys and girls, think what it cost Mary Jane to be a Christian, and to come to just a few Bible classes. She was beaten! Were you ever severely punished because you wanted to serve Jesus? This didn't happen in Africa, or any far away dark country, but right here in our own land. All around us are boys and girls that aren't allowed to have Bibles and to sing about Jesus like we can. Let's pray for them and strive to tell them about Jesus as we meet them at school and at

Our Bible Character Alphabet

Answer to last week's character: Esau.

F was a governor to whom a prisoner preached the gospel. F trembled at the preaching, for he was a sinful man. But instead of getting right with God, F said he would have the prisoner preach to him again when it suited him better. If you do not know F's name, find it in Acts 24:24-25.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

MOSES, THE LAWGIVER

(Acts 7:17-36)

Suggestions for the Leader

Moses will always be an important figure in the three great religions that defend the idea of the unity of God. Some object to calling Christianity a religion and in a real sense it is more than a religion; it is life. The Jews and Mohammedans along with Christians recognize Moses as a wonderful man of his day.

We can hardly understand or appreciate the apparent impossible barriers that confronted Moses. He had to take a stand against a king. He had the task of securing a following among people who were ignorant and in slavery.

The life of Moses is associated with the ten commandments. Remember, Moses did not write them; but that God wrote them for him. Moses merely delivered them to the people.

Once the lawgiver was called the meekest man on the earth—the strongest yet meekest. Meekness is a trait of Christianity too. (Gal. 5:23). It takes real courage to control one's temper or to refrain from "getting even."

The one we study about tonight set an example for every young person desiring to do the will of God. Moses chose the reproach of Christ as greater riches than the treasures of Egypt. How searching this is for us? Would you be willing to sacrifice something for Christ?

1. Moses a Child Born Under Bondage.

Ex. 2:14; Heb. 11:23.

1. The change of kings in Egypt brought up one that was not a friend of Joseph and therefore not a friend of the Israelites.

2. Before his time, Joseph had found favor in the court of Egypt.

3. The devil threatened to destroy the Jews many times.

- a. The Jews were already slaves to the cruel Egyptians.
- b. The male children were supposed to be killed at birth.

4. Moses was born under this threat.

2. Moses, a Youth in the Palace. Ex. 2:10; Acts 7:21-22.

1. God is able to over-come evil to make it work out for good.

2. Moses could not have escaped had he lived with his parents. However the daughter of the king took him to be her child. In this way the Lord provided a training for Moses in the royal court.

3. God showed His power in the face of obstacles too high and difficult for man.

3. The Great Decision of Moses. Ex. 2:11, 12; Heb. 11:24-26.

1. Moses was a man of faith and believed that God had greater things for him than merely the things of this life which pass away.

2. He surrendered every opportunity for fame in Egypt to be a servant of God.

3. Every person must make choices or decisions in life. The way you choose will determine your happiness.

4. Always think far enough into the future to see the end of things. Moses saw that in the end he would be far better off by standing with the children of God.

4. The Call of Moses. Ex. 3:10.

1. After conversion, God calls saved people into special service.

2. We can not tell for sure when God will call us; but we do know that Moses waited 40 years.

3. While waiting for a larger task, Moses was content to be busy about the ordinary things.

4. Doing God's will is a matter of taking a step at a time, and doing it in His way.

5. Moses at Sinai. Ex. 24:12-18.

1. All of the wisdom of Egypt could not be sufficient for the needs of God's people.

2. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom.

3. Moses had to put aside his own plans to listen to God's plans and teachings.

4. To make a profession now means we also come under a law. Ours is not the Old Testament law; but the law of the Spirit. (Rom. 8:2).

6. Moses at Pisgah. Deut. 34:1-6.

1. Moses could not go into the promised land because in his weakness he did not carry out God's will.

2. He looked into the promised land but did not get in. In this way many Christians look into the possibilities of a joyous Christian life but do not enter because of some besetting sin, unbelief, disobedience or weakness. The promised land is the victorious life.

QUESTIONS

1. Why did Moses turn away from Egypt and turn to His own people? Heb. 11:24-26.
2. How were the ten commandments written? Ex. 31:18.
3. How do we know that life consists of more than the abundance of things that a man possesses? Luke 12:15.

ADDITIONAL SCRIPTURE

God's estimate of Moses is suggested further by the following passages: Num. 12:5-8; Heb. 3:2-5; Psa. 103:7; Rev. 15:3.

The estimate of Israel after Moses' death: Deut. 34:10-12.

The reappearance of Moses: Matt. 17:3.

Junior-Intermediate Topic—

THE MOVING WORLD

An Army in Palestine

(An Editorial by C. W. Mayes)

A recent newspaper article states that "contingents of the Second Australian Imperial Expeditionary Force arrived today in Palestine." It is further stated that the military force is to strengthen the Allied forces now "estimated at a million or more men."

There is a great revival in Palestine. It is not a revival of Christianity, but one of general activity. Only a few years ago men stated frequently that Palestine was dead. Men thought that country would never flourish again, as it seemed there was nothing of value in that barren and desolate land.

Recent years have revealed some most stubborn trends. The Dead Sea is now found to be worth billions. Many nations are discovering that the land of Palestine cannot be ignored. In fact, it is rapidly becoming a land greatly to be desired. Palestine is alive with activity, both commercial and military.

For those who know and believe God's Word, this is no surprise. Palestine, the navel of the earth, will yet be the world's greatest battleground. As the shadows of Armageddon fall across the world's path we can only expect that many other contingents of the armies of the earth will march into Palestine. And ultimately they will all march to their doom! The Lord Himself will yet reign from that land. "Out of Zion shall go forth the law, and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem." (Isa. 2:3). All the armies of earth shall be crushed.

THEY shall say peace—

Some pronouns in God's Word are most revealing. In the epistles of Paul, we refers to believers.

They often refers to those who are without—those who belong to the world and have never drunk of the water of life. Although they may be found in the professing body of believers, they are they nevertheless.

The apostle wrote, "When they shall say peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them." It is perfectly clear that they and them refer to those outside the salvation of Christ. Certainly, the cries from the world of peace and safety are not without significance. Mighty power in the world from the pope to the befuddled modernist preacher are calling, "peace; peace," when there is no peace. We can sympathize with the millions who long for peace, but this is not God's day for world peace. A world which has rejected the one and only Prince of Peace must take the consequences. The believer who stands to declare the whole counsel of God on this subject is certain to be branded "narrow minded," "destructive to human progress," "out of harmony with modern trends," or just plain "pessimistic." Well, whatever we may be called, the believer must stand upon the proposition, "Let God be true, but every man a liar" (Rom. 3:4). After all, men are liars except when they speak in harmony with God's truth.

We would not be surprised to see the immediate future bring forth more world pleas for peace than the world has ever known before. We would not be surprised to find peace movements among men in religious circles which will eclipse all such past pleas. Yes, we want peace, but we do not cry out what the world wants to hear—peace and safety. We must cry out according to God's Word that peace will never come to this troubled and sorrowing world until the Prince of Peace arrives with His feet on the Mount of Olives and takes His rightful place as King of kings and Lord of lords.

WORDS FROM LOVERS OF THE WORD

I. M. Haldeman, D. D.:—

"Those who know the Bible is the Word of God, who know it for themselves and not another, who find its verification every day in the foretold and fulfilling events that salute it as they pass, who know it in the deep consciousness of its power to move the soul, these dwell as in the ivory palaces of the King and behold His beauty in every turning. These drink of the Bible as of a spring of never failing spiritual life and strength; feed upon it as daily bread; look through it as through a telescope into the heaven of God, into that court where holiness is the fashion; yield themselves to it as to fingers that sweep a harp's strings into music; have that spiritual sense which unerringly discerns the truth; are unafraid of the demands it makes; and day by day as they read it on bended knee and with obedient spirit, find it to be the very breath of God breathing to them in its slightest terms and proving every word and the sum of it all to be in very truth the Living Word of the Living God."

IS WEEK'S POEM

Little While

A little while for patient vigil-keeping,
To face the stern—to wrestle with the strong,
A little while to sow the seed with weeping,
Then bind the sheaves and sing the harvest-song.

A little while to keep the oil from failing,
A little while faith's flickering lamp to trim,
And then, the Bridegroom's coming footsteps hailing, We'll haste to meet Him with the bridal hymn."

—T. L. Cuyler.

Keep the Men Busy"

Mr. F. A. Agar, secretary of the Northern Baptist Convention, stated recently that 46% of the church membership is idle. He urged a mobilization of the men to back up the church program. He believes without tasks to do the men will not maintain a healthy relationship to the church. "Keep the men busy" might be a good slogan.

ILLUSTRATIVE JOTTINGS

Not Afraid to Confess Christ

"Ye shall be my witnesses" (Acts 1:8).

In one of our meetings a little tow-headed Norwegian boy stood up. He could hardly speak a word of English, but he got up and came to the front. He trembled and the tears trickled down his cheeks as he said, "If I tell the world about Jesus, He will tell the Father about me." That was all he said, but I tell you in those few words he said more than all the rest of them, young and old together. They went straight down into the heart of every one present. "If I tell the world"—yes, that's what it means to confess Christ.—D. L. Moody.

PELLETS FOR PREACHERS

Jesus and Preaching

Jesus chose preaching as the method of extending the knowledge of Himself throughout the world. He taught His truth to a few men, and then He said, "Now go and tell that truth to other men."

—Phillips Brooks.

"Thou Gavest Bread from Heaven for Their Hunger" (Neh. 9:15)

South America is cursed with a baptized paganism which has hung like a millstone round its neck for four centuries. Romanism, with its hatred and open hostility to the circulation of the Scriptures; with Mariolatry (the worship of Mary) of the most debased character; with its traffic in indulgences, and its exorbitant charges for baptisms and confessions, for the marriage of the living and the burial of the dead; with the gross and general immorality of its priesthood; has reached a depth of ignorance, a superstition, and filth which can find no parallel in any other continent."—Rev. Chas. Inwood, F. R. G. S.

A missionary in South America writes:

"I have had the privilege of working amongst the people here for twenty years. I have found, and still find, that those untouched by Protestant effort are as dark and needy as those in pagan lands, for the Church of Rome has withheld the light from them and given them stones for bread. These poor souls have no more idea of the way of salvation than pagans. Can there be any question as to whether these should have the Word of God given to them?

Could not sleep for joy:

And what wonderful terms is the offer made. Free! Free! Free! Free kindness we show; free salvation we proclaim; eternal life for absolutely nothing! "Why," said one of our Roman Catholic converts, "I have always been taught that salvation MEANS MONEY, and penance; but you say it is all free!" "And for three nights," she told the worker afterwards, "I could not sleep for the joy of that thought—that salvation is to be had FOR NOTHING!

The only answer:

"What man is there of you whom if his son ask BREAD, will he give him a STONE."—

GO YE TO ALL THE WORLD

By Martha S. Nicholson

"Go ye to all the world!" And have we gone?
Are we unruffled, knowing that the dawn
In heathen lands means but another day begun,
Another day without the blessed Sun
Of righteousness and peace, another day
When souls who have forever lost the way
Sink deeper in the dark morass of sin,
Hopeless and lost, at last to enter in
To an eternal night? . . . . .

Ah, God of love
And tender pity, from Thy throne above
Beholding them, and willing not that one Should ever perish, Thou didst send Thy Son,
Who bought them with His blood! . . . But unto us,
To US, Thou didst entrust the glorious
And wondrous news, and into our weak hands
Didst place the torch to lighten heathen lands!

Strengthen our arms, dear Lord, to hold it high!
O ransomed of the Lord, if you and I Fail in this thing—"Their blood," I hear Him say,
"Will I require of you upon that day!"

"Go ye to all the world! Is it a TASK,
To do for Me this one last thing I ask?"

EDITORIALS

By Louis S. Bauman

INTRODUCING GENE FARRELL

We are happy to introduce a new contributor to the Foreign Missionary Number of the Brethren Missionary Herald. Mr. Gene Farrell, a member of the First Brethren Church of Long Beach, California, has written an article for us on the subject, "Into All The World." Brother Farrell is a young man who is truly devoted to his Lord. So far as we know, up until the writing of this brief article for the Herald his literary efforts have been confined to the writing of poetry. He has a talent along this line of no mean order. The editor is the possessor of a small volume of his poems and the lines he writes are not only mere poetry, but every line breathes a message. At the close of the article that we are presenting in this issue will be found one of Brother Farrell's poems, containing three stanzas, written especially for the article itself. It certainly bears a real message that all Brethren should heed at this Easter time.

THE TRUE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS—

One year ago the following item appeared in the calendar of the First Brethren Church of Whittier, California:

FOREIGN MISSIONS

"It is the opinion of the official board that it will be unwise to begin operations on the proposed Bible School unit this year. Therefore the official board suggests that any who have contributed to the building fund who desire to make additional gifts to our foreign mission offering may apply to the financial officers of the church for release of the amount of their accumulated building fund gifts. The board feels that the Lord will bless those who thus increase their gifts to foreign missions to help to maintain our present missionary force on the field, and if possible, to send additional missionaries to the needy field now calling for the gospel. You may have your money upon asking for it."

Little wonder that the Lord hath abundantly blessed the church of Whittier during this last year. How many churches in the brotherhood are there that would actually give those who had contributed to a building fund the privilege of withdrawing the money from that fund and placing it in a foreign mission offering? How many churches are there that would suggest a thing like that? Indeed, we will have to say that such a church is rare. Nevertheless, here is a church that has put first things first. It is the absolute duty of every church, if we know the meaning of words within the gospel of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, to make its first business the giving of the gospel to every creature. We cannot think of anything that will bring down greater condemnation in the day of judgment than for a church to eat its bread alone. The church that does that may well meditate upon the picture that Christ drew of a certain man by the name of Dives, who feasted sumptuously every day and left a beggar die upon his doorstep, desiring the crumbs that might fall from his table. It is infinitely worse to deny a man the necessary food for his soul than it is to deny him bread for his body. The soul is of infinitely greater worth than is the body. Christian, at this Easter time think it over.

A POPULAR ERROR—

"All God requires of us," we read in a current magazine, "is good works. Therein is the entire law of God." All of which is all wrong! John, the revelator, was on Patmos. From heaven itself, the voice of God spake to him and said: "Unto the angel of the church of Ephesus write: . . . I know thy works, and thy labor, and thy patience, and how thou . . . for My sake hast labored, and hast not fainted. Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love!" And when the Master walked the earth, a lawyer asked Him this question, "Master, which is the great commandment of the law?" Jesus said unto him, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment." Verily, "Though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not love, it profiteth me nothing." So wrote the greatest of the apostles. A wife may occupy her hands from morning to night with good works for her husband; but, if, at nightfall, he comes home and finds her lacking in love, what then? Good as "good works" may be, there is something that is better—something that comes first, and that is love. Mary, not Martha, won the Lord's

THE POWER OF THE SIMPLE STORY—

The simple gospel story is still the world's great appeal. We wish to quote here a very interesting item from an editorial in the January-February (1940) number of the "World Dominion." It ought to interest us in The Brethren Church. We quote:

"Gospel preaching on the continent of Europe is now dominated by two Reformation thoughts: Luther's 'By grace alone,' and Calvin's 'The sovereignty of God.' Karl Barth, in Basle, discourages his students from developing their own brilliant thought from a text, urging them rather to stick to the text in reverence and obedience. Under such influences, continental preaching has become more Biblical and more dynamic, more orthodox and Christo-centric in its theology.

"In Eastern Europe, preaching does not so much grow out of theological thinking as a response to Bible reading. The Bible itself has been, and is, the great teacher of how to preach. The man who reads the Bible, preaches; and this lay-preaching is heard all over Eastern Europe.

"A new Bible-reading movement is spreading in the Roman Catholic Church, from Stuttgart; and the Orthodox Greek priests, at their famous conferences at Narva, not only kissed the Book as a part of their services, but studied it with the joy of a great discovery."

If these words mean anything, it means that the message of the modernist is not making an appeal in the dark days when the war clouds are hanging over Europe and when death is lurking in every corner. Modernism holds out little hope for a world that is sinking. The world begins to realize that the panaceas of modernism are furnishing no healing. After all, the only healing that this world knows and the only comfort that it can receive comes from the simple, old-fashioned gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, preached though it may be by some humble simple layman on a street corner.

What a day of opportunity for The Brethren Church as long as it remains utterly true to its slogan, "The Bible, the whole Bible, and nothing but the Bible." Verily, if The Brethren Church will be true to herself and true to God, God has raised her up for just such a time as this. Of all the churches in the world we should be most missionary in spirit.

THE DEFEAT THAT WAS VICTORY—

There was a time, in the days before the radio, before telegraph, before telephone, that the fate of Europe, and especially the fate of England, hung on the battle of Waterloo. On that momentous day all of England was under a tremendous tension, awaiting news from that battlefield. It had been arranged to transmit news by the speediest method then known —semaphores flashing news from station to station. At one of these stations, late in the day came the words: "Wellington defeated"! Just then, a heavy fog suddenly drifted in, and no more news was possible for some time. The darkness of despair settled over London and over all of England. The general feeling was, "All is lost!"

Then suddenly the fog lifted, as quickly as it came. It was found that the message had been cut off and was now completed thus "the enemy." "Wellington defeated the enemy!" Despair vanished. Groaning gave place to shouting, and sighing gave place to song.

Was there ever a day so dark as that terrible day when the Prince of glory hung apparently helpless upon the cross? The Lord of life had come to grips with man's greatest enemy—death! His head was dropping down upon His bosom. The blackness of starless midnight settled over Jerusalem at noonday. The hope of the kingdom of God was expiring on the cross with the King. "It is finished"—the host of wickedness was victorious! And, as that blackness of midnight fell, the news went forth, "Jesus, the Christ, defeated"! The demon world made merry. All hell held jubilee. But things are not always what they seem. Early on the third day fog vanished before the rising of a glorious morning sun. Behold, the tomb was empty! The angel of God pointed toward an empty tomb and cried over the despairing world, "He is not here! He is risen!" And now the message was complete, "Jesus, the Christ, defeated the enemy!"

His "defeat" proved to be His most glorious victory! The cross—the weapon that seemed to be set for His utter destruction—suddenly became the instrument of His power. It is ever, and always has been, the symbol of victory.

God is never defeated. Truth is never utterly crushed. Righteousness is never utterly overthrown. The forces of hell may shout their majorities, the cunning demons may boast their prowess, Satan may mock at "the feebleness of the saints," darkness and despair may all but vanish hope from the hearts of the faithful; but the future belongs to God! The final triumph belongs to those who, led of His Spirit, march with Him! And the sun is never late! In the set time of God, "unto you that fear My name shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in His wings" (Mal. 4:2). No matter how black the night, no matter how strong seem those that do evil, no matter how cruel are they that seem to triumph, no matter how unjust are they that have grasped the seats of power—"God reigneth!" and not one moment late, He will bring forth the triumph of His saints! "Joy cometh in the morning!"

THE ONLY LOSS ANY BRETHREN CHURCH NEED FEAR—

In the meshes of the present turmoil that is everywhere present in the world today—especially the turmoil in which the whole religious world seems to be plunged—Brethren churches have only one thing to fear—the fear that they may lose their own souls.

Stone, brick, mortar, every material possession—what are they? God pity us all if ever we barter our souls for crumbling clay! The Bard of Avon once truly wrote:

"Who steals my purse steals trash; 'tis something, nothing;

'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands;
But he that filches from me my good name
Robs me of that which not enriches him
And makes me poor indeed."

We repeat: The only thing any Brethren church has to fear is that it may set its affections upon things material and lose its real soul. Let others possess the crumbling stuff of time. Let us never yield our grasp on the things that alone can eternally abide—faith, hope, and love! Let us never grieve the Spirit of the living God, that keeps us and makes us like the Christ. Whatever else a man may have—"If any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His"—and losing Christ, he has lost all!

On the other hand, the man who keeps the Spirit of the living God breathing within his breast—has all! He shall not, cannot want!

A HEATHEN WOMAN'S FACE

Mrs. W. M. Turnbull, in Alliance Weekly.

Have you ever read the sorrow in a heathen woman's face,

As you met her eye to eye amid the throng?
She who is by sex your sister, though of different race,

Have you ever wondered why she has no song?

It will take no occult power to fathom all her secrets deep,

And it needs no cruel probing just to know;
If you're filled with Christ's compassion and can weep with those who weep,
All her inmost soul will then to you outflow.

If you let Christ's love flow through you with a power she can feel,

She will follow close behind you as you go;
And if you but turn a moment, you will meet her mute appeal

For a blessing that your shadow might bestow.

Yes, she feels you bear the comfort she has sought for years to find,

In the temple, where her gods sit row on row,
And somehow your very presence breathes a balm for troubled mind,

For she feels that you must understand and know.

What I read is that her sorrow is a bondage cruel, strong,

And a burden stouter hearts would shun to bear,
And a bitter pang that follows in the wake of grossest wrong,

And a loneliness akin to dark despair.

She's a prisoner that beats against the very bars of life,

And she longs for death, yet dares not, must not die
She is cursed with cruel curses should she be a sonless wife,

And a baby daughter answer cry with cry.

She's the common drudge of yesterday and dreads the cruel morrow,

While today the weary hours drag like a chain.
And she prays to gods all deafened to her tale of sin and sorrow,

Or if they hear, are heedless of her pain.

Wife of a Karre chief near Bassai

She's the daughter of her mother, who before her trod the road.

She's the mother of a daughter who will know
All the depths of her own anguish, all the heavy,
weary load,
All the bitterness a heathen woman's woe!

No, 'tis not a heathen woman—'tis a piteous captive throng,

In the deserts, jungles, paddy fields and marts,
In the lands that know not Jesus, lands of cruelty and wrong,

Where there is no balm for wounded, aching hearts.

Shall we let this stream flow downward in its widening, deathward way?

Shall we let this flood of misery hold its throng?
We can stem the deadly current if we go and give and pray—

They must join us in the glad redemption song!

"INTO ALL THE WORLD . . ."

By Gene Farrell, Long Beach, Calif.

"Now when they . . . were forbidden of the Holy Ghost to preach the word in Asia . . . they assayed to go into Bithynia: but the Spirit suffered them not."

If only the Spirit of God were the prohibitor instead of the unyielded members of Christ's body, how swiftly and surely would He evangelize the entire world. Modern civilization has leveled the mountains and spanned the seas; every visible obstacle has been removed which would interfere with the world-wide dissemination of the gospel; and yet, because of the unsundered state of the church, the great purpose of God goes begging.

The mission fields scream for assistance. The 2,200,000,000 unevangelized cry aloud for the gospel. The 40,000,000 who will die in the year 1940 lift their voices in unison for the Savior. In answer to this unspeakable need, which is the heart-cry of a lost humanity, doomed for that "lake of fire" which is the only recourse of justice, what excuse can we possibly offer? What plea can we conscientiously make for our personal rights when such pleas as these are sounding in our ears from every side? God help us to mingle obedience with our vision that our cold, calculating hearts be quickened to hot, reckless abandon, whereby we may repeat with Paul: "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?"

Immediately we ask such a question of the Lord—granted that it has originated from an unconditional sell-out to Jesus Christ and His demands—we release into our lives the flood tide of His purpose. He is able then to make known unto us the mystery of His will. Whereas we formerly moved through torturous days of indecision and doubt, now we fare forth in certainty, having the witness of the indwelling Spirit. Completely yielded, the Spirit of God can claim His blessed prerogative, and can lead us, via a closed or opened door, in those paths of service which will count for eternity.

A Simple Test

We can generally tell how fully we are yielded to God's call when the probabilities of His demands are given a personal application. If we begin to hedge, and to search our minds for plausible excuses, then we may know how truly subservient we are to His, "Go ye . . ." But if we can look each eventuality "straight in the eye," and flinch not as we say, "Here am I, send me"—then we may know that our discipleship is real, and we can assure ourselves before God and men, "having a good conscience."

It is then, with all personal prohibitions out of the way, that the Spirit of God can enforce His prohibitions, and lead us, with much assurance, into our place of service. We all have our little niche and only God can find it for us. No amount of mental exercise can get us there. We cannot philosophize our way through. We cannot let go of a little and expect a lot; neither can we let go of much and expect all. The solution to a spiritual muddle calls for one thing, complete committal—then, of a sudden, the path looms ahead like a ray of sunlight. A little grief and then all is forgotten in the wonder of His "good, and acceptable, and perfect will." We realize then that the demands of God are not cruel, but are rather the means whereby fractious children are led into the paths of peace.

The Spirit of God could lead Paul and Silas into Macedonia because they had first faced the possibility of Asia and Mithynia. As each of these doors were tightly bolted and barred, they promptly fronted the next eventuality: Troas. Here the Spirit of God gave full justification to the previous thwartings, as a vision of the Macedonian need appeared to Paul in the night. "Therefore," as reads the account in Acts, "Loosing from Troas, we came to . . . Philippi"; and we have but to open to the Phillipian epistle to determine the wisdom of the Spirit's leading and the great work for the Lord which was wrought there.

The Spirit of the living God has a place for us all in God's evangelic scheme; and He will as swiftly lead us to it as we will seek to be led. His guidance is conditional upon our surrender. "If any man will do . . . he shall know . . ." We must be careful, however, to surrender to an all-wise God rather than our mental conception of His wisdom or preconceived notion of His plan. This is the natural man's most subtle way of deceiving his conscience that his obedience cost him the least possible pain. "Where He leads me, I will follow," is the true prayer; not, "Where go, He will sanction."

God Knows Our Field

We have to admit that only He knows our place, whether it is the heart of Africa, or the neighborhood in which we live. Only as He leads can we assure our hearts. The call is to the "utmost part of the earth." "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." It has been truthfully said that no one has a right to hear the gospel twice until everyone has heard it once. The unevangelized fields are, therefore, our first concern. If we are "forbidden of the Holy Ghost" to go to these fields in the body, let us not be discouraged. The Spirit wants us elsewhere. It may be His will that we "go" as intercessors—fervent, persevering prayer-warriors, swaying the world with our petitions in His name. It may be His will that we "go" with our substance, "Being enriched in everything to all liberality" (R. V.), As long as our hearts are there, that is the chief concern. We can "go" without going. We can remain without remaining.

TRAGEDY OF UNEVANGELIZED MILLIONS

Oh the tragedy of the still unevangelized millions!

Three hundred millions still in the befogging maze of superstition-ridden Confucianism and demon-ridden Taoism.

210,000,000 still steeped in the grovelling idolatry of Hinduism.

* 130,000,000 still crowding the temples of Buddha.

220,000,000 still in the ugly grip of sensual, loveless, woman-degrading, heart-hardening Mohammedanism.

25,000,000 still debasing themselves in the shrines of Shintoism.

158,000,000 still groping in the unrelieved darkness and crass superstition of Animism.

270,000,000 shadowed beneath the sinister cloak of Rome, with its Mariolatry, its saint-worship, its magic ritual of the mass in which God is carried aloft as a piece of bread, its false doctrine of purgatory, its abominable confessionals and its many other deceiving teachings and ceremonials.

12,000,000 Jews still turning their back on Him who is indeed the "Light to lighten the Gentiles, and the Glory of God's people, Israel!"

Oh the tragedy of the still unevangelized millions!

Think of it; over 1,600,000,000 human beings on earth today; with moral accountability, intellectual activity, and immortal destiny—a mighty host marching to the grace and to a vast beyond. For their present and eternal happiness do we spare merely a passing or a passive thought? How amazingly unconcerned many of us are! Over 1,000,000,000 of the world's twentieth century population are non-Christians! Of the approximately 500,000,000 in so-called Christendom, including the millions of Roman Catholics and those of the Greek and Eastern churches, how many are merely nominal Christians, hypocrites, heretics, reprobates, unregenerate and spiritually unenlightened?

I say again, they are ocean-depths; and beloved, in my Master's name, I want you to measure them, I want you to think earnestly about them, I want you to look at them, until they appall you, until you cannot sleep, until you cannot criticise.

Missionaries are said to number in Africa, only one to every 80,000; in Korea, one to every 120,000; in Japan, one to every 170,000; in Indian, one to every 220,000; in China, one to every 470,000. It is said that, at the present rate of missionary progress, 80,000,000 negroes are beyond all prospect of hearing the gospel in their lifetime.

Look on the fields waiting to be reaped for Christ!

While the modern churches delay, unrelenting death—that other reaper with his wide unsparing scythe—lays millions low at a turn. 90,000 die each day and 60 every minute.

It is time for Christian action in Christian missions?

THE "OPEN SORE" OF THE WORLD

The dismay expressed by Sir Robert Borden, a former Prime Minister of Canada, on his return from Geneva, at the apathy of the League of Nations regarding the slave traffic, will be echoed by every right-thinking person throughout the Dominion. Sir Robert was Chairman of the Sixth Committee, which took under consideration (among other matters), that of slavery. In an address at Ottawa he said:

"I was astonished and dismayed to learn that at least 5,000,000 human beings are still in a condition of bondage, practically all of them in Africa," Sir Robert said. "It was disappointing to observe the apathetic indifference manifested by some of the States directly concerned. The plea was put forward, as in the past, that under tribal conditions in Africa the institution of slavery has prevailed for centuries, that the immediate liberation of slaves unaccustomed to individual effort would leave them destitute and utterly helpless, that their treatment is, on the whole, fairly humane, and that the creation of a commission to advance their liberation was inadvisable. This plea would point to almost indefinite postponement. To my regret, it so far prevailed as to postpone action until the next Assembly."

It is regrettable indeed that the League of Nations should further temporize with the hideous traffic of slavery. It may not be able to wipe it out at a stroke, but at least the League should set its face like a flint against this evil and do all in its power to hasten the day when no man may buy, sell or traffic in the bodies and souls of his fellow-men. Britain of all nations should be the last to countenance this trade. It was to help abolish the slave traffic that Livingstone gave thirty years of his life in Africa; and his last written words, that are now carved in stone in Westminster Abbey, were a prayer for the abolition of the desolating traffic:

"All I can add in my solitude is this: May Heaven's richest blessing come down on everyone—American, English or Turk—who will help to heal this open sore of the world."

While 5,000,000 slaves still exist, the "open sore" is yet far from being healed.—Ex.

THE SCRAMBLE FOR AFRICA

"H. A. B." in Gospel Messenger

In area the continent of Africa is about one and one-half times as large as North America. It contains 11,500,000 square miles of territory and has a population of approximately 160,000,000. The lower portions of the Nile valley were the seat of man's oldest advanced civilization. The upper reaches of the Congo basin shelter some of the last representatives of primitive men. Here is the Alpha and Omega against the continents.

Active interest in Africa in modern times dates from a little more than 60 years ago. It was around 1875, or 10 years after the close of the American Civil War, that the European powers began in earnest their scramble for some share in Africa. Britain, France and Portugal were first on the ground and today control the best of Africa, except the Belgian Congo. Germany and Italy came late and have been in the process of gaining or losing what was left.

The continent was won for white control through various forms of taking what was wanted. Here is a sample in the case of the Mediterranean littoral. "In 1881 a French army entered Tunisia, and compelled the bey to sign a treaty placing the country under French protection. The Sultan of Turkey formally protested against his invasion of Ottoman rights, but the great powers took no action, and France was left in the undisturbed possession of her newly acquired territory."

James S. Gribble, our Pioneer Missionary, telling "the Affair of God" to Chief Nakouine, Baya tribe, back in 1922.

TWO GOOD SUGGESTIONS

—from the African Field Treasurer

(Note.—A year ago, the African Field Council requested that no further appeals be made for The African Evangelists Fund, inasmuch as they felt that the native African church should be taught to support this work. Therefore, we published to the church at home this request, and gifts for that purpose have practically ceased. We are in full sympathy with the idea of the missionaries on this point. However, the missionaries have other great need for special funds—work that should greatly appeal to those in the homeland, whether individuals or auxiliary organizations of the church—and those who so desire may make their offerings for these special purposes, if they desire. Doing so will give them direct contact with the field.

We are publishing in full a letter we have just received from J. P. Kliever, African Field Treasurer, representing the advice of the African Field Council, of course. We publish it in full below. We shall be glad to receive from individual or church organization, funds for either of the following purposes as set forth in the Kliever communication: Chapel Visitation Fund, and African Bible Conference Fund. For the former, any amount can be sent. For the latter, $25.00 should be sent. The reading of the letters from our missionaries cannot help but reveal the tremendous need of both. The sheep must be shepherded. When once they accept Christ as their Savior after an appeal of an itinerating missionary, they must not be left to perish for want of care.—L. S. B.)

Bekora, F.E. Africa, Dec. 25, 1939

Dear Brother Bauman:

Last year a letter was written with the purpose of diverting the funds coming in to support evangelists on the field, to another channel, which we as a group of missionaries thought would bring greater glory and a wider testimony to the gospel in this field.

As you no doubt know, we are aiming at a self-supporting, self-propagating native church. The arguments in favor of this, in my mind at least, stand, with hardly anything but weak and tottering words trying to shake them. Paul never asked the home church at Jerusalem to support the churches he founded. It was really the other way around—they helped support the Jerusalem church. I know circumstances were somewhat different than they were here formerly; but now things are changing, and we are glad to be able to solicit that which we believe for the best good of the native church in Africa.

This letter is to give information especially to those that were so faithfully supporting the evangelists' fund. Since "it is more blessed to give than to receive," we would be robbing the native church of a blessing by taking this right and privilege of supporting her own evangelists and pastors. But there is another channel into which funds placed there would do great things in training evangelists, in encouraging those already in service, and strengthening the church in general. And it is with this thought in mind that we make the following suggestions.

We do not desire that money which would ordinarily be given to the general fund, or any other special fund, should be diverted into this; but that this might first of all be seen as the means to give help, by those who were so faithful to the evangelists' fund and would rather give to some direct method of evangelization. Then also, we hope that others who are as yet not giving might be inspired to give to this work, the evangelizing of Africa.

Our program for this fund would be two-fold. The first, which is a minor expense, but at the same time brings great blessing and help to native and missionary alike, is what is generally called "chapel visitation." To get to many of these chapel points involves an automobile trip; and gas is much higher here than in U.S.A. Some hapels are so situated that on one trip care could be given to several chapels. On other roads, one could go a long way and take care of several chapels. Thus you see, the care of a chapel varies as to cost, when averaging up the number of chapels on a road, with the distance required to visit them. These averages would range somewhat from $2.50 to $10.00 per chapel and if some one is interested in a particular group or chapel, we could give the exact cost of visiting it, say about four times a year. Or if some one would like to give a certain sum to this "chapel visitation," we could tell him which chapels his gift is supplying with missionary visitations.

These visits would be to teach the members there, to fellowship with the chapel worker, building him up in the Lord, and also to instruct, admonish and encourage the work there.

The second of these projects would be the supplying of necessary funds to hold Bible conferences at different station and chapel points. This is different from the former, in that, instead of one missionary and a native evangelist making the visit to a chapel or conference point, it would be several missionaries getting together, and with a group of several native workers, conducting a Bible conference, very much on the same order as we have them at home, the whole church, the workers and teachers profiting thereby.

Here again we would have to strike an average, as missionaries live on different stations at differing distances; and thus the cost of meeting together in conference at these points varies. It would seem that the sum of $25.00 would give a conference at a place, bringing in two missionaries for this purpose. Some may cost less, and others a little more. These conferences would prove to be a wonderful time of giving out the Word, and encouraging of the native to go out to witness to his fellows who as yet do not believe. No one can reach the native as well as the native himself, and thus this would be a first class piece of work in bringing about a witness for the gospel here.

If there are those who would be interested, and would want a definite conference or chapel to care for in this manner, a picture could be sent of the chapel, the group, the conference center, etc., and a report made as to meetings held, and work accomplished.

As I have said before, we have no interest in directing present incoming funds into these channels. We are concerned about those who might feel that they have no place to give, since there is no more encouragement to support native evangelists directly, and also those who as yet have not a keen desire to help in the work here, and would be inspired by such a project.

Trusting that the Lord will lay upon many hearts the burden of making known the gospel to the Africans, I remain as ever, your co-worker, but in this part of the Master's field.

J. P. Kliever

African Field Treasurer.

LIFE SKETCHES OF ELDER AND MRS. ROBERT S. WILLIAMS

By Robert S. Williams

According to the best authorities, I was born "in Appanoose County, Iowa, near Udel, in the little yellow house." According to same authority, it was a hot day in mid-July, 1907, and there was not a bit of fire in the house at the time. I was the third member in a family of four children. When the fourth member (now Rev. Russel Williams) was about five months old, we left Iowa and moved to Jefferson County, Kansas, near the town of McLouth. It was there that I spent most of the next twenty-three years.

My father was not privileged to enjoy the new home in Kansas very long. We had been there just about a year when he was taken by death. He left us a good name, a mortgage on the farm, and a Godly mother, which is really a rich heritage after all. In that hour, when the earthly support was taken away, mother looked to God for help, and the Heavenly Father was called upon to fill the vacancy left by the earthly father. He did not fail. She raised both the children and the mortgage by His help.

I started to school in a little one-room country school house, and from there went to the rural high school in town. It became necessary for me to stay out of school for a few years during and after high school, so that I was in my twenty-first year before my college career began. That career, if such it might be called, consisted in two years and a summer at Ashland College, with a year at Kansas State

By Mrs. Robert Williams

It was on an Easter Sunday, April 15, 1906, that I came to live in the home of my parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Deisch, who lived on a farm in north central Indiana. There I grew up, having two sisters and four brothers for my playmates. We received our grammar school education in a one-room red brick schoolhouse. We took our high school work in the consolidated school at Bunker Hill. The year following my graduation I spent at home. The following spring, I secured work in a cream station, where I was able to make enough money to start to school in Ashland College in the fall. When September came, I turned my work over to my sister and started for Ashland, Ohio.

I spent four happy and profitable years at Ashland. They were hard in the sense that I worked most of my way in addition to going to school; but, I am glad for the experience of those years.

In January, '32, I entered the nurses' training school at the Christ Hospital, Cincinnati, Ohio, and graduated in June of '34. I was very fortunate to be able to take the state board examination, which entitled me to become a registered nurse, two weeks before my graduation. In July of that same year, I took upon myself the responsibilities of a preacher's wife. After we were married, we started at once for Harrah, Washington, where my husband had accepted a call to the pastorate of the Brethren Church.

We spent three years in Harrah and learned to

OUR NEW MISSIONARIES

We are presenting here the life sketches of Brother and Sister Robert S. Williams who will be leaving for Africa as soon as transportation can be secured on or after the ninth of May. These two fine people are splendidly equipped for service in Africa, and we are sure they will make ideal missionaries.

They expect to be in the party in which some of our furloughed missionaries will be returning to the field. Miss Ruth Snyder of Conemaugh, Pennsylvania, will probably be going forth in this same party. We are sorry that we have not yet received the life sketch and picture of our Sister Snyder, but it will be published in a later issue.

It will be of interest to all those interested in our missionaries to know that Miss Grace Byron has made marvelous physical improvement during her winter in California, where she has had the best medical attention and care. She seems to be her own normal self again. All the missionaries will be glad to know this, for Miss Byron is a most valuable asset to our work on the African field.

It may not be amiss for us to say to the friends of Brother and Sister Williams that gifts at this time toward their outfit will be gifts that the Lord will abundantly bless. It is absolutely necessary for them to take many things with them to the field in the shape of clothing, bedding, furniture, dishes, etc., etc. An African missionary's first outfit, at a low estimate, runs in the neighborhood of $500; and more than that could be handily used. At least, we ask those especially interested in the going forth of these two good people to pray that in some way the Lord will provide for this special outfit.

The Foreign Board always pays for the transportation of the outfit; but it has been a custom among our missionaries for them to look to the Lord Himself for the outfit itself. Brother Gribble, our pioneer missionary, always insisted that the provision of the outfit was an evidence that the Lord had called. The Board has not wholly accepted the idea of Brother Gribble. Nevertheless, if the Lord provides the outfit for these two good folks we shall rejoice and believe it to be an evidence of the Lord's favor upon them.

University sandwiched in between. That did not complete my course, and various problems which arose about that time made it seem advisable for me to quit school for the time at least. I have never gotten back.

"Born Again" in 1917

I was born spiritually in the spring of 1917. I well remember being in church one evening during an evangelistic campaign in our church. When the invitation was given, I longed to get up and walk down the aisle and confess Christ as my Savior, but hesitated to do so without consulting with Mother. The next day, I asked her if she cared if I went forward; and, of course she assured me that she certainly did not care—that nothing would please her better than for me to become a Christian.

I went forward the next night; and, a few weeks later on a bright spring day, I went down into the baptismal waters. As I look back on this occasion, the question might arise as to whether I really was born again at this time. Certain it is that my knowledge was very scant. I did not begin to have the knowledge that I was capable of receiving at that age. But, praise God, salvation is by faith and not by knowledge. I became a new person in Christ that day, and through that new spiritual perception, the knowledge is constantly being added.

The birth of my interest in African mission work did not come until college days.

It seems that in the back of my mind, there was, almost from the hour of conversion, the idea that the Lord wanted me for a minister. This fact was manifest in our play. It was a favorite pastime of my younger brother and myself to imagine ourselves going into unchristian communities and preaching love the people and the work among them very much. Those of you who have been through your first pastorate, will realize what the people had to put up with. However, we believe the Lord called us there, and blessed our efforts for Him.

Attend Grace Seminary

In the fall of '37, we came back to Akron, Ohio, to enter Grace Theological Seminary. We were unable to attend the second semester of that term as we were called to Kansas on account of the serious illness of my husband's mother. We attended Grace Seminary the term of '38-'39. The summer of '39 we spent among the hills of West Virginia in the city of Grafton, and preached at our Brethren Church there. Again, last fall we entered Grace Seminary, only this time at Winona Lake, Indiana.

I surely want to praise the Lord for the privilege I have had in attending Grace Seminary. I have learned to know and to realize more fully the wonderful grace of God. I want to bear my testimony here to the marvelous leading and provision of our Lord in the past few years of our ministry for Him. He has never failed us; but we have failed Him so many times.

As a child I never had the privilege of attending Sunday School and church. I accepted the Lord Jesus Christ as my saviour, at the age of 15 years. It was on a New Year's morning (New Year's coming on a Sunday that year) during revival services at the Loree Brethren Church, under the ministry and preaching of Rev. C. A. Stewart. This New Year's morning was a happy occasion for our family, for my mother and father and one sister as well as myself came to the Lord that day. I spent the first five years of my Christian life under the ministry and leading many people to Christ. A little later I found an old application blank for admission into Ashland College. I filled it out and gave as my chosen vocation "the ministry." My fun-loving older brother teased me about that. He told me, if I ever expected to be a minister I would have to change a lot; that, I would have to be a lot better. I was rather shy and self-conscious in those days; and, perhaps his words went deeper than he ever realized. At least I was lead to do considerable meditation on my own unworthiness for such a high calling.

Active in C. E. Work

During my later teen years, I took quite an active part in Christian Endeavor. It was my privilege at that time to attend a number of Christian Endeavor Conventions. These were not especially educational, but they were inspirational and encouraged me in my chosen vocation. I taught a boy's Sunday School class for some time, and served as Sunday School Superintendent for a year or two just before I went to college.

The next definite step of importance was taken in the fall of 1928, when I left home to attend Ashland College. It was there that my interest in Africa was born. Up to that time, I had not been subject to any missionary influence. I had not been fed the truths that would encourage missionary zeal. Of course, I knew that the Scripture laid the responsibility of evangelizing the unsaved upon those of us who had heard; but, it never seemed to occur to me that God might be looking to me personally to give myself to Him for the foreign field. In Ashland, my association with consecrated young people who had volunteered for Africa, and were vitally in touch with our mission work; the evangelistic and missionary influence of the Gospel Team; the occasional meeting with missionaries on furlough, all worked together to turn my heart to Africa. With one possible exception, Africa has been my goal and aim ever since.

The "exception" was a period of about three years, which I spent at home on the farm. It became necessary for me to quit school; and the way did not seem to open for me to return. I began to question whether I had heard my call aright after all. Perhaps God aimed for me to plow corn instead of preach Christ. The Lord answered this question for me very definitely in the spring of 1934, by calling me to pastor His flock at Harrah, Washington.

Joy In Ministry

It was during my third year in college that the Lord lead me into the company of the one who has become my life partner. We had known each other before, but perhaps we began to see each other differently about that time. She also was a volunteer for Africa as a missionary nurse. During the years that I was at home on the farm, she was in Cincinnati, Ohio, taking her nurse's training. Somehow it happened (?) that the call to the Harrah Church came in the spring, just when she was due to take her state board examination and graduate. We were of Brother and Sister Stewart. I praise the Lord for that period of Christian training in my life.

Seeks Lord's Will

The only motive I have in seeking missionary appointment is that I know that God has called me to work for Him in Africa. At one time there might have been some appeal from romance; but, not so now. I am made to realize more and more what it is going to mean to give up home and loved ones here, perhaps never to see some of them again in this life. God's grace is sufficient. I want to do my Lord's will, and I feel that His will is that I should preach and teach the Lord Jesus Christ to the black people in Africa.

I believe that God was calling me when I was yet but a small child. One time, before I knew what it even meant to be a Christian, I heard Dr. Gribble speak. I cannot remember anything that she said, only that I remember that she gave a call for volunteers who would go to Africa as missionaries. No one would answer that call. I well remember how I wanted to answer that call; but, I reasoned with myself: "I am too small. I cannot do anything."

This one thing has remained clearer in my memory than anything that happened in my childhood. It was not until after I finished high school that the possibility of actually giving my life for missionary service came to my mind. I wanted to be a nurse. How could I be a nurse and a missionary at the same time? It was some little time before I realized that the two went together; and, then I knew what God wanted me to do. All along the way He has lead and made it possible for me to go through college, nurse's training, and to Grace Seminary; and, has given me a husband whose mind and heart is fixed on Africa.

My heart is filled with joy to know that at last the way is being opened for us to go to the African Mission Field. It is because of nothing that we have done but all is of the marvelous grace of our Heavenly Father. To Him be all praise and glory!

married the tenth of July, and began our ministry in Harrah the last of that month. We spent three happy years there. Sometimes we wonder who profited the most from the ministry—the people or the pastor. But though we were insufficient, the Lord was sufficient. He called us there and He prospered our ministry.

But the Lord had called us to Africa. And although we were enjoying our work there, that call seemed to sound constantly louder in our ears. Along with that call came a growing desire for better preparation for the Lord's work. With a view to doing our part to fulfill both of these purposes, we closed our pastorate and came east to attend Grace Seminary. We have now enjoyed for two years and a half, the rich spiritual blessing and inspiration of that institution, for which we praise the Lord.

It is with joy and thanksgiving to the Lord that we are seeing our prayers and hopes and dreams about to be fulfilled.

BOUCA NEWS FLASHES

(Note:—Two installments of "Bouca News Flashes" are being presented in this issue. War conditions have made the mails from Africa very uncertain, and sometimes letters mailed from two to four weeks apart arrive at the editorial office on the same day.—L. S. B.)

By Mrs. Joseph H. Foster, Bouca, par Bangui ....

After two months of silence, we believe we can resume our "Bouca News Flashes" again and that they will reach the homeland safely.

We praise the Lord for the blessings that have been ours during these two months. It is true that trials always bring blessings; and this has been more than true in our native church, as well as among the unbelieving. It would seem that the uncertainty of the times in which we live, and through which we are passing, is causing some to think more seriously upon eternal realities than they had hitherto. On the other hand, many are living the same careless lives that they have been accustomed to.

We met with new experiences every week, and we wonder sometimes where the people get all their ideas.

NEW NAME CHRISTIANS—

One of the working men who had two wives recently accepted the gospel of our Lord and Saviour. He gave up one of his wives, but wants his brother, who is in prison in Bangui, to have her. She, too, is a Christian. Therefore my husband asked him if his brother is a Christian. He replied, "Why of course he is a Christian. Isn't his name Gabriel?" This was a new one. We have heard of many ways that people have devised to be saved, but, to have their Christianity based on any name other than that of our Lord is a new trick of the enemy. We wonder whether anyone in America might be living under the same delusions.

A GIFT IN ANSWER TO PRAYER—

Last Sunday one of the Christians and his wife arose during the church service to give a testimony for God's faithfulness in answering prayer. The wife carried a wee babe in her arms. The husband, addressing the church said: "You all know me. You know that I was a big sinner before I accepted the Lord as my Savior. I took this woman as my wife three years ago. After two years had passed and she had no children, my brother insisted that I should send her away and get some one else. But she, too, had become a Christian and was baptized a year ago. Therefore I could not send her away. We both prayed that God would give us children, because we were told that God would hear us and answer us, if we prayed and believed. I want you to know that God heard us, and has answered us, and have given us this gift that you see in my wife's arms. We want to tell you that the God of heaven is real and has power to do for His children whatsoever they ask."

We were asked to name the little fellow. Remembering that long ago there was a woman who prayed for a child, and that God heard and answered her, we named him Samuel, even as Hannah named her wee one. We pray God will make him as great a servant of His, of our Lord tarry, as Samuel was of old. It pays to pray.

ANSWERING THE UPWARD CALL—

Not many months ago we told you of two "big medicine" women, who accepted the Lord as their Savior. Perhaps you will remember that we spoke of the one having difficulty in giving up her pipe. Last week when we visited one of the bush chapels, we saw this very same child of God; but oh, how changed! From mastoiditis which was uncared for, the infection went through her whole body. She is a mass of putrifying sores from her head to her feet. She is passing through a regular Job's experience. Her frail body is so wasted that she is nothing more than a skeleton with wrinkled skin drawn over it. She is very, very near the end of this life. Then she will have a glorious entrance into the presence of her Lord. She answered the "inward call" about a year ago. She will soon answer the "up-call." All during her great affliction she has been faithful to her Lord and Savior.

A NEW COUNTING SYSTEM

Some time ago one of our native workers returned from the preaching tour and said, "In one village I preached to one sack of people." In order to understand this system of counting it is necessary to know something of the French method used in the colonies to designate the amount of taxes that a chief is expected to pay for his people, or more correctly, to gather from his people. The government uses burlap sacks which hold 1,001 franc pieces or its equivalent. When they have counted the people in a certain village the official tells the chief that he will be expected to pay one or two sacks of money as the case may be. Our worker evidently reasoned that if this method works for money, why not for people. You will readily see that we do not yet have a highly educated ministry; at least not as far as the things of this life are concerned.

PRAYER REQUESTS—

1. Pray that we may have great wisdom in teaching the Christians the Word of God, and that God will guide us in the New Year in selecting some of our leaders to send them to Bible School.
2. Pray that all who have confessed the Lord as their Savior will be true to Him, and that they will live separated lives.
3. Pray that the many, many who are confessing Him may be sincere. We fear for those who are only professors, and once they think they are saved, whether they were sincere or not. Many do not yet distinguish between the mouth and the heart confession.
4. We pray God's richest blessings upon all of you in the homeland. May you all be greatly used of Him while it is day. The night is near at hand!

ADDITIONAL BOUCA NEWS

By Mrs. Joseph H. Foster, Bouca.

This morning everything about us seems so quiet and peaceful, that we are reminded of the words of that great and wise king of old, when he wrote the following by the direction of the Holy Spirit: "The flowers appear on the earth: the time of the singing of birds is come, and the voice of the turtle is heard in our land; the fig tree putteth forth her green figs, and the vines with the tender grape give a good smell. Arise, my love, my fair one, and come away!" What a beautiful picture and resurrection is shown to us in those heavenly words!

We hear the birds chirping and fluttering about in the trees. Mate seems to be calling to mate. They seem to be hunting about for the best branch upon which to build their nest; in which they will raise their young feathery family. "The fig tree is putting forth her green figs," and the birds are eating them before they have time to ripen. Of course they are wild, but the birds don't seem to know the difference. (We have often wondered what would happen if we ever tried to grow tame ones!) We are reminded in every way that spring is drawing nigh. Oh, that we might hear the voice of our Beloved say; "Arise, My love, My fair one, and come away." Springtime seems such an opportune time for the resurrection of the believing dead, and the translation of the living saints. "Even so, come, Lord Jesus."

VACATION TIME—

We left Bouca early the morning of Nov. 27 for Bellevue, and arrived there about 4:00 p. m. Then we all left Bellevue Nov. 29 to wend our way to Bassai for our annual Field Council meeting. All went well and by noon we were "steaming" up the Bozoum mountain to the mission site. Our friends there had prepared hot coffee and tea; so with what they had prepared and we had brought, we were soon in the process of satisfying that empty feeling that we had acquired on the way. After a few hours rest, and the heat of the day had passed; we and the Bozoum folks continued our journey to Bassai. How good it was to be able to think and talk "white" for two whole weeks! How good to hear the experiences of our fellow-workers as each related some incident or other that had occurred during the long interval; for a whole year had passed since we had seen some of them. Perhaps some of you wonder why we do not visit each other occasionally. Answer: the high cost of gas, and the abundance of work that rests upon each of us, forbids any unnecessary traveling.

Our conference was a feast of good things throughout, and we enjoyed wonderful fellowship with each other the entire two weeks. We had wonderful messages from the Word, and great blessings during the hours of prayer. We all felt greatly strengthened and encouraged to face the many difficulties that confront all of us in our service for the Lord.

After conference we spent two more precious weeks with Brother and Sister Jobson at Bozoum. We had planned on an enjoyable Christmas Day together.

with Misses Meyers and Crawford; but a few days before Christmas I had to get sick, so that day and a few more were spent in bed. However, the blessings of the Lord rested upon us, so that we were able to leave for home a few days after Christmas. We spent one day with the Bellevue folks, and arrived home safely about noon of Dec. 30.

CLASSES

During our absence all the catechist children had vacation. It seems they enjoy classes far more than vacation. They are greatly interested in their books, paper and pencils; but perhaps the most attractive thing about classes are the recess minutes, when they kick about the old, scarred, pock marked, heavy rubber ball. It has given them almost two years of daily joy such as village children never have the privilege of indulging in. Play is one of the normal occupations of every child; but oh, how few African children ever really play.

EVANGELIZATION—

If the Lord wills, we hope to place several workers in villages this year to teach the people to read, and hold services for them. Pray that the Lord will lead us, and that He will call out those whom He would have to do this important work. We would like to answer the call of at least four chiefs, who are asking for workers to be sent to them. We praise the Lord for those who have already volunteered to answer these calls. They are willing to go without the promise of any regular income, but to make their gardens and trust the Lord for their support. We are praying for an indigenous church, and our people are pleased with the idea.

PRAYER REQUESTS

1. Pray that more adults will be interested to learn to read the Word.
2. Pray for the children who attend classes that they will want to prepare to serve the Lord when they have the proper training.
3. Pray that we may soon be able to be permanently located here at Bouca.

Faithfulness In The Will of God

Adoniram Judson once said, "I do not know that I shall live to see a single convert, but I will not leave my present field of labor to be made king of the greatest empire on earth."

The Cross At Cut Price

"There are some who would have Christ cheap. They would have Him without the cross. But the price will not come down."—Rutherford.

A Great Economist's Testimony

Roger W. Babson says, "I believe in Christian missions—both foreign and home missions. Every sensible layman must believe in the great importance of the world mission of Christianity."

Gleaned From a Letter From Florence M. Bickel

Bellevue, par Bossangoa, French Equatorial Africa

The days roll by in our busy routine, and soon days are months and months, years before we realize it.

I think of you and pray for you, even though I do not write; for I can't forget any of you, as everywhere I look in my home I am reminded of you by your most generous gifts. I do not forget that my daily food and every comfort comes through your loving hands. For all I receive in a material way I thank God and you all. I know you constantly uphold me in prayer. I feel the power of these prayers in my life. I Thess. 1:2-4.

It seems that the Holy Spirit is working in the hearts of these people in a greater way than ever in these last few months. Numbers are not always the most important item, but when one sees large numbers coming it shows that people as a whole are becoming more interested in the Word of God.

They also want to learn to read. Even the women are becoming more interested in learning to read.

A woman's class in Africa is extremely interesting, especially to the one that teaches! I wish you could visit us some day. Nearly every woman has a baby. Some have two or three small children they bring with them. One woman comes with twins. Of course, she has both hands full, and there is no possible way for her to hold a book, so she reads parrot fashion. A few have not learned whether their book is upside down or not, so they have to be told once more which way to hold it. Others hold their gospels on a terrible angle, and we can't understand how they can see it at all when they are not cross-eyed. The mother naturally has to hold her book far enough away so the baby doesn't grab it. About one-fourth of the babies cry at a time, and to enable the mothers to learn anything at all we permit all the children who are able to walk to play together in the back of the room. They run and play and scream and laugh; but usually, with all their noise, no one seems to mind unless one falls down and gets hurt or if they start a rattle among themselves. Then, three or four mothers have to take their minds off their books to settle the quarrel, and there is so much talking and crying that we all have to take time out until all is peace and quiet again. Most African mothers let their children do most anything they want to do, and consequently no one can discipline them.

The medical work is still almost more than we can handle properly. However, I have three good helpers; one who cares for the less serious ulcers and wounds; another cares for the serious cases, oversees the hospital gardens, and looks after the food for the patients; the third helps me dispense the medicines and keeps the records.

Our work is ever the same, yet ever changing. But, all praise to Him, our Guide, our Head—He never changes. He has promised always to be with us. So, no matter what the circumstances are about us, He is always the same, rules and over-rules, and works out His perfect plan through us.

May His hand be upon each one of you to bless you, keep you, and guide you throughout the coming year.

Bozoum Prayer and Praise Notes

By Charlotte Jobson

Happy New Year to all! May 1940 be a most blessed year for all the Prayer Band Societies and intercessors who so faithfully remember us daily in prayer. We do praise the Lord for the many blessings bestowed upon His servants the past year, and pray that much may be accomplished in His dear name this year, if He tarries.

Bozoum watch night service was well attended, and the hours were spent in singing, reading God's Word, testifying and praying the New Year in. We took for our motto, "Jesus First." May this be the prayer of each Christian that in all things Jesus may be first.

For several years we have been praying that Missionaries be sent to Baiboukoum, a government post about 150 miles from Bozoum, and the last post in our territory that has not been reached with the gospel. Well, the Lord answered prayer when Noel, our faithful evangelist who for some years has been the native pastor at Bozoum, volunteered to be their missionary for the present. Already a group of believers have started services there, but they are asking that some one be sent to teach them the Word. Please remember Noel and this new work in prayer.

Pray for the small body of believers at the village Yahoueme in the Baya tribe. Just recently 12 believers were baptised; and when Mr. Jobson held communion, some told of the persecution they have suffered for Christ's name.

Also pray for another group of believers in the same tribe at a village called N'Nolo. 20 were present at the communion service, and the believers are anxious to learn to read the Word. They are buying gospels, and the teacher reports fine progress.

Pray for the work with the women and girls in the different villages and for the reading classes here at the chapel. We need women leaders to help in this great work.

Showing Initiative

The hurried set-up of our W. M. C. this year has left room for our women to use their own ideas in a way that is not so easy when an organization has been fully rounded out and plans made to fit most problems, or at least to take up the full time of the women.

One thing which was regretted by our officers so much was the lack of time to plan something for the girls. They are not overlooking this matter, however, but are endeavoring to work out plans for these younger groups, and expect to have something to report in the near future; in fact, we watched the mail till the last minute expecting something might come through in time.

But not all of our women waited for the officers to move. We have heard that in several cases they have organized the girls into Junior Councils. One busy pastor's wife wrote us that she was doing that and would use the devotion topics after the women were through with them. Of course we are sending her two sets.

This plan of Junior Councils appeals to us as a good one for several reasons. It will hold the girls together until a permanent organization can be perfected, and then they will be ready to reorganize. It will give them a clear insight into the women's work and create a sympathetic understanding between the two groups. It should also give our women a deeper sense of their responsibility to the girls.

Let us pray much these days for our girls, who are the future members of our councils; and let us each in our local work make an attempt to solve this problem temporarily.

Not only in this direction, but in other lines there is much room to use our initiative in the new W. M. C. We named it the Women's Missionary Council in order that it might belong equally to every woman who is a member. Every member should thus have its interests at heart, should be willing to study the needs, to help solve the problems, and then to enjoy the fruit of her labor.

When you have worked some new plan in your local council, will you not write about it for the benefit of the rest of our councils?

Response and Co-operation

We have received so many, many fine letters of appreciation of our W. M. C. devotional programs and other features of our work that we are going to take this editorial way to say, "Thank you."

And then we are going to add our words of appreciation to those who have so kindly responded to our requests for written topics and other matter. The work of the editor is made easier when such co-operation is granted. There has been a record made, no doubt, in this matter; because no one has refused our request for an article up to date, and only one article arrived too late to be used. We feel encouraged to go forward, knowing the spirit of our sisters is so loyal and true.

This working together is the secret of our success from the human end. Of course we always desire to give all the glory to our blessed Lord. It is all in Him; He alone supplies the strength and power for the task. But we do rejoice that our women are so willing to yield themselves to be used of Him.

We can but thank you—He will reward you for faithful service at His judgment seat.

New Department

It has recently been called to our attention that in some of our councils the membership is made up of women who have had practically no previous experience in women's missionary work. Some because they are young have just graduated from the Sisterhood; some are in mission churches where the work is entirely new, and then age does not make any difference; some of the older women have never been given any responsible work to do, and therefore lack knowledge of how to go about it.

Now we have lacked the vision to see this need, and we have been proceeding as if all our readers were seasoned veterans who need only to be told what they are to do, and behold, it is done. We have been ignoring these new recruits, ready, willing, yea, eager to do something; but to whom perhaps some of our instructions might as well be issued in a foreign language.

Let us tell you a little secret, but please don't tell on us—this is our first try at an editor's job, and we are feeling our way around, too. But we are willing to learn and to rectify mistakes if possible. So we are going to start a new department; a Questions and Answers Department. You write to the editor about anything in connection with W. M. C. that you do not understand, and we will put the question and the answer in the next W. M. C. Number of The Brethren Missionary Herald.

You need not hesitate to ask your question; no one but the editor and yourself will know who sent it in. For that matter it is easily possible that several may ask the same question. No names will be published, and when your question is answered, your letter will be destroyed. You see, we teach several Bible classes and we know how some people hesitate to ask questions in class, but prefer to come quietly to the teacher afterward; so we will make it like that, only in this case perhaps some one too timid to ask will get the answer because you had the courage.

Note this: if you have a question in mind now, write it at once, because right after you receive this paper your editor must begin the make-up of the next, for copy must be in three weeks ahead. So unless you want to wait two months for your answer—begin to write. Send in as many questions as you please. We will publish the answers as soon as possible.

An Informal Report From Our Financial Secretary.

Dear Sisters in Christ Jesus:

Six months have passed since The Brethren Women's Missionary Council was born, and it is thought that you might like to hear a general report concerning our progress up to this time in a financial way. We feel that the following few figures will be greatly encouraging to all councils for they show the unity that we possess and how well we are working together, though the time of our co-operation is still short.

Our home mission offering, $131.71, was sent to Brother R. Paul Miller in the fall. Since then $25.56 has come in, making a total of thank offering gifts of $157.27.

Our Jan. offering for general expenses and publishing needs has not been concluded as yet. So far 39 councils have responded with $262.24 and more have signified their intention to give in the near future.

Councils are already beginning to send their Grace Seminary and foreign mission offerings, which will be reported in full at the proper time. Also some councils and districts, knowing our great need of money in the first days of organization, sent contributions to be used at once. These amounts, together with the two offerings reported above, bring the total received to $523.68, a really gratifying figure.

That the Lord has prospered us thus should be a reason for real gratitude to Him. He has promised to supply when we go out in faith in Him, and again He has vindicated Himself. As He leads you to give, will have a part in a greater accomplishment for channels of greater usefulness, and so each council in the National Council will be able to move into Him.

We thank you for your response, and we pray God's choicest blessings upon you as you serve Him, each in your appointed place.

Till He comes,

Mrs. H. W. KOONTZ, Roanoke, Va.

From the Editor's Mailbag

The south has scored a point. We asked for news letters and we received two, both from the Southland; perhaps this unusual brisk winter weather has stirred them up. You recall that last month California anticipated us with one letter. Next month's mail should be heavy from all the other districts. We'll be expecting it.

Limestone, Tenn., Reports

The Limestone W.M.C. held an all day meeting Thurs., Feb. 15th, combining the monthly program and the mission study. After much overly cold weather for this section the Lord granted us a beautiful day for our meeting. Some of our women were hindered from coming but we had a good representative group and all having parts were present.

Our president, Miss Leila Arnold, conducted the meeting in a well thought out and pleasing manner, interspersing the service with prayers and songs. Each part was performed in a most gracious manner. One thing which enhanced interest was that after the biographical sketch of each missionary the privilege was given the members to mention the most striking characteristic. The monthly devotional articles were also commented upon in a way to impress us with their truths.

At the brief noon hour we enjoyed a good dinner to strengthen the physical man, and a social time together, and then scurried back to that better feast of good things spread before us for the afternoon. There was not a dull moment and only the lateness of the hour sent us to our homes with so many good things to think about, so good in fact our sleep was most taken from us for the joys the day had brought. One conclusion we could readily arrive at is that the Lord has raised up a grand group of missionaries to represent The Brethren Church on the foreign field. What will we do about it? The Lord help us to give them ample support by prayer and gifts.

Our group of women here is not large but since the Lord can work by many or by few we dedicate ourselves to be used of Him until He comes or calls.

MARY PENCE, Corr. Secy.

Roanoke, Va., Reviews the Year

In response to the request of our editor, I shall give a short resume of some of our activities during the past year.

We have experienced real spiritual fellowship in all of our meetings, and have been so pleased with the harmony that has existed regarding the many problems that have arisen in our denomination.

In May, the mother-daughter banquet was held in the basement of the church, with the W.M.S. seated on one side of the beautifully decorated table and the S.M.M. on the other. An address of welcome was given by the W.M.S. president, Mrs. J. Lewis Lloyd, and responses were given by the Senior S.M.M. president, Mrs. Estelle Coffery, and the Junior S.M.M. president, Miss Ruth Richardson. A vocal duet was sung by a mother and daughter, and a piano duet played by a mother and daughter, and two topics were given by a mother and daughter. This is just a part of the program which might be helpful to other groups in preparing for such a service.

On July 20, a number of our members met at the summer cabin of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Perdue, and made 88 African baby dresses out of silk stocking tops, and a splendid time of fellowship was enjoyed by all who attended this sewing party. Since that time a great many more African baby dresses have been made.

At our Sept. meeting, the matter of affiliating ourselves with The Women's Missionary Council was thoroughly discussed. A unanimous vote prevailed in favor of doing so, and henceforth we will be known as The Women's Missionary Council.

Our public service program was given on the night of Nov. 29, and we were privileged to have Miss Elizabeth Tyson as our guest speaker. Her subject was, 'Women's Work in Africa.' At the close of her message she gave about 10 minutes for asking questions about her work and much valuable information was secured. At this service an offering was taken for Grace Theological Seminary.

In Dec. we had a fellowship supper with the S.M.M. girls and a time of real Christian fellowship was experienced at the table. Again it was our pleasure to have Miss Elizabeth Tyson with us and she told us about her maternity work in Africa, and also about a very interesting trip she had to Nigeria.

The W.M.C. sponsored the filling of Christmas baskets for the poor, and 14 families were made happy by this service.

Another very helpful service our women have been able to render was the making of surgical dressings for the war sufferers of Finland through the Red Cross. 76 hours were spent doing this work.

We spent Sat. afternoon,, Jan. 20, at the home of Mrs. E. B. Murphy enjoying our mission study on the biographies of our present missionaries, after which we were served Japanese tea and cakes.

We pledge our hearty co-operation and support to our new national officers, and we pray that we may accomplish more in our Master's service this year than ever before.

Sterling, Ohio Heard From Indirectly

From our national president, Mrs. Kent, we are in receipt of this excerpt from a letter:

We want you to know we have a fine council here at Sterling. Although we have only 10 members so far we have been having some wonderful meetings. The Lord has been blessing us and wonderfully answering our prayers, for which we thank Him.

We are looking to entertaining our district rally in April. This is also a new experience for us, but I feel it will be a joyous one.

Mrs. NELSON E. HALL, Pres., Rittman, Ohio.

Our Superintendent in Africa Writes:

I have just received the Oct. number of The Brethren Herald and observe for the first time that you have organized a Brethren Women's Missionary Council for the women of the church who are sympathetic with Grace Theological Seminary.

This is to inform you that as Supt. of the African field I am ready to cooperate with you and your group in any way possible, that will cause you to feel that you have a living contact with this work which you have had such a great share in supporting.

I observe from your suggested program that your missionary prayer circle is to include definite prayer for each missionary. I am sure that this intercession will greatly strengthen us in our work for the Lord. May I ask that you remember me especially in my new responsibilities.

We also observe that you have taken the support of the Bouca station as your missionary project. Of course you have been in contact with Brother Bauman about this, and he has given you a figure. At the present time we apportion the 400 dollar allowance that comes to the field among the six points. This year we are dividing it equally, giving each point $66.66 per month.

Brother and Sister Foster are at present with us for a short vacation over Christmas, and they are very happy for your personal interest in the Bouca field. It is a wonderful field. I was over there for 15 days last year and had a week of meetings at both Bouca and Batangafo. The Lord blessed in a wonderful way as the people drank in the Word of God.

Yours in Christ,
O. D. JOBSON.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE AND ITS REWARD

—1 Cor. 3:9-15

In the forefront of this passage we are brought face to face with the dignity of labor in the Lord, "For we are laborers together with God." It is rendered in the margin, "God's fellow-workers." What a labor union that is to have membership in!

Paul had been working with those Corinthians as God's fellow-worker and now he tells them they are God's husbandry, or farm. He is no doubt thinking back to his figure in v. 6, "I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase." He also tells them they are God's building. When our blessed Lord was upon earth He said, "I will build my church." And then after Pentecost we read, "The Lord added to the church daily such as were being saved." So it is the great building of the Christian faith which is here in view.

But in vs. 10-11 we are led to view another great building, that of Christian service, the erection of which parallels the other, but there are differences. It is with the latter structure that our present study will have to do. How carefully Paul makes this important statement: he as the great master builder, wise with true wisdom, which is given from above, laid the only foundation which has ever been laid, or can be laid, for Christian service; and Paul used the Rock Christ Jesus for the foundation. What would you think of workmen who, after the master builder had laid the foundation deep and strong, should persist in erecting their structural work upon the nearest vacant lot, where no foundation has been laid, or upon a foundation only suitable for a temporary building? Yet much that is called Christian service today is builded upon the shifting sands of time, or upon the flimsy foundation of man's impulses, and in spite of costly material and painstaking labor, is bound to come to nought. Paul, the master builder, not only laid the foundation but he has furnished the specifications for the building; the epistles are his blue-prints.

V. 12 points out the various materials which may be used, they cover a wide scope both as to value and beauty. We shall consider them in detail a bit later. V. 13 makes it clear that a test of workmanship is coming—the day will bring a test by fire. Fire symbolizes judgment and there is only one judgment bar before which the Christian must stand—the Bema seat—the referee's seat at the end of the course, where he sits to give out the rewards.

Two Classes of Work

According to v. 14-15 all work will fall into two classes in that day: "that which abides" and "that which is burned." We need to be very careful to note here that it is the work that is burned; the Holy Spirit through Paul makes it very clear that the believer is not here on trial with regard to his salvation, "but he himself shall be saved." Praise God, our salvation is guaranteed by the precious blood of Christ, the Lamb of God, slain before the foundation of the world. But the fact of our security in Him should make us want to make a showing at that judgment bar, to have works to produce that shall abide when tested.

The kind of material will determine the ability to meet the test. Of the six materials in v. 12, three will abide the fire: gold, silver and precious stones: while three will be burned: wood, hay, and stubble.

May we know what these materials mean? They are symbolic, of course, and we think that we shall be able to see some of the meaning of these symbolic materials before we are through.

Gold is everywhere in Scripture a symbol of the glory of God; is not that significant? That which is done with an eye single to His glory will abide the fire. You see we may check up on ourselves. Is that which I do for His glory or for man's? My reward or loss in that day depends upon it.

Silver is the second material, another well known symbol throughout the Scripture. It speaks of redemption; the redemption price of the slave was paid in silver. Again we may put our work to the test: is it for man's redemption? Do I have that passion for souls that should be mine. That which is done for God's glory and man's redemption will abide the fire. Thus far it is the motive behind the deed which is in view.

Precious stones, of what do they speak? In the O. T. economy we find the precious stones displayed on the breastplate worn by the high priest—the Urim and Thummim. And to the student of Scripture they show forth the graces of character of our blessed Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Under the law the high priest displayed them in symbol; under grace all believer priests are expected to display them in their lives. Paul thus states it in Phil. 1:21, "For me to live is Christ," and again in Gal. 2:20, "Christ liveth in me." Do our lives show forth His light, truth, wisdom, righteousness, mercy, justice, love, or do they just display self?

Wood is in the category of "that which burns." Wood, however, is from a tree, and a tree is noble and venerable, but it symbolizes the merely human virtues, such as generosity, honesty, morality, respectability, fine in themselves, but many unsaved men display such virtues. They are good in themselves, but do not indicate separation from the world. If we are depending upon such for reward, we shall see it go up in smoke in that day and we shall suffer loss.

"Foresees Church Suppers?"

Hay has its value, too; but there is nothing noble here, it is mere food for beasts. Such work must be the catering to natural appetites. I never read this passage without feeling that the Holy Spirit gave Paul a prophetic foreview of modern church suppers to raise money. It is a fitting symbol, and it does not seem far fetched to suppose that a warning against a thing which has been so detrimental in church life should be issued thus. Our God knew the end from the beginning. How many sincere Christian women have been led into the fallacy of this church supper movement and have been sidetracked from doing any real service for the Lord!

In stubble we have the symbol of absolute worthlessness—good for nothing but to burn. Can it be possible that any born again one can be content to go before that judgment seat empty handed, to be “ashamed before Him at His coming.” (1 Jn. 2:28)?

Some would have us think it is wrong to look forward to these rewards; they say we should serve for the love we bear our Lord. That is true, and I will go even further: we will never serve at all unless that motive of love sways us. But when our heavenly Father holds out to us the opportunity for rewards, have we not the right, nay the bounden duty, to work for them? In various Scriptures the rewards are spoken of as crowns. There is a dear old hymn which I love, but one line of which I can never sing, “I will stand with the glittering crown on my brow.” I do desire those crowns, but the place for my crowns, if any, will be at the feet of my blessed Lord and Savior, Who alone is worthy (Rev. 4:10, 11). And some day He shall wear them, for to me that is what it means in Rev. 19:12, when He comes in power and glory to rule with the rod of iron, “on His head were many crowns.” Now is the time to see that yours and mine will be among them. May we all prove faithful.

Greetings

FROM THE FIELD

HARRAH, WASHINGTON

We thought the readers of the Herald might be interested to hear a little bit about our work at Harrah.

We arrived here Nov. 23. The people of the church have treated us royally. We have a furnished parsonage, and they have given us so much canned goods and meat and milk and eggs, as well as other provisions, that we have had to buy comparatively little so far.

The Lord graciously worked things so we could buy a car. We consider it the “Lord’s car,” as He has answered so many prayers concerning it, and we got it so we could get around to do His work. Our people live scattered over a number of miles, and visiting is forming a very important part of our work. We feel that the hope of our work lies in getting new people coming to the services. If this is to take place, we must go out and get them.

We were much encouraged by a three weeks’ meeting Dr. Beal held for us in January. He gave us the Word in no uncertain tones. About 25 calls were made during the time (in spite of icy, slippery roads), and Brother Beal was as courageous at personal work as he was in the pulpit. We are so happy because we can see the Lord working in the community. The last Saturday night of the meetings we had communion. During the meeting nine confessions were made, and since then, six have been baptized and have joined the church. Others will come.

The whole community was made glad over what we believe was a confession on the part of a well known man here, just before he died. He had been sick for quite a while, and had not confessed Christ as Savior. But just before his death, the Lord revealed to him the reality of the life to come, and he called on God to save him. There was a large funeral. Our pastor on this occasion had the privilege of giving the gospel to many hard men who would not go to church, but did attend the funeral out of respect for their friend.

We will close by again thanking the Lord for His goodness to a lost world.

Lyda Walter, church correspondent.

FLORA, IND.

Last Sunday marked an epochal day for the group of Brethren who since the new year have been meeting every Lord’s Day in the Flora public library auditorium for Christian worship. A record attendance of 79 was tallied in the Sunday school. This number was increased by several in the morning worship hour. Rev. R. Paul Miller, of Berne, Ind., General Secretary of the Brethren Home Missions Council, was the guest speaker and delivered a very inspiring message on the subject, “Paul, the Pharisee.” At the noon hour a splendid meal was served by the ladies of the group.

At 2 o’clock in the afternoon the group assembled for a business session. Lester Fife acted as temporary chairman, and Mrs. Esther Hanna recorded the transactions. After a period of general discussion the group, by unanimous vote, decided to organize a permanent church to be known as “The Grace Brethren Church of Flora, Indiana.” The following officers were elected and installed: Church moderator, Lester Fife; church clerk, Mrs. Esther Hanna; church treasurer Frank Rice; Sunday School superintendent, Wilbur Dyson; Sunday School secretary, Miss Angeline Hanna. These officers will officiate until the church has formulated and adopted a constitution.

Mr. Henry G. Rempel, a Senior at the Grace Theological Seminary of Winona Lake, Ind., has been called to the pastorate of the new Church. Mr. Rempel studied at the Bible Institute of Los Angeles, and the University of California before entering Grace Seminary. He is an accomplished and experienced director of music.

The members of this new organization and their pastor stand ready to co-operate fully with all other Christian believers in this city and community in every sincere and Biblical testimony to the truth as revealed in our Lord Jesus Christ and in every effort to win the lost to salvation in Him.

OUR BOY'S and GIRL'S VERY OWN PAGE

A little girl in India was in a small village school just long enough to learn that Jesus loved her. She was taken sick, and before she died her mother heard her say, "Satan, don't you touch me. I am Jesus' little girl."

Then she said, "For God so loved"—This was all her mother could remember to tell the missionary. But up in heaven they were glad to see "Jesus' little girl."

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC FOR APR. 7.

JUDAISM: Gal. 2:1-21.

Suggestions for the Leader:

Judaism, the Jews' religion, and Christianity, both regard O. T. as sacred Scripture. Use in different ways, though both defend its teaching.

Christianity respects Lord Jesus Christ; Judaism refuses to see in Him anything more than great teacher or wonder worker.

Though accepting O. T., Judaism must be classed with false religions. At proper time Jewish world failed to honor Christ as God's Messiah. Instead began opposition to Him.

Present trend to bring Jew, Catholic and Christian together is dangerous. Motives may be commendable, but dare not surrender any distinctive defences of Lord Jesus.

Scripture reading informed us that Jew changed manner of living after becoming Christian. Did not turn back on all former teaching, but accepted fuller statement of faith in Christ.

1. Judaism and the O. T. Mk. 7:1-13.

O. T. is Jews' Scripture. Throughout years have accepted rabbi's writings as equal to Scripture.

3. A month (abbr.).
7. The divine title of Jesus.
8. What we are made through believing in the shed of blood of Christ.
9. Prefix meaning before.
10. Even.
11. So.
13. Conjunction.
14. What we have through our Lord Jesus Christ. (Rom. 5:1).
15. A famous Old Testament battle that was won by strategy (Josh. 8:18).
16. The first person of the Trinity.
17. A word meaning an inevitable or natural consequence, found in Rom. 14:9.
24. What Christ is in 1 Cor. 15:20.
26. East Indies (abbr.).
27. What God commanded Noah to build.
28. Provided that.

Answer in the next issue.

Changed some of God's commandments to suit convenience. Judaism became most pronounced enemy of Christianity.

2. Judaism and the early church. Acts 15:1-11.

First members of church were Jews. Some thought Gentiles could not come in church without submitting to Jews' religious ceremonies. Council of Jerusalem decided against Judaizers, declaring church to be new body, not merely part of old Jewish system.

First trouble between Jews and Christians resulted in Jews' persecution of Christians. Jews became chief enemies and informers against church.

3. Judaism and Christianity. Rom. 11:30-32.

As church grew in strength, heartless persecution of Jews came from Christians in name but not in heart. Jews suspicious of Christians even today because of persecution received from them at one time.

Real Christians regard Jews as needing help; take gospel to them. Today many Jews show sympathetic attitude toward Christianity, some even embracing the new faith.

4. Judaism and Christ. Mt. 27:22-25.

Christ became storm center between Jews and Christians.

His own people received Him not (Jn. 1:11). Jews responsible for death of Christ (Mt. 27:20, 25).

Judaism has not changed attitude toward Christ of Bible. Have no disposition to honor Him as God's Messiah though some leaders acclaim Him as great teacher and artist of parable. No doubt these selfish leaders would oppose Him on same grounds.

5. Judaism and Salvation.

O. T. saints saved by looking forward to Christ. Believed God—was counted to them as righteousness. (Rom. 4:3).

What must Israel do now? Acts 2:37-38. After coming of Christ, Jews compelled to accept Him and all His claims to be saved (Acts 4:11). Honest believer in O. T. really should be willing to accept Christ (Jn. 5:46).

Questions:

1. What makes greatest difference between Judaism and Christianity? Acts 9:5, 20.

2. Why is Jew-hate wrong way to deal with Jews? Gen. 12:3.

3. What is our duty toward Jew today? Mt. 25:40.

4. Will the Jews eventually be saved? If so, how? Rom. 11:23-26.

5. How has Judaism failed? Rom. 3:17-19.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC FOR APR. 14

JOSHUA, THE OPTIMIST: Josh. 1:1-9.

Suggestions for the Leader:

Character studies always interesting; deal with experiences true to life. Always helpful: learn good traits to follow, bad traits to avoid.

Joshua has marvelous record—no serious lapse of sin like Noah, Abraham, David. Stands with Enoch, Daniel, Joseph, Stephen.

Joshua always associated with minority group that brought favorable report from Canaan; Caleb the only other who stood with him against the 10—an example where minority was right and majority wrong.

Joshua was man of faith. Believed God when outcome looked impossible from human viewpoint. Did what looked ridiculous to men but was God's way of working.

1. Joshua, Moses' Minister. Ex. 24:13; 32:17.

Pathway to leadership often that of service. Joshua learned to obey Moses, thus became better leader of others. Waited for Moses' return while many fell into sin of idolatry. Most likely was among company of Ex. 24:14. God can use in special way those who wait for Him and witness His salvation.

2. Joshua, a Faithful Witness. Num. 14:6-9.

Was favored by Moses in being selected one of spies to survey new land. Caleb was dependent upon God in same manner while other 10 were afraid. Every one saw dangers and difficulties, but Joshua and Caleb remembered God could fight for them.

A blind optimism would ignore difficulties. This not what Joshua had. He included God in possession of land.

Christian cannot please God and be pessimist. Entire living should be joyous. In Christ we have everything.

3. Joshua, the Lord's Warrior. Josh. 1:5-9; 5:13-15.

Had promise that Lord would be with him. Israel's real leader was unseen Captain of Hosts, Whom we believe was Lord Jesus. Joshua's confidence in Lord was rewarded—led children of Israel into promised land. We must have such confidence in Lord to have victory in Christian living. Our enemies and problems in spiritual realm as great and real as Joshua's.

4. The Victory of Faith. Josh. 6:20.

Fall of Jericho was most remarkable victory for Joshua. He used strange methods of warfare. World could not understand God's methods of work. But worldly methods are foolishness with God. God moves in mysterious ways His wonders to perform.

5. The Defeat of Sin. Josh. 7:11-13.

Optimism is not enough to assure us of victory. Joshua's intentions good, but sin in camp brought Israel defeat. Secret sins make us weak, easily defeated. Joshua did proper thing: went to Lord to determine what was wrong.

6. Joshua's Dying Testimony. Josh. 23:14.

Joshua's experiences show he lived life of victory for God. His last words were an encouragement to trust God—gave God credit for the victory. Challenged the people to choose this day to serve God (Josh. 24:15). Was firm in stand against idols and for true worship of God.

NEWS BRIEFS

From
Our Workers

By Robert Culver

REVIVAL WITH A CAPITAL "R" is the name for what the Brethren Church at Waynesboro, Pa., has been experiencing these last few weeks. A revival meeting, with R. Paul Miller as evangelist was begun there Jan. 30 and continued till Feb. 18. Pastor Robert Crees reports that "the visible results for the three weeks were 96 public decisions, of which 55 were reconsecrations and 41 confessions of Christ." On the Sun following the meetings 31 converts were baptized and there were 7 more decisions. It is also interesting to note that the prayer meeting attendance for the two weeks following was 106 and 120. God's faithfulness was revealed also in the giving of awards to 58 for perfect attendance during 1939, on Feb. 25.

ANOTHER GREAT REVIVAL is mentioned in indirect reports from Dayton, Ohio, where Dr. Bauman closed a meeting Mar. 3. During a part of the meeting Dr. Bauman was ill and Bro. Leo Polman did the preaching. Eighty-four decisions were made publicly—besides some 50 or 60 dedications in a unique candle-light service which was conducted by Brother Polman. Rev. Barnard reports that already 70 have been baptized and added to the church. Sunday School attendance keeps between 500 and 600, 555 reported for March 3rd. The Lord continues to bless!

EVANGELIST R. PAUL MILLER is holding a revival in our church at Martinsburg, Pa., of which Rev. Stanley Hauser is pastor.—Waynesboro, Pa., Bulletin, March 3, 1940.

AN EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN is to be begun in the Fort Wayne Church, March 31, with Bob Munro, the Scotch musical evangelist, leading in these meetings. Rev. Leo Polman, pastor, invites all brethren in and around Ft. Wayne to come in and fellowship with them, especially during these meetings.

A DEDICATION SERVICE of the new building for the new church in Wooster, Ohio, John Squires, pastor, was held Sunday afternoon, Mar. 3. A very impressive dedication ceremony was conducted. Chas. W. Mayes gave the dedicatory address and those assisting in the service were John M. Aeby and Wayne Baker.

R. E. GINGRICH, pastor of the church at Ellet (Akron), Ohio, recently served as evangelist in the Zwingli Reformed Church at Wadsworth, Ohio and is now in the process of two weeks meeting in the Graham Rd. Baptist near Stow, Ohio.

ALVA J. MCCLAIN, President of Grace Theological Seminary, is the speaker at the 23d annual City Wide Bible Conference in Waterloo, Ia., Mar. 10-17. The conference is being held in our new Grace Brethren Church in the city. This is the eighth consecutive year in which Bro. McClain has been in Waterloo as a Bible conference speaker.

HERMAN A. HOYT, professor at Grace Theological Seminary, is speaking in four of our Pennsylvania churches Mar. 3-17. On the nights of Mar. 8-10, in the Uniontown church; 11-12 at Martinsburg; 13-14 at Juniata, and 15-17 at Listie.

Chas. Ashman is pastor. By the way—Dr. Kelford was recently baptized by Rev. Polman at Fort Wayne, and is now a member of that congregation.

God Not Silent

One day I had just finished my 15 miles march in Central Africa. I must have been very jaded, for I threw myself down on a log of wood in the grass. I did not see a native at my left elbow, for as I told you, you never do see anything in Africa. Well, I did not see this native, and he growled at me, "You are angry, sir."

"Oh," I said, turning and dissolving into smiles, "Tell me all about it! You seem to know sir." (In Africa we are all very polite to another.)

"You are silent," he said, "and that means you are angry."

"What do you mean?" I asked, scenting philosophy.

"Well," he said, "That is the reason why we know that God is angry, because God is silent."

That is the tragedy of those dying millions in Central Africa. They think God is a malignant demon, cold and callous. Stars rise and set, rise and set; up go a million moans from the merciless marshes, and no answer, no answer. God is silent; God is angry. I whipped out my little Bible, and I said to him:

"You think God is silent? Listen." And I turned to Heb. 1:1: "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son." And when I read, "God . . . hath in these last days spoken," the man stopped me to ask a question. Can you not guess what it was? "In these last days?" he said. "Last week, sir?" Then I was obliged to admit it was nearly two thousand years since God had emptied heaven of His heart's darling, and that all that long, long time America and England had allowed the poor despised negro to go without knowledge that God had been revealed in the world, that England and America had apparently forgotten the command, "Go ye into all the world." And I was ashamed.

Through the Eyes of an African Boy

From Mission Dayspring

The following story is told by a young Kaffir boy:

When I was a boy in Africa, my father sent me to keep sheep. In Africa, men don't work at all. Women work, but men dress their hair and fight and talk. Boys keep cattle, not in little fields, but in wide open places, where a lion or a leopard may come to catch them. The boys watch, and if lion come they make noises nobody could understand. This makes us think we must go and see these white animals and end these wonderful things, and we ask our father to please let us go to Natal for three months. That's three or four years ago now, and we never go back yet; but we want to go and tell our father and mother that man works and woman stays at home. That is proper, because man is strong and woman is weaker, and got babies to mind. But Kaffir woman very strong; must put baby on her back and work just the same; make crops grow and grind corn, and dig and build house. And when she get old and weak and no use Kaffir man say, "This one no use now, must push her over," and then he takes her to steep place on top of hill and push her down, because she is no use, and can't do anything. Now I know that's very wicked, and I want to go back and tell my people that they shan't push my old grandmother over, I hope. She loves me and my brother, and we want to go soon to save her from being pushed over and tell her about Jesus.

TRY "HONEY OUT OF THE ROCK," BROTHER!

On Jan. 10th, an Associated Press dispatch from Lawrence, Mass. told of a pastor there who placed an ad in the Lawrence Tribune as follows:

"WANTED: Men and women who are and were of the Salem Street P. M. Church to occupy some of the empty seats and to take positions of trust and responsibility in the church. Reward in heaven. Signed, Board of Trustees."

The pastor declared that out of 179 members the attendance on Sunday was only 50 in the morning, and 30 at night. Now something evidently is the matter.

It might be pertinent to say that you never have to beat the brush and drive the bees to any place where there is honey. Recently there was in Los Angeles, a barefooted "Elijah" with long hair, who stood in front of the mission on Main St., with his pockets full of silver quarters. He began handing them out to passers by. He had a quarter for each individual who reached out his hand. It wasn't very long until he had a mob about him and it took the police to disperse them. The street was completely blocked.

You see, he gave them something! Might we suggest to the pastor of the church back in Massachusetts that perhaps he ought to be giving them something. Anyhow here is a good text in a very, very old book: "He should have fed them also with the finest of the wheat: and with honey out of the rock he should have satisfied them" (See Ps. 81:16). It just can't be helped. Folks will naturally flock to where they find "the finest of the wheat" and "honey out of the rock." Give them wheat, brother, and not chaff! Give them honey, not sawdust.

CLEANSING THE CHURCHES

When Jesus went up to Jerusalem at the time of the Passover, He found oxen, sheep and doves being sold in the temple. These animals were used in the sacrifices, and since it took thousands of these at the Passover season a commercialism had been built up at the temple. Christ used tactics which would probably be severely criticised today. He showed His indignation by making a whip of small cords, and drove the whole commercial system out. Imagine the sheep and oxen and men running out, overturning the tables and scattering the money. He emphatically revealed that the house of God is not to be used for merchandise purposes even though the merchandising is for the benefit of worship. This certainly makes it clear that God is displeased today with the commercialism which goes on in many of the churches of our land. Even though bake sales, ice cream suppers, rummage sales, etc., may be held in the name of the church for the purpose of raising money for the work of the church, this method is wrong and our Lord was displeased with it. God has a better financial program (Mal. 3:10; I Cor. 16:2; II Cor. 9:6-8).

Sometimes it is necessary to be firm and uncompromising. Christ was just that in his acts of cleansing the temple. Perhaps it was not easy to stand against the multitude and demand that the things displeasing to God must be removed, but our Lord knew that right needs to make no apology. When our churches show some of our Lord's firmness in dealing with sin and wrong no matter where it strikes, we will see greater blessings than ever before.

THE NEW BIRTH

Nicodemus, a wise teacher among the Jews, came by night to investigate for himself the things about Jesus. Jesus immediately began to talk about being born again. Nicodemus could not see that, thinking only of the first birth in the flesh and not understanding the things of the Spirit. Jesus showed him that the new birth is supernatural and cannot be understood in detail by man any more than the wind can be understood. Nicodemus must have been baffled and humiliated to think that he was a teacher in Israel and yet knew nothing about these things.

The new birth is the work of God in the human heart by which God makes us new creatures in Christ so that our salvation life is His very life in us (II Cor. 5:17). We are born of the Spirit and born of the Word (I Pet. 1:23). The new birth is God's work unto salvation in answer to our faith. Jesus illustrated this truth by the incident of Num. 21:6-9. The brass serpent on a pole in the wilderness was a picture of Christ on the cross. Brass is a symbol of judgment, so Christ was judged on the cross. As those in the wilderness were saved from the bites of serpents by looking to the serpent on the pole, so we are saved by looking in faith to Christ on the cross. Jn. 3:16-18 explains that our look is an act of faith. We believe it would be a fine thing if some of the religious leaders in 1940 would learn as Nicodemus did what it means to be born again.

WHEN LOSS IS GAIN

The Jews came to John the Baptist with the news that Jesus was making more disciples than he. One might think this would make John jealous, but it did not. Instead, John made it an occasion to exalt Christ. When someone else brings more souls to God than we do, we should rejoice and praise God instead of becoming jealous. John's explanation of all this was that we are only what God makes us after all, and we have only what He gives us from heaven. John readily admitted that he was not the Christ, desiring that Christ alone should have the preeminence. He alluded to the fact that Christ is the heavenly bridegroom and His believers the bride. John was content to be called the friend of the bridegroom, and as such he rejoiced at the greatness of the bridegroom. John made it clear that Christ had come down from heaven and therefore was above all; that He speaks the words of God; that all things are in His hands; and that to believe on Him is to have life and to reject Him is to abide under the wrath of God (John 3:30-36).

THE PROPHECY OF OBADIAH

By Albert Flory    Pastor of First Brethren Church, San Diego, Calif.

If we could play Rip Van Winkle backwards and find ourselves 2800 years ago along the sides of Mt. Seir on that rocky ridge overlooking a fertile plain known as Edom, we would see a land teeming with commercial activity as merchants passed through the land to India. But today, should we find ourselves on that same spot overlooking the same valley, we would see nothing but a barren rocky plain reflecting intense heat under an oriental sun. Why the change? Why the barrenness and desolation where once the land was alive with commerce? A simple word gives the answer, "God." God's prophecy makes all the difference. We shall find in this small book of Obadiah the answer to a question which would otherwise puzzle us no little.

The hatred and antagonism which existed between Edom and the people of Israel goes back as far as the controversy between Jacob and Esau with all the enmity and deceit that was involved. The descendants of Esau settled in the land of Edom. According to the prophecy of God at the birth of Jacob and Esau, the elder did serve the younger, but not willingly. It was in the reign of Jehoram, king of Judah, that the Edomites staged a revolt and at this time God pronounced judgment upon them through Obadiah, the prophet.

Edom will be brought low (vs. 1-9).

As I read the first nine verses of this prophecy, I am reminded of a group of little boys with balloons. One boy has his balloon blown up just a little bigger than those of his companions. How proud he is of his big balloon as he goes from one to another, chest puffed out as big as the balloon, displaying the thing to his pride! Then another little fellow, feeling that pride has gone too far, sticks the balloon with a pin. Simultaneous with the passing of air from the balloon is the passing of air from the proud little fellow's chest, and all the pride is gone.

Her pride will be brought low (vs. 1-4).

Edom is just like the little boy with the balloon. She is proud of her achievements and accomplishments. But God sticks a pin in Edom's pride. Note the different pricks. "I have made thee small among the heathen" (vs. 2). Here this nation which has seen so much in the way of commercial activity is told that she is to be small among the heathen and to be easily despised. But that isn't all: she will be brought clear down to the ground. If we could look at the city today, no ruins would be more imposing than those of Edom. Within a short distance thirty walled towns, absolutely deserted, are to be seen. The city of Petra, hewn out of solid rock, is still pointed out as the relic of a metropolis of immense strength and one of the wonders of the ancient world. "The pride of thine heart hath deceived thee, thou that dweltest in the clefts of the rock, whose habitation is high; that saith in thine heart, Who shall bring me down to the ground?" (v. 3).

We will leave my own figure of the boy with the balloon now and take the figure that Obadiah uses. In v. 4, God through Obadiah is saying that He doesn't care how high Edom lets her pride run, He will bring it low. Even if Edom would become like an eagle and fly up so high in her pride that she would build her nest up in the stars, even so, God says, "Thence I will bring thee down." How wonderful to know that no matter how high a Hitler's or a Mussolini's pride might go for himself or his nation, God is able to reach up high enough to bring him down! How wonderful we can be that this same Lord who spoke to Edom in the days of Obadiah rules among the kingdoms of men today!

2. Her destruction will be complete (v. 5).

The prophet changes the figure here again to that of thieves going through a grape vineyard at night stealing grapes. Naturally in their haste, and in the darkness, they will miss some and leave them behind. But the implication here is clear. When God goes through Edom in judgment, there will be nothing left behind. The cities and the land will be utterly destroyed so that nothing shall be left. Travelers today testify to the truth of the complete destruction.

3. Her destruction had started within (v. 6-7).

Babylon would never have been conquered by the Persians had not the seeds of decay been at work within the nation. Rome would never have been conquered by the barbaric hordes and not corruption of life undermined the foundation of the empire. The United States would never be in danger of outside foes were it not for the fact that the American home is being broken by the divorce court. The desire for pleasure and leisure time is taking the place of hard work, and the beer parlors and dance halls are being filled rather than the church of Jesus Christ. Inward corruption always lays a nation open for outward destruction. So it was in Edom. Sec. II analyzes the inward corruption, but here we have a taste. "The men that were at peace with, and prevailed against thee; they that eat thy bread have laid a wound under thee" (v. 7). The very men that were trusted were jabbing a knife in the national life. Ever was it so and even is it so today; the things in which men trust, when wrong, will bring destruction.

4. Her wise and mighty men will be destroyed (vs. 8-9).

If we were looking for an Einstein or a Robert Millikan, we would not be apt to hunt for him on the barren wastes of Edom. No, because God says, I will "destroy the wise men out of Edom and understand-

The Neglected Race for Whom Christ Died

ISRAEL AND THE GLORY AGE

Leader

Moses, who refused the pleasures of sin for a season to suffer affliction with the people of God, became a leader of renown. Had he remained at Pharaoh's court, the world doubtless would never have heard of him. But now, emblazoned on the pages of history is his name, the greatest lawgiver of any nation. The rule of Moses single-handed over a previously unorganized, undisciplined, and persecuted group of perhaps two million people of all ages will be eclipsed only by the rule of the Lord Jesus Christ, when all nations will come up to Jerusalem to worship before Him and give allegiance to His banner. He shall be for an ensign to all nations. Of Him Moses wrote that God would raise up unto Israel a Prophet like unto himself. Jesus said to the Jews, "Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father; there is one that accuseth you, even Moses, whom ye trust, for had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed Me, for he wrote of Me. But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?"

Exodus

To accomplish the removal of such a large company, in the face of serious difficulties as mountainous terrain in one direction, a sea in another, and a pursuing army in still another, calls for not merely a capable leader, but the divine intervention of God. At Israel's next exodus, the Lord Himself will be the rallying point for all Jewry. He shall deliver them out of the hands of all the nations. In that final tribulation battle, Armageddon, when the greedy, gory maws of the beast powers shall all but snuff out the flickering light of the witnesses of Jehovah God, He shall descend and repel the armies by the word of His mouth. Then in the reconstruction of the new age shall the great exodus be accomplished.

Theocratic Precepts

At Mt. Sinai, Moses delivered to Israel the decalogue. It was written with the finger of God (Ex. 31:18). There were over 600 other statutes, ordinances and judgments. When asked if Israel would obey the voice of the Lord God and keep His covenant, the people answered as one man, "All that the Lord hath spoken we will do." But 40 days had hardly elapsed before Israel had succumbed to the enticing, sensual gods of Egypt. The remaining history of Israel unto the cross is checkered with idolatrous worship. Thus the nation of priests (Ex. 19:6) lost their mission to the world and before Jehovah, side-tracking the theocratic rule and precepts of the true God in favor of the religious trinketry of the heathen.

But this will not always be so. There comes a time, relates Ezekiel, when Israel will keep the true precepts, because of a change of heart. In this golden age, says Jehovah, "I will put My Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in My statutes, and ye shall keep My judgments and do them" (Ezek. 36:25-28).

Invasion

Under Joshua the Israelites invaded the new land and settled it. The defeat of Jericho symbolizes to us the collapse of Gentile opposition in the great millennial period. The millennial Gentiles, for the most part, will become as Rahab who believed and was saved. For in that great future day, ten men will take hold out of all languages of the nations, even shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, saying, "We will go with you for we have heard that God is with you" (Zech. 8:23). Finally after thousands of years of bitter experience, Gentiles will learn that the nation that curses the Jew will be cursed, and that through the Jew all families of the earth will be blessed (Gen. 12:3).

Inertia

Contrary to Jehovah's warnings, Israel settled in the land amongst its heathen population. Amalgamation of social customs, disintegration of governmental organization, deformation of the true worship, and suicide of power, became the result. And just so, the Christian who meddles with the world finds himself faced with the same result. This was called the period of the judges. This period was divided into cycles. These cycles started with disobedience. Then followed oppression by neighboring nations. The repentant cry of a lost people never failed to reach the ears of Jehovah. Deliverance was then forthcoming. In short compass, this has been and will be the history of Israel — disobedience until Christ, dispersion and oppression since Christ's advent, the cry of repentance still future (Zech. 12:10-14) and even now the earnest is in evidence, and then the Great Deliverer in personal power and majesty.

Kingship and the Golden Age

Against the advice of Samuel, Israel demanded a king. It was popular to have a king, but the popular thing may not always be the right thing. It was a virtual rejection of the theocracy of God in favor of the monarchical rule of man. But God is able to overrule the mistakes of men and turn them to His glory. That God did exactly this is seen in the subsequent history. After the rule of Saul which ended in disaster, David appeared and embodied the true kingly qualities which God desired—intense zeal and love for the Lord, humility, meekness, strength, and leadership. David drew and held together the people of the kingdom, making a united nation. The glory of the nation reached its height in the earlier years of Solomon's reign. This has sometimes been referred to as the golden age of Hebrew history. But the Bible reveals the golden age to be yet future, when the true Son of David, Christ, shall reign from Jerusalem and extend sway over the whole earth. Of His kingdom there shall be no end. Hallelujah!

LETTERS TO A COUSIN..... By Art

Dear Cousin Bert:

I wondered who in the world could be writing me a letter postmarked Springboro. Imagine my surprise when I found that it was another message from you. It was fortunate that I put that letter in the mail when I did or it would not have reached you on the day you left for your new position to which you were transferred. It seems just too bad that you had to leave the little mission church in your home town so soon after your conversion. I can tell by the tone and contents of your letter that you still need the fellowship and spiritual encouragement that you were getting there.

You are perfectly welcome if you received any value and blessing from the letter I wrote to you. Writing is usually so unsatisfactory and I do wish I could be with you a couple of hours right now. We could sit down with our Bibles and go over a number of things that would help you in the light of your new experiences. Until we can do that, we will have to be content with the next best thing and continue using the mails.

Now I want to warn you that there are multitudes of people who have what we term as "churchianity" like the young chap you met up with at your rooming house. But when it comes to "Christianity," they do not know what it is all about. They are not to be blamed, but pitied and helped. And the tragedy is that they do not get the help they should have in the type of church to which you say he took you. Besides, they are not taught to "search the Scriptures" for themselves, and by the time many of these high-minded liberal preachers get through toning down and reasoning away the real meaning of the Word of God, they have nothing of value in their ministry. So it is not surprising to me that you were exposed to the low-type of spiritual standards you experienced with your new friend.

It was interesting to me the surprise this lad seemed to manifest at your refusal to go with him on Saturday night to those places of worldly amusements. His mild-mannered method of belittling your convictions goes right along with his surprise; only his true estimation of you is expressed when he speaks of you to those of his kind. You can appreciate his attitude better in the light of the passage of Scripture as recorded in I Pet. 4:1-5; "Forasmuch then as Christ hath suffered in the flesh, arm yourselves likewise with the same mind; for he that hath suffered in the flesh hath ceased from sin; that he no longer should live the rest of his time in the flesh to the lusts of men, but to the will of God. For the time past of our life may suffice us to have wrought the will of the Gentiles, when we walked in lasciviousness, lusts, excess of wine, revellings, banquetings, and abominable idolatries: wherein they think it strange that ye run not with them to the same excess of riot, speaking evil of you; who shall give an account to him that is ready to judge the quick and the dead." Every phrase in this passage is a rebuke to your friend. And the way you say he tried to justify himself as a church member was also quite typical. Yes, too many think that they can do everything in the devil's program except steal and kill and still maintain their Christian integrity.

As you know, Bert, true conversion is a right about face. It is a hatred of the things we once loved and a love for the things we once hated. It is a "crucifixion of the flesh with its affections and lusts." It is a "setting of your affections on things above, not on the things of the earth. For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God." It is "a new creation: old things have passed away; behold all things are become new." When conversion takes place "the old man is crucified with Christ that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin." There is even a positive "abstaining from all appearance of evil." (Quotations from Gal. 5:24; Col. 3:2-3; 2 Cor. 5:17; Rom. 6:6; I Thess. 5:22). So you were absolutely consistent in your negative response to his appeals, and I feel that you will always abide faithful. It will be your responsibility to saturate your mind with the Word of God and in "the spirit of meekness" be able to "give an answer to every man" who challenges your manner of life.

Never identify yourself with the enemies of God, for "friendship with the world is enmity with God" (James 4:4). Memorize this passage, Bert, and remember where it is located. You will have many occasions to use it in the future. I Jn. 2:15 is one that goes right along with it; "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him." Everyone is giving a spiritual rating of himself to the one who is acquainted with the Word of God. Our rating with God may also be improved upon by this same knowledge; "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth" (2 Tim. 2:15).

While working the Bible business in Springboro last summer, I discovered one outstanding group that really preaches the unadulterated gospel and emphasizes genuine New Testament spiritual living. They worship in that white tabernacle-like building on Selmar Road. Since we have no Brethren church there, let me encourage you to go out there next Sunday. I was in many homes of this congregation and they surely have a fine group of Bible loving people. I particularly want you to meet Jasper Shannon. He works at the Meig's Sporting Goods Store. What a blessed time he and I had together one day. He was very much impressed with what we Brethren believe and why. He promised to read Dr. Bauman's book, "The Faith Once and for All Delivered to the Saints" which deals with our doctrines. He has a Bible class in an unchurched section and dreams of an established church, if the Lord tarries. Perhaps we can influence him to make it a Brethren church. We have been wanting a new work there for some time.

A barber asked the strange customer in his chair if he expected to go to the Bible lecture that night in the high school auditorium. The man answered in the affirmative. The barber advised that he should not go because it was sure to be boresome. To which the stranger replied, "I'm afraid I can't get out of it. You see, I am the lecturer." I am afraid this letter has just about taken on the aspects of a lecture. I hope it has not been too boresome. Before it does, I had better bring it to a close.

Be assured that I am praying for you and that God will use your transfer to Springboro to His glory. I will be expecting to hear from you regularly. In best bonds, I am, ing out of the Mt. of Esau." Edom in its day must have been a center of learning. They had contact with both the eastern and western world through the caravans that passed through to India. Not only does God purpose in this prophecy to lay waste their land and destroy their nation, but also will He bring to naught their schools and places of learning.

The phrase "mighty men" (v. 9) in the Bible practically in every case refers to men of war. It is significant to note that the men of war who have disobeyed the voice of the Lord in Edom are going to meet a doom deserving of their sin. "Every one may be cut off by slaughter." Many places in the Bible this principle holds. In the book of Revelation where people are worshipping demons, God turns hell loose and gives them demons to worship. Of course the demons bring great destruction and torment men. In Edom, where mighty men are asking for war, God gives them so much of what they ask for that there is a time of slaughter when they themselves are destroyed.

The One Key to Scripture

STUDIES IN THE HEBREW EPISTLE

"Search the Scriptures for in them ye think ye have Eternal Life; and they are they which testify of me"—John 5:39.

STUDY NO. 2 By ORD GEHMAN

Chapter I.

In one bold thrust the writer begins this epistle. No words are lost in address or salutation. It serves as a harbinger of the urgency of the message which follows. We are immediately aware at the very outset of this first chapter of the gravity of the burden of the message which lay upon the writer's heart. He not only has a message to deliver, but he has a Christ to present to those who need His comfort. Trials sore were theirs and they needed the sustaining power of our Omnipotent Christ. The world may seek religious philosophy, but give us Christ! They may seek men's ideals, but give us the Christ of Calvary! None other satisfies.

We are at once confronted with the grandeur of the revelations of God. Formerly He had spoken by His prophets and His angels. Turning to the Old Testament we discover the marvels of those revelations. There is no attempt here to detract from the former method of revelation; the supremacy of the final revelation of God is to be considered.

Let us notice the reference made to the Mediator of God's final revelation. It is a presentation of the Son, for through Him the Father has spoken unto us. God's final answer to the needs of mankind is Jesus Christ. To seek an answer any less than Christ, however great, is to fall far short. We need Christ; for the Father "appointed Him heir of all things." There is little use to talk about an inheritance aside from Jesus Christ, the Son of the living God. If we expect to inherit anything in God, it must come through Jesus Christ the Son. Paul says, "The Spirit Himself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God: and if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with Him, that we may also be glorified with Him" (Rom. 8:16-17). That heirship with Christ may entail suffering, heart-ache, misunderstanding, and much that will rend the human heart, but "if we suffer with Him, we may also be glorified with Him."

Not only is the Son made the heir, but He was chosen of the Father that through Him the ages (worlds) should be made (formed). Oh child of God, do you realize the fulness of our position with Jesus Christ? He through Whom the ages were started on their way to final consummation; through Whom the earth was beautifully garnished for His glory; He it is Who sustains His children by the Word of His grace. If God could, through this incarnate Christ, clothe the grass of the field and array the beauties of nature to sing His praises, how much more can He show forth His Majesty through His children who are really yielded to Him? "We are His workmanship," says Paul, "created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God afore prepared that we should walk in them" (Eph. 2:10).

The transcendency of the Lord of glory becomes apparent to every one of His children who study this epistle. The whole Word of God pulsates with that fact so wonderfully expressed here. He is the effulgence of the Father's glory, and bears the express image of His substance. No man can view the Son of God aright in all His eternal glory without seeing God the Father. Philip confronted Christ with this request, "Show us the Father, and it sufficeth us" (Jn. 14:8). There must have been pathos for Philip's slowness of heart in the reply of the Master, "Have I been so long time with you, and dost thou not know Me, Philip? He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father; how sayest thou, 'Show us the Father'?" We will never know any more about the Father than is revealed in the face of His blessed Son, our Savior.

Not only do we discover that Christ Jesus is God's fullest expression of Himself, but He is the upholder of all things by the Word of His power. Men may deny the Word of God; they may trample under foot the precious blood of the new covenant; they may seek to obliterate from their thinking the facts of God. It reminds one of the first Psalm, "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh." Finally, without God, they shall be as ".....wild waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame; wandering stars, for whom the blackness of darkness hath been reserved for ever" (Jude 13). Whether men recognize this fundamental fact or not does not invalidate its truth: the living Word of God, the incarnate Son, still reigns as our sovereign God, and before Him "every knee shall bow." We not only patiently await Him Who shall be our "King of kings" and "Lord of lords" and establish His kingdom of righteousness upon this earth, but as His children recognize Him as the upholder and sustainer of all today. Friend, is your heart thrilled today as you think of our saving and sustaining Christ?

Now we notice a change in the tense in this verse. Being and upholding signify present action. Next we see that "when He had made purification of sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high." On the basis of God's Word here and elsewhere we discover that Christ's work of the purification of sins is forever settled in heaven and He now sits on the right hand of His Father's majesty to minister as the Advocate of His children. There is none other way given among men whereby men may be saved. There is only one way to the Father's house (Jn. 14:6). If you dislike the blood-sprinkled way through Jesus' precious blood, we can offer no other hope. And even if it were possible for you to get to heaven some other way, eternity with Christ and His saints would be disagreeable for you, for His Word states that John saw "in the midst of the throne and of the four living creatures: and in the midst of the elders, a Lamb standing, as though it had been slain,....." (Rev. 5:6). Friend, without the atoning blood of the Lamb of God applied to your heart and life you need not expect to enter a blood-washed kingdom. A fountain for cleansing flows near by; 'tis none other than the riven side of the Son of the living God. Have you accepted His grace?

Christ supercedes angels. They are ministering spirits sent forth to do service for the sake of those who shall inherit eternal salvation. O child of God, yield yourself wholly to the Son of God that He may do greater things, for you and through you. (Rom. 12:1-2).

Heads don't get together till hearts do.

Said an elderly minister, "I'd rather people would wonder why I don't have a degree than why I do."

The Bible contains much we cannot explain; nothing we cannot believe.

The Light of the World

A DOCTRINE OF CHRIST DEPARTMENT

By Frank G. Coleman, Jr.

"GOD WITH US"

When the prophet Isaiah uttered the startling words which prophesied the supernatural birth of Israel's Messiah, he closed his brief prophecy with the words, "and shall call his name Immanuel." More than seven hundred years later the Spirit of God used Matthew to set forth to us the fact that the name of the One Who came in fulfilment of Isaiah's prophecy means "God with us." No true believer in Christ doubts that in the person of Christ God was truly with us; but many have yet to discover the identity of His person as He existed in the eternity before His advent into the world as God manifest in the flesh. The Word teaches that the Christ Who was the "God with us" of the New Testament was the Jehovah of the Old Testament.

LORD—JEHOVAH

The student of God's Word, if he uses the Authorized Version, should bear one simple fact in mind as he undertakes to discover something of the majesty and glory of the pre-incarnate Christ. It is this: LORD, spelled with capitals, indicates that the name JEHOVAH appears in the original Hebrew text. This is the key to identifying Christ and Jehovah, if you do not have access, either to a marginal reference Bible, or the Revised Version.

THE COMING ONE—JEHOVAH

The Testimony of Zechariah

In the second chapter of Zechariah's prophecy, v. 10-11, the announcement of the Coming One is made in these words, "Lo, I come, and I will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the LORD (Jehovah). And many nations shall be joined to the LORD in that day, and shall be my people; and I will dwell in the midst of thee, and thou shalt know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto thee." Two things should be noted in these verses. First, JEHOVAH announces His own coming. Second, JEHOVAH announces that JEHOVAH of hosts will send Him. Looking down the centuries, then, we see Christ, the One Who came!

A second testimony of Zechariah is to be found in 14:9, "And the LORD (Jehovah) shall be king over all the earth; in that day shall there be one LORD, and His name one." The context reveals that this is spoken of the coming kingdom. One need only to mark the multiplied instances in the New Testament in which the coming King of kings is shown to be Christ in His glorious second coming, in order to establish the identity of Christ as Jehovah.

CHRIST—JEHOVAH

The Testimony of John The Baptist

Prior to the public appearance of Christ, John the Baptist announced himself as the forerunner of the coming Lord. He came, he said, in fulfilment of the words of the prophet Isaiah, whom he quotes as saying, "The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord" (Matt. 3:3). Turning to the prophet himself and noting that in the prophecy as originally given he uses the name JEHOVAH, we are confronted with the fact that John the Baptist announced himself as the herald of Jehovah. Little wonder, then, that he was so reluctant to baptize the One Whose coming he had announced!

"THOU SHALT NOT TEMPT JEHOVAH"

The Testimony of Christ Himself

Weighty as is the testimony of Zechariah and John the Baptist, it is nothing in the light of the authority of Christ Himself. As the record stands in the fourth chapter of Matthew, three times our Lord parried the thrusts of the tempter with quotations from the Old Testament. In all three, as they appear in the Old Testament Scriptures, the name Jehovah is used. The second of these quotations is a direct identification of Himself with the Jehovah of old. When Satan said, "If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down; for it is written, He shall give his angels charge concerning thee: and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone" (Mt. 4:6), our Lord rebukes him with the words of Deut. 6:16, "Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God" (Mt. 4:7). Turning to the Old Testament passage, in the Revised Version the name Jehovah stands, and in the Authorized Version the name LORD, a silent witness to the real identity of the One Whom Satan was tempting.

"I AM"

How significant, then, become His words in Jn. 8:58, when in controversy with the Pharisees, He said, "Before Abraham was, I am." These striking words glow with import when seen in the light of the third chapter of Exodus. There, in v. 14, God said to Moses, "I AM THAT I AM." And again, in the same verse He says, "Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, I AM hath sent me unto you." From v. 7 we learn that the LORD (Jehovah) is speaking. This is Jehovah's name, "I AM." In the Hebrew language this is a verb in the future tense, "I will be," and it has the force of a continuous present. In the remarkable expression of our Lord referred to above, there is such a striking parallel that it is impossible to resist the conclusion that a very real identity exists in the essential nature of the two speakers. Whatever was meant by Jehovah when He spoke to Moses, the same surely was meant by the saying of Christ.

And the Jews who heard Him must have understood it so, for they immediately took up stones to cast at Him, as if counting Him worthy of death in appropriating to Himself the incommunicable name of Jehovah.

THE ANGEL OF JEHOVAH

Nor does our study of the pre-existent Christ end when we find in Him the Jehovah of the Old Testament. The Angel of Jehovah, with hardly more than a single exception, was the pre-incarnate Word Whose manifestation in angelic form, or at times, in human form, foreshadowed His final coming in the flesh. This we know from two facts. First, the identity of Jehovah and Christ; and second, the identity of Jehovah and the angel of Jehovah. Things equal to the same thing being equal to each other, it naturally follows that Christ and the Angel of Jehovah are identical in person. The proof abounds in the Word. Only one of the many instances which establishes the identity of Jehovah and the Angel of Jehovah need be considered. It is the case of Hagar's meeting with the angel of the LORD (Jehovah) in Gen. 16. V. 7 records the meeting. In vs. 9 and 11 the Angel of the LORD speaks. Then in v. 13, the inspired writer speaks, saying, "And she called the name of the LORD (Jehovah) that spake unto her, Thou God seest me."

"NO MAN HATH SEEN GOD"

In the light of the teaching of the Word on this theme, one of the many apparent contradictions so often pointed out by the skeptic fades away. "No man hath seen God at any time" (Jn. 1:18), is a statement that is true, despite the skeptic's citation of the Old Testament theophanies as evidence to the contrary. But God has revealed Himself time and again, in the person of the pre-incarnate Word, the Jehovah of old. God is spirit, we are flesh. No man has seen Him in His triune essence; but in the theophanies with which the Old Testament abounds, we see Jesus, God the Son, even then revealing God to men. In fact this is what John's words teach: "No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, He hath declared Him (lit., 'led him forth')."

This, then, is our Savior, Jehovah of old. Jehovah's might has been exercised in our salvation. Jehovah's holiness has been made available to balance our account with God. Jehovah's immutability confirms our salvation, that we may never perish. What need we more than simple faith to believe?

The LORD, Who alone did lead Israel like a flock (Deut. 32:12; Ps. 77:20), and Who led them forth by the right way (Ps. 107:7), is none other than our Lord Jesus Christ, that great Shepherd of the sheep, Who calls His own sheep by name, and leads them out (Heb. 13:20; Jn. 10:3-4).

BRETHREN STUDENT LIFE VOLUNTEERS

By Kenneth Ashman

The following letter was sent to the superintendent by a new member of the BSLV.

Dear Brother Ashman:

Greetings in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ!

I have been following your B.S.L.V. work and I am ashamed of myself for neglecting to write. I would like to become a member of the B.S.L.V. It's a fine thing to know that so many of our Brethren young people have dedicated their lives to Christ, and I will be glad to be one of their number. I hope that many more will see the need of witnessing for Christ and of standing true to Him so that their lives will be living testimonies to the many lost souls in this war-torn and cursed world.

Two years ago Brother McClain held a Bible conference at the Dallas Center Brethren Church. On the last Sunday morning he delivered a missionary message from the book of Jonah. At the close of the service he called for lives to be dedicated for service wherever the Lord led. I truly was led of the blessed Holy Spirit that morning and before I fully realized it, I had gone down from the choir loft to the front of the church. Since that time I have known the joy of fully living for Christ. He means more to me than anything else and my prayer is that my life will tell for Him Who loved me and gave Himself for me.

It has just been recently that I have felt so deeply the desire to witness for Christ in Africa. I know if that is His will for me, He will lead me and he will provide a way for me. If it isn't His will, I shall be satisfied wherever He leads, because I will be in His will. I believe, however, that our blessed Savior will soon "descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God," and call all those who are saved, dead and living, to be with Him eternally. Until that time I want to live so God can use me any time and anywhere.

I am enclosing words for the B.S.L.V. song contest. It is a pleasure to tell of Christ through a song (used or not!), and I'm sure many other young people are feeling the same joy that I am. I would like to send something to help in the "Sharing for Service" but right now

I can't. Perhaps I will be able to do so later. If there is typing to be done, or anything else that I can help with, I would be glad to do as much as I can. I don't know whether you want the ages of the B.S.L.V. members, but if you do, I am 19. May God's richest blessings be on this work of His all for His honor and glory.

Yours in Christ

MADGE WINELAND,
Dallas Center, Iowa.

P.S.—A good motto for the B.S.L.V. would be, "Saved to Tell Others."

Thank you, Madge Wineland, for such a splendid letter. It is just like many that come to the desk of the national superintendent every week. Those words for the B.S.L.V. song are very fine. Not many others have written but we are going to tarry a few weeks longer before we do any judging. You other "Volunteers" ought to get busy at once. It makes our cup of blessing full to running over to know that there are young men and women anxious to get to Africa. Here is one young lady who expects one of three things, (1) to serve the Lord in Africa soon; (2) to see Him face to face before she can go to Africa, or (3) to faithfully serve Him "any time and anywhere" until He comes should the doors of darkened Africa be opened unto her. Praise the Lord for such consecration. Every member of the B.S.L.V. should be as submissive to the directive will of the heavenly Father. When we empty our hearts of all self, He fills our hearts with Himself. Then we become channels of salvation and blessing to a world that needs Christ badly. Are you such a channel?

LIFE AT 112

Due to an item in a national medical journal, reporters have learned that the oldest living man in the United States is Henry Walker, colored, of Greenwich, Conn.

Walker is an ex-slave. He has lived a clean, active life, and denies that he is old, even at the age of 112 years. He feels just as good, he says, as he did at 75.

112 years is a long time, and Walker has seen the transformation of a pioneer country into a new and modern civilization.

But what is 112 years of life compared to eternal life which all the exslaves of sin and Satan may receive as the free gift of God through our Lord Jesus Christ? (Rom. 6:23).

Think of it—

"When we've been there ten thousand years,
Bright shining as the sun,
We'll have no less to sing His praise
Than when we first begun!"

—Tom Olson.

OUR BOY'S and GIRL'S VERY OWN PAGE

COME UNTO ME

By Miss Mildred Flatten

Dear Aunt Susan,

Mother said I could write a letter to you all by myself. You see I am in third grade now.

I am glad you are coming to see me this summer. So many things have happened since you were here the other time. I'll tell you the happy things when you come.

With love,
SHERYL

Yes, it was a happy time of which Sheryl wrote. It began in the summer of 1938 when a sweet lady, who lived near, invited some children in for a Bible story hour. Sheryl went with her friend May. Such a jolly time of singing choruses and hearing true stories of the Bible.

Many times the two girls went together to the weekly story hour. One day May did not come skipping when Sheryl called. The house seemed still, then May's mother called from the door that May was very ill and couldn't go with her friend. Sheryl felt so lonesome, but she went on alone. During the class the story-lady had every child bow his head and pray for the sick friend. The leader closed the prayer saying Jesus would care for May because she had listened to His call to "come" and be a child of His.

The story-time used the verse "Suffer little children and forbid them not to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven" (Matt. 19:14). Sheryl wanted the care of this great One too, so she said to the good lady, "Does that mean even me?"

"Yes," said the helping one, "would you like to come?"

"I believe He would be a real Friend," said Sheryl, "I do believe in Jesus."

Sheryl went home with a light heart that day. Her songs told mother that she was happy.

"Why are you so gay, Sheryl?" asked mother.

"O, mumsy, the bestest thing happened. The Bible story lady told me how I could come to Jesus and I'd be a child of His. I told her I believed in Jesus and now I just feel like singing," bubbled Sheryl.

Aunt Susan smiled as she read the letter from Sheryl. She knew how prayer had been answered, and not only Sheryl, but mother and daddy had all come to Jesus now. Such a happy family in the Lord!

When summer came and Aunt Sue made her long awaited visit, she found a place of joy and peace. It was restful to be in such a home.

One day, after going over the story once more, Sheryl said to Aunt Sue, "Now we're all saved but Buddy. He's only four and I know he's going to come to Jesus soon 'cause he already likes the Bible stories I read to him."

WHAT OTHER BOYS AND GIRLS ARE DOING

Several months ago a boys' and girls prayer group was started at the West Tenth St. Brethren Church at Ashland, O. At first there were only three who were present every week. Others came occasionally. The three faithfuls were Mary Louise Garber, Eldred Risser, and Vivian Mayes.

One week Eldred planned to go on a hike, and Mary Louise and Vivian wanted to get an early start passing church announcements around the neighborhood. They all went to prayer meeting first. They didn't try to see how quickly they could get through, either. For over half an hour they mentioned the things for which they wanted to be sure to pray. On Sunday, three of their prayers were answered, and they were glad they had put God first.

The group has now grown so large it has had to be divided. Recently there were 16 in the Junior High group alone, and the Juniors and Primaries will soon have to be divided. Every week there are between 50 and 100 prayer requests, and over 60 have already been answered. When no one accepted Christ in the church services for several weeks, they prayed about it. The following Sunday three accepted Christ. The Bible School attendance dropped for several Sundays during the cold weather. When they prayed about that, the attendance was much better. They prayed that a boy who had not been to Bible School for some time would return, and he was back the next Sunday. Many boys and girls have been saved in answer to their prayers.

What are the boys and girls in your church doing for the Lord? Tell us about it. Write the Children's Editor, 3326 S. Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC FOR APRIL 21, 1940

GIDEON, THE MAN WHO OBEYED AND WON Judges 7:9-21.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE LEADER

The experiences of Gideon remind us of Joshua. These two men won unusual battles as they were used of the Lord. They proved that God can use anything and anyone who is surrendered to Him and that best weapons and people fail when they are used in self will.

God begins to work with people by giving them some task or commission. Obedience to the small things leads to greater positions of responsibility. Gideon was willing to destroy idols in his father's house and eventually was selected as the one to lead Israel against the invading enemy.

Gideon was humble in his living and he recognized the Lord as the One who gave him victory. Of the many things said about him, we find he was highly favored by having the Lord with him. The Angel of Jehovah spoke directly to give him instruction as to the future.

It may appear that Gideon questioned the wisdom of the Lord, yet we must remember that he obeyed Him when He spoke.

1. Gideon, the Mighty Man of Valor, Jud. 6:11-16.

Gideon was called a mighty man of valor before he had proven himself in battle. God knew he would. The reason he was mighty was that the Lord was with him.

The need of a great leader came when the Midianites plundered Israel of all its grain. The cause for battle was just and the Lord fought for Gideon. Our main battle is in the spirit and we have the promise that God will stand for us. If God be for us who can be against us?

2. The Anxious and Cautious Soldier, Jud. 6:33-40.

The task of leading Israel was so great that Gideon asked for proof that the Lord wanted him. During the alarm of war or trouble one is apt to act unwisely. But Gideon was cautious. (Tell of the test of the fleece and dew). God will surely give assurance to all of His children when and where it is needed. It is better to wait on the Lord until His time for action. Running ahead of God will bring disappointments.

3. The Unneeded Thousands. Jud. 7:2-7.

Weak things can be used of the Lord to demonstrate His great power. Great numbers may not be able to accomplish as much as a few. The secret is not in numbers but in the unity of the Spirit. Unsympathetic and fault-finding members demoralize the group. Indifference and harsh criticism will scatter a defeatist attitude. No doubt many of the "hangers-on" were unconvinced and even guilty of worshipping other gods.

Think of the unneeded thousands in the church today. The Lord can't use them because of reasons of their own.

4. Gideon, Refusing the Crown. Jud. 8:22-23.

Gideon gave God the glory for the victory in his life. His accomplishments were humanly impossible. The people tried to make him king but he refused. They did not honor God but were ready to accept the rule of a man.

When God is denied, man is usually deified. Our humble position should be one of submission to the will of God and to give Him the credit for our successful living.

5. Something worse than a King. Jud. 8:24-27.

Gideon made an "ephod." Although it was a garment made for priests he transgressed and sinned. The thing became a snare to him. The people were ready to worship anything which would remind them of victory. They worshipped the ephod. The ephod was a sad ending to a brilliant life. The rapidity with which the nation of Israel returned into sin ought to be a lesson to every Christian. Take heed while we think we stand, lest we fall.

QUESTIONS

1. What was the secret of success for Gideon? Jud. 6:15-16.
2. Do you think a few people devoted to a cause can accomplish more than a multitude of indifferent people? (What was the mixed multitude of Israel?)
3. How does obedience become the first step of our Christian experience?
4. Do you think God tries us for faithfulness by giving us a small task to do?
5. How will worldliness keep our society in poverty?

ADDITIONAL SCRIPTURE MATERIAL

Here are a few of the things God has used to do great things:

A rod (Ex. 4:2; 14:15,16), an ox goad (Judg. 3:31), a jawbone (Judg. 15:15), stones (I Sam. 17:40), clay (John 9:6), handkerchiefs and aprons (Acts 19:12), nothing (I Cor. 1:28).

JUNIOR INTERMEDIATE C. E.

Topic for April 21, 1940

NOTE: We desire to know whether enough societies are using these Junior-Intermediate topics to make it worth while to continue them. If you are using them, please mail your executive secretary a card to that effect at once. (See head of this department for address). Do the topics meet your need? What suggestions can you make?

UNDER GOD'S MICROSCOPE*Preparation for the lesson:

If possible, secure a microscope; also a flower or other object which is more beautiful under a microscope, and a piece of coarse cloth or other object which looks worse when magnified.

Approach to the lesson:

Little do we realize how beautiful or ugly many things really are which we see daily. Look at this flower under the microscope. You couldn't see those delicate colors in the center with your naked eye. Now look at this piece of cloth. See how jagged those threads are. That would spoil the looks of the garment if we really saw it as it is; yet it doesn't look bad away from the microscope. That is just the way with our lives. They look pretty good until we get them under God's microscope. Let's see what they look like then, if we are not saved.

Lesson:

Whole body—full of running sores of sin (Isa. 1:6).

Whole head—sick (Isa. 1:5). Ever have a severe headache or a mastoid? Couldn't think right, could you? Unsaved cannot think pure thoughts (Tit. 1:15; Gen. 6:5).

Eyes—blind (II Cor. 4:3-4).

Ears—turned from the truth (II Tim. 4:4).

Mouth—full of cursing, bitterness (Rom. 3:14).

Lips—unclean (Isa. 6:5); deadliest poison under them (Rom. 3:13).

Tongue—full of deadly poison; is like a prairie fire or forest fire out of control though started with just a match (James 3:5-8).

Throat—an open grave, letting out the stink from that which is dead within (Rom. 3:13).

Spirit—dead (Eph. 2:1).

Heart—deceitful, desperately wicked, full of uncleanness (Jer. 17:9; Mk. 7:21-22).

Feet—swift to shed blood, walking away from God (Rom. 3:15, 11-12; Isa. 53:6).

Conclusion:

God's microscope shows why we need salvation. Not one is good (Rom. 3:10, 12). Even our best works are filthy (Isa. 64:6; Gal. 5:19-21). But Christ can cleanse from all sin (I Jn. 1:7; Ps. 51:7), and some day under God's microscope the saved will be faultless (Jude 24) and without spot or wrinkle (Eph. 5:27). Will you accept Christ now?

MONTHLY PRAYER CALENDAR

On their respective birthdays, the names, favorite Scripture verses, and prayer requests of pastors, missionaries, and others in the brotherhood who are prominent in Christian work, will appear under this head. Please see that each member in your society is assigned one of the following names for daily prayer. Assign a different name to each member weekly. If you know of others whose names should have appeared this month, please notify your News Editor at once.

Apr. 3—Rev. Frank G. Coleman, Jr., pastor of Grace Bible Church, Waterloo, Ia. Phil. 4:19. No requests submitted, but pray for this new church.

Apr. 11—Pres. Alva J. McClain, president of Grace Theological Seminary. Rom. 8:28. Requests prayer for present students, especially those soon to sail for Africa; also that the Lord will guide very definitely those thinking of entering Grace Seminary next fall.

Apr. 14 — Rev. Elias Zimmerman, missionary in charge of the Los Angeles (Brethren) Jewish Mission. Jn. 14:1-2. Requests prayer for continued guidance and blessings upon their ministry among the Jews, and for wisdom and grace in dealing with the many Jewish young men who come to the mission daily.

Apr. 15—Mrs Geo. Kinzie, wife of pastor at Kittanning, Pa. Phil 4:19, 13. Requests prayer that the nominal church members may be aroused to their responsibilities and privileges, and that the young people will find joy in serving our Lord.

Apr. 18—Rev. Curtis Morrill, missionary to Africa, now on furlough. II Cor. 8:9. Requests prayer for a real heaven-sent revival upon the whole body of believers; for the way to be reopened for older missionaries to return and new recruits to go out to Africa; for God to lay hold of native Christians in each tribe and raise up a native ministry and group of teachers.

Apr. 25—Rev. Kenneth Ashman, pastor at Mundy's Corner, Pa., and national superintendent of B.S.L.V. I Cor. 6:19-20. Requests prayer that Brethren young people will be awakened and will emerge from the fog of the world to the clear saving light of the Gospel; that the Lord will hastily raise up good ministers to answer the many calls and needs of Brethren churches; that the Lord will prepare a rich spiritual feast for Brethren young people at Bethany Camp next August; praise for the best year in the history of Grace Seminary and prayer that God will continue to lead her and supply every need.

Apr. 26—Rev. Conard Sandy, professor of Old Testament at Grace Theological Seminary. I Jn. 2:6. Requests prayer for the peace of Jerusalem, and for missionary work among the Jews.

Apr. 27—Rev. Sewell Landrum, home mission pastor at Clayhole, Ky. Ps. 32:8. Requests prayer for work on their new church building, and that group of young people in their Bible School will take a definite stand for Christ.

DISCOURAGED? NEVER!

By Mary Catherine Zuck

Discouraged—I must never be;
I have a Lord who cares for me.
The trials that come my faith to test
I count as precious. He knows best!

Tempted—I can ever stand
Upheld by the clasp of a mighty hand.
My strength is but weakness; His help I take,
And find a sure, safe way of escape.

Tried as by fire—I rest in His Word.
Hast thou not known—hast thou not heard
That He giveth power and increaseth strength?
His love is past measure in breadth, depth, and length.

From
Our Workers

By Robert Culver

"Talk about a bargain! I don't believe we have ever gotten so much good and blessing for such a small amount of money before, and that is something. We are very anxious for every home to receive the Herald."—A. L., Washington.

TO GAIN FAITH

I suppose that if all the time I have prayed for faith were put together, it would amount to months. I used to say, "What we want is faith." But faith did not seem to come. One day I read in the 10th chapter of Romans, "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God." I had closed my Bible and prayed for faith. I now opened my Bible and began to study, and faith has been growing ever since.

THINK IT OVER

"NO ONE CAN DO YOUR WORK"

"No one of my fellows can do that special work for me which I have come into the world to do! He may do a higher work, a greater work, but he cannot do my work. I cannot hand my work over to him, any more than I can hand over my responsibilities or my gifts. Nor can I delegate my work to any association of men, however well ordered and powerful. They have their own work to do, and it may be a very noble one. But they cannot do my work for me. I must do it with these hands or with these lips which God has given me."

—John Ruskin.

IMMEDIATE PRAYER REQUEST: Mrs. Grant McDonald, wife of the pastor of the Compton, Calif. Church, is bedfast with heart disease. Pray for her.

DID YOU SEE THE C. E. PRAYER CALENDAR in the March 9, issue of the Herald? Names of Christian workers whose birthdays are in April will appear in this issue of the month preceding. Look for the column and pray for those whose names appear there at the designated time!

ASK THEM HOW THEY DO IT!! From Washington D. C., "Thirteen years ago this past week, Jan. 30, 1927, we dedicated the basement of this completed building. Since then the Lord has enabled us to finish the church and also to acquire additional property for the expansion of our work. The church has given close to $75,000.00 for the building since 1926. That is a lot of money, but it shows what can be done when a people is willing to give in the Biblical way." In the same bulletin a goal for $5,500 for the building fund for the year 1940 was announced. On the same day cash and pledges were taken, and the next Sunday this was announced, "The total received in pledges and cash was $4,842.30." The goal was almost reached in one week!

A PRETTY LUSTY BABY!! The West Tenth Street Brethren Church, Ashland, O., of which Bro Chas. Mayes is pastor, was organized scarcely two and a half years ago. But look how they've grown. Their record on March 3 was 269 present at the Bible School, 238 for the morning worship service, and 151 in the evening service—and that on a day of very bad weather!

FROM THE CARLTON BRETHREN CHURCH, Ia., H. S. Parks, pastor, we read the following note, "Just closed a three day Bible conference with Dr. J. C. Beal. Had a real feast with the Lord. We have prayed that God would open the way to teach in five rural schools. That meant approaching 13 school supervisors, some of Catholic belief. God answered this prayer. We are serving five rural schools each morning from Monday through Friday." Bro. Parks also reports the organization of two C. E. societies in the church.

AN IDEA WORTH PASSING ON: This item appeared in the Tracy, Calif. bulletin, from the pastor, Robert E. Miller, "At the evening service special awards will be given to the oldest Bible, the newest style Bible, the most worn one, the most unusual Bible as to history, and the person having the largest collection of personally owned Bibles." That ought to bring out some Bibles and people as well! Pastor Miller announces that Dr. J. C. Beal will be in the church for a two weeks evangelistic Bible conference in the month of April.

EASTER OFFERING REPORTS certainly are encouraging. In the very near future we will list these early reports.

THIS WEEK'S POEM

The Power of Words

Solomon said, "Death and life are in the power of the tongue" (Prov. 18:21).

" 'Twas only a word, a careless word,
But it smote the heart of one who heard
Like a fierce, relentless blow;
The day seemed overcast with gloom.
The sweetest songs seemed out of tune;
The fires of hope burned low.

" 'Twas only a word, a loving word,
But a weary, sorrowing heart was stirred,
And life took brighter hue;
And faith, triumphant, pruned her wing;
Discouraged souls began to sing,
And hope revived anew!

"Only a word, and yet what power
It holds to better or to mar,
The lives of those who hear,
What power for good—for evil too!
Oh, may our words be good and true,
And spoken in God's fear!"

PELLETS FOR PREACHERS

I would like to put the brand of heresy upon the common practice of calling a company of Christians met for worship "an audience," instead of "a congregation."

One real defect of too many preachers is that they look upon their assembled people as an "audience," gathered to hear them speak. Thence comes the undue emphasis upon the preacher's oratory, rather than upon God's presence.

Whereas a worshiping company of Christians is a "congregation," met for the worship of God; and to which worship the preacher is not indispensable. Quakers do without him; and nobody ever calls their congregation an "audience."

Politicians and medicine men and professors have audiences; but the preacher has a congregation.

READY BIBLE OUTLINES

Perfection of the Lord Jesus

In Him was no sin.

And ye know that he was manifested to take away our sins; and in him is no sin (1 Jn. 3:5).

He knew no sin.

For he hath made him to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in him (2 Cor. 5:21).

He did no sin.

Who did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth (1 Pet. 2:22).

He was without sin.

For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin (Heb. 4:15).

And yet He His own self bare our sins.

Who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed (1 Pet. 2:24).

ILLUSTRATIVE JOTTING

Led Her Father To Christ

A little girl asked her father, "Do you ever pray?" He asked her, "Is it your mother or your aunt who has put you up to this?"

"No father," said the little child; "the preacher said all good men pray."

He answered, "Well, you and your mother and your aunt may go your way, and I will go mine."

"Father," said the little creature with simplicity, "which way are you going?" It flashed upon him that he was in the way of death. He burst into tears, and began to pray for mercy. Which way are you going?—"Light and Life Evangel."

THE CHURCH'S CONSTITUTION—Matt. 18:20.

"Where"—A divine location.

"Two or three"—A divine testimony.

"Are gathered"—A divine drawing.

"Together"—A divine unity.

"In My Name"—A divine authority.

"There I am"—The divine presence.

"In the midst of them"—The divine Center.

—From "The Voice"

What's wrong with the church? Too much religion, and too little regeneration!! "Ye must be born again." Are you?

Have you prayed for your enemies today?

Jenks the janitor says, "The thing that is making trouble in our church is the fact that our people want the preacher to be a chaplain of a hospital for sick saints, and he wants to be a captain, with troops out on the field."

Have you the Master's permission to stay home from church?

"There are 168 hours in a week. How many of these are you devoting to spiritual things?"

TWO BROTHERHOODS

By Chas. W. Mayes

Many of our churches have organized brotherhoods through which the men are enlisted to do definite work for Christ. These brotherhoods may be most helpful provided they do the work of the Lord. In past years we recall observing two different brotherhoods at work. There was considerable difference.

On entering the first place of meeting, a number of men standing around in groups talking about various subjects: ball games, new model cars, and a nearby street being paved. About 20 minutes after time to begin, one of the leaders looked around to see if any man present could play the piano. Since none could, he decided to sing, "My country 'Tis of Thee," saying, "I think we all know that all right."

Next there was a prayer, and then it was time for business. Everyone was asked to try to think of some business to transact, but since there seemed to be none, it was agreed to take a collection. Another song was sung—this time a religious one. Then a man from several miles away was introduced to play on a new type of musical instrument of his own designing and manufacture. He showed some skill and originality in the music presented as well as in the instrument.

A visiting speaker was then introduced, who spoke about the value of the men of the church getting busy in winning souls to Christ. He gave only a short message as he could see plainly that there was little interest. Several men had to leave during the talk to get the refreshments ready. In due time the meeting was dismissed, and there was a friendly rush to the dining room where the men enjoyed coffee, sandwiches and pie. The monthly brotherhood meeting was over, and the entire program required only 67 minutes.

The second brotherhood was held in a great city in a small church which had a reputation for standing for the faith. About a half hour before time for the meeting, two men walked into the church. They were discussing a certain Jew who had recently come to Christ and who promised to exert a profound influence among his people. Soon others came. Every man had his Bible. They stood in groups, most of them with Bible or Testament open, talking about what was found there.

At the very second for which the meeting was announced, the pastor, who was the leader of the brotherhood, stood up. "Well boys, let's sing a few choruses." Did they sing! Those 50 men were certainly heard for five blocks, for the windows and doors were wide open. A few short prayers followed.

The pastor continued the meeting by saying, "Now tell us what Christ means to you. Unless He means something to you, you can never lead any one else to Him. Besides, if you cannot speak a word for Christ here among His friends, you can never speak for Him out in the world among His enemies." A score or more of men stood up one by one, and in a few sentences told how Christ had lifted them from sin to salvation.

Finally we recall one man who stood up to say something like this, "I certainly want to thank God for my salvation. I was completely defeated by sin. I could not let booze alone. My wife was just ready to get a divorce. My children were afraid when they saw me coming. One day I sold my wife's sewing machine to get some money to buy booze. Conditions were unbearable. Then _____ invited me to come to this church. I heard the gospel, was saved, joined the church, and now I want to give my whole life to bringing others to Christ."

After the period of testimony was over, the pastor said, "It is now time to tell us what you have been doing this past week." Accordingly men stood up and one after another told how they had held street meetings at various places and services in a number of shops, and how thousands of tracts had been passed out. A number of men had been brought to Christ, and some had promised to come to church on the next Sunday to confess Christ openly and join the church. That brotherhood of 50 men had done more in one week than some churches do in 50 years.

The editor who visited that day wondered about the meeting, and inquired if this was some special report meeting. "Oh," said one, "This is a regular weekly meeting." Two hours had slipped by which seemed like only a few minutes. The meeting was dismissed, but the men went home to eat their coffee, sandwiches, and pie.

Yes, brotherhoods in a church are mighty fine. Be sure yours actually does something for God in bringing souls to Christ. A brotherhood without this great purpose may prove to be worthless, or even damaging to a church.

"Besides, There Is A God"

Dictator Adolph Hitler, in one of his recent speeches, reviewed the accomplishments of Germany thus far in the European war. The picture that he painted was rosy, intended for the encouragement of the suffering people who are bearing the heavy burdens of the day. He pointed to the destruction wrought by German submarines, to the rain of bombing death from the air, to the economic aid expected from the Russian communists, to the industrial capacities of the German factories, and other factors which would all help to guarantee an eventual victory for Germany. And then, as if he felt that still something more was needed, the German dictator added, "And besides, there is a God."

Yes, there is a God. And He always has the last word in human affairs, as Mr. Hitler will find out one of these days to his eternal woe. But He is not the kind of a god that Mr. Hitler supposes, a convenient monster of cruelty who can be called to the help of madmen who believe they have a divine mission to crush the weak and the helpless. When Mr. Hitler meets the true God, as he will one of these days, he will be surprised to find that He is the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Yes, it is true that beyond "the noise and shoutings of the captains" there is a God. But that fact should bring no consolation to such as Hitler.

"Cut Down For Thyself"

When under the direction of Joshua the land of Palestine was being divided among the various tribes of Israel, the tribe of Joseph complained rather bitterly at the size of their allotment. They argued before Joshua as follows: "Why hast thou given me but one lot and one portion to inherit, seeing I am a great people?"

The answer of Joshua to this complaint is full of practical instruction: "If thou be a great people," said he, "Then get thee up to the wood country and cut down for thyself there in the land of the Perizzites and of the giants, if Mount Ephraim be too narrow for thee."

It sometimes happens that the minister becomes dissatisfied with the place of service which has fallen to him in the providence of God. Perhaps he feels that his talents are too great for the church where God has called, and therefore he should have something bigger. If so, there is a solution—let him, in the words of Joshua, go out and "cut down for himself," if the place of his service seems to be "too narrow" for his ability. There is a very sound principle laid down in all this: If a man gets too big for his church, then he is big enough to go out and build a bigger one.

"A Double Portion of Grace"

Not long ago I received a postal card from one of the Lord's faithful pastors in reply to a letter I had written to him. This pastor at the time was passing through a most trying experience. In spite of the fact that he had been true to the Word of God, that he had constantly exalted Christ in his preaching, that he was a real soul-winner, that he had a genuine love for the souls of the lost, that his life had been a credit to his church, and that he was making a real success of his ministry, some members of his church under the leadership of ungodly men had mistreated this pastor in a way that shocked even unbelievers in the community. Hearing of the situation, I had written a letter of sympathy, and his reply was so gracious and so filled with the Spirit of Christ, that without asking his permission I am reproducing it below. There was not a word of denunciation for his enemies, no bitterness of feeling, no complaint against God's providence. This is what he wrote:

"The Lord has been very gracious unto us in the hour of trial. We are praying that He will continue to lead, and to Him be all the praise and glory. Praise His dear name! We feel that the hand of the Lord is moving here, and we want to remain true to Him in a mighty way. We feel that the battle is His, not ours. We are only His instruments and our prayer is that we shall be true to Him and to His Word at any cost. The burning passion of our hearts is to win men for Him. O, for a double portion of grace to do His bidding. No price will be too much to pay to serve Him for He has done so much for us, and we are so unworthy of His love. Please continue to pray for us that we may stay in the perfect center of His will, to His glory."

Now, I think that the Lord has already answered the prayer of this pastor, for no one in such a situation could possibly write as he did without "a double portion of grace." When the truth of God's sovereign grace really enters our hearts, it always makes us more gracious.

You Need Not "Solemnly Swear"

Members of The Brethren Church, who believe in obeying the Bible and desire to follow the time-honored principles of their own church, have sometimes been disturbed by the "Oath of Allegiance" which is required of those who wish to secure governmental passport for the purpose of travel or residence in foreign countries. This problem has been especially acute in the case of those who enter into foreign missionary service.

In the regular form for the application for a passport, the oath reads as follows: "Further, I do solemnly swear that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; and that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; and that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion. So help me God."

Now in this obligation there are two things which are wholly objectionable to the Brethren and other Christians of like faith. First, it is an oath. And second, it pledges the signer to personal combative service in the institution of carnal warfare, for that is undoubtedly the intent of the word "defend."

On account of the protest of many missionaries, this problem was referred to the National State Department by the Executive Committee of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America several years ago, and a favorable ruling was secured from the Department of State. The modified form reads as follows:

"Further, I do solemnly affirm that I will support the Constitution of the United States, and will, as far as my conscience as a Christian will allow, defend it against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; and that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion. So help me God."

More recently I have learned that through the request of the Society of Friends the State Department is accepting the above obligation without the words, "So help me God," and therefore these may be dropped.

All our missionaries and any others who may be interested should make a copy of the above form and request its use when making an application for a passport. At the State Department in Washington, D. C., and at the Passport Bureau in New York this form will be accepted without question, we have been informed. The applicant should not be disturbed if local officers in some cities refuse to accept the form, as they may not be familiar with it. In such cases the applicant should request that the matter be referred to the State Department at Washington.

We Should Be Grateful

As Christians we should thank God every day that He has permitted us to live under the laws of a government which is so considerate of our faith. There are very few places today on the face of the earth where such consideration is shown. But in this country you need not take an "oath" for any purpose. And if you are a Christian, you should not. "Above all things, my brethren, swear not, neither by heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath" (Jas. 5:12).

The Lord's command is perfectly clear for all who have ears to hear. Yet it is no uncommon thing today to find those who call themselves "Brethren" to ignore altogether this command. Even though the United States government itself has made a remarkable exception to its own laws in deference of this command of the Lord, we actually behold the spectacle of such men deliberately entering the doors of certain organizations where they are compelled to "swear" as the first requirement of membership.

At Waterloo, Iowa

This is being written at Waterloo, Iowa, where I am teaching under the auspices of the Waterloo Bible Conference Association, a city wide and undenominational organization which has been ministering here for 23 years. This is the eighth consecutive year for me in Bible Conference work at Waterloo, and it has become a very pleasant ministry and fellowship, since there are some believers here who have been in our audiences during the whole period. The new Grace Brethren Church has been specially honored in being chosen by the local committee as the conference church this year. Knowing something about the faith and purpose of the folks who founded this church, I expected that they would accomplish great things for the Lord in their new organization. But their accomplishments have far surpassed what I expected. Those who are planning to build churches should make a special trip here and see the beautiful and comfortable building erected by the Waterloo Brethren. There is not sufficient space here to describe it adequately, but I hope a complete description will be written for the Herald when the building is dedicated.

ADMIRATION

When Henry Ward Beecher expressed his admiration for a horse he was hiring, the liveryman responded enthusiastically, "He'll work any place you put him and will do all that any horse can do."

Beecher regarded the horse with greater admiration than before and said wistfully, "I wish he were a member of my church!"

How we need some like him!

WASTED TIME reminds us of the calendars on our desk: Time tears off a new day, but the other side is a blank. Dear friend, how much time have you wasted that should have been in the Lord's service?

"Stand not in fear, thy adversaries counting,

Dare every peril, save to disobey;

Thou shalt march on, all obstacle surmounting,

For I, the Strong, will open up the way.

Wherefore go gladly to the task assigned thee,

Having My promise, needing nothing more,

Than just to know, where'er the future find thee,

In all thy journeying I go before.

FORMING AN ACQUAINTANCE

Once the writer knew a young man who was studying for the Methodist ministry and he broke into the college museum and stole part of one of the Egyptian mummies. What would an embryo minister want of a mummy? Now it is plain. He wanted to get acquainted with an average Official Board member.

—Dean Taylor in "The Aldersgate Call and the New Day."

DON'T QUIT

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you're traveling seems all uphill,
When the funds are low and the debts are high
And you want to smile but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit
Rest if you must, but don't you quit.

Life is queer with its twists and turns
As every one of us sometimes learns,
And many a failure turns about
When he might have won had he stuck it out.
Don't give up, though the pace seems slow,
You may succeed with another blow.

Often the goal is nearer than
It seems to a faint and faltering man,
Often the struggler has given up
When he might have captured the victor's cup,
And learned too late, when the night slipped down
How close he was to the golden crown.

Success is failure turned inside out—
The silver tint of the clouds of doubt.
And you can never tell how close you are,
It may be near when it seems afar;
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit—
It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit.

IS FRANCE A HEATHEN NATION?

By Garner Hoyt

Foreign Missionary Candidate and Junior in Grace Seminary.

(Editorial Note: This is the second article in a series by Garner Hoyt relating to his observations and experiences while in France studying the language in preparation for service in French Equatorial Africa.)

Having considered the educational side of France in my last article, I wish to present briefly in this number of the Herald some of the most prominent conditions of the religious side of France.

Little does the rest of the world know about the spiritual condition of France. Most people know that it is a country filled with churches, but beyond that the world is ignorant. Some readers will doubtless remember the articles written on this subject by Dr. Taber while he was in France, but it is very seldom that one contacts such information. At the close of my study in France when I was able to have a general idea of its religious side I realized more than ever that what France needs is the gospel. Although France received the true gospel long before America was discovered, it is far from being a Christian nation today. France needs missionaries.

Protestants are Few

The most outstanding cause for such a condition in France is the dominance of the Roman Catholic Church. We who live in America do not realize just how fortunate we are, from the Christian standpoint. We have Catholic churches but they are decidedly in the minority. In France it is decidedly the contrary. Protestant churches are few, and have practically no influence among the French people, except for a few small departments in Southern France located along the Mediterranean Sea and the Pyrenees Mountains. In that extremely small territory the Protestants are in the majority, but in all the rest of France the Protestant church is scarcely noticed, and sometimes is utterly unknown to the average person. The country is literally filled with Catholic churches, schools and cathedrals. France is unique for its large number of small towns and villages which dot the country side. There is scarcely a single village where one cannot find a Catholic church. All the large cities are noted especially for their beautiful cathedrals. These massive works of architecture some of which were erected six and seven centuries ago, well represent the strength of the Catholic Church.

The Catholic Church is the richest organized body in France. Its chief aim is to keep the people in darkness and thus gain their wealth. It doesn't concern itself with the spreading of the gospel of Christ, but busies itself in the politics of the nation. It doesn't exhort its people to put away sin and live a separated life unto the Lord, but it teaches them to confess their sins to the priests and buy their forgiveness. It forbids its people the reading of the Bible. By all these means it hides the truth from the people and prevents them from finding the truth. The Catholic Church does not lead people to life; it leads them to death.

Drifting to Modernism

France needs the gospel because of the conditions existing in the Protestant church. The Protestant church is represented by various denominations just as in America. Perhaps the most prominent are the Baptist, the Lutheran, the Methodist, and the Presbyterian churches. A great number of these are rapidly drifting into modernism and have carried over formality and ritualism from the Catholic Church. They have even kept some of its ordinances and practices.

Just now I think of the practice that they call "la premiere communion" (the first communion). Each year, usually at Easter time, a group of young folks between the ages of 15 and 20, who had expressed their desire of joining the church, met at the church to observe their first communion. The young men were dressed in dark suits and the young ladies in long flowing robes with veils. The procedure in this service is quite the same as our ordination service for the ministry.

These Protestant churches believe that if too much difference exists between the Catholic Church and their own that they will lose their followers. That is true with those who have just come from the Catholic faith. An ordinary song service such as we have in America would be considered sacrilegious. Most gospel songs, played as we play them here, are considered as jazz in France among the good evangelistic groups. In the light of that I was extremely surprised, when looking through one of their most popular church song books, to see words set to the music of such American airs as "In the Gloaming" and "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight."

Last year at Easter time I was forced to wait several days for my boat at LeHavre, France on returning to America. I became rather lonely, and hungered for some Christian fellowship. On Easter morning I attended the Easter morning service. The church was full of people hungry for the Word. The pastor read from the Bible and spoke, but we all left the service realizing that we had heard empty words. The Protestant church needs the gospel.

Multitudes in Darkness

Finally, France needs the gospel because of its multitudes in darkness. The average person today has the idea that to find spiritual darkness you must go to China or India or Africa or the islands of the sea. I found that this is not so, for France can be classed along with the darkest continents of the earth. Multitudes are there who have yet to hear the gospel even for the first time.

The most striking example of the darkness in France is the condition that exists in the slums of Paris. While I was studying at the Bible Institute just outside of Paris, I went with several of the other students into the slums of Paris each Sunday afternoon, to hold open air meetings in the market places. Sunday was always one of their big market days and thus many people were present. We sought out one of the busy corners and there placed our little table on which were arranged our Gospels and tracts and New Testaments. We began by singing a gospel song together and at once we had a crowd of a hundred people of all walks of life. There were hungry children, dirty beggars, and well dressed merchants in the constantly moving crowd.

Between each song or two we took turns in giving our testimony or a short message about God's love for sinners and His gift of eternal life to all who will take it. I experienced something there that I had never seen before. Those people stood there with their eyes wide open and expressions on their faces which seemed to say, "That is the first time I've ever heard anything like that." They listened with eager ears never missing a word until we were finished. Before leaving each one would come near to the table and thank us for the good news that we had given to them. Nearly all of them bought New Testaments or portions of the New Testament. If they desired a Gospel we always handed them the Gospel of John first, and time and time again our hearts were thrilled as they looked at us and asked if they might have a different one for they had read that one the week before. We knew then that those people were not taking those gospels merely because of curiosity, for they were reading them and were eager for more. There in the slums of Paris lived thousands who had never heard the name of the Lord, but the same conditions exist all over France. How few are the true Christians that could tell them the way of Life. Yes, France too needs missionaries who will bring to them the gospel of Christ.

Lest I should discredit the good work that is being carried on in France, I want to add just one word about it in closing. Although they are very few in proportion to the size of France, there are nevertheless a number of real Christian, evangelistic, soul-winning institutions. For the most part they are independent churches. The pastors of these churches to a great extent come from the Bible Institute at Nogents, Marne, just outside of Paris. Their work very often is very discouraging, but they labor on with unending courage for our Master. Should we not pray for them too?

To do God's work we must have God's power;
To have God's power we must know God's will;
To know God's will we must study God's Word.

"It is better to lose with God than to win with men, for when we lose with God, we win in the end."

By Tom Hammers

The following lesson on "Evangelism In The Bible School" is a continuation of the series of articles written by Rev. Harry H. MacArthur and published by the Los Angeles Bible Institute as a part of their Child Evangelism Correspondence Course. Every pastor, teacher and Bible School worker as well as parent should be stirred by the facts which the writer brings to our attention.

III. THE NEED

1. Many Children Outside the Bible School.

It is estimated that anywhere from 17,000,000 to 27,000,000 children in America are receiving no religious instruction. This is the church's opportunity.

2. Serious Leakage Between the Bible School and Church.

It is estimated that on the average, five out of seven pass out of the church without having confessed Christ and many of these are lost to the church at least for a time, if not altogether.

This is proof that something is radically wrong, and that the church is failing woefully in this part of her God-given task.

3. The Rising Tide of Juvenile Delinquency and Communism.

There are many contributing causes to the rising tide of juvenile delinquency. Communism, we believe, is a result of the moral and religious break-down of the home, the materialistic trend of our modern education, and the failure of the church in the matter of evangelism.

Many who are in crime today might have been saved and their lives been made useful and a blessing to others. Many who are marching under the red flag of communism might be marching under the blood-stained banner of the cross of Christ, if the church and the Bible School had been faithful in their evangelistic and soul-winning opportunity and responsibility.

4. The Resources and Influences of Youth.

There are many organizations working with and for Youth, but mostly along ethical and physical lines. Little is being done outside the Bible School to reach the boy or girl spiritually.

What a privilege and opportunity, yes, and what a challenge it is to those who know the Lord Jesus Christ, and have the evangelistic vision and passion to help in bringing youth into a vital contact with Jesus Christ, to make impressions in their lives that eternity will not erase, and to fortify them against temptations that assail modern youth.

Every youth has resources that are priceless and possibilities beyond our power to compute. The habit forming period is during the plastic and impressionable years of his life. It is the time when habits are formed that determine his character.

It is said that by the age of 13 an individual has fashioned the groove in which his life shall run. From this time, 99 one-hundredths of all one does is done automatically.

Workers with youth should have this in mind, and help them to acquire habits of prayer, Bible-reading and church attendance.

Professor Athearn investigated over 6000 individuals from 26 different states. He discovered that the peak age of conversion is the 13th year, that more were converted at 13 than at any other age. What a responsibility rests upon those working with, and teaching youth, to see that they are reached for Christ before they pass that period.

80 per cent of the boys and girls in our Bible Schools slip through our hands without deciding for Christ. This is a serious indictment against the church, the fact that they allow the young people to drift away at the very time that God speaks most directly and persuasively to the life. Evangelistic effort among adults is really an attempt to correct the church's blunder in not holding its young people through the critical teen age.

Youth is the time, not only for the making of converts, but also for the making of criminals. More than two thirds of all delinquent boys brought into court are from 12 to 15 years of age. This fact should stir Christian workers to greater effort in winning them in youth.

Marion Lawrence said: "Save a man, and you save a unit, but save youth and you save a whole multiplication table."

Too often we minimize the conversion of children, and spend time, money and effort to reach adults, overlooking or being ignorant of the fact that the influence of the child means more to the kingdom of God than that of an adult.

Dr. George W. Bailey said: "Other things being equal, a child won to Christ at 10 is worth more to the kingdom of God than many adults converted at 50 years of age.

The influence of a saved boy can be illustrated by an actual experience. More than 40 years ago Frank A. Miller, the well known child evangelist, was holding meetings in Southern Illinois. During the revival a lad of 10 years of age accepted Christ, and was later on called into the ministry. This lad was no other than Dr. French E. Oliver, internationally known evangelist. Dr. Oliver, since that time, has been used in leading multiplied thousands of souls to Jesus Christ. While Dr. Oliver was holding a revival meeting in Calgary, Alberta, Canada, in 1918, the writer was led to Christ, and later called into the ministry, and for the past 17 years has been preaching the gospel of Christ and working especially with children and young people. During these years he has been the means of winning multiplied hundreds of young people to Christ, some of whom now actively serve the Lord. In this way the influence of young French Oliver, saved in boyhood, goes on and on indefinitely.

BIBLE SCHOOL EVANGELISM, THE GREATEST SOUL-WINNER

1. Many Lost People Found In Its Membership.

The business of the Bible School is to bring into its membership both those who are saved, and those who are lost. A glance at any Bible School roll, where any sort of an effort is being made to build up the membership, will disclose the fact that a large part of the Bible School membership, especially among the young people and boys and girls, are not Christians.

2. Taught People Belong To The Bible School.

This fact makes the Bible School a great evangelistic opportunity. In winning lost people to Christ the soul-winner has a great advantage if he is dealing with those who study the Bible. The approach is so much easier for the soul-winner, for he has a real point of contact, because the one with whom he is dealing knows something about the teachings of the Scriptures, and a foundation upon which the worker can build. They also believe what the Bible says. Then again, having studied the Bible, the Holy Spirit is able to use that knowledge in bringing or giving "light," for the Holy Spirit speaks through the Word.

3. Those Most Susceptible to the Gospel Belong to Bible School.

The children constitute a large part of the membership of all Bible Schools, and their presence makes the Bible School a fruitful evangelistic opportunity. They are not yet sin hardened and habit bound. This is God's time for salvation, the best time and the easiest time in life.

Ecc. 12:1, "Remember now thy Creator, in the days of thy youth, before the evil days come, and the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them."

WHAT YOU CATCH DEPENDS A LOT

ON WHERE YOU CAST!

"The difference between catching man and catching fish is that you catch fish which are alive and they die; you catch men who are dead and bring them to life."

—Herbert Lockyer

Children constitute a large part of the membership of all Bible Schools. Although the Bible School furnishes from 80% to 90% of the church's members, it is estimated that on the average, five out of seven leave the school without having confessed Christ, many of whom are lost to the church for a time if not altogether.

4. Soul-Winners Found In Bible School.

Pastors and evangelists everywhere testify that the people upon whom they most depend to help in winning others to Christ in their meetings are the officers and teachers in the Bible Schools and members of different classes.

5. The Bible School Is The Church's Chief Recruiting Center.

It is estimated that the Bible School furnishes from 80 per cent to 90 per cent of the church's members. If this source of supply were cut off, humanly speaking, the church could not long exist.

The Bible School is, therefore, the most hopeful and fruitful evangelistic factor in the missionary enterprise of the church.

WHAT CAN COME FROM TRUE EVANGELISM

1. A Personal Testimony.

The writer attended the same church school from the time he was able to walk until he was 17 years of age. It was an orthodox church and supposedly evangelical. He advanced step by step from the beginner's department until he reached the senior group. In addition he regularly attended the church services, sitting in the family pew. When he left home to make his own way in life he was as ignorant of God's plan or way of salvation as a hottentot in the heart of Africa who had never seen or heard of the Bible. His heart, however, most of this time hungered for the assurance of sins forgiven, and he never, to his knowledge, had heard that it was possible to know in Christ and to be saved from his sins.

It was not until he was 27 years of age that the gospel of Christ was presented to him and he accepted Christ as his Savior and Lord and made a public confession of his faith. Shortly after this he was called to the ministry. For the past 15 years he has been busy proclaiming the "good news" of which he was ignorant so long. He is very conscious, however, that the most vital years of his life were lost, but might have been saved if the pastor, the officers of the church, the superintendent of the church school and the teachers had been faithful in their task and presented to him the message of salvation, and a personal invitation to accept the Lord Jesus Christ as his Savior. He was asked as a young man to promise to read the Bible, and for years he kept the promise. He was asked to sign the temperance and non-smokers' pledge, but to the best of his knowledge he was never asked to receive Jesus Christ as his Savior and Lord.

While specifically, evangelism is the winning of the unsaved to Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord, generally speaking it may include the teaching of the Word and the presentation of the gospel, personal acceptance of Christ, confessing Christ, church membership, training and instruction to the end that the evangelized may become a complete man of God, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

2. Three Essential Steps In Evangelism.

Evangelism includes (1) the preparation of the life for Christ, (2) the introduction to Christ, (3) the building up "in Christ."

3. The Bible School Mission.

The Bible School ought to be a mighty evangelistic agency. Its main business ought to be that of winning the lost to Christ.

Not all Bible Schools are evangelistic. Not all are being supernaturally used of God in the miraculous work of bringing lives into the new birth and the new life in Christ Jesus.

The social service program, which includes so many things Christian in spirit, but which in many cases so disastrously puts fruit ahead of the root, is a danger against which the Bible School needs to guard. It is necessary that we understand that the salvation of society apart from the salvation of the individual is a hopeless task. The true evangelistic church that brings the good news of Jesus Christ and His redeeming love to the individuals of any community will lift society in a way that the social service program can never do.

JESUS IS GOD

If Jesus is not God to you,
You have no God, no Savior true:
But if He's God, then heed His call
And give His precious words to all.

Two little eyes to look to God.
Two little ears to hear His Word.
Two little feet to walk in His ways.
Two hands to work for Him all my days.
One little tongue to speak His truth.
One little heart, for Him now in my youth.
Take them, Lord Jesus, and let them be Always obedient and true to Thee.

God wants you, not your excuses.

"It is not a sin to work for one's daily bread, but it is a sin to work for nothing more."

"Better be one-sided than two-faced."

OUR BOY'S and GIRL'S VERY OWN PAGE

Dear Boys and Girls:

When I was a baby like my new baby brother I lived in Africa at Bekoro. Anne Kliever lives there now. We pray for her and her daddy and mama. Do you? I hear my daddy and mama ask Jesus to give them the food they need to keep them well.

I don't remember much about it but my mama says that it's lots easier to cook a meal here and to give me the right kind of food than it sometimes was at Bekoro. So she and daddy ask Jesus to give Anne and her mama and daddy and the other missionaries the right kind of food.

I want to go back to Bekoro. I ask my mama every once in awhile if we're not going back some day. I'm just three years old and I've forgotten a lot of things that I saw in Africa, but I hear mama and daddy talk about it so much that I want to go back to our home there. We live in the mission home now. I like this home too.

My mama says that I could ask you to pray and ask Jesus to make it possible for us to go back to Africa and to take my baby brother with us.

We never had snow in Africa. The black boys and girls don't know what snow is. I didn't know either until I saw it this winter. I didn't like it the first time it snowed, because it got in my sand-box and covered the grass and the sidewalk and the street. My mama told me it was a blanket that Jesus gave to keep the grass and the sidewalk warm; then I cried when daddy swept the snow off the sidewalk. I've learned to play in the snow now and I like it.

I guess it is a good thing they don't have snow in Africa because the black boys and girls don't have warm clothes to wear like we do.

I knew a little black girl at Bekoro and her name was Detoula. I wanted to play with her, but her mama had leprosy and my mother said she couldn't let my play with her. My mother was giving medicine to Detoula's mother so maybe some day she won't have leprosy any more.

Maybe my mother will have time to write for me again sometime.

With love,

ELAINE MORRILL.

By Mrs. Orville D. Jobson,
Bozoum, French Equatorial Africa

Couta is a little chubby kinky-headed lad that came all the way from a village called Kouki, to Bozoum, where he found Jesus as his personal Savior. He is very happy in his new found joy and is daily attending the inquirers' class prior to his baptism. At our watch night services, Noel read the following five promises, and asked all those who desired to follow the Lord faithfully during the coming year, and with God's help to do and obey the following, to stand:

1. Put Jesus first in all things.
2. Meet with the Lord in prayer morning and evening.
3. Read chapter from God's Word every day.
4. Win five souls to the Lord during the Year.
5. Each Lord's day give your tithe.

Couta who was sitting near the front was among the first to stand on his feet. He repeated the promises one by one and said he desired to fulfill all six and follow Jesus every day. Knowing that Couta was living with a widow woman, and has very little of this world's goods, Mr. Jobson asked Couta where he would get the money to give to the Lord every Sunday? Quickly he answered that he would gather fire wood and sell it at the market each week, and give his tithe to the Lord.

I know you will pray for Couta that he may continue to be a true follower of Jesus Christ.

OUR BIBLE CHARACTER ALPHABET

Answer to F: Felix.

G was a poor man who became captain of an army. He had only a few soldiers, while the enemy's army was like the sand by the seashore for number. Before fighting them, G and his servant walked into the enemy's camp one night. There G overheard a dream about himself. In Judges 7 you will find his name, the dream, and whether the dream came true.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

FOR APRIL 28, 1940

RUTH, THE DUTIFUL DAUGHTER—Ruth 1:6-18

Suggestions for the Leader

The story of Ruth is one of the most familiar and loved stories in the Bible. At least it is read many times over by Christian girls.

Ruth had the admirable characteristics that made one care for her. Naomi needed a friend like her and Ruth proved to be faithful and dependable. Even though she had an opportunity for a career in her home land and among her own people, she chose to go along with Naomi to her land.

Naomi must have lived a godly life because Ruth could see something in her that was attractive. She must have felt that she had a knowledge of God and His revelation that she would like to have.

God is no respecter of persons. This story proves it. He called a Gentile woman into His favor and made her to be in the royal and Messianic line. One can also see the providence of God in the life of Ruth. He was leading her and directing her to be a witness for Himself.

The speakers will tell of Ruth's humility and faithfulness in doing the honorable things. How little she had, yet how great was her exaltation.

1. Ruth, the Moabite Woman. Ruth 1:4; Deut. 23: 3-4; Neh. 13:1-3.

The background of the Moabites was not favorable. Nevertheless God is able to bring good out of such things when there is a willing mind.

Intermarriage with the Moabites was forbidden among Jews. In spite of it, they went on with the marriages. Really Naomi's husband showed a weak faith in God when he went into Moab.

Naomi was not in favor of a stay out of the pleasant land, because she made preparation to return as soon as her second son died.

It is possible to rise above the handicaps of heredity. Ruth turned from her people and her gods to come to Israel and worship the true God.

2. Kissing vs. Clinging. Ruth 1:14.

Orpah, kissing her mother-in-law and weeping, remained a Moabite. Ruth cleaving fast, became one of God's own people. Ruth followed the same course as Abraham. He too had to turn his back on his people because they were worshipping false gods.

Ruth's steadfast purpose was to go where Naomi went. Does our allegiance to Christ prove as real? Are we prepared to say that not even death will be able to separate us from Jesus?

3. Ruth, Earning a Living. Ruth 2:2-7; I Thess. 4: 11-12.

The life Ruth chose was not an easy one. She had many responsibilities to come to her. She was willing to do the commonplace things as long as they were in the will of God. To accept a responsibility for Jesus Christ is a sign of the sincerity of the new convert in Christ. The place of humble service is the place of blessing. The work that the Lord gives us to do, brings us closer to Himself.

4. Redeemed. Ruth 4:1-6; Lev. 25:25; Isa. 59:20.

Christ is our near Kinsman-Redeemer. We can best understand what this means when we know of the custom among the Jews in respect to buying back property that belonged to the family name. Where death entered and threatened to destroy the family name, the nearest kinsman was to take the widow and property to continue the family name. Christ is our Redeemer because he bought back all that Adam lost for us. Just as Boaz became the bridegroom for Ruth, Christ becomes the bridegroom for all those that receive Him.

5. The Line of the Redeemer. Ruth 4:14-17.

Ruth was not only brought into salvation but brought into the royal line that would present Christ to the world. Naomi's joy was that the line did not pass out but that one of the dearest hopes of all Hebrew women had been experienced by her.

God has a place and a work for those that are honestly looking for the Lord to use them. Ruth overcame all of the obstacles of race and religion and turned to a people she knew to be correct.

6. Aliens who won a name by faith:

Rahab (Josh. 6:22,23; Heb. 11:31); the widow of Zerephath (I Ki. 17:9; Lk. 4:24-26); Namaan (II Ki. 5: 1-14; Lk. 4:27); the centurion (Lk. 7:1-10); the woman of Canaan (Mt. 15:21-28); Greeks at the feast (Jn. 12:20,21); the Samaritan woman (Jn. 4:25,26,39).

QUESTIONS

1. How did Ruth overcome the obstacles of her own people?
2. Why did Ruth decide to go back with Naomi?
3. What is the work of Christ as our Kinsman-Redeemer?
4. What lesson do we learn from Ruth in respect to faithfulness?

JUNIOR - INTERMEDIATE

C. E. TOPIC

A NEW CREATURE IN CHRIST JESUS

Approach to the lesson.

Last week we examined unsaved people under God's microscope. (As a review write on the blackboard the parts of man examined. As the children tell how each looked, write the word or words which describe it.) When God saves us, we become new creatures (II Cor. 5:17). Everything is different. (As each part is studied tonight, write in a new column the word which describes it.)

Lesson:

Body—temple of Holy Spirit (I Cor. 3:16-17; 6:19).
Head—has mind of Christ (I Cor. 2:16); is sound (II Tim. 1:7), pure (II Pet. 3:1); understands things of God (I Cor. 2:10-12).

Eyes—open to precious things of God (Eph. 1:18-20).

Ears—hear, receive God's truth (I Thess. 2:13).

Mouth—confesses Christ (Rom. 10:9-10), glorifies God (Rom. 15:6).

Lips—cleansed (Isa. 6:7).

Tongue—speaks things of God (I Cor. 2:7, 12-13; I Thess. 2:4).

Throat—lets melody of praise to God flow from the heart (Eph. 5:19).

Spirit—alert with Christ's abundant life (Eph. 2:4-6; Jn. 10:10b).

Heart—pure (II Tim. 2:22), cleansed from evil conscience (Heb. 10:22), filled with God's love (Rom. 5:5), reflecting His glory (II Cor. 4:6).

Feet—beautiful, spreading the gospel (Rom. 10:15). Instead of walking the way of destruction and misery (Rom. 3:16-17), they walk the way of joy and peace (Rom. 5:1-2).

Works—good (Eph 2:10). Works of flesh replaced by fruit of Spirit (Gal. 5:22-23).

Instead of none being good, the saved are complete in Christ (Col. 2:10), having His righteousness (Rom. 1:17—"a righteousness which comes from God"—Weymouth's translation). Isn't it wonderful!

After you get ready for church, you make special effort to keep clean, don't you? After God saves us, we should make special effort to do certain things. (In a third column write on the blackboard the words which suggest these things.)

Body—Glorify God (I Cor. 6:20).

Head—Think right (Phil. 4:8).

Eyes—Look unto Jesus constantly (Heb. 12:2).

Ears—Swift to hear and obey (James 1:19, 22-25).

Mouth—Guard speech (Eph. 4:29; Col. 3:8).

Lips—Speak His praise (Heb. 13:15).

Tongue—Keep from evil (I Pet. 3:10; James 3:2-13).

Throat—Amplify His praises (Eph. 5:19).

Spirit—Glorify God (I Cor. 6:20).

Heart—Sanctify (set apart) the Lord (I Pet. 3:15).

Feet—Walk straight paths (Heb. 12:13).

Works—Be careful to keep them good (Tit. 3:8).

C. E. FUN CORNER

A LEAP YEAR PARTY

The Invitation

A leap year party can be lots of fun;
You'll say so too, if you will run
To join our gang, for leap year play;
"Ain't we got fun!" we'll hear you say.

The Decorations

Happy home scenes—the ultimate for leap-yearitis.

The Refreshments

Serve in twos: 2 little mounds of ice cream, 2 pieces of cake or 2 cookies; or if you prefer salad, 2 spoonsful, 2 sandwiches, 2 pickles, 2 olives. Set out refreshments in twos. Group comes in pairs to receive them.

The Games

Leap year fortunes. Make 8 cards of heavy paper, about 2x3 inches. On each, place a letter to spell "leap year." Put hat on floor. Contestants stand about 5 feet away, take all cards in hand at one time, toss into hat. If all in hat, married this year; if miss one, a year to wait, etc.; if miss all, it's just too bad—will have to wait for two leap years to pass.

Who's Who? Cut from magazines illustrations of occupations and professions. (Make list of these for your own use.) Hang them about the room. Who can guess the largest number? Each then chooses the one he prefers, is blindfolded, and sees if he can go to the one chosen.

Leap year proposals. Seat men in circle. Give each a handful of mittens cut from cardboard, and a supply of small rubber bands. Girls must kneel and propose to each man. If accepted, are given a ring (rubber band), if rejected, a mitten. Give the one having the most rings a badge with inscription, "The Belle of 1940"; to the one having the most mittens a badge, "A quaint old fashioned girl."

Cracker eating contest for girls. First to finish and whistle is winner. (Have bags of various shapes, sizes and materials, each containing about a dozen peanuts.) As girls whistle, let them choose a bag without knowing contents. Warn them to guard these carefully—will need them later.

Musical hand. Use cardboard mittens, one less than the number of players. Stand group in circle. Pass mittens while pianist plays. When music stops, one without mitten drops out, also anyone having more than one mitten. Continue until one lonely mitten holder is left.

Ring your partner. (Make faces on lollypops, dress to represent boy and girl. Stick these in apples or potatoes. Number players, boys and girls separately, from one up. Keep these numbers for next game.) No. 1's come first. Give each 3 jar rubbers. Place figures on floor about 5 feet from players. Each has 3 chances to toss rings over figures. Keep score.

Art gallery. (In another room have following objects arranged and numbered. Have girls get their partners (girl No. 1 and boy No. 1; 2 and 2; etc.), visit Art Gallery, and make list of correct titles.

Objects

Choosing partners. Boys to be auctioned off for peanuts, by putting their noses through hole in sheet. Who knows the nose? What, no peanuts! Didn't we warn you to save them?

The Devotions

Let's take time to meditate about time. The wise man said, "There is a time to every purpose." Time to work, play, study. Most important is time we spend with the Word. Time thus spent will influence all our other times.

In the fulness of time the Savior came (Gal. 4:4).

In due time He died for us (Rom. 5:6).

Now is our time to accept (II Cor. 6:2).

Having accepted Him we should redeem the time (Eph. 5:16), because in due time (I Pet. 5:6) God will exalt all who are ready to be revealed in the last time (I Pet. 1:5).

Yours for a good time,

AUNT POLLY.

YOUR PERSONAL PROBLEMS

By Mrs. Emma Lichty

Young people—this column is conducted especially for you. Send your problem to your news editor, and it will be forwarded to Mrs. Lichty.

Question

I can't believe in hell. I always think of God as being kind, loving and just. I can't believe such a God made hell for you and me. Why did He permit Adam to commit that first sin of which we have record?

Discussion

In dealing with the first part of this problem, may I say in all kindness, if you do not believe in a place of punishment for the wicked, the Holy Spirit is not your teacher.

I am glad you say you can't believe that a just God such as we have made hell for you and me. I cannot believe that either. He prepared such a place "for the devil and his angels" (Mt. 25:41). Jesus said, "In My Father's house are many mansions:..... I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto Myself; that where I am, there ye may be also" (Jn. 14:2-3). The Bible teaches clearly that if any man goes to the place prepared for the devil and his angels, he goes there by choice, for "God is not willing that any should perish" (II Pet. 3:9). He has gone to prepare a place for those who accept the Lord, and it is ours for the taking.

As for Adam committing the first sin, evidently your Bible knowledge is a bit vague. Adam is the first man to commit sin, but sin did not begin in the garden nor with man. Here are some Scriptures I want you to see in your own Bible. I naturally draw my own conclusion that since you do not believe there is such a place as hell you also disregard the Bible truth of a personal devil.

Gen. 1:1 tells us God created the heavens and the earth. V. 2 would make one think He created it a jumble unless we realize that a lot has happened between v. 1 and 2. There is no contradiction here, as many university professors would like to make us believe. In v. 31 we are told that everything made was perfect. He positively states that "every plant of the field..... and every herb of the field before it grew" was placed in the earth at creation (v. 4-5). Yet v. 2 says, "The earth was without form and void," or "the earth became empty and desolate."

Read with me Isa. 45:18, where it states that the Lord did not create the earth empty and desolate. He made it empty (Isa. 24:1) because of sin. Remember this is before the sin in the garden. Why did He do this to a perfect earth? Turn to Jer. 4:23-24. Here you have the condition of the earth as a direct result of judgment—"the earth..... was without form and void; the heavens..... had no light." "The fruitful place was a wilderness" (v. 26) because of His fierce anger.

Let us see what caused this anger. Satan was created perfect (Ezek. 28:13-17). He was a beautiful creature—not the hideous character we see in pictures. He was perfect (v. 15) until iniquity was found in him. Because of his pride he sought to exalt his throne above God's. Read Isa. 14:12-17. In v. 14 he says, "I will ascend above the heights of the clouds; I will be like the most High." In v. 15 God says, "Yet thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit."

This wicked angel had followers, for in Jude 6 we read, "The angels which kept not their first estate, but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgment of the great day." II Pet. 2:4 also gives evidence of this, "God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell (Gr.—Tartarus, their temporary abode)....." The cause of this catastrophe or judgment of God upon the earth is sin, and the devil and his angels were the guilty parties. Because of this they were cast out of heaven and will finally go to the "place prepared for the devil and his angels" (not for you and me—mark that carefully). Then the earth became chaotic. If you know this you are prepared to go on in Gen. 1 from v. 2, and you will see that it is Satan's lies that are the contradictions in this wonderful book of Genesis.

The evil one would have us believe good environment is what saves you and me. This perfect creature, Lucifer, certainly was in perfect environment (heaven) and he fell. Adam, the first man, was in that wonderful garden of Eden; yet he fell into sin in spite of a perfect set-up. And by one man's disobedience many were made sinners (Rom. 5:19). Be your surrounding ever so ideal, you are lost unless you "confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead" (Rom. 10:9).

If you like to read and to "study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth," I should like to refer you to the following books for further information on your problem: Pember's "Earliest Ages," Giorgio Bartoli's "The Biblical Story of Creation," and Harry Rimmer's "Modern Science and the Genesis Records."

C. E. NEWS and NOTES

"I'm coming over to your church," a peddler said to a woman at whose house he had just called. As he was ready to leave, she had said, "You have taken up three minutes of my time; may I take up three minutes of yours?" She reached behind the door where she kept a collection of tracts, handed him one, and asked him if he knew the Lord. Thus the conversation started which led him to make this statement. If you have been wanting to do personal work, but do not know how to approach the subject, here is an idea which will be very effective.

"Everybody is getting so homesick for camp," one of last year's Bethany Campers recently said after seeing some other "campers" at a rally. "All the 'kids' who were there are getting so homesick for the others they can't wait for August to come." It is not only the "kids" who are looking forward to Bethany Camp and the first Brethren National Bible Conference. Here is what Dr. L. S. Bauman has to say about it:

"We are looking forward to Winona for 1940. There is no doubt in my mind but that the most spiritual conference the Brethren have ever held at Winona is ahead of us this coming year. We are hoping that you (the Polmans) will again be in charge of Bethany Camp as you were last year. Whatever other clouds hung over us at Winona last August, they all seemed to clear away when we walked over to Bethany.

"The most spiritual conference will mean that it will be the most missionary in its spirit. Therefore the Foreign Mission Board will be very happy to see you running Bethany Camp, and again make it a place around which happy memories will gather as the years come and go."

$ $ $ ! Who would like to have one? For two months Brother Polman has been offering to pay $1 for the ten best pictures of Bethany Camp which he receives. There has been very little response. If it is because you have not been reading C. E. Notes and News, you have been missing some other important announcements, and had better read them right now in the Feb. and Mar. Educational Numbers. If you have pictures of Bethany Camp to send, do so at once. Brother Polman needs them soon. (See C. E. directory for address.)

An older society, that at Rittman, Ohio, reports growth which necessitated the forming of a senior young people's society for those over high school age. They expect this to result in increased attendance in both groups. The senior society "started off with a bang" by having a fellowship dinner, social hour, and devotional period, at which 28 of the 30 young people were present.

We still need to know the birthdays and favorite Scripture verses of many of the pastors and their wives. Since last month we have heard from Altoona, Pa.; Ashland, O.; Danville, O.; Flora, Ind.; Long Beach (1st church), Calif.; Mundy's Corner, Pa.; Peru, Ind.; and Rittman, O. If your church has not yet reported, please do so at once. We must have this information in advance if the names are to appear on the monthly prayer calendar.

Will your district win the banner in the C. E. topic contest? So far topics have come only from the Central District. We happen to know that societies in other districts have had some fascinating meetings which, if submitted, would give others "a run for their money" to surpass. District honors will be determined by (1) the most prompt response in this contest, (2) the largest percentage of societies of all ages participating and (3) the greatest number of unusual plans submitted for C. E. meetings. Help your district win the banner by sending in some topics right away. See issue of Feb. 10 for rules.

HERE AND THERE

By Robert Culver

FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH, FORT WAYNE, IND.
 "Our foreign missionary offering here Easter Sunday totaled in cash and pledges $563. Our goal of $600 I am sure will be reached before it is sent in. (Sunday following total reported $645 and more coming in!) For this we praise the Lord."

LEO POLMAN, pastor.

FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH, WHITTIER, CALIF.
 "Yesterday (Easter) was a great day. Big Sunday School attendance! A great sunrise service in the city park conducted by our church! A wonderful unified service in the morning at which there were five confessions. Eight were baptized in the evening and received into the church. A largely attended and deeply spiritual communion service in the evening. Rejoice with us!"

CHARLES H. ASHMAN, pastor.

FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH, GARWIN, IA., H. S. Parks, pastor. A three day Bible conference with Dr. J. C. Beal has just been closed. Bro. Parks is teaching Bible in five rural schools, one every school day, reaching 100 children. Bro. Parks writes that through the ministry of the Word 35 children have made definite decisions, 15 of them first time confessions.

DOINGS IN THE FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH, PERU, IND. The first spring rally of the W. M. C. of Indiana District was held in this church Mar. 13. Those on the program were Mrs. Leo Polman, Mrs. Dan Comerford, Mrs. Mabel Flora, Mrs. Robert Ashman, and Mrs. Arthur Carey. Rev. R. D. Barnard, pastor of the Dayton, Ohio church, gave the address. In the Sunday School on Mar. 10, nine were given awards for having attended at least 50 Sundays in 1939, three for the same attendance over two years, one for three years, four for four years, two for five years, one for six years, and two for seven years—a very fine showing indeed. And if you want to know how to get new hymn books for your church, ask the pastor, Robert Ashman, how it was done in Peru. A certain Sunday was advertized on which all the Bible School and Christian Endeavor collections were to be used to purchase 150 new, beautiful hymn books. Evidently the money came in, for the last report is that the books were on the way from their publisher.

DOINGS AND EVENTS IN THE SECOND BRETHREN CHURCH OF LOS ANGELES, CALIF. The Eureka Jubilee Singers, from Chicago recently presented two complete programs. On Mar. 12 at the Workers Band meeting 336 calls were reported, 274 contacts made, and 127 cards mailed out. (We presume this was a monthly report). On Apr. 13 the church is to be host to the district young people's rally. On Mar. 3 Roy L. Brown closed a week of meetings with the pastor, Paul R. Bauman, and the church.

IN THE FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH, SOUTH GATE, CALIF., the young people sponsored a week of pre-Easter services. The speakers were Claude Pearson, director of Pearson's Sailor Work, Attorney-Evangelist Britton Ross; David Calderwood, Los Angeles Presbyterian pastor; Dr. L. T. Talbot, pastor of the Los Angeles Church of the Open Door; Mr. Roy Creighton, Field Sec'y., Los Angeles Co. C. E. Union; and the pastor of the church, Elias D. White, who closed the series Sunday night. Pastor Elias White reports the reception of six into the membership of the church during February.

THE WEST TENTH STREET BRETHREN CHURCH, ASHLAND, Ohio, is outgrowing its quarters again. Just before Easter pastor C. W. Mayes writes that there were 264 in Sunday School the week before and that 350 were expected for Easter. So,—the present auditorium is to be remodeled, and a new building 36 ft. x 50 ft. is to be added, containing pastors study in addition to a Jr. High Dept. and a Jr. Dept., both of which will be convertible into auditorium on a minutes notice. A full basement is also contemplated, embracing a kitchen, room for tables, and three large class rooms.

THE FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH, SUNNYSIDE, WASH., was host to the Yakima Dist. (Central Washington) C. E. Convention Mar. 15-17.

PICKED UP: "The church needs less block and more tackle."

BROTHER NORMAN UPHOUSE, pastor at Winchester, Va., has recently moved into a new seven room parsonage built next to the church. His new address is 649 Berryville Ave.

Revival Echoes From Waynesboro, Pa.

We are proud to make our first church report in the new magazine, The Brethren Missionary Herald, a Christian paper second to none! We think enough of the magazine to place it in 111 homes, thus reaching almost our entire membership!

We are amazed at the showers of blessings the Lord has given us the past year. It was a great year both spiritually and financially. Our services were enriched by Bible conferences and messages from the following visiting speakers: Rev. Chas. W. Mayes, Rev. Clarence Sickel, Rev. Claude H. Pearson, Dr. L. S. Bauman, Miss Elizabeth Tyson, Prof. Conard Sandy, Rev. Arthur Malles, and Prof. Alva J. McClain, the meetings varying in length from one night to one week.

Last September we felt led to take a determined stand for the right by vote of our congregation. It meant the loss of some members, but resulted in great spiritual gain. The subsequent growth of the church showed us we were not mistaken in the leading of the Lord.

The climax came in the revival services, conducted by Brother R. Paul Miller during the winter. Our 14 member Men's Gospel Team paved the way by holding two cottage prayer meetings per week in many homes of the congregation for months before the meeting. The seventy Band of personal workers made many calls. We had wonderful attendance and interest in the meetings, fine support being given by the two pianists, the choir, and by visiting delegations from three states: Washington, D. C., with Rev. Homer A. Kent, pastor; Hagerston, Md. Second Church with Rev. Roy Long, pastor; Hagerstown Mission with Evangelist A. M. Dixon; and the Church of the Brethren of Martinsburg, West, Va., Rev. Harold Snider, pastor.

We conducted three radio programs over WJEJ, Hagerstown, Md., which helped advertise the meeting. The Gospel Quartet from Washington, D. C., sang at all services the first and last Sundays of the meeting. Special music was a feature each night, and the pastor led the singing.

The numerical results were 55 members coming in reconsecration, and 41 others coming in first time confession, making a total of 96 public decisions. Of this number 31, mostly adults, have been baptized and received as members, and another baptismal service will follow soon. We will never forget the closing day with 28 at the altar in the morning and 37 there in the evening. Brother Miller preached hard and visited faithfully, and the Lord blessed.

The Wednesday following the close of the meeting we had 106 attending prayer meeting and received one reconsecration. The next Sunday there were three confessions in the morning and four in the evening. After the baptismal service and receiving the new members that night, we closed with a testimony service by candlelight. One young man came down the aisle and laid a pipe, cigars, and a can of tobacco in front of the pulpit while testifying that the Lord had taken the desire for such things out of his life during the meetings. After many testimonies, those thus taking part joined with the new converts in a circle around the church, praying for the lost, and closing with singing, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

R. D. CREES, pastor.

“THE STONE THAT THE BUILDERS REJECTED”

EDITORIALS

250,000 JEWS CAN BE REACHED

There are in Los Angeles, Calif., 250,000 of the children of Israel. Our Jewish mission is located right in the midst of these people.

Our goal is to reach every one of these thousands with the gospel of Jesus Christ. It is a magnificent work, a great opportunity, a rich privilege granted to our Brethren churches by God. It can be done. We can do it. God will enable us.

Pray for this great work in every prayer meeting and at home.

Pastors, arrange for your Jewish Bible conference today. It is our only means of financing our mission.

Below is the list of Jewish speakers who will arrange your conference for you.

A BUILDER NEEDED

Our new congregation at Clayhole, Ky., will be ready to erect their tabernacle church building about May 15. The congregation is furnishing the lumber and the labor. The money is coming in right along for the doors and the windows, and also for the paint and roofing and hardware. The plans are just about completed and the foundation is now being put in.

Now our need is for some capable builder who loves the Lord and can spare a couple of weeks time in the middle of May to oversee the work. Transportation and board and room will be provided, but there is no money on hand down there for paying for labor. We feel led to discover if there is in The Brethren Church somewhere a contractor or builder able to oversee this work who will do it as a gift to Christ. The secretary is driving down at that time. Write him.

"Prayer is work — Prayer works — Prayer leads to work."—Dr. R. A. Torrey.

The Brethren Church does not only ask its members to believe and do only those things they absolutely MUST do to be saved. The Brethren Church asks its members to believe and do all things that please God, and our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Let us not have a MUST-DO church, but a WANT-TO-DO church.—B.

TAKE THE WORD SERIOUSLY

I do not believe our existence as churches or as Christians can be justified unless and until we take Christ and His Word seriously. All the world is dying while we are trying out this method and that, while we are offering the chaff and worse. Let us accept the text as true and act upon it. "Ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto Me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."

—Russell Bradley Jones.

WHY NO MAGAZINE MARCH 30

We are glad so many are reading The Brethren Missionary Herald, and are sorry there was no issue for you March 30th. This number was purposely omitted. As most all of our readers know, we publish weekly, or four times a month, with one Foreign, one Home, one Educational, and one W.M.C. number. March this year had 5 publication Saturdays—hence the one omission. Eventually we hope to publish a fifth number — a special Pictorial edition — those months that have five Saturdays. Your subscription or Publication Gift will help to hasten that number. Our goal is 5,000 regular subscribers. Are you one?

ONE MILLION JEWISH BEGGARS

By R. Paul Miller, Editor

The International News Service reports that in Poland today there are 3,000,000 Jews and 1,000,000 of them are beggars! What a sad plight for the people who once under the glorious reign of Solomon enjoyed the most wonderful exaltation among the nations of the world. In Deut. 28:1 Jehovah promised them,

"If thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to observe and do all His commandments which I command thee this day, that the Lord Thy God will set thee on high above all nations of the earth."

What people ever had such a start in their national life as did Israel? Think of what they might have been, what suffering they might have been spared. Then follows verse 12,

"The Lord shall open unto thee His good treasure, the heaven to give the rain unto thy land in his season, and to bless all the work of thine hand, and thou shalt lend unto many nations, and thou shalt not borrow."

It is a far cry from such a glorious state to being a million beggars in one land alone, to say nothing of the millions in other lands who are being robbed and pillaged and slain like cattle.

Now read the 13th verse,

"And the Lord shall make thee the head and not the tail; and thou shalt be above only, and thou shalt not be beneath."

Poor Israel is surely beneath today. All the nations of the earth are trampling them under foot all because they refused to "hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to observe to do all his commandments." Nations of the earth! observe the tragedy of Israel and tremble before you pay the price of forgetting God! Earth, earth, EARTH, hear the word of the Lord!

OUR COVER DRAWING

The Fort Wayne News-Sentinel has a courageous editor in William J. Gross. He has fearlessly stood for the truth and defended the gospel of Christ and the Word of God consistently. He has insisted the real trouble with our crumbling civilization is not material, legislative or social, but spiritual.

In the drawing on the cover of this magazine, by Cartoonist Larimer, we have one of the most remarkable pictures of what is happening to our world today. To see such a cartoon in a large daily newspaper is most unusual these days. The truth of the cartoon is apparent to all. The Word of God has been torn out of the foundation of our present civilization, and instead the makers of a "brave new world," as the modern liberalists and materialists love to designate themselves, are trying to substitute it with the flimsy props of human schemes and philosophies. The structure keeps right on tumbling around their heads but they refuse to admit their error. Wrote the editor in part,

"It is scarcely to be questioned that the 'intellectual' fashion, for some time now, has been to reject the Word of God as the cornerstone of that civilization's structure, and to supplant it with well-advertised but demonstrably ineffective props.

"For many of those feverishly concerned with 'systems' and 'plans' for the hoped for creation of a 'brave new world' the Holy Scripture has become the 'Stone which the builders rejected'."

What a true word is spoken here! If ever these 'planners' and 'regimenters' have had a real chance to demonstrate the value of their Utopian ideas that they have been shouting about for so long, it has been during the last seven years here in the United States. And what do we have but turmoil and fear in all lines of business; patronage in government that smells to high heaven; a mad wasting of the resources of the nation by its national leaders; drunkenness spreading through young and old like a wild orgy from hell itself; a wave of recklessness and gambling to the point of utter abandon; and a government administration that plays secretly with the forces of Communism designed to overthrow what has always been known as a nation of Christian churches. And the pity of it is that so many so-called 'divines' are joining hands with these 'Atheistic Communists,' and are abandoning the Bible for the Satanic schemes of modernism that teaches the child that he is but an animal offspring of a protoplasm.

A GRAND TESTIMONY TO THE WORD—

Hear the editor again:

"It is even high time that we also insisted that instructors in some of the country's Sunday Schools stopped attempting to make far-fetched little ethical essays do service in lieu of the precious spiritual truths of God's divine Word. "For this great 'cornerstone' of our civilization and of all the religions predicated upon its precious essence is not only an ethical and social work. It is, as Daniel Webster said,

'A book of faith, and a book of doctrine, and a book of morals, and a book of religion, of special revelation from God'."

We wonder if our readers realize what it means in the way of conviction and courage for the editor of a cosmopolitan daily newspaper to boldly declare the Bible as a 'special revelation from God' in face of the widespread ridicule and sneering of the self-styled 'advanced thinkers' of today.

However, there is one more thing we wish that the editor had written and that was regarding the sad need of a house cleaning, not in Sunday Schools only, but in the hotbeds of infidelity, atheism and Communism in our public schools all over this land, and especially in the colleges and universities where, under the guise of 'intellectual freedom' the immature young people are scoffed out of all spiritual belief and taught the moral standards of the barnyard.

But for the editor of a daily newspaper we think this is a mighty fine and fearless editorial. More power to him.

THE TERRITORY OF ANTI-CHRIST SLOWLY FORMS—

The magnificent resistance that the people of Finland put up against the overwhelming Communistic hordes in the struggle to save their homeland from Atheism and slavery has stirred the world. We are made to wonder just what is going on in the world when one nation after another—Czechoslovakia, Poland, Austria, Hungary, and now little Finland—are forsaken by their friends and allies and left to the fate of the anti-christian dictators. We can easily see that France and Britain did not want to be drawn away from the western front by this ruse, when they realized the tremendous war machine they faced in the German army that could strike a crushing blow in 24 hours that might cost France all her land. We can see that France and Britain could not have saved Czechoslovakia or Poland without weakening the western front, for at that time they had no army in the near east at all. Today, however, it is a different thing. Allied preparation is about completed. The tremendous French-British army in the Balkans now has 1,500,000 men with full equipment and supplies on hand. The stage is now ready for a titanic struggle—a struggle in which small nations and interests will go unheaded. Each small nation must ally itself with a larger nation or perish from the earth. The small nations must now choose. Some will choose one group of great nations, and some will choose another. Some will undoubtedly make great mistakes that they can never rectify. Many may wonder about this. Those who know the prophetic Word are not mystified. They know that Ezek. 38, Dan. 11, and Rev. 9 and 16 plainly show us that the world situation at the close of this age will be one of four great coalitions. Russia, Germany and Turkey will be in the role of the "king of the north"; Japan, China and other Asiatics will form the "kings of the east"; Persia, Ethiopia and Egypt will form the "king of the south," and the nations within the territory of the old Roman Empire will form the territory of anti-Christ. The small nations are one by one being swallowed up by the great military allies. It looks like the way is being cleared for the last war drama of the ages when anti-Christ of whom it is said, "Who is like unto him? who is able to make war with him?" (Rev. 13:4), will conquer all nations and alone survive to face Jesus Christ, the King of kings at Armageddon where he will perish. Glorious day for the saints!

JESUS THE SON OF GOD

By Hazel Russell

(This paper was written by one of the pupils in the grammar grades at Caney School, in the mountains of Kentucky. It is a sample of the kind of work our Brother Sewell Landrum is doing in the public schools. He teaches systematic Bible studies to more than 500 boys and girls in the public schools of the field every week. This is the work that will finally bring great returns for eternity. If you believe in this kind of work, why not help us get that building up for them to worship in at Clayhole. Had 141 in attendance last Sunday. Many had to stand. The school room is so small they cannot be accommodated.—R.P.M.)

Jesus was born in Bethlehem in a manger. What poor parents who did not have a bed to lay their new born baby on! They laid Him in a manger of hay.

A star shone for Him. It has never shone for any other baby.

Joseph was a carpenter and Jesus helped him in his work while He was a small boy. Jesus grew in wisdom and stature and favor with God and man.

When He was twelve years old Joseph and Mary took Him to the temple. There was such a large crowd, they thought they had lost Him. When they found Him He was talking with wise men. He was answering their questions with ease. Mary and Joseph asked Jesus why He had not come home with them. He told them it was time He was about His Father's business.

Jesus went about and taught parables and showed miracles. He had twelve disciples.

Jesus knew the debt that He had to pay. He prayed to His Father to let the cup pass. He told His disciples that He would be crucified but they did not understand Him.

Jesus was more human—he wearied, wept and hungered just like us—yet He was divine.

He was in the garden with His disciples when the men bound Him and took Him to Pilate. Pilate questioned Him and found no fault in Him. Pilate wanted to turn Him loose but the people wouldn't let him. He told them to take Him and crucified Him.

They took Him and plaited a crown of thorns and put it on His head. They spit on Him and stripped and mocked Him unto death. They cast lots for His garments.

A rich man took Jesus and buried Him in his own grave. They guarded around the grave. After three days Jesus arose from the dead. He became the first fruit of them that slept.

Jesus did not stay long on earth after His resurrection.

Jesus was standing talking to a crowd of people. When a cloud lifted Him up and carried Him to heaven. He told them He would return in like manner.

WAR—CAN IT EVER BE RIGHT for the Christian?

Frank Coleman, Jr., Pastor Grace Bible Church, Waterloo, Ia.

No war is justifiable, save that alone which God directs. No army moves in the will of God, save that alone which follows His orders as their Commander-in-chief. When God moves at the head of His forces, putting down His enemies, vindicating His holy name, and establishing His rule — then, and only then, is it possible to justify war. This was the case when Joshua swept to victory over Canaan's godless tribes. This, too, shall be the case when our Lord shall come to end the unrighteous rule of man.

Frank Coleman, Jr.

Wars of aggression are rightly condemned by all Christian people. War is wrong! The taking of life except by judicial authority is wrong! No circumstance can warrant war's shedding of blood! And we must say this of wars of whatever kind, whether of aggression or defense and self-protection! War is wrong! The taking of life, and that the life of men for whom Christ died, is wrong! For the Christian there is no right side to any war—both sides are wrong!

The child of God can never be at war with any man, or any people. He is to "follow peace" (2 Tim. 2:22). He is to "follow peace with all men" (Heb. 12:14). With friend and foe alike he is to be at peace. These are his orders, and no circumstance can arise which might nullify them. He has but one mission in the world, to witness for his Lord—to proclaim the message of peace, that God is reconciled and that peace has been made through the blood of the cross. Where, then, is there excuse for contributing to the taking of life, even in the remotest degree, when his sole mission in the world is to bring the life-giving Christ to men?

The child of God has a higher citizenship than that of this world. He is subject to the powers that be, but not to the extent of disobedience to the will of his God. There is a point beyond which he may not go in obedience to men, when it becomes better to obey God rather than men. Surely the limit of his responsibility to Caesar has been reached when Caesar demands that he be party to the shedding of blood.

His will has been surrendered, and no power outside of him can compel him to exercise that will in disobedience to his Lord.

But, some will say, we must defend ourselves. Why? We have nothing to defend but the gospel. Defense by war can never be reconciled with our purpose to minister Christ to men. No circumstance can justify the taking of the life of a single man for whom Christ died, who might have heard the gospel had he lived.

But, others will say, we must protect our government. Why? Is any form of government essential to our preaching Christ? There is no authority in earth or hell that can stay the witness of the determined child of God. Death for his faithful testimony may be the result; but what is martyrdom but the supreme witnessing?

But, still others will say, we must protect our land. Why? Are things essential to our witnessing for Christ? Property, creature comforts, the luxuries of life—these may be important, but they are only incidental to the Christian's main purpose of life. Here is the crux of the problem of the Christian's relation to any war in which his nation may engage: war, save in the few well-known instances in the Word, has as its cause the selfish interests of men. Either to sieze or protect things is the ruling motive. To contribute in any way to the savagery of war in order to protect things, is not for the child of God. His chief interest is to proclaim the gospel; and that he can do under any conceivable circumstances.

The plea that absolute non-resistance invites invasion and disaster is not valid. Distaster to what? Surely not to the cause of Christ, for even in imprisonment and death He is preached. Men are prone to imagine consequences; but nowhere in the Word of God are we held accountable for the consequences resulting from obeying or preaching the Word. Let the child of God obey at whatever the cost to him in things, in liberty, yes, in life itself; the results are in the hands of God.

We deny that non-resistance is a disastrous course, for the promise of God is "live in peace; and the God of love and peace shall be with you" (2 Cor. 13:11). Let those who would serve the interests of war, even in the slightest degree, prove that God is with them. Has He given the command? Where are the divine orders? Is it to the glory of His name? These are the crucial questions in attempting to justify even a war of defense.

War requires two parties. Let not the Christian be one of them, either directly or indirectly; but let him rather "follow after the things which make for peace" (Rom. 14:19). Let him not be a party to the shedding of blood, but rather let him be quick to herald the gospel of the grace of God, that peace, not death, may be brought to the soul of man.

ACROSS THE NATION

with our secretary

REVIVAL AT MARTINSBURG

After assisting in the organization of the Grace Brethren Church of Flora, Ind., we drove to Martinsburg, Pa., for a revival. We shall never forget that drive. It was begun in a snowstorm with snow already about six inches deep and more falling right along. It was a case of ice and snow and sleet all the way to Martinsburg. We hoped to get ahead of the storm, but couldn't make it. We arrived just in time for the meetings to start. The nerves in our spinal column seemed like hard knots upon arrival. After a few minutes rest and a little supper, we went to the meeting. But we don't want any more drives like that one!

Martinsburg is one of our older churches built by old brother J. I. Hall, if we recall aright. The town is not large but there is a good field for the church there. Many of the members live out in the country. The town and country have a multitude of souls that can be reached for the Lord. However, the Brethren Church there has had hard sledding for a number of years. It seems that Satan has singled this poor people out for plenty of trouble so as to discourage them. Even though there have been some losses that were hard to bear, yet the main body of the people have stuck through it all and are determined not to run. It's a poor soldier who runs just when the battle starts. Martinsburg has seen better days and we believe they will see them again.

Brother Stanley Hauser, the pastor, has had three churches on his circuit until recently when the Rays-town group withdrew. Now he has Martinsburg and Yellow Creek. This arrangement seems to work pretty good and things are going along better than for some time. All together this has been a very difficult field for the pastor and we are praying that things shall continue to improve to the glory of our Lord, and that he may yet see many souls saved as the result of his labors.

Our home while there was with Sister Klepser. It was easy to return to this happy Christian home again, for I have been there before. I greatly enjoyed my stay to say the least. There was a very fine and friendly spirit among the members and among the neighboring Brethren churches. Delegations came from all around. Night after night there were groups from the Waynesboro church 78 miles away. One night 71 folks from Waynesboro drove over to the meeting. They filled the place with the fervor and spirit of Christ. We surely enjoyed them. William Schaffer and Ord Gehman drove up from Cone-maugh. Brother Cartland brought a fine delegation from his church at Leamersville. Brother Randall Rossman brought his people over one night as also did Brother Ernest Pine from Juniata. It was fine fellowship all through. While we were unable to bring many to decision during the meetings we trust that we were able to strengthen the congregation to meet the days ahead with confidence and determination for Christ.

ONCE MORE IN WOOSTER

As Wooster is on the main highway it is easy for us to stop at this point often. This time we found the auditorium looking clean and bright with the walls finished and electric fixtures in. They were sweeping it out when I was there with the view of holding services right along. There are some more things to be done yet, but it is really a very inviting building for church services. They were planning a city-wide canvass when I was there. Brother John Squires is alive to his work and will not allow things to lag now that things are started. Already new people are being drawn to the Bible classes. This is a real field for us and may we make the most of it.

ON THE WAY UP

Our new building in San Diego, California, is now on the way up! They started about the 15th of Feb., and expect it to be completed in about three months from the date of starting. If things go as they usually do in California, they will make their goal. Pray for them. More about this later.

MOVING PICTURES OF THE BRETHREN PARADE IN AMERICA

In order that our people all over the land may have a chance to actually see the progress that is going on within the Brethren churches from east to west, the directors of the Council have decided to provide moving pictures of our fields. Every point will be shown. There will be new buildings at San Diego, Bellflower, Waterloo, and Kentucky. Of this we are sure. There may be one or two more by the time next fall arrives. The fact is that things are moving so fast these days in our home mission field that we cannot forecast just what may come to pass within a few more months. Our people have a real spirit to go ahead for Christ and there seems to be no stopping them! So we want our folks everywhere to catch the spirit of our front lines by showing life pictures of each field. These pictures will be shown by the secretary this fall in all of our eastern churches just before Thanksgiving. By making a six weeks tour of one night stands we can about reach them all. We plan to have one of our western men show them on the Pacific Coast.

FREMONT SOARS

Word has come from Fremont, Ohio, that our new work there is growing by leaps and bounds. Their Sunday School attendance has risen to 101 and they all stayed for the preaching service! The young people's class has grown already to 37. The young married peoples class has reached 17.

They have had 11 first time decisions for Christ besides 12 definite reconsecrations. How is that for a mission point barely two months old? Do you wonder that the Home Missions Council could not turn down such points just because we did not have funds on hand at present to care for them? Do you feel that you could willingly make an additional offering in June to help works like these? God is sending the new fields we have been asking for. May we not fail to care for them now that He has sent them. Golden opportunities are coming to our Brethren churches. May we prove worthy of them before God.

ANOTHER REVIVAL AT ROANOKE

For the third time we were privileged to assist in a meeting with the Roanoke congregation. It was also the fifth revival that we had held under the pastorates of Brother Herman Koontz. The first meeting was held at Glenford, O., when Brother Koontz was a student pastor there. The next meeting was held at Masontown, Pa., while he was a pastor there. Then we have held three meetings for him here at Roanoke. Each meeting has been attended with greater blessing than the former ones, we believe. It is certain that this is the finest meeting we have been privileged to experience here in this city. The attendance and interest have never before been as fine as this time. It has surely been a pleasure to have a part in it.

There is such a fine spirit of fellowship and common interest among the Brethren churches of this Southeast District that they drive long distances to attend meetings in each other's churches. We had delegations from Buena Vista several nights. Their pastor, brother Arthur Malles, led our singing for us in a fine way several times. Brother J. E. Patterson, and numbers of his people from Hollins, Va., attended the meetings right along. Bernard Schneider and a couple of carloads of his people attended one night. And then we had the surprise of our lives one Saturday night to see three carloads of folks from the Waynesboro, Pa., congregation walk into the service. I guess that takes the prize for interest in revival services. And one among the Waynesboro folks was a young lady from way up at Martinsburg, Pa. Two of the men in this group brought their trumpets along and played for us on Sunday morning. This was all mighty fine.

Brother and Sister Koontz have done a most excellent work here during the past eight years. The work is growing steadily. All departments of the church are growing and the debt is decreasing. I well remember when the debt looked bigger than the church! It is over half paid off now and the worst is over. They will soon finish it. I would like to be here when they burn that mortgage.

There is a great future for this congregation and a wide field. They are already getting cramped for more room. They have room to build on and they will have to do so before so long if I am not mistaken. May it be soon.

No hospitality could be finer than was extended to us while here. It has always been the best. Our home

A WARNING TO ALL WHO HATE THE JEWS

"... in the day that the enemies of the Jews hoped to have power over them, ... it was turned, ... to the contrary, that the Jews had rule over them that hated them"—Esther 9:1.

"... the Jews ... did what they would unto those that hated them"—Esther 9:5.

"... they shall bow down to thee with their face toward the earth, and lick up the dust of thy feet ... I will contend with him that contendeth with thee, and I will save thy children. And I will feed them that oppress thee with their own flesh; and they shall be drunken with their own blood, as with sweet wine; and all flesh shall know that I the LORD am thy Savior and thy Redeemer, the mighty One of Jacob."

—Isaiah 49:23, 25, 26.

with the pastor and his wife is always a time of blessing. One more bright spot has come into my life and with it goes many treasured memories that never fade. Praise God for them all.

There are no long-faced titheers! A smile grows from the heart of those who rightfully give one tenth of their income to God.

PROMOTED TO GLORY

MRS. MYRTLE SNYDER, nee Gossard, wife of Grover Snyder, Conemaugh, Pa., ceased her earthly pilgrimage when she went to be with her Lord on the afternoon of Feb. 23, 1940. Sister Snyder, a deaconess in the Conemaugh Brethren Church was one of its most faithful members. Besides her husband, she left three children. Miss Rose Snyder, a teacher in the Conemaugh public schools; Miss Ruth Snyder, in preparation for missionary service to Africa and a senior in Grace Theological Seminary. Services were held in the Conemaugh Brethren Church by the pastor, and assisted by Roy Starr, superintendent of the Conemaugh Brethren Gospel Mission in Franklinboro. We comfort one another in the hope of His soon return.

PALESTINE'S CHALLENGE TO EVANGELIZE THE JEWS

By Professor Conard Sandy, Department of the Old Testament, Grace Theological Seminary

While crossing the Atlantic Ocean on an American Lines vessel, the Excalibur, in June, 1939, we met a young Jewish lady on her way to take up residence in the land. She had given up a good position in New York City where she was making a comfortable living, she had sailed forth from the shores of the country that has long been known for its spirit of freedom and tolerance to all races and to all religions, she had said farewell to her relatives and friends; she had done all this to go forth in the spirit of a pioneer to settle in Palestine. She was but one of many who were going there to reclaim the land from the Arabs.

But this young Jewess, as thousands of others, went into the Holy Land in unbelief and with little or no hope of the Messiah. She had learned some of the teachings of the Zionist Movement, but none of the Messianic hope; she had heard of the land that offered the possibility of becoming once again the national home of her people, but she had not been told much of heaven and of the Christ Who came from there to save. She had no particular hope; rather she was impelled by the spirit of adventure. She was going forth on a mission that was to help in getting the Promised Land ready for the return of the Jews thereto, who, like herself, would come with no thought of the only One Who can bring about a complete restoration of the Israelites to their land.

Now, dear Christian reader, I want to ask you the same question that I was compelled to ask myself when I learned this story of the Jewess. Why should such a fine young Jewess, with a good education, a fine home, a good position, leave this country in unbelief? Why was she not going forth to her people from "Christian America" with the blessed story that was given to "the Jew first?" When she was told the story of Jesus, as we sailed through the great expanses of the Atlantic, she admitted that she had not heard much of the message before that time. Who was to blame? Have we failed in telling others, especially those peoples among whom our Lord was born, according to the flesh, of the only Savior of mankind, be they Jew or Gentile?

Let us go with this young lady to her new home in Palestine. It is located at Givath Brenner, some miles inland from the port city of Tel-Aviv. Givath Brenner is a Jewish community in the midst of Arab settlements. But more than that, it is a veritable oasis in the midst of barrenness. Every Jewish community can be quickly recognized because of the signs of life and growth in contrast to desolate Arab settlements that portray almost no evidences of living things. This Jewish community is one of many such that the Jews have in the land, many of which are conducted on a semi-communistic basis. The small children are kept in a nursery, the older children are in boys' or girls' dormitories, while the adults have their small separate quarters in one of the larger buildings. All the work is divided up among the inhabitants, each doing that for which he or she is best fitted.

When we arrived there one afternoon we were given a guide who could speak English quite fluently. We learned he was a lad of 18 who had come from Czechoslovakia. (So they gather from all parts of the globe in this one enterprise.) He showed us the nursery, the dormitories, the school, the kitchen and mess hall, the dairy barns, etc. But we saw no sign of any religious meeting place. So we asked him concerning the same and he told us they have no public religious services in that community. Here are Jews with no synagogue and no church! A man sat at the table, while we were there, eating, keeping his hat on his head, and never having paused in a moment of gratitude. Evidences of unbelief were seen on every hand. Yet all this was taking place in the land of our Lord. How much of the blame for this situation lays upon our shoulders as Christians? Yes, I know the Word informs us that they will return in unbelief, but that does not remove from us the responsibility of telling them, of telling all the story of the cross, the empty tomb, and the salvation thereby revealed.

These unbelieving Jews are in constant trouble with the unbelieving Arabs. Unbelief and sin are at the root of all the conflict between these two peoples (read Gen. 16). It was so in the beginning of their history and it continues so until our day. Both groups want the land and will even dare to fight for it. The night before we visited Nazareth five Jews had been killed there by the marauding Arabs. Such peoples do not know the Savior. I wonder if some Jew to whom we should have told the story of the gospel may have gone to a Christless grave there that night. Brethren, let us awaken to our work and not forget that the Jew needs to be saved as much as does the Gentile.

But now let us turn from the negative or dark side of this picture to a more positive and brighter side. On Sun., July 16th, we (my brother-in-law, Dr. Kenneth Monroe, and I) spoke in the American Church at Jerusalem. At one of these services an interpreter had to be employed to translate the message to the people, most of whom were Arabs. But at the second meeting only those were present who could understand the English language. Hence, we had much more freedom in speaking to the latter group. They had no Bible School services that morning; instead they had two preaching services. To be with these people that morning was one of those rare blessings for which we continually thank the Lord.

After the second message we all took part in a communion service. The pastor of the church is a fine Christian Arab of middle age. The general superintendent of this church, and of other evangelical churches in Palestine and Transjordan, who was present that morning, is a converted English Jew, also a middle aged gentleman. This superintendent

THE MIDDLE-SENIOR BANQUET in honor of the Grace Theological Seminary graduating class of 1940 will be held Wed. evening, 6:30 P.M., May 8, in the Hayes Hotel at Warsaw, Ind. Friends planning to attend the graduation exercises are requested to make reservations for this banquet before May 1. Tickets are on sale at 75 cents. Write Miss Mildred Miller, treasurer of the Middle Class, Grace Theological Seminary, Winona Lake, Indiana.

A TWO WEEKS SERIES OF EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS was conducted in the Christian Church of Talma, Ind., Mar. 17-31, by nine members of the faculty and student body of Grace Seminary. Those taking part in the preaching were: Prof. Herman A. Hoyt, Prof. Conard Sandy, William F. Kerr, Robert Hill, Henry Remple, Harold Dunning, Earl Umbaugh, Glen O'Neal, and Ralph Rambo. The Lord blessed this effort with 26 public decisions, 14 of which were first time confessions.

A SPECIAL BUSINESS MEETING OF THE CONEMAUGH CHURCH, Easter morning, voted $500 from the church treasury to be used by Miss Ruth Snyder, missionary in preparation for the African field. This gift is toward her personal outfit needs. Miss Snyder and I stood by the table dispensing the bread and the cup to the Arab pastor, after prayer was made, who in turn dispensed them to the communicants in their pews. And last he gave of both the bread and the cup to us, an English Jew and an American Gentile by birth.

To say that it was difficult to keep the tears of joy at that time is to put it very mildly. And to think, that while the Jews and Arabs in unbelief outside of the church were killing each other, these who were inside the church were communing together, would bring joy to anyone's heart. The Jewish superintendent gave to the Arab pastor and the Arab pastor gave to the Jewish superintendent those two things that remind us most of the death of the Lord Jesus Christ on that hill only a few hundred yards from the spot where we were then standing. I have that little cup from which I took the fruit of the vine that morning to remind me that it does pay to evangelize the Jews and that it can still be done if we are only willing to pay the price. Christian, what is your answer to the challenge to world evangelization of the Jews in this our day and age, till Jesus comes? Now is the time to act; tomorrow may be too late. It is the first foreign missionary from the Conemaugh Church. Several organizations in the church are planning other gifts for Miss Snyder. She completes her scholastic preparation at Grace Seminary commencement this spring.

A NOTE FROM THE SECOND BRETHREN CHURCH of Long Beach, Calif. "We have no pastor as yet. We are praying only that God's man may be sent here. In spite of the fact that we have no pastor the work is growing in interest and attendance. All departments of the church have made substantial gains in the past three months."

THE INDIANA CHRISTIAN FUNDAMENTAL ASSOCIATION was organized in Fort Wayne, Ind., Mar. 20, 1940. The following were elected as officers: Pres., Rev. Clifford Hollifield, pastor Gospel Temple, Fort Wayne; First Vice Pres., Rev. Reins, pastor Temple Baptist Church, Indianapolis; Second Vice Pres., David L. Hogg, former congressman, layman in Baptist Church, Fort Wayne; Third Vice Pres., Rev. Roscoe Wilson, pastor United Brethren Church, South Bend; Sec., Rev. Mitchell, pastor Missionary Church, Graybiel; Asst. Sec., Rev. Leo Polman, pastor First Brethren Church, Fort Wayne; Treas., Dr. Homer Gettle, layman, Methodist Church, Fort Wayne, members of the Board, Alva J. McClain, pres. Grace Theological Seminary, Winona Lake, Ind.; Rev. Moser, pastor Baptist Church, Decatur.

THE LARGE GROUP OF BRETHREN AT VINCO, PA., who were recently ousted from their own church building with their pastor, Ord Gehman, have organized a new church and are beginning plans for a new building. The pastor writes, "The Lord has been blessing in wonderful ways. Our Sunday School has been running around 90 and our worship services hold about the same. I wish you could spend a Sunday with us and you would better understand what I mean when I talk about the remarkable spirit present in our services."

AWAKE YOU SLEEPER TO YOUR DANGER! is the title of an eight page tract that has been recently circulated. The burden of the tract's message is that this generation is not going to die on their beds but that "the Bible shows that the present war raging in Europe was brought on by the spirit of a devil God sent into the world to create international conditions which will cause all nations of the western world to combine under the leadership of Herbert Hoover." Poor Mr. Hoover is pictured on the front page with 666 all over his face, and in the writing is presented as Satan incarnate, the antichrist. All the readers are further instructed to stay away from and testify against the earthly church, which is a spiritual whore whom God will destroy. Sixty-six prooftexts are given from Scripture. We wonder if the Republican party is the cloud of locusts from the pit!

Just take this comfort in your soul,
In the midst of worries and fret,
The football never could score a goal
Were it not for the kicks it gets.

—The Miami Messenger.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR DEPARTMENT

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC FOR MAY 5, 1940

MOHAMMEDANISM

(Gen. 17:15-22)

Suggestions for the Leader

Mohammedanism, the religion commonly found among the Arabs and other people of the Near East, is a false system which dishonors Christ and unduly exalts a prophet called Mohammed. Missionaries have great difficulty in leading converts of this false religion out of error and into the joy of Christian living, for they seem to be deeply entrenched and have a hatred for all who do not believe as they do. Their slogan is to give the people the Koran or the sword. The Koran is the book for them which is as our Bible.

At the present time the struggle between Christians and Mohammedans in Africa, West Europe and Asia is pronounced. Both are working hard to get followers and many times their paths cross.

Christians and Mohammedans as well as Jews stand together as far as Abraham. Thereafter they separate. Mohammedans regard Isaac as unimportant and Ishmael as the one through whom they come. Their argument is that Ishmael was the first born. Nevertheless we know that the Bible says, "In Isaac shall thy seed be called." Isaac is the son of promise and free born. Ishmael was the son of a bond woman.

1. The Claims of Islam.

To have the special blessings from God and special nearness to Him.

That Mohammed had power in heaven to get revelation and God's word.

That Koran can never be translated and it can be understood only through a thorough knowledge of the Arabic. (How different is our Bible that lends itself to the many translations and languages.)

That the way to do mission work is by force. They seem to be utterly indifferent toward the sufferings of others.

That their prophet was greater than Jesus. They say there is one God and Mohammed is His prophet.

2. The Rules of the Mohammedan.

There are five rules that they must follow:

To be faithful in reciting the creed.

To observe five appointed times of prayer per day.

To pay legal alms amounting to about 2½ per cent of their income.

To fast during the month of Ramadan.

To aspire to make a pilgrimage to Mecca and visit the holy places.

Compare these rules with the manner of life in Christ Jesus which comes by salvation.

3. Missionary Zeal.

Until very recently Mohammedans did not have paid missionaries. Where Arab influence was pressed with the sword, there Islam was established as a religion under the protection of the Arabs. On the other hand, their religion has been established in many countries by the witnessing of the faithful. So-called Christian nations send out traders that are greedy and ungodly. Many of them give the pagans the wrong idea of Christianity.

Mohammedans teach and urge every disciple to be a missionary and they feel compelled to witness for Islam. Islam has grown more rapidly than Christianity. This is due to many reasons. One is that we are professional and they are not.

4. Islam and Christ.

Mohammedans regard Christ as a great prophet but second to Mohammed. They believe Mohammed to be the fulfillment of the Old Testament prophecies. The printed page in Arabian countries gives the wrong picture of Christianity. Though we preach Christ in Mohammedan countries, authorities oppose the work and make it hard for our workers.

Questions

1. Why must we class Mohammedanism as a false religion? I John 4:2-3; John 5:23.

2. What does Mohammedanism think of Christ?

3. How does the false religion of Mohammedanism stand as a rebuke to Christians for their failure to enter these foreign fields first?

4. Why is Mohammedanism a religion of works? (Second speaker).

5. What is our obligation before God in light of the rapid spread of Mohammedanism?

Additional Scripture

It is interesting to follow the progress of Ishmael, and the trouble he has caused Isaac. (1) His mother came from Egypt (Gen. 13:1, 16:1, 15, 16). (2) He persecuted Isaac (Gen. 21:9, 10; Gal. 4:21-29). (3) His descendants brought Joseph into bondage (Gen. 37:27, 28); and the descendants are a thorn in the flesh today, in the land of Palestine, and by means of the doctrines of Islam.

write it down on a piece of paper and put it in this box and then everybody prays and pretty soon God answers your prayer. I put a prayer in the box."

"And I suppose God answered it the next day?" Kathie's father smiled. She thought how nicely he could smile when he didn't smell like sour grapes.

"No, He hasn't answered my prayer yet. But He will, I know He will. The Bible says, 'If ye shall ask any thing in My name, I will do it.' That's real comforting, daddy."

The next morning Kathie's mother and the three other children walked on ahead of Kathie and her father. The little girl was very proud as she walked into the church. Everyone looked at daddy and she heard one lady say, "Well, of all things!"

And Kathie thought the people acted ree-deck-u-louse when in answer to the invitation given at the close of the sermon, father walked up front and accepted Christ as his Savior. Why, even Mrs. Brown shook daddy's hand and tried to say something.

The preacher looked so happy and said to mother, "I'll never have a more happy surprise. Praise the Lord for His goodness!"

But Kathie wasn't surprised. She believed His promise. She stood by the little prayer box and touched it lovingly. She had tried very hard to write her prayer on a piece of paper but the words were hard to spell. At last she had dropped a plain slip of paper into the box. God knew what would have been written, if only Kathie had been able to spell "father" and some of the other hard words.

So Kathie wasn't surprised—just happy.

OUR BIBLE CHARACTER ALPHABET

Answer to G: Gideon.

H was a prince who became of the Ammonites when his father died. King David, desiring to show him kindness, sent messengers to comfort him, but H cut off half their beards, and also cut off their clothes at the hips, and sent them away. Do you know why he did this? Can you give his name? You will find both in II Sam. 10:1-5.

FROM THE FIELD

REVIVAL AT ROANOKE

The Ghent Brethren Church of Roanoke, Virginia, is rejoicing in the victories that came from the two weeks of revival and evangelistic services held by Elder R. Paul Miller. Though the meeting closed Mar. 31 the church is confident that its influence will continue to bless for years to come. There were 76 decisions for Christ in all. Of this number about 20 will come into the church by baptism and letter, several will enter other churches, 12 young people made decisions to enter full service for Christ as He directs, and three young men definitely dedicated themselves to the ministry of the Gospel and laid plans at once for their training, the remainder rededicating their lives anew to Christ and His church, will become far more effective workers than ever before. This meeting reminded the pastor so much of the revival held by Elder Miller in this church about seven years ago. At that time so many of the members, who had not been living lives separated from the world, publicly renewed their covenant with their Lord. The coming of these meant a new day for the church in spiritual power. We cannot but believe that an even greater church will now come from these who laid their all upon the altar for Him.

The Ghent church appreciated the interest of other Brethren churches in this revival. Elder J. E. Patterson and the members of his church at Hollins were very faithful in attendance. Members of the Buena Vista church with their pastor, Elder Arthur Malles, were present at four services. Brother Malles aided the services by directing the singing on the nights that he was present. Elder Bernard Schneider brought two car loads of his members from the Covington Brethren Church. Members of the Red Hill church were also in attendance. A delegation of 12 members of the Waynesboro Brethren Church, 240 miles, drove from Waynesboro to be in the Saturday night Sunday morning meetings.

This revival was the third one that Elder Miller has held in this church. Many have expressed the feeling that it was his best meeting. His faithfulness in prayer, his zeal for the unsaved, his willingness to help each one who sought advice, his determined stand on the Word of God, and his intense loyalty to Jesus Christ, all contributed to the making of a man who has been a great blessing to the Ghent Brethren Church and who will be greatly used of God during these last days.

Elder HERMAN W. KOONTZ, pastor.

The third Commencement of Grace Theological Seminary will be held on Thursday, May 9th at Winona Lake, Ind. ## No Let-Down

It is spring, almost the first of May; just a few months now and our year's work will end. We trust that most of our Councils have met the special objectives, including the public service, with an offering lifted for our beloved Grace Seminary. We are all looking forward to the administrative offering to be sent to our Financial Secretary in July, and of course we are keeping in mind the thank offering to be sent with our delegates to national conference.

But there is a danger that we let down with the coming of warm weather and think we may take it easy for a while and let things slide through. That is when we need to remind ourselves of Paul's words to Timothy, "Be instant in season, out of season" (2 Tim. 4:2). That means there is no off-season for Christian workers; and every Christian is expected to work.

We heard of a husband and wife in this city who do not profess to be Christians and who do not attend church; but for some reason they decided to go to church on the evening of Easter Sunday. They had no particular choice of a church, so they went downtown where the large churches are grouped; perhaps they had some idea of a wider choice among so many. They drove from church to church, only to find the buildings dark and deserted. And these worldly people, who had themselves given no thought to the things of God for years, were astonished, nay, they were grieved, that there could be so many closed churches on the day of the memorial of the resurrection of Jesus Christ. We are thankful to report that they did find one downtown church whose doors were not closed.

But what a picture! If worldlings are grieved over such a condition of things, how must it grieve the heart of our Lord that those who profess His name should thus "neglect so great salvation."

Sisters of the W.M.C., let it not be said of us that we go out of business before the year is up. Let us rather increase our efforts, our prayers and our giving that the great work of taking the gospel to the uttermost parts may not falter or lag because we are not on the job.

service. Welcome address was given by Mrs. Dan Comerford, Senior W.M.C. President. Devotions were led by Mrs. Mable Flora, Fla., Ind.

Due to the inclement weather neither the Pres. nor Vice Pres. of the district were present, and the business session was in charge of Mrs. R. A. Ashman of Peru. Each organization was urged to set a goal for the Easter offering. Several organizations presented problems that exist in the Sisterhood Societies of their churches. Following the brief business session a missionary prayer circle was conducted. The group was divided into smaller groups, each having a leader. They retired to classrooms where special prayer was given for certain missionaries.

At noon a fellowship favorite dish dinner was served in the social rooms.

Preceding the afternoon session recorded music was enjoyed. Mrs. Arthur Carey of Lake Odessa, Mich., had charge of devotions. An offering amounting to $10.34 was received. A vocal duet was rendered by the Lake Odessa ladies. The address of the afternoon was delivered by Rev. R. D. Barnard of Dayton, O., whose subject was "Our Day of Good Tidings." This message was indeed very challenging and inspiring.

Another session of prayer was held for the missionaries, followed by the benediction.

Registration committee reported 83 in attendance.

The following societies were represented: Dayton, O., 15; Lake Odessa, Mich., 8.

San Diego, California

Th ladies of the First Brethren Church of San Diego, of which A. L. Flory is pastor, met Tuesday, Jan. 9th, and organized a Women's Missionary Council. Meetings are held twice a month. On the second Tuesday the regular missionary meeting is held in the afternoon for study and devotion; and on the last Tuesday the ladies hold an all-day work meeting. Many rolls of bandages have been made, and clothing prepared and sent to missionaries in Kentucky for needy children. The Council's work day is held not only for work with the hands, but time is set apart at every meeting for devotion, and earnest prayers are sent to the throne of grace for each individual on the prayer and sick lists. The Council also has placed a white barrel in the church into which canned and other non-perishable foods can be placed, which will be distributed whenever the need is found.

JULIA L. BECKER, Secy.

Dayton, Ohio

To our national officers, members and friends of the Women's Missionary Council, greetings:

The women of the First Brethren Church of Dayton, O., organized the new Council in September of 1939. At our very first meeting much interest was shown, and about 35 women signed cards as members. Our membership has grown steadily until now we have exactly 100 women on our roll.

At the regular Christmas devotional meeting, which was well attended, each lady brought a gift for a child. Our members also decided to make comforts for the very needy work in Kentucky. At the white gift service, two comforts were brought forward, and afterwards sent to Bro. Sewell Landrum in Kentucky together with 50 gifts for the children, and two boxes of clothing.

The next outstanding event was Sun., Feb. 4th. This day was designated as Grace Seminary Day. The Council had charge of the evening worship service. Prof. Herman Hoyt of the Seminary was the speaker. An offering was taken at the meeting for Grace Seminary amounting to $26.87.

Forty-nine women attended our March meeting. We laid aside our offering for Bouca station at this time. Our hearts were made to rejoice at the response, our offering amounting to over $30.00, which was more than we had asked the Lord to give us. We realize more than ever that our faith was too small. Mrs. Cashman, wife of our pastor at Clayton, O., brought us an interesting biography of two of our missionaries, Miss Emmert and Mrs. Sheldon. At each meeting slips of paper are passed to each member with the name of one of our missionaries written thereon. These are remembered each day in prayer.

We feel that we have been blessed in many ways since the council was organized in Dayton. Our women are growing in missionary spirit, and our hearts have been made to rejoice as we grow in numbers. We ask your prayers for our new Council and also for the Dayton Church, that we may continue to be faithful in giving out the gospel until He comes.

"Rejoice evermore. Pray without ceasing. In every thing give thanks, for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you" (I Thess. 5:16-18).

Yours in His blessed name,

MRS. J. MARION HOFFMAN, Cor. Secy

Mrs. J. Harold Putt, Cor. Secy. of Ghent Brethren W.M.C., sends us the following poem written by Mrs. E. B. Murphy, a member of the local Council and inspired by our Devotional Topic.

The Folly of Self-Sufficiency

A youth set forth upon a journey,
His goal the rising sun,
Ambition burned within his breast
To conquer worlds, achieve success;
Heeding not the signs of danger,
Lurking in the way,
He sang a song of youthful triumph—
I am my sufficiency.

The road is long, 'tis changing now,
Great curves loom just ahead,
Bulging cliffs of jagged rocks,
Fill his soul with dread.
Yet, doggedly he trudges onward,
Beads of sweat upon his brow,
I'll win the goal, alive or dead,
Cowards may fail not I—
I am my sufficiency.

'Tis noontide, the pathway steepens,
Rocks and boulders bar the way,
Thorns thrust out their piercing needles,
To prick and sting, the flesh to flay.

His bruised feet stumble, falter,
His torn hands grope for aid,
Stubbornly his pale lips whisper—
I am my sufficiency.

'Tis evening now, his strength is failing,
Doubts and fears assail his soul,
Years have passed, ambition faded
Yet, he's no nearer to the goal.
Night is closing down upon him,
Death stalks by his side,
Brokenly he mumbles, self cannot supply—
My sufficiency.

Where are the laurels for which he struggled?
Is this the goal, this deep abyss,
Yawning through the murky mist?
He totters there upon the brink,
Exhausted, stunned, too tired to think;
A wandering human derelict,
Swallowed up in selfishness—
His own sufficiency.

A failure, yes but God's love wrought
A mighty miracle in his heart,
Ashamed, he falls upon his knees,
Have mercy, Lord, supply my needs;
Thou knowest it all, the sin and shame,
The greed for glory and acclaim,
My eyes are opened, now I see—
Christ—My Sufficiency.

And God, whose mercy knows no bounds,
This poor lost soul with love surrounds
He takes the broken, bleeding heart,
Down at the cross a new way charts;
He hears the broken, contrite plea,
Have mercy, Lord; and be—
My Sufficiency.

FROM OUR OWN MISSION STATION IN AFRICA

Bouca par Bangui, A.E.F.
Jan. 24, 1940

Dear Sister Kent and All the Members of the W.M.C.:
Greetings to all in the name of our blessed Lord and Savior.

We were very happy to hear that the Women's Missionary Council expects to have a practical part in the Bouca-Batangafo work. We know if you have a share in the practical, you will never forget the spiritual. The material needs are always with us, and need to be supplied, but the spiritual are far greater; for it is in the realm of the spiritual that we feel our strongest attacks. Therefore dear sisters, may we urge each one of you to bear us up before the Lord every day. We thank you very much for your interest. Pray that we may be faithful to the trust you have placed and committed to us.

We feel that the Lord is greatly blessing the work. In fact we see evidence of His working on every hand. Our people meet at 5:45 every morning for prayer, and the Lord is blessing their faithfulness. Every Sunday souls are being saved, also in the villages many are turning to Him, and in every direction they are calling for teachers to be sent to them. They are very anxious to learn to read, and to have regular preaching services.

We will be writing our "Bouca Flashes" regularly again. You will be able to keep informed through them, also you will see the requests for prayer every month. We would enjoy writing to each one individually, but it is a human impossibility. We cannot begin to care for the work on the field properly, for lack of time, and correspondence takes quite a bit too.

Again we wish to express our appreciation, and pray the Lord will greatly bless each one of you, and make you a blessing to many.

In His dear name and service until He comes,
R. FOSTER.

The Humdrum of a Native Woman's Life

The first rays of light were appearing in the east, outlining the hills against the sky. The birds were beginning to stir and flutter about. Inside the huts, the natives were beginning to waken after the night's rest.

In one of the huts lives Goupende and his wife, Youmini, their two daughters. Yoursari and Youji, and a baby son, Kaka. His name means chicken. The reason for his peculiar name is to protect him against the evil spirits. Both of his brothers had died in babyhood. Goupende was advised by the witch doctor to name this son Kaka so that whenever anyone calls him or speaks his name the evil spirits will be fooled into thinking he is only a chicken.

Goupende sleeps on the only bed in the hut. It is a platform of hard mud about six feet long, two and a half feet wide, and two feet high. There are no springs, mattress or pillow on this crude bed. A grass mat serves as a sheet and he wraps himself up in a cheap blanket, just letting his feet stick out. Youmini and the children enjoy none of these luxuries. They sleep on the floor, like the spokes of a wheel with their feet close to the fire, which is in the center of the room.

The two sticks were still smouldering but had burned apart. Youmini rising up pushes the sticks together and blows them into a blaze. The whole family is soon astir and huddles around the fire warming themselves, but they soon move the fire outside. The hut is only a shelter used at night, during the hottest time of the day and during a storm.

Goupende calls to his wife to bring him some water for his morning bath. She brings it to him in the gourd dipper. With his hands he dashes the water over his body. When he finished the other members of the family take their baths in the same manner. After Youmini washed the baby she leans him over a rock to dry in the sun. They use no wash cloths, towels or soap.

Youmini and her daughters put on their new dresses of fresh green leaves, but little Kaka just wears his birthday suit.

Youji, the smallest girl, sweeps the house and carries out the ashes and disposes of their withered dresses that they wore the day before.

Goupende is going to take some iron to the blacksmith to have some hoes made as it will soon be time to make peanut gardens. His wife and the children are going to make flour. Three days ago they dug a large basket of cassava roots and put them in the stream to molt and they are now ready to take out and dry. Youmini packs the necessary things in a basket, she will put in the broom, the pounder, the sifter, a knife and the axe. Yousari finds some mush that was left from the evening meal and wraps it in some leaves with several handfuls of peanuts, so they will have something to eat when they get hungry.

Youmini closes the door of the hut securely with the mat to keep out the dogs and goats. Then she lifts the basket of things and places it on Yousari's head and Yousari starts down the path with Youji following, carrying the bundle of food on her head and close behind is their mother carrying Kaka straddled on her hip.

When they reach the stream, Kaka is put in a safe place on the bank to play while his mother and sisters wade into the pool. They begin to take the rind off the cassava roots and put them into the basket. Other women are also there doing the same thing. They talk and laugh and sing as they work.

The girls sweep off a place on the large rock bordering the stream. They break the roots in small pieces and spread them over the rock to dry in the hot sun. While it is drying the women and the larger girls go in search of greens, leaving the others on guard so that the dogs and goats will not eat their food.

After some time the women return with their greens. They also gathered wood for the evening fire. The broken cassava roots are dry and they start pounding them and singing as they pound. They sift out the lump sand continue to pound and sift until it is all fine like flour. The girls smear their faces with the flour and have a good time. Then they sweep up the flour and put it in their baskets. Now it is time to go home. Youmini carries the basket of flour on her head and Kaka rides straddle his mother's hip. Yousari carries the bundle of wood on her head and Youji carries the things that will not stay on top of the basket of flour. When they reach home they put the flour and things away in the hut.

They are only home a short time when they start for the stream again, this time each balancing a waterpot on her head and Kaka riding his mother's hip as before. When they reach the stream Youmini bathes Kaka and sets him up on the bank to dry. She and the girls bathe in the stream, splashing the water over their bodies. Then they fill their waterpots and start for home. Their bodies are dripping and glistening in the rays of the setting sun. Arriving home they put their waterpots in the hut and go out to search for leaves for their new dresses for the next day.

After they return again to the hut, Yousari goes to a nearby hut for a few live coals to start the fire. Her mother puts the earthen pot with some water in it over the fire. When it boils she puts in some of the flour and stirs it with a stick until the flour and water is well mixed. She then removes it from the fire, placing it on the ground, and holds it firmly between her feet and continues to beat it with the stick. She turns it out of the pot molded into a ball and puts it into a tightly woven basket which serves as a bowl. Next, the greens are picked over and put on the fire to cook in the earthen pot. The greens are seasoned with some meat. Supper is now ready and Youmini takes the bowl of mush and the pot of greens and places them on the ground in front of her husband. He calls his brother and nephew who live close by to come and eat with him.

Youmini and her sister-in-law and the children sit by the fire waiting for the men to finish eating as the men and women do not eat together. When the men finished, Goupende called his wife and she went and got the food that was left. The women and children circle around the two containers. They take turns putting their fingers into the bowl of mush and taking a portion of the mush and dipping it into the pot of greens. The men ate all of the meat as meat is tabooed for women and they don't eat it. After they finished eating, Yousari gets some water and they wash their hands and wipe them on their hair. They move closer to the fire and spend the time talking and laughing in a group by themselves and the men talk over their affairs in another group. They visit for some time, then they move the fire inside the hut and lie down beside the fire for a night's rest.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS DEPARTMENT

Q. Will the local Councils send delegates to National Conference? Will they pay registration fees?

A. Our W.M.C. can only have a National Conference program if the local councils send delegates to represent them. You have elected national officers and put into their hands certain duties and responsibilities. They have carried on during the year by your cooperation from a distance. There must be a yearly get-together: to consider the work of the past year, to perfect the organization, to make plans for the year ahead, and to elect those who shall be entrusted with the carrying out of these plans, and to gather inspiration and carry it back to the local groups for their encouragement and enlightenment.

No registration fee will be charged. This is in line with the policy adopted last year. We believe the Lord will bless if we take the faith way, dependent upon Him and upon the free-will offerings of His people. But we cannot run a conference without funds—the Lord knows that and so do His people. So we are asking that as each delegate presents her credentials she make an offering as the Lord directs. It is left with the local Councils and the individuals to decide if the Council wishes to take a special offering to be sent with the body of delegates, or whether the delegates themselves wish to make personal offerings, or both.

Q. Will the delegates be chosen according to the number of members reported to the National Secretary, Mrs. Andlauer?

A. Yes, on the basis of one for every ten members or fraction thereof.

Q. Will the national officers make a report of work done and objectives met at the National Conference?

A. As full a report as possible will be gleaned from the local reports as sent in. They can only be responsible for what is committed to them.

Q. Do you think this department will be helpful?

A. It will if our women will furnish the questions. Where are yours?

The Neglected Race for Whom Christ Died

HISTORY PREFACED IN 430 YEARS

God's History Book

God has written and caused to be enacted a resume in advance of the experiences of the children of Israel. No child of Israel need be in doubt as to the course and destiny of his nation. The prophets lend their voices to the swelling chorus of history foretold and pre-measured. Piercing through the ever darkening veil that seems to have beclouded the eyes of the Israelite are striking events that should jog the memory concerning the things that were written about them. The experiences of nearly 430 years depict outstanding experiences of the Jewish nation over a period of nearly 4300 years.

Origin

The progenitor of this great race of God's choice is Abraham. Abraham believed God. This made him a marked man. Belief in God has always made the Jew a marked man. But, particularly, Abraham, since he was willing to trust God, has risen high in the observation of men. Possibly the greatest dispute over Abraham arose between Jesus and the Jews of His day. Jesus told them in no uncertain terms that they had a natural father, Abraham (Jno. 8:37), and a spiritual father, the devil (8:44). The differentiation of spiritual fatherhood rests in believing God as Abraham did (8:56) and not merely believing in God, as those Jews did (8:42). This trusting belief of Abraham led him out into the unknown, away from his kindred. He was not a model of excellence, for upon an occasion he became afraid and lied. But he had a distinct call from a personal, actual Being, and this his inmost heart and conscience confessed.

Beginnings

His complete dependence on God is portrayed to the world's gaze as he stood on rugged old Mt. Moriah. There with his young and only begotten (Heb. 11:17) son, Isaac, tied to the sacrificial altar, he becomes the example to every Jew to trust God for the sacrifice, to expect that God will provide the lamb—Jehovah-Jireh is His name! This memorable incident should speak volumes about a certain great historical event. Should it not jog veil-darkened minds with poignant memories (Zech. 12:10-14)?

It is written, "In Isaac shall thy seed be called" (Rom. 9:7). This is but another sign post guiding to the mercy of God, Who desires not merely seed of the flesh, or of Abraham, but spiritual seed, seed of Isaac—the one offered, as pointing to the One who was offered on the cross.

The calling of Isaac's bride and their courtship is a story beloved by all generations of Jews and Gentiles alike. It is a story that is highly symbolic. It pictures Christ expecting His bride, who is beckoned by the Holy Spirit, the Agent. He has been sent into the world by the Father to choose the church for Christ. The story is replete with all the thrills of a true romance. And this story, re-enacted on the stage of life today in a larger, more marvelous way, signifies a real romance for Christians who are in love with their Lord.

Turmoils

Esau and Jacob, twins, strove from the day of their birth. The one, red, burly, an out-of-doors man, a tender of flocks and herds, sold his birthright to the other. The other, Jacob, a clean-faced man, a home lover, shrewd, managed to obtain the parental blessing that went with the birthright. Then followed estrangement and exile. The children of Jacob in Palestine today have certainly felt the animosity of the children of Ishmael. Jews and Arabs alike lay claim to that ground promised to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

Laban and Jacob fared little better. After serving 14 years for the wife he wanted, and yet more, Jacob departed for the land of God. Laban pursued him, Esau met him, and God wrestled with him. His name was changed to Israel.

Sowing and Reaping

The sons sowed while the father reaped. Their vengeance was wreaked on the little dreamer boy, Joseph; and the father by continual sorrow and tears brought himself near to the grave. How those words of Judah's, "What profit is it . . . come let us sell him," ought to ring in every heart (Matt. 27:9). Israel has become a nation of salesmen, and Gentiles have bought of their wares.

Exodus

The story of Joseph in Egypt is the story of Christ triumphant over death. The successes of Joseph depict the successes of Christ (Eph. 1:10, Col. 2:15). The gathering of products into the storehouses by Joseph corresponds to Christ's gathering of His saints into the heavenly garner. After the seven years of abundant grace come the seven years of tribulation famine.

The brothers begin to leave Canaan for Egypt to buy corn. They keep moving down until the whole family has left behind the land of promise. After the rejection of Joseph, famine puts them out of the land. After the rejection of Christ, tribulation drove the Jews from Palestine.

Tribulation

Great tribulation was meted out to the Hebrews in Egypt. The first chapter of Exodus reveals the oppression of the king. This oppression took two forms—against labor and against life. All oppression from the time of Christ has followed these two forms. Governments have passed laws regulating their work, what types of work they should enter, and the taxes they should pay for the privilege. Pogroms were and still are being directed against their lives.

But the tribulation became intense. The king made them serve with rigor. The children sighed by reason of the bondage (3:9). The time is yet future when Israel shall groan in the furnace of affliction at the hand of the nations.

Judgment and Deliverance

But God heard their cry and sent Moses to deliver them. Ten judgments fell before Pharaoh yielded them. Some day this old world shall groan under judgment (Rev. 6-19) until Israel be delivered. Marvellous history in fact and scope!

Do the Jews Control U. S. Wealth and Business?

In the undercover anti-Semitic movements that are stealing over the United States, it is charged that the Jews own or control practically all the wealth of the United States. And that we must stand against them, lest the time come that they control everything, and we Christians virtually become their slaves.

What are the facts? With the exception of the moving picture industry, the theatre, the manufacture of clothing and retail distribution, the great industries of America are in non-Jewish hands. Steel, automobiles, the utilities, transportation, shipping, oil, coal, heavy machinery, lumber, dairy products, the five and ten cent stores and the grocery chains are all owned by non-Jews. In 1934, of the 80,000 directors of the great corporations of America (see Poor's "Register of Directors") 3,825 or 4.8 per cent were Jews. According to Fortune survey (see February, 1936) of the 1,375 members of the New York Stock Exchange in the city where Jews constitute nearly thirty per cent of the population, only 252, or 18 per cent were Jewish.

Of the 637 firms listed in the New York Stock Exchange, 55 are Jewish, 22 half-Jewish, 39 have prominent Jewish influence—altogether 116, or about 19 per cent.

In the newspaper field, the three largest Jewish chains have a total circulation of 1,169,000. Compare this with the Hearst chain, with a total circulation of 5,500,000; Patterson-McCormick, 2,232,000, and the Scripps-Howard, 1,794,000, not to speak of many others.—As quoted in The Friends of Israel, from The Intelligence-Leader.

The Growing Christian

that their own victory over the power of sin is a perpetual battle with them the same as with us.

I have learned why these people must necessarily preach what is rarely a reality in their own lives. They observe only one viewpoint of the doctrine of sanctification, the viewpoint that men see and know. And since a number of passages in the Bible teach a holiness and sanctification that is perfect, they believe it all can be attained once and for all subsequent to conversion. Their difficulty would disappear if they were to discover that this perfect sanctification is provided for us through Christ Whom we receive by faith. I Cor. 1:30 is a good illustration: "But of him are ye in Christ Jesus who of God is made unto us wisdom, and righteousness and sanctification and redemption." Also in Heb. 10:10 we learn that "we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all." This sanctification is perfect and permanent, and is called our standing. The aim of our practical sanctification, the holiness that men see in us, should be to approach the sanctification of our standing. This is known as our state. I am convicted, Bert, that this kind of holiness or sanctification is not received in a definite experience but is attained through a constant warfare against the old carnal nature; just as Paul states in Gal. 5:17, "For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh; and these are contrary the one to the other so that ye cannot do the things that ye would." In I Cor. 9:27 Paul again says, "I keep under my body, and bring it into subjection."

While Paul indicates the believer's part in keeping the carnal nature in subjection, he does not fail to state the source of his victorious power. Let us read his testimony as recorded in I Cor. 15:10: "By the grace of God I am what I am; and his grace which was bestowed upon me was not in vain." Now read Rom. 6:14 "For sin shall not have dominion over you: for ye are not under the law, but under grace."

You will be amazed, Bert, how many Scriptures there are which give the secret of living in a high degree of holiness or practical sanctification. A very popular and effective passage is Gal. 2:20; also Phil. 2:13 and 4:21. You can look these up for yourself. What some people call "praying through" and "getting sanctified," others call by other expressions such as "full surrender," "complete yieldedness," "the victorious life," "the separated life," "the triumphant life," "the Christ life," "the Master's indwelling," "the overcoming life," etc. These terms will become more and more familiar to you as you attend Bible conferences, young people's camps, etc. In fact, you should plan now to attend Bethany Camp at Winona Lake, Ind. next fall. There you will learn how to "present your body a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God" and how "to reckon yourself dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God." You can appropriate this ability by the Lord's help before that time and be able and willing to testify to others of this victory in your own life. Be sure of this, Bert, God makes no demands that He does not give us the power to fulfil. Be faithful in the study of the Scriptures,

LETTERS TO A COUSIN.....By Art

Dear Cousin Bert:

It certainly is a joy to get your fine letters, and how brim full of interest they are to me. You made me think back to 1927 when I had my first experience in a holiness church, similar to the one you wrote about. A very intimate friend and I decided to spend three summer months of our vacation between college terms representing the S. A. Mullikin Company's literature. We accepted a county in Indiana with New Castle as our headquarters. One of the first preachers we contacted for recommendations took a fatherly interest in us and invited us to attend his church the following Sunday. We went elsewhere for the morning services but that evening found us in the audience of our friend. It was a new experience to me, too to hear all the members praying at the same time, each one apparently trying to outdo the others in volume and speed. Then, after a plain, but enthusiastically delivered sermon, the altar call was given. Several of the praying members went to the altar to pray while others contacted two young men who had raised their hands for prayer. They were moved, or prevailed upon, to go to the altar where they confessed their back-slidden condition, repented, and then sought to "pray through" as they called it. I afterwards learned that they were seeking a definite work of grace for sanctification which meant the eradication of the carnal nature. What a time of agony, back-slapping, hallelujahs, praying and questioning they went through! Finally one cried out with much hilarity that he had it, while the other one continued seeking in vain and finally gave up for that night.

I confess that before I discovered a number of important things from the Word of God, the procedure in this church gave me no little concern. I knew I experienced a great deal of trouble with the old Adam nature after my conversion just as your testimony indicates you are experiencing. By observation, I found that many who claimed the experience of having the carnal nature eradicated at the altar, were having the same trouble as I, though they would not admit it. In the past several years I have been privileged to associate intimately with different leaders of several types of holiness people, and when the truth of their own heart is expressed, they confess

A DOCTRINE OF CHRIST DEPARTMENT

By Frank G. Coleman, Jr.

BORN OF A VIRGIN

Around the doctrine of the virgin birth of Christ there has raged a storm of controversy from the very dawn of the Christian era. That storm has by no means abated in this day. For to admit the virgin birth of Christ is to admit the supernatural entrance of the transcendent God into the affairs of men, and this many are unwilling to do. Though "born of a virgin" stands in the creeds which men still repeat and to which many still subscribe, yet it is with a mental reservation or with a strange definition of terms that modern theologians and teachers of religion permit the statement to stand.

Whatever others may mean, by the virgin birth of Christ we mean that God the Father, in accord with the Son as His verbal and eternal expression, and through the coordinate operation of the Holy Spirit, took hold of a cell or seed of Mary, creating a new and distinct human nature which the Son of God took into union with Himself, becoming a unique being with two natures, human and divine, in one spend much time in prayer, embrace every opportunity to witness to others and you will find that temptations have little or no power over you. I am thankful that even grown-ups can do like the little Christian girl who told her chum that she did not have any trouble with sin, because every time the devil knocked at her heart's door, she sent Jesus to answer; and when He did, there never was anyone there. "For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil" (I Jn. 3:8).

I had to finish this letter the day after I began, Bert, because I had an appointment with my son Gene last evening. He talked me into taking him to a community father and son banquet. He is getting to the age now when we know we have a boy. He is constantly exposing us to new angles of parenthood since he passed his ninth birthday last June. But I wouldn't have it otherwise for a fortune. It certainly is true of me that "life begins at forty."

I almost forgot to tell you that we had some new bed-room furniture delivered yesterday so now we will have no worries when company comes. We would be happy to have you pay us a visit some weekend.

Affectionately your cousin, body. In this unparalleled way God the Son was made flesh that God might purchase with His own blood those who had sold themselves under sin.

The Virgin Birth and the Person of Christ

That God the Son should come into the world by being born of a virgin without the agency of a human father, was indispensable to the perfection of His person. Let it not be forgotten that in Him were united the essential natures of both God and man. He was the God of eternity becoming also man. But God could not become man by taking a body generated by human parents. Such a union of God's person with a human person would result in a monstrosity, a double personality. More than that, it would result in the possession by Christ of a fallen, sinful human nature.

The father and the mother of a child are distinct persons, and each gives something of his own peculiar nature to the child. The result is a new personality with one consciousness and one will. Only the fatherhood of God and the motherhood of a virgin could produce a single personality in the man Christ Jesus, with a single consciousness and a single will. By the virgin birth alone could God become man, retaining the divine nature that was His through all eternity, while taking into personal subsistence with Himself a true human nature untainted by sin.

It is a strange faith that would lay hold upon the superstructure of Christianity while denying the miraculous foundation upon which it rests. Let those who think that the doctrine of the virgin birth is easily to be dispensed with consider: If His was a human father, then Jesus Christ was born of a woman stained with unchastity and His father was unknown. His only birthright was the bar sinister. If He was not born of a virgin, but was begotten of a human father, He was a natural person, and not God. If He was not God, then He had no right to forgive sin, nor had He any right to make Himself the object of faith. If His was a natural father, then He was not the second person of the Trinity, and without God the Son there is no Trinity, no triune God. If His was a natural father, he inherited a sinful nature, there was sin in Him. He was, then, under the penalty of sin, and could be neither a substitute nor a sacrifice for sin — if begotten by a human father.

The Virgin Birth and the Work of Christ

The atonement of Christ is rooted and grounded in the virgin birth of Christ. In the manward aspect of His atoning work there were two essential requirements for His entrance into the world to redeem men. He must perfectly identify Himself with the race and become as truly human as any child of Adam. This He must do while at the same time avoiding the taint of inherited sin. He must become man; and He must become perfect man. Only from such a beginning could he consummate His work with the exultant cry, "It is finished," as He died for sins not His own. Only by assuming into real union with Himself the perfect humanity generated in the womb of Mary, through the miraculous operation of the Spirit of God, could He satisfy both requirements, becoming man, yet without sin.

It is because Jesus Christ is God's Son that His blood possesses infinite worth in cleansing from all sin. It is because Jesus Christ came into the world as Mary's son that He is related to man by nature and so can be man's true Kinsman-Redeemer. Without such a relationship of nature the moral government of God could not be vindicated, nor could His perfect law be upheld. The law was suited to man, and it had a claim upon man. Man alone could fulfill its requirements. Man alone could bear its penalty. Because He was man Jesus Christ could pay the penalty of the law; because, through His virgin birth, He was perfect man He could pay the penalty for others; and because, by the virgin birth, it was God who became man, His sufferings and death possessed such infinite value that every demand of the law was satisfied in behalf of those whom God purposed to redeem.

The Virgin Birth, the Fatherhood of God, and the Motherhood of Mary

Human fatherhood was not necessary to clothe the eternal Son with humanity. Being eternally pre-existent, no act of fatherhood was required when the Word became flesh. The Word went forth and the Spirit wrought in embodiment, and the eternal Son was clothed with flesh. He became the Son of man by the virgin Mary, but He was the Son of God before time began. "Unto the Son he (God) saith, thy throne O God, is forever and ever" (Heb. 1:8 with Ps. 45:6). The eternal Son needed no other fatherhood than that which He had known in the eternity before the world was, the fatherhood of God.

It is the peculiar function of the mother to embody the implanted seed. He who was "Eternal Life," Himself the Seed, received through Mary His human body and His human nature. These alone were His heritage from her.

Even His blood was His own! It is a biological fact that every embryo manufactures for itself the blood that forms its blood stream. It was indeed God's own blood (Acts 20:28) that coursed through His veins and that was spilled as the blood of atonement, the all-sufficient answer to every claim of outraged holiness.

The Virgin Birth and the Faith that Save

To deny the virgin birth is to deny Old Testament prophecy, the testimony of the angel Gabriel, the inspired records of Matthew and Luke, as well as the whole list of Scriptures in which the miraculous conception is implied. But more than that, to deny the virgin birth is to deny the eternal Sonship and Deity of the Lord Jesus Christ and the infinite value of His blood. We take our stand with the Holy Scriptures and affirm our belief in His supernatural birth. This we believe, yet it is not the article of our salvation. Not faith in the virgin birth, but appropriating faith in Christ as Savior, Sin-bearer, and Lord, is the condition of eternal life. But the only Christ we know is the Christ of the Bible, and the Christ of the Bible was born of a virgin.

A BRETHREN STUDENT LIFE VOLUNTEERS rally that really was a rally was held in our Fort Wayne Church Apr. 7. 125 young people, 52 from Dayton, O., attended the rally. Churches represented were Fort Wayne, Ind.; Dayton, O.; Berne, Ind.; Peru, Ind.; and Flora, Ind. At the rally 43 additional young people became members of BSLV. The program was in charge of a Grace Seminary Gospel Team, composed of Glen O'Neal, Ralph Rambo, Robert Hill, and William Kerr, who delivered the sermon. It was a great meeting. Intense interest was maintained throughout the three hours of the meeting.

FRANK COLEMAN, JR., was the evangelist during a series of meetings in the Ellet, O. church, Mar. 25-Apr. 7.

BRO. CURTIS MORRILL, missionary on furlough from Africa, recently gave a series of lectures on our African mission field to the Grace Seminary student body and faculty. Bro. Morrill has also spoken in many of our churches in the eastern districts in recent weeks. Since early spring Bro. and Sister Morrill and family have been living in the mission home at Ashland, Ohio.

BRO. EVERETT NISWONGER, pastor of the Canton, O., church, is back at work in his church, after an appendicitis operation that put him on the "sick list" last month.

THE SECOND BRETHREN CHURCH OF LOS ANGELES—"Our Bible School attendance last Sunday, Apr. 7, was 473. This is the best attendance our school has seen for more than five years, except on a rally day or Easter Sunday. The attendance last Sunday was 101 better than on the corresponding Sunday last year. The school has shown a consistent gain under the efficient supervision of Bro. C. E. Reuter, Supt. Our Easter offering now stands at about $1650 in cash and pledges."

THE BRETHREN YOUNG PEOPLE'S SUMMER CAMP for Southern Calif., will be at Camp Seeley in the San Bernardino Mts., July 6-13. There really will be two separate camps run simultaneously, one for young people age 12-15 and one for those age 16-25.

MUST WE RESORT TO SNOOPING for news, or are the rest of the pastors and church correspondents going to come through with news for the writer of this column. Of course you want the news to be fresh and interesting. Well, there is only one way to make it that way and that is to send in the news, either by mailing your church bulletin or by dropping a card or letter in the mail. We want a short crisp paragraph if you write. We get news regularly from about eight churches and occasionally from about 15 more, and by diverse means we get news from several more. ### THE JACK-IN-THE-BOX IN DICKIE'S HEART

By Jack Green

Little Dickie, age five, came to Junior Church one Sunday with eyes, ears, and heart wide open as every boy and girl should, in going to God's house.

On the Scripturegraph board was a large red heart. How interested Dickie was when the teacher began to place different pictures in the heart. The first one was the picture of a serpent. Listen, the teacher was talking.

"The serpent reminds us of jealousy. Do you remember how the Lord had to bring a terrible sickness upon Miriam because she was jealous of her brother (Num. 12)? God had to punish her for her sin."

Next the teacher placed a picture of a pig in the heart. "Now the pig tells us of greed. The Lord doesn't want people to be greedy. How pleased the Lord Jesus was when He saw the little boy giving all his lunch to help the other people who were hungry. That is the way the Lord wants us to be too."

Dickie's interest began to grow. What would be next? As he watched very quietly, he saw the teacher place a bag of money in the heart. "Yes," said the teacher, "There are some people who love money more than they do the Lord Jesus. Judas sold the Lord for a few pieces of silver."

The next picture was very funny, Dickie thought—a picture of a Jack-in-the-box. The teacher told the story of how anger springs up very quickly as does the Jack-in-the-box. Then the teacher told the story of how Cain killed his brother because he became angry (Gen 4).

Dickie went home that Sunday with the wonderful stories down in his heart.

That week, Dickie wanted to go to the store with his big brother. He was allowed to go, but on the way home Dickie became very naughty and got angry at his brother. I'll bet you know what Dickie got when he reached home don't you? Yes sir! His mother gave him a spanking and sent him into the other room. After a while she went to see what was keeping him so quiet. When she looked in the room she saw Dickie praying.

"What were you praying about?" she asked.

"I was praying that Jesus would take the Jack-in-the-box out of my heart," answered Dickie.

His mother didn't understand so Dickie explained, "Our teacher said that if we got angry at our brother we had a Jack-in-the-box in our hearts, so I want Jesus to take it out."

Do you think God answered Dickie's prayer? Sure He did, because God hears and answers prayer.

BEDTIME

By Rose B. Foster

Twilight comes stealing;
Twilight comes creeping;
Twilight spreads out

Like a soft, gray shawl;
Hides all the daytime things—
Hides with her velvet wings;
Hushes the thrushes'

And bobolinks' call;
Closes our sleepy eyes.
She is so good and wise!
Whispers, "Good night, dears,
And God keep us all!"

WHAT OTHER BOYS AND GIRLS ARE DOING

The boys and girls in our Long Beach, California church wanted their missionary offering to go for something special, so they could have a part in some missionary work of their own just as the grown-ups do. Others were paying for the support of the missionaries on the field, and were caring for other special missionary needs, so they decided to support two children of the missionaries. Kenneth Sheldon is supported by the Junior Department, and Charles Taber by the primaries.

Write and tell us what the children in your church are doing.

FREE TO OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Would you like to have some pictures of Ann Kliever, your Junior C. E. Missionary to Africa, taken just before she went to Africa? They are arranged on a small picture poster so you can hang them in your room. They will be a nice reminder to pray for her and the other missionaries' children every day. These picture posters were never before given to anyone but C. E. societies, but we are offering them while they last, to the readers of this page who write for one.

When you write, perhaps you can think of some interesting things to tell us. Maybe the Lord has answered prayer or done some other wonderful things for you. Perhaps you are serving Him in some way. And of course, you will want to tell us what the boys and girls in your church are doing for the Lord. Write the Children's Editor, 3326 S. Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

A MISUNDERSTANDING WHICH TEACHES A LESSON

By Geneva Grace Kuhn

During the Sunday School period of boys' and girls' class, the teacher asked for a quotation of the familiar passage found in Is. 64:6. She misunderstood the pupil quoting to say the following: "But we are all as an unclean thing and all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags."

It was amusing, and of course everyone laughed as the teacher repeated what she thought she heard.

After all, it wasn't a bad misunderstanding, for rags are used in rug making. But how detestable is a dirty rug! A rug gathers all the dirt that happens to fall across it, and if it weren't cleaned daily regularly, it would remain filthy.

Now, boys and girls, can't you see how much that is like us humans. First, if we don't have the blood of Jesus Christ to cleanse away the filth of our sin, we are in God's sight no better than a filthy rug. Secondly, if we have accepted Christ and His blood has cleansed us from our sin, we still need His blood to keep us clean from sins every day. The rug cannot clean itself, can it? No, it must be cleaned. So, since we are so very much like a rug, let us allow Jesus to cleanse us and continue to keep us clean (1 Jn. 1:7; Phil. 3:9).

Then, when the rug is clean, we are not ashamed of it; we place it where it can both beautify and be of service. So with boys and girls when they come to Christ for salvation and cleansing. He makes them unashamed (Rom. 10:11) and causes their lives to blossom forth in the beauty of true service (Rom. 12:1,21; Rev. 19:8).

JOB, THE PATIENT

(Job 14:1-15)

Suggestions for the Leader

Read the book of Job. It will not take long. It hardly teaches us why the righteous suffer. Heb. 12:6 is a better picture. It really teaches that the righteous need repentance. Job was upright in all of his dealings, yet needed repentance (Job 42:6). The final victory for Job came when he caught a glimpse of God and also saw himself as in need of God.

1. Scenes in a Drama of Two Worlds. Job 1:1, 6:12, 2:1-10.

The events of the earth have a close relation to the events of the spiritual realm. Sacred history actually governs secular history. Back of the scene we know to be, the devil is active in working his purpose. The conflict of the ages is between forces of righteousness and forces of unrighteousness. Unfortunately our behavior is brought into the conflict.

2. The Integrity of Job. Job 1:11,21,22; 2:5,9,10; 13:15.

Job was the best man alive in his day. God selected the best and most righteous man and not the most wicked to teach the need of repentance.

Satan challenged Job's integrity but was wrong. Many accusations against us are Satanic and wrong.

To have a reverse or loss does not say that God is against us. Chastening or testing is for a purpose.

3. The Judgment of Job's Friends. Job 8:3-6.

Job's terrific load was made worse by miserable comforters. It is wrong to be harsh to one because of a reverse. Friends may suffer the same things as enemies. We can not know the meaning of things merely with the knowledge of things we see. God's promise is that His grace is sufficient for us now.

4. The Question of God. Job 38:2-7; 42:1-6.

After Job and his friends had gone as far as they could, God began to talk. He has the right to the last word in everything. Satan was being used as one to try Job but only by the permissive will of God. God called Job to regard Him as the Creator. One sight of the power of God makes us realize how small we are.

Things we do not understand now shall yet be revealed.

5. God's End to the Story. Job 42:10; James 5:11.

God's great love story comes out right. Job's faithfulness brought him reward at last. He stood the test. Job received double of everything he lost. Remember he had children in heaven and on the earth. In another day, God shall make plain the "why" of the losses of today.

Additional Scripture

The rewards of patience: Ps. 37:7-11; Lk. 8:15; Rom. 5:3-5; Jas. 5:7; Heb. 10:35-37; Jas. 5:8.

Questions

1. What was the greatest need in Job's life? Job 42:6.
2. Does it make a difference when we see God? Isa. 6:1-5.
3. Why doesn't God kill the devil?
4. Is it possible for the devil to gain the advantage of us? 2 Cor. 2:11. What should we do about it? James 4:7.
5. Why do some people suffer? Heb. 12:6.

JUNIOR-INTERMEDIATE C. E. TOPIC

AS CHRIST FORGAVE

Have a large circle representing Christ drawn on the blackboard, and as many small circles as there are Endeavorers. Underneath each small circle write the name of one of the pupils. As each one names things people have done to them which were wrong or which made them feel very bad, write these things inside his circle. Then write in the large circle the wrong things done to Jesus. (Have your list made from Mt. 26:47-27:44; Mk. 14:43-15:32; Lu. 22:52-39; Jn. 18:3-19:18, so you can supply those things the pupils cannot recall.) Which of all these things on the blackboard do you think would be hardest to forgive? Emphasize how small the wrongs we suffer are compared with those committed against our Lord.

Have someone read Lu. 23:34. How many of these wrongs was Jesus willing to forgive? This one? (pointing to the first in His circle). This one? (pointing to the second, and so on). Erase each as the Endeavorers reply in the affirmative. Emphasize that there was not one of all those awful things which He was not glad to forgive.

Next write in Jesus' circle things we have done which have displeased Him. How may these sins be forgiven (I Jn. 1:9)? How many of these sins will Jesus forgive (Ps. 103:3)?

What does He do with our sins? Look at that cloud. Ten minutes ago it was twice that size. Soon it will disappear, and you will never see that cloud again. That is the way God blots out our sins (Isa. 44:22) when we confess them. (Erase the things written in Jesus' circle.)

If you traveled far enough north, you would come to the north pole, and if you kept on traveling, you would have to go south. Then when you came to the south pole you could go no farther south—you would have to go north. But no matter how far east you travel, you can always go farther east, and when you travel west, west likewise is always farther beyond. East and west never meet. God removes our sins as far as the east is from the west (Ps. 103:12).

Things thrown in the sea where it is deep are never seen again. God buries our sins there (Mic. 7:19).

God never thinks of our sins again (Heb. 8:12).

Because God has forgiven all our sins if we are saved, what are we to do (Eph. 4:32)? If you really love Jesus, and are willing to forgive and forget the wrongs others have done, just as He has forgiven you, come up and erase the writing in your circle.

JUNIOR C. E. PROGRAM FOR MAY 12

By Myrtle Silberman

Opening prayer circle.

Song: "Jesus Loves the Little Children of the World."

Prayer: by teacher.

Scripture Reading: Gal. 3:26-29.

Choruses.

Topic: Juniors in Every Land.

Have you ever thought about the children in every land who are members of the Junior Society of Christian Endeavor? They may be any race or speak any strange language and yet they are Juniors just as you are. In Mexico they read the Bible in Spanish. In France, they read the Bible in French. In China, they read the Bible in Chinese. In Africa, they read the Bible in many different languages and dialects. But they all read about the same Savior. They all read the Bible and pray to the same God. Christian boys and girls of every land are God's children, and they should love and help one another.

Ye Are All the Children of God by Faith in Christ Jesus (v. 26).

"Jesus loves me, this I know, for the Bible tells me so, etc." is one of the hymns that Chinese Christians love to sing more than any other one. They have found that they too are children of God through their trust in Jesus. We are not His children, if we yield our lives to evil, but the moment we yield our hearts to Jesus, that moment we become His children. Jesus is God's Son. When we become Christians, we become His children, that is, we are made sons of God and heirs with Christ.

There is neither Jew nor Greek (v. 28).

Children of God who truly love Him, do not know any difference in race or color. Christians know that Jesus died for all, regardless of color or race, and so we love the little black boy, as well as our white skinned neighbors. Jesus came to call sinners, and commanded his disciples to go into all the world and preach the gospel to all the people. He did not say that we should just preach to the white people, not the Jews, but to all people. When Jesus died He did not die just for the Jews, but for all (Jn. 3:16). The mission fields call for us. Will we extend the hand of Christian love to Juniors in other lands?

Send all society problems which you would like to have discussed to your news editor, Miss Grace Allhouse, 3326 S. Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind., and they will be referred to one who knows the ins and outs of C. E. for the ages found in your society.

What can we do to get our members to attend the business meetings?

First make the meetings so interesting that they will want to attend.

The president should have the business of meeting planned, thought out, and most of all prayed out. He should have the items of business well arranged. Make the business meeting lively and interesting.

The president should take his office seriously, as a trust from the Lord, and preside in a dignified manner, realizing that he is doing his best for the Master.

The president should see in advance that each officer has his report written out ready to present at the meeting. Have it read and filed.

The chairman of each committee should also have a written report ready to present giving the activities of the committee for the past month. The best society president ever in office can not make the society a success without the cooperation of everyone of his officers, backed up by every member of the society.

Have some special attraction in the way of county or state C. E. officer to give you an inspirational talk, your pastor perhaps; a special musical treat; a surprise of something so everyone will want to come to the meeting to know what you are going to spring next.

As a last resort, if you are unable to get a good representative attendance at your business meeting, follow the business meeting with a social hour, serving light refreshments, or a regular social, the social superintendent having charge. Thus you should be able to get a full attendance at your business meeting.

Is the business meeting just for the officers, or the members themselves?

No, business meetings are not just for officers. If so how would the society as a whole know of the aims of the society? How would you elect your officers without a business meeting?

Officers should have cabinet or executive meetings. whatever the locality calls such meetings, to talk over business matters and arrange for the regular business meeting of the whole society.

If the society has a superintendent he should be present at cabinet meeting and guide the outlines of the business meeting, and of course be present and serve as a guiding hand in the society business meeting.

Have posters made and posted announcing the business meeting.

Announce the meeting in C. E. prayer meetings so everyone will surely know of it and have no excuse for not coming. If you have a church calendar have the secretary see that an announcement is printed in it the Sunday before. If no calendar, perhaps you can get your pastor to announce it from the pulpit. You can not announce it too much or too often. In these busy days of school and office there are so many things that crowd out the more important things, so you must be wiser than the people of the world and attract the attention of the young people by keeping it before them at every opportunity.

A. H. KENT, Vice President.

LIGHT ON TRUTH

THE DAY OF MIRACLES IS NOT PAST

By Bernard Schneider

A young husband and father received Christ and was wonderfully saved and changed. Before his conversion he had been living in sin, often arriving home on Saturday nights, drunk, and with the week's earning all but gone. At such times his children would hide from him, and his sweet Christian wife would have to suffer his abuse. Often they suffered want because of his drinking, but his wife kept on praying for him until her prayers were answered and their home was completely transformed.

About a year after his conversion this young man happened to meet one of his former partners in sin, a hardened sceptic about the Bible. Thinking that he would have some sport with the young Christian, the sceptic asked him concerning his faith in Christ.

"Say," he asked, 'you do not mean to tell me that you believe the Bible. How about that silly story of Adam, and God making him a wife from one of his ribs. You do not really believe that, do you?' "The young man knew of no fitting remark, but simply said, "Yes, it is in the Bible, and I believe it." The sceptic laughed and continued his attack.

"How about the story of Jonah and the whale, you don't believe that, do you?"

"Again, the young man was hard pressed for a reasonable answer, but he repeated, "Yes, it is in the Bible, and I believe it."

There now was a victorious grin on the sceptic's face when he said, "Let me ask you one more question. How about this Jesus Christ of yours? You are not quite so silly as to believe all the Bible says about Him, are you? You don't believe that He took ordinary water, said a few words and made good wine out of it, do you?"

The young man felt a little embarrassed. What could he say? Suddenly his face brightened. His voice grew a little excited when he answered, "Say, you don't believe that Jesus could take ordinary water and make wine out of it, but if you will come home with me, I will show you a greater miracle than that. I will show you how Jesus took a lot of whiskey and beer and turned it into beautiful furniture for my home, and rosy cheeks for my wife and children."

"Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new" (2 Cor. 5:17).

FIRST FRUITS OF EASTER OFFERING

As these editorials are being written, reports are coming in which cause great joy to our hearts. In spite of many adverse conditions in the work of the Brethren Church just now, yet we have reason to believe that we will have one of the finest Easter offerings our Society has ever received. It surely will be such if the firstfruits reported to us is a safe criterion by which to judge the rest of the offering yet to be reported.

Here are some of the first reports:

Eld. A. V. Kimmel, Pastor of First Church, Philadelphia, says:

"Our offering is well over $2,000, which was about our goal this year; and I think it will run to about $2,200. We praise the Lord for that, as we raised over $3,000 a few weeks ago on our building project."

From that little church seven miles east of Berne, Indiana—positively the finest country church for its size in which we have ever been—comes a report from its pastor, Eld. John Parr:

"We took our Easter offering yesterday. It was over $800. Don't know how much we will be able to still add to it. Hope it will be $1,000."

From Eld. Albert L. Flory, pastor of the little Mission in San Diego, California, scarcely a year old and struggling hard now with a building program, comes the following message:

We expect to reach our goal of $300."

Eld. J. W. Hathaway, one of our African missionaries at home on furlough, and at present serving temporarily as the pastor of the little flock in Fillmore, California, (their pastor being ill) writes:

"Our offering in cash yesterday was about $200. This, of course, will be increased before June."

Even the little Mission at Bellflower, California, struggling under greater adversities than any other congregation on the Pacific Coast, sends word that

"$114.04 in cash came in for our Foreign Mission Offering last Sunday."

The "baby" church of our brotherhood, just a few weeks old—in Wooster, Ohio, reports $90.00 as its first Easter Offering. (Must be a lusty youngster!)

Our good Brother James S. Cook, Pastor of the flock in Dallas Center, Iowa, says:

"While our Easter Offering was not as large as we had hoped, still it is the largest in the history of the church, except once when Mary Emmert turned in the year's salary. The first Sunday (Easter morning) we raised $204. Then, there was some other came in since. We wanted at least $300. It may go to $250; I hope so, at least."

The First Church in Elkhart, Indiana, proves its confidence in one of our very finest missionaries in Africa, Miss Florence Bickel, by once again sending $400 for her allowance during the coming year.

The irrepressible Leo Polman, holding the fort—yes, Fort Wayne, Indiana—informs us:

"Our offering here Easter day, cash and pledges, amounted to $563, and not all has yet come in. We feel that our goal for $600 will be met, and undoubtedly we shall go over this considerably. This no doubt will be our largest contribution to Foreign Missions given any time in the history of this church. It made our people to rejoice, and I am sure much good will be forthcoming as a result of this giving."

Our church in Dayton, Ohio, R. D. Barnard, Pastor proves that it is anything but discouraged, as the following paragraph in a letter from the pastor declares:

"We had a great Easter day, services were well attended. 742 in Sunday School, with some less than 500 in the morning worship and about 300 at night. Our Foreign Mission offering was something over $600 in cash, with about $200 of accumulations in treasures, over $100 in Sunday School offerings, and over $150 in pledges; so that the offering right now is considerably over $1,000. We hope it will be very, very much more; and we believe it will be."

From the old home church of one of our new missionaries, Miss Ruth Snyder—the Conemaugh (Pa.) Church, William H. Schaeffer, Pastor—comes the report that up to date their offering totals $877.90. They have designated $500 of this for Miss Snyder's personal outfit.

From Winchester, Virginia, the pastor, Norman Uphouse, reports:

"Our mission offering, taken last Sunday, amounted to $300. We are happy to report this is $50.00 more than our goal."

This little congregation last year nearly doubled their offering of the previous year, and this year again they have made a substantial increase over last year of nearly $75.00. That's fine, we'll say!

Again, Kenneth Ashman reports from Mundy's Corner that, up until Easter Sunday, $214.50 had come in; and he says: "We expect to go over the $300. Praise the Lord!"

Paul R. Bauman, pastor of the Second Brethren Church of Los Angeles, phones us that their offering on Easter Sunday was over $1,600 and that they hope to reach their goal of $2,000 before the end of the fiscal year. (That church is surprising to the natives!)

The Long Beach Church, with an offering on Easter day in the neighborhood of $7,000, most of which was cash, hopes to again go over the $10,000 mark ere the sun sets on June 30, 1940.

Fine offerings are being received from individuals throughout all our Brethren churches. How we do thank our Heavenly Father for the assurance that comes to us in these first reports that the finest

PRaise YE THE LORD!

As we were writing the final editorials for this issue of our Foreign Missionary Number of The Brethren Missionary Herald, a letter came to us from the Executive Committee of the Brethren Home Missions Council, Ind., informing us that before their Thanksgiving offering was taken they asked the Lord for $22,000. In answer to this prayer they have received to date $22,775.75. Praise ye the Lord!

However, when the Council held its annual meeting at Winona Lake last August, 10 different mission points were to be assisted from their budget. Since that time, field after field has opened for larger service for the Council—fields offering rich opportunities for The Brethren Church. These calls indicate that the blessing of God is certainly resting upon the work the Council is doing, for God gives opportunities as well as money.

To try and answer at least some of the appeals from new fields of endeavor, the Council may have to call upon the brotherhood for some additional funds before the next Thanksgiving offering is taken. Either that, or they must refuse to heed the appeal.

Personally, The Foreign Missionary Society is sympathetic with the idea of an extra special appeal this year. In the final analysis, more Brethren churches means more assistance in the great work of making Christ known to all the nations of the earth.

MISS SNYDER SPENDS EASTER DAY AT HOME

Miss Ruth Snyder spent Easter Day in her old home church in Conemaugh. From what we have heard they had a great day of fellowship together. Ruth is finishing her course in Grace Theological Seminary, and will be leaving for Africa soon. She is scheduled to be one of a party of outgoing missionaries which will include three new missionaries and probably six missionaries returning from furlough.

The Conemaugh church voted $500 from its treasury as a gift toward Miss Snyder's personal outfit—a real evidence of esteem for a girl that has grown up within that church! The Conemaugh church has furnished a good deal of money in years past and gone for our foreign mission work; but Miss Snyder is its first offering in flesh and blood. And an offering in flesh and blood surpasses any offering that can be made in gold and silver.

We understand that Miss Snyder brought a brief but "marvelous message with her testimony" at the service on Easter Sunday. What a fine addition to our forces in Africa Miss Ruth Snyder will certainly prove to be. She has a real missionary spirit and is conscious of the tremendous responsibility that is resting upon her shoulders as she goes forth to be an ambassador for Jesus Christ in one of the most needy lands in all the world. Here is a mission under God to help heal "the open sore of the world." God bless you, Ruth!

A REAL NEED FOR PRAYER

A perusal of the paragraphs from Dr. Taber's letters, especially the one touching upon the tremendous opportunities which now are confronting our African missionaries, while at the same time they are confronting a tremendous dearth of missionaries, should certainly call all Brethren people to their knees. If ever we needed to prevail in prayer, it is now. And the thing for which we should pray most just now is that in some way or other God may enable us to secure passage for the nine missionaries in the homeland ready to go to their assistance, and also to provide passage for the overworked missionaries whose furloughs are due and even past due, back to the homeland for much needed rest. Miss Tyson just told us that she has received a letter from Africa informing her that a group of missionaries from other missions than our own went to Kribi, fully expecting to secure promised transportation on a certain boat. But officials stepped in ahead of them and took all the quarters. These missionaries are now stranded at Kribi waiting and praying for some group of missionaries that ever served a church is not going to be made to suffer during the coming year because of the follies of the church in the homeland. At least, such is our belief.

These first fruits give us courage at this time to say to our missionaries on furlough in the homeland, and to the new missionaries under appointment: "Get your passports and secure your passage. Jehovah-Jireh is the name of the God you serve."

way to get home. But God is able; therefore, the call to prayer.

"SEND US SOME COMEDIANS"

The editor has served on several Foreign Mission Boards in his lifetime. On our own denominational board we have been sitting now for nearly 40 years. We have had requests of every sort under the sun from missionaries. We had thought they could ask for nothing more, but here's a new one! And it could only come out of the fertile brain of our own Dr. Floyd W. Taber. Yes, here it is: "Send us some comedians"!

And Taber means that. He is not joking. He probably feels very lonely. Absolutely, if a missionary is to stand up under the tremendous pressure that falls upon the human heart in the heathen darkness of Africa, a good strong "funny-bone" will help him tremendously in standing up under that pressure. A strain of humor, in the mind of the writer, is quite essential in the makeup of a missionary for the African field. And if any staid old owl wants to criticize us now for expressing this view, we want to remind said "wise old bird" that it was the Holy Spirit Himself who inspired Solomon to write: "A merry heart doeth good like a medicine" (Prov. 17:22). "A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance; but by sorrow of heart the spirit is broken..... he that is of a merry heart hath a continual feast" (Prov. 15:13,15).

If it had not been for Solomon's "merry heart," he certainly would have died long before he did! Think of those "700 wives" and "300 concubines" (I Ki. 11:34)!

Don't miss Taber's "Missionary Missives"! They are always fresh, unique, interesting, pointed, and helpful!

"PRAISE" FOR AND "PRAYER" ASKED FOR JOBSON

The editor does not believe he is revealing any confidential correspondence in letting the members of The Foreign Missionary Society "in on" the following paragraphs of Taber's latest letter. It also sets forth causes for praise and reasons for prayer. Dr. Taber says:

"The Lord is blessing us wonderfully. Those who have been on the field much longer than I, say there is more evangelistic zeal and activity than there has been for a long time. From new villages that have been scarcely touched, as well as from villages that have long been considered as gospel hardened, come urgent calls for workers. If our forces were doubled right now, we still would have to let a lot of the calls go unheeded. There are no longer any restrictions or difficulties to limit our activities in any way."

The Field Council meetings are getting gooder and gooder. The board chose a new field superintendent, but the Lord gave us the exceedingly above—a spiritual leader..... I marvel constantly at the graces the Lord gives him in filling his new position. Dr. Gribble has said truly that the Lord is working gloriously in developing spiritual lives among us. This is certainly true of Brother Jobson. So we praise the Lord for preparing the man just when there was the need. But no man is 'sufficient for these things' unless he is upheld constantly in prayer. I doubt whether any of us, even on the field, fully understand the attacks of which the leader of our work is the object. The devil has not lost any of his wiles. If he can neither derail nor side-track a man, he switches him onto a branch line and whispers in his ear, 'Full steam ahead! You are the only one on the right track!'

What a tragedy if any of us should fail to give Brother Jobson the prayer support he needs!

ALONG "THE HIGHWAYS AND HEDGES"

Mrs. Gribble under date of Feb. 24 writes:

"At present I am alone on the station with Ada and the children. Floyd (Taber) is preaching along the Bozoum road, Mary (Emmert) along the Bambia road. Doubtless all of our missionaries who can are out in itinerant preaching this dry season. We do not have definite news from Bekoro and Bouca, but we know Estella (Myers) and Mabel (Crawford) have been out a great deal; and the Jobsons are even now on the road. Sheldons have been at Bossongoa for two weeks or more. Miss Bickel is coming soon from Bellevue to nurse Mrs. Taber. In the dry season, as you know, itinerant preaching is at its height. We are all anxious to be out, but of course, cannot all leave the station at once.....

We are wondering how your health is. Some of us have been marvelously sustained throughout the years. Is it not because of the marvelous goodness of God? Remember me to inquiring friends."

Surely we cannot accuse our missionaries of failing to manifest a spirit of real evangelism. "And the Lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that My house may be filled" (Lk. 14:23). Verily, our missionaries are literally taking the Lord at His word and are doing this very thing. What a wonderful thing it will be at the marriage supper of the Lamb to sit down amidst a people clothed in His beauty, that will have been won through our instrumentality. God bless our missionaries in Africa out along the highways, byways, and hedges, gathering together the jewels for His crown of glory in that day!

"LOYALTY"?

In "A Statement from the Board of Trustees of the Foreign Missionary Society of the Brethren Church," which was sent to all the members of the Foreign Missionary Society of the Brethren Church we made the statement that "The Park Street Brethren Church of Ashland—the college church—last year gave just $12.00 to the work of the Society. And this $12.00 was contributed by three individual members."

In The Brethren Evangelist dated Apr. 6, 1940, Eld. C. F. Yoder, pastor of the college church, replies to this statement by saying that "The $12.00 sent in for foreign missions last year was only a small fraction of the amount given." This statement becomes exceedingly interesting, in view of the fact that the college church contains the leadership of the group in The Brethren Church that loudly professes "loyalty" to all "Brethren institutions" of The Brethren Church.

Now, so far as we know, the standing of the Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church, as an institution within The Brethren Church, has not yet been challenged. It has held that place for 40 years—ever since its organization. Now comes the pastor of the supreme head of the "Loyalty Group" to inform us that "The $12.00 sent in for foreign missions last year was only a small fraction of the amount given." To what other foreign missionary organization has this "loyal" church been giving its foreign mission offerings? And is this to be considered its idea of "loyalty to Brethren institutions"? Indeed, if $12.00 is only a "small fraction of the amount given" to foreign missions last year by the college church, it becomes a matter of exceedingly great interest to The Foreign Missionary Society to know just to whom this money last year was paid. Will Brother Yoder please furnish us a report more IN DETAIL?

REDEDICATION OF BALOA CHAPEL

By Mrs. Orville D. Jobson

Twelve years ago money was given by one of our missionaries to build a chapel at one of the largest villages in Karre Land. The chapel was planned and built by different missionaries with the help of the natives and the chief in charge of the village. The past year we noticed the old structure was beginning to crumble and looked as though it needed attention, but who was to do the building and pay for the necessary material? The two Christian workers in charge are not receiving any remuneration from the mission, and the offering each Sunday is small. John Noetimo, our faithful evangelist from the Bassai field, came to their aid and volunteered his service, and he with a few faithful Christians built a very neat little chapel—a real indigenous piece of work which is worthy of commendation; and we do praise the Lord for this building and place of worship.

Saturday morning Mr. Jobson, Roger and I, returned from an itineration trip and came to Baloa for the dedication of the chapel, Sunday morning. By eight o'clock the chapel was filled and many had to sit on the outside. Jean had charge of the opening exercises and the message was given by Mr. Jobson. At the close of the service Jean asked if there were any who would like to rededicate their lives to the Lord. One after another stood to their feet, confessing the many different kinds of sin that they had committed, and stated their desire to return to the Lord. Some confessed to worshipping idols, and said that they wanted to burn them. So after the service they brought the different idols and a bonfire was made, and the idols went up in smoke, while the Christians praised the Lord and sang "Glory to His Name" to the One Who is all sufficient for every need.

Voices

Miss Mabel Crawford, Bassai, Fr. Equ. Africa

Listen! Do you hear it,
As it rolling surges roar?
'Tis the voice of Africa's sorrow
Rising ever, o'er and o'er.

Listen! Do you hear it?
Do you catch each single tone?
Can you hear each plaintive echo,
Standing out, as though alone?

Listen! Do you hear it?
'Tis a heathen woman's wail.
There before her lies her baby.
In death's grip, so cold, so pale.

Listen! Do you hear it?
'Tis a widow's hopeless sigh.
Has she not an evil spirit?
Then, she surely, too, must die!

Listen! Do you hear it?
'Tis an old man's feeble moan
As he's borne without the village.
There, in fear, to die alone.

Listen! Do you hear it?
'Tis a strong man's bitter grief.
Had there been someone to help her,
His wife might have found relief.

Listen! Do you hear it?
'Tis the orphan's plaintive cry.
Now, without the love of mother,
No one cares if he does die!

Listen! Do you hear it?
'Tis the young child's eager plea.
In your schoolroom, in your classes,
Can you not make place for me?

Listen! Do you hear it?
'Tis the throbbing of a drum,
Beating out in mournful rhythm
Africa's woe and bitter gloom.

Listen! Do you hear it?
Hear a voice above the din
As it softly, gently questions,
"Who will go, some soul to win?"

Listen! Yes, I hear it!
And my heart with joy doth thrill
As I whisper, oh, so humbly,
"Here, Lord, send me where you will."

AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

By Miss Ruth E. Snyder

It was my unique privilege to be born into a true Christian home. Throughout all our lives, my parents have continually encouraged their children to follow our Lord in all things. They did not send us to church—they took us. My earliest memory is of going to sleep in church with my head on my mother's lap!

Another distinct memory of those days is of my father as he read to me the letters which Dr. Gribble was then writing for Marguerite. To my amazement, when I had grown older and read these same letters in booklet form, I invariably knew "what would happen next." Such was my earliest acquaintance with missionaries.

At the age of nine, I accepted the Lord in our own church in Conemaugh, Pa. A few days later I was baptized in the same church. At that time "church" to me was the Brethren Church at Conemaugh. Although my ideas of church have grown since then, I am still partial to that church and people.

Immediately after accepting the Lord, I told my mother that I wanted to be a missionary. However, I soon brushed this aside with other ambitions, none of which were wrong; but they were not the will of my Lord for me.

At the age of 16, I graduated from high school. That fall I went to Ashland College. Four years later I graduated with an A.B. degree.

The next few years I spent at home. They were busy years—teaching Sunday School, singing in the choir, attending S.M.M. and C.E., and part of the time teaching school. But through them all there was a restless desire to submit to the will of the Lord. This I finally did; and since then, I have known Him as never before.

The last three years I have been busy and happy in seminary. Soon, the Lord willing, I shall be in that great work to which I have been called. My only desire is that the will of our Lord for my life may be completely fulfilled in me.

As I go to the field, I wish to keep before me the thought of III John 7, "For his name's sake they went forth." I marvel at the privilege that is mine as a Christian to carry forth that name that is above all names. Pray for me that I fail not.

MENINGITIS THREATENS MISSIONARIES

The very last word from Africa, an airmail letter, dated March 9th, from Superintendent Orville D. Jobson to Dr. L. S. Bauman, informs us of the serious situation that confronts them in the recent spreading of the epidemic of meningitis. Jobson says:

"This terrible and fatal disease has been raging in Northern French Equatorial Africa for a number of years, but has not until this year reached us. Last year there were over 500 deaths in the Subdivision of Baiboloum, and that was getting very near. But this year we have it right here in our midst. The military doctors are putting up a brave fight and I believe are gaining ground. Thousands of preventative injections were given, and it has stayed the disease definitely in a certain section of the field. So far the Lord has been gracious to us, and we will appreciate the prayers of the Brotherhood that God will continue to protect not only missionaries but native Christians as well."

As we believe that God answers prayers, let us lay hold upon Him with that fervent prayer that even avails in behalf of our missionaries, that are out there in the wilds of heathen Africa, that they may be kept from this plague.

FACTS REGARDING ROSARIO

By Eld. Clarence L. Sickel,
Superintendent Brethren Missions in Argentina

As far back as we can remember in our connection with The Foreign Missionary Society, it has ever been a question in the mind of The Foreign Mission Board whether The Brethren Church should establish mission churches in the large cities of Argentina. It was attempted in Buenos Aires, but due to the fact that the expense was going to be greater than the Society could meet, it was discontinued. Several years passed, and again the Mission Board was brought face to face with another city project, this time in Rosario.

Brother Percy L. Yett had been appointed director of the Bible Coach work. As it made little difference where his family was located, and as he was facing the problem of educating his children, he selected the city of Rosario because of educational opportunities. During visits to his family, and during the months when the Bible Coach could not be in the field, he visited among the people, gathering together a little group of Brethren who had moved there from Rio Cuarto and other points. They met for Bible Study, and in time others were added to the group. The meetings were carried on, even in the absence of Brother Yett, by some of the brethren, but at no time was it a flourishing work. Brother Yett and the believers there were anxious for a permanent work and support from the Mission Board. Being convinced that something could be accomplished with a full time worker—it being impossible for Brother Yett to believe there were anxious for a permanent work—we were asked to go to Rosario upon the return of Brother Yett and family to the United States.

At that time Mrs. Sickel was in ill health and needed medical help and a change of climate. As the move to Rosario would be a good one for her and would give us the opportunity to try out the field, the Mission Board felt it a wise move.

Our first problem was to find a suitable hall for preaching purposes. As we combed that section of Rosario where the previous hall was located without finding anything suitable, we realized that if a permanent work was to be established, it would be necessary to purchase a lot and build. Investigation proved that property was very high and would mean the outlay of a large sum of money. The Board's funds were limited. Therefore, it was a question of finding out the need in that city, comparing possibilities there with those in the Province of Cordoba where our district was located. This the Board asked us to do and report to them.

We worked faithfully while located in the city, and as nearly as it was possible to do, we sized up the situation.

No one questioned then, and no one at present questions the possibility of establishing a work in Rosario, or in any other of the large cities, but such is not the important question in the mind of the Mission Board. Due to limited funds, the question that has always been asked by the Board is this: "Is it virgin soil?" That was the question asked me while in Rosario. Could I answer "yes" to this question? I certainly could not and be honest with my Lord, the Mission Board members, yea, every member of The Foreign Missionary Society. The Southern Baptist, Methodist, Plymouth Brethren, Salvation Army were all working in the city, each having from four to seven preaching places in different parts. There were also several undenominational mission halls.

The time having arrived for me to report to the Mission Board for their meeting, I wrote giving them the names of the different evangelical bodies and their activities, and giving as my opinion that if the Mission Board wanted to start a Brethren work in Rosario there was certainly an opportunity, but that it was not virgin soil; that any inhabitant who desired to know the truth, who wished to hear the gospel message, had the opportunity to do so; that it was for the Mission Board to decide whether they would use the funds to carry on a work for propagating Brethren teaching, or to teach the unsaved on virgin soil, such as was to be found in our territory in the Province of Cordoba.

Face to face with the facts, the Mission Board—not Sickel—passed the following motion: "Rosario Mission. A motion prevailed that the Board withdraw from the Rosario project immediately" (Official Minutes of April, 1933, Article No. 5) It is somewhat difficult for me to understand how Dr. Yoder could write: "Bro. Sickel had the work for a year and closed it," for he was President of the Advisory Committee at that time and had complete knowledge of these Official Minutes. "Bro. Sickel," being under the employ of the Missionary Society, stationed in the city of Rosario, obeyed the orders of the Foreign Board.

We had come to know and love the Brethren at that place, and it was not an easy thing to pull up stakes and leave them. There was a desire on their part to carry on, and we did everything possible to help them do this. Dr. Yoder states about the Rosario work: "Bro. Garcia reopened it." A more correct word would be "continued" it, for I myself helped him move the benches, and on my return to Rosario at various times, preached in the mission, and did everything possible to encourage them in their efforts. Mrs. Sickel, having remained in Rosario until the close of the school year, continued to assist in the work.

Too, it is well for all to know that every effort was made to encourage the Rosario brethren in their desire to continue on with the work. One of the National workers, Luis Siccardi, volunteered to go over and be their pastor, if he could secure employment, but due to the fact that he was unable to do this, he had to return to Rio Cuarto.

We are exceedingly sorry that circumstances arose which made it impossible for us to continue to cooperate with them. The Rosario brethren certainly are to be commended for their faithfulness and zeal, and we praise God for what they have been able to accomplish for the glory of our Lord.

There is virgin soil in Argentina, and that in our own district in the Province of Cordoba. The Brethren Church, having selected this as her field, is under divine obligation to establish a permanent testimony in every town and small city. I do not mean by that that we must place a pastor in every town, but I do mean that we must so arrange it that there be a permanent testimony established, that it may be possible for every individual to have the opportunity to know the truth. This we have been unable to do because of a lack of workers. There are yet many towns and small cities where weeks and months pass and the gospel message is not heard.

Truly the Mission Board is working wisely in making the effort to get the blessed message of free and full salvation to these priest-ridden people. Though it may not be possible, humanly speaking, to carry out the following, nevertheless there is much truth therein: "No one has a right to hear the gospel message twice until everyone has heard it once."

Brethren, shall we be determined to give the message in our own district first? This done, then there is time to seek new territory. For after all, true missionary spirit does not consist in converting people to one particular creed or to one particular religious body, but to the Lord Jesus Christ. It is already too late for hundreds of thousands in that priest-ridden land. What if their blood should be required at our hands, while we still have the ability to do more than we are doing? Latin America, perhaps more than any other land on the globe, finds herself at the parting of the way, and is asking with all sincerity, "Which way shall I take?" Dare we evade our obligation? Never!

They are in need of the true gospel and we have it; hence the responsibility. With continued faithfulness must the Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church continue to scatter the eternal Seed in the highways and byways, for it is the Word that is quick and powerful and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing into the inner most parts of the soul, bringing forth conviction and repentance unto salvation. The challenge comes to us to give them the word, that they may know the Christ that saves, keeps and satisfies.

LATIN AMERICA

A century has passed since evangelical work was founded in Latin America. During that period churches have been established in the twenty republics, which have a total of 337,714 evangelical communicants and an evangelical community of 1,724,584. Nearly one half of the evangelical communicants and 58% of the evangelical community are in Brazil. Nevertheless, it is estimated, says Mr. K. G. Grubb, that 'one half the population of Latin America — some 60,000,000 — have no reasonable chance of hearing and understanding the gospel message.'—From "World Dominion."

BRETHREN ALL ARE WE

By Charles A. Dickinson

O golden day, so long desired,
Born of a darksome night,
The waiting earth at last is fired
By thy resplendant light.
And hark! like Memnon's morning chord
Is heard from sea to sea
The song: One Master, Christ the Lord,
And brethren all are we!

The noises of the night shall cease,
The storms no longer roar;
The factious foes of God's own peace
Shall vex His church no more.
A thousand thousand voices sing
The surging harmony;
One Master, Christ! One Savior-King!
And brethren all are we!

Sing on, ye chorus of the morn,
Your grand endeavor strain,
Till Christian hearts, estranged and torn,
Blend in the glad refrain.
And all the church, with all its powers,
In loving loyalty,
Shall sing: One Master, Christ, is ours;
And brethren all are we!

O golden day, the ages crown,
A light with heavenly love,
Rare day in prophecy renown,
On to thy zenith move.
When all the world with one accord,
In full-voiced unity,
Shall sing: One Master, Christ our Lord!
And brethren all are we!

Folks who do not believe in missions, usually believe very much in themselves and very little in the Lord.

FOR THEE!

"We give Thee but Thine own,
Whate'er the gift may be;
All that we have is Thine alone,
A trust, O Lord, from thee.
May we Thy bounties thus,
As stewards true receive,
And gladly, as Thou blestest us,
To Thee our first fruits give.
The captive to release,
To God the lost to bring,
To teach the way of life and peace—
It is a Christlike thing.
And we believe Thy Word,
Though dim our faith may be;
Whate'er for Thine we do, O Lord,
We do it unto Thee."

"THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS" . . . OR MOONLIGHT GOSPEL SERVICES IN AFRICA

By J. P. Kliever, Bekoro, Oubangui-Chari, French Equatorial Africa

The morning before the night before Christmas dawned. Not a flake of snow, not a particle of frost, not a drop of dew, and hardly the hint of an early morning haze in the sky was seen. It was calm and quiet, the birds even hushing in their usual morning serenade to welcome the Sunday morning before Christmas in Western tropical Africa.

We were prepared for a great day, and expected to see close to 500 or 600 to our services to hear the Christmas story. Having beat the call drum, we were waiting the crowds that usually flock in to hear the Word.

Seven-thirty A.M., and time for church service has arrived. We take a peek at the crowd, and . . . only the few workmen, their wives and children have gathered. Our hearts sink for a minute. But then Rom. 8:28 comes to mind, and looking quickly to the all-sufficient grace of our Lord, we go out to meet with them. While we sing, a few villagers straggle in. We take a check, asking those from the different villages to stand. We find only three villages represented, and others near us have not a single representative!

Quickly come a few thoughts, telling us what might be the reason. Lately the head chief's wife had asked prayer for her boy, because the father wanted him to make sacrifices to the idols, and the mother didn't want him to. Also word had been coming in that two wives of the men — the wives that have accepted Christ as Savior, will not make their idol sacrifices, and since this is the wife's work, there is trouble in the family.

In asking for causes, we found this was one. The big chief had given instructions, left-handed like and indirectly, that there was to be no going to the mission.

It is also cotton picking time, and the village authorities have, as a rule, little respect for Sunday; thus that was also a cause. Usually there would have been at least 500 to services, and now hardly 200 were here. Were we disappointed or discouraged? No. The adversary was playing right into our hand.

We rested a little after service, had the noon meal, and then prepared for a good time in the evening. Thus starts the story. (All this has been more or less of an introduction).

At 4:00 P.M. I filled the canteen with water, filled the tires on my iron horse (the bicycle that the Boy's Brotherhood got for me), and after munching a sandwich, I started out.

I started for a village about six miles from the station. The road is very rough for about half the way, and sandy in many places. After a half hour of peddling and puffing I arrived, and the villagers were already back from work. They gathered around, and I told them the simple Christmas story of how Jesus came, why He came, and that they could own Him today as Savior. Some found Christ as Savior on the night before Christmas. I started back home. It was now heavy twilight, as at 6:00 P.M. it gets dark in Africa. By the time I reached the next village on the way home, the moon was shining brightly, light enough to read by!

I rang the bicycle bell. Some children came. I asked them to tell the villagers that the man with a message from God was there. A large crowd gathered as if by magic and sat in a deep, almost complete circle around me. We sang several songs, and even in the singing of these songs, we sensed that hallowed Presence. After a time of witnessing, and hearing a few testimonies, we prepared to go to the next village.

There was quite a sandy stretch to cross, so I put on my electric light. I had been going without a light in the bright moonlight. Just as the light went on, some startled animal stampeded through the brush. What was it? Your guess is as good as mine. It was heavier than a dog, and not as heavy as an elephant. Was it after me? I don't know, and it doesn't matter, as nothing shall come to me but that which our Heavenly Father shall allow through His loving hand.

Arriving at the next village, I aroused several that were sleeping outside on a straw mat. They couldn't talk Sango, but I got them to understand that I would like to tell them of Jesus, and that if they would get me an interpreter, we would go ahead.

The one in charge of the village arrived, and another large crowd gathered to hear the story; and some more decisions were made for Christ. The moon was by now almost in the midst of the heavens. After praying with them, saying good-bye we went on to another village. I was tired from preaching three times in about that many hours, and bicycling some besides. But praying for a little more strength, on we went on our iron steed and pulled into the next village. I asked if all were in bed, and nearly a hundred surrounded me, and again we told the blessed Christmas story. This is quite a hard village—A kind of a ganster village of the old days—but they listened with good attention, and after prayer we wearily started for home.

We wanted to go to another village, but it was across a valley and across a sandy stretch and swamp, and we felt that we would be a little too tired to do a real work there tonight. We arrived home, four and a half hours after leaving. We traveled 20 kilometers by bike, preached one sermon at twilight, and three by moonlight. Felt rich from the blessing of these services, but spent, physically.

Now here is where Rom. 8:28 comes in. By going out to the villages, we reached over 100 more than would have come, and we have four villages that we expect to reach at moonlight tonight, thus almost doubling the number of hearers of the Christmas message. O, the joy of witnessing to the Light of the world, be it by sunlight or moonlight in what is called dark Africa.

MISSIVES FROM OUR MISSIONARIES

An echo from the African Field Council, which met at Bassai station, Dec. 4-12, 1939, comes from Mrs. Orville D. Jobson:

"We had a blessed conference during the holidays with our native workers. Many of them are not receiving any income from their chapels, but that seems to be secondary to them. Truly, they are real soul lovers and winners....."

"The Lord is answering prayer in such wonderful ways, in that new fields of labor are being opened and new tribes are simply begging us to come to them with the gospel. How we wish we could be in ten places instead of one, but the Lord knows our limitations."

Jobson, writing from Bozoum (F.E.A.) to Hathaway on Jan. 23, 1940, gave some information concerning which a number of questions have been asked us. We quote:

"What you say in your letter concerning travel is now somewhat outdated, and you will have already learned that the American boats are again taking passengers for the West coast. Some American missionaries have also arrived via Lisbon and Portuguese West Africa. So there seems to be a loosening up.

"I presume others have written you that things are about to normal again. For how long? We hope until the Lord enables us to take the message of salvation from sin to all the remaining villages. All cars are again back in our hands. Gas is obtainable according to our need, and we are again making chapel visitation trips. None of the evangelistic work has been hindered, and we enjoy the favor of the administration along all lines. We have a great deal to be thankful for .....

"We have recently sent Noel to Bajbokoum to spend six months there teaching the group which has been calling for a teacher now for two years. We hope in that time to get some who are sincere and earnest closer to the Lord, and prepare the way for a real indigenous work there....."

"I am swamped these days with work, as you know full well. But with so many prayers being offered for us, we feel strengthened for the task. The Lord is sufficient, and He will meet every need. He has never failed, and I know He will not fail now."

Chauncey Sheldon, stationed at Bossangoa (F.E.A.) wrote in a letter to Hathaway, dated Jan. 14, as follows:

"You can see that we are at Bossangoa. We are here for a couple weeks of teaching and getting the catechism classes started again. We had a good service in the church this morning, and I might say that two buildings were filled and a third service was held outside for the overflow. There were also some 10 babies dedicated to the Lord at the close of the service. We are thankful to have this little house to stay in when we come....."

"As to means of travel to Africa, we are not much informed either. We have been trying to gather information, which is very sparse. There is communication to the coast..... We don't know just where we will be able to get off, as we have wanted to know what the prospects were for getting back before leaving and whether there would be others to replace us. Government officials are staying over time, and we thought for our Lord we should be willing to stay over also when there was an emergency. We would like to get off around June if the Lord opens up the way."

Mrs. Chauncey Sheldon, in a letter to Mrs. Hathaway, dated Jan. 13, 1940, furnishes some further information with regard to the matter of missionaries' furloughs, and we know that many are interested. We quote:

"As to our furlough, we don't expect to leave until we know someone else can get out..... Of course we hope to come home in June or July (or leave here) so as to get Kenneth in school in September....."

"There is some restriction still on gas, but not nearly so much as before. There aren't many to replace the missionaries due for furlough now. Our furlough was due a few days ago....."

"About three weeks ago Mrs. Camp and Miss Hous-tin passed through with Mr. Pearson on their way home. We heard since that they were unable to get passage on the Italian steamer and were awaiting the American boat, which they say is going to take passengers again."

The highways and byways in the great heart of Africa are not altogether unlovely, even if the human beings that dwell along them sometimes are. Miss Crawford, stationed at Bassai, Oubangui - Chari, French Equatorial Africa, has been doing a bit of itinerating with Miss Myers, and finds it an agreeable change from her arduous tasks in the schoolroom. While reading her letter we recalled the words of the apostle Paul: "No man goeth to warfare at his own charge." However, perhaps the native pastors of Africa come nearer doing that very thing than any of us within the homeland. We quote from Miss Crawford's letter:

"These are exceedingly busy days here. Miss Myers and I are in the throes of housecleaning. It really is some job. I had this room whitewashed yesterday, but they did such a poor job that the whitewash is peeling already. Think I'll order some kalsomine and be done with whitewashing for the rest of this term. We had enough kalsomine to do the bedroom and dining room, and it looks so nice that I'm more discontented than ever with whitewash; yet my conscience condemns me to feel like that when we really have such comfortable living conditions. What difference should a bit of peeling whitewash make?"

Since I wrote last we have had two bush trips. We hope to get in much village work this dry season. I have turned most of my teaching over to a native monitor, to allow me time for other things. Four weeks ago Estella and I left on our first trip, going out into the mountain district to the West of Bassai. Everywhere we found the people thirsty for the gospel and wanting to learn to read the Word. We had a wonderful trip. I especially enjoyed the scenery. Perhaps some people think a missionary shouldn't have time to think about the beauties of nature, but I just drink them in. I don't think I could stand some of the sordidness of Africa if I didn't soak up all the beauty I can. Many times I wished for more than one pair of eyes and ears. We climbed mountains of almost solid rock, crossed rivers on swinging bridges, and smaller streams on rickety log affairs that were shameless enough to call themselves bridges. When even that was lacking, we had to be carried by the natives. Especially does water appeal to me, and I enjoyed to the full the babbling brooks, the rushing mountain torrents, and the musical falls. One morning we travelled along a path bordered with a short fine grass that had gone to seed and turned a golden brown. There was a heavy dew, for which the grass made an ideal background. The rays of the rising sun danced upon it and transformed the whole into a magical carpet of diamonds. For almost a half hour I could scarcely take my eyes from it, and almost feared to breathe for fear some enchantment would be broken. I hated to see it all disappear before the power of old Sol. I would hesitate to describe such things to many people, but having seen you sit entranced on the edge of Bryce Canyon, I know that you have eyes for Natures pictures too.

Our trip was very hard because we had so much hard climbing and rocky walking, but it was a very worthwhile one. After we came home a church council meeting was held and eight new workers were sent out into that district. We are asking the Lord to give us at least 1000 new readers this year who will be able to read the Word of God in their own language. Each teacher that goes out now is armed with a set of alphabetical flash cards with which he can teach the syllables and put his people on the road to reading. And is it some job to print all those flash cards? Estella and I have made about 50 sets in the last three weeks and still have not reached the end. We print them on cardboard or heavy paper about four inches square with purple ink. At the same church council meeting a number of workers were chosen for the Eastern part of our field, so after a week in here at the station, we started out again and covered that part of our field, dropping off these new workers as we went along.

Remember to pray for all these volunteer workers who have gone out. They go out with no support from the station and trusting the Lord to supply their every need. How thankful we are that the Bassai church and all its outchapel work has been weaned from mission funds. Of course, the fact that our workers get no salary does not prevent our giving them an occasional gift, helping them with their taxes, etc., when we see they are worthy of it. How much better that is than to have them serving the Lord for the gain they get from it. Unfortunately Christian workers here, like at home, are sometimes out for the biggest salary they can get, but Bassai has been freed from that, since all workers have been taken off mission funds and receive just what their local church gives them."

Dr. Floyd W. Taber, in a letter that arrived from the Field very much belated, has some interesting remarks to make about the tremendous need upon the Field and the tremendous pressure upon the missionaries that are now holding the fort in Africa. Here is what he has to say:

"You will be interested in hearing how the work goes here in these troublous times.

"Before the outbreak of hostilities, some of us were afraid our work would be very much restricted by regulations, by requisition of property, possibly even by calling on some of the missionaries for personal services. And, during the necessary period of adjustment several mission autos were called for. But as soon as government services had time to get organized on a war-time basis all were released. They still reserve the right to call on us in emergencies, but as the situation becomes more and more stabilized emergencies become rare. At present every missionary and every mission car is in his place, on the full-time job of preaching the Gospel.

"Opportunities for an advance in the work were never so favorable. There is not the slightest restriction. Personally, I have not had such a long period for regular work with so few interruptions since coming to the field. The Spirit is moving over the entire field. Not only in the new posts of Bouca-Batangafo, Bocaranga, and Bemiller are masses turning to the Lord; but the old Gospel-hardened Karre are pleading on all sides for village schools to teach their children to read the soon-to-appear New Testament in their own language; and the ear of faith can hear a stirring of the Spirit even among the Banoun.

"Opportunity is knocking. Will we have the necessary forces to keep the doors open? I am not talking about entering new fields that are ripe to the harvest. I am talking about just holding our own. We now have six posts occupied by missionaries. And when the spring furlough parties leave we will have exactly twelve missionaries—just two for each post. Can it be done?

"In what consists the work of keeping a post open? Take one as an example. It will be occupied by two inexperienced missionaries. It includes:

- A hospital;
- A French school;
- A vernacular school for children;
- A vernacular school for adults;
- A school for training evangelists in vernacular;
- A school for training prospective evangelists in Sango;

The responsibility for evangelizing all villages on 450 miles of roads and bush paths;

The nurture of twelve infant churches, besides the one on the station.

"One of the two missionaries who will occupy this post is a housekeeper and a mother, who must take entire responsibility for schooling her own children. The other is a doctor who makes quarterly visits to the other stations of the mission, and is subject to emergency calls within a radius of 250 miles (not to count those outside his own mission).

"Any Applicants for the Job?"

In case you might not suspect it, the upshot of the above is, we need more missionaries; and we need them now. I think I have been more strongly in favor than any other missionary of new candidates spending time in France. But in the present crisis I would not advise waiting a minute for the possibility of their going to France. We need every available candidate who meets other qualifications; French can be gotten later. If Armageddon is in the offing, we must work while it is day."

After reading the above words from Dr. Taber's letter, we cannot refrain from saying that there must be in his heart a very sympathetic understanding of the heart of Jesus in that long ago, when—

"Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd. Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few; Pray we therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest" (Matt. 9:35-38).

DO YOU REALIZE—"Forty million heathen die every year. Every tick of the watch sounds the death knell of a heathen soul. With every breath we draw, four souls perish never having heard of Christ." Your's is the obligation to carry the gospel to these perishing souls.

"The love of money," said the spokesman for God, "is the root of all evil." One thing sure, it is the real source of nearly all opposition to foreign missions. It is not so much less love for missions. It is too much love for the dollar.

Why does God leave any saved soul remain in this world for even 24 hours? It is because we are saved to serve! "I am among you as he that serveth." "Now if any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His" (Rom. 8:9).

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

FOR MAY 19, 1940

SAMUEL, THE LAST OF THE JUDGES

(I Sam. 12:1-15)

Suggestions for the Leader

The story of Samuel is familiar because it is used many times in Sunday Schools. Boys and girls learn of him as the one given to the Lord from birth. It is interesting to note that Eli, who failed with his own boys in their home training was successful with Samuel.

Samuel was in position to be used of the Lord when he said, "Here am I. Speak Lord, for Thy servant heareth." He lived during a time when the people were getting far from God. He was the last of the Judges before king Saul was chosen. We shall always remember Samuel as the judge who had power with God in prayer.

1. Dedicated to God before Birth. I Sam. 1:11.

He came from a family that believed God and lived for Him. This was a great advantage. His home surroundings were favorable to a godly life.

God uses a dedicated life to fill a great need in the nation.

God both fulfilled the desire of a praying woman and used the child to be a blessing to His cause.

2. Obedient to the Voice of God. I Sam. 3:7-21.

Samuel was set apart to the service of the Lord. Nevertheless, he had to make a personal decision too. His first task of telling Eli how God would reject him was hard. God supplied the grace. Anyone called to serve God in the midst of unbelief has a hard task. Obedience in the first things, though hard, will lead to greater things.

3. Samuel as Faithful to a Disobedient People. I Sam. 12:23.

Samuel stood true to God when many about him turned away. Position and authority did not spoil him. Samuel took the problems of Israel direct to God in prayer. He believed that it was a sin to forget to pray for the lost. His faithfulness was seen in his witnessing.

4. Honest in the sight of all men. I Sam. 12:3, 4; Rom. 12:17.

Samuel was in public life for many years and remained true to the public trust. He realized that the meaning of a public trust was far more than for personal gain. How unlike Samuel was from men who make a promise to the people before getting an office but afterwards forget.

Our sincere desire ought to be that of fairness and to be unbiased in judgment and action in all Christian service.

5. Samuel, a Great Intercessor. Jer. 15:1.

Samuel stands next to Moses as an intercessor for the people. He pled for them. He stood between the people and the judgment of God. Intercession brings a blessing to the one who prays and to the one for whom he prays. Though he was rejected of men, he prayed for them. Christ did that on the cross.

Questions

1. How does the dedication of children on the part of the parents influence the life of the person?
2. How are many people helped by intercession?
3. Are we supposed to take a definite stand for God in defense of the truth?
4. Why is it hard for a person to follow the way of God in the midst of unbelief?

Additional Scripture Material

Here are a few sins of omission: lack of thoughts (Psa. 10:4); lack of love (Psa. 142:4; Mat. 22:37-39); lack of words (Ezek. 33:7,8); lack of deeds (Jas. 4:17); lack of knowledge (Isa. 1:3; Hos. 4:6).

JUNIOR-INTERMEDIATE C. E. TOPIC

For May 19, 1940

BIBLE ANIMALS AND HOW GOD USED THEM

Approach to the lesson:

The leader can begin the discussion thus:

Long ago in Bible times, there was no modern machinery to do all the work. So, of course, many types of animals were used. Some helped with the farming; some were beasts of burden; others were raised for food, and to be sold for skins. Today, however, even though we have much machinery, and scarcely see a working animal, we still have many of them. Before we study the animals in the Bible, let's list all we can think of under the following headings:

1. Those used for food.
2. Those used for beasts of burden.
3. Animal pets.
4. Wild animals.
5. Those sold for a livelihood.
6. Those raised for modern sports.

The following topics may be assigned. The person is not to tell how the animal was used in each case, but the group is to guess or tell from the content given.

Example: In 2 Ki. 5:9 we read about Horses. God used them to bring a mighty man to His prophet, that a great miracle of God might be performed, and thus show the power of God over disease.

1. Ass—one of the most common animals mentioned in the Bible and an important part of wealth of the ancients. The ass and the ox were the principal beasts of burden among the Hebrews. Kings, judges, and prophets rode on the large Babylonian ass, an animal of a higher breed, and very spirited. The wild ass is found in droves in desolate places in Asia, and is very shy and swift. Tell the stories of Num. 22:20-35 and Mat. 21:1-11. Can you discover how this animal was used of God?

2. Bear—They were common in Palestine and resembled the common brown bear. They are still found in Galilee, Lebanon, and Mt. Hermon. How did God use this animal in I Sam. 17:33-38?

3. Lion—The most powerful, daring and impressive of all carnivorous animals, very common in Syria in early times; and emblem of strength and valor. To which are compared: God, His judgments, the tribe of Judah, the devil, tyrants and violent oppressors, enemies and evils of all kinds, and pretended difficulties to divert one from his duty. Find the use made of this animal in Judges 14:5-18.

4. Horse—In the early periods of the world, the laboring beasts were chiefly oxen and asses, while horses were used by kings and warriors, either mounted or harnessed to chariots. In Solomon's time, however, horses were common among the Jews. In Rev. 19:11-16 we find what God will use this animal for, and soon, we hope.

5. Sheep—An animal that is valuable for its wool as well as for food. In a domesticated state the sheep is a weak and defenseless animal and is therefore altogether dependent upon its keeper for protection as well as support. To this trait there are several beautiful allusions in the sacred writings.

Jn. 10:1-21 likens the sheep unto a person. What kind of a person is it, and what is done for him?

6. Goat—In ancient times goats were among the chief possessions of rich people. Their flesh and milk were used for food. The goats' hair was used for weaving into cloth and the skins were made into bottles. The goat was used in the sacrifices as the type of Christ. Read about it in Lev. 3:12-17. How did God make use of a ram in Gen. 22:1-14?

Conclusion: If God can make such good use of dumb animals, how much more can he use boys and girls and young people if they are willing to listen to Him, do what He says, and be used of Him. Will you give your heart, life, and body to Him completely for His use?

MONTHLY PRAYER CALENDAR

On their respective birthdays, the names, favorite Scripture verses, and prayer requests of pastors, missionaries, and others in the brotherhood who are prominent in Christian work, will appear under this head. Please see that each member in your society is assigned one of the following names for daily prayer. Assign a different name to each member weekly. If you know of others whose names should have appeared this month, please notify your News Editor at once.

May 6—Rev. R. D. Crees, pastor at Waynesboro, Pa. Phil. 1:21. Requests prayer that many young people may come closer to the Lord through our summer camps this year.

May 7—Miss Grace Byron, missionary to Africa now on furlough. Requests prayer that the Lord will provide the way to return to Africa, it being possible at present to secure passports and boat passages only through Him; that her health will continue to improve; and that the Lord will use her in the winning of many souls and use her to His glory.

May 9—Mrs. Donald F. Carter, wife of pastor at LaVerne, Calif. Not notified of birthday in time to secure requests.

May 21—Jesse Hall, pastor, Bellflower, Calif. Prov. 3:5-6. Birthday not reported in time to secure requests.

May 22—Mrs. Claude H. Pearson, wife of missionary to seamen, San Pedro, Calif. Requests prayer for their work, for more people to back their work by guidance, for continued health to meet the need of prayers and gifts, 2nd for God's blessing upon the thousands of tracts and gospels in 11 languages distributed among sailors entering their harbor from all parts of the world.

May 25—Mrs. R. Paul Miller, wife of the secretary of The Brethren Home Missions Council. Requests prayer that all our churches will avail themselves of the privilege of getting back of our Jewish mission in real earnest, that every husband and wife will start and end each day with God's Word and prayer together to fortify them against the fiery darts of the wicked one; and for a burden for our unsaved loved ones and friends, an old fashioned revival in every heart, and a real love for and blessing upon our young people.

A KIND WORD FOR GRACE THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

From one of the leaders of the Winona Lake Christian Assembly the editor has just received a letter. A paragraph from this letter will be pleasing to all who are giving loyal support to Grace Theological Seminary, to which The Brethren Church is looking for a virile ministry that shall enable it to fulfil its great mission under God, in these last days of our age. We quote:

"We are very happy over the presence of your Grace Theological Seminary. We find the faculty and students very interesting people, and we enjoy their fellowship. We express the hope that the school will grow and that you will build a home on our grounds."

We have not the slightest doubt but that the leaders of Winona Lake Christian Assembly will be more and more pleased, as the days go by, that Grace Theological Seminary, set to bring men to know Christ and to make Him known, is an institution upon their grounds.

“A SURPRISE REVIVAL” is being conducted in the Whittier, Calif., church Apr. 21-May 5. The pastor, C. H. Ashman, is director of personal soul winning. His two sons, Robert Ashman, pastor of the First Brethren Church of Peru, Ind., and Kenneth Ashman, pastor of the Brethren Church of Mundy’s Corner, Pa., are the evangelists. Kenneth is young people’s director and Robert is children’s director. Both brothers will take part in the song-leading.

A VICTORY REVIVAL will begin in the Cleveland church on May 13. Bernard Schneider, pastor of the church at Covington, Va., is to be the evangelist. Pastor Tom Hammers requests prayer for the meetings and adds, “We want to extend a special invitation to our Brethren everywhere to be sure and put Cleveland on their list of places to visit this summer, as we believe that the Lord has given us one of the most beautiful and most practical church settings to be found anywhere in the entire brotherhood.” The Cleveland church has just acquired this property after spending several years without a building of their own.

FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH, Middlebranch, O. The Lord gave real victories in this church recently during a revival meeting conducted by Bro. Tom Hammers. This was true even though the pastor, John M. Aeby was forced to stay home by illness during the meetings. “There were six who publicly confessed Christ as Savior and twelve who rededicated their lives. And apparently the Lord opened the way for a reconciliation of two groups of Brethren in that community, which came about as a result of a church split several years ago.”

FROM BRO. R. D. BARNARD, pastor of our church at Dayton, O.: “We had a most helpful revival with Dr. Bauman and “the Polmans,” and we have had a most blessed time since the revival closed. There were 742 in Sunday School last Sunday (Easter Sunday) and the attendance for several weeks has ranged from 500-550. Worship services have been well attended and we have had decisions for Christ even since the revival closed.

THE SECOND BRETHREN CHURCH, HAGERS-TOWN, MD., has been in the process of an evangelistic meeting Apr. 8-21. Bro. Wm. Clough, pastor of the church of Uniontown, Pa., was the evangelist.

THE FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH OF WAYNES-BORO recently held a reception for members received during the past year. 52 new members were the guests at the reception. Of these, 15 came in regular services and 37 in the recent revival meeting there. This makes a total of 151 new members received during the 2½ years of Bro. R. D. Crees’ pastorate there. On Easter Sunday the Sunday School broke all previous records with 335 in attendance. 231 were present at communion in the evening and $422.00 was received for foreign missions during the day.

BRO. FRED WM. WALTER, pastor of our church at Harrah, Wash., reports the baptism of five, Apr. 14. The foreign missionary offering has climbed to $165.

These soon go forth far from loved ones and home,
Leaving their all for His service alone;
Counting the gain of this world only dross,
Seeking no glory save that of His cross.

These soon go forth into darkness so dense,
Darkness that crushes—a darkness intense;
There in far lands where their Lord is not known,

Gladly to work for His glory alone.

These soon go forth with the story so old,
Reaping a harvest more precious than gold;
Are you, too, faithfully doing your share,
Helping to gather by gifts and by prayer?

These soon go forth—but so many remain
Safely at home,—other honors to gain;
Millions of lost ones who never have heard,
Few—oh, so few, to go forth with His Word.

A CALL TO PRAYER

The above missionaries are all now in the homeland. All are on furlough, except the three "raw recruits," namely, Mr. & Mrs. Robert S. Williams, and Miss Ruth Snyder.

Eleven missionaries make up the largest "outgoing" party that the Foreign Missionary Society has known in all of its history.

From the other side, as these missionaries start out, there will be "starting in" to the homeland at least four of our African missionaries, named below. There is strong probability that there will be also a fifth: namely, Dr. Florence N. Gribble. Some of these have stayed over their time. But they refuse to leave until they are sure that the returning missionaries will be able to get back and man the stations that they are leaving.

The Foreign Board urges that all who still believe in prayer shall lay hold in the "fervent earnest prayer" that moves the God into action, Who, in turn, can command the waves of the sea to obey His will! Ask that immediate transportation can be secured for all across the troubled Atlantic! Pray, brethren, pray!

Mrs. Roosevelt's Religion

For some time it has been fairly well known that the wife of the President is no orthodox Christian, and that she has some strange notions about the general subject of religion which she does not hesitate to air when occasion is presented. Therefore, those acquainted with her views are not surprised at her efforts to speak as an expert in a field of which she apparently knows little. But one of her recent utterances is unusually shocking for its sheer paganism. Referring to an article by the naturalist and author, Mr. Donald C. Peattie, Mrs. Roosevelt says that he has "expressed beautifully something which I have often wanted to say." And the following is the quotation from Mr. Peattie, which she thought was so beautiful:

"May my sons' religion be a reverence for all life. May they judge by this all things that come to them. May they never fail to feel that gratitude for being alive, which is indestructible happiness. May they worship, as the manifest glory of this religion, the natural beauty of the world, and see it through eyes never dimmed by materialism. So, true to an imperishable reality, may they become strong men for any fight, but sure of what they fight for."

All this, of course, is nothing but the baldest kind of pantheism. There is no mention of our Lord, no reference to His revealed Word, not even a hint of a personal God. Instead of calling upon the youth of this country to worship the one true and personal God whose eternal glory became manifest in the Person of Christ, Mrs. Roosevelt calls them to worship "the natural beauty of the world." This is a religion out of the pit of hell itself. If that seems too strong, let the reader study Rom. 1:18-32, where the Apostle Paul writes of the ancient pagan world, "Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature (created thing ARV) more than the Creator" (25). Here we find men doing exactly what Mrs. Roosevelt asks her sons to do—worshipping what God has made instead of the God who made it. And if you want to know the end of men who practice such religion, read the rest of the chapter and you will shudder at the unspeakable degradation to which this kind of religion brought the ancient world at last.

Now it is bad enough for any mother to commend such a religion to her own sons, but when the First Lady of the land through her syndicated newspaper column commends it to the youth of America, we cannot help but feel that this has brought us to the very acme of tragedy. Some time ago Mrs. Roosevelt complained because of public criticism of her family and expressed the hope that both she and her children might be left alone to "live their own lives." Well, they have been living their own lives, even to the political embarrassment of their distinguished father. And since the actions of men are generally the fruit of the religion they hold, many of us will devoutly hope that the wife of the President will stick to the field of politics in expressing her opinions in public, and leave the teaching of religion to the fathers and mothers who have come to know the true God and only Savior in the person of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Morality and the Professors

The place of common decency and morality in the world of so-called higher education, and among the college and university professors in particular, is becoming increasingly evident. Consider the following:

On Feb. 26th, the College of the City of New York announced the appointment of the noted English scholar, Bertrand Russell, to the chair of philosophy. For the benefit of those who may not know this gentleman, it should be said that he is perhaps the most brilliant mathematician in the world today, a belligerent atheist, and the avowed foe of all Christian morality. In one of his many books, he actually recommends the practice of adultery in these words, "Americans should indulge in marital infidelity to preserve their own homes." And Mr. Russell also believes in practicing what he preaches, for he has been twice divorced on the ground of adultery.

When the College of New York announced his appointment as a teacher, there was a great outcry of protest from civic leagues, the city council, the leading newspapers, and even from the pulpits of modernistic preachers. Episcopal Bishop William Manning denounced Russell publicly, charging that he came to this country as "a recognized propagandist against both religion and morality, who specifically defends adultery." As a result of this tide of opposition, the New York Board of Education reconsidered its appointment, but after much discussion voted 11 to 7 to keep Mr. Russell on the college pay-roll.

But there was one courageous mother in New York City who did not propose to let her daughter attend an institution which retained such a teacher, and she filed a tax-payer's suit to restrain the Board of Education from its action to keep the learned adulterer on the faculty. Whereupon to the surprise of everyone, and to the everlasting credit of the judge who tried the case, the court sustained the plaintiff and revoked the appointment of Mr. Russell. With this the case seemed to be ended, but not so. There was still another party to be heard from.

There is in the United States an organization called the American Association of University Professors, which exists largely for the purpose of protecting the "academic rights" of teachers in American colleges and universities. Now it so happened that a few days after Bertrand Russell was fired from his position by the above mentioned courageous judge, the National Council of the Professors' Association was meeting in Chicago. And this Council of Professors voted unanimously to urge the New York Board of Education to appeal the case of Mr. Russell to a higher court. At this point it should be said that the New York judge in revoking Russell's appointment read an opinion which contained some blistering language regarding the morals of the professor in question. And regarding this, the National Council of University Professors passed a resolution which in part read as follows: "The Council feels that the court's decision and the supporting opinion may have such serious consequences for the administration of higher education that they should be reviewed by the highest judicial tribunal possible."

Now all this fine language boils down to a very simple thesis: The National Council of University Professors believes that the exclusion of an adulterer from the New York College faculty may hurt the cause of higher education, and therefore they propose that his right to teach there should be carried to the Supreme Court if necessary! This is "academic freedom" gone mad.

Only one other thing remains to be said: All over this country in state institutions and so-called Christian colleges there are professors who belong to the American Association. What will they do about this action of their highest official body? Are there so many as one hundred teachers in the whole United States who have the courage to stand up and serve notice that if the Association supports the resolution of its National Council, they will repudiate the entire organization and withdraw from its membership? If they do this, they will get their names in the newspapers. But thus far, there has not been the slightest indication of any public protest, not even from so much as one professor.

If we put together all these distressing facts in this one case, we shall begin to understand why a great deal of the so-called intellectual life in colleges and universities is morally rotten at the core. The Bertrand Russell case is merely a symptom of the underlying disease. Apart from the Lord Jesus Christ and His absolute control, all that higher education can accomplish morally is to send the world just a bit faster on its road to the pit of disaster and final doom.

to

GRACE THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Feb. 1 to April 1

Again, as this report of gifts for February and March is rendered, both students and faculty join in thanksgiving to God for His unceasing grace in providing for the needs of the school. Prayer has been answered very definitely. The Lord has honored the faith of His people. We are deeply grateful for the many friends who have prayed and believed.

"Being enriched in every thing to all bountifulness, which causeth through us thanksgiving unto God" (2 Cor. 9:11).

A Victory Revival at Palestine, Indiana

by Walter Mickley, Junior in the Seminary

Last fall shortly after I came from Philadelphia to enter Grace Theological Seminary, I was called to act as supply pastor in a little Christian church at Palestine, which is only a few miles from Winona Lake. Various things had worked to reduce the congregation to a low point both in active work and spirituality. But the people, nevertheless, were hungry for the Word and we felt that the greatest immediate need was for an aggressive evangelistic campaign. Some of the members rather felt that such an effort might be largely wasted effort, but standing on the promises of the Lord we announced a series of meetings to last for two weeks. Bob Hill, another Junior in the Seminary, volunteered to lead the singing, and we started out.

From the very beginning there was a fine interest manifested, and the attendance during the first week was good. Other students from the Seminary came out to help from night to night, and the gospel of the grace of God began to stir the hearts of the people. Christians were awakened and began to bring in the unsaved. People who had not done anything like that for years, came to church, and at the end of the two weeks there had been 19 first confessions. Feeling that the Lord was in the meeting, the folks urged the continuation for a third week, at the end of which there were a total of 22 who accepted Christ as Savior for the first time, besides the rededications of life. We praise the Lord for this victory. Attendance at the church has about doubled. And the people in the community have come to know and value highly the ministry of Grace Seminary through this meeting.

Gospel Teams Report

by Ralph Rambo

As the end of the Seminary year approaches, the officers and members of the Gospel Teams desire to express their gratitude, first, to their heavenly Father for His gracious blessing upon the services held; then to the churches and various institutions which have invited the teams to conduct services for them; and also to the members of the faculty for their wholehearted cooperation in this important ministry.

The services held have been mountain-top experiences in the lives of the students who have participated, and they feel that God has placed the stamp of His approval upon their efforts by blessing them with a rich harvest. The following represents a summary of the work of the teams for the year, but the blessing upon the ones who ministered cannot be measured by mere statistics. May the Lord Himself receive all the glory for all that was accomplished was done in His name and by His power.

EXCHANGE

All that is His is imputed to me.

O, lovely and fair is my Lord,

And He gives me the robe of His own righteousness

To cover my sins, says His Word.

All that I am is imputed to Him.

O, black were my shame and my guilt

Which were laid upon Him on Calvary's cross,

But precious His blood that was spilt.

Was ever a bargain so wondrous as this?

O, matchless His love and His grace!

My guilt for His glory, my pain for His peace,

My night for the light of His face!

—o—

"I thirst for springs of heavenly life,
And here all day they rise;
I seek the treasure of Thy love,
And close at hand it lies."

PERSONAL TESTIMONY OF FRANK POTTS

(NOTE: In the Herald issue of Feb. 10, there appeared an account of the remarkable conversion of Frank Potts, a young man who was guilty of the most revolting crime ever committed in this part of the country. While he was being held for trial, Garner Hoyt, a Junior in Grace Seminary, secured permission to talk with him and was able to lead him to a saving knowledge of our Lord. The following account is the story of his conversion written by his own hand, a testimony to the infinite saving power of God's grace.)

"I am glad that I can tell the world what Jesus has done for me. When I had no one to talk to or share my burden, Jesus not only comforted me and shared my burden, but took my sorrow and burden from me altogether.

"My daddy and mother always attended church and taught all of us that church was the place to be when Sunday came. I'll never forget the little picture cards that I used to get in Sunday School. They stand out in my memory more than anything else. When I was about 11 years old I joined the church. I actually believed that joining a church could take you to heaven, which I now know was a terrible mistake. I remember that for a few days I was a very good boy. I tried to do everything that I was told to do, but it didn't last. I had never really accepted Jesus Christ as my own personal Savior. I couldn't see Him hanging there on the cross suffering for my sins. As I grew older I drifted farther into sin; yes, drifted. I had nothing to guide me. I really don't think I had a conscience, that is, a good one. I had put it aside so many times that it had no effect on me any more.

"Then once I was walking down the street, and when I came to the corner I stood there for a few minutes not knowing just what I wanted to do. As I turned and started down a side street and came to an automobile, I had a sudden desire to take it. Oh, how quick the devil strikes. If I had known what was going to happen I would not have walked down that street. But who knows what will happen in the future?

"After I had been driving for quite a while, I noticed that another car was following me, and thinking that it was someone after me I speeded up to about 35 miles an hour or a little more. As I started around a sharp curve, well over in the center of the road, another car suddenly shot around the curve coming from the opposite direction. I jerked frantically at the wheel to keep from having a collision. I barely escaped a wreck, and maybe death. As I was trying to right the car the lights went out. What an awful feeling passed over me. When I stopped, I found that the lights were only turned off. How they were turned off, no one knows. I know that I did not do it. Two narrow escapes from death, but all to no avail. How foolish I was not to realize where I stood.

"After I had left the car and had gone to another state I was arrested and sent back to South Carolina.

I was sent to the South Carolina Industrial School until I would be 21. I was paroled in nine months. While I was there, I did everything I could to get a parole simply to get out. Oh, why did I not try getting out of the clutches of sin?

"I came back home and stayed for about four months and decided that I wanted to go to work. Finding no job close around home, I left home and started to look for any kind of job that I could get. Working nowhere long I soon drifted up into Indiana and neighboring states. Riding freight trains and sleeping in box cars, I soon took the attitude that every real bum takes. Eat, drink and be merry.

"Finally, I came up to Warsaw, Indiana. I was practically broke, and, trying to save enough money to get a shirt, I walked out in the residential section begging my breakfast. After I had eaten about all I wanted I decided to try to get an odd job of some kind so as to get me another shirt. I knocked on a door and when the lady, who was a nice motherly type, came to the door, I asked if she had anything that I could do. She said that she might let me dig some tulip bulbs. I set to work and soon dug all there were. Then I carried some ashes out of her basement.

"While talking with her I suddenly felt some strange power overcoming me. I had no control over myself at all. I lost all reasoning power that I had ever had. I attacked her and then killed her. Actually having no fear of being caught or anything else, I went down to another town about 35 miles south of Warsaw and stayed all night at the police station, giving my correct name, age, and description. Leaving there the next morning about ten o'clock, I went over to Fort Wayne. That evening I left and went to Hammond. I stayed there for about a week, out on the street begging, or panhandling, whatever you wish to call it, actually speaking to every officer I met. Later, I was apprehended in Kansas and brought back to Warsaw County jail.

"Sitting alone every day, having no one to talk to, I began to brood over what I had done. Only then did I realize the predicament I was in. Then I remembered the things I had been taught when I was very young. I remembered a verse that my mother used to say—something about, "Yours sins will surely find you out." My brother sent me the books of the Bible from Galatians to Thessalonians. I was reading Gal 5:19, 20, 21, and when I came to the verse that says "Those that do such things cannot inherit the kingdom of God," my spirit was absolutely gone. I tried to reason with myself that that verse might be printed wrong or that I didn't understand it, but I still thought maybe I understood what it meant. I did not understand what I had read.

"After several days passed and I was hardly able to eat or sleep because of thinking of what hell was like, I wrote all of my brothers and sisters that I was going to hell and warned them to turn from sin before it was too late. Then I was intending to end it all by making strips of my blankets and hanging myself to the bars. I actually longed for death. I thought that death would have been better than the agony and horrors I was experiencing. What a living hell I was in!

The wife of the Sheriff gave me a Bible when she read my letters, as is the custom in all jails. I read verse after verse that she gave me, but I could get no peace at all. Later a minister came up to see me and I told him what I thought about Gal. 5:19-21, and he asked me if I wanted him to pray for me. I answered half heartedly, "If you think it will do me any good." I will never forget that prayer. I decided that if a preacher, who ought to understand the Bible, thought that I had a chance to enter heaven, that I would do my best to get there if I could.

"If there ever was a time when I poured out my every thought, feeling, want and hope, it was that night kneeling at a bench which I sat on during the day. I told God every sin that I had ever committed that I could remember. I admitted to Him that I was a hopeless sinner, unless He would have mercy on me and save me. I made Him a promise that I would serve Him from the moment He saved me. Immediately I had peace. But I still didn't think that I was saved. I prayed to God every night that came, also sometimes in the morning or during the day.

"What a blessing it is to have a God with Whom you need not get an appointment before going to Him! What a great blessing it is to have a God Who can hear your prayers anytime during the night or day! No matter what language you speak or how poor grammar you use, He knows what you want and need—your every thought. If one had to use proficient grammar when he prays, I'm sure God would not have heard one word that I said, but thank God He did hear me and answered my prayers! Every time I prayed to God I felt better, but I still wasn't saved and knew it. I wanted to be saved, but I wanted it to be my way. I actually didn't know how to be saved.

"Then on Dec. 31, 1939, a student from Grace Theological Seminary was admitted to see me and talk to me about my soul. While he was talking to me, he told me that the reason he came to see me was because he loved me. What strange words to come from the lips of a man that I had never seen before! I must have had a very peculiar expression on my face when he told me that. But he went on to say that since God loves me he should also because he is a Christian. He then read several passages of Scripture that said in order to have everlasting life I had to believe in Jesus Christ. He dealt with me for about an hour before I really understood what it means to believe in Christ.

"As he talked with me, it seemed that there was actually a light greater than the light of day shining from his face. Why shouldn't there be? He was bearing God's great message to one who needed it more than anyone else. I actually wondered whether or not he was an angel from God. I had never had anyone tell me so much in such a very few simple words in my life. How wise God is! He knew that there were people who could only understand the way to get salvation if it was in the most simple words. Jn. 3:36—"He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life." I thank God for putting that verse in the Bible for I can understand it better than I can any other verse in the whole Bible.

"The very moment I really believed on Jesus Christ a peace that I had never had before came into me. Yes, actually came into me, because it was unknown. I had always expected some strange power or weird feeling to pass through me. But now I know what real true joy and peace is. I have been transformed. That is all I had to do to be saved, simply believe in my heart on Jesus Christ, and that is all God tells us to do, and it is the only thing that He ever will ask anyone to do. God has given me everything that I have asked Him for and needed. He has withheld nothing that is good from me. He has filled me with the Holy Ghost that He promised to whomsoever will believe.

"You too can have everlasting life as yours right now if you will believe. You don't have to wait until after death to have eternal life. When you can picture in your mind Jesus Christ, with nails through His hands and feet, hanging there on the cross suffering for your sins, taking the punishment that should be yours, and believe in your heart that He was doing it to save your soul from hell, you can have everlasting life. Would you rather be tormented in hell eternally or be around the throne of God in joy that no mortal one has ever known or even dreamed of? The choice is yours. God's work is done. He gave His Son to us. Jesus Christ gave His life on the cross of Calvary. The rest is up to you. You have either to accept Him as your own personal Savior and be saved, or reject Him and be condemned as you are told in Jn. 3:36, and also Jn. 3:18, "But he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God." Which will you do?

(Since writing the above story of his conversion, the case of Frank Potts has been tried and he has been sentenced to life imprisonment. Due to the terrible nature of his crime, it seemed practically certain that he would be given the death sentence. Therefore he was advised strongly to plead insanity. However, while he was trying to decide what to do, he asked advice of Garner Hoyt who had led him to Christ. And Garner told him that this would be the test of his conversion, whether he would tell the truth to the court or try to evade the issue. And Frank Potts met the test as a Christian should. Understanding clearly that an admission of guilt with no extenuating circumstances would doubtless mean death, he came before the judge and said, "I am guilty." Definite prayer is asked for this young man that, as he enters prison to begin a life sentence, he may not fail in his testimony but rather witness a good confession during the days ahead.—A. J. M.)

The Pastor's Duty Toward Child Evangelism

1. The Faithful Under-Shepherd and Evangelist

"Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ" (I Pet. 2:5).

"But watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry" (II Tim. 4:5).

In these two Scriptures, the task, duty and mission of the pastor is set forth. It is to feed the flock of God and to do the work of an evangelist. The pastor who contents himself in doing one, and not the other, is only doing half of what God intended that he should do. It is only by doing both that he "makes full proof of his ministry."

The pastor is the under-shepherd and evangelist of the church which includes, of necessity, the Bible School.

He must realize his personal responsibility for the welfare of the Bible School.

Although not usually the superintendent of the Bible School, he must be the power behind the throne directing, leading, organizing, and so shaping things as to bring them, as far as possible, up to his ideal standard.

If a Bible School is not evangelistic, the pastor is, to a large extent, responsible for this condition, especially if he has been on the field for any length of time.

2. Must Work for the Salvation of the Children

He must recognize the fact that the Bible School is his chief and best field for evangelism. He will devote much time, thought, labor and prayer in planning and executing the evangelistic program so that the children and young people may be won to Christ.

Dr. R. S. MacArthur, former pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, New York, says: "Experience leads many pastors to give their most earnest efforts now to the winning of the boys and girls to Christ and the church. It is pitiful to think how we often neglect the children and then labor with agonizing prayer and heroic appeal for the conversion of men and women. We have sometimes thought that we have honored the grace of God more when a man steeped in sin is brought to Christ than when a noble boy or beautiful girl lovingly submit to the call of mercy. Boys and girls, properly instructed, ought to yield their hearts to Christ as easily as a flower opens when kissed by the sun."

Spurgeon said that he had "more satisfaction in those who have decided before 10 than those at 40."

The ministry that overlooks the children is lacking in one of the vital elements of success.

The pastor who does not labor for the salvation of the children ignores the example of Jesus and disobeys His last great command: "Preach the gospel to every creature."

3. Must Cooperate with the Superintendent in Promoting Soul-Winning

The soul-winning desire must be strong in both the pastor and superintendent in order to have a soul-winning Bible School, and the closest bond of fellowship and sympathy should at all times exist between both.

The pastor should concur with the superintendent and advise him with regard to the literature, teachers, and decision day plans, in fact in all matters that have to do with the evangelistic and soul-winning program of the Bible School.

4. Must Regularly Attend the Bible School Sessions and Visit the Various Departments

This he owes to the officers and members of the school and to himself. It is only in this way that he can feel the pulse of the school, discover its weaknesses, make helpful suggestions, and contribute in the largest and most effective way to the evangelistic program of the school.

A little girl, when requested by the superintendent of her department to attend the Sunday morning service of the church, replied that since her pastor was not interested in her services she did not see why she should be interested in his. Of course Bible School teachers should see to it that the members of their classes do not fall into the error of assuming that the Bible School is a kind of children's church, and that the older people's church is an altogether different thing, in which they need feel no vital concern. It will be easier to do this however, if the children are assured of their pastor's interest in them and in the work which they and their teachers are seeking to do.

5. Must Conduct a Training Class for Teachers and Officers

Generally speaking, Bible School teachers are not soul-winners and this, in many cases, is because they have not been trained and instructed. It is the duty of the pastor to teach them how to present the lesson with an evangelistic appeal and to lead a soul to Christ. Nothing is more important or needed in the life of a church than a trained soul-winning teaching staff in the Bible School. This training class may be held at the same hour on Sunday evening that

ON AN AFRICAN SAFARI FOR CHRIST

BEING THE DIARY OF AN ITINERATING TRIP OF TWO MISSIONARIES.

By Miss Mabel Crawford, Missionary in Oubangui-Chari, French Equatorial Africa.

Miss Mabel Crawford

JANUARY 4, 1940

At last the long planned day has arrived and Miss Estella Myers and I are on our way into villages and tribes very rarely touched with the gospel story. Who could ask for a better way to spend a vacation than in telling the "old, old story" in places where it is pathetically new? We left Bassai about 8 A. M. and made a long run to Balawala, stopping to enquire about our classes and workers all along the way. Here at Balawala, we found David (one of my French School boys) doing a good job of teaching a group of believers he has gathered about him. We are planning to change porters all along the way to cut down the expense and difficulty of getting food for such a crowd. We have quite a retinue as it is.....six push boys, a cook, and another boy to help to set up camp.

JANUARY 5, 1940

Christian boys in David's reading class, to earn primers for their reading class, carried our loads all the way through to Yagoussou (a big Banda village on the new auto road). We stopped at all the villages. Many new villages are coming to the roads. Where there are no roads, the government is building roads in order that they may move everyone within their reach by automobile. This will make evangelization much easier also. We ate lunch at the Banda village the young people's societies meet, that is preceeding the evening service.

6. Must Attend the Bible School Council or Teacher's and Officers' Meeting

In this way he can help in maintaining the closest possible intimacy with his staff of Bible School officers and teachers. He should seek, through his contact, to inspire them with the evangelistic passion and bring them to an increasing understanding and appreciation of the evangelistic program of the church and their responsibility in it.

We are not dealing here with the general duties of the pastor in relation to the Bible School, but merely suggesting some important things in connection with his evangelistic program for it.

The next in this series of articles will deal very definitely with the duties and responsibilities of both the superintendent and the teachers in the Bible School.

of Yeme where we found one of the Bassai Banda boys giving all the children a thirst for reading. Everyone wants to come to Bassai. We stopped at Lia, the big Catholic center, to try to interest the people in reading. The chief was not home. Spent the night at Yagoussou and found some of those who confessed Christ last year, standing faithful, and meeting for prayer together.

JANUARY 6, 1940

Hired four porters here. When they arrived in the first village, they wanted to change loads. We persuaded them to carry to the second village, but they refused to go any further. All the villages were just moving to the road, and the men could not be persuaded to take our loads. There we sat in the middle of the road, not knowing what to do next. We had two extra push boys and the cook with us, but four loads. Finally, a Christian boy from Bainsi came along, and agreed to help us. So we walked, and the boys got the loads on to the next village, where we found men willing to help us. Our run was not long, but we passed five new villages, four Banda and one Karre, coming from the bush to the road. We reached the village of Poumbe, Karre, coming from the bush to the road.

We reached the village of Poumbe, chief Keraseneme, before noon. Found the rest house occupied by the Lia chief.....pro-Catholic.....but he moved out and was very nice to us. We hope he will be willing to let a teacher enter his big village. The soldier here has been in contact with the mission before and is very obliging.

Towards evening we were sitting in the shade of the rest house, Estella with a book, and I with my knitting. Estella suddenly felt impelled to go for a walk, and started off. I finished my row and started after her. About 100 yards from the rest house was a large hole from which mud had been dug for building purposes. It was partly filled with ashes and trash—a veritable town junk heap minus the tin cans and bottles so much in evidence in such places at home.

Down there in the dirt and filth sat a woman in childbirth. Two dirty old women were working with her. From the rest house we had no idea of the drama being enacted so near, because a house hid the hole from view. I arrived just in time to see Estella go down into the hole and take charge, like the good soldier that she is in such emergencies. She sent the "doctor" for a bunch of grass, with which she returned just in time for the baby to make her first bow to the world from a few blades of grass instead of a pile of ashes. The cord was cut with a sharp piece of grass and tied with a bit of straw.

The baby was very frail, and did not breathe for some time, but Estella used artificial respiration, wiped the phlegm from its nose and throat, and gradually coaxed the tiny spark of life into a bit of blaze. She asked for some peanut oil; and since there was none available, our cook quickly got our cooking oil, and with some of it the baby had her first bath. The presence of two white woman had drawn a large crowd of spectators, and all about us were "ohs and ahs" as the baby slowly responded to treatment. One more tiny mite of humanity was saved from a speedy burial!

The people all realized that without Estella's timely appearance, the little one would never have breathed. We hope they realize that One greater than she was standing by and working, that His name might be glorified in this untouched heathen village with not one Christian resident.

We could not understand why anyone, even in dirty heathen Africa, would pick such a filthy place to deliver a baby, and upon questioning we found that the woman herself had been seized with fear as her pains came upon her, and had run and fallen into the hole. There was nothing for the poor "flabbergasted" midwives to do but to follow their patient and deliver her where she fell. Once delivered of the child, the woman crawled out of the hole and sat calmly by with no one paying any attention to her, while everyone crowded around those who worked with the baby. When it was finally turned over to the native women, almost the entire village gathered for the evening service, among them the two old midwives and many other old people. Five accepted the Lord.

JANUARY 7, 1940

Since this is Sunday, we are spending the day here. Had an excellent service. Several more accepted the Lord. After the service we went to see the new baby. We found their home clear across the village. How wonderful the Lord did work to bring that woman into the village to fall in a hole so near our house that Estella could aid her. We arrived just as the husband was digging a hole just outside the door of the hut to bury the placenta. While we sat and looked on, the mother buried it and the father filled the hole. All such acts have a superstitious meaning for these people.

They asked us to name the baby, and Estella named it "Bassai." Then we prayed with them; and although they never before heard the gospel, they realized that God had given them their child, a first child although the mother is not young. They said they would offer the usual heathen sacrifices connected with naming ceremonies. Estella gave the mother a dose of castor oil to counteract any ashheap infection, and as we left with both mother and baby gaining in strength, we were more conscious than ever that "God works in mysterious ways, His wonders to perform."

On returning, we passed the hut of the head midwife, and she came to meet us with a broad smile and a gourd full of nice fat grasshoppers as a little appreciation gift. Estella asked if we should eat them, and I said: "No, give them to the boys!" There are some times when I decidedly would rather give than keep!

This afternoon I had a long talk with the soldier and his family. He has been in contact with the gospel for many years, and seems very open to its truth, but he has three wives and 11 children!

JANUARY 8, 1940

Went to say goodbye to the soldier's family, and he gave me a chicken. The new mother came to bid us goodbye, and seemed so thankful. We crossed the Pende river on the shoulders of our boys. The water at the ford was to their waists. Preached along the way a number of times to bridge builders, soldier's retainers, etc. Found a Bozoum Christian who took a new stand for Christ. Arrive at Kone Mbame after a mile or so of walking through dense growth—some auto road, this is! The Christians resulting from Estella's last year's trip seemed glad to see us. The chief brought us a big python steak. At first I intended to eat a bit of it, just to prove that I am a good sport, but the closer the supper hour approached, the more my stomach "crawled." The boys finally got the whole thing, and I ordered fried chicken for us instead.

OUR BOY'S and GIRL'S VERY OWN PAGE

We have often wondered what boys and girls in other lands do when they go to church—whether they have departments and classes like we do, and whether they sing, and have stories and Bible drills and object lessons. Mrs. Maconaghy, one of our missionaries in South America, tells us all about it in this letter written especially for our Brethren Missionary Herald boys and girls:

Dear Boys and Girls in the Homeland:

We've been having such good times in our children's class here in Rio Cuarto, that I thought you might like to hear about them. Then, when you pray each day, perhaps you'll remember these boys and girls who attend the children's class and the Sunday School, and also pray for the many, many boys and girls who do not know that the Lord Jesus loves them and died to save them from their sins.

Every Thursday night, the big folks have a Bible study class. During that time, the boys and girls have their meeting. They are just like you in that they love to sing, and especially do they enjoy choruses. Almost every time we say, "What chorus do you want to sing, children?" they shout, "La Biblia" or "Yo Tengo Gozo." I know that these are the favorite choruses of many of you, too. Their English names are, "The B-I-B-L-E," and "I Have the Joy, Joy." Perhaps you would like to see what one of these choruses looks like, written in Castellano, which is the language that these boys and girls speak.

Yo tengo gozo, gozo en mi corazon,
En mi corazon, en mi corazon;
Yo tengo gozo, gozo en mi corazon,
Gloria sea a El.

Do you think you could sing "I Have the Joy, Joy" with these words?

After a good sing, someone leads in prayer, and the saved boys and girls here pray to our heavenly Father just as you do. Then there is a new verse of Scripture to be learned, and others to be reviewed. The boys and girls are learning a Bible alphabet, and we shall soon be finished, as this week's verse begins with "U". When we have learned a verse for each letter of the alphabet we are going to have a contest, to see how many can say all the verses from memory. And perhaps there will be a little reward for those who have learned them.

Following the Scripture verse comes a Bible story, or Bible truth taught by means of an object lesson, the flannelgraph, or a chalk talk. Usually when we have a flannelgraph talk, one of the children will offer to tell it, at the same time placing the pictures on the flannelgraph, just as many of you like to do.

I am going to tell you about one blackboard talk that the boys and girls liked especially well. Two question marks were put on the blackboard, representing every boy and girl. Boys and girls are question marks to their parents, teachers, and to everyone, because no one, except the Lord Jesus, knows what they will become when they grow up. Using a few lines and putting in eyes, ears and a mouth, the two question marks became faces. You know our faces usually reveal the kind of person we are. The one face that grew from the question mark was that of a very sinful person. He had large ears which were always listening to unclean things, large eyes which were constantly looking at sinful things, a large nose which became that way from poking into other folks' affairs, and in his mouth was a cigarette. The other face was kind and noble and loving. That which made the difference between these two faces was the heart. The heart of the first was filled with sin, but in the other lived the Lord Jesus. When we asked the children which kind of face they wanted, they all answered, "The one which shows that the Lord Jesus lives inside."

Sometimes, when there is sufficient time, we have Bible searchings or some kind of Bible drill. Then another chorus and prayer, and another hour has passed all too quickly. In every class the boys and girls are told how to be saved, just as your teachers tell you. For there is only one way, by receiving the Lord Jesus as our Savior. Some of our children here have accepted Him, and so even if you never meet them here, you will be able to become acquainted with them here, you will be able to become acquainted with Him.

Yours in the service of the Lord Jesus,

DOROTHY MACONAGHY

OUR BIBLE CHARACTER ALPHABET

Answer to I — Ishmael.

I was a king whose enemies were coming to attack him with such a large army he knew it was no use to fight them. He sent a choir ahead of his own small army and went out with his people to meet the enemy. Find his name and what happened in II Chron. 20.

To the Sunday School we go,
Hot, or rain, or cold, or snow,
Always there and on the dot—
Faithfulness does help a lot.

Some are big and some are small,
Some between, but one and all
Have their place, and high and low
All with studied lessons go.

Happy heart and shining face
Bring they all, and sing His grace.
Here they come where truth is sought
And the precious Word is taught.

C. E. NEWS & NOTES

Well, well, well! If this isn't cooperation! One pastor writes us (since his Endeavorers have failed to do so), and along with his wife's birthday gives two for himself, his physical and his spiritual one. That's what we call exceeding our asking! We only wish those of you from whom we have not heard would show just half that much cooperation and send us just the physical birthday and the favorite Scripture verse of your pastor and wife. We must have this information ahead of time if their names are to appear on the monthly prayer calendar.

The meeting of the Ellet C. E. on Apr. 14 was very inspirational. There were 26 present, making a new high for this year. Mr. and Mrs. T. Parker had charge of the meeting. The Society hopes with the Lord's help to outgrow their present meeting place.

30 young people gathered in the basement of the Harrah, Wash. Brethren Church recently for a Spring Coming-out Party. The room was gaily decorated in beautiful spring flowers with a large floral C. E. sign as the main attraction. Guests enjoyed games with the spring motif. Light refreshments were served. A candle light devotional service, with "How a Sea Captain Found Christ" as the topic, concluded the evening.

In their Sunday night meetings the Harrah young people are trying the system of having a theme for each month, and following out that theme in the lesson topics. The theme for April was, "Comrades of the Quiet Hour."

The Allentown, Pa., C. E. again takes first place for promptness. Several months ago they were the first to respond to our request for the birthdays and favorite Scripture verses of the pastors and their wives, and now they are the first to send in the C. E. questionnaire. If you and your society have not sent in this questionnaire, which was printed on p. 14 of the issue of Apr. 13, please do so at once. Otherwise we will take it for granted that you want the C. E. Department discontinued.

A joint camp and C. E. rally was held at the First Brethren Church of Ellet, O., on Apr. 12. A group of girls from the Cleveland church and the Ambassador's Quartette of the Ellet church presented the special music. The speaker was Rev. E. Niswonger of Canton, O. There were "minute-men" (mostly women) from the seven churches represented, who gave reports of Camp Buckeye. The Northeast Ohio C. E. banners were awarded as follows: most mileage, Cleveland; highest number of points, Rittman; highest percentage of membership present, Ellet. The next rally will be during camp week in June.—Mildred Flatten, Sec'y.

Has your society entered in the C. E. Topic contest programs for some of your best C. E. meetings? This contest is open to societies of all ages, and either individuals or societies may make as many entries as they desire. See issue of Feb. 10 for rules. A C. E. Manual will be awarded for each program printed. Grand prizes will be awarded to both the contestant submitting the best program, and to the district from which the largest percentage of churches submits the best collection of topics. We hope that next month we will be able to report being "showered under" with entries from all the districts. Don't wait to send them in.

The C. E. at Dallas Center, Ia., reports a profitable evening spent discussing the work of our missionaries on the various stations in Africa. They are now able to pray intelligently for that work because of information gained from letters from the various missionaries. The young people's interest in their own church services and mid-week prayer meeting is showing decided increase. Also, once each month they go to the Dallas County Home and Hospital where their songs, prayers and testimonies are followed by a message by their pastor, Bro. James Cook. The society's Easter offering for "C. E." Kliever was $6.00, and with the help of the sisterhood, they are planning to give $5 for one of the doors in the new church in Clayhole, Ky. Their money is all raised by free will offerings.

Brother Polman's offer of $1 each for the ten best pictures of Bethany Camp and its activities is good only for two or three more weeks. You need not be an Endeavorer to qualify. Look over those snapshots you took at Bethany Camp last year, and send him the best ones at once.

You can help some shut-ins support missionaries by saving stamps of all kinds—common, uncommon, U. S., foreign, rare, old (if very old, save the entire envelope), Red Cross, T. B., revenue, or anything else in the stamp line. Cut postage stamps from the envelope on strips about 2x4 inches to include the postmark if it is clear; otherwise cut about one-eighth inch around the stamp to protect the edge of the stamp. Send these to Miss Susie Wysong, New Lebanon, O.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

FOR JUNE 2, 1940

David, The Shepherd King

(Psalm 23)

Suggestions for the Leader

David represents a different type of man from Saul.

Really David's sin was greater in the sight of man than was Saul's; but David came back the way God asked.

David did something about his sin. God demands of us to do something about the sins in our lives.

None of the Old Testament saints were perfect. We do not pretend to follow their example in sinful things but profit by their good traits.

David became the founder of a great throne and a party to a great covenant. This shows how God can forgive the sinner and use the penitent heart for good.

He was called the man after God's own heart.

1. A Young Man Goodly in Heart. I Sam. 16:1-12

David had a sincerity of heart that Saul did not have.

Saul depended upon his own strength; David had a mind to trust God.

The outward appearance or boast is never as important as the condition of the heart.

Real Christian experience is the change that comes within us. We are made new in Christ.

2. An Outlaw Chief. I Sam. 22:1,2

David had to wait for the Lord to bring to pass the opportunity for him to reign.

His life was filled with discouragement while he was being hunted as though he had committed crimes.

When division comes, either side may be a rallying point for many conflicting interests. We can imagine different kinds of people coming with David, even though they did not have a good record.

Saul's jealousy led him to chase David through the land.

Blessed are we when we are persecuted for righteousness sake.

3. Faithful and forgiving. 2 Sam. 1:17-27; 9:1-7

More than once Saul was delivered into the hands of David; yet he refused to kill him.

David had a feeling that it was wrong to hate the king. Even after Saul's death, he spoke well of God's anointed king.

It is a real test of character to discover how one feels toward his enemies.

David did not seek praise for his own goodness or merits; but gave the credit to the providence of God.

4. Truly Repentant. 2 Sam. 12:1-14.

Saul was sorry for his sins. David was more than sorry. His prayer of repentance indicated his desire to have God put it away.

Saul thought that sin was merely an outward thing. David realized that it was an inner condition of the heart and that he need a cleansed heart.

David, like saved men today, could claim the forgiveness which God gave and go on in the strength of that victory.

5. The Great Covenant. 2 Sam. 7:12-20

David was told how God would establish a covenant with him.

A wonderful kingdom was about to be established with David as the first of the line of kings.

David was also to preserve the line that would carry the kingly promise and bring in the Messiah.

How wonderful that God in his mercy could consider man and elevate him as he did. David is an example.

God has many things for us but first He must see a willing heart.

6. The Great Psalmist and Prophet. 2 Sam. 23:1-2; Ps. 16:8

David was used of God to write great psalms. The spirit must have blessed him in the work. It is natural to see David writing about shepherd life as he came from caring for the sheep.

Some psalms relate his experience. See Ps. 30, 51.

David is not classed as a prophet yet he did write prophecy.

Additional Scripture

The faithfulness of God in the matter of His covenant with David. Jer. 33:17-26; Amos 9:8-12. The Messianic prophecies include Ps. 22, the Good Shepherd giving His life for His sheep; Psalm 23, the Great Shepherd caring for His sheep; and Psalm 24, the Chief Shepherd, coming to reward His sheep.

IF THE SHOE FITS ---

A preacher at the close of one of his sermons, said: "Let all in the house who are paying their debts stand up." Presently every man, woman and child, with one exception, rose to his feet.

The preacher seated them and said, "Now let every man not paying his debts stand up." The exception, a careworn, hungry-looking individual, clothed in last summer's suit, slowly assumed a perpendicular position.

"How is it, my friend," asked the minister, "that you are the only one not able to meet his obligations?"

"I run a newspaper," he answered meekly, "and the brethren here who stood up are my subscribers, and—"

"Let us pray," exclaimed the minister.—Kablegram.

FROM THE FIELD

Second Brethren Church of Los Angeles

Many months have passed since our church sent a news report of any kind. It is only with a desire to give all the glory to our wonderful Lord that we are sending this one. Truly, "the Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad." Some of these many "things" we desire to mention for the encouragement of our brethren.

Last Oct. 1, Bro. Paul R. Bauman began his 6th year as our pastor. The Lord has blessed the work under his ministry, and we are now rejoicing in that the Lord has sent us an assistant pastor, Bro. Walter A. Lepp, who is now standing by as Bro. Bauman's able helper. Bro. Lepp is a graduate of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles. Prior to the time he was called as assistant pastor he had been our director of music for a year and a half. With our two pastors now working together, we are looking forward to a year of great blessing in the service of the Lord.

The pastor's report at the annual business meeting, Jan. 1, showed an addition of 91 new members to our church during 1939. These additions were not the result of an intensified endeavor all at one time, but rather of consistent soul-winning throughout the year. Most of the number were received into the church one, two, or three at a time. We believe this is a wholesome condition in any church.

Our Bible School has shown a corresponding gain under the efficient leadership of our Supt. Bro. C. E. Reuter. There was an average attendance per Sun. during 1939 of 350. This represented an average increase of 18 per Sun. over the preceding year. In addition to this we were able to reach, from Jan. 1 to Mar. 5, 1000 children through our home classes.

The membership gains, both in the church and Bible School, have been made possible largely through the endeavor of our Workers Band. Last quarter this organization made more than 600 calls. Eternity alone will reveal the real work that has been accomplished through this organization, operating under the direction of Bro. P. A. Yerian.

Our C. E. work is also being blessed of the Lord. We now have six active C. E. Societies. These are to be commended especially for the way they are supporting the regular services of the church. Three of our societies are going once each month to take charge of services in the rescue missions of Los Angeles and San Pedro. A fourth has made arrangements to have charge of a service each month in the Los Angeles Jewish Mission, which is supported by The Brethren Home Missions Council.

Of special benefit to our church has been the work of our choir, under the leadership of Bro. Lepp. On Christmas Sun. evening the choir presented Handel's difficult oratorio, "The Messiah." Two weeks later they repeated it for the benefit of the First Brethren Church of Whittier. Easter Sun. night they presented the cantata, "Life Eternal" in our church. All of these programs were used of the Lord to His glory.

We have in our church a valued worker among our young people, Miss Ruth McClain, a sister of Prof. Alva J. McClain. Miss McClain is sponsor of the young people's class and also of the corresponding C. E. society. Her work with the young people, particularly in a musical way, has done much to hold them for the Lord. As a result of her work, we now have three excellent groups capable of conducting meetings here and elsewhere: a young men's quartet known as "The Four Brethren," a young ladies' quartet and a young ladies' octette. The first of these groups has held several meetings in our mission churches.

Our newest work in the church is the boy's work, which is now being sponsored by the Brotherhood. The boys meet once each week and are given wholesome recreation, practical instruction in various fields, and a full half hour of definite Bible instruction. A lot next to the church has been cleared and lights have been installed. Inasmuch as a complete account of this work will be sent in soon, further mention of it will not be made at this time.

Because of the provision of the Lord in a financial way, our church has been able to undertake recently several improvements to our property. These will be continued throughout the year. The projects completed include the partitioning off of a new Intermediate Department auditorium in the basement, a hundred new chairs for our growing Bible School, a new sidewalk along the entire length of our church building, and other minor improvements.

One of the unique additions to our church during the past two years has been a complete amplification system. It embodies speakers for the auditorium which may be used especially at times of special programs when children speak or sing; a loud speaker in a room to the rear of the auditorium, used by mothers during the services; earphones in the pews for those who are hard of hearing; equipment for playing recordings; and, most recently, the installation of three large speakers on the tower of the church. Through these is sent out over the community each Sunday evening over a half hour period, just before C. E., sacred instrumental music. At the close of this period announcement is made of the C. E. services and the evening church services. These speakers can be heard for a radius of at least a half a mile, and they have already proven a most effective means of bringing cheer to the shut-ins of the community and of bringing people out to the services. Recently a lady appeared at an evening service and said to the usher, "I was sitting at home, tired and discouraged, when I heard your music coming out over the air. I decided to come to church!"

We, here in Los Angeles, believe that the blessings mentioned here, and the many others God has sent us during the months past, have been largely due to the increased missionary spirit of our congregation. Six years ago our offering to Foreign Missions was $512.11. Last year our total offering was $1808.75. Our Easter offering this year, to date stands at about $1650.00. We are hoping to see it go beyond last year's when it is all in. Six years ago our offering for Home Missions was $298.57. Last year it went over $1,000. We believe the Lord always honors a church with a missionary spirit and trust that there may be some things in this report that will serve to stimulate other congregations throughout the brotherhood to engage in the kind of a program that the Lord has promised to bless.

Martha Kelly, Correspondent.

RIVER PARK MISSION, SOUTH BEND, IND. "A MISSION OF MISSIONARIES"

God is working in River Park! Praise the Lord for this! The six-month-old mission is thriving. It has a wonderful opportunity. Its message is, "—how that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures; and that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day according to the Scriptures" (I Cor. 15:3,4). We are much encouraged with the answers to prayer and the gospel message, which has been neglected in South Bend. Souls are being saved in the home and in the mission.

Recently the Lord laid it on the hearts of some of us to pray definitely for more workers and the consecration of all in the mission. The Lord heard and has given both. Praise His holy name! We have never seen as faithful a people—some driving in winter weather 15 and 25 miles each way to attend the services every Sunday.

The home mission offering was one which I believe surpasses most churches considering the number and ability of the donors. The mission gave $136.-41 to home missions when it was only six weeks old and needing money to meet current expenses and for getting started. The Foreign Mission offering is now about $75.00 and it is not all in. We believe it will "top" the hundred mark.

The Financial Board cannot be beat. They love the Lord and give by example. They have prepared a budget which will meet the needs of the mission for the present. If every one tithes, as set forth in the Scriptures, we will not only meet the budget but meet it one-half over. We praise the Lord for the devotion of the workers of the mission, for they not only give of their money but give of their time and talents, inviting, bringing, phoning and writing to friends in order to interest them in the Lord.

The attendance is increasing. New faces were at Bible School because those already interested had brought them. Sunday night we had 50% increase in attendance. We know we can have a good Sunday evening service if all work together.

The prayer meeting is a source of joy—holy joy, comfort and strength. Every week we are having prayer meeting in the various homes — sometimes in South Bend, other times in North Liberty or Goshen.

Church organizations often are too large or too small to properly serve their church but the mission has adopted a very good constitution, with a competent personnel. The committee went over much material and formulated the constitution which was passed article by article by the mission.

The W.M.C. is functioning well. Some are traveling long distances to help in the much needed work of canvassing and taking Christ into the homes and in the distribution of tracts.

Alton M. Witter, Pastor.

Roanoke, Va.

A long silence from the Ghent Brethren does not of necessity mean that we have been in hibernation for a year or more. In fact we've been quite busy as a hasty resume of the past year will show.

Early last summer our Bible School board rather hesitatingly recommended to the church that we try the unified service for three months; having the worship service at 9:45 a.m. followed by the Bible School classes at around 10:40. We started the middle of July. Most of our people liked the change so well that by common consent it was extended several times. At our Jan. official board meeting it was decided to continue as long as it seemed good. During this time, the Bible School attendance has shown a little increase, and the church attendance a decided increase. So of course, our pastor, Bro. H. W. Koontz, is very favorable for the unified service.

In July over 40 persons from our church attended one or more sessions of the Bible conference held in the Covington church. We were so much enriched by the Bible lectures and the Christian fellowship that many of our people are already planning to go to the Bible conference at Winchester this coming July.

Last fall was the first time since our church has been built that we were able to raise the annual curtailment on the first mortgage and semi-annual payment of interest, without a special drive for this heavy obligation. The amount was nearly $900 and we are truly thankful for the Lord's leading in this matter. Our second mortgage has been reduced some $600 during the winter.

Our hearts were rejoiced by the fact that our home mission offering showed an increase of about 25% over the previous year.

The first Sunday in Jan. we had another representative from the American Board of Missions to the Jews. This year it was Rev. A. B. Macklin from Buffalo, N. Y. The weather man tried to make him feel right at home by giving us some of the coldest weather we've had in recent years. Our offering for Jewish missions also showed an increase over the previous year.

We have just recently redecorated our church auditorium: painting the interior, cleaning the woodwork, shellacking the floors and polishing the pews. Several of the classes have also painted their rooms.

The last Sunday in Feb. we had a rather unique service, different from any we have ever had, and we will probably never have another like it. Each of our 15 classes told their name, the Biblical reason for their name, class colors, and in most cases what their colors stood for, class song and motto (if any), name of teacher, and in some cases in a sentence or two any other information of general interest to the whole congregation. Their banner was then given to the secretary who pinned the banners all on a large canvass covered frame. Following this, Bro. Koontz gave a short sermonette, at the close of which one young man accepted the Savior. It was a very interesting and impressive service.

On Mar. 31 Rev. R. Paul Miller closed his third meeting in our church. It was a joy to renew our friendship with him, and truly an inspiration to hear his stirring messages. The singing was led by several different persons, including our pastor, Rev. Malles from Buena Vista, Mr. A. C. Jefferson (a widely known song leader from Lynchburg), and Mr. J. B. Huffman and Mr. E. V. Parcell from our own congregation. Several times Mr. Parcell had his young people's chorus of over 30 voices in the choir, and how we did enjoy their selections! During the meeting, we had visiting Brethren from Hollins, Buena Vista, Red Hill, Covington, and Waynesboro and Martinsburg, Pa.

Our people seem to like to go to Covington, for just recently about 60 of our number went there to fellowship with the Brethren and to hear Bro. Miller preach while holding them a meeting. In our group that night were 38 from our young people's chorus, and they and their leader were pressed into service by singing songs of praise to our Lord.

We are happy to read of progress made in the various churches, and we greatly rejoiced to hear Bro. Miller tell of so many new opportunities for the Home Mission Council. Our prayer is that all these may be grasped, and led by Spiritfilled pastors, soon welded into self supporting churches.

W. V. Findley.

La Verne, California

Last evening we had an inspirational message by Mrs. Kradjian, an Armenian who suffered persecution by the Turks in the world war. She told how Rom. 8:28 worked in her case many different times and ways, and how she was reunited with her loved ones except her mother who suffered death rather than give up Christ.

Apr. 9 was our quarterly business meeting. Reports from officers were good, and finances in good condition. A plan to provide recreation for our young people was considered. Several new officers were elected, the writer being elected church correspondent.

Our church has been built up spiritually by our loved young pastor, Don Carter, and it is a pleasure to work

It aint no disgrace for a man to fall but to lay there and grunt is.—Josh Billings.

with him and his wife and also to have baby Lois Jean in our midst.

We had the Eureka Jubilee Singers with us two nights recently. Dr. Lockyer was with us two nights in January. The "Navigators," a group of about 20 Christian navy boys who do definite Christian work on the battleships and love to go out to churches to witness for Christ and try to win souls when on shore leave, were with us one Sunday evening for both services. It was wonderful to hear their testimony and it put some of us older Christians to shame for doing so little for our Lord and Savior.

Brother Lynn preached for us Mar. 31 in the morning. After preaching by Brother Carter in the evening, we had a reception for Brother and Sister Lynn, whom we were glad to welcome in our midst after four years' absence.

Our W.M.C. is growing, and 21 of our number went to Long Beach First Church to our district conference April 5.

We are glad to have the Sickels with us yet. Though he is away preaching almost every week end and Lorraine is busy in "Biola" Institute through the week, all are ready and do help us when they can.

Brother Carter has a Bible class in San Bernardino, 26 miles away each Tues. night; also here on Sat. night for our young people. He is our district moderator.

We have prayer meeting on Wed. nights, and also a small group meet on Tues. A. M. We are surely blessed with spiritual blessings in Christ Jesus, for besides our pastor's work he brings us so many good speakers and extra talent in the pulpit.

Two little girls about 10 years old were baptized recently; others have asked to be baptized soon.

Our Easter offering to foreign missions was $456.48 with pledges for more.

We surely enjoy The Brethren Missionary Herald very much, and pray the Lord's blessing on the editors and all who help make it the paper it is.

Mrs. Lydia H. Frantz.

Touring The Churches

Several years ago I traveled about quite a bit with my Bible chart lectures but because of ill health my work along that line has been greatly curtailed in recent years. However I have now placed three of those messages into Bible screen lectures, "When the Creator Became the Redeemer," "The Second Coming of Christ," "Old Testament Pictures of the Cross."

Mar. 7, I faced the south. Arriving at Winchester, Va., toward evening, I found Bro. Uphouse with a ball of putty, putting the finishing touches on the parsonage, and joyfully anticipating the time when he would lead his young bride into their new home—and what a home it will be, new, beautiful and modern in every way.

It was also a happy privilege to be in the home of Bro. and Sister Rohart for a noon meal. I lectured two evenings in the Winchester church and again journeyed southward.

Passing through Roanoke, Va., I stopped at the home of my old friend Bro. Herman Koontz. I found the church taking on a new coat of interior decoration. This, with a rare river scene at the baptistry, makes a beautiful auditorium indeed.

Again heading south, I arrived toward evening at the home of Mary Pence, who has led the Limestone, Tenn., church into paths of truth. Here I also met Bro. Lewis, the man with a strong musical voice and the pastor of the church. I lectured two evenings at the church, and veering westward arrived at the William Jennings Bryan University where my son Jesse is in school. I also met the two Hoyt brothers and a couple of my former students in the Altoona School of the Bible.

There is a wonderful Christian spirit at the Bryan University. Pres. J. Rudd is a fine Christian gentleman and anyone interested in this line of work can well remember this place with their prayers, their purse, and their children. I spoke three times at the university and once in a Southern Methodist Church both of Dayton, Tenn.

Turning toward the frigid zone and cutting through a blizzard, my long journey came to an end at the home of my mother at Flora, Ind. This is my old home town; the place where my father labored so long in the vineyard of the Lord.

Dodging great burrs and slipping carefully between tall weeds, I entered the old church building. Although dilapidated and neglected, enough of the old building remained for me to visualize before my mind the scenes of long ago.

It was through that door that I entered Sunday after Sunday, year in and year out. There is where the pastor stood and here the people sat. There is the very ceiling that vibrated with song and praise. Down that aisle I walked to accept the Lord, over 34 years ago. It was within those very walls that many of earth's weary pilgrims met the issues of an endless eternity. It was from these scenes that many of those dear faces have faded and passed away, and are at this very moment reaping the harvest of those years, whether it be gain or loss. And as I stood thus looking back upon the fearful issues that confronted those eternal souls, and considered the awful responsibility that now confronts me as I face an audience that must some day meet its God, strange and deep emotions surged across my soul; and I crawled through a window with a renewed resolution to continue preaching the gospel at any cost.

I spoke three times at Flora and again headed north. Arriving at Winona Lake, I spoke to the seminary students on Tues., evening.

Bro. Sandy and Bro. Hoyt combined their classes, and I spoke Wed. morning on "Old Testament Pictures of the Cross."

Again entering the highway, I arrived at Ft. Wayne in time to enjoy the noon meal with Bro. and Sister Leo Polman. I also entered the Ft. Wayne Church with its rare decorations in the auditorium and the office of the Herald at one side.

Journeying on, I found Miss Kimmel busily engaged with the affairs of The Home Missions Council in the office at Berne, Ind. Five miles farther on I arrived at the home of Bro. John Parr, pastor of that famous country church at Berne, Ind. I lectured here two evenings and again headed toward the rising sun.

Arriving at Ashland, O., I had the privilege of speaking two evenings in that marvelously healthy youngster, The West Tenth Street Brethren Church, of which Bro. Mayes is pastor.

With temperature almost at zero and glaring sun in my eyes, I journeyed to Canton where I found Bro. Niswonger recovering from an operation. Visiting with him a few moments and stopping a short time with Brother Aebly at Middlebranch, I journeyed on until I arrived at the home of my old friend, Geo. Kinzie, at Kittanning, Pa.

I spoke that evening at Catogan, Pa., in a Sunday School Union church, and back to the Kittanning church for two evenings. Then setting my face steadfastly toward home I arrived at my starting place almost three weeks after I started out, completing a circuit of nearly 1800 miles.

As we now sit in the comforts of our own home and remember the welcomes we received on every hand and the wonderful kindnesses we met from every one of you, we thank you one and all and know that God is not unrighteous to forget your work and labor of love (Heb. 6:10).

R. I. Humbert, Martinsburg, Pa.

Just think—a whole week at beautiful Winona! Aug. 26th will soon be here. That's the date The National Brethren Bible Conference convenes at Winona Lake. Don't forget that date—Aug. 26 to Sept. 1! There are so many good things in store for you. Activities of interest are scheduled for all ages.

The best Bible teachers and lecturers will be there to participate in the program; there will be fellowship for ministers, for laymen, for the women, for the boys and girls and young people. Dr. Harry Rimmer and Dr. V. C. Kelford, both men of national renown as Bible lecturers, are included in the program; besides these, many of our illustrious Brethren pastors and teachers will appear. A few of these are Professors Alva J. McClain, Herman A. Hoyt, Homer Kent, Conard Sandy, Rev. A. V. Kimmel, Rev. A. L. Lynn, Rev. C. H. Ashman, Dr. Louis S. Bauman, Rev. R. Paul Miller, and Rev. R. D. Barnard. The Biol. Trumpeters, a brass trio from Los Angeles, will be a magnetic feature during the entire week. National Brethren youth at Bethany Camp under the direction of Leo Polman is anticipating the greatest youth camp for spiritual growth, fellowship, and fun known in our history.

"On to Winona Lake—and The National Brethren Bible Conference!"

OUT OF STATE'S PRISON

There is a trophy of grace in Indiana State Prison at Michigan City. Several months ago Brother Garner Hoyt, student at Grace Theological Seminary, Winona Lake, Ind., held a service in the Wabash County jail. There he found a young man by the name of Frank E. Potts, under indictment for murder. He led this dear young man to Christ. On April 14 the secretary of the Home Missions Council received the following letter from this young man. It is enough to make every Brethren heart to rejoice at the wondrous grace of God. It is also sufficient to make each of us ashamed of the little we do for our Lord under the most favorable circumstances. Here is the letter:

#

Wabash, Ind.
April 12th, 1940

Dear Brother in Christ,

I heard that you were trying to get enough funds to build a little church down in the m't's of Kentucky, and as my tithes are really overdue I felt that this would be a very good time to turn them in. Although they aren't much the money belongs to our Lord and I must give it to Him.

Brother Garner Hoyt mentioned that you were building a church down in Kentucky. He is from Grace Theological Seminary in Winona Lake.

May the Lord bless and help you in your work for Him. Where there is a will, He will prepare the way.

Yours in our Lord,

FRANK E. POTTS.

P. S.—I'll go to Michigan City, to the State Prison pretty soon. I'll either get life or the chair.

F. E. P.

$2 enclosed.

Now that you have read this letter and felt the sting of sympathy and the pull of devotion in your heart, won't you remember to pray for Brother Potts that our Father God will work mightily for him according to His grace, and then add to your offering for Kentucky a gift worthy to place beside his?

AN EMERGENCY LETTER

Dear Brethren:

The directors of the Brethren Home Missions Council here desire to express our sincere appreciation of the wonderful way in which our Brethren have so generously provided for our home mission work last year. We asked for $22,000.00 and have received since July 1st $22,775.75. You have not only given what we have asked but in the true spirit of Christ, you have sent more. May the blessing of God rest upon you for it. We believe that it is but an indication of the love and confidence that our Brethren have in this great work.

At our annual meeting at Winona Lake last August we had 10 mission points and our budget was arranged for them. Since then, the favor of God has so rested upon our work that 10 new and promising fields have been opened to us.

Here is our problem. While we have received all that we asked for to cover our apparent needs last fall, the doubling of our fields has practically put us back financially to where we were when we began the year. Believing that God will not send us more fields than He will provide for, and that to reject any field, because of present lack of funds for them, would be an act of unbelief, we have accepted them after careful consideration. Now the question is, will we as Brethren rise up to the greater opportunity we have asked for and which God has generously sent us?

By the barest kind of support, designed merely to hold these new fields and not to lose them, the directors feel that with $3,000 additional this year, we can get by, without any loss to the work of the Lord. It was felt that the only thing to do is to set our case plainly before our people and before the Lord and ask for this additional help in an offering in the month of June.

We desire, however, to say this is not the procedure we plan to follow each year, but the appeal is being made to meet that which we have considered an emergency situation.

Now you know the whole story. A special emergency offering envelope for your gift will be supplied by your pastor. Pray over it and give as He leads you. It will be enough.

Most faithfully yours,

THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE BRETHREN
HOME MISSIONS COUNCIL, INC.

Roy A. Patterson, Pres.
R. E. Donaldson, Vice Pres.
Wm. H. Schaffer, Treas.
R. Paul Miller, Secretary.

Emergency Offering for Home Missions June Sixteenth

The special emergency offering for Home Missions to be taken among our Brethren Churches to care for the many new mission points that have come to us since our budget was made up last fall, will be lifted on June 16. This is the general date, however, if this date interferes with any other work of the local churches, the offering may be taken either the week before or the week after June 16.

While the needs of the work are much greater, yet we are only asking for

$3,000

Emergency offering envelopes in red color are being supplied to all our churches for this special offering. We are depending wholly upon our pastors to care for the matter and present it to their churches. We have not the slightest doubt but that every cent we are asking for will be supplied. It is the Lord's work. He has sent the fields to us. We have learned that our people are largely led of the Spirit of God in their giving, and we expect to receive all we need. May our Father God glorify Himself in this offering.

America's Distress—

In Lk. 21:25-28 our Lord gives a significant list of indications that would accompany His return, or rather that would immediately precede His return. Among these is one that most clearly marks the present. He said, "And on the earth distress of nations with perplexity." That this is one true condition of the nations of the world today is beyond question. There is not a nation of Europe but which is all but bankrupt due to debts incurred because of the world war of 1914-1918. Now we see them in a wild orgy of war preparations that are plunging them yet further into the deep morass of financial distress. The secretary of the League of Nations reported that all of the nations in that organization were in actual bankruptcy except one. After the war dogs have been let loose for 12 months the financial state of Europe will be incalculable.

It has been the characteristic feeling of Americans that no matter what happens to Europe, that it can't happen here. The conviction is that we can't be defeated, we can't be exhausted of our wealth, we can't lose our freedom, we can't lose our liberties. A blind simpleton could realize the future of America with the open forces of communism and destruction boldly organizing in every city of the land., defying our congressional investigating committee with an arrogance that is based upon favor in high places in our government, organizing communistic groups among the students in colleges all over the land. While Christianity is forbidden and the Bible is locked out of our universities and public schools, atheism and communism are welcomed.

Now comes the report of federal finances that is enough to startle the most sanguine. During the last seven years our federal government alone has spent $60,000,000,000! During that period our national debt has risen to $44,000,000,000. And it is still going on at a dizzy pace with our legislators unwilling to stop it. The report further declares that our annual expenditures are $70.65 for every man, woman and child in this land. Our annual receipts from present taxes are $43 per capita. That leaves a continuous piling up of debt yearly of $27 for every human being in the land. That means $150 for every family in the land. The total debt now stands at something over $300 for each person, young and old, and $1,500 for each average family. There is no indication that our national leaders intend to stop this headlong course into national bankruptcy, and with 10,000,000 unemployed calling for public support, with business men afraid to expand their business for fear of the crushing taxation, America is swiftly joining the 'nations in distress.'

But all of these things are what our Lord has foretold us would come to pass before He returns. This present world system is destined to crash and disappear utterly before the incoming day of our glorious King of kings and Lord of lords when peace and righteousness shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea. The one must go before the other can come. Let us not weep over the passing of Babylon. Rather let us rejoice that the new Jerusalem is coming!

The Bible of the World—

The Viking Press, in New York City, announces that it has now published an entirely new book called, "The Bible of the World." It has 1344 pages devoted to gathering "into one book the essential elements of all the living source religions of the world." It is a general mixture of parts of the writings of Buddhism, Mohammedanism, Hinduism, Confucianism, Zoroastrianism, Taoism, Judaism, and Christianity.

The devil has tried for a long time to destroy the Word of God in the eyes of men. Fifteen years ago he brought out "The Shorter Bible" which eliminated all that established the reality of the supernatural. The aim was to make it appear as a merely human book. Now he comes out with a 'longer bible,' adding all the miserable and puerile drippings of the human religions that now exist in the world. The idea is to get men to lose sight of the true Word of God. We dare say that copies of this so-called "World Bible" will not so much as be seen in heathen lands. It is only for the purpose of injuring the faith of men in lands where the Bible has been accepted that this new affair has been concocted.

Remarks the Religious News Service, "It is no accident that "The Bible of the World" should be published at just this period in the world's history." Indeed it is no accident. Nothing that the old devil does is by accident. He hates the Word of God and has labored ceaselessly for 2000 years to destroy it. He is now putting on his supreme effort to crush Christianity and this is one of his acts to that end. Says the Religious Press further, "At no time has western civilization been so receptive to the cultural heritage of the rest of the world." Maybe this is so, and maybe not, but one thing is sure that heathen mysticism and religious ideas of all kinds are spreading through America as never before.

Until Hinduism produces a Savior who can satisfy the demands of a Holy God upon the sinner; until Mohammedanism can bring forth a Victor over the grave; until Buddhism can produce one who can live without sin and can give a sinner a spiritual power that will free him from the power of sin; until Confucius can write some Odes that reveal the will of God in the lives of men; or until Taoism establishes and describes with authority the nature of life after death, and Zoroaster reveals the future thousands of years in advance without failure of any detail; Jesus Christ will never be looked upon as on the level with such pitiable religious leaders, nor will the Bible, the true Word of God lose its place as the only revelation of God to this world of men. As Cowper so fitly wrote:

'A glory gilds the sacred page,
Majestic like the sun;
It gives a light to every age,
It gives, but borrows none.'

"Forever, O Lord, thy word is settled in heaven."

It Is Not The Jew, It Is God

Dr. Samuel H. Markowitz, noted Jewish Rabbi, in addressing the Fort Wayne, Ind., Ministerial Association, declared recently,

"The world does not face a Jewish problem, but a religious problem. It is the moral principles today that are involved."

Here is one Jewish leader that is not fooled. He realizes that all this outward Jewish hate is not against the Jew but against the God of the Jew. This is the real fact back of all the present persecution of the Jews in the world today. It is not insignificant that the present world war, for that is what it really is, began amid the fires of hatred and persecution of the Jews. It is this same fiery hate that will drive the Christless nations under anti-christ to rush upon Jerusalem to utterly destroy that hapless people, not because they are Jews but because they are related to Jesus Christ Whom antichrist hates. "Ye shall be hated of all nations for my name's sake." And just as truly as the Jews are paying a terrible price for the kinship to Jesus Christ according to the flesh, so also are the true Christians beginning to feel that wrath of Satan in these last days. Never have such tremendous efforts been made by Satan to attack those who are really carrying on the work of Christ, as are being made today. This old world is getting to be a place where there is no room for anyone who worships Jesus Christ the Son of God. Thank God we have a city that has foundations, whose Builder and Keeper is God. There we may serve our Lord and none shall hinder us. Blessed day!

THROUGH SUFFERING TO CHRIST

Elias Zimmerman, our missionary to Israel in Los Angeles

God indeed works in strange and mysterious ways in our lives, and it is only when we look back and see the whole picture and realize the hand of God leading and directing those whom He loveth that we can understand the why and the wherefore of sickness and suffering and pain and hardship.

Just about a month ago two young Jewish women hesitatingly walked into our mission. They were strangers in a strange land. One came from New York City, the other from Chicago. They were both homeless, friendless, and penniless. They were bewildered, not knowing where to go and what to do. We are not surprised when we see men and even boys in their teens in such a sad plight, but it is seldom that Jewish women find themselves in such a pitiful condition. Our hearts were deeply touched and moved. We were confronted with great human distress and need. They were hungry, for they had nothing to eat all day long, so we fed them. They were homeless, not knowing where to lay their heads that night, so we provided temporary lodging places for them. We could not help but think of what our Lord and Savior said: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my (Jewish) brethren, ye have done it unto me" (Matt. 25:40). "And whosoever shall give to drink unto one of these little ones a cup of cold water in the name of disciple, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward" (Matt. 10:42). But it was not reward that we were seeking. Deep down within our hearts we could not help but feel that perhaps the Lord had sent them to us in this pitiful condition that through kindness and helpfulness and Christian love in this their sad plight, we might win them to the Lord Jesus Christ. For our "heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved."

It was several days later that we heard their sad story piecemeal. Her home broken up, and finding herself broken in health and in spirit, Mrs. P. was advised by her physician to go West. After disposing of all her belongings she found that she had something like $400 in cash. She started out, but was compelled on account of her health to stop on the way and rest. By the time she reached Los Angeles she found that the hotel and doctor bills had used up all her cash. And here she was in a big, and strange city without a friend in all the wide world, wondering if it might not be best to make an end of it all.

Miss L., a young woman of about 25 years of age, told her story. She had prepared herself in New York University for the teaching profession, but unable to find employment as a teacher, she decided to come West. She expected to stay with an uncle, but on reaching Los Angeles she found a broken up home and her uncle out of the city. Mrs. P. and Miss L. evidently met in an office of a Jewish welfare agency where they applied for assistance. They were refused. Hopeless and despondent they walked the streets of Los Angeles. They passed by our mission, and in their desperation they decided to come in. We befriended them and helped them, the Lord spoke to their hearts, and two weeks ago they made public confession of their faith in the Lord Jesus Christ as their Savior and Redeemer.

How often the Lord drives us in a corner that we might face Him and that He might deal with us. God indeed works in divers and mysterious ways in bringing some of the lost sheep of the house of Israel into the fold.

"Even in suffering He is merciful and kind,
He gently whispers, Be patient and resigned,
Bear up, bear on: the end shall tell.
The dear Lord ordereth all things well."

1939—

What It Should Have Taught Us

by R. E. Gingrich

This article was designed to appear in January, but due to many unforeseen problems in getting our new magazine started, it has waited till now. It is a strong message, and is still as potent as then.—Ed.

Was the past year but another 12 months in our experience, or will it be recorded in the record as a period in which we were taught some vital and lasting lessons? Perhaps to some the former is true, while to others the latter describes the actual situation. What should 1939 have taught us? While we cannot speak authoritatively for others, nor can we cover the field exhaustively, we nevertheless wish to suggest two or three valuable lessons that we should have learned as a result of the experiences of the past 12 months.

I. 1939 should have taught us not to boast or trust in the arm of flesh.

One of the most difficult lessons to learn is not to trust in the flesh. We are so likely to trust either in self or in others, rather than depend upon God. Hard indeed are the experiences through which the Lord at times leads us in order to teach us that we must trust in Him alone. In the end, however, these times of chastening prove to be but the wounds of a Friend.

As we look over the past year we are impressed with the indisputable evidence of the abundant blessing of the Lord. Reluctantly have we seen both property and personal rights torn from us. Today the Lord has overruled to His glory and praise, and to our blessing and good. The replacement has more than compensated for the loss.

A study of the experiences of God's people through their experience of centuries confirms the above observation. We dare not trust in the arm of flesh. When Noah, so marvelously rescued from the waters of the deluge, neglected his intimate dependence upon the Lord, he became a victim of drunkenness. When Lot, so graciously delivered from the jaws of death at Sodom, forgot of the Lord, he leaned upon his own understanding, becoming a victim of both drunkenness and incest. Abraham, counselling within himself instead of with God, left the place of blessing and added to the sin of disobedience the sin of lying. Israel, in spite of the blessing of God for centuries, forsook the arm of the Lord for the arm of flesh and plunged to her destruction amid the yawning jaws of Assyria and Babylonia. It was in anticipation of the conquest of Nebuchadnezzar and for the purpose of giving much needed counsel to Judah that the Lord through Jeremiah uttered these solemn words: "Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, and maketh the flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the Lord" (Jer. 17:5). While spoken directly to Judah, its solemn counsel is vitally applicable to us today. 1939 should have taught us not to trust in the arm of flesh, for it is accompanied by a curse.

II. 1939 should have taught us that the separated life is a prerequisite to divine blessing.

Rejoicing over the marvelous bestowal of divine blessing upon us as evidences in the magnificent offering for home missions given by many of our churches this past fall and winter, a very dear friend of ours remarked in a letter to us recently: "It just goes to show that a pure church is a powerful church." This observation is in harmony with the content of God's Word. Throughout its pages God insists upon moral, social, and doctrinal purity as a prerequisite to the bestowal of His blessings.

Certainly the past few years have witnessed a sifting and separating process within The Brethren Church. To be sure the process was vigorously resisted, but God moved irresistibly forward, and today the cleavage appears clear-cut and decisive. Two groups stand within the confines of the church: one dedicated, among other things, to the separated life; the other, to say the least, apparently uncommitted to this proposition.

What has been the result? God has opened the windows of heaven and poured out such a blessing upon us that we have been unable adequately to receive it. More opportunities for Brethren Churches to be established where none now exist present themselves than the Home Mission Council can adequately care for. Fine, consecrated Christian souls from without are seeking a Christian home within our local churches. Young men are responding to the challenge of the Christian ministry. Six are in the preliminary stages of preparation for that profession from Ellet alone. Two or three others are seriously considering the call. God is moving in mysterious ways His wonders to perform, but He is moving; and if the Lord tarries in His coming, a glorious future for His people awaits us, if we live separated and consecrated lives, trusting, not in the arm of flesh, but in the arm of the Lord. A stirring demand is presented in view of this promising background—gifts in the form of large offerings for the promotion of church expansion; but when a people is dedicated to the Lord, its offerings are liberal. We have no fear for the future.

III. 1939 should have taught us that, though a child of God may lose many battles, he never loses the war.

We do not claim originality for this observation. Somewhere in our reading it appeared and has never faded from our mind. It has been a source of genuine encouragement to us when temporary defeat stood in our way. The child of God may lose many battles, but he never loses the war.

In the conflict within the denomination; in the conflict within the loyal church; in the conflict with external forces; in the conflict with internal foes, you and I may lose, and indeed have lost many battles. But by the grace of God and His irresistible power, we shall win the war. Amid the darkest hours God works out His every plan and purpose. Persecution purifies; controversy educates; opposition stimulates; conflict quickens.

It was the persecution of the period of the early Christian martyrs that purified the church and made her powerful. Those immortal martyrs lost many battles but they did not lose the war. Listen to the words of our Lord as He spoke to those heroes of the faith. Said He: "Be thou faithful unto death (and they were) and I will give thee a crown of life." Even in death and apparent defeat they won the war. Personally they won the crown of life. For the church they won countless numbers of converts, for "the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church."

It was the controversy between Arius and Athanasius of the fourth century, together with their colleagues, that clarified the issue surrounding the deity of Jesus Christ, and educated the church in that vital problem. In that controversy Athanasius and his followers lost several battles, but they won the war.

It was the terrific opposition of Romanism that stimulated the Reformers to search the Scriptures, translate them into the language of the common people, and set the world on fire with their doctrine and labors. In that period the Reformers lost many a battle, but they won the war, thank God!

It was the conflict between dead, barren orthodoxy and the missionary zeal of Wm. Carey, Robert Morrison, Adoniram Judson and others of the 18th and 19th centuries that sent the arm of Christian missions into every continent and isle of the sea. Conflict does quicken God's people, and stimulate them to unprecedented activity. Carey, Morrison, and Judson lost many battles in the fray, but they won the war; and their names have become immortal in the annals of both earth and heaven.

In the year of our Lord 1939, we have lost some battles. None can dispute that fact. But, thank God, when the records are complete and we stand before our omniscient Judge, we shall have won the war.

Another Revival at Covington, Virginia

For the third time, we have been privileged to assist in an evangelistic campaign in Covington, Va. There is no doubt that each meeting has increased in power and in results. Greater attendance and increased numbers of souls being saved has characterized each succeeding meeting. It has been a great privilege to have had a part in this wonderful work. We found things in fine shape and all was ready for the campaign. The blessing of the Lord was apparent upon our meeting from the start. Originally we had planned a campaign of two weeks. During the latter part of the second week it was felt that it would be a mistake to close the meeting and cut off the working of God's Spirit so quickly. Therefore, we continued for the third week. The decision was certainly a wise one, judging from the results. One of the developments of this meeting was the demand for special morning services. These morning meetings were greatly blessed of the Lord and more than a score made decisions at these services.

There were delegations from Roanoke, Va., Buena Vista, Va., and Hollins, Va. We greatly rejoiced in the fine spirit of fellowship with these Brethren. During the meeting we spoke in the new Covington High School. We can honestly say that we had never found more reverence and respect than from these High School boys and girls.

One morning during these meetings we had the pleasure of a visit from one of the leading men of our Roanoke church, who has felt a definite call to the ministry. His present plans are to enter Grace Seminary this fall. Many of us have been much concerned about the lack of preachers to care for the increasing fields that are coming to us. However, it is evident that our God will take care of the needs from that angle.

Bernard Schneider, the pastor, has done a great work in Covington. It was not quite five years ago that he answered the call to this field. No one except those who saw the small beginning could possibly appreciate the tremendous growth that has followed. The church itself is really four years old. Now there is a Sunday School of 225 and a congregation of about the same number, not including those who came during this last campaign. It will likely be very near to the 300 mark from now on.

The congregation has been growing spiritually, and this is manifest in every way. Souls are being saved right along throughout the year. It is the transformed lives of men and women that puts the appeal back of the gospel which the pastor preaches. Drinking men made sober, gamblers made honest, men who previously cursed have now become pure of speech, men who were slaves to tobacco are now free from it. It is a testimony that the entire city respects. The church is known to the whole community.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Schneider and Lucy

There is undoubtedly a great future for the Covington church. There was a time when we thought that it had reached its limit. We have changed our minds. There seems to be an endless stream of prospects being drawn to the Lord there. The community itself is not more than half developed, and there seems to be no limit to the possibilities. The Sunday School now crowds its quarters and they must have more room very soon. Their debt is almost paid and it will be completely cancelled in a couple of months. The hearts of the people are full of confidence and they are ready to expand. This congregation has now been entirely independent from home mission aid for over a year. They gave $400.00 to home missions this last year.

The hospitality of these Covington people is superb. Our home was with Brother and Sister Schneider and we certainly enjoyed the Spirit of Christ there. All of our days were happy ones and we greatly rejoice in the fellowship in service with them.

Winchester, Virginia

On our way from Covington we stopped at Winchester, Va., to look over the new parsonage being built there. It is now nearly completed and it is surely a beautiful home. The congregation is to be commended for their fine spirit of progress and foresight. The work of this congregation is growing and there are greater prospects now than ever before. The Southeastern Brethren Bible Conference will meet in Winchester during the last week of July. It promises to be the greatest gathering to date in that section.

Hagerstown, Maryland

From Winchester, we drove on to Hagerstown where we closed the deal for the purchase of four very fine lots for our new work in that city. Brother William Clough of Uniontown, Pa. had just closed a very fine revival in this little church and the Lord manifested His favor in every way. Brother Clough is greatly enthused over this work and believes that there is a great future for The Brethren Church in this field. Brother Ralph Rambo will take this field for the summer but will return to Grace Seminary where school opens in the fall. A permanent man will be placed in that field at this time.

Vinco, Pa.

Leaving Hagerstown, we drove on to Waynesboro and had lunch in the home of Brother and Sister Robert Crees. We had a very profitable time of discussion of the affairs of the district. After a little time of rest we drove on that afternoon to Conemaugh, Pa., for supper. After a brief conference with William Schaffer, Archie Lynn and Ord Gehman we got a bit of sleep that night. Before we left that section we drove out to see the new building site that the Vinco congregation plans to purchase. They hope to get their structure completed before winter comes. The new work is growing, even under adverse circumstances. They have to meet in an old dance hall that has been fitted for religious meetings. The community is extremely sympathetic because of circumstances which have developed during recent months. Their Sunday School is growing, and they have a very fine outlook.

Flora, Indiana

This new congregation has now been definitely accepted by the Home Missions Council. Lots have been purchased for a new church site and plans are under consideration now for the new building. The attendance at their services is growing continuously and God's favor is upon it. One thing is certain, these people mean business for God. They are destined to bear a great testimony to that community.

Cleveland, Ohio

We had not had an opportunity to look this work over for quite a while. The new location looks better to us now than ever. The congregation is very happy in their new accommodations and the work is growing right along. Souls are being saved and the Sunday School is increasing. The service at which we were present gave prominence to one young lady who that day had brought six to Sunday School with her. That spirit is increasing among that people. They are now preparing for a real campaign of soul winning, on the 12th of May with Brother Bernard Schneider of Covington, Va., leading them. Please pray for these meetings.

AROUND THE COUNCIL TABLE

the singing of saws—the cracks of hammers—the ringing of tools—the sliding of materials—mingled with the laughs of men—and then add to this the “ring” for the superintendent to give further instructions—thus we can best describe what you would have heard had you dropped in on The Third Brethren Church of Los Angeles, during the recent remodeling campaign, under the direction of Brother George Kaum.

Instead of all this activity, the barren, unsightly, used studding of our auditorium has been concealed and the walls finished. Plyboard was used from floor up about four feet, and from there on to ceiling we used Celotex. The windows and doors have all been completely cased, and all the woodwork has been painted in ivory. A baptistry has been installed, and since completion, 10 have been taken into baptismal waters. The baptistry has been built right in back of the pulpit. An old red brick fireplace, which one time graced or disgraced the interior of this converted beer parlor, has been modernized and tiled on the face, which is an asset to the general appearance of our auditorium.

Putting our tools aside, we went on to the outside of the building to pursue another line of endeavor. Following a team of mules, we raked and dragged, dragged and raked, and then we could all but drag ourselves. Yes, we planted a lawn around the church. We added much to the exterior of our building. At present we are working on a Neon Bulletin Board which will be placed in front of the church to advertise our services. Such a sign will be an advantage to work for we are located on the great six lane highway between San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego.

On Jan. 29, we had a capacity crowd of 225 to hear Eureka Jubilee Singers.

During the week of Mar. 25-31, we had the privilege of having the Biola Trumpeters with us from the Biola Institute of Los Angeles. Our hearts were stirred with their music and testimonies to the praise of the Lord Jesus Christ.

On Mar. 31, we held an “open house” service, and delegates from most of the neighboring Brethren churches were present. Dr. V. C. Kelford was the speaker of the afternoon. In spite of unsettled weather there were over 200 present for the service, and to see our recently finished auditorium.

Just three months from the date that we first arrived on the field, Dr. Kelford began a one week Bible conference. The conference is now in session, and we are being literally “fed” on the deeper truths of God’s blessed Word. How marvelous is the matchless grace of God! This is all that fills the heart and mind as Dr. Kelford speaks. Dr. Kelford closes his meetings next Sunday, Apr. 14, after which he is returning to his home in Waterloo, Iowa.

The Lord is blessing our work, and we are especially praising the Lord for the many visitors and strangers who show much interest in our work. Each Lord’s day brings new faces into our midst. The names of these are secured so they might be contacted through the “Two and Three Groups” and pastoral visitation.

Averages for the last three months since our having arrived on the field reveals that the average Sunday School attendance has been 118; the average for the morning service is 56; and the evening service, 42. The Lord is blessing in our transportation work in the Sunday School; in fact, we do not work as hard as we might on this because of lack of Sunday School rooms.

Once each month we hold a service at the Los Angeles Mission. At our last meeting two men accepted Christ and several others came forward for prayer. Several of our men are engaged in jail work.

The Lord has richly blessed our new work by bringing into our midst men and women who are fully persuaded that the only life that can count for our Lord is life which has been completely dedicated to Him. As a result of this conviction in the hearts of our people, they are busy working to win the lost to Christ. Realizing that the Lord is the only One Who can bring the victory, we are going forward by His grace, praying that we might ever be faithful in making clear and simple the message of salvation to the lost.

A CONFERENCE WITH GOD

By Don F. Carter
La Verne, Calif.

Isaiah 1:18. "Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord; Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."

"I'll have nothing to do with your God! He is a hateful, unjust, jealous monster who delights in threats of torment upon helpless fearful men." These words were bitterly spoken by a man rejecting the offer of the glorious gospel of our Lord. Thus speaking, the man angrily stalked from the room. Strange it is that this man is an example of thousands of poor lost sinners who consider God to be a vindictive beast, delighting in an unreasoning torture of helpless men. Forgotten is the truth of the magnificent justice of God. Forgotten is the truth that man is in his sinful lost condition purely because of his own blind refusal to receive the freely offered mercies of God. Forgotten is the truth that "by one man's disobedience many were made sinners." Forgotten is the truth that the same unchangeable God is still pleading with men to repent and be saved. Despite all rebellious caviling of sinners, love is still the watchword in God's dealing with men. God, through the centuries, has been calling for a conference with men: "Come now, and let us reason together." He desires to meet and deal with men to consider their pitiful condition of sinfulness and plan a way of escape. But, oh, how few have been the replies to that invitation! The urgent call has fallen upon deaf ears. The conference is poorly attended. The "come now" of God draws few men into the halls of divine justice for they are too busily occupied waiting their turns in the antechambers of the "god of this world."

We witness the sad picture of an Almighty God vainly waiting with outstretched arms while heedless men, the flower of His creation, flock into the courts of the "god of this world" who "hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them."

I. The Invitation to the Conference.

In the midst of this sin-stricken world the voice of God speaks: "Come now, and let us reason together, er, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow." These words were spoken by God, Whose heart was grieved, to His own people who had apostatized and drifted far from Him. In the day of Isaiah this message was addressed to "a sinful nation, a people laden with iniquity, a seed of evildoers, children that are corrupters" a people whose "whole head is sick," a people who "from the sole of the foot even to the head there is no soundness in it; but wounds and bruises, and putrifying sores: they have not been closed, neither bound up, neither mollified with ointment," a people of whom God says, "your country is desolate, your cities are burned with fire: your land, strangers devour it in your presence, and it is desolate as overthrown by strangers." These sad conditions brought the invitation of God for a broken, heartsick people to come back into His loving presence.

In like manner, this text has become in these days of grace a standing invitation of God to an entire world which, like Israel, has become debauched with the ravages of that greatest of all enemies and invaders, sin.

The Invitation Is to All Men: "Come."

God stands today with outstretched arms pleading with men to come to Him. He can never apply His saving work until men come. Oh, the sadness and tragedy that men will not heed the invitation but persist in their own self will. The open arms of God are a symbol, today a symbol of grace: "Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest." The day will come when these same arms will be a symbol of judgment, barring the way into God's presence. The words then shall be: "Depart from me for I never knew you."

The Invitation Is Imperative: "Now"

"Now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation." The call is urgent. Come before it is too late! Many are they who have rejected the call of the Spirit and before that call was given again had gone to a Christless grave. Unsaved man, before you lay your body in repose this night, accept God's invitation. Come to Him now!

The Invitation is for Mutual Discussion: "Let Us Reason Together"

Here we have a great thing, wonder of wonders, the Almighty God reasoning with men! Man is the crowning glory of God's creation, a creature of will, volition, and reasoning power. God thus desires that man come to Him for mutual discussion of the great problem of eternal life.

The great difficulty with the unsaved man is that he is an unreasoning sinner. He refuses to include God in his considerations. Unsaved man, will you accept God's invitation to reason with Him? Will you reason with Him about Himself? about yourself? about His purpose in the world? about sin? about your own personal relationship with Him? about the sin offering that has been provided? about heaven? about hell? No man who has thus reasoned with God will come forth from that conference chamber a lost man. To reason is to be saved. Come now, meet God honestly, sincerely, and be ready to reason with Him regarding the greatest fact in history, salvation. Will you listen to the pleading voice of the Holy Spirit as He deals in your heart asking you to be saved? Will you give God an opportunity to reason in your heart regarding divine truths that are yours to know?

II. The Condition of the Conference.

"Though your sins be as scarlet."

God has one condition that stands as the basis of beginning of fellowship with Him, confession of sin. God's great edict to the world is: "All have sinned." He calls men to come to Him and reason together regarding the sin question. He faces men with the stark fact that they are sinners and has as His primary demand a frank and open confession of sin. This is the door to salvation. My friend will you face the facts? Will you make that one most difficult confession, "I have sinned?" God's eternal unchangeable Word says you are a sinner. The world points a finger and labels you a sinner. The very deeds of your life rise up in accusation to call you a sinner. Your own conscience renders the verdict: You are a sinner. Your heart betrays you and confesses that you are a sinner. Heaven and earth proclaim it: you are a sinner. Not very pleasing is this indictment to the proud worldling, yet it is true as God's Word is true. God, whose omniscient probing finger discerns the innermost secrets of your heart, has thundered forth the accusation: you are a sinner! "There is none righteous, no not one." All men, good and bad alike, fall under the same category and we witness this great truth of Scripture that forever silences the voices of objectors: "all the world—guilty before God."

God can only reason, can only promise, can only save as men recognize that they are sinners and confess that sin to Him. Will you now, my friend, face the facts, break down that stubborn will, and reason with God on the grounds of His almighty condition? God desires "a broken and contrite spirit." Christ came to bring, not the righteous, but sinners to repentance. Will you now admit the fact honestly and sincerely: Lord, my sins are as scarlet, I am a helpless sinner and need thy salvation!

III. The Blessings of the Conference.

God is more willing to forgive than you are to be forgiven. In His great love He has provided a wonderful salvation. Those sins which were many and which burdened your soul may be forgiven. If the guilty sinner will recognize his bondage to sin and plead forgiveness at the hand of the Almighty God there shall be a way of escape. See that way of escape in the words of this old gospel song:

If you from sin are longing to be free,
Look to the Lamb of God.
He to redeem you died on Calvary's tree,
Look to the Lamb of God.

Yes, my friend, there is a sacrifice for sin. May you burdened, weary, darkened eyes look up and truly "behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." Jesus, the only begotten Son of God was offered on the cross to bear your sins that you need never have to bear them yourself. See what God's Word says: "Who His own self bare our sins in His own body on the tree." Through accepting His sacrifice you may be freed once for all from the guilt and penalty of sin to become a beloved child of God.

What can wash away my sin?
Nothing but the blood of Jesus;
What can make me whole again?
Nothing but the blood of Jesus.

Oh, the wonderful work of regeneration that will be yours through a simple childlike trust in Him. In the words of Spurgeon written many years ago there is a fourfold work accomplished in the life of the man who accepts the Christ of the cross:

1. He will remove forever the guilt of sin—free forgiveness.
2. He will discharge the penalty of sin—full atonement.
3. He will destroy the dominion of sin—regeneration.
4. He will prevent the return of sin—constant sanctification.

What a wonderful privilege it is to enter the council chamber and reason with God. Come now, ye who are burdened with the weight of sin, enter these blessed portals. Catch a glimpse of the one altogether lovely who is your seeking Savior. Crown Him King of your life and enter the joy of a redeemed blood-bought saint of God. Then shall you be able to join that redeemed throng in these words: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be. But we know that when He shall appear, we shall be like Him for we shall see Him as He is."

THIS MONTH'S HOME MISSION STORY

by Mrs. Earl Virts

You have already heard that so many new home mission churches need your help that a special offering will have to be taken in July. Of course, you have been saving all the pennies, nickles, dimes and quarters possible to help make the offering large. You will be glad to learn that God is blessing your past gifts in such a wonderful way. Aren't you glad you can help boys and girls like Reta find Christ?—Ed.

Reta Loutzenhiser, a member of the Junior Department of the First Brethren Church of Fort Wayne, Indiana, has really been separating her life for Christ during the last few weeks.

Reta definitely gave her heart to the Lord during a recent evangelistic service conducted by Rev. Bob Monroe. A few nights later the Sunday School class of which she was a member planned to attend the services in a body.

Reta had a previous engagement. She had been chosen the best speller in her school. On that night she was to appear at the radio station with contestants from every other school in the city to determine the champion speller of the city. Did Reta go? No, she had given her heart to the Lord and she thought it more important that she serve her Lord by being with her class at the service. The honor of being a contestant for the champion speller had dimmed in importance.

Reta was also a soul winner. Now that she knew the joy of belonging to Jesus she wanted her mother to become a Christian also. For two weeks she and her mother prayed and talked. Now that Reta had taken the step, she was very desirous that her mother should find the same peace and joy.

After much praying, on the last day of the campaign Reta's mother walked down the aisle and gave her heart to Jesus. Reta's joy knew no bounds. Her prayers had been answered, and she and her mother were walking the Christian pathway together.

What Other Boys and Girls are Doing

A few years ago when there was need for a church in one of the mountain villages of Korea, the children responded to the appeal and in less than eight months the much-needed church was built.

Since that time they have sent money for twelve other churches. God has wonderfully blessed the boys and girls as they have prayed and given.

Are you praying with us for the new home mission churches? Are you giving all you can that other boys and girls may know Jesus too?

How Thankful We Should Be!

Did you ever wake up tired on Sunday morning and wish you didn't have to go to Sunday School? Perhaps you never have stopped to think what it would mean if you could not go. The following letter was written by an unsaved girl to a Christian friend who had invited her to Sunday School. Don't you think you should get on your knees right now and thank God that you can go to church to worship Him? Dear Friend:

You sent me a little invitation. I would and do like to go to Sunday School. I realize now how you felt when you were sick and couldn't go. I thought you were a funny girl when you told me, but now I realize how you felt. Just one little week ago I wanted to go very bad. I did as much as get up at 5:15, but I had to stay at home.

For a while we went to a Norwegian church two times a month. The services were in Norwegian and I couldn't understand a bit, only a few words. My parents are Swedish, you see. Sunday School was in English of course as we were only a few little boys and girls. But we stopped after a while.

Sometimes we have services in a school near here. I usually went. You see, we haven't had any lately, in fact for several years.

We used to go to church on Easter. I have never been on Christmas.

You understand now all about my religion. A week ago Sunday I cried all day because I was so disappointed. I wish I could get my father to go to church, but he seems to think it bores him. I suppose it isn't right for me to say what I have said, but I can't help it. When father read your little message he didn't say anything.

You are one of my best friends. I wish I could say as Elsie in the book, "Elsie Dinsmore," says, "I love Jesus best, then you."

From one who wishes she could do right.

HE CAN HEAR

by Rowley Lemley

Jesus listens to your prayer;
He can hear, no matter where.
Even if your voice is weak,
He can hear each word you speak.

When you bow your little head,
He will hear what you have said.
If it's but a whisper small,
He will listen for your call.

If you pray a silent prayer,
It goes winging through the air.
Every child to him is dear;
Every wish of yours he'll hear.

Buddhism

(Ps. 39:1-7; 40:1-3)

Suggestions for the Leader

Try to read some article on Buddhism. It can be found in the library. Make notes on the rise and spread of the religion.

Buddhism was the first religion in the world to become international. It has nearly 300,000,000 followers. Some figures show that they have less. The founder set out to save himself from a world which was thoroughly infested with misery. Though he discouraged any dependence upon any kind of divine being, his followers made an idol out of him.

Buddha taught a system of ethics and good works. There were five things regarded as prohibitions: do not kill, do not steal, do not commit adultery, do not lie, do not drink intoxicants.

We do not combat false religions because they have good ethics but because they refuse to honor Christ as God. A comparative religion which says we ought to save the best of all religions will bring trouble, since there can be no agreement over the Lord Jesus Christ.

In this day some discredit foreign missions as unnecessary. Yet we need to stand for our conviction that if salvation is to come to foreign lands it must come through Christ.

1. Teaching vs. Practice.

Buddhism had its origin in a man and his teachings. He taught that one should renounce the pleasures of this life. He surmised that self-denial would bring merit to a person to the extent that he would be one with the infinite. His followers believe in reincarnation or that Buddha was here before in other animal forms. They do pray for things like healing and prosperity and only pretend to renounce the world. The system has not been helpful to the average man or woman.

2. Buddhism and Christianity.

All religions are either evolved (man made) or revealed (given from heaven). Only Christianity is revealed from heaven. Some false religions fight Christianity by opposing it. Buddhism simply adopts the methods of Christianity but exalts Buddha instead of Christ. Buddhists put on great demonstrations to win the people to themselves. We must regard Buddhism as a false religion of the Orient which never can deal with man's need for salvation.

3. Buddhism and Nationalism.

Buddhism is a religion closely related to the national life of several countries. The Far East has frequently fought against Western civilization as well as Christianity. This means that they defend Buddhism as they defend their own nationalism. Christianity is as much for the Orientals as for any people since it is universal. Our solution of the problem is to preach the gospel without tying it to the affairs of the nation. Preaching must go on in the Orient as it has in England or our own country.

4. Buddhism and Christ.

The followers of Buddha have defended his teaching and claimed that he had a supernatural birth. The doctrine cannot be supported like our Lord's virgin birth (Lk. 1:35). Buddha claimed that he lived before in other forms; but that this would be the last. We do know that Jesus did have preexistence (Jn. 1:1,14). Buddha never worked miracles like Jesus did (Acts 2:22). He fails to deal with sin satisfactorily. On the other hand Christ came to bring salvation.

Additional Scripture

Read and give a summary of all the material in Romans 1, 2, 3.

Questions

1. In what respect is Christianity a universal religion?
2. What are the chief differences between Christianity and all false religions?
3. Has the connection between nationalism and many Oriental religions helped promote the system?
4. Why is it that only Christianity can satisfy and deal with sin?

The Miracles of Jesus—Power Over Nature

Information for the Leader: A miracle is something produced by supernatural or divine agency. The New Testament used three terms to denote miracles—namely, signs, wonders, and power or mighty works. The recorded miracles of Jesus are only a small part of all those He actually performed. He performed these miracles, not only to help everyone, but to show His power and glory to all men. As Christ was God, we might say that God used these unusual ways of revealing His personality, or Himself, too. When we read Mark 6:55-56 we suppose that Jesus spent many such days, healing the sick and casting out many devils.

Topics: Those who take the following topics should read them carefully, and tell them to the group, giving especially the part of nature over which Christ used His power.

1. Water turned into wine. (John 2:1-12.)

No Brethren people from the community have attended but a large number of Bible lovers of the city attend regularly. It is requested that any Herald readers who have friends in Middleton please send their names to the leaders of the class and a letter to the friends telling them of the class. Bro. Barnard is teaching from the Book of Romans, and Bro. Cashman is teaching in the field of Bible Prophecy. Pray for this work, that it may be helpful in this field where there is certainly not an oversupply of sane Scriptural teaching.

Sunday, April 21, ten car loads of people from our new church at Fremont, O., drove 60 miles to the West Tenth Street Church of Ashland, O., for a baptismal service. The Fremont church has no baptism, so that day their pastor, Phillip J. Simmons led 21 into the waters of baptism. The Fremont church has a well-organized and well-equipped Sunday School. Since its beginning five months ago the Sunday school has grown to the place they now have an average attendance of 80, with a record of 102 for Easter Sunday. After May 10, Brother Simmons' a student at Grace Theological Seminary, will be giving the work his full time till school begins next fall.

Vinco, Pa. "Things are moving along splendidly here. We have reached the 117 mark in Sunday School. Rejoice with us in a conversion in our morning service."—Pastor Ord Gehman.

Garwin, Ia. Sunday, April 28, 1940: "We had a blessed communion service today. The presence of the Spirit was greatly manifested. The attendance was very good in spite of rain before the service. There were 28 young people present from the age of 8-17."—H. S. Parks, pastor.

The First Brethren Church of Tracy, Calif. has been in the process of a series of meetings with Dr. J. C. Beal, April 28-May 12.

Increased Membership and Communion Attendance at the First Brethren Church of Long Beach has so overtaxed the facilities of the equipment that at the last two communion services the church has had to serve half the congregation at a time. All those whose surnames begin with the letters from A to K meet on one night and those from L to Z the next night. A well-known speaker said some time ago that nobody but a few old-fashioned and ignorant hill-billies conduct the three-fold communion service any more. Evidently his statement was a little too broad.

At the First Brethren Church of Ellet, O.:—last week there were 46 at prayer meeting; pastor R. E. Gingrich spoke at the Stark County C. E. Convention, May 5; men of the church have been doing volunteer work on the church property.

The last Quarterly Report of the pastor, (Elias D. White) of the First Brethren Church of South Gate, Calif., bore the following information: "Rededications of life, 15; confessions of Christ 12; additions by letter 2; additions by baptism 8; lost by letter 2."

The following Brethren Pastors were scheduled to appear on the program of the Los Angeles County C. E. Convention May 3-5: W. A. Ogden, Albert Flory, and Charles H. Ashman.

Greetings FROM THE FIELD

Limestone, Tenn.

The members of the Brethren Church of Limestone, Tenn., have been the recipients of many of our heavenly Father's choicest blessings during the past months. He has favored us with a number of spiritual truths in the nature of visiting speakers.

In October we were very happy to have with us one

Saturday evening The Sunshine Gospel Trio of the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, Ill. The young ladies who compose this trio demonstrated by their wonderful music and testimonies just what the Lord Jesus Christ can accomplish in the lives of young people who are willing to yield themselves wholly to Him.

Also during the fall months, we were delighted to have as our guest speakers two missionaries, namely Brother Clarence Sickel of South America and Miss Elizabeth Tyson of Africa. Having heard the excellent messages of these consecrated missionaries, we have a greater passion for the lost souls in those dark lands than ever before.

Our spiritual blessings reached a great climax when Brother R. Paul Miller came on Dec. 5 to conduct our evangelistic meetings which closed on Dec. 17. I am very happy to include a report of these meetings with my general report on visiting speakers. For a number of years we had looked forward with a great deal of joy to the time when Brother Miller might serve as our evangelist. Words are inadequate to express our appreciation for the great messages he delivered while here. Only those who have heard him speak can know just what a mighty servant of the Lord he is. His passion for souls, his prayer life as well as all his other qualifications as an evangelist, can't help leaving a lasting impression upon any congregation. These surely were two delightful weeks, and since that time we have been more delighted with our wonderful Savior than ever before. We certainly trust that the Lord will be pleased to send Brother Miller back again soon.

There were more than 40 decisions for Christ. Some of these were first time decisions, the most of whom have been baptized and received into the church. Then there were a great number of reconsecrations among our young people. Also a number of fathers and mothers rededicated their lives to the Lord. We can't praise the Lord enough for the great manifestation of His grace during these two weeks.

On the evenings of March 10-11, we enjoyed Bible lectures by Brother R. I. Humberd of Martinsburg, Pa. We feel that the membership of our church was greatly strengthened as a result of his clear messages on the person and work of Christ and His second coming.

Again we praise the Lord for the spiritual bread which has been broken to us by these visiting speakers as well as the bread of life which is so faithfully broken to us from week to week by our pastor.

LELIA ARNOLD, Church Sec'y.

Second Brethren Church, Hagerstown, Md.

On April 7 we opened a two weeks soul saving campaign. Elder Wm. H. Clough of Uniontown, Pa., was the evangelist. The meetings from the beginning were well attended and a high spiritual atmosphere maintained.

Bro. Clough fearlessly preached the Word, and the Word returned not unto Him void. All our brethren at church on Sunday, April 14, came forward and rededicated their service. Thirteen were baptized and three came by letter, making a grand total of 66 decisions. The greater number of new converts were adults and heads of new families. Our church was greatly strengthened and ready to go forward.

On June 2 the present pastor, Eld. Roy S. Long is turning the pulpit over to Eld. Ralph Rambo of Grace Seminary, who will serve us until a regular pastor can be secured. We are acquainted with Bro. and Sister Rambo, and extend unto them a warm welcome in our midst.

We have outgrown our present building. In a week or so one of our Bible School classes will meet in the home of one of our new converts. We are planning and praying that the Lord may lead us to a new house of worship. Ground has already been secured for this building. Brethren, this is a new work, and we solicit your intercession in prayer.

ELD. ROY S. LONG, pastor.

LATEST LAWSUIT AGAINST THE BIBLE

You can have $1,000 if you will prove that there is any scientific mistake in the Bible. This offer was made to the public last October by the Research Science Bureau, Inc. The offer still holds good. The President of the Research Science Bureau is Harry Rimmer, Sc. D., D. D., and when the offer was published as an advertisement in the New York Herald Tribune, within two days Dr. Rimmer received a personal letter setting forth certain alleged errors in the Bible. Forty-eight hours later the writer of the letter brought suit against Dr. Rimmer for the $1,000 which had not been paid.

Dr. Harry Rimmer

In due time this lawsuit against the Bible was tried in court. The plaintiff was William Floyd, publisher of a magazine called the Arbitrator. He said he had furnished 51 inaccuracies to be found in the Bible, and that Dr. Rimmer had refused payment.

The major contention of the plaintiff was that, according to the Bible God sent too many quail for the people of Israel to handle, and that the record in Num. 11 was a scientific fallacy.

Still another contention of the plaintiff was that, in one account in Genesis, Noah was directed of God to bring into the ark two of every sort of animals, and in another place was told to take seven.

After several weeks of legal skirmishing, the case came to trial. James Bennet of New York, the eminent lawyer who, like William Jennings Bryan, is a staunch Fundamentalist, defended Dr. Rimmer and the Research Bureau and the Bible in this now famous suit. The court proceedings were interesting! Some humorous incidents occurred during the trial, as when the judge told the vice-president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism not to let his ego run away with him! Mr. Bennet's wit is inimitable, as his friends well know, and his brilliant intellect and life-time study of the Bible came effectively into play.

On Feb. 16, 1940, the Municipal Court Justice before whom the case was tried dismissed the suit on the ground that a prima facie case had not been established. This result was a complete victory for the defendants, and, as Dr. Rimmer puts it, "The Bible emerged from this unique trial with shining glory undimmed by the venomous attacks of unbelief."

Dr. Rimmer is well known for his brilliant lectures and writings in the field of science and the Bible, in which he has massed convincing scientific material showing beyond denial the truthfulness of the entire Bible as the inspired and inerrant Word of God. The story of the lawsuit is unique as a narrative of present-day attack against God and the divine vindication of the Scriptures.

Dr. Rimmer Will Speak At Brethren Bible Conference

Dr. Rimmer will be one of the speakers on The National Brethren Bible Conference program, Winona Lake, Ind., Aug. 26 to Sept. 1. You will not want to miss hearing this defender of the Faith.

The years of depression have revealed that the church is the most secure of all institutions. 1 out of every 6 banks failed, 1 out of every 22 business ventures, 1 out of every 47 hospitals failed, but only out of every 2234 churches closed it's doors. There's a reason! Jesus Christ "loved the church, and gave Himself for it" (Eph. 5:25).

America Vs. Russia

In Russia they destroy churches by force. In America we do it more effectively—by indifference. More churches in proportion have been closed in our rural districts than in Russia. Seventy millions of our people in America have no church connections. Only one child in four receives any Christian training. Is it not time professing Christians wake up to a sense of their responsibility?—N. L. B.

The Value of the Commonplace

How prone we are to undervalue that which is ordinary in our lives! The unusual experience stands out in our memory, and we attach great value to it; and many times rightfully so. But there are two real angers to us in our outstanding experiences, against which we should carefully guard ourselves.

Peter on the mount of transfiguration is a case in point. First, it was all so wonderful that he wanted to stay there, ignoring whatever duties were waiting for him elsewhere. How difficult it is to go back to the humdrum and ordinary affairs of our lives after we have been given a look at the glory of our wonderful Savior, and have been privileged to see the working out of His grace for a sin-cursed world. Things move so slowly where we live; it is so easy to see the world in the familiar, and to overlook it entirely while on the mountain top; the daily round is so monotonous; why cannot we stay and enjoy this wonderful experience forever?

Second, Peter failed to make proper use of the knowledge and inspiration gained on the mountain to help him in the events of his life which followed.
How easy for us to see where Peter failed! The writer is reminded of all this because we so recently went through a double mountain top experience and must be doubly mindful of the dangers mentioned.

We had the high privilege of spending three days at Grace Seminary, feasting the soul upon the things of the Lord and enjoying rare fellowship with the faculty and students. We returned renewed indeed in body and mind, and with the heart tuned to the Word of God; and then plunged immediately into a Bible Conference with Dr. W. L. Pettingill as the speaker.
As an officer of the group in charge of the conference, we were lifted to the heights again as we drank in the truth of the Word, saw the crowds increase nightly, and finished up the business of the conference with assurance that we had at last awakened our city to a real interest in knowing the Word of God. Then—we had to settle down to routine duties once more; they awaited us with inexorable demands;
how we needed to rely upon Christ as our Sufficiency to see us through those first days! It will only be His strength which will enable us to give out to others what we ourselves have received.

All of this applies in our W. M. C. work. As we attend our rallies or put on some special effort in meeting our objectives, we are indeed lifted above the world and get a view of the glory of the great commission to which our Lord has called us. Then how prone we are to be like Peter; longing to stay right there and ignore the needs around us; failing to carry the inspiration into real activity for our Lord.
The daily Bible reading and prayer, the opportunities for personal witness, the attendance at our monthly meetings—these are humdrum and ordinary; but our abilities lie mostly in the range of the ordinary, and there our Lord is counting upon us. Peter was a fisherman and the Lord promised to make him a "fisher of men;" we are W. M. C. members who, if we yield ourselves unto Him, may be made "fishers of women," to draw others into fellowship with the Lord this great work which has been committed unto us as women. Let us enjoy our mountain top experiences to the full, and then descend into the valley equipped and determined to carry out faithfully the duties of the daily round as unto Him Who so loved us that He gave Himself.

First Pennsylvania W.M.C. Rally

The first Missionary Rally of the W. M. C. in Penna., was held in The Brethren Church at Meyersdale, Apr. 26, 1940. The meeting opened at 10:30 A. M. with a song service led by Mrs. Noon of Johnstown First Church, and Mrs. Stanley Hauser at the piano. Mrs. R. D. Crees, State President, had in charge the meeting, and after a few words of welcome turned the meeting over to the Waynesboro Council for the morning devotions. Following a duet by Mrs. Noon and Miss Nan Miller the meeting was given over to Mrs. Bertha Morrill who gave a most interesting message about the customs and work among the Kabbe tribe in Africa. Before the luncheon hour a round table discussion was presided over by Mrs. Crees, due to the absence of Mrs. Schaeffer because of illness in the family. Our future work and the problems of the W. M. C. were outlined by Mrs. Schaeffer and sent to the meeting. This discussion proved of interest to all.

An enjoyable noon hour was had, covered dish luncheon being served. The ladies of the Meyersdale and Summit Mills churches had this in charge and did all possible to make it a time of fine Christian fellowship. 160 were served, including the ministerial group present.

The afternoon service was opened with a roll call of Councils, each answering with a passage of Scripture or a word about their councils. Mrs. Nowag of Listie church took charge of the afternoon devotions, and intercessory prayer for our missionaries was held in charge of the Meyersdale W. M. C. A missionary song was sung by Mrs. Robertson of Juniata, followed by another very interesting and enlightening message of Africa by Mrs. Morill. Her messages were most inspiring and helpful and the time seemed to slip by too fast.

The closing number on the program was an evangelistic-missionary pageant, "Who Will Go?", given by the Uniontown Council.

135 women registered, with a few more present as visitors, and an offering of $17.17 was received. The following Councils were represented: Meyersdale, Summit Mills, Johnstown First, Vinco, Conemaugh, Mundy's Corner, Waynesboro, Uniontown, Listie, Martinsburg, Altoona, Kittanning, Juniata, and also visitors from Leamersville and McKee.

Dallas Center, Iowa, Reports

We are very happy to report some of our activities since we became a Women's Missionary Council last September. Our members are enjoying reading the Missionary Herald, and we find the topics which are sent us for our regular monthly meetings very interesting and inspirational.

Since taking freewill offerings there is more money in our treasury. A number of the women have said it is much easier now to give a quarter than it used to be to give a dime.

On Fri., Mar. 29, an all-day meeting was held, combining our January meeting, which had to be postponed because of bad weather, and the Mission Study. Twenty-seven were present. Our President, Mrs. Gordon Carter, conducted the meeting in a pleasing and well-planned manner. All were much interested in the life stories of the fine group of missionaries that represent us on the foreign field. May we give them ample support by our prayers and our gifts.

A number of new members have recently been added to our Council. At present, plans are being made for our public service program some time during the month of April. By the close of the year we hope to have completed all the objectives suggested for this year.

We pledge our hearty co-operation and support to our national officers and pray that we may accomplish more in our Master's service this year than ever before.

Canton, Ohio, is Heard From

The Women's Missionary Council of Canton Brethren Church gave their first public service since becoming a Council on Sun., Apr. 21. It was held during the regular Sunday morning worship period. We had as guest speaker for the occasion, Prof. Herman Hoyt of Grace Theological Seminary. He spoke on the subject, "Can a Man Repent Twice unto Salvation?" using as text Heb. 6:1-9. Needless to say he brought us a marvelous message and study from God's Word in a manner such as only he who understands both the Hebrew and Greek could bring. The young people filled the choir and added greatly to the service. A beautiful message in song was brought by our pastor's wife, Mrs. E. B. Niswonger. Mrs. A. Y. Robinson, President of the Council, led in prayer. A large number were present and all greatly enjoyed the service. An offering for Grace Theological Seminary was lifted, which amounted to $30.50. This fine offering was greatly appreciated and we feel sure was well pleasing to our Lord. It was the first offering to be taken for Grace and I personally might add this is my first attempt at writing a report to be printed.

Just an added word about our Council. We have been having splendid monthly meetings, all well attended and there has been a great interest shown and a real desire on the part of all the members really to go forward in the Lord's work and to do those things that are pleasing in His sight and that will bring honor and glory to His holy name.

In His service,

MRS. J. A. DuBAR, Asst. Secy.

A DAY WITH THE BIBLE COACH COLPORTER

The people with whom the colporter comes in contact include people of various walks of life, ranging all the way from the humble peon, who tills the soil or herds the cattle on the Argentine plains, to professional and business men. Not a home remains untouched by the work of the Colporter when the Bible Coach leaves the town. Great as is the desire of the missionary, through the pages of the magazine and deputation work, to make the home friends acquainted with the people with whom we labor, he can hope to convey at best a meagre knowledge of those we have grown to love so much.

If the reader will aid us a little by the use of the imagination, we shall be able to give a small glimpse into the work of the Bible Coach and the people it reaches, accompanying the Colporter in one day's work as reported to us recently by one of the present staff.

We come first to the door of a little adobe hut. At the side of the house we see a young girl washing clothes. We offer her the Bible and in answer she says, "Pardon me but I cannot buy it, I am too poor. The meeting last night was very nice, I like the Bible pictures so much. I have a New Testament and I read it. It is the best inheritance my mother left me. I don't know what I would do without it with my little brothers such little rascals, and my older brother having to go out to earn the living for us. Sometimes I am downhearted, but then I do what my mother always did. I find comfort in the reading of that Book. And what a help it is!" The Colporter takes advantage of the wonderful opportunity to tell of Him Who sees, hears and pities and, of His greatest gift, the Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ.

The next place finds us at a brick-mason's home. The knock is answered by the man himself, and in response to our question he answers: "I have a copy of the Bible here in the house. I was a Socialist and after reading the Bible through I talked about it to my Socialist friends, telling them of Christ and His socialistic ideals, for that was the way I then interpreted them. They made fun of me and avoided me as much as possible. Then hard times came and I did not have work. It was then I began to read the Bible more. I cannot read it enough. It is a Holy Book to me, for in it I found not only Christ, the dealist, but Christ, the Savior, and my Savior—praise God!"

At the next house we offer some tracts by way of introduction to offering the Bible. The lady who had answered our knock, takes them and asks: "Are you one of those who showed Bible pictures on the street?"

We answered in the affirmative. "Just hold these papers for a moment, will you?" she said. The colporter takes them and as she steps inside of the door, closing it, she calls, "Now get out of here, we don't belong to your religion." And the door closes on us.

We pass on to the next door where in response to our conversation, we hear: "We have a Bible and we read it. When we were small we went to Sunday School in another town. We can still remember much that the pastor taught us. It is a great pity that we could only go for a year and one half. Why I even owe my pretty braids of hair to the Sunday School." Somewhat surprised the Colporter asks, "How is that?" And she answers, "I was once almost persuaded to cut my hair, but before doing so I asked the pastor if it was right. He asked me who among my friends cut their hair. I named a few and he asked, 'Do you want to be like them?' I told him I didn't and so I have never cut my hair. All that I learned in the Sunday School was good. If we don't live like other folks around us, it is because of what the Sunday School did for us." The Colporter asked what Sunday School she had attended and she answered, "Deheza," giving the pastor's name. The pastor had been the Colporter himself. Though 12 years had gone by, she had not forgotten. Praise the Lord! "So shall My Word be that goeth forth out of My mouth, it shall not return unto Me void."

The next door finds us at the entrance to a garden, where a dear old lady is sitting with her grandchildren. She invites us to come in and sit down. Such a greeting leads us to believe that this is the home of believers and we come in and take the seat offered us. The old lady continues, "Pardon me if I am a bother to you. I have been waiting here hoping you would come. But had begun to fear that I had missed you when I was napping a while ago. Yesterday I listened to a discussion between two neighbors. One said that the Book you carry is good and the priest bad—the other holds that the priest is good and the Book false. If the Book is really good, I want to buy one, but if it isn't you had better tell me straight out. I cannot read, but my husband can. Please be patient with me. Tell me the whole truth. Don't deceive me for I will find it out if you do." She takes a copy of the Bible from the Colporter's hand and opening it said, "Read this." It was Luke 15. He reads the story of the prodigal son and when finished she says, "How good the old man was and how bad the son who would leave his old father and go away." The Colporter then shows her how the son has many like him today and how the love of God waits to welcome home. She says, "Make a check here and another one where this story finishes. This is beautiful." Taking the Bible again she opens it at the story of Joseph sold by his brothers. The Colporter again reads, explains and makes some more checks. She says, "Read me more. It is so nice." So he turns to the story of the rich man and Lazarus, marks the last verses of Rom. 8, turns to the Philippian jailer and reads. "Oh, yes it is all so beautiful and what does the Book say about the virgin?" More explanations and the rest of the afternoon goes, but the time has been well spent. There the Bible sold will be read, and if believed and obeyed, they will come to a personal knowledge of Christ, the Lamb of God that takes away the sin of the world. We leave with the prayer that hearts may be opened to the Savior's call. A "Praise the Lord" rings through our heart, as we say good-bye and return to the Bible Coach to prepare for the open-air meeting in the evening.

THE BOZOU M BIBLE CONFERENCE

The Christmas season was a very busy time for the Christian workers of the Bassai-Bozoum district. It was decided to have a Bible Conference at Bozoum for all the married men in Christian work; teachers, catechists, evangelist, throughout the extensive district under our care. The younger unmarried men were left at their posts to "keep the home fires burning" while all the older men with their wives gathered at Bozoum. Some of them had to walk several days to get there but they all came, making a total of 31 men. The wives thought it a real treat that they were included in the conference this time.

Saturday, Dec. 23, was arrival day. The Fosters had stayed over after our own conference for a little vacation and Brother Foster came to Bassai for Miss Myers and me that afternoon. We were sorry to find Mrs. Foster ill when we reached Bozoum but God graciously answered prayer and soon raised her up.

Sunday was a blessed day for all of us. For the morning church service the chapel was packed to its utmost capacity for the very fine message Brother Jobson gave on "The Annunciation to Mary." The Bozoum church is one of deep spirituality. They, with the cream of the Bassai field, made an audience who would inspire anyone to give his very best. At 4 P.M. we had another well-attended service with one of the native workers giving the message. It was a blessing to us all. Then at 7 o'clock we had moonlight vespers out in the open. For this service the men and women separated, Brother Jobson and Brother Foster taking the men and we ladies taking turns with the women.

Monday, Christmas day, opened with a brief service at six o'clock followed by recreation, breakfast, missionary gift exchange, etc. At 8 o'clock we met for a blessed Christmas service where Brother Jobson gave us an excellent message on our Savior's birth. At the close of the service there were a number of confessions, among them 19 who confessed Christ for the first time. We then were free until 4 in the afternoon to celebrate Christmas as we desired. The missionaries enjoyed a duck dinner while the natives went off happily to butcher the beef which was our Christmas gift to them. The 4 P. M. service was again led by a native and at the close of that service the women were divided into two groups for chalk talks. Miss Myers took the Karre speaking wives of the visiting workers and I took the Sango speaking women of Bozoum. To many of them such a method of teaching was new and impressed them greatly. At the close of my message three women in my group accepted the Lord. Evening vespers were again held at 7 P. M.

On Tuesday morning the first message was at 6 o'clock. When we gathered at 8:00 we were divided into three groups. Brother Jobson took the men, giving the studies on the methods of the Apostle Paul, followed by reports of their work, advice to them, etc. Miss Myers had the wives of the workers, in Karre, and I had the Sango women. At 4 P. M. we again had our joint service followed by the chalk talks for the women with the vesper service to close the day.

The Wednesday program followed the same outline as that of Tuesday. During that morning Brother Jobson presented to the workers his New Year covenant and offered the opportunity to any of the workers who wanted to seek "higher ground" with him this coming year. Thinking it will be of interest to you I here incorporate a translation of the covenant which we as missionaries and a majority of our native workers have signed for this New Year.

"I wish to begin the New Year with a clean heart in the eyes of God" (1 Jn. 1:9,10).

Because I wish to grow in the grace of the Lord I now make these five rules:

1. Every day I will place Jesus first in all things.
2. Every day I will pray morning and evening.
3. Every day I will read one chapter of the Word of God.

(If I do not know how to read, I will hide away one new verse in my heart each month.)

4. As He gives me strength, this year, I will find five others to become His disciples.
5. Every Sunday I will give a gift to Him.

I promise my Savior to do this.

Signed _____

The theme that was struck at the beginning of our missionary conference and carried through it, "Jesus First," is the theme that we are passing on to our native church as their incentive through this new year. Brother Jobson gave to all of them attractive blue cardboard Bible markers bearing those words in Sango, "Jesus First."

One great item of the conference has been purposely left to last because it deserves special attention as the "power plant" of the conference, of the Bozoum congregation, and will be, we hope, of the entire field. Every morning from 4 till 6, when the morning message was given, Brother Jobson met in the church for a time of prayer with the faithful. It was worth while to see that many were ready to give those morning hours to the Lord. On Christmas night and Acts 15:26

The Neglected Race for Whom Christ Died

DIVISION, DEVITALIZATION, DEFEAT —JEWISH CHURCH AND STATE

Inception

The beginning of confusion and of the distortion of worship and ethnic solidarity must be traced to a liberal Solomon, who by taxes beleaguered his people that he might sustain a magnificent court, and erect suitable places of worship for the sundry gods and goddesses his wives desired. The heart that loudly proclaims its loyalty to Christ and the church, and yet keeps a corner of itself isolated from Christ and devoted to the lust gods of this world, is no better than an adulterous Solomon. Whoso follows such course must of necessity see from history the rending apart of one's spiritual nature and the inception of division in kingdom leadership (Jno. 18:36; Mt. 12:5, 6:24).

Momentum

Rehoboam following in fatherly footsteps, but heartily, accomplished what his father had sown. The kingdom split into North and South. With the political split came a division of religious ties. Jeroboam would not allow his northern people to worship at Jerusalem, so he made calf altars at Bethel and Dan.

A group of the Christians, on their own initiative, decided to have a midnight prayer meeting. After that some of them couldn't see the logic to going home and returning so early so they slept the rest of the night in the church to be there for 4 o'clock. With a group of faithful Christians ready to give the best hours of the morning to the Lord we can look to Him to do great things for us. Will you at home join with us in praying that this year 1940 will be the greatest year of victory that the Oubangui-Chari Mission has ever known?

As our workers' conference closed on Thursday morning with a wonderful message on Faith to inspire us and spur us on into the New Year we left the chapel with a feeling that God was preparing to use us as never before for the spread of His Word and the calling out of His own in this land of deep darkness. We stand upon the threshold of a New Year with faith in our hearts and a light in our eyes as we listen for His marching orders for these days before He comes.

His successors "walked in the ways of Jeroboam." Later under Ahab, rather Jezebel, persecution of God's prophets took definite, unrelenting, punitive form. Many were put to death. Temples to Baal and Astarte were erected. Hosts of Baal priests and ecstatic dervishes traversed the country. Jezebel's daughter, Athaliah, became queen mother in the southern kingdom by marriage to Jehoshaphat's son. The cultus of Baal and Astarte were there introduced; murder also. Jehoram killed all his brothers. Afterwards Athaliah had all the house of David killed, save one hidden baby. Prosperous as the reigns of Jeroboam II and Uzziah appeared to be outwardly, the religious and moral condition of the people was highly unsatisfactory. This is the testimony of Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, and Micah.

Canceration

Although Hezekiah was a godly man, and purified the worship of its heathenish influences, idolatry all along had been growing secretly. At his death, Manasseh persecuted the faithful prophets of Jehovah and erected Baal altars, even to the placing of an image of Astarte in the temple. He sacrificed his son to Molech in the valley of Hinnom. To such depths of sensuality and immorality had Jerusalem, the holy (?) city, fallen. Josiah, his son, after the law had been found, cleaned up the outward corruption and instituted at least an outward devotion for the law. But with his death, the inward corruption of which Jeremiah spoke broke out again. The cancer of the soul like the cancer of the body may be stayed temporarily by outward applications, but sooner than one thinks, it will break out afresh and in more terrible form.

Internment

God's hospitalization program was a cure for Israel's idolatry as later history shows. Seventy years they spent watching the vulgar, barbaric idolatry of the hated Babylonians. Oh, how their hearts burned in shame when they saw what they had been copying! They instinctively turned to the blessed old forms of Jehovah's worship. They observed the Sabbath, the right use of meats, circumcision, etc. Here they began to understand the missionary calling for Israel among the nations of the world. They understood how utterly true had been God's watchdogs, the prophets. Out of their number emerged prophets, envisioning great things for Israel in the future (Ezekiel) and Gentile world history (Daniel). Daniel symbolized the plain life and religious piety of vast numbers of the Jews who had set their faces toward Jerusalem. The mingled emotions of shame, remorse, longing, and determination of a homesick people are most adequately depicted in the plaintive 137th Psalm.

Reconstruction

Under Zerubbabel, Ezra, and Nehemiah, the temple and wall were rebuilt. This did not occur without several attempts, however. Zerubbabel started the building. At the urgent appeal of the prophets, Haggai and Zechariah, building work was again taken up following some delay. Ezra's part was to bring the nation under the teaching of the law. Nehemiah began and successfully completed the rebuilding of the wall. But even with these gains, the moral status was, at best, not sufficient to deter political deterioration. Mixed marriages, condemned by Malachi, and stringently dealt with by Nehemiah, brought a loosening of the sacred family ties.

Division

The remaining history of the Jews until Christ, tells of a sad division of the Jewish people. The surface roots of this division lay in the Alexandrian period, when the priesthood assumed a political aspect. Between the Seleucids in the North and the Ptolemies in the South, Israel was persecuted, and impregnated with Hellenism. Hellenistic thought spread amongst the aristocrats and the politically prominent, and even formed adherents among the priests. Against this political group was arrayed out of the ranks of the common people those who adhered strictly to the Mosaic order of life and religion and the traditional ordinances. These were called the Hasidim. Open rupture was occasioned by an act of the Syrian king, Antiochus Epiphanes, who in 168 B. C. dedicated the temple of Jehovah to Jupiter and offered a swine on the altar. Many became martyrs, although a great portion of the people adjusted themselves to such tyrannical heathenism.

Then came the Hasmoneans or the Maccabees, leading an armed resistance. Judas freed the country of Syria, with nine victorious campaigns always against greatly superior numbers. Jonathan and Simon followed in turn, and lastly John Hyrcanus. The Hasidim broke with the Maccabean brothers because of their worldly aspirations, and Hyrcanus repudiated the Pious (Hasidim) but came to an inglorious end. The kingdom then fell to the Idumean Herod in 37 B. C. who by the help of Rome ruled until the time of Christ.

Conclusion

Israel under the law had failed. Christ came upon a citizenry bearing a heavy Roman yoke. The extortioner and tax farmer drained the country. The Pharisees, outward keepers of the law, reflected the highest product that the law had produced. We must not overlook individuals as Simeon, Anna, Joseph, Mary, and others who inwardly tried to keep the law, looking for that blessed hope. But for Israel under the law, the time for conclusion had come (Mt. 5:17).

For One Who Is Tired

Dear child, God does not say today, "Be strong."

He knows your strength is spent; He knows how long

The road has been, how weary you have grown,

For He who walked the earthly roads alone—
Each bogging lowland, and each rugged hill—

Can understand, and so He says, "Be still,
And know that I am God." The hour is late.

And you must rest awhile, and you must wait
Until life's empty reservoirs fill up

As slow rain fills an empty upturned cup.

Hold up your cup, dear child, for God to fill.

He only asks today that you be still.

A DOCTRINE OF CHRIST DEPARTMENT

By Frank G. Coleman, Jr.

GOD—OR NOT GOOD!

An inquiring young man once addressed our Lord as "Good Master" and found himself faced with the striking question and statement, "Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God." So far from being a disclaimer of His sinlessness, our Lord's answer seeks to elicit a testimony both to His goodness and His deity. For the sinlessness of Christ and the deity of Christ are bound up together so inseparably that we may affirm with all confidence that either He is God, or He is not, and was not, good.

Let it be noted that the Scriptures set Him forth as One Who was God manifest in the flesh; Who was conscious of this fact; Who permitted His followers to believe it; Who, upon his going away, gave the promise of another Comforter Who should guide them into all truth and glorify Him. If, then, He is not God, He must have been either deceiver or deceived. If deceived, then His self-delusion would stamp Him as a weakling. If deceiver, then He could have had no claim to moral perfection. And if He was neither good, nor God, His followers, under the inspiration of that Spirit Whom He sent, testified to a lie, for in the Scriptures that came from their pens they glorified Him as God. We prefer to believe with John that "This is the true God, and eternal life" (1 Jn. 5:20).

The Doctrine of His Deity

In the Scriptures He is called God. 1 Jn. 5:20, quoted above, is unequivocal. This same John, in the first verse of his gospel, says that "the Word was God." Another writer, in recording a conversation between two members of the Godhead, reports it in these words, "But unto the Son he saith, Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever" (Heb. 1:8).

In the Scriptures Old Testament descriptions of God are applied to Him. In Jn. 12:37-41, the inspired writer quotes the prophet Isaiah: "He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart; that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and be converted, and I should heal them." And in the next verse he says, "These things said Esaias, when he saw his glory, and spake of him." Turning to Isaiah we discover that the quotation is from Isa. 6:10, and that it is a part of the record of Isaiah's vision of the "King, the Lord of hosts." John tells us that Isaiah, upon that occasion, was witnessing the glory of Christ, and that he "spoke of Him!"

In the Scriptures He is represented as possessing the attributes of God. "I am.....the life," He said (Jn. 14:6). Self-existence is His (Jn. 5:26; Heb. 7:16). Immutability is His (Heb. 13:8). He said, "I am the truth" (Jn. 14:6). Holiness is ascribed to Him (Lk. 1:35; Heb. 7:26). Eternity is His (John 1:1). Omnipresence is His (Matt. 28:20; Eph. 1:23). Omniscience is His (Col. 2:3). Omnipotence is His (Mt. 28:18; Rev. 1:8).

In the Scriptures the works of God are ascribed to Him. He is represented as the Creator of "all things" (Jn. 1:3). And again in 1 Cor. 8:6; Col. 1:16; Heb. 1:10; Heb. 3:3,4; Rev. 3:14, His work as Creator is set forth. More than that, in Col. 1:17 and in Heb. 1:3, He is represented as the sole ground of cohesion in the universe. How glorious His person! How majestic His power! What a mystery that He should be given as God's most precious gift to men! What consolation there is in the knowledge that He Who created the worlds, can make a new creation in the human heart! What confidence we may have in the knowledge that He Who upholds all things by the word of His power can keep that which is committed to Him!

In the Scriptures honor and worship due only to God are given to Him. He Himself said that, "All men should honor the Son, even as they honor the Father. He that honoreth not the Son, honoreth not the Father which hath sent Him" (Jn. 5:23). Stephen, with his dying breath, called upon God, and said, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit" (Acts 7:59). Paul, in Rom. 10:9,10 ARV, affirms that salvation is contingent upon confession of "Jesus as Lord." In Heb. 1:6 the angels of God are enjoined to worship Him. In Phil. 2:10 we are told "that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth." In Rev. 5:12-14 the whole worship of heaven is given Him. And let it not be forgotten that our Lord Himself, quoting from the law, restricted the worship of men and angels to God alone, when He said, "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve" (Mt. 4:10).

The Scriptures affirm His equality with God; and associate His name with that of God on an equality. His enemies, on one occasion, sought to kill Him, "because he.....said also that God was His Father, making Himself equal with God" (Jn. 5:18). Paul says of Him, that He was in the form of God, and "thought it not robbery to be equal with God" (Phil. 2:6).

In the baptismal formula, baptism into His name, as well as into that of the Father and of the Holy Spirit, is commanded (Mt. 28:19). Likewise do the benedictions in the epistles give Him equivalent standing with God.

Again and again, beneath the surface of the printed Word, the consistency of the Scriptures' teaching is manifested. One of the many instances of this consistency treasured up in the original language of the text, one that bears on this specific point of our Lord's equality with God, is to be found in 2 Thess. 2:16, 17: "Now our Lord Jesus Christ Himself, and God, even our Father.....comfort your hearts." Here the verb is singular, though the laws of Greek grammar ordinarily would demand a plural verb if the two names were not equal and one. But Paul was not given to the use of faulty Greek, nor is this a grammatical lapse. His knowledge of the equality and unity of God the Father and God the Son demanded the construction he used. So minutely does the Spirit of God inspire His prophets!

True or False?

Is the teaching of the Word true, or is it not? If it be false, then we have no sinless Sin-bearer; we have no God the Son; we have no trinity of persons in the Godhead; we have no hope. If it be false, then we must believe that the most perfect Being who ever walked earth's pathways was either a mental weakling or a moral degenerate; for He propagated a falsehood, if this be not true. If it be false, then His apostles, deluded, went to horrible deaths believing a lie; and though they were sustained by an unflinching faith, yet that faith was misapplied, if this be not true.

Thank God, it is true. The consistency of His person, the consistency of the lives and testimony of those who walked and talked with Him, the consistency of the record, cannot be denied. He is God, and He is good. "And we know that the Son of God is come, and hath given us understanding, that we may know Him that is true, and we are in Him that is true, even in His Son Jesus Christ. This is the true God, and eternal life" (1 Jn. 5:20).

POINTED PARAGRAPH

Simon Peter was worth 10 Andrews, so far as we can gather from sacred history, and yet Andrew was instrumental in bringing him to Jesus. You may be deficient in talent, and yet be the means of drawing to Christ one who will become eminent in grace and service.—Spurgeon.

Indiana Brethren to Meet August 6th to 8th

The date of the Indiana Brethren Bible Conference (Tri-State Conference) scheduled to be held Aug. 6, 7, and 8 has been changed to meet June 18, 19, and 20. Let all cooperating pastors please notify their congregations at once of this change so that their people will be able to make their plans accordingly. The reason for this change is: to hold two conferences so close together would mean a loss in attendance of one or the other. Program for the Indiana Bible Conference will be published very soon.

STUDIES IN THE HEBREW EPISTLE

"Search the Scriptures for in them ye think ye have Eternal Life; and they are they which testify of me"—John 5:39.

STUDY NO. 1 — By ORD GEHMAN

Chapter II.

On the basis of the former revelations there is an urgent appeal for earnest heed to the things of God's latter revelation. For the consecrated child of God there is no "court of appeals" beyond the Word of the living God. The intellectual world may choose to question the integrity of God's Word, or sneeringly laugh at the idea of blood atonement or other like precious doctrines of the Word. But for God's children His Word is the final arbiter. Our heed is to be given to the things of God's Word lest haply we drift away from them. A great musician once said, "If I refrain from practice one day, I notice it; for two days, the master's notice it; but if three days without practice, everyone notices it." So it is in our spiritual lives. A laxity and staying away from God's Word will most certainly result in a drifting away from the central figure presented therein, Jesus Christ. The fruitage of the spiritual life bears evidence to the reality of the profession. Christ said, "Herein is My Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; and so shall ye be My disciples" (Jn. 15:8).

The argument of the writer here is from the lesser to the greater. "For if the Word spoken through angels proved steadfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense of reward; how shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?" (2-3a). The writer bases his question on the relation and effect of the former and latter revelations of God. Some people have the idea that God simply winks at sin and lets the matter go at that. But here we are reminded that "every transgression and disobedience" was reckoned with in the infinite wisdom of God. Sin is sin; it is a breaking of the law, a transgression before God. Sin must be dealt with in a manner that is acceptable to God. In the 7th chapter of this same Epistle we are reminded that "if there was perfection through the Levitical priesthood (for under it hath the people received the law), what further need was there that another Priest should arise after the order of Melchizedek, and not be reckoned after the order of Aaron?" (Heb. 7:11). And again, "If that first covenant had been faultless, then would no place have been sought for the second" (Heb. 8:7).

It is God's eternal purpose in Christ to choose a people worthy of His glory. Man failed in the garden of Eden. Man failed under the law. But now under the new and better covenant mediated through Jesus Christ unto the church, the manifold wisdom of God and His eternal purpose in His Son is made known (Eph. 3:8-12).

This new revelation of the grace of God in Christ Jesus the Lord of glory was not an afterthought in the mind of God. It was made according to His eternal purpose which cannot be altered. He in Whom is the yea and amen has spoken unto us in His beloved Son. What a glorious revelation God has vouchsafed unto His sons in Christ Jesus!

Not only did God choose to mediate this new and better revelation of His grace through His Son, but He also confirmed it by "bearing witness with them, both by signs and wonders, and by manifold powers, and by gifts of the Holy Spirit, according to His own will." The record of the gospel given by Matthew supplies abundant testimony to this fact. In the introductory chapters, 1-4, the Spirit records the facts regarding the Man Jesus and His eligibility to be the Messiah-King of the Jews, God's chosen people. Then in the sermon on the mount He lays down the underlying and basic principles of His kingdom. Beginning with chapter 8 and following through 12 we witness the "signs and wonders" mentioned here which were to accompany the coming of the kingdom and to identify Him as the worthy recipient of Israel's honor. Chapter 13 presents the mysteries of this age. From then on to the close of the Matthew account we see Christ in conflict with those who should have been His closest adherents, but who became His bitterest enemies and the perpetrators of His death on Calvary's tree. When such a perfect revelation which speaks forth the marvels of an infinitely Holy God fails to move sinful men to repentance, how shall we expect to escape, if we become negligent in the matters of so great salvation?

There was a great purpose in the mind of God Who sent His beloved Son into the world to be made for a little while a little lower than the angels. He was sent forth by the Father to taste death for every man. It was God's eternal purpose to bring many sons unto glory through Jesus Christ by making the Author of our salvation perfect through the things which He suffered. Our oneness with Christ Jesus in God's plan resulted in His acceptance of flesh that for us He might, through death, bring to nought him that had the power of death, the devil. We are by nature subject to bondage; we are spiritually made heirs of God through Jesus Christ. Our oneness with Christ is not the result of our worthiness to be the recipients of His love, but because of His great love for us. Paul suggests that "God commendeth His own love toward us in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us" (Rom. 5:8).

Our blessed Lord not only died on Calvary that He might redeem us from sin, but that He might also become a "merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people." We witness the Pharisee and the publican in the temple at the time of prayer. The Pharisee reminded God that he fasted twice in the week

Jesus Christ—2 Peter 3:18

LETTERS TO A COUSIN.....By Art
Dear Cousin Bert:

Did you read in the Jan. 17th issue of The Brethren Missionary Herald that Scripture illustration "Don't Wake the Beast Up?" That certainly was fine and should caution every believer who reads it to be on his guard. But what I want to call to your attention is the fact that when the tiger got his first taste of blood, he had a real longing for more. When I read in your recent letter how the Lord used you to bring salvation to your new insurance collector and your eagerness to get some help on the subject of soulwinning, I thought of that.

How wonderful it is for the Christian to have a holy appetite aroused after tasting the thrill of leading his first soul to Christ. That tiger had access to what was needed to arouse his beastly nature for weeks and months. But there he lay, as meek as a lamb, content and sleepy-eyed. How characteristic that is of thousands of lazy, sleepy-eyed Christians. They have for years been rubbing elbows with multitudes of hell-bound sinners without the slightest attempt to witness to them of the saving power of Jesus' blood and righteousness. And here you are, less than three months old, spiritually speaking, writing with a joy that knows no bounds. It is my hope that your joy of this type will have no end; that this initial experience will be followed by many others.

My last one just came the other day when an elderly woman past 75 years of age prayed and wept her way to saving faith after I had dealt with her for nearly an hour. What a victory that was over Satan who had kept her bound for so many years.

I can imagine your wonder and amazement when the young insurance agent, about whom you wrote, broke down under powerful conviction when you talked with him about his relationship to the Lord. You say you don't understand it! Well, I believe I can explain why it all happened so beautifully and effectively. Keep in mind, Bert, that there is absolutely no soul-winning done apart from the work of the Holy Spirit. Some years ago I learned several simple conditions one has to meet before he can secure the Holy Spirit's cooperation, and I have never forgotten them. I believe that unconsciously, you met those conditions.

First, one must know for certain he is saved before he can be used to lead others to salvation. Luke 22:32 shows that Peter had to be properly converted himself before he could help others to get right with God.

Then, too, one must be through practicing sin in his own life and live a clean, surrendered and separated life for God. Note 2 Tim. 2:21, "If a man therefore purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honor, sanctified, and meet for the master's use, and prepared unto every good work."

I also learned that one had to lead a life of prayer to be a successful soul-winner. In Prov. 11:30 we read, "He that winneth souls is wise." One cannot get soul-winning wisdom apart from prayer (James 1:5). You will find in Acts 11:5, 12 that it was while Peter was praying that he received instructions to go to Cornelius about his salvation.

Also, one must have a love for lost souls and a desire to win them to Christ. This important ministry is not accomplished by just reasoning that because one is a Christian he must speak to the unsaved in one way or another just to fulfill a spiritual duty. Turn to Romans 9:2-3 and you will discover the kind of compassion Paul had for those who rejected Christ. When you realized that that chap was a condemned, hopeless sinner apart from Christ, I just know that you revealed such a love for his soul that he could not resist your sincere interest in him. When you pointed out the truth to him that Christ is able and willing to save him, even as He had saved you, and that the accepted time to let him do it is now, then the Holy Spirit honored the met conditions and blessed your efforts.

Let me caution you, Bert, that every case will not be as easy as your first one proved to be. The Lord will allow you to deal with those who will try to resist every attempt to bring about their new birth, difficult cases like the one recorded in Mk. 9:14-29.

BURDEN BEARERS

By MRS. CLARENCE SICKEL

One of the first things that attracts our attention in Latin American countries is men, women and even children who go about the streets carrying large bundles, sometimes heavy ones, upon their heads. We have seen men carrying wood, suitcases, small trunks and bundles of varied sizes and shapes in this way. We have watched women coaling a steamship, a long line of women with baskets of coal on their heads going slowly up the gang plank into the hold of the ship, emptying the coal and then coming down another plank; a steady stream of women coming and going for hours, each with her burden, not in her arms, as we would carry it, but upon her head. In Rio Cuarto we frequently see a little boy carrying a whole week's washing on his head—his mother being wash lady for some rich family. If we would watch for him we could see him a few days later carrying those same clothes in the same way, now neatly washed, ironed, folded and wrapped in a clean towel, back to the owner.

That sounds very difficult and is difficult as you will discover if you try it. Perhaps you will feel very sorry for those little boys and girls who are compelled to do this. But you do not need to be, for they receive something in recompense for this work of which any boy or girl could be very proud. They do not need to be reminded to sit or stand correctly. They have beautifully straight and graceful bodies through the exercise of carrying bundles on their heads. That kind of burden-bearing will do the same for you if you will try it.

There is another kind of burden bearing that makes our Argentine boys and girls tall and straight and beautiful in another way. It isn't an easy thing to belong to Christ in a Catholic country, where there are yet so few Christians. But when the finger of scorn is pointed, our boys and girls try to take it as a burden to be borne for Christ. When the Catholic priest comes into the school room to teach false doctrines, the law permits our boys and girls to leave the room. Doing so makes them objects of ridicule many times, and makes them fall into the disrepute of the teacher, who makes it hard for them, even making them fail in their grades sometimes. But that is just another burden to be placed in the basket, the carrying of which is pleasing to the Lord and beautifying to their souls. Witnessing for our Lord, meeting temptations without wavering will do the same for us, and Jesus said, "Lo, I am with you."

Won't you pray each day that God will bless all of the little burden-bearers of South America?

Places Mentioned in the Bible

- A was a valley, where Achan was slain;
- B was a city, that cradled the King.
- C was a mount, where a prophet prayed;
- D was a plain, where an image was made.
- E was a country, of which Pharaoh was king;
- F was a harbor, to which Paul once came.
- G was a desert, where an eunuch was saved;
- H was a mountain, where they dug Aaron's grave;
- I was a town, where Paul preached the truth;
- J was a city, loved by the Jews.

These experiences encourage the worker to greater consecration, more prayer, more intense faith and a greater love for the lost.

I recommend that you order for yourself three splendid books by two present day successful soul-winners. Two of them are by Dr. Walter Lewis Wilson. One of them, "Let's Go Fishing with the Doctor" gives an abundance of wonderful advice on how to deal with the unsaved, while the other one, "Miracles in a Doctor's Life," reveals the plans in actual successful operation. The other one, "Evangelize or Fossilize," by Herbert Lockyer is being a great blessing to many Christian people. The total cost of the three is less than $1.00. These, and any other books of a spiritual nature, may be obtained through The Brethren Missionary Herald Co., 3326 S. Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Say, but I was glad to learn that you had the courage to give your testimony at the mid-week service in the little white church I recommended to you. Some people belittle this practice, but let me tell you that it is the devil who is against it, for he knows that this is one of the ways by which he is overcome. Read in Rev. 12:10-11 about the accuser and his being overcome by the saints through "the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony." I am aware that many insincere church members make loud testimonies to try to hide the "skeleton in their spiritual closets" but that is no license to hush up those who have a life to back up their testimony. You keep on telling what the Lord has done and is doing for you. It is not only a blessing to those who hear you but it is also good training for you.

Yours in best bonds,

Cousin ART.

GOD'S DARK

The dark is kind and cozy;
 The dark is soft and deep;
 The dark will pat my pillow
 And love me as I sleep.

The dark is mooth as velvet,
 And gentle as the air
 And it is good to children,
 And people everywhere.

And God can see and love me
 Without a ray of light.
 He gives me dreams and resting;
 He brings the gentle night.

God made the dark, so daytime
 Could close its tired eyes
 And sleep a while in comfort
 Beneath the starry skies.

The daytime, just like children
 Needs rest from work and play,
 So it can give us children
 Another happy day.

God made the dark for children
 And birdies in their nest.
 All in the dark He watches,
 And guards us while we rest.

SOLOMON, THE WISE

(1 Kings 9:1-9)

Suggestions for the Leader

Solomon was one man whose life had a marvelous beginning but did not end well. Once he asked God for wisdom to judge the people aright and to be the kind of person God intended him to be. His reign was the golden age of Israel's past. Solomon had wonderful advantages as a wealthy king and spent great sums for happiness. He learned that the things of this life pass away and all is vanity under the sun. He was wise in some things but unwise in others. The latter brought him down in defeat. Read Mt. 6:28, 29, also Lk. 11:31. How carefully we should guard our lives day by day.

1. Solomon's Prayer for Wisdom. 2 Chron. 1:7-12.

Solomon began to rule under favorable conditions. David, his father, left a wonderful kingdom for him. He first felt a need for wisdom and prayed for it. Wisdom is so wonderful that it will bring other blessings too.

James instructs us about our need for prayer for wisdom (James 1:5-7). Spiritually speaking, we must depend upon other strength besides our own.

2. The Glory of the Kingdom. 2 Chron. 1:15-17.

Many nations sent tribute money to Jerusalem. Some kings sent fine gifts to win Solomon's favor. Palestine was a natural meeting place and crossing for the caravans. Solomon received pay for the use of these trade routes.

While God blessed the kingdom, it grew and prospered. God will prosper the nation today that honors Him. Righteousness exalteth a nation.

3. The House of God. 1 Kings 8:1-11.

David had hoped to build the temple but he was denied the privilege because he was a warrior. Fighters do not make good builders. Solomon carried out his father's dreams and plans for a beautiful temple. The dedication prayer was marvelous in recognition of God's leadership and providence and represents Solomon at his best (1 Ki. 8:22-61). The temple became the center of the empire and the rallying place for the people.

Today we need to bring back the church to its place in our activity. It ought to be the center of our living.

4. The Covenant Renewed. 1 Kings 9:1-9.

God is the covenant-keeping One in heaven. He confirmed to Solomon His covenant that He made with David. The Lord warned against turning away from true worship. Faithfulness on Israel's part would be required to enjoy the blessing of the covenant. Unconditional covenants may not be enjoyed until we show faithfulness. God did not permit the Messiah to be born through Solomon but through another son of David, Nathan by name.

5. The Foolish King. 1 Kings 10:26; 11:1-8.

Solomon began a traffic with heathen people, trading horses and cattle. Mixing with unbelievers will do us no good. What agreement can we have? Solomon made his kingdom like other kingdoms although he was supposed to be different for God. The world may call us foolish for living a separated life but that is what God expects of every Christian. Noah was called foolish too but he was saved from the terrible judgment.

Questions

1. Tell of the visit the Queen of Sheba made to Solomon. 1 Kings 10:1-13.
2. Did Solomon find true happiness in the pleasures of this world?
3. What caused Solomon's downfall? 1 Ki. 11:1-14.
4. What do we mean when we say the love of money is the root of all evil?

Search the Scriptures

Where did the riches of Israel go once the nation began to slip? 1 Ki. 14:25-27; 15:18-19; 2 Ki. 12:17-18; 14:13-14; 16:5-9; 24:10-13.

The Miracles of Jesus—Power Over Demons

By Miss Mabel Donaldson

To the leader:

Demons are spirits of the wicked; fallen angels. Satan is their leader. They will finally be cast into the lake of everlasting fire which has been prepared for them and the devil. They are able to enter both people and animals and make them do just as the demons want them to. They are powerful, and many people have not let the Lord Jesus come in to put them out of their hearts. Christ and demons do not live together. They fight one another. Christ wants to have everybody become a Christian but these demons never stop work, and persuade many that it is foolish to follow the Savior. Study these miracles to see how Jesus fought them long ago.

1. Man with "Unclean Spirit."—Mark 5:1-20.
2. Two Possessed with Demons.—Matthew 8:28-34.
3. Demoniac Who was Dumb.—Matthew 9:27-34.
4. Demoniac Dumb and Blind.—Matthew 12:22-30.
5. Syrophenician's Daughter.—Mark 7:24-30.

Points for Discussion:

Are demons alive today? (Mt. 25:41; Rev. 20:10).

Can the one in sin overcome them alone?

Can Christ overcome the demons today, just as well as He did long ago?

Has He driven them out of your life? Does Christ live in your heart, or does Satan reign there?

Who is your spiritual father—God or the devil?

How can your friends know that demons do not live in your heart and rule your life?

LIGHT ON TRUTH

By Bernard Schneider

"O GOD, FOR A BIGGER BOAT"

The many tragedies at sea, caused by the present war, and the heroic effort put forth to save the lives in each instance, calls to mind the disaster of the Princess Alice which collided with another boat in a dense fog on the river Thames half a century ago. The boat was crowded with excursionists and the loss of human lives was great, about 600 perishing in the dark waters. Mr. Herbert Lockyer tells of an interesting little sidelight of the tragedy concerning two ferry-men, which is worth repeating.

It appears that these two ferrymen were mooring their boats for the night close at hand, when the crash happened. One heard the crash and the cries, and said, "I am tired and I am going home; no one will see me in the fog." At the coroner's inquest, both had to appear. The first was asked:

"Did you hear the cries?"

"Yes, sir."

"What did you do?"

"Nothing, sir."

"Are you an Englishman? Aren't you ashamed?"

"Sir, the shame will never leave me till I die."

Of the other the coroner asked:

"What did you do?"

"I jumped into my boat and pulled for the wreck with all my might; I crammed my boat with women and children, and when it was too dangerous to take even one other, I rowed away with the cry, 'O God, for a bigger boat!'"

There are thousands of men and women shipwrecked in the waters of sin, lost and doomed to an eternal death and punishment in hell. The Christian who has been gripped by this fact, and who is earnestly trying to save some out of the many, may well cry: "O God, for a bigger boat." The apostle Paul was having a feeling something like that when he cried: "I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren," for they were lost without Christ.

THE PROPHECY OF OBADIAH

By Albert Flory, Pastor of First Brethren Church, San Diego, Calif.

II EDOM DESERVES TO BE BROUGHT LOW

(Vs. 10-14)

In this little section the prophet lists those things which Edom has done which show that she is deserving of judgment. Vs. 10 gives the summed up reason for the judgment, and this verse holds good today. "For thy violence against thy brother Jacob, shame shall cover thee, and thou shalt be cut off forever." The sin of Edom surrounds their treatment of God's chosen people. It would be well for the leaders in Europe who are in the midst of their Jewish persecutions to read the book of Obadiah. The type of ill treatment is analyzed in the following verses of this section.

1. She gloated over Israel's destruction. (Vs. 11-12.)

In the day that God visited judgment on Israel, Edom stood in the door and laughed. The scene can be compared to a little boy standing in the doorway of the woodshed and laughing while his brother gets a whipping. When the father turns around and sees the gloater, he too is subjected to the same miseries of the rod. Well, God is here telling Edom that He has turned around and will soon lay the rod on Edom; for Edom did more than laugh in the gate, he cast lots to see who would get the greatest of the possessions that were left behind (vs. 11). This God utterly condemns.

In looking on the day of Israel's captivity, Edom rejoiced in it, and spake loudly of it. (vs.-12). This attitude on the part of Edom helps to explain why God was forced to pour judgment upon her and bring her low.

2. She seized the land and the substance (Vs. 13.)

In v. 13 God condemns Edom for seizing the land of the Israelites. When there was left but a remnant in the land and it was an easy matter for Edom to seize it and place even the remnant in slavery, the Edomites were ready to do it. Perhaps it is hard to understand how it was possible for Edom to do such atrocious things to the inhabitants of Judah. But let us remember that the seed of the hatred ran all the way back to the mess of pottage, and that hatred had been seething and boiling down through the centuries. Here, when an opportunity offered itself, the Edomites rushed in with all the violence at their command and "laid hands of the substance in that day."

3. She offered no assistance to those in need. (v. 14)

The Edomites stood in the crossing to cut off those that did escape. A graphic picture of this is found in Num. 20:14-22. The Israelites merely asked for permission to pass through the land, promising that they would touch nothing, not even water from the wells, but the Edomites said, "Thou shalt not pass by me, lest I come out against thee with a sword." (Num. 20:18).

In addition to prohibiting escape, they "delivered those that remained in the day of distress." (Obad. 14). They entered into league with the enemy of the Israelites here to aid them in the captivity of Judah. It might be well to say a word here about an apparent problem. Why would God punish Edom for aiding Babylon in carrying out a judgment on Israel that God Himself had decreed? The answer is simple. God used Babylon and Edom to punish Judah; and then He turned right around and punished Babylon and Edom for doing that which was wrong. It is to be remembered that God did not direct Babylon and Edom to punish Judah, and so God cannot overlook the sin of Babylon and Edom any more than He could overlook the sin of Judah.

III. Other Nations Will Be Brought Low. (v. 15-16).

We come now to a phrase that occurs often in the prophets; namely "The day of the Lord." We believe that here in the book of Obadiah in v. 15 we find the first occurrence of that oft repeated phrase. The term, "The day of the Lord," refers to the period of time during which God will visit judgment on the heathen nations and bring blessing to Israel in the millennium. This "day" will thus begin sometime during the tribulation period, or the time of Jacob's trouble, and merge into the eternal state.

These two verses (14-16) refer to the judgment that the day of the Lord shall bring upon the Gentile (heathen) nations, "near upon all the heathen" (v. 15). He further states that these heathen nations shall "drink on my holy mountain and they shall swallow down and they shall drink as though they had not been" (v. 10). There is an unmistakable reference here to the battle of Armageddon.

IV. ISRAEL SHALL BE EXALTED (v. 17-21)

1. The House of Jacob Shall Possess Their Possessions (v. 17-20.)

Israel shall have all the land that was promised to her centuries before in the covenant that God made with Abraham. When Christ does Israel's fighting for her in that day, and becomes her King; she will have no trouble with the enemies that once bothered. The house of Esau (v. 18); the Philistines, Ephraim, Samaria, and Gilead (v. 19); the Cannanites and the cities of the south (v. 20); all these nations shall be destroyed before the Lord rules from Jerusalem with a rod of iron. Israel shall then have all the blessings that God has promised her.

2. The Kingdom Shall Be Jehovah's (v. 21).

Little need be said about how the Christ of the New Testament is the Jehovah, the covenant God of the Old Testament. This statement in v. 21 thus clearly declares that the kingdom will belong to Christ when Israel possesses her possessions. It will be a great day when the kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of His Christ; and He shall reign forever and ever" (Rev. 11:15). In that day the mountain of the Lord's house (kingdom of Israel) shall be established and exalted above the hills (little kingdoms) and Israel shall have her blessings and possess her possessions.

Let us remember that the sins which brought destruction to Edom will bring destruction to our own individual lives, but the Christ that shall exalt Israel is willing to exalt us when we yield our lives completely to Him.

AFRAID?

A little Chinese girl, who escaped from bandits, tells how, gun in hand, they asked the missionary, J. W. Vinson, if he were afraid. "No," he replied; "if you shoot, I go straight to heaven." His decapitated body was found later.

Afraid Of what?
To feel the spirit's glad release?
To pass from pain to perfect peace,
The strife and strain of life to cease?
Afraid—of that?

Afraid Of what?
Afraid to see the Savior's face,
To hear His welcome, and to trace
The glory gleam from wounds of grace?
Afraid—of that?

Afraid Of what?
A flash—a crash—a pierced heart;
Darkness—light—O Heaven's art!
A wound of His a counterpart!
Afraid—of that?

Afraid Of what?
To do by death what life could not—
Baptize with blood a stony plot,
Till souls shall blossom from the spot?
Afraid—of that?

To The Rescue

By Alice Louise Cary, Dayton, Ohio

Across the troubled waters
A vessel made full speed;
A distant ship was burning
And there was direst need.
A submarine in hiding
Had done its deadly deed.

The life-boats soon were sighted,
Exposed to wind and wave,
Each bearing precious cargo
The vessel went to save;
It's only thought was "rescue,"
And timely help it gave.

The submarines of Satan
Are lurking everywhere;
Dark legions do his bidding—
The ruler of "the air"—
To "drown men in destruction"
When taken unaware.

So many souls are sinking,
For light and life they grope;
Am I "a chosen vessel"
With God's unfailing rope
To bring them safe to harbor
"In Christ," their only Hope?

What Other Boys and Girls are Doing . . .

Many people do not like to do without things, but not so with the boys and girls at the Third Brethren Church of Philadelphia. They have a "Do Without Offering." Their pastor, Bro. W. A. Steffler, writes:

Will you come with me tonight into the Junior C. E. room and listen to the children as they worship their Lord in this part of their service? We enter quietly. The seats are all taken, so we must stand in the rear.

A little seven-year-old girl goes to the "Do Without Bank." Listen to her words: "My aunt gave me 5c. I gave three of them to the Salvation Army to help in their great work, and here are the remaining 2c. I give them to missions." She drops the coins into the "Do Without Bank" and goes to her seat with a happy smile upon her face.

Another child goes to the bank. "I was just getting ready to spend my penny for recess the other day when I thought of our 'Do Without Bank.' I told my girl friend I would do without candy that day so I could help the Lord's work." She adds with much pleasure, "I did not have to do entirely without, for my girl friend gave me some of her candy."

Another child says as she drops several pennies into the bank, "Mother gave me lunch money. I did not spend it all. I bought less lunch and I am happy to give these pennies for missions."

Several others have done without ice cream. Others also did without their recess. Our heart is touched upon hearing such wonderful testimonies. These children range in age from 3 to 13 which makes it appear all the more wonderful. Giving up ice cream, candy, etc. means something real to them; yet I am sure their heavenly Father took note and blesses such willing hearts in a real manner.

Brother Steffler's church tries to teach children that when they keep all for themselves, they lose; while the things they give to Jesus and His work they really save. Wouldn't it be fine if we would all learn the lesson to do without more so His gospel may be carried to the uttermost parts of the earth?

God Keep the Children

Mabel Reynolds Makepiece

God keep the children in His care—
The little children everywhere:
The Indian boy in the brush tepee,
The yellow child across the sea,
The fur-clad brothers of the snows,
The black boy who through the jungle goes.
And may we with our playmates here
Remember all to Him are dear,
And treat them kindly of every land,
Who make with us one children's band.

A Real Need For Prevailing Prayer

The Board of Trustees of The Foreign Missionary Society went into a special session at Winona Lake, Ind., on May 10, to deal with problems demanding immediate attention. All members were present, except Ashman and DeLozier. Never in the 36 years that the editor has sat on this board has he seen the board face to face with graver and more difficult problems. They would seem almost to defy solution. But—God!

Our troubles are the troubles that confront all foreign boards in this present troubled world. The European War is making the task of carrying the gospel message to all the world, and especially to Africa, an exceedingly difficult task. Transportation across the seas has become a major problem. The strongest and most influential boards, as these boards touch governments, seem to have no advantage by reason of either strength or influence. Our board has five missionaries in Africa, much over-worked, whose health demands that they take their furloughs. They have the money in hand to come home. But, when a $10,000.00 fine is placed against any American citizen travelling on the ship of one of the belligerent nations, and when nearly all the nations whose boats travel to these African shores, are belligerent, then what? And if the boat of a neutral nation should happen to call at one of those ports, the berths are turned over to the important military and political personages, and the ambassadors of the cross must wait. We have nine African missionaries at this writing, who are praying for some way to go to the aid of their brothers and sisters at the front! If ever prevailing prayer for the work of our Society was needed, it is Now! Prayer changes things!

The one great off-set to the discouraging features of the work at present, is the marvelous way in which God is opening the hearts of the souls in Africa for whom Christ died, to the reception of the gospel. Read the continued story of Miss Crawford's and Miss Myers' itineration trip, continued herein from The Herald of May 11. There is the evidence that the Spirit of God is at work in spite of the follies of men! But pray for the strength of those on the fields!

"The Effectual Fervent Prayer Of a Righteous Man Availeth Much!"

Between 50 and 60 years ago, a thick-set bearded man knelt in a Chicago alleyway to talk a bit to the Lord. He said to a friend: "I was just asking the Lord to give me this lot on which to build a dormitory for men." A year later, God answered that man's prayer, and with that vacant lot, God gave that man not only a dormitory for men, but some offices and classrooms, and The Moody Bible Institute was born!

But God went further in answer to that prayer. In a few more than 50 years since that time, other lots with more than 30 structures upon them became a part of that Institute. A handsome new 12-story administration building is the most recent gift of God to that great institution.

Today, with a faculty of 42, The Moody Bible Institute is the largest training school for Christian service in all the world. Its day school, offering seven courses, stands with an enrollment of more than 1200 students. Its evening school, offering training for residents of Chicago and its suburbs, last year had an enrollment of 1721. Its correspondence school, offering 16 home study courses, enrolled more than 13,000 students last year. It has a Radio School of the Bible instructing thousands in 12 courses a year. Its Extension Department supplies Bible teachers, evangelists, and song leaders for evangelism all over the United States and Canada. Its 5,000-watt radio station is on the air with a Christian program for more than 40 hours each week. It puts into the mails each month nearly 40,000 copies of the Moody Monthly, one of the finest and most outstanding evangelical magazines in all the world. Tuition is free, and board and room is furnished to students at cost, making it possible for thousands of young men and women to equip themselves for service for Christ, most of whom otherwise would never get into such service. "In one year, students of the day and evening schools conducted 11,669 religious services, distributed 952,618 tracts, spoke on spiritual things to 86,909 persons, and reported 12,947 conversions." All in all, this great institution has trained for Christian service, more than 40,000 students, 2,163 of them as missionaries to the foreign fields. Yet, there are those who call themselves Christians, but declare they do not believe in the Bible Institutes! May the Lord from heaven be merciful to them!

A Resolution of Confidence

Elsewhere in this issue, we are printing a "Resolution" that was passed unanimously by The Board of Trustees of our Foreign Missionary Society at its meeting in Winona Lake, Ind., on May 10th. It is not necessary here to state what it was that inspired this "Resolution." We quote from the "Resolution":

"We condemn without reservation all efforts to divert to organizations other than our Society the contributions which have been providing for their (our foreign missionaries) support in past years, and that we call upon all Brethren churches and pastors to continue their support of our Society under whose direction these faithful missionaries are serving the Lord."

There are more than 40 missionaries working under the direction of The Board of Trustees of The Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church. For many years, most of these have faithfully toiled in the darkness of heathenism, rescuing perishing souls for whom Christ died that they might have life. So far as we know, no voice of criticism from the homeland has ever been lifted against the missionaries now serving under our board. It would seem impossible that any one professing to love the Lord Jesus Christ, would suggest an action which, if the suggestion were to be carried out, would completely wreck the work of making Christ known to these millions perishing in the night, and compel us to call our missionaries home, leaving them to their fate. But just such a suggestion has been made, and it came from the one source from which we had a right to expect better things because of past association and because of solemn agreement—from one who was himself a missionary for 30 years, supported and sustained by our board, and who was retired at his own request, and given the most liberal pension ever given to any retired servant of The Brethren Church.

Just imagine, if you can, what would happen were all our Brethren churches, or even a goodly number of our more missionary-spirited churches, to follow the suggestion of this former missionary, and divert the funds necessary for their support to another board in no wise responsible for their support to a board that has dismissed from its own employ those preachers in the homeland who will not swear allegiance to a certain educational institution because of its modernistic tendencies—a demand to which the vast majority of these missionaries, if not all of them, would never accede—yes, just imagine what would happen to these missionaries over there in a land that is suffering and torn by a war that is growing more terrible every passing day! As matters now stand, it seems impossible to bring even a small number of them home across the sea. If our churches were to heed this suggestion and leave the Board of Trustees, as it is now organized, without funds for the coming year, these missionaries would either have to swear allegiance to a group of religious dictators and bow the knee, or be left to their fate whatever that might be. Knowing them as we do, we believe they would prefer to accept the kindness of fate!

However, we do not believe that the present unreasonable heat and passion within the church is going to keep our Brethren churches from continuing the support of as fine a band of missionaries as ever any church could boast. We believe that the Christ still dwells within, and controls enough Brethren life, to prevent the wrecking of the fine mission work built up through the years. Who knows but that these missionaries, bearing tremendous burdens out there in that heathen darkness, may yet take upon themselves the task of saving the church in the homeland from disunion and death? Perhaps it will yet be their voice that shall call us all away from the heat and the passion, and persuade us to sit down again together around the sacred board, at a feast of love, and be in deed as well as in name—Brethren!

So Keep on Blowing Your "Piccolo"!

A great musician of a famous symphony orchestra was carrying on a rehearsal one evening. The organ thundered, the drums rolled, the violins wailed, and the trombones resounded. Far off in a corner of that orchestra that one man, playing the piccolo, said to himself, as he stopped playing: "In all this noise, what does it matter what I do? Suddenly, the great conductor stopped, flung up his hands. Everything became deathly quiet. "Where," he cried out, "is that piccolo?" How often do those among us feel just like that piccolo player. What do we amount to, anyway? The whole universe resounds with great crashing music, praising the Creator of all. But, Christians, remember that Jesus said the very hairs of your heads are numbered. He does not lose in the mass. Not a sparrow can fall to the ground without His notice. This being true, certainly if you fail to praise the Lord, even though you are His smallest child. He will miss your voice. His ears are open for the praise of all those who are His own. So, keep blowing your piccolo!

Training Up a Child

A family, living in Los Angeles, but members of the First Brethren Church of Long Beach, sent to the pastor their Easter offering. The first paragraph of the letter accompanying the offering read as follows:

"Due to illness, we were unable to be in Long Beach yesterday, so are sending our Easter offering. The children wanted us to be sure and mention that their offering amounts to a tenth of their savings. They are beginning young to tithe their allowance—thanks to the teaching at Fifth and Cherry in all the departments."

There were three envelopes in connection with this remittance. One contained the offering of the parents. The other was the offering of little Anita, aged six. She had carefully printed her name on her envelope, and the envelope contained 20c—not much, but it was a tithe. How many of the readers of this article gave as much, i.e., the tithe?

And then, written in his own hand on another envelope was the name "Glenn Newland," aged ten. His envelope contained one dollar. Again, it was his tithe.

In the day of His appearing, when "He shall reward every man according as his work shall be," we imagine the Lord may not ask us how many dollars we gave, but He may ask us whether we gave the tithe. What shall our answer be?

Anyhow, one thing sure, Brother and Sister Newland are training their children up to give a proper recognition to the claims of the Savior Who died to save them. "Train a child up in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart therefrom."

"Interpretation" With a Vengeance!

We sometimes wonder if the all-wise God really was unable to make Himself understood without the id of our modern "interpreters," who can be sure of its message? It soon means anything, everything, nothing! Here is a sample.

We have just read in a magazine, an article on the subject: "Did Jesus Commend Nudism?" The writer quotes from an Oxford University Press publication containing "A Fragment of a Lost Gospel," which makes Jesus say in His "Sermon on the Mount":

"Ye are far better than the lilies which grow but spin not. Having one garment, what do ye lack? He himself will give you your garment."

Then, the writer declares that "one's own skin is the garment referred to"! Sure! Isn't it the one garment we still possess because the tax-gatherers have not yet succeeded in stripping it off of us? Isn't it the one garment that "He Himself" (God) gave to us? The proof is absolute! So, let's all go nudist! Now bring on another "ism"!

But—

We just happened to think! (Some folks never happen to!) There is one insurmountable obstacle that stands in the way of acceptance of this modernism to have been made over the same pattern over which most of the nudists were made whose pictures the nudist propagandists show us in the magazines! They are nearly all models for any artist. Now, "we ain't no model!" We descended from an ancestor who admitted as much: "I was naked; and I hid myself!" (Gen. 3:10). So there! You see, we didn't descend from the inhabitants of the trees!

And Then Again—

We are still a bit old-fashioned, having been taught by an old-fashioned mother who possessed an old-fashioned Bible and believed it! That Book reveals the will of the living God before whom we must all one day stand for judgment. From the pages of that Book we read:

"I will therefore.....that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefacedness and sobriety" (I Tim. 2:8,9). "For after this manner in the old time the holy women also, who trusted in God, adorned themselves" (I Pet. 3:5).

History abounds with evidence of the fact that the decline of civilizations went hand in hand with the decline of womanly modesty! Thank God there are still a few old-fashioned mothers of men! They are the salt of the earth!

If nature had made provision to give us an ear-ache every time we listened to things to which we should not listen, we would be very careful as to our listening.—Now and Then.

AT DOTHAN

Lewis H. Court

"Fear not! They that be with us are more than they that are with them."—2 Kings 6:16.

The Syrians round the walls of Dothan lay;

Their armed hosts at dawn the young man saw.

Alas, beleaguered thus, there seemed no way

Through their well-guarded line; and, filled with awe,

He to the aged prophet bore the news;

Who, hearing it, showed no least sign of fear.

Why should they faint and tremble in their shoes?

Was not the living God of Israel near!

"Fear not! for they that are with us are more Than they that be with them," the old man said.

Then, where the youth had seen but foes before,

His eyes were opened and he saw instead

The horses and the chariots of the Lord

To save the anointed from the Syrian sword.

Thus oft, to inexperienced eyes, the world

With all its evil forces marshalled strong,

Its vested interests, rebel flag unfurled,

Seems to be at the mercy of the wrong;

And nobler interests of the soul and mind

So hemmed about, the battle must be lost:

But ripe experience, steadfast and refined,

Dreads not the challenge, counting all the cost.

From many a fight old Valiant-for-the-Truth

Has learnt, no weapon forged against the Right

Can prosper; and with eyes of spiritual youth

He, through the dust of conflict, holds in sight

The shining cohorts of the Lord and knows

He needs not fear the tactics of his foes.

A small man can make a big job shrink to littleness but it takes a big man to make a little job grow into a big one.

Impossibilities are merely the half-hearted efforts of quitters.—Herbert Kaufman.

"Great God, with wonder and with praise

On all Thy works I look;

But still Thy wisdom, power, and grace

Shine brightest in Thy Book.

Thy stars, that in their courses roll,

Have much instructions given;

But Thy good Word informs my soul

Fear Not --- Let your requests be made known unto God!

Isaiah 41:3

Philippians 4:6-7

By Dr. Florence N. Gribble. Yaloke, par Bangui, Oubangui-Chari, French Equatorial Africa.

"Fear not, I will help thee!"—Days of stress, days of uncertainty—sometimes of anxiety are upon us. Men are wondering how to accomplish their tasks. Missionaries are waiting, in our own and other churches, to come forth to the field. A few are awaiting furlough. Duties are heavy. Stations are undermanned or understaffed. One hesitates to know how both to preach and to practice medicine. Another is in a strait betwixt two — the care and supervision of a central Bible School, or the itinerating in a larger district—and finally decides on six months of each. Yet on both of these, multitudinous petty duties which shall be unnamed, encroach until the time is swallowed up, and the things most longed for are unaccomplished. There would be discouragement, perhaps despondency; but in the midst of all, a clear voice is heard, saying, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest" (Mt. 11:28).

Reinforcements? How we long for them! Ready to come; now fully prepared; funds available, at least in part, to supply their need; eyes looking to the field, vision strained—nothing in sight; asking, "When"? Let Paul answer from the pages of the inspired Word: "All the promises of God in Him are yea, and in Him, amen" (II Cor. 1:20). So be it! It shall be done!

Boats being sunk, passports difficult to obtain, even more difficult to visae, routes changed, exchange fluctuating! What shall our outcoming missionaries, both furloughed and candidates do? Let the Psalmist answer: "He shall call upon me and I will answer him; I will be with him in trouble" (Ps. 91:15).

So much work to be done in Africa, or in South America; so many converts awaiting teaching; so many unconverted awaiting the message; so many sick awaiting healing; so much language work to be done. How to get to the field? Listen to the inspired voice from the pages of the prophet Isaiah (46:4) and (43:2) "I have made, and I will bear; even I will carry, and will deliver you. I will be with you." Shall you, can you doubt?

Outfits incomplete, funds failing, income precarious, supplies low! Hearts tend to be anxious; the waves seem high, the waters implacable. Is there no hope? Let Paul answer again in Phil. 4:6 and 7—"Be careful for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God which passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus."

What route shall be taken? What line shall be chosen? What boat shall our missionaries take? Insurance in these days must be with God alone. Prayer alone can safeguard our dear ones, embarking on seas so dangerous. For He has promised: "I will instruct thee, and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go. I will guide thee with mine eye" (Ps. 32:8).

But can they be sure of destination? Shall they arrive safely at the desired haven? What matters it, so that by life or death He is glorified? "I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee" (Heb. 13:5). "Lo, I am with you always even unto the end of the world" (Mt. 28:20).

But fears arise within; friends are fearful too. Surely the called ones need no ordinary sustaining. Hear the voice of Him who is extraordinary—of Him who is mighty! "Fear not, I am the first and the last!" It is a guarantee of enduring friendship, a surety of everlasting support.

And yet, in weakness some are crying in the words of an Old Testament saint: "Neither know we what to do, but our eyes are on Thee" (II Chron. 2:20).

Looking within there is no encouragement. Vaguely one feels: "Were I perfect, then I might expect the miraculous. But, Oh God, thou knowest my foolishness and my sins are not hid from Thee" (Ps. 69:5).

But it was that same Psalmist who cried out in his weakness: "Teach me to do thy will, for Thou art my God!" (Ps. 143:10). Foolish, perhaps, young and inexperienced, perhaps, but with hearts fixed on Him! Such are our missionary volunteers! Well, may they cry out: "Lead me, oh Lord, in thy righteousness, make my way (to Africa) straight before my face" (Ps. 5:8). And while thus praying, how blessed for me, how blessed for you, to remember with the Psalmist: "My times are in Thy hands" (31:15).

But, oh how one must indeed lack wisdom! How much more than human wisdom is needed just now! But is it not promised? "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him" (Jas. 1:5, 6). Yes; and, "But let him ask in faith nothing wavering!"

The founder of the Oubangui-Chari Mission used to say, as he risked all on the promises of God, that he was anxious to be the first man God had ever disappointed. If you or I walk in darkness and have no light, there is something wrong with our faith. Does not Isaiah say: "Who is among you that feareth the Lord, that walketh in darkness, and hath no light?"

Let him trust in the name of the Lord, and stay upon His God" (Isa. 50:10). In these days so dark for our own and every other mission, in these days when it seems the true Light must be obscured, let us renew our trust. Remember the "City of Cairo," on which the first party of the Oubangui-Chari Mission sailed, brought safe to port, because the good hand of God was upon her, when her predecessors, the "City of Lahore," and the "City of Athens" were destroyed, the one, off Cape Town, and the other, off South America.

Surely in these days the ambassadors of Christ have every reason to think seriously upon surrounding circumstances. It is no time to be reckless, but prudent; no time to be foolhardy but courageous. But as we think over the dangers of our present situation, we marvel at the goodness of God. Surely we could not ask for more than an opportunity unhindered! Surely we could not ask for more than open doors to the North and to the South, to the East and to the West! Surely we could not ask for more than every need supplied! "In the multitude of my thoughts within me," thus saith the Psalmist, "Thy comforts delight my soul" (Ps. 94:19).

Yet a little while shall the dispensation of grace continue—"Yet a little while," and "He that shall come will come, and shall not tarry." In that little while we must "occupy till He come." In that little while "this gospel must be preached." "Seeing therefore ye look for these things, be diligent." Well, may we say with the Psalmist, "Why art thou cast down, O my soul, and why art thou disquieted in me? Hope thou in God" (Ps. 42:5). Blessed hope! in God our Father, who will shortly send Jesus our Lord!

He who looked with eyes of His flesh upon His earthly disciples, said unto them: "Why are ye so fearful? how is it that ye have no faith?" (Mk. 4:40). He is, and all is well. He rules, and we are confident. He comes, and we are jubilant! But up to the present moment, and for that little while which must elapse before we see Him, it must be all of faith. "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen" (Heb. 11:1). Shall we miss the precious opportunity which now presents of winning souls to Him? Beloved, let us pray. Pray that your missionaries on the field may be sustained. Pray that furloughed and new missionaries may be thrust out! Pray!!!

CONFORMITY TO CHRIST

"My little children, of whom I travail in birth again until Christ be formed in you" (Gal. 4:19).

That Christ may be formed—in His exquisite beauty;

That Christ may be seen—with His wonderful life Portrayed, day by day, in the presence of duty—

Revealed, hour by hour, in life's strain, stress, and strife!

That Christ may be formed! He strongly desires it!

Waits now His own life, in its fullness to show;

A weary world needs it—most truly requires it—

Christ formed and revealed in His children below.

—J. Danson Smith.

WHAT A CHRISTIAN IS

A Christian is Christ in a man (Jno. 5:19, 20).

A Christian is a person after Christ's own heart (Mal. 2:6).

A Christian is Christ's representative on earth (I Pet. 3:15; Jno. 7:17).

A Christian is a follower of the Master, practicing thru the week what he professes on Sunday (Rom. 6:11).

A true Christian is one who clearly and constantly reflects the image of Christ.

A Christian is one in whom the Spirit of Christ abides. We can know Christians by the fruits of their lives (I Jno. 4:13; Phil. 4:8).

A Christian is one who believes that Jesus Christ died on the cross to save every one who believed on Him, and who has the assurance in his own heart that Christ has saved him (Jno. 3:16; Isa. 12:2; I Jno. 5:11-13).

THINK IT OVER

WHY WORRY WHEN YOU CAN PRAY?

On an African Safari for Christ . . .

By Miss Mabel Crawford, Missionary in Oubangui-Chari, French Equatorial Africa.

January 9, 1940

Guess I'm getting old. I started to climb Kone Mbane (Rain Mountain) early this morning and couldn't make it quite to the top. From that high point one can see all of Kareland and more. The next time I try such a feat I'll not do it on an empty stomach.

We left the auto road and took the bush path to Ganga. It was terrible.....no bridges, many rocks, etc. One place the boys had to ease the push down a steep narrow gorge to the river below. It is a marvel to me that they got it through such places without smashing it, and a few of their bones besides. Food for the boys is a problem here at Ganga. In the evening the boys went out to preach in nearby villages, and Simon (one of my push boys) came home very much impressed by the village he visited.

January 10

Decided to spend an extra day here teaching the Christians. There is a blind minstrel here in town who travels around with a six foot banjo made from a gourd. He sings for his living. He came to entertain us in the hope of getting a pittance. There was nothing to his songs, so Estella (Myers) preached to him and inveigled him into singing the gospel message. Simon sat beside him and gave him simple gospel truths one by one, and he put them into music. We marvelled at his adaptness in getting thoughts and interpreting them to the tempo of his music. He reminded me of what one reads of the minstrels of the middle ages. What a blessing he could be if he really grasped the truth of the gospel and went from village to village giving it forth in song.

January 11

Moved yesterday afternoon to the large village of Ouetele. Estella stayed to preach at Ganga and I came I came on to preach at the new place. A lot of drunks tried to disturb our meeting, and their foolishness and commotion kept us awake a good part of the night. Many accepted the gospel here, and Simon feels this is where the Lord wants him to work.

January 12

Came on to Touloulou yesterday. The people here are Pondo and very rough and uncouth. During the night considerable excitement was caused by the shouting of a bushman outside our hut. Our boys are none too calm when they get outside the limits of their own tribe. Came on to Ndim.....the large cotton seeding center. The administrator and his wife were there buying cotton, so we had lunch with them and the cotton mill director before coming on to Kounang. Enjoyed going through the cotton mill after lunch. We noticed that the gin was from Alabama. Kounang is a beautiful place. It is a closed government post and we are staying in the big brick government house high on the mountain side.

January 13

We get a beautiful view for miles from this site. These rugged Panna mountains are almost as nice as our Karre mountains. We divided our effort this morning and I went to the village of Lia, while Estella went to Kounang proper. Climbing back up the hill from Lia to the post is like climbing Bassai hill. At Lia a woman died very suddenly during the night, probably from exhaustion from carrying cotton to Ndim yesterday. The whole village was home and sat around dumbfounded. They listened and received the message well, but I didn't give an invitation. This afternoon I talked to the soldiers' wives. There are quite a number of them whose husbands are stationed some place else just now. For the evening service we changed villages. Many accepted the Lord at each place.

We were so happy to find Louis (a Christian store clerk who starts a service wherever he works) had just arrived in Kounang. He was already witnessing for his Lord, so we put him in charge of teaching and strengthening our group of new believers.

Sunday, January 14

Went to Ndim this morning that we might have time to hold a little service with our Christians on the one day when they are free from work. There are many Karre there, a large proportion of them former Bassai people. They want one of the boys who can read, to teach them. Went on to Zole.....had a fine reception here. The chief gave the boys a goat to kill, which always means to them the very height of satisfaction.

January 15

I left Zole ahead of Estella and went through to Bocarang. Was sorry I did, for she had a terrible time getting porters, and had a long hard day. The people up through here don't want to work for either love or money. We are repacking and leaving two loads of the things we can get along without to be sent to Bassai sometime.

One of our promising young evangelists is stationed in this field and is doing a good work. Visited his classes in the afternoon and gave a message. The work here was started by Louis in his clerking days. This is a government post, and we had dinner with the administrator and his wife. They are old friends of the mission, having been at Paoua before. Listened to radio war news, but Radio City gave us little besides static.

January 16

We got to bed very late last night, but we got a real early start this morning. We left our extra boys to look after the loads, and started out for Baibokoum. A short distance out of Bocaranga we came to a large village and before we had time to greet anyone a man began shouting, "Everyone come to hear the good news." Apparently our name had gone before us. People came running from all directions. Our workers had been visiting that village. We started to sing a hymn, and the whole audience began singing something else. It was bedlam for a few minutes until we discovered what they were singing and kept to the two or three lines they knew. At least, they were "making a joyful noise unto the Lord."

January 17

Today was a long hard day. We stopped to preach at all the villages along the way, as this is very primitive territory. We have quite a system.....Estella stays behind to preach at one village, while I go on to the next one. She passes me and takes in the next village, then I the next. Thus we save time and still do not leave any villages untouched. We found a number of villages where they had never heard, and were amazed at the truth. Our native workers are too much inclined to hit only the important points, and slight the smaller villages when they go out into unreached territory. One chief gave us a live goat. We had to take it with us, bellowing and fighting all the way.

I stopped to preach at the first Mboum village across the river Lim. While I was preaching, the chief sent for a pot of beer for my boys. He was surprised to find they did not accept his gift. His gift to me was a chicken, which I could take without religious scruples, since I'm not a native woman and under a chicken-eating taboo. As we were leaving he asked me to give him some tobacco, so I had to talk against that as well as beer.

We reached Mann late in the afternoon. This village is almost breath-taking at first sight. It is by far the largest village in this part of the country, and presents a beautiful picture from the rest house built on a high point. We are near Cameroun border here. The village is very responsive to the Gospel, having been visited a number of times by both missionaries and native workers. The chief himself expresses a deep interest and says he has already put away his idol worship. His little boy is very ill with double pneumonia, but we are committing him to the Great Physician.

January 18

Have spent the day resting and washing up all our soiled clothing. Had a good morning service. There isn't much to do during the day for most everyone is out picking cotton these days. The people came in from their gardens very late and made the evening service late. The one little sick boy is delirious, but we believe yet the Lord will undertake for His own glory.

A CROWD OF NATIVE CHRISTIANS IN THE CAMEROUNS

ARGENTINA

By Miss Johanna Nielson, Formerly a Missionary in Argentina

Present conditions in Europe and the Far East are causing the people of the United States to think more than ever before of Latin America. Magazine articles, travel bureaus, market conditions, even fashions, are contributing to make us more conscious of the existence of our southern neighbors. I wonder if we are becoming more missionary-minded toward them in like proportion.

Miss Nielson

In Mackay's "That Other America," he tells of a world traveler, not a missionary, who states that nowhere had he sensed such depths of spiritual darkness as in Latin America. And yet, sad to say, South America still remains "The Neglected Continent."

Perhaps it is because there seems not to be the same response to the gospel story that is usually met with in other lands. No group revival movement, not to mention mass movement, has ever been known to sweep any town or city of Argentina, so far as I have ever heard. So missionaries become discouraged, and they cry: "Why?—Why?"

Missionary efforts usually begin in port cities, these being easiest of access. Buenos Aires, Argentina's great metropolis as well as port, has many denominations at work. There are thousands who have not yet been reached; but if they have any desire to hear the gospel, a few minutes walk, or ride in street car or bus, and they may hear, for it is being preached in many places—perhaps not in its fulness, but certainly in saving power. Of Rosario the same could be said.

What of the towns of the interior—in our own Cordoba district, for instance? Here there are towns, dozens of them, that have no gospel witness, except as the Bible Coach may pass through once a year or more in two years, leaving a thin trail of tracts and Testaments. Possibly a family or two are definitely interested, and maybe a goodly number of hearts have been stirred, even though no public testimony was given. Where shall they go to hear the gospel proclaimed? It is many miles to the nearest mission, and they have no way to get there even if they would.

We always think of Rio Cuarto as our center, and from it radiate various railway lines, along which the towns have sprung up. Toward Tancacha we are getting a good start, with services in Berrotaran, Elena, Almafuerde, Tancacha and Hernando; but in only two of these towns is there an established work. Our first Tancacha converts went more than 50 miles to our nearest mission to be baptized. They did not go over paved highways either.

To the South, between Rio Cuarto and Huinca Renanco are about a dozen towns: Moldes, Mackenna, Sampacho, Lavalle, Salguera, Melo, Matalde, Capillo, are some of them—They have no chance to hear the gospel. Around Huinca are seven or eight more.

Another line running to Carlotá offers another group of towns, among them Alejandro, where there are a number of believers, and where we formerly had a station.

But one of our greatest opportunities is along a line to Firmat, with a number of large towns absolutely without the gospel. In several of them the Bible Coach workers had a very good hearing, and there was much interest. Some of the more important ones are Corral de Bustos, Isla Verde, Ucaccha, Pascanas and La Borde. It seems almost criminal to let such opportunities for establishing gospel light-houses go by unclaimed.

Most of the towns mentioned are good sized. Many have a population of several thousands. There are many more smaller places. Because they have known only a false religion and their hearts have been hardened, shall we say the task is too hard, and turn away to let them die in sin and darkness? God forbid.

God has some choice saints among our Brethren in Argentina, and some that are truly miracles of grace—miracles so great that they must needs be seen "before and after" really to appreciate what God hath wrought. Perhaps it may always be necessary to win them "one by one" as has been done thus far. It may be that if we were more zealous in prayer for an awakening in Argentina that the Lord would honor our prayers and give a great harvest of souls. Certain it is that prayer changes things, for prayer moves the arm of God.

Our message has not failed where it has been faithfully proclaimed. I believe there is no town, large or small, where there are not some who will accept the Lord and live for Him, if given the opportunity to know Him and His saving gospel. We have not had to preach ten years without a convert. Let us pray the Lord of harvest to send forth laborers, earnest, enthusiastic, consecrated laborers, willing to spend and be spent, to work even in the small, unattractive places, and who will have the patience to work on while they wait for the results the Lord will surely give, for He can not fail.

"THE WAY"

The way to be master is to be servant.

The way to get up is to get down.

The way to receive is to give.

The way to be rich is to be poor.

The way to be wise is to be a fool.

The way to be exalted is to abase yourself.

The way to live is to die.

AN ENGLISH JURIST AND "THE FILM POISON" OF HOLLYWOOD

Mr. J. A. R. Cairns, a well-known magistrate of the Southwestern Police Court in the great city of London, certainly spoke his mind, and, we believe, spoke the truth concerning our modern "movies." Let parents read what this magistrate says, who sits on a bench facing the moral problems of a great city, and then ask whether a pastor is doing his duty who opposes the "movies." The magistrate says:

"We are living in an era of dirt, and the 'pictures' exploit it and thrive on it. You have only to recall the sort of stuff with which the film producers are flooding the world to see that this is so.

"The highest idea of romance is infidelity.

"The husband who trusts his wife is half-wit; and the wife who trusts her husband deserves to be deceived, and is an object for hilarity.

"And seduction is the normal initiation into society.

"Filth in most of our picture houses and many of our theaters has become the hallmark of amusement, and self-control the brand of the coward.

"Film producers are fouling civilization; they exhibit human love as something disgusting, nauseating and revolting, and after they have debauched the youthful minds, our criminal courts and hospitals are left to clear up the litter, while moneybugs clear off with the money bags.

"Constantly in my court here I see girl-mothers faced by lads challenging their obligation to paternity. I do not hesitate to say that Hollywood is earning a distinction second only to Gomorrah.

"I can respect misguided enthusiasm and honest error, but here are men deliberately exploiting every human frailty for cash. An England peopled with these film-made sexual specters cannot live.

"They can pollute our Western ideals and the Eastern ideals of the white man and his civilization in a way that we cannot compete with in effectiveness by righteousness and virtue. But do not misunderstand me—we are called killjoys, but we are not. I want to interfere with no man's manner of life. He can lead a life which to me would seem utterly immoral, if he chooses, and I would not raise an eyebrow—that's his concern. But if he wants to debauch youth, that's my concern.

"What I say and mean is—give youth a chance. Let them dream. I am sorry for the young folks of today, for in so many ways they are so delightful. But this film poison is so insidious and penetrates from the very atmosphere of the films.

"Why, I was talking only the other day to a young girl I know, of eighteen, and quite innocently she expressed to me her surprise that her father had no woman 'friend,' and her mother, too. I'm sure it is only from seeing films where immorality is painted as natural that she could have imbibed such views. I myself have sat in picture houses and felt that our children have no chance to retain their pristine innocence. Have we no reverence for childhood left? I wonder!"

MONTHLY PRAYER CALENDAR

On their respective birthdays, the names, favorite Scripture verses, and prayer requests of pastors, missionaries, and others in the brotherhood who are prominent in Christian work, will appear under this head. Please see that each member in your society is assigned one of the following names for daily prayer. Assign a different name to each member weekly. If you know of others whose names should have appeared this month, please notify your News Editor at once.

June 2—Rev. James Cook, pastor at Dallas Center, Ia. Prayer request in the face of war, death and destruction about us: "Even so, come, Lord Jesus" (Rev. 22:20).

June 3—Rev. Leo Polman, pastor at Ft. Wayne, Ind. II Tim. 2:15. Requests prayer for young people's summer camps, especially our National Brethren Youth Camp at Bethany, Winona Lake; for Bible conferences; for The Brethren Missionary Herald Co. and its many problems; for a deepening of our lives spiritually.

June 7—Mrs. Robert Ashman, wife of pastor at Peru, Ind. Isa. 53:6. Requests prayer for the unsaved in these last days; for our young people who are trying to stand for Christ; and that we may constantly be about our Father's business, bringing glory to His name.

June 9—Mrs. Joseph H. Foster, missionary in Africa. Her requests have been delayed due to war conditions, but we believe she would request prayer for her husband, Eld. Jos. H. Foster, whose physical body needs the healing touch of the Master; and, that added strength may be given to them both because of added duties in these troubled days.

June 12—Rev. Geo. E. Cone, pastor at Portis, Kans. Jn. 3:16. Requests prayer for the salvation of Israel; for the Lord to enable our missionaries to get to and from their fields of labor; and for provision for the further needs of The Brethren Home Missions Council, with praise for God's gracious provision for financing its work in the past.

June 14—Mrs. Chas. W. Mayes, wife of pastor of W. 10th St. Church at Ashland, O. Rom. 11:33. Requests prayer for wisdom and strength from the Lord to serve Him faithfully as a minister's wife, mother, and superintendent of a Junior High Department; also for the salvation of three boys in that department.

June 17—Mrs. Riccardo E. Wagner, missionary in South America. Gal. 6:14. Requests prayer for wisdom in the reorganization of her daily, weekly and monthly program of duties; that the Lord will raise up helpers in the execution of the same; and that she may be definitely led of the Lord in order to be able to put first things first for His glory, as she is unable to attend to a fourth of the work that needs to be done.

GLEANINGS FROM MISSIONARIES' LETTERS

"An Outfitting Party"

We guess that is what you would call it—is reported to us by one of our new missionaries, soon to depart for her station in Africa. Miss Ruth Snyder writes from Winona Lake, Ind.:

"The other night, the students of the Seminary had a little party at which they attempted to surprise me with a shower of gifts for my outfit. You see, that is the kind of students we have at Grace Seminary! They are willing to share of the abundance of their poverty! They are all fine people, and just such doings show the kind of fellowship which we are enjoying."

In Quarantine

The meningitis epidemic on our African stations was still continuing on Mar. 4, according to a letter from Mrs. Chauncey Sheldon. She writes:

"Did you know that we are more or less in quarantine these days? Yesterday (Sunday) there was no church service, neither was there any this morning. School has also been closed..... You of course have heard of the meningitis epidemic in this district for nearly two months now. Well, Dr. Gaillard kept thinking it didn't amount to much, but all the time it kept spreading. Yesterday Madame Legru wrote that there had been 80 known cases. Of course there are many that the doctors don't know about. It has now spread out on several of the roads leading from Bossangoa. At last they have closed the marche.....

"Our water boy, Fio's little boy, fell very sick. They diagnosed both cases as meningitis. There is nothing to do for them, not even at Bossangoa, for the doctor has no serum and no vaccine. He has sent for this several times, but because of the war things are delayed..... Chauncey had a little hut built for Fio out in the bush, and there he stays with his little boy, tenderly caring for him and hoping for his recovery. He is the only son, for the other little boy died some time back. The other case is not on the concession, and they have been quite stubborn about isolating the patient. In fact, they moved him to another family, for, said they, their house had evil spirits in it."

Ration Cards Used

Mrs. Chauncey B. Sheldon of the Bellevue station, F. E. A., wrote the editor on Mar. 5, 1940, a very interesting message, a part of which will be of intense interest to our members who are wondering just how they are faring in that land during these tempestuous days. We quote:

"..... So far, it has been easier to get gasoline here than in Europe. We have ration cards for flour, butter, milk, lard, and wine. The last named one hasn't bothered us a great deal! As to the others, we have been able to get all that we need also. We haven't suffered any so far, so don't waste any sympathy on us! I guess that France and England are much better fixed for food than Germany is. One wonders where this war will lead us to; but for us who have that 'blessed hope,' there is no despondency. Surely His coming must be drawing nigh, and what a blessed day that will be!

As to our furlough, we don't know a thing about it. We do know that those at home are having great difficulty getting back. A party from the Mid-African Mission passed through a couple of months back, on their way home. We haven't heard how they made out. (A report reached us that they were stranded at the coast—L.S.B.). The American Council wrote that the American freight line takes a limited number of passengers from Liberia only. I saw in one of Dr. Bingham's 'prayer letters' that they were considering trying to charter some neutral boat to take their missionaries out and return those who were ready for furlough. Of course they would have to have a large number to make it pay expenses..... The American Council said however that Americans were forbidden to travel on belligerents' ships under penalty of a fine of $10,000.

For some time there has been an outbreak of meningitis around Bossangoa, and services had to be closed at the chapel. One of the leading Christians has been quite ill with it. However, as long as Bossangoa is 21 miles away it didn't seem to be an imminent danger. But about 10 days ago one of the school children here went down with it. Then a few days after our water-boy's little son suddenly became very sick. Our own doctors are so far away, and even Miss Bickel is at Yaloke nursing, so we had no help to tell us what this was. We notified the French doctor and he came and pronounced both cases to be meningitis. The doctor thought we had better close the services, which we did; and it seems so strange, for it is the first time since we arrived here over 13 years ago that the Word has not gone forth almost daily..... We have been gargling our throats, for we go to see the sick. But the worst is, that Donald, who is probably the most susceptible, is unable to gargle. He just swallows the disinfectant. He played with our water-boy's little son also, just before he became ill. However, a week has passed and nothing has come of it, so we praise the Lord. Most of those who have had meningitis have died with it, but our two cases appear to be getting better, although when they fell ill they appeared to be sick unto death. Much prayer went up for them and we believe the Lord heard His children and answered. They had no medicine at all. The doctor had tried to get serum but had not received it. The war holds up things these days....."

Word From Kathryn Jobson

Our readers will be glad to have some word direct from Miss Kathryn Jobson, who is in the Westervelt home and school for missionaries' children at Batesville, S. Carolina. No wonder missionaries leave their children in this school! This school seems to have the faculty of starting the children off to walk in the steps of their parents, even as it should. Kathryn writes:

"I used to have a class of little colored boys and girls. My, what a joy it is to work among children. How I love them! Roger, my brother, (in Africa) was so glad to know that I, too, was working among 'black children.' My assignment has been changed, and I work with a family of the poorer whites of the South. What a joy it is to be working—not for Christ, but with Him. My, how the power of Christ changes the lives of those who wholly believe in Him. I've seen it so true in the many lives while here. We use the Scripture-graph boards, presenting the salvation messages and Bible talks with pictures put on a felt-covered board.

"We are having speakers this week, those parents of the children who are coming on furlough, and other missionary friends. It is such a privilege to hear so many of God's harvesters. We also have a time set aside every Friday for reading prayer requests of the various missionaries and of various mission fields. Even though I cannot go forth, I truly want to be an intercessory missionary, praying that fervent prayer which may accomplish much. Daddy had me memorize the poem 'Hold The Ropes,' and I often repeat lines of it now.....

"This is around the closing time of school. We finish school on May 15, as we started Aug. 1. The college graduates May 22. Next year I go down to the public high school for my senior year. Then my parents are to come home. How I pray that they may be able to be home when I graduate. Oh, I long to see them. I also want them here for my next step—into college.

"How I praise the Lord for Christian parents and for this Home; for it was here I learned to know Christ as a real, personal Savior and Friend and came to know His Word, and came to love and value my parents as never before. Truly, He is faithful!"

Hill Maconaghy Writes

Brother Hill Maconaghy, on April 15, wrote from Rio Cuarto as follows:

"You will be interested to know that Bro. Dowdy and I are working in three towns now. We are staying in Rio Cuarto, but are going out for several days each week to these other places. In one of these towns we have located a family that claims to be believers. Through them we have gotten a list of friends whom we are visiting, and with whom we are dealing definitely about accepting the Lord Jesus Christ as their Savior. So far we cannot report any souls saved, but we believe that the Lord is working definitely in several lives. These people want to have some meetings. Pray for them and for us, that we may be used of His Spirit in speaking the word of life to many.

We are happy to report that one of the boys in our Sunday School class just recently accepted the Lord. He is showing in many ways real signs of spiritual growth. He loves the Word, and although he is still rather young, we have our eyes on him as a possible worker here in the future.

How vastly different are the two fields in which the Foreign Missionary Society of The Brethren Church is doing its work of making Christ known to the lost. In our African fields, the people are reaching out their hands wanting to know Christ, and diamonds there are being dug from the very depth of the earth. When it comes to South America, we are dealing with Roman Catholicism. That is another problem. The people of South America are as fully lost as are the souls in Africa. If we know the Scriptures, there can be no salvation in the idolatry of the Roman Catholic Church. If the idols of Roman Catholicism would save them, the idols of Africa and India will save. But South America forms one of the most difficult fields in the world. Indeed, by many, it has been pronounced the most difficult.

However, Christ did not send us forth to easy tasks. He sent us forth to preach the gospel to every creature, whether they will receive it or not. The Brethren Church is fulfilling its duty in doing this very thing. However, in spite of the opposition of Roman Catholic priests as they lead on the host of hell, in Argentina, some precious souls have been saved to be fashioned in His likeness on the day of His appearing; and we believe that in due time, if our Lord shall tarry, there shall be a great reaping from the seed that is being faithfully sown in the Argentines. One thing sure, if men and women do not know Christ in and around Rio Cuarto, it will not be the fault of Brother Dowdy or of Brother Maconaghy. Pray for these men. Doubtless, they sometimes feel like throwing up their hands and crying, "Oh, rock, rock, rock, when wilt thou open to my Savior?"

SELECTED MINUTES FROM THE AFRICAN FIELD COUNCIL

(Meeting Held at Bassai Station, Dec. 4-12, 1939)

(Note: Recently we received a complete copy of the Minutes of the African Field Council. They had an extended session, and it seems did more business than was ever reported to our office before, for a single meeting of the Council. The minutes are too long to publish fully here, although they would be of interest to many of our readers, showing the many, many problems with which our missionaries must wrestle. Their work is becoming more and more complicated. However, never was it being more greatly blessed than at the present time. We are selecting some of the more interesting items from the minutes of this last meeting of the Field Council—items that we believe will be appreciated by our readers who are keeping in close touch with the work on that field.—L.S.B.)

1. Ratification of Actions taken by Executive Committee.

Motion prevailed that the following actions taken by the Executive Committee be approved, that,

- A. Dr Gribble be appointed to the Miller Memorial Station until next Field Council Meeting, her appointment to take effect not later than Sept. 1.; that she be given residence at Yaloke during the absence of Dr. Taber for language study at Bozoum and subsequent chapel visitation in the Yaloke field.
- B. Building of dispensaries for which money has been received from the American Mission to Lepers be begun by July 31.

2. Furloughs due in 1940.

Motion prevailed that, deeply appreciating the spirit and feelings of the missionaries scheduled for furlough in 1940, we grant them their request to defer consideration of furlough until news concerning outgoing missionaries is received.

3. New Missionaries' Language Study.

Motion prevailed that in view of the present international situation and the urgent need on the field, we recommend to the Board that all approved missionary candidates postpone going to France for language study until their first furlough, and proceed directly to the field at the earliest possible date.

4. Field Treasurer.

Mr. Kliever was elected Field Treasurer.

5. Field Secretary.

Dr. Taber was elected Field Secretary.

6. Recommendations of Translation Committee.

Motion prevailed that the recommendations of the Translation Committee be approved, that,

- A. Mr. Kliever, Mrs. Taber and Mrs. Foster be appointed to this Committee.
- B. Miss Myers be appointed chairman.
- C. The books of Matthew in Banou, and John in Gbea, be paid for from the Translation Fund on hand, and the balance be disbursed to Bouca and Miller Memorial as a fund for translations.

7. Recommendations of Music Committee.

Motion prevailed that the recommendations of the Music Committee be approved, that,

- A. This committee be authorized to gather all possible information pertaining to proceedings necessary to and cost of transposition of hymn tunes adaptable to the needs of the native churches.
- B. This committee submit for consideration by Field Council a sheet of "helpful hints," being suggestions that we believe would aid in the worship services of music in the native church.
- C. Offer our willingness to assist in the Central Bible School in any way desired to aid evangelists in song leading, starting of tunes, and reading of music at least by position.
- D. Miss Bickel be appointed to this committee.

8. Recommendations of Medical Committee.

Motion prevailed that the recommendations of the Medical Committee be approved, that,

- A. Policy on medical care for missionaries.

We recommend:

- (a) That in order to avoid this policy making an unnecessarily heavy burden on general or special funds, we continue to dispense medicines for missionary use on the field, except quinine, from the station dispensaries.
  - (b) That in order to relieve the special demands this makes on Yaloke dispensary, we accept the offer of $10 a month from Bassai medical allowance.
  - (c) That a doctor make regular visits to all stations in the mission twice annually.
  - (d) That all missionaries desiring an examination should request it at the time of these visits.
  - (e) That all trips necessitated by the illness of a missionary be paid for out of the Medical Transportation Fund.
- B. Leper Work.
- We recommend:
- (a) That the leper dispensary at Yaloke be completed and equipped with the funds given for that purpose by the American Mission to Lepers; and that the administration be consulted concerning the establishment of a leper village in proximity to it;
  - (b) That, in view of the inadvisability for the present of building leper dispensaries at Bassai, Bellevue and Miller Memorial Stations, the money provided for that purpose be refunded to the American Mission to Lepers.
  - (c) That the Field Treasurer disburse the special funds on hand for leper work to the Yaloke dispensary. (Amount 1615.45 francs).

9. Recommendations of Special Automobile Committee.

Motion prevailed that the recommendations of the Special Automobile Committee be approved, that,

- A. For the present we charge 4½ cents a kilometer (2 francs unless exchange goes beyond 45 francs) on all mission autos except the Dodge truck; and that the truck as an experiment charge cost of gasoline plus 50%.
- B. Trips made because of mobilization by Dodge truck and the Bellevue Chevrolet be paid for out of general fund at the old rate (4c per kilometer) and that any compensation received from the government be placed in general fund.

10. Circumcision.

The Field Council resolved itself into a committee of the whole and discussed the problem of circumcision. The recommendation of the Committee of the whole was approved that the action of the Field Council under date of Nov. 3, 1926, continue to express our policy except for the circumcision of babies which may be performed by the mission doctors. The recommendation being, "That in order to bring about a higher Christian standard, we as a mission take no part in the circumcision of natives, except in cases when the medical authorities deem it wise for health's sake."

11. Recommendation of Property Committee.

Motion prevailed that the recommendation of the Property Committee be approved that, in view of the shortage of missionaries and the inadvisability of building the permanent houses at Miller Memorial Station, under present circumstances we advise the building of a three room mud house; to be provided for by the station funds.

12. Recommendations of Evangelistic Committee.

Motion prevailed that the recommendations of the Evangelistic Committee be approved, that,

- A. Due to the need of chapel visitation and village itineration in the Bassai-Bozoum field, and due to the shortage of missionaries at the present time, making it impossible to meet that need, and at the same time to continue the Central Bible School thru the entire year of 1940, we the Evangelistic Committee recommend the following:
  - (a) That Brother Jobson be permitted to spend the first six months of the year in chapel visitation and village itineration in the Bassai-Bozoum field.
  - (b) That during these months he superintend thru native foremen the erection of student dormitories for the Bible School.
  - (c) That plantations of peanuts, guinea corn and manioc be planted at the beginning of the rainy season to serve as the food supply for the students in 1941.
  - (d) That the Bible School term for the year 1940 begin July 1st and close the end of October.
  - (e) That during this term the students receive a monthly allowance of 12 francs 50 centimes, plus the sesame grain harvested this year, for the care of the plantations from July to October, and that beginning with the year 1941, the students receive no remuneration for the plantation work, it being hoped that the crops of 1940 will be sufficient for their needs as far as food is concerned.

- (f) That 3000 francs of the Native Workers Fund now on hand in the field treasury, be disbursed to the Bible School for the building of dormitories, making plantations and supporting the Bible School students this year, according to the above plan.
- (g) In addition to the above assistance given to the students from Bible School Funds, the churches sending them are encouraged to contribute up to 15 francs for married men and 7 francs 50 centimes for single men per month.
- B. We recommend that the balance of the Native Workers Fund not disbursed to the Bible School, be used for Bible conferences as shall later be agreed upon by the committee. (This balance being 2,266.75 francs.)
- C. That we continue to encourage the replacement of donations for native workers by two of the three projects approved last year, viz. chapel visitation and Bible conferences.
- D. That we discourage the contracting of debts; native to native, native to storekeepers, native to missionary, and the practice of a native loaning his entire salary to one of his friends one month for the return of the same favor the following month, on the basis of the verse, "owe no man anything but love." (Advance on pay already earned not included).

BOZOU M PRAYER AND PRAISE NOTES

By Mrs. Orville D. Jobson, Bozoum, Oubangui-Chari, F. E. A.

We praise the Lord for the privilege of itinerating in the many different tribes and villages during the dry season months. Many of the people are working for the government, but we are able to have services morning and evening, and usually have a good attendance.

Pray for our faithful evangelists who are being used of the Lord in winning many souls. Perhaps you would like to pray for them by name. Herewith are some of their names: Jean Noetimo, who has charge of the Bassai field; Noel, who so recently has opened a new work at Balboukoum; Pierre, who has charge of the different chapels in Karreland; Jean Boca, who is overseeing the younger teachers in Karreland; Joseph, who recently came to Bozoum to have charge of the work in our absence; and Philip, who has recently gone to M'Baïndi to have charge of the Bible School.

Pray for the Bible conferences that will be held at the different stations and chapels during the next few months.

Pray for the work among the women and girls here at Bozoum and the different villages. Just recently two of our Bible women have started village work with the women and girls, but at times it is most discouraging.

We praise the Lord for the number of prisoners who have accepted Jesus as their personal Savior. Remember them in prayer.

REHOBAM, THE AUTOCRAT

(1 Kings 11:43; 12:1-11)

Suggestions for the Leader

An autocrat is a selfish ruler who demands absolute control in the government. Rehoboam was this kind of a king. After Solomon's death, the kingdom divided into two parts. It has not been in the power of an evil to establish a lasting kingdom or government. An evil king makes monarchy a bad type of government. Instead of making reforms, Rehoboam inflicted hardships on the people.

The glory of the government cost the people money. They felt the burden under Solomon, and longed for deliverance. Rehoboam might have listened to the people and kept them together but he failed. Undue persecution and heavy taxation leads to revolution. In this story we see reckless youth plunging ahead, disregarding rights and feelings of others, and as a result a nation was torn apart.

1. The Heritage of Rehoboam. 1 Ki. 9:17-23; 12:4; 14:21.

Rehoboam had need for prayer for wisdom as well as did Solomon but he did not look to God. The national problem was to release the people of the demand of long hours for public work and the tax which discouraged raising food. Rehoboam had a mother who followed heathen gods. This is a great disadvantage for anyone. He failed, not so much because of handicaps but because he refused the advice of godly men. Our failure is certain if we trust in human wisdom or understanding. Trust God.

2. A Haughty Spirit. 1 Ki. 12:10; Proverbs 16:18.

After God builds some work, men frequently come to have charge of it as though its existence depended upon them. No man ought to get such an exalted idea of himself that he feels the work would fail without him. "A haughty spirit goeth before destruction." These words of his father were actually fulfilled in the son.

Rehoboam was born and reared in conditions of wealth and grandeur and had little regard for the poor and needy. How easy it is for us to forget the crying needs of those less fortunate than we; yet we should lend a helping hand.

3. The Vestige of Faith. 1 Ki. 12:22-24.

The division of the kingdom of Israel was the result of Solomon's sin and his son's foolishness. Jeroboam was selected to rule the northern kingdom, and had the promise of God's blessing if he would follow Him. Jeroboam did not take advantage of God's promise and the ten tribes departed from God.

Back in Judah, Rehoboam had counsel from God to do no harm to Israel. He never could get entirely away from his father's instruction. Something kept telling him to regard the God of his fathers.

4. The Ravages of Sin. 1 Ki. 14:22-28.

The devil can not control the machine of rebellion once he starts it moving. The people of Judah were far beyond their leader in sin. How does this remind us of the stand of our administration and the drinking question? It takes years of labor to build up a work of value but a few unsaved men can work havoc in a short time. Think of Davids work, and then how soon it fell to pieces! What happened in Israel can happen here. It has happened many places. There can be no agreement between believers and unbelievers.

Additional Scripture

Words of Solomon about foolish sons and about counsel: Prov. 10:1; 15:20; 17:25; 19:13; 11:14; 12:15; 15:22.

LIGHT ON TRUTH

By Bernard Schneider

THE NAKED TRUTH ABOUT SIN

"For the wages of sin is death." "But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it; for in the day that thou eatest thereof dying thou shalt die" (Literal Hebrew, Gen. 2:17). No teaching of the Bible is more evidently true. Man is on his way to the grave continually. However, there is more than physical death included in the judgment of sin. It includes spiritual death, and eternal separation from God.

About the most cruel means of torture we have ever heard of was one invented during the Dark Ages and used at the castle of the Hohen-Staufen in Wuertemberg. When political prisoners were taken to this castle they were cast into what appeared to be a fairly comfortable prison room below the castle. The prisoner would feel fairly safe for several days until he would notice one day that the room in which he was kept was gradually getting smaller, the walls drawing together closer and closer, until the terrified prisoner would usually lose his reason before he was finally crushed to death.

Even so does sin, gradually, but certainly crush its victim. How wonderful it would have seemed to a victim of the awful prison room, had some one come and opened the door in time. How gladly he would have left the cell of living death. No doubt he would have literally jumped at the chance of freedom. How wonderful it is to know that there is One who will open the prison door of sin, and set us free if we will only come out. Jesus said: "I am the door" and, "If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed" (Jn. 8:36). Is it not strange that men and women will not leave the prison of sin, but rather live in it, though they must die in it?

Grace Theological Seminary

Winona Lake, Ind.

THE THIRD ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

Since we were this year at a considerable distance from most of our own Brethren Churches, and our work was new in the local community, we were wondering somewhat about the attendance upon the graduation services. And in order to make it as easy as possible for friends from a distance to attend, both the Baccalaureate and graduation events were placed on the same day. We are glad to report that the attendance was most gratifying. Since the seminary chapel will not hold comfortably more than 175 people, we accepted the invitation of the Presbyterian Church of Winona Lake to use their building for both services. The main auditorium was well filled for the morning service, and in the evening the building was crowded, with quite a number standing in the back of the Sunday School auditorium. Many local friends who were present have commended the school for its spiritual, dignified and impressive services on this occasion.

Dr. Parley Zartmann, pastor of the church, led in the invocation at the Baccalaureate service and spoke for a few minutes in appreciation of the ministry of the seminary as he extended a cordial welcome on behalf of the congregation. Brother A. V. Kimmell, president of the seminary board, responded on behalf of the Trustees. The Scripture was read by Brother Herman W. Koontz, and the prayer was offered by Rev. Cloyce J. Pugh, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Akron, O., who received his master's degree from the seminary last year and from whose church two of the graduating class came. Special music was rendered by a student quartet composed of Robert Hill, Garner Hoyt, Robert Culver, and Glenn O'Neal. The sermon was delivered by Prof. Conard Sandy of the seminary who spoke ably and helpfully from the text in 1st Tim. 6:20-21. The closing prayer was offered by Prof. Homer A. Kent.

At the evening service, the academic procession moved from the seminary building down the hill to the church just as the sun was setting over the lake at the close of a perfect spring day. Dr. Harold C. Mason, formerly president of Huntington College and now pastor of the Free Methodist Church in Winona, led in the invocation. Bro. Russell D. Barnard, vice-president of the seminary board, made the official announcements for the year, Bro. A. D. Cashman read the Scripture, and Bro. Leo Polman led in the prayer. After special music by the seminary quartet, Dr. Louis S. Bauman delivered an impressive graduation address. Blaine Snyder, chairman of the senior class, then came to the platform and presented the class gift to the school, a fifty volume Devotional Commentary, which was received by Pres. McClain.

The honors for the class were then announced, cum laude to Miss Ruth Snyder, and magna cum laude to her brother, Mr. Blaine Snyder; and while they remained standing Prof. Kent spoke in recognition of their scholastic attainments.

The candidates were presented by Prof. Herman A. Hoyt, and the degrees and diplomas were conferred by Pres. McClain assisted by Profs. Kent and Sandy.

The conferring of degrees was followed by an ordination service with Bro. A. V. Kimmell presiding. Candidates for ordination were Mr. Henry Rempel and Mr. Blaine Snyder. Officiating ministers were Louis S. Bauman and Alva J. McClain. An unusual number of ministers present stood during the service, which closed with a solo by Mrs. Ralph Rambo and the benediction by Dr. Bauman.

One of the remarkable things about the graduating class is the number who are candidates for foreign missionary service. Under full appointment to sail for Africa as soon as passage can be secured are Miss Ruth Snyder and Bro. Robert Williams. To sail at a later date are Bro. Harold Dunning and his wife Marguerite Gribble Dunning. Counting also Mrs. Robert Williams, who has been a student in the Seminary, this makes a total contribution of five foreign missionaries from the seminary this year. It is the prayer of all concerned that this may be only an earnest of still greater foreign missionary interest at Grace Seminary in future years if the Lord should tarry.

The annual Senior Class retreat was held on Apr. 29 at Bethany Camp. After an evening meal together, the students and faculty gathered around the open fireplace for a faggot service led by Ralph Rambo. Pres. McClain spoke on "The Perfect Will of God and How to Find It for Your Life," and the remainder of the evening was spent in testimony to the grace and goodness of God. Such experiences are too precious to talk much about, but we could only wish that the many friends of the seminary could have been there to share in the unforgettable hour of fellowship.

The Middler-Senior Banquet was held on Wednesday evening at the Hotel Hays in Warsaw with between 50 and 60 present. Brother Jack Simmons, newly elected president of the student body, presided as the toastmaster. Henry Rempel, retiring student president, entertained with his melodious accordion, and Bro. Robert Culver led in a songfest. Special music was rendered by the ladies' quartet composed of Miss Mellick, Mrs. Dunning, Miss Miller, and Mrs. Umbaugh. Responding speakers were as follows: Pres. McClain for the faculty; Rev. A. V. Kimmell for the trustees; Rev. Cloyce J. Pugh for the alumni; Bob Hill for the Juniors, and Blaine Snyder for the Seniors. The devotional message was delivered by Prof. Kent, who called upon the students to stand in the gap created by the world's present desperate need. The evening was closed by singing the seminary song—"Grace That Is Greater Than All Our Sin."

OUR FIRST YEAR AT WINONA

With the graduation service, the seminary brought to an end a very happy and successful year, our first in the new location at Winona Lake. Judging from the expressions heard from both faculty members and students, everyone seems to be well satisfied with the situation here. Aside from the rather ridiculous attempt on the part of certain "brethren" to misrepresent the school, and which apparently injured no one but themselves, the relations of Grace Theological Seminary to the local community have been ideal. Teachers and gospel teams have been welcomed into the pulpits of the churches of both Winona Lake and Warsaw. Pres. McClain has been invited to speak of the seminary work before the Service Club of the city, and many of the business men have expressed an interest in the ideals and program of the institution.

We have been particularly gratified with the fine relations which have been maintained between the seminary and the Free Methodist owners of the building in which quarters have been leased. Occupying adjoining floors of the same building, there is always a possibility for friction to arise between two such groups, but there has been absolutely nothing of this kind, and the seminary has finished the year with no better friends than these good people who have gone out of their way more than once to make our stay pleasant.

Another thing which pleasantly surprised all has been the many opportunities for practical service in the case of the students, as we did not expect much along this line for some time. However, already several students have actually secured small churches, and others are in prospect. Pastors of different denominations have cooperated graciously in locating places. Two of the students have been called to Christian churches near Winona, and another has found a United Presbyterian Church up in the northeast corner of the state. This work is good for both churches and students. We now have in mind opening services in an unused church building not far from here, and people in the surrounding community have expressed a real interest in the project, saying they would like to have a Sunday School started there.

The seminary also has made many friends among those in charge of the Winona Lake Assembly. We are regarded as one of the valued institutions of Winona, and our announcements are to appear in the June bulletins. The Lord has been most gracious in all these matters.

STUDENT MARRIAGES

On the morning of Sat., May 11, at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Conard Sandy, Mr. Garner Hoyt and Miss Myna Morrill were united in marriage. Brother Curtis Morrill, brother of the bride, read the service. Appropriate Christian hymns were rendered by Mrs.

Harold Dunning. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel Morrill, and the groom by his brother-in-law, Robert Culver.

Miss Laura Miller, recently a member of the faculty of Bob Jones College, and Arnold Kriegbaum, member of the 1940 seminary graduating class, were united in marriage on May 10 at the First Brethren Church of Fort Wayne, Ind., the father of the bride reading the service. After a trip through the west, they will be at home to friends in Los Angeles, Calif., where Brother Kriegbaum is pastor of the Third Brethren Church.

At the Middler-Senior Banquet, President McClain announced the coming marriage of Henry Rempel to Mrs. Laura Mahan of Canton, O. The ceremony will take place on June 4, after which they will spend several weeks traveling in the west, and then be at home to their friends in Flora, Ind., where Brother Rempel is pastor of the Grace Brethren Church.

Professor Sandy's Relation to the Seminary

Since Brother Sandy's year with the seminary has recently closed, the administration feels that a public statement of his relations to the school should be made at this time. Last August, just prior to the opening of the seminary year, the board had expected that Bro. Homer A. Kent would be ready to take up full time work as the third member of the faculty. However, Bro. Kent did not feel at that time that he could leave his pastorate, but indicated that he would be ready to do this in the fall of 1940. In this emergency, Bro Sandy, who had just returned from abroad, was contacted very providentially and graciously agreed to serve in the interim of one year. Both students and faculty have been blessed by the association of Brother and Sister Sandy in this work, and desire to express this public tribute for their spiritual influence and ministry.

Prof. and Mrs. Sandy will spend the early part of the summer among Ohio Brethren churches in Bible conference work and showing pictures taken on his recent trip to Europe and the Holy Land. Later they will return to Winona Lake where Bro. Sandy will take graduate courses in the Summer School of Theology. Churches or organizations desiring his ministry can reach him by addressing him at Winona.

Professor Hoyt's Ministry

Professor Herman A. Hoyt conducted several Bible conferences in Pennsylvania during the week of Mar. 8-17, speaking four times at Uniontown, twice at Martinsburg, twice at Juniata at an interdenominational Bible conference, four times at Listie, and once in the newly organized Brethren Church at Vinco. At the special Easter services held in the Christian Church of Talma, Ind., Professor Hoyt brought the messages. Over the week-end of Apr. 19-21 he delivered several messages to churches in northeast Ohio, being guest speaker in the First Brethren Churches of Greensburg, O., where Rev. Harold H. Etling, a former student and graduate of Grace Seminary, now serves. At the annual Sunday School Convention of Kosiosco County, Prof. Hoyt was one of the guest speakers. And in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Robert Ashman, he filled the pulpit of the First Brethren church at Peru, Ind., on May 5.

During the summer he will be speaking and teaching at Portis, Kan.; Beaver City, Nebr.; Garwin, Ia.; Buena Vista, Va.; Roanoke, Va.; Hollins, Va.; Covington, Va.; a Young People's Conference under the auspices of the Labonah League of Dayton, O.; Flora, Ind.; Williamsburg, Ia.; Hagerstown, Md.; Southeast District Bible Conference of Brethren Churches, Winchester, Va.; Waynesboro, Pa.; and First Brethren Church of Philadelphia, Pa.

CORPORATION MEMBERSHIP

While the matter has been explained several times, both at annual meetings of the seminary corporation and in publications, the Executive Committee feels that the qualifications of corporation membership should be stated again at this time.

It is doubtless clear to all that a contribution of $5.00 in a single gift makes the donor eligible for membership for a period of one year. In order to avoid the confusion of having memberships beginning and ending at many different dates, the rule was made that all such donors within any fiscal year would become members of the corporation for the period of the following year. Thus, corporation members for the current year are those who contributed during the last fiscal year ended Aug. 1, 1939, and their membership began on that date, which was the time of the annual meeting.

In order to simplify the task of keeping records, the Executive Committee at its recent meeting advanced the beginning of the fiscal year to Aug. 1. This means that to continue membership or to become members for the coming year, which will begin with the annual meeting on Aug. 28, 1940, contributions must reach the Winona office on or before Aug. 1. This change is announced especially for the information of those churches which have indicated their purpose to take a seminary offering during this summer, and also for friends who have made pledges.

In brief: Contributions received on or before the end of the fiscal year, Aug. 1, will make the donors eligible for corporation membership for one year beginning at the annual meeting, Aug. 28.

INCORPORATION IN THE STATE OF INDIANA

The seminary is glad to announce that the Articles of Incorporation for the school in the State of Indiana were approved and filed on Apr. 29, 1940, authorizing its operation as an institution of higher theological education, and the granting of degrees and diplomas. This step, of course, was made necessary by the move from Akron to Winona Lake, and was authorized by the Ohio Corporation of the Seminary at the last annual meeting.

The annual meetings of both corporations will take place on Aug. 28, at Winona Lake, at which time all members of the Ohio corporation will become also members of the Indiana corporation.

CANARIES THAT TWITTERED

They that loved the Lord spake often one to another.
Read Mat. 3:16-18.

There is a story of a canary that was put into a cage of sparrows; and soon, its song all gone, it was twittering like a sparrow.

One vital reason why a child of God should be faithful in church attendance and in fellowship with Christians is that he is thereby kept keyed up to his natural note. Few are the saints who can survive complete immersion in the world. Ere they know it, they have lost their clear, sweet song of faith, and are twittering like the world's sparrows.

When a Christian can not be distinguished from a worldling, then he has lost his witness.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO GRACE THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Apr. 1 to May 15

With the following report, which brings the record of gifts up to May 15, it is a real satisfaction to say that all running expenses for the school year just ended have been met fully and there will be a balance of at least $500.00 to carry the small summer expense and start us out this fall. (No salaries are paid during the months of June, July and August.) However, it should be understood that the reason for this balance is that the seminary has received during the past year the income from the Laura Busey estate, of which a complete report will be rendered later. Thus it will be clear that contributions plus student fees have practically equaled the current expenses for the year. The trustees, teachers and students join in thanksgiving to God for His faithfulness in providing so bountifully through the many friends who have prayed and given.

It should be pointed out, however, that the school has been operating with only three full-time teachers, and a fourth will be necessary in order to insure full recognition for our work. The balance reported above, therefore, should be regarded as an asset to be applied toward this end as soon as possible. We have determined to incur no indebtedness for operating expenses, and consequently believe that the existence of this extra money indicates that God is opening the way to complete the seminary faculty in the near future. We ask definite prayer to this end.

A Vacation With a Purpose

A bigger and better camp is in store for our BRETHREN YOUTH this year—(our 2nd). One only needs to ask any of those who attended last year if they had a great time. From every indication, our Brethren youth can hardly wait until it is time for our national camp. They, with the director, are anticipating one of the best camps it is possible to have. And we mean just that!

Five of the finest summer cabins care for 60 boys and 5 counselors.

National Brethren Youth Speakers

DR. V. C. KELFORD, of Waterloo, Iowa, nationally known Bible teacher, expositor, evangelist and author will be the prominent youth speaker during the seven days of our National Brethren Youth Camp. God has signally blest this man's ministry throughout America and Canada. Dr. Kelford has conducted conferences and evangelistic meetings in some of the largest churches in this country. Fortunate is the young man or young woman who will have the privilege to sit at the feet of this great preacher, one of the greatest living today, who has brought joy and blessings to thousands as he preaches on that wonderful subject of "GOD'S MARVELOUS GRACE." Young and old will want to hear him.

DR. HARRY RIMMER, President of the Research Science Bureau, Inc., who recently was hailed into a New York court because his bureau offered $1000.00 to anyone discovering and proving a scientific mistake in the Bible. That started something. Dr. Rimmer says: "I have seldom seen such excitement as the daily press displayed over this matter. There were headlines in every paper in America which subscribes to the Associated Press Service; one New York paper published a two-page 'spread' in its Sunday edition; and the Radio News sent transcriptions to its multiplied scores of stations-customers. News magazines such as Newsweek, ran columns on the issue and the Bible got more publicity than could have been purchased with millions of dollars . . . The Bible emerged from this unique trial with shining glory undimmed by the venomous attacks of unbelief." It will be a real treat to hear Harry Rimmer tell his story!

OF COURSE ALL BRETHREN YOUTH will have the privilege to hear The National Brethren Bible Conference speakers in addition to these mentioned above.

REV. AND MRS. LEO POLMAN, are the directors of The National Brethren Youth Camp again this year. Everything has been considered to make this the most helpful, spiritual refreshment possible for youth.

They will be ably assisted by a staff of workers that have proved themselves in their respective fields of service.

CONFERENCE AND THE NATIONAL BRETHREN YOUTH CAMP,

CREATING EFFECTIVE MISSIONARY EMPHASIS

The average church is confronted with a definite lack of missionary zeal. Professedly its membership has entered into a prayer partnership; but those who pray regularly and earnestly for the work on the field are relatively few in comparison with those who intercede if they do not forget it (or even perhaps do so seldom or not at all). When an offering for missions is taken, many give liberally, but few sacrificially; and if an appeal is made for recruits for the field, the response is generally slow.

Why is it that the average church member will pray far more earnestly for a sick member of his family than for souls on the verge of an eternal death? Why is it he gladly saves more sacrificially for a vacation trip or a week-end at the beach than for the eternal pleasure of others for whom Christ died? Why is it that when our Lord said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel," the average young person says, "I have not been called to go," but never asks himself whether he has been called to stay at home? Why is it that when men are so badly needed on the field most of the volunteers are women, willing to perform masculine duties, if necessary, to spread the Gospel, while the men look on and say in action, "Lord, here am I, send my sister?"

Perhaps we have failed to impart adequate knowledge of the needs and problems. Workers from the field testify of an increased burden because of their greater familiarity with conditions. The fact that girls generally receive more missionary instruction than boys and respond more readily to a "call" testifies to the close connection between information and interest.

Perhaps we have not portrayed the facts vividly enough to make the heart thrill at the very mention of the word "missions."

Perhaps we have neglected the opportune time to present a certain phase of missions. Sometimes we are slow to realize that at each stage of a child's development God has given certain characteristics to be used to His glory. The church which allows its youth to attain manhood before stimulating missionary interest does them a great injustice.

We need to arouse in the church such definite and personal missionary interest and enthusiasm that prayers, gifts and lives may be volunteered for missionary purposes. To attain that end:

1. Provide adequate missionary material.
1. Present missions through every possible medium

(Bible School, Christian Endeavor, Daily Vacation Bible School, etc.).

3. Impart information in an appealing and attractive form.

I. Missionary Material

A. INDEXING. As soon as material is received, it should be indexed for quick reference. Each article should be listed in an acquisition book by number, kind (i.e. whether story, picture or curio), country; phase (i.e. religion, industry, home life, etc.); and age for which it is most suitable. A filing case may also be used for this purpose, each article appearing under as many of the above heads as desired.

B. A MISSIONARY LIBRARY. This should include all countries and contain the following information:

1. Interesting, vivid, accurate stories of all kinds—incidents from the field; stories portraying natural surroundings, customs, conditions, or any other phase of foreign life.

2. Lives of outstanding or pioneer missionaries—Livingstone, Moffat, Taylor, etc., as well as the lives of all our own missionaries.

3. Accurate pictures, mounted on cardboard and filed under various heads in labeled envelopes. Packets of pictures of the different countries, showing home life, industry, etc., can be secured from The Natural Geographic Society, Hubbard Memorial Hall, Washington, D. C. The number of packets available for any country, the classification, and the price, can be ascertained by writing them.

4. Looseleaf notebook containing methods of presenting missions. Plans for children, and for adults, and those adapted to all ages, can be kept separate by thumb index tabs. New ideas may be typed or pasted on the sheets and filed in their proper place.

C. A MISSIONARY MUSEUM. This will not involve a great deal of time or expense if all the departments of the Bible School cooperate. Wood carvings of many interesting objects can be procured at low cost from the missionaries of many countries. Inexpensive kewpie dolls, painted the proper color and dressed in native costume, look quite characteristic. With a little thought and effort other things can be modeled accurately from pictures. The Bible School will take on new life and will certainly throb with missionary enthusiasm if each class gathers material from a different country. The curios, when arranged attractively in showcases, will be quite instructive as well as helpful and effective for use in the various departments on Missionary Sunday.

Care must be taken that all material, whether stories or curios, be accurate and geographically correct, and so arranged as to portray real life in these countries. First impressions are usually the most lasting, and a wrong concept cannot be easily rectified.—G. A.

"Uncovering A Snare"

By Gene Farrell

A great deal of unnecessary heartache might be spared us if we would get in the habit of taking God at His Word. When Omniscience makes a blanket statement concerning the hearts of men, we do not actively question it, but we prove by our lives that we do not believe it.

The Word passes judgment upon all men after this manner: "There is no difference"—and we affirm with our lips that this is true—but in the next breath we put the lie to our affirmation by claiming the right to make differences in people. "I never thought that he or she would do that," reveals the fact that we do make exceptions to the rule, and by so doing uncover an unconscious unreality in our faith.

The Holy Spirit abhors all confidence in the flesh, and rightly so, for He seeks merely to establish us in the only true Hope, the Lord Jesus Christ. The grief that came to Christ, when all earthly friends forsook Him, would have been intolerable had He not known "what was in man." It was Christ who had said, "For from within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, covetousness, deceit, pride, etc." It was Christ who had refused to heed Peter's, "Lord, I will follow thee even unto prison and unto death," for it was He who had inspired Jeremiah to write: "The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked"—and He knew that Peter's dependence rested in impulse and personal morality rather than the will and performance of the Holy Spirit. "Thou art Simon" (a man ignorant of your own limitations) said Jesus; "Thou shalt be called Cephas (a man no longer wise in your own conceit, but filled with the Holy Spirit, Whom you will receive at Pentecost).

Happy is that Christian who has allowed the Word of God to deliberately disillusion him to the virtues of his fellowmen. God says, "There is no difference"—rather a cruel and sweeping judgment sometimes—but omniscience has a way of outdistancing all finite competition, and, in the end, if we are sincere in our quest for knowledge, will bring us to a humble acceptance of His Word.

The test comes when our dependence (whether conscious or otherwise) in another person is shattered through some failure on their part. Will we seek to justify their failure to live up to our ideal, or will we see in it that inevitable weakness of the flesh which God's Word so implicitly prophesies? Will we judge them for what they have done, or will we commit them unto Him that judgeth righteously, knowing that "thou that judgest doest the same things?" If we, in the crisis, will let the Word of God disillusion us to all confidence in people, irrespective of their affinity or position, then our lives will be freed of all hurt and the spirit of love will be restored—yes, transfigured in contrast to its former state when it emanated from a confidence in the flesh rather than "Christ in you the hope of glory."

It is not that we become cynical or suspicious of men—never that, for no one could be as mean as we ourselves have been shown to be by the Holy Spirit—but rather that we come to exalt the fact of sin, as revealed in God's Word, above our own ideas of people. Experimentally we come to accept the fact that Christ died even for man's best, and that "all our righteousnesses" (even the most moral man we know) "are as filthy rags." We learn that the good is the greatest enemy of the best; and our confidence shifts from man to what God can do for man, as all failure is seen to be the result of unbelief, not some deliberately cruel action.

So then, when we make an estimation of people let us not reckon in terms of what they do, but what they are, or could be, by the grace of God. There must be no false illusion or misplaced confidence if we are to walk in the paths of peace. Our love must be impartial, for that which "is from above is without partiality," and it cannot be so if we are knowing men "after the flesh." Men appear different, but it is only by the grace of God that they are so. Actually, they are the same—"there is no difference." The seed of sin is planted alike in every heart. In some men it is in full flower (adultery, theft, murder, etc.). In others it is in the bud (covetousness, lasciviousness, blasphemy, etc.). And there are some very moral folk in whom it is only a thin blade, barely visible to the eye, (evil thoughts, deceit, pride, foolishness, etc.). Morality, apart from the grace of God, (meaning the cross) is moral accident. Morality, by the grace of God, is the result of Calvary. In either case the credit goes to Him, for the one is the result of Providence and the other of His sacrifice.

Finally, who are we that we can feel hurt, considering the way we have hurt Christ on the cross of Calvary! When Paul said, "Henceforth let no man trouble me," did he not have this in mind? What if Christ had considered the sins of men so repulsive that He would have refused to bear them in His sinless Body? Even so we must be renewed continually in the spirit of our mind that we may be able to bear the infirmities of the weak, "taking heed lest we fall." No man could ever fail us in anything like the degree in which we failed to meet the requirements of a holy God, and lo! rather than judge us for our failure, He judged His only begotten Son!

"Christ died for our sins" (1 Cor. 15:3) — not merely for those mean, contemptible wrongs which we have committed, but for the very best that is in us. The very best in any person who is outside of Christ is filthy and obnoxious and sinful in God's sight (Isa. 64:6). We can never appreciate the greatness of the grace of God in providing our salvation until we see sin in its true light.

OUR BOY'S and GIRL'S VERY OWN PAGE

KOBE, THE LITTLE MISSIONARY

By Mrs. Harold Dunning

About 20 years ago, out in Africa, a little girl named Marguerite lived with her mother and daddy who were missionaries. They lived in a bamboo, mud, and grass house which was all one big room inside. The mother and daddy had put up a tent inside the house to make a bedroom. There was no kitchen in the house because the cooking was done over sort of a campfire. There was an African "boy", a young man, really, who was the cook. The mother, daddy, and little girl were all very happy, even though they did not have the best kind of a house to live in, because they loved Jesus and were spending their time telling others about Him and His love for them.

One day a little boy about nine or ten years old came to the missionaries' house and asked if he could stay there and work. There did not seem to be much for a boy his size to do, but he begged so hard to stay that finally the little girl's mother said he could be the cook's helper. His chores would be to keep the teakettle full, bring wood, help wash and wipe dishes, and any other little thing the older boy needed him to do.

Kobe (pronounced Koebee), for that was this little boy's name, seemed to be very happy. Every day he was told about the Lord Jesus, Who left His beautiful home in heaven to come down to earth that He might die, so that Kobe, Marguerite, and any other boy or girl, man or woman, could be with Him in His beautiful home, heaven, some day. Kobe was told that everybody, because of sin and wickedness, was on his way to hell; but that because Jesus loved us all so much that He died for us, anyone who would believe in Jesus and accept His death in the place of his own would be saved. Kobe was told that to be saved meant that when he died, or when Jesus came back, he did not need to be afraid because he was safe from hell and sin and would go to be with Jesus Who loved him.

Little Kobe had not been at the mission very long when he came to the little girl's mother one day, saying, "Madame, I want to go home."

"But why?" she questioned, "Aren't you happy here?" Her heart was a little heavy because everyone had come to love little Kobe, and hated to think of losing him. Besides, no one knew for sure whether or not he understood the good news about God's love for him.

"Yes, madame," he answered, "I like it here a lot, but my heart is hungry to see my own people. I am so very lonely and homesick. If I can't see my people soon I'll die, I'm sure. Later I will return to you."

Really, he did look so lonesome and forlorn that it was not hard to believe he could actually die from homesickness. It was with sad hearts they all told him goodbye, and said they would pray for him that he would have a safe journey as he made the many days' trip back to his own village. Everyone had a feeling that he would not be seen again, and they were right; because little Kobe never came back.

Several months later three little boys came to the station. They were tired, because they had had a long trip, but they did not want to rest. They wanted to know only one thing: how could they learn to die without being afraid?

"Did you ever see any one die that way, without fear?" they were asked.

"Oh, yes! When Kobe came back he was not well. Later he became very sick and finally died. Everybody was around mourning and wailing because we knew it would not be long before his spirit would leave his body. But Kobe said, 'Don't do that. I'm not afraid. I'm going to a beautiful place where all is good, and where there is only love.' We asked him to tell us where it was and how he knew all this was really true. He told us it was because somebody he called 'Jesus' loved him, but that he couldn't explain it to us. He said if we would come up here to the mission you would tell us everything we need to know so we can die without fear. Can you tell us? Will you, please? We have never seen anyone else die like that. None of our people have ever seen anyone die who was not terribly afraid. We all know we must go some place, but no one but Kobe ever had a guide to take him to the right place. We all have to go alone, and we are so afraid. Please, please, tell us about this Jesus person."

Of course, you know, it was with very joyful hearts that the missionary told these little boys about Jesus, Who would not only show them the way, but Who is the Way to God and heaven (Jn. 14:6). The hearts of the missionaries were singing praises to God, not only because of the privilege of telling the wonderful gospel story to these boys, but because they knew that little Kobe had understood after all, and that they would see him sometime in heaven.

Boys and girls, little Kobe was a real missionary. You, too, can be little missionaries for Jesus right where you are. Kobe was a missionary in his own home among his own little friends; and the Lord Jesus wants to use you, too, to tell your little friends that He died to save them. Of course, if you have never given your little heart, all black with sin, to the Lord to have it washed white as snow, you must do that first. Then you can be a really, truly missionary every day, any place, for Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S TOPIC

FOR JUNE 23, 1940

Asa, The Monarch Who Relied On God

(1 Kings 15:9-24)

Suggestions for the Leader

Since Asa is not well known, be sure to urge all speakers to consider the Scripture dealing with their topics. Really this is a topic on faith. It is a common subject between the two Testaments. Faith is one thing that unites the Old and New Testaments.

The phrase, "Asa did that which was right in the eyes of the Lord" tells us much. Some men did evil. Asa's biography has many good things for us today. In time of great need, Asa rose to a height of faith. If needs turn us to God, let them come. When Asa's faith wavered, failure followed. Our aim tonight is to see how we might be more consistent in respect to our dependence on God. We not only gain eternal life by faith, but keep on living by faith day by day.

1. Religious Reforms. 2 Chron. 14:2-5; 15:8-13.

Reforms do show the intent of the heart. Good kings had to destroy the idols and encourage true worship. Asa had to destroy the idols twice. The weeds that grow in the garden indicate we cannot stop fighting them. Reforms ought to be more than negative. Asa helped the condition by renewing the altars of God.

Christian living requires a choice and an effort on our part to avoid sin. It is rowing against the current of the world. Reforms without a converted heart will accomplish little. Our main business is to lead men to Christ and then reforms will be of value.

2. Military Victory. 2 Chron. 14:9-12.

Asa did have an army for defence but only God could rescue him from the enemy. God uses small things dedicated to Himself. Asa could go out in the name of the Lord because he had done the will of the Lord. When God fights for us we can rest in Him. Asa rested in God. How much Poland, Norway or other countries would give for the promise that God would drive out the invaders.

Spiritually we have a battle. The enemy that comes against us would do more harm than earthly rulers. However victory comes from the Lord.

3. The Failure of Faith. 2 Chron. 16:1-10.

Asa lost his grip on God's promises when he began to fear men (Heb. 13:6). He was in trouble with Israel. This was trouble with his own people. We might meet enemies successfully but fail in trusting God in dealing with our own problems. In haste Asa relied on his own schemes and plans. Satan would have men turn away from God. No real Christian has a good time following the devil. Our victory in Christ will come through yieldedness to Him.

4. Limited Faith. 2 Chron. 14:6-7.

Asa depended upon God to rescue him from the enemy, but started building defenses as though God could not keep him safe. Many Christians believe God must save them from sin but do not trust Him for any keeping power (1 Pet. 1:5). Asa did start off acceptably but was led off the path.

Our venture for Christ ought to be in new fields and not to be content to hold the fort. Let us try greater work than has been done before. It is not too late to seek for a vision of victory in a great revival in the church now.

5. Instances of Faith in God to Deliver Independently of Numbers.

1. Jonathan (1 Sam. 14:6) and, the remnant (Isa. 25:9).

How did Gideon prove God's power over the enemy host?

6. Faith's Limits for Christians:

1. In prayer: Mt. 21:22; Jn. 14:14; 15:7; Jas. 1:6; 4:3; 1 Jn. 5:14, 15; Eph. 3:20.

2. In service: Phil. 4:13; Eph. 3:20.

3. In Life: 2 Cor. 2:14; Rom. 6:11-14; 8:1-4.

Questions

1. What does it mean to have no confidence in the flesh? Phil. 3:3-10.

2. What does carnally minded mean? Rom. 8:6-13.

Junior-Intermediate C. E. Topic for June 16

Miss Miriam Gilbert, Editor

Theme for Children's Day—CHILDREN OF THE BIBLE.

By Mabel Donaldson

To the Leaders:

Put the word children on the board down a column. As the people give their topics, fill in the rest of the word which is the name of their topics.

"C" — Christ — Born at Bethlehem (Lk. 2:1-7).

Visited by the shepherds and wise men (Lk. 2:8-20).

Hidden from Herod in Egypt (Mt. 2:13-15).

A child in Nazareth. (Mt. 2:19-23).

A boy found in the temple. (Lk. 2:41-52).

"H" — Handmaid to Naaman's wife — Read about how she proved helpful to her master in II Ki. 5:1-19.

"I" — Isaac — How was his early life used as a trial of his father's faith in God? Gen. 22:1-4

"L" — Lad who helped Jesus with a miracle.

Mt. 14:13-23.

Mt. 6:30-46.

Lk. 9:10-17.

Jn. 6:1-15.

"D" — David — He was born at Bethlehem. He was the youngest of Jesse's eight sons, of the tribe of Judah, and grew up as a shepherd in his father's field. Early in his youth he was brought to the court of Saul to soothe the troubled spirit of the king by playing upon the harp; and he was made Saul's armor bearer. He became great friends with Saul's children, especially Jonathan. When David was quite young, he proved he was very smart. Read 1 Sam. 17: 31-58.

"R" — Rhoda — Her name means "rose-bush," and she was a maid, a damsel in the house of Mary, the mother of John. She did much for the early church. Read about her in Acts 12:5-19.

"E" — Esau — A twin who deceived his father. How do you suppose he felt after it was all over? Gen. 25:24-34.

"N" — Nazarene — Only one child in the Scripture was referred to as a Nazarene, and he did not get the title until he was a man. However, even in the Old Testament it was predicted that he was to be called this name. Read about the fulfillment of this prophecy in Mt. 2:23. Can you guess the child's right name?

Conclusion — Just as we begin and end our study with Christ, so should all boys and girls and young people begin their life with him as soon as possible, in order that they may end their life with Him, the giver of eternal life. If you have not already started this eternal life with Christ, will you accept Him as your personal Savior, now so that He may begin a good work in you?

JUNIOR-INTERMEDIATE C. E. TOPIC

By Mabel Donaldson

Theme: MOTHERS OF THE BIBLE

Suggestions to the Leader:

Invite the Mothers of the church to your meeting. Decorate your room with pictures of great mothers of the world and some Bible mothers, if possible. Have some poems on "Mother" to be read between the topics and perhaps some special music too.

Give each member of your society something to do, either give a topic, read a poem, or even welcome the mothers and tell them where to sit. Their mothers will be proud of them for their cooperation in making your meeting so helpful.

Topics to be given out.

Ask each participant to study the Bible passage given and to include its contents in his talk, as well as other suggestions which he might learn about the "Bible mother" from religious books and magazines.

1. Sarah—Her name means "princess." She was the wife of Abram. When God changed his name to Abraham he changed Sarai's name to Sarah. She was the mother of Isaac and died at the age of 127. She was a subject of special promises. Her son was the one whose father was willing to offer him as a burnt offering to God. Read about her in Gen. 17:15, 19; Gen. 18:9-13; Gen. 20:2, 14, 18.

2. Rebekah—Her name means "enchaining." She was the daughter of Bethuel, sister of Laban, wife of Isaac, and mother of Jacob and Esau (twins). She persuaded Jacob, her favorite, to obtain Isaac's blessing by practicing a deceit. She died before Isaac and was buried in Abraham's tomb. Her story is found in Gen. 24; Gen. 25:24-34; Gen. 27.

3. Hannah—Her name means "grace." She was the pious wife of Elkanah, and the mother of the prophet Samuel who was given to her in answer to prayer. She was very brave and gave her son back to God to work for him. 1 Sam. 1:1-28; 1 Sam. 2:1-11; 1 Sam. 2:18-21.

4. Mary—Her Hebrew name was Miriam and means "bitterness." She was the mother of Jesus, wife of Joseph, and cousin of Elizabeth. As the mother of our Lord she will always be "blessed among women." Read about her and her work in Mt. 1:16, 17, 20; Mt. 2:11; Mt. 13:55; Mt. 27:56, 61; Mt. 28:1; Mk. 6:3.

5. Widow of Nain—Find out how Jesus changed her sadness to gladness in Luke 7:11-18.

6. Salome—Her name means "peaceful." She is the wife of Zebedee and the mother of the disciples James and John. She loved the Lord and was present at the crucifixion. What else did she do according to Mk. 15:40; Mk. 16:1; Mt. 20:20-28.

Just For Fun—How many can you C. E.'ers guess?

1. Which Bible mother stooped to trickery?
2. Which one desired big things for her sons?
3. Which one was taught by her son?
4. Which one gave her child to a priest to raise?
5. Which mother received her son the second time from God?
6. Which one of these mothers was the oldest?

List all the good qualities of these Bible mothers and those of your own mothers. Someone has said "In the middle of MOTHERS you can find OTHER." (M—other—S). This was true of all the Bible mothers on your list.

Send all society problems which you would like to have discussed to your news editor, Miss Grace Allhouse, 3326 S. Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind., and they will be referred to one who knows the ins and outs of C. E. for the ages found in your society.

Question: How can we get more young people to pray in the pre-prayer period and in the C. E. prayer meeting?

Answer: This is one of the difficult things to do, but the right methods will solve the problem.

One society I know of personally is a regular beehive of activity and prayer. The room usually is packed. During prayer there are no "painful pauses," but one after another offers prayer. This society has

The Executive Officers of the Indiana State Brethren Bible Conference, met recently at Berne, Ind., to arrange for the annual conference which will be held in the First Brethren Church of Fort Wayne, June 18-20. Brethren churches and delegates will be present from Ohio, Michigan, and Indiana. Last year over 300 attended this conference, and over 500 are expected this year. Throughout the conference the Eureka Jubilee Singers, concert and radio artists, will be featured for the musical part of the conference. Sessions will be held morning, afternoon and evening. Outstanding Bible teachers and preachers are being invited.

The Juniata Brethren Church, Pennsylvania, recently closed a Bible conference with Walter Hughes of selected real consecrated people as officers; also they have the same kind of superintendents in charge. This always should be the case. They hold what is called a power house meeting every Tuesday night at some C. E. home for prayer and Bible study. Those who are really spiritually inclined attend and the number can be increased by privately inviting some less interested.

Each Sunday night always announce and invite to the pre-prayer service for the next Sunday night. Constantly reminding will eventually bring results. Have a different one of the prayer meeting committee in charge of the pre-prayer service each Sunday night. Individual members should be invited into the pre-prayer meeting if they do not come of their own accord, thus increasing your attendance. They will soon catch the import of the meeting.

A real live pre-prayer leader will so present the needs that each will want to offer a prayer for some of the things suggested. A real good pre-prayer meeting will start the power that will carry over into the regular C. E. prayer service that follows.

A good C. E. prayer meeting leader can ask for requests for prayer. If there is a hesitancy in leading out with prayer, the leader can ask each different member to pray for one of the requests, naming the one for each individual to pray for. Each week ask one or more of the more timid ones to take one of the requests. Do this for several weeks. It will stimulate prayer and overcome timidity usually present in young people.

Getting young people to pray may be difficult, but if you will follow the above suggestions, I am sure they will work.

Prayer is the power that moves the arm of God our heavenly Father in your behalf. Do not fail to use it.—A. H. KENT, V. Pres.

Toronto, Canada as speaker. On a recent Sunday there were four accessions to the church by letter. Pastor Ernest Pine reports that since then two have made public, firsttime confession of Christ as Savior. The church is also making improvements on the property, having just put in a beautiful new hardwood floor and installed new pews.

A Prayer Request for Mrs. Grant McDonald, wife of the pastor of the Compton, Calif. Church, was published in this column several weeks ago. At that time Mrs. McDonald was very seriously ill. Contents of a card just received from her follow: "I want to thank you for the prayer request placed in the 'Herald' in my behalf. The Lord has been wonderfully answering prayer, for I can be up part of the time and even attend services. Just now I am on a ranch near San Diego for a complete rest. The doctor has even been surprised at the response, but we are not surprised who know the power of Him Whom we trust."

Rittman, Ohio: "Praise God for the largest communion service this church has ever had in its history (May 12)." This church of which Bro. L. L. Grubb is pastor, reports confessions and baptisms almost every week.

Harrah, Wash.: The Sunday School attendance is on the increase. May 5, a peak of 104 in attendance was reported.

The Brethren Church of Ankenytown, Ohio enjoyed the ministry of Bro. Conard Sandy during the week of May 20-26. On seven consecutive nights Bro. Sandy presented stereopticon lectures on his recent trip to Palestine and the Near East. There was an average nightly attendance of 70 and on Sunday there were over 100 in services both morning and evening. The pastor, Bro. Robert Culver, who has heretofore been on the field only on week-ends, has now with his family established his residence in the local parsonage.

ISRAEL WON'T NEED HELP MUCH LONGER

These are the days when opportunities are passing away with a speed that is breath taking. Nations are disappearing in a few days. Peoples that have stood alone as a separate country for hundreds of years are being crushed and conquered in a week of time. These are the days in which great things are happening for Israel as a nation. God is overturning the nations to shake loose His people from their anchors among the nations so that they will return to their own land. Soon they will be poured out into Palestine. It will be too late then to try to win them for Christ. Even before they get there the privilege to preach Christ to them may be taken from us.

Today, while you can do something to show your love for Israel, is your opportunity. God has given us a great and open door to 250,000 Jews now living in Los Angeles, Calif., to evangelize them. What are you doing to help our Brother Zimmerman to reach them for Christ? After your chances are gone you will be wishing you had acted while you could.

Pastor, have you arranged for your Jewish conference yet? Brother, have you sent in an offering for the salvation of Israel this year?

Have you been remembering this great work before the Lord? Has God ever heard you pray for Israel?

Two years and more ago the Whittier Church, led by their pastor, Brother Charles H. Ashman, began active ministry in the very mission to the Jews that our entire brotherhood has now undertaken to support. They have said little about it but they have regularly supported the work with their gifts and they have actually helped to preach Christ to the Jews. We dare say that all our Southern California churches will soon have regular services in our new mission.

While you may not be able to help in the services there, yet you can give and pray and urge others to help. God help you to do so. Time is short!

A NEW FIELD IS OPENING IN DETROIT

We are discovering that a large number of Brethren have moved to Detroit to work in the automobile factories during the last few years. No work has ever been started there to care for them. It is apparent that the time has come when just such a work should be started. We have a list of people now, but it is not near enough to start a work. Pastor, if members of your church have moved to Detroit please send their names and addresses to the secretary at once. And as is likely the case, your memory is not so good; will you kindly make an announcement about this to your people and place an item in your bulletin appealing for the names of friends, relatives, neighbors, sons or daughters, who have gone to Detroit to live? Help us to reach one more field with the whole gospel!

THE COVER CUT

Once more a most effective cartoon has appeared in the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel. By the courtesy of the paper we are permitted to re-publish it here for readers of The Brethren Missionary Herald. It shows the true spirit of war. As a dead monster of terrible power, seemingly able to draw all men into its maw and crush them, war drives on, sweeping men by the million into eternity without Christ.

One wonders why men can be won over to such a suicidal madness if they are truly right in their minds. Having rejected Christ and despised the light of God there is nothing left for them but the darkness of sin and the blindness of Satan. "Satan blinds the minds of them that believe not lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ.....should shine unto them" (2 Cor. 4:8).

In war there is every influence of hell. There is no glory in war! The Word of God, the Spirit of Christ, tenderness, faith, truth, pity, love, hope, consideration, are all crushed beneath its heavy heel. There is no such thing as a righteous cause being promoted by war. There is no such thing as saying that God is on this side, or that side. When men take up the bludgeon of war they can but expect that God will make them reap what they have sowed. "They that take the sword shall perish by the sword."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

I am glad to think I am not bound to make the world go right, but only to discover and to do, with cheerful heart, the work that God appoints.

IS BRITAIN REAPING SO SOON?

It is said that for the first time in over 1000 years, Great Britain is now, as we write, facing attack on her home shores. The radio and the press are carrying speeches and warnings from the British leaders that betray that that nation is now gripped by a terrible fear, the fear of being overwhelmed by an invader before whom she is helpless. Newspaper and radio commentators in this country reflect the attitude that they cannot understand why Britain seems to be utterly helpless before her enemies, the Nazis. With all her boasted preparations she seems just as weak before that war machine as poor Poland.

While the rest of the world wonders why, wouldn't it be profitable to recall back some months when Britain, the nation that made a covenant with Israel to protect Palestine and provide it as a permanent homeland for the Jews, issued a now famous, or infamous, "White Paper" announcing that she would no longer carry out her agreement to aid in the resettlement of that land by the Jews? She made that agreement in a day when she felt her obligation to Israel for the aid given by Chaim Weizmann, that great Jewish leader, for the invention he gave Britain which practically turned the tide of the last world war. Now, she repudiates the promise she made through Lord Balfour. And now she is threatened with the most awful destruction since she became a nation! However this present war may turn out, Britain will pay a terrible price for forsaking Israel, for Israel is the apple of God's eye.

THE BIBLE AND CRIME

A recent report on crime declares that for four years not one prisoner in the Ohio State penitentiary has been able to quote the Lord's prayer or the ten commandments. It is not Christians who are committing all this crime and filling our jails. Our criminologists know these things. Our government knows these things. They know that the gospel changes men. Why then is there no recognition of the fact? Why is there no effort really to bring about an application of the Word of God to lives of men that we may be freed of the basic thing that causes all our crime and trouble? But no, there is nothing but the same old hopeless experiments with the things that deal with the outer man rather than with the 'inner' man, the heart of man. The watch dog against sin in the human heart is the Word of God.

"Thy word have I hid in my heart that I might not sin against thee" (Ps. 119:11).

Instead of giving criminals movies, baseball teams, radios, manual training, and undeserved paroles, why not give them the Word of God?

THEN WOULD MY SERVANTS FIGHT

Would Jesus go to war? If He were here in person today would He take sides with one or the other of the contending armies in the present awful struggle? Would He declare that one was a righteous cause and that His followers would be justified in taking part in slaying those who opposed it, and that it would be to His glory to die for such a cause? If so, then we could very well in His name ask God's blessing on the procedure. Can any circumstances, however acute or bitter or unjust, be considered just cause for the shedding of blood?

There is little doubt that when Jesus stood before Pilate the situation was serious. His life hung in the balance. He knew it. If there had been anything at stake for Himself or His great plan for man that resistance by force could have saved, there is little doubt but that He would have organized His disciples to that end. But He said to Pilate,

"My kingdom is not of this world; if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight..... but now is my kingdom not from thence" (Jn. 18:36).

However great the provocation may be, however, unjust the situation, however cruel the tyrant, can there be any temporal interest that would be great enough to justify the Christian entering into carnal warfare? When Peter drew his sword and cut off the

The June Emergency Offering

While the date has been set for June 16th, any Sunday in June will be all right for any church to take the offering. We realize it is a special appeal and that many things may interfere with any one date, therefore we want any pastor to feel that it is acceptable for him to take this offering when it best suits his church work. All we ask is that he do his best, for the work is very great and the need great.

Right here we wish to state that our isolated Brethren are a joy to our hearts by the way in which they so promptly and loyally respond to every need of the work. Their offerings are always first to start coming in and they are always very generous. We praise God for them. Their offerings are already coming in, and if they are any sample of all the offerings we will surely reach our goal.

May our Father God bless every pastor and member who has fellowship with us in this sacrificial work.

ear of Malchus, the servant of the high priest, that awful night when the mob came to lead Jesus to His death, it seemed as if an act of forceful resistance was justified didn't it? What did Jesus say?

"Put up thy sword into the sheath: the cup which My Father hath given Me, shall I not drink it?"

In the sad and fierce war scare that is sweeping the world today, fed by the misleading propaganda from a thousand hired pens, the Christian must guard carefully lest he be drawn into the fiery hatreds of this present evil world. He must watch lest he be led into the vortex of Satan's last wild spasm to draw men to Armageddon, and thus be found in the devil's camp when our Lord returns. The Christian has a far greater cause to live for, and his weapons are not carnal, but spiritual, and mighty to the blasting of strongholds. Be careful not to discard your God-given armor, brother; be careful not to be drawn away into a cause that is not your cause. You are not here to destroy men, but to save them. When you can no longer do that, your Lord will take you out of it all and the battle for you will be over. From the way this old world is going now, it appears that this event will not be long delayed.

"Because you have kept the word of my patience, I also will keep thee from that hour of tribulation that shall come upon all the world" (Rev. 3:10).

Keep looking up brother.

"AND NOW FOR THE WORLD"

As these editorials are being written, a flash comes over the radio from Walter Winchell, quoting a review with, I believe, Dr. Goebels, propaganda minister for Adolf Hitler. He is reliably reported to have said just before the drive into Poland,

"Poland three weeks, Norway three weeks, then we will overrun effeminate France in sixty days. After that it will be Nazilism for the world."

And from the way in which the program has been carried out so far there is little doubt that he was talking of the actual planning of Adolf Hitler and his fellow conspirators. It is also quite evident that brilliant and serious planning and preparations have been made to carry out that very program. The way the Nazi "Blitzkrieg" has swept invincibly through Polish, British, French, and Belgian armies, it appears that a war machine has been built which may cause the world to tremble. Small countries have been literally frightened into a passive neutral course making themselves easy prey. Those small nations were designed to act as buffers to prevent just such a drive as Hitler is now making. The experience of Poland in being crushed in a welter of blood; the bombing of helpless Rotterdam with the killing of 100,000 unarmed men, women, and children; the deceit and trickery with which Norway was rendered helpless within her own borders, has filled all Europe with quaking and dread. The suddenness of his war thrusts without a moment of warning makes it impossible for any nation to prepare against him. Although war is a hellish thing, yet until now there has always existed that honor among military men that would warn a foe before they struck. Today even that mark of conscience is gone. It seems that no resource of trickery, deceit, lying, connivance, as well as terrifying scientific and powerful war machines has been ignored in this tremendous German war program for world control.

Of course, we do not believe that Adolf Hitler is antichrist. But we are tremendously reminded of the words of John the seer when, in describing the forerunner of antichrist, he said,

"And there went out another horse that was red: and power was given to him that sat thereon to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another, and there was given unto him a great sword" (Rev. 6:4).

But all these things do not move the Christian who knows his Bible, for he knows that soon he will hear the words, heavenly words, "Come up hither." Blessed call!

A WORD FOR FAST DRIVERS

It is certain that today there are few of us who do not need exhortation against fast driving. It is killing people faster, and destroying the nerves of all of us more than any other single item of modern life. Every Christian driver should welcome any effort made to help him to use good judgment in his driving for his own sake as well as for others.

Up in Manitou, Col., is a pastor in a Mennonite church, I. C. Miller by name, who gave the following counsel to his congregation in a recent Sunday morning sermon,

"As a driver speeds his car upward, if he has any regard for his future abode he should sing softly to himself the following hymns: At 25 miles per hour, 'I'm But a Stranger Here, Heaven is My Home.' At 45 he should sing, 'Nearer My God to Thee.' At 55 he should sing, 'I'm Nearing the Port and Soon Will Be at Home.' When the speedometer reaches 65 miles per hour, 'When the roll is called up yonder I'll be there.' At 75 miles, 'Lord I'm Coming Home.'"

We personally doubt whether anyone would follow out this good advice. However, we have a further good suggestion for the manufacturer who is looking for a good idea. Let a device be added to the speedometer so that a phonograph record will begin to play these and other appropriate tunes as these speeds are registered. That, we believe would work. Anything should be encouraged to help lessen the terrible slaughter going on upon our highways 24 hours each day. The Christian who believes that he should love his neighbor as himself should try in every way to prevent any part he may add to the sad total of killings.

KENTUCKY NEEDS ARE BEING SUPPLIED

We are glad to announce that the Lord has been making all provision for the erection of the new church building in Kentucky. In response to our appeal for help in putting it up, we now have the assurance that Bro. Bernard Schneider, pastor of our Covington, Va., church, will take charge of the building of the structure. He is an experienced builder and knows how to get things done. He plans to bring along several of the men from his church to help in the carpenter work. Bro. William Johanson, a member of the Home Missions Council, plans to accompany the secretary down there and build the seats and pulpit furniture. There is a saw mill right across the road and it is equipped to do all kinds of mill work so that he can get just what he wants for the inside work. Several other men from churches here and there have signified their desire to go down at that time and help if they can at all make the arrangements. Then there will be a large force of local men to work on the building. We expect to have all of the material on the ground when the work starts. No delays will be allowed if at all possible.

The building cannot get up too quickly for the work's sake. Last Sunday 157 young men and women and adults crowded into that little school building.

Brother Landrum wrote, "We just don't dare to try to bring more for there is no room for them if they should come." We believe that there will be a school of 300 as soon as we have accommodations for them. This seems to be the beginning of a new era of spiritual awakening among the young people of these Kentucky hills. We are going to try to take advantage of it for our Lord.

Funds have been coming in right along for the building, for which we praise God. However, the response for windows and doors has been so great that we will have to make it all doors and windows if the gifts keep coming in as they have been! However, we need funds now for paints and varnish and roofing. Only two rolls of roofing have been supplied so far and we need 22 more. On July 2 we are going down actually to start the building. We had thought to go down during May but found that we could not all get going at that time. This will give us time to get all things ready.

God is blessing and His favor is upon the work and workers and all who are having a part in this fine new field of work.

By all means pray daily for it.

THE DAYTON TRIAL

By Rev. Russel D. Barnard

(Note: So many have inquired about the Dayton trial that we are printing the following which has come to our desk.)

Well, the hearing of the case is over. It dragged on for eight long days. The plaintiff (Ashland viewpoint) used seven of those days and about one-half hour of the eighth. The defendants used only the remainder of the eighth. The plaintiff attorneys will now have 10 days or more to prepare a brief of their case for the judge. Then the defendants will have ample time to file the brief in answer. Then there may be more time for replies, then finally the case will go to the judge. It will require considerable time for him to read and weigh all the evidence. An early decision will not be probable. In the meantime, continue to pray for us as we await the decision, and get back to the main business of Christ and the church.

May I say here that we were perfectly pleased with the conduct of the case on the part of our attorney, Judge Carroll Sprigg. His opening statement, when he spoke for two hours and ten minutes and without a note, was a masterpiece in Brethren history, policy and polity. How a man who is not a Brethren could grasp all of this material in so short a time continues to mystify us. Our most sincere appreciation is also to Bro. Roy Patterson, who, though not mentioned as one of our attorneys, gave almost endless time to research and tabulation of materials for the case, and then was a most valuable partner to Judge Sprigg in the actual workings of the trial. Judge Sprigg's son, Attorney John Sprigg, also deserves the sincere thanks of every Brethren.

The plaintiff consumed seven days in the presentation of their testimony. They had as witnesses Dr. Martin Shively, Dr. Leslie Lindower, Dr. W. S. Bell, Rev. E. M. Riddle, Rev. C. A. Stewart, Rev. W. E. Ronk. Also they subpoenaed Mr. Roy Kinsey, our church secretary, Mr. Wesley Baker, president of our Board of Trustees, and Bro. Oscar Lentz, the secretary of our Board of Trustees. Without subpoena they called Mrs. Irene Yount, the secretary of our Official Board, and then the writer.

After consuming one-half hour of the eighth day, the plaintiffs rested and the defendants came into action. We called only two witnesses, Prof. Alva J. McClain and Dr. Louis S. Bauamn. Both of them gave smashing blows in their testimony. The case rested at the end of the eighth day. Why did we take so short a time, and they so long a time? Well, our attorney was able to turn the testimony of almost every plaintiff witness so it became just the testimony that we would want to give in the defence. There was no use to repeat that which had already been es-

FLORA FORGES AHEAD

The secretary made a recent trip to look over this field again. This work is growing strong and is consolidating for the establishment of a strong testimony for Jesus Christ in that city. They are now meeting in the local city library auditorium, which is serving very well for the present. They are fully organized in both Sunday School and church and are getting down to business for the real work ahead. Brother Henry Rempel, their pastor, is unceasing in established. And the most powerful testimony in the world is that which comes indirectly from the opposition's witnesses.

Feelings were far less tense at the trial than in many sessions of the national conference, or in sessions of our own church business meetings. Order and the right to speak were granted us, and that was far more than we had in recent national conferences. Quite a number of visitors came to Dayton for the time of the trial. People of the city, and especially local attorneys, were very greatly interested. The newspapers were very fine and fair in the reports. The court room was crowded every session. Many people did not miss a single session. We had prayer and praise services at the church most of the evenings, and visiting Brethren were in charge of the services. We had a real spiritual feast, at the same time we had a trial.

We do not presume what the decision will be. We await it prayerfully. We are greatly encouraged, and know that God will permit only the right to prevail finally. We are more convinced than ever that our cause is right and just. We know there are no defeats in the will of God. We'll report as we have further information.

his labors and full of optimism. He literally overflows with it. His people are back of him loyally and they all have one passion that is, to glorify Christ and save the lost in Flora.

They have now purchased ground near the center of the city for their new church building. The lots are well located and in a resident section. The site is easily located on a main highway, which is a very desirable thing. Their building committee is now working on plans for their building. We expect to hear very soon that they are ready to commence construction. The way our God is blessing this people and the mind they have to work is certainly a joy to the heart. We expect to return there again shortly and several times during the summer, while the work is getting started. There will be more good news from Flora in the near future.

ANOTHER CHURCH RESTORED

There are but two Brethren Churches in Michigan. There used to be more. There should be many today. But for years this Michigan field was sadly neglected by The Brethren Church. Today we have no adequate place for this great field in our program. However, we are going ahead as fast as we can safely go and will be there before long.

At New Troy there is a church that has been established for many years. At one time it was a well organized country church. Out of it has come one illustrious minister of The Brethren Church, Charles Ashman. If this were the only contribution that the New Troy church had made to the general work of Christ, it would be more than many. Then for years there followed a period of difficulty during which it was hard sledding for the New Troy people. Brother English, the father of the work, in a real sense was declining in years and unable to care for the work as it should have been. After his going to be with the Lord, there followed a time of service during which the work was leaderless. This resulted in many discouraging situations and the general spiritual strength of the work deteriorated swiftly. The numbers declined, members began drifting away, and many ceased to attend at all. Then came a time when our people united with the Methodist group and the work became a sort of community affair. This did not result in a very successful situation, which terminated a few years ago.

About two years ago the group called Brother Russell Williams as pastor. He was just out of Grace Seminary, and was ready for a hard job. He found it. It was at New Troy. Since he has gone there he has brought about many changes. The work has been reorganized in both branches, the standards of separation from the world have been raised to where they glorify God, the faith of the gospel has been set forth continuously so that the people know in no uncertain way just what the faith of the Brethren is.

The secretary drove up to this church on Sunday, May 26, to see what he could see, and was much pleased at the progress that had been made during the last couple of years since he was there before. Since that first visit the congregation has asked for help from the Home Missions Council and as much help as could be given has been granted. It is one of the aims of the Council to save churches that have been having difficulties as well as to start new congregations. It is good to see the way this new spirit has taken hold of the New Troy congregation. There is a large field there and no other real testimony for Christ in all that section. Many thousands of people from Chicago flood this country during the summer months, and great opportunity to testify for Christ is at hand, especially with a strong evangelistic program.

Brother Williams is not deceived as to his problem and is not impatient, but is building well today though it seems slow, in order that a real period of progress may be realized a year or so later. We have some pictures of the field and the workers and are glad to show them.

FREMONT GOES ON FULL TIME

We are glad to announce that the new church at Fremont, Ohio will have full time service all summer. Bro. Phillip J. Simmons is now located there and will give all his time building up the work until Grace Seminary opens this fall. Under his leadership, the Sunday School and church are growing steadily. We would estimate that over 50 per cent of this new church consists of young men and women. This assures the future of the work. New people are being reached continuously. Their present meeting place is crowded at every service. The secretary was agreeably surprised to note the splendid increase since his last visit there several weeks ago. The spirit among these people is simply great.

Their building fund is piling up and they are getting mighty anxious to use it. Two weeks ago the secretary assisted in selecting a location for their new building. They hope to build this summer. There is little doubt but that their work is suffering at the present time, due to poor location and poor accommodations. Things are going to happen in Fremont right along all summer, so keep tuned in to these columns if you are interested in this work.

We took a picture of the pastor of the church some time ago but have been unable to publish it until now. So, here he is! He is doing a very fine work in Fremont and his people have every confidence in him.

MISSION PASTOR WEDS

At a very beautiful wedding held in the Fort Wayne Brethren Church, Bro. Arnold R. Kriegbaum, pastor of the new Third Brethren Church of Los Angeles, Calif., a church which is now under the care of the Home Missions Council, was united in marriage to Miss Laura Elizabeth Miller, daughter of the Home Missions secretary. Miss Miller graduated from Ashland College and since then has been working as stenographer and a member of the faculty of the business department of Bob Jones College. They were married on May 10th at 2:30 in the afternoon. After the wedding most of the guests drove to the bride's home at Berne, Ind., where a reception was held on the spacious lawn. All of the guests were served refreshments and a piece of the wedding cake. The description of the bride and bridegroom is a little too much for the writer to set down in this column and so a picture of the couple is printed instead. The couple left shortly after the wedding for their new home and field of labor in Los Angeles.

GOD'S UNCOMPROMISING NEGATIVES

By Bernard Schneider

Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning" (James 1:17). In one way God is very different from so many people we know, in that He always means what He says, and always does what He has promised to do. With Him there is no variableness, neither shadow of turning, He does not say one thing and mean another, He can be absolutely depended upon. There are people these days who say that God did not mean what He said when

BERNARD SCHNEIDER

He talked about sin, and hell, and judgment, but any one believing such talk is taking an awful chance, for God has never yet been caught in a lie, no, and never will be.

Now I want to bring a little study to you from God's Word concerning some of the things which men believe but which God flatly denies as not being so. Before we go into this, I would like to have you concentrate upon this one great truth, and that is that when God Almighty says "no," He means "no."

I. "There is none righteous, no not one" (Romans 3:10).

This verdict seems to come as a bolt out of a clear sky, "There is none righteous, no not one." In v. 20 of the same chapter the Holy Spirit says that by the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified in God's sight. In other words, no person will ever get right with God by doing good, by treating others right, by trying to do what is right in the eyes of the world. No matter how good a man may be, it can in no wise meet the demands of a Holy God. Most people do not like this truth and disagree. But there is no use in disagreeing with God Almighty. When He says "no," and "none," He means just that.

The great tragedy of beguiled humanity today is that most people have the idea that although they have sinned some in their time, they also are doing some good deeds, and that somehow this doing of good is going to make up for the wrong. Somehow they expect to come out on the right side of things on the other side of death. But this is an awful insult to God Who sent His beloved Son into the world and to the cross to save man from sin. This sort of idea is Satan's gospel, by which he keeps millions asleep and at ease, until it is too late. With this idea he proceeds and succeeds to drug the consciences of multitudes so that they worry little about the demands of our righteous and holy God, and they doze into hell. Says the apostle: "But if our gospel be hid, it is hid to them that are lost: in whom the god of this world has blinded the minds of them that believe not" (II Cor. 4:3-4).

It always reminds me of what the missionary to India related he saw there on one of his trips to a neighboring village. One day he saw a group of women at work in the harvest fields, and beside the road under a shade tree he saw their babies, all of them apparently sound asleep and contented. This seemed so strange to him that he called to one of the mothers and asked her how it was that all those children were so quiet. The perspiring mother answered him that their employers would not permit them to look after their babies during the day, and that they could not stand their piteful crying. So each morning before leaving for work they would put a very small piece of opium under one of their finger nails and then let the baby suck the finger on their way to work. This would put them sound asleep for the day, but would make them double fretful at the end of the day.

In just such a way Satan is busy keeping men's consciences asleep with spiritual drugs, and the worst and most deadly of them all is this teaching that if you make up for your sins with doing some good, you will be all right with God. God says there is none righteous, no not one, and, again, "By the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified in His sight." There is no use fooling and beating about the bush, God says "no," and you cannot argue God out of this.

II. "There is no respect of persons with God" (Romans 2:11).

In Rom. 3:23 we are told that there is no difference, "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Some people seem to think that their souls are charmed, that everything is going to be all right with them because of who they are. The trouble is that they are comparing God with weak, sinful man.

In this world it will help you much if you are the son or close relative of some one in a high position. In that case you have a "pull," and it helps. But be certain that there is no earthly pull with God. You may live in a Christian home. Your father may be a fine Christian minister. You may be a member of the best lodge in town. You may give $1000 to the poor. You may belong to the Methodist, the Baptist, the Brethren, or any other church here, and still God says you are lost unless you are born again. He is no respecter of persons, He will treat them all alike, and there is no difference, all have sinned.

So many people think that because they are civilized and live in a Christian country, and perhaps belong to some church, that they are Christians, but not so in the sight of God. I have heard of a conversation between a refined American lady and a young Christian man from Korea who was on the train which would bring him to a Christian school here in America. As travelers are often doing, they were telling each other where they were going, etc. When it came the turn for our young friend, he simply told that he was on his way to school to prepare himself to be a missionary. "Now, missions is one thing I don't believe in," said our fine lady. Rather surprised the young man said: "Why, I thought that all Christians believed in missions." Upon this the lady answered: "But I am not a Christian." With more surprise the young man looked sharply at the lady and stated: "Why, lady, then you are a heathen." The lady of course was very much insulted and with fire in her eyes she shook her finger at him and informed him: "I want you to know young man, that here in America we have no heathen." This proved too much for the young foreigner and in a meek voice he said: "You have to forgive me lady; in my country we have only the two ways, the Christian way and the heathen way, but if there is a third way, I would be glad to know about it." But there is no third way. Every one who is not born again is lost, is a heathen, even though a civilized one. Listen to what God says: "Which were born, not of blood," that means that you cannot inherit salvation from your parents; "nor of the will of the flesh," which means that you cannot earn your salvation; "nor of the will of man," which means that no preacher, priest, nor pope can give you salvation; "but of God," which means that only by being born again can you become a Christian. We all have to come the same way to God, on our knees. You may argue this with me, but you cannot argue this with God; He says that He is no respecter of persons.

III. There is no other Savior but Christ (Acts 4: 12; Jn. 14:6).

God says that there is no other name under all heaven whereby we must be saved. Christ is the only way. Christ said that no one would come to the Father except by Him. Many are the folks who think that there is no special need to accept Christ. They think that if you believe in God, and live "right," it will be all right. But I have to tell you that that is a very much mistaken idea, either that or God lied to us. Either that or Christ lied to us too, for we are told by Him that no one could come even to the Father except through Him. Christ ought to know—He came from heaven.

Perhaps some one here may feel very much like taking the matter up with me and ask me if I can tell you why we must accept Jesus Christ to be saved. You say that you cannot see why you cannot just believe in God and try to live the best you can, and be saved. What is the need of Christ? Well, I believe I can help you there. Let me first quote a well known passage. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life."

God so loved the world but you may be sure that He loved His Son too. And you may also be certain that if there had been some other way by which God could have saved man from his doom, God would have spared His Son. Think it out for yourself. Father, you have a son. You love that son more than anything else on earth. Now there is a debt hanging over you. You cannot pay it. The creditor gets impatient. Finally he says: "You either pay, or I will take your son and sell him to cover that debt." And suppose that this were possible, as it has been in some countries in times past. Let me ask you this, if there were any other way under heaven whereby you could pay that debt, other than by your son, you would take that way, wouldn't you? So God saw man in his sin, hopelessly and helplessly lost. There was no way out, other than through a sacrifice, worthy to cover the whole of man's transgression. So Christ left His heavenly home and offered Himself on the cross. There was no other way. "Without the shedding of blood there is no remission." Now, when the Lord tells us that this is the only way, bought at such a price by an all-knowing God, shall we still persist in some other way? The very suggestion of it is an insult to the unspeakable love, and to the intelligence of our God. There is no other way. Jesus said: "Except ye believe that I am He, ye shall die in your sins."

IV. "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out" (Jn. 6:37).

To my understanding, this is just about the greatest promise in the Bible. It means that if you come to Christ, He will not turn you away no matter who and what you are.

I ask you to forgive me for making a personal reference. But to me this promise has meant more sometimes than all the rest of the Bible put together. Before I was saved, I lived in an awful wilful life of sin, and since I have been saved, I have passed through some dark hours on account of them. The devil knows how to parade all your past before your eyes, and make you doubt the possibility of your own salvation, if he can. At such hours, all my old sins would come up in order, and I could see all the worst of them. Then the devil would whisper to me: "Look at them, you know you don't have a chance with God." I remember one time when it almost got the best of me. Some one was asking an elderly lady what she thought of a man who would do such and such a thing. I held my breath until the answer came, for I had been guilty of that very thing before I became a Christian. Then came the answer. "I believe that a man who would do that is about the lowest thing on earth." Like lightning it struck me, and it went deep to my heart. And then came the devil's old whisper again: "Look here, young fellow, you see what folks think of you, you know you haven't got a chance with God. He will give you up to your punishment." It almost drove me to despair, but sud-

If the Lord had no one else to depend on for spreading His gospel but me, how many people would know it?

FROM THE FIELD

JUNIATA, PENNA.

We are glad to be able to make another report of the progress of the work of the Lord here in Juniata. Since last we gave report of the work, the Lord has been especially good to us in giving us precious souls for His fold, and many material blessings. It has been a privilege that all of God's people can enjoy to be still and watch the working of God in the bestowal of His abundant grace and blessing.

During the month of January we were privileged again to work with Brother R. Paul Miller as our evangelist for two weeks. In that time we found that the revival fires were kindled anew in many hearts. The outward results were not great but the work accomplished was of the highest good, for we have had the harvest since the close. After all we feel that this is a healthy sign of the fine work done by the evangelist, that the church should respond to the appeal to decide for Christ as a direct result of the seed sown in their hearts. We praise the Lord for the time of fellowship experienced during the two weeks period.

Our Bible School has brought much joy to our hearts because of the continued and steady growth during the year of 1940. For the first four months of the year there has been but one Sunday in which the Bible School has failed to show an increase over the denly by some unseen guide my mind stopped on these words of Jesus: "Him that cometh unto me, I will in no wise cast out." Yes, God will receive me, in spite of my sins, in spite of my past. He will do more, He will wash away my sins and blot out my record, because I have come to Jesus for salvation. I was led to realize the full meaning of that promise, and have never doubted my salvation since. When the old devil comes with his whispers, I simply refer him to that verse, and he takes his leave.

Friends, may I make the application of this verse to you? Perhaps some of you have had visions of your sins, and they scare you. But don't let that keep you away from God's throne of mercy. You say that you are a sinner; then you may come to Jesus, for, "This is a faithful saying, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief." You say that you are lost; that is the more reason why you should come, for Jesus said that He "came to seek and to save that which was lost." Yes, He will receive you, and He is able to save to the uttermost. These words came from the lips of the Savior of man, "Him that cometh I will in no wise cast out." Only come, come and take Him at His word, and you will find that it does not take a coming sinner and a seeking Savior long to get together.

corresponding Sunday of the previous year. This increased attendance has been reflected in the other services of the church also. It would be only fair to mention that part of this is due to the increased facilities to care for our Bible School. We now have a concrete floor in the basement which makes it possible for classes to meet there, thus relieving the strain of all meeting in one room and trying to teach the Word effectively. Under the capable leadership of our superintendent, Brother I. E. Miller, the school is making fine progress and we look forward to greater things for Christ.

One of the finest forward steps the church has ever taken was the beginning of a Juniata Monthly Bible Conference sponsored and maintained by our own people. We have so far enjoyed three of these conferences and soon the fourth is to be held. Each conference reaches farther in its influence, and interests people of the community that have never responded before. We are proud to be able to report that Bro. Herman Hoyt was one of our Bible teachers and has received much favorable comment and made a lasting impression upon our people. Plans are being perfected for the continuance of this beginning with the month of September. The many needs in maintaining such a vital ministry have always been amply provided by the Lord.

Of the material blessings, we could write a great deal. To our urgent plea for the supplying of new and comfortable pews an answer has come. We now have new pews assembled and in use, and enjoyed by all who attend our services. To show that the Lord answers prayer even beyond what we expect, let me tell you that the matter of new pews became a definite matter of intercession and the Lord answered by giving us the pews and a new floor for our auditorium. This too was a great need because the former floor had served well for 55 years! We now have a very beautiful church interior for the worship of God. The old pews were moved to the basement and make ample provision for our Sunday School class rooms. With this expansion of facilities we are praying that the Lord will also provide an increase in souls coming to Him. We wish to use this means to thank all the Brethren who have helped to make these improvements possible by their gifts and by their prayers. Will you continue to remember us for there are still many problems to be faced.

Ten people have recently taken their place in the membership of our fold, the greater part of that number being young married people upon whom we can lean heavily for the future of our work. Several others are awaiting baptism and still others contemplating entering into our fellowship. The Lord has been good to us and we give Him all the praise, for we know that while men may plant, and others may water, it is God that giveth the increase.

LITTLE CORNERS

By W. A. Hillis

Georgia Willis, who helped in the kitchen, was rubbing the knives. Somebody had been careless and let one get rusty, but Georgia rubbed with all her might; rubbed and sang softly a little song:

"In the world is darkness, so we must shine,
You in your little corner, and I in mine."

"What do you rub at them knives forever for?" Mary said. Mary was the cook.

"Because they are in my corner," Georgia said brightly. "You in your little corner, you know, and I in mine." "I'll do the best I can, that's all I can do."

"I wouldn't waste my strength," said Mary. "I know that no one will notice."

"Jesus will," said Georgia, and then she sang again. "You in your little corner, and I in mine."

"This steak is in my corner, I suppose," said Mary to herself. "If that child must do what she can, I s'pose I must. If He knows about knives, it's likely He does about steak," and she broiled it beautifully.

"Mary, the steak was very nicely done today," Miss Emma said.

"That's all along of Georgia," said Mary, with a pleased red face, and then she told about the knives.

Miss Emma was ironing ruffles, she was tired and warm. "Helen will not care whether they are fluted nicely or not," she said; "I'll hurry them over;" but after she heard about the knives she did her best.

"How beautifully my dress is done," Helen said, and Emma, laughing answered, "that is owing to Georgia," then she told about the knives.

"No," said Helen to her friend who urged "I really cannot go this evening. I am going to prayer-meeting; my corner is there."

"Your corner! What do you mean?" Then Helen told about the knives.

"Well," the friend said, "if you will not go with me, perhaps I will with you," and they went to the prayer meeting.

"You heped us ever so much with the singing this evening," That was what their pastor said to them as they were going home. "I was afraid you wouldn't be there."

"It was owing to our Georgia," said Helen, "she seemed to think she must do what she could, if it were only knives." Then she told him the story.

"I believe I will go in here again," said the minister, stopping before a poor little house. "I said yesterday there was no use, but I must do what I can." In the house a sick man was lying; again and again the minister had called, but he wouldn't listen to him; but tonight he said, "I have come to tell you a little story." Then he told him about Georgia Willis, about her knives, and her little corner, and her "doing what she could," and the sick man wiped the tears from his eyes and said, "I'll find my corner too; I'll try to shine for him." And the sick man was Georgia's father. Jesus, looking down at her that day, said, "She had done what she could," and He gave the blessing.

"I believe I won't go to walk," said Helen, hesitating, "I'll finish that dress of mother's; I suppose I can if I think so."

"Why, child, you here sewing?" her mother said; "I thought you had gone to walk?"

"No, ma'am; this dress seemed to be in my corner, so I thought I would finish it."

"In your corner?" her mother repeated in surprise, and then Helen told about the knives. The door-bell rang, and the mother went thoughtfully to receive her pastor. "I suppose I could give more," she said to herself, as she slowly took out the ten dollars she had laid aside for missions. "If that poor child in the kitchen is trying to do what she can, I wonder if I am? I'll make it twenty-five."

And Georgia's guardian angel said to another angel, "Georgia Willis gave twenty-five dollars to our dear people in India today."

"Twenty-five dollars?" said the other angel. "Why I thought she was poor."

"Oh, well, she thinks she is, but her Father in heaven isn't, you know. She did what she could and he did the rest."

But Georgia knew nothing about all this, and the next morning she brightened her knives and sang cheerily:

"In the world is darkness, So we must shine,
You in your little corner, and I in mine."

Book Review

THE MONK WHO LIVED AGAIN by B. H. Pearson.

Light & Life Press, Winona Lake, Indiana. 185 pages, cloth bound. Price $1.25.

In this volume, B. H. Pearson, the writer, gives to the realm of Christian literature the biography of one, Dr. Walter Manuel Montano, who was born of aristocracy in Bolivia, South America and reared under the yoke of Roman Catholicism.

The story moves along without hesitation and develops the plot of his early life in the monastery, his ceaseless quest for peace, and his finally finding that peace in the Lord Jesus Christ Who transformed his life and made him powerful in service.

The climax comes in his finding a life companion while in voluntary exile.

Perusal of this book, which we heartily recommend, will give all who read an insight to the need of Christ in our sister continent to the south, benighted in the idolatry and deception of Roman Catholicism as practiced there.

THE OFFICER'S PRAYER

Joshua 1:5-9

Hebrews 12:1-15

She asked to be made like the Savior;

He took her right then at her word,
And sent her a heart-crushing burden

Till the depth of her soul was stirred.

She asked for a faith that was simple;

He permitted the dark cloud to come,
And she struggled by faith thru the darkness,
For the storm had obscured quite the sun.

She prayed to be filled with a passion

Of love for lost souls and for God;
And again, in response to her longings,
She sank 'neath the chastening rod.

She wanted a place in His vineyard;

He took her away from her home,
And placed her among hardened sinners,
Where "humanly" she stood alone.

She saw she must give up ambitions

Which had been her "aircastles" for years;
But she knelt in sincere consecration,
And whispered "Amen" thru her tears.

She wanted a meek, lowly spirit;

The work He gave answered that cry,
Till some who had once been companions
With pitying smile passed her by.

She asked to lean hard on her Savior;

He took human props quite away
Till no earthly friend could give comfort
And she could do nothing but pray.

I saw her go out in the harvest

To gather the ripening grain;
Her eyes were still moistened with weeping,
Her heart was still throbbing with pain.

But many a heart that was broken,

And many a wrecked, blighted life,
Was made to thank God for her coming
And rejoiced in the midst of the strife.
She had prayed to be made like her Savior,
And the burden He gave her to bear
Had been but the great Sculptor's teaching
To help answer her earnest prayer.—Sel.

Confucianism

(Romans 7:7-14)

Suggestions for the Leader

This is a study of one of the false religions of the Orient. It will give us an idea of what some missionaries have to combat and overcome. Confucianism might be thought of as confusionism. Confucius failed to meet man's needs of revelation of God. He could not solve the sin question. He did not give any hope for the after life. Even though he taught a system of morality, it can not save a man from sin. Millions in China are busy in their religious lives but to no avail. He taught a form of the golden rule (called the silver rule), but did not understand that the heart is evil in its natural condition.

Today China is turning to Christ and Christian missions. Once the Chinese called Christianity a poor man's religion but now many important men embrace Christianity.

1. Confucius and His Doctrine.

He discouraged belief in a personal God. He did not claim inspiration or supernatural authority for his writings. He would not commit himself on any ideas of the after life. His system led to ancestor worship.

2. The Sin Question.

Confucius believed all men were naturally good; yet Christ said, "Out of the heart of men proceed evil thoughts." He made sin of little account and to be cured by right training and proper environment. He had little to say regarding preparation for a day of judgment. He taught a negative golden rule, but a sinner needs more than that. Only salvation from sin by our Lord will satisfy.

3. Ancestors and Christ.

Worship of ancestors was an ancient practice among the Chinese, and Confucius merely enlarged upon it. There were three ways ancestor worship was expressed: 1. obedience during the life time of the parents; 2. elaborate rite at death of parents; and 3. sacrifices in honor of dead ancestors at anniversaries. Confucius is now worshipped as a spiritual father. We worship a living Christ and not a dead man that cannot help us.

4. Confucius and Prayer.

Confucius taught that human beings cannot change the unalterable laws of the world. He prayed but for ceremony and not for pleading. He said, "He who has offended against heaven has none to whom he can pray."

Upon his deathbed he refused the offer of prayer for himself, saying that he had been praying for himself by living a virtuous life.

5. The Ethics of Confucianism.

His teaching was for every person to do his proper part in the immediate relationships of life. He prescribed to rulers their duties for the welfare of the people in the state. Various virtues were exhorted: propriety, sincerity, faithfulness, studiousness, justice, reverence, moderation, calmness, truth seeking. Obedience to parents was the first and great commandment of his teaching.

6. Elements of weakness in Confucianism.

That people cannot reach a personal God. A self saving scheme for salvation. It gives only the negative form of the golden rule. It assigns an inferior position to women. It has no forward-looking goal ahead.

Additional Scripture

Contrast the refusal of Confucius to discuss eternal things with the teachings of our Lord: Jn. 3:3-13; 14:1-4; 5:24-29.

Regarding our prayers see: Heb. 7:25; Lk. 22:23; Jn. 17; Mk. 1:35; 6:41; Mt. 26:42.

Questions

1. What do you understand as the great weakness of Confucianism?
2. What difficulty comes to our missionaries in China over Confucianism?
3. In what ways is Christianity superior?

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN IN A CHURCH

Ushers calling for help in carrying the offering. Minister insisting that the people attend only one service each Sunday in order to make room for others. A dozen people asking the minister for some really definite work to do during the week. A dozen families asking the ushers to place them on the front seats. Every one in the audience reaching for a hymn-book when the number is announced and then singing heartily. Every head reverently bowed during prayer. No whispering or reading of papers during the service. A choir that does not find a single thing to whisper about during the service. The minister saying, "I have rushed from one thing to another all week. I have spent less than three hours in revising this old sermon which is rather out of date, but I will endeavor to make it fit the occasion." The Ladies' Aid Society hoping that the preacher's wife will bring to the next meeting a long list of things that ought to be done in the parsonage at once. The "old-timers" graciously giving way to newcomers, confident that the newcomers will be able to do much better work than they have done. No one getting up or moving about or leaving the room during the service. The middle of the pews filled first. Each one speaking to the person next to him at the close of the service and inviting him to come again. The names and addresses of all strangers handed to the minister at the close of the service.—Selected.

BE THOU MY GUIDE

By Jo L. Morris

Ah! Master of the soul,
Lead Thou this life of mine,
That I may live in peace
In joy and love divine.
Teach me to know the path
Wherein Thy foot has trod,
That I may know for sure
The path of God.

Instill within my mind
The great desire to do
The things I know are pure
Righteous, and true.
O loving Holy Spirit
Inspire Thou me,
A willing servant for Thy work
Ever to be.

Help me to know
That Thou art my true Guide,
A friend so dear, a comforter,
Close by my side.
Keep in my heart
The eagerness to share
Thy love, and blessedness,
With all men everywhere.

Oh, lead Thou me
Throughout all worldly strife,
That I may be a victor over sin
And gain new life.
For Thou it is who made
And keeps me whole;
Guide me, O God, and always be
The Master of My Soul.

ONE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS FOR ONE MAN

By Tom Olson

Robert Ripley in one of his latest "Believe It Or Not" articles says:

"General Leonard Duphot (1770-1797), who was killed by Roman Guards while defending the French Embassy, was avenged by the orders of Napoleon.

"General Berthier, at the head of an army, marched into Rome, deposed the government, proclaimed Rome a Republic and collected an indemnity of 60,000,000 francs in gold, equal in purchasing value to more than $100,000,000 today, which makes Duphot one of the most precious men who ever lived."

King David's men placed a very high value upon him. It was not so much a money as a man value. They said: "Thou art worth ten thousand of us" (2 Sam. 18:3). He certainly was precious in their sight. They were perfectly willing to lay down their lives for him.

The most precious of all is the Lord Jesus Christ! He is the "image of the invisible God, the firstborn of every creature: for by Him were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by Him and for Him: and He is before all things, and by Him all things consist. And He is the Head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead; that in all things He might have the preeminence. For it pleased the Father that in Him should all fulness dwell" (Col. 1: 15-19).

"In Him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily"—yet, He is the One Who died for our sins and was buried and rose again! Is it any wonder that the apostle Peter wrote: "Unto you therefore which believe He is precious" (1 Pet. 2:7)!

I'm happy in Jesus, my Savior, my King,
And all the day long of His goodness I sing;
To Him in my weakness I lovingly cling,
For He is so precious to me.

He stood at the door amid sunshine and rain,
So patiently waiting an entrance to gain!
What shame that so long He entreated in vain,
For He is so precious to me.

I praise Him because He appointed a place
Where, some day, through faith in His marvelous grace
My eyes shall behold Him, shall look on His face,
For He is so precious to me.

HIS PLACE FOR ME

Martha Snell Nicholson

When I stand at the judgment seat of Christ,
And He shows me His plan for me,
The plan of my life as it might have been
Had He had His way, and I see

How I blocked Him here, and I checked Him there,
And I would not yield my will,—
Will there be grief in my Saviour's eyes,
Grief, though He loves me still?

He would have me rich, and I stand there poor,
Stripped of all but His grace,
While memory runs like a hunted thing
Down the path I cannot retrace!

Then my desolate heart will well nigh break
With the tears that I cannot shed;
I will cover my face with my empty hands,
I will bow my uncrowned head . . . .

O Lord of the years that are left to me,
I give them to Thy hand;
Take me, and break me, mould me to
The pattern Thou hast planned!

SAFE

By NANCY BYRD TURNER

"Above the voices of many waters,
The mighty breakers of the sea,
The Lord on high is mighty."

The wild wind rages on the sea
And lifts the water high;
It makes a sound like mighty wings,
And bends the little sails, and flings
The gulls across the sky.

It drives the great waves in to break
Against the helpless land;
But shore and birds and sails that lean,
And we who watch are safe within
The hollow of God's hand.

OUR BOY'S and GIRL'S VERY OWN PAGE

TRAPS

By Mrs. Clarence Sickle

We do not have a variety of birds in our part of Argentina, but a great many of one particular kind—the English sparrow. This little bird does a great deal of harm in the garden, so as we go about the country we see various kinds of scarecrows, only in this case it would be scare-sparrow. We see long lines stretched low over the ground, with rags tied from them, which flap in the wind. The movement is intended to frighten Mr. Sparrow. In other places are lines with bits of tin on the end of long strings. These not only move in the wind that is strong and frequent there, but reflect the sun's rays, thus frightening the birds. The owl is an enemy of the sparrow as he well knows. Many times dead owls are placed on poles in different parts of the garden, or potatoes filled with feathers, making a good imitation of an owl.

None of these scarecrows, however, are effective for very long. Therefore the children are encouraged to catch the birds in their box traps. They open the door to which a string is attached, placing a good supply of cracked corn or bird seed just inside. Then the children wait at some distance away, perhaps inside the house, string in hand. The first sparrow is very cautious in his approach, but finding no danger and plenty of food his chattering invites others, and soon the trap is full of hungry birds. The string is then pulled and these little birds will make a tasty dish called 'polenta con pajaritos' for some Italian family.

The appetites of these birds get them into trouble. A good many of us are just like them. We allow our appetites to run away with us, and Satan knowing our weakness, baits his trap with things which he thinks will make us hop in. It is wicked to eat and drink and use things which will hurt our bodies and minds. Let us avoid such traps.

Did you ever watch a spider set his trap? Backward and forward and round and round he goes, spinning his web, until it is completed. Then Mr. Spider hides in a corner to wait for his victim. By and by an unsuspecting fly comes head long into it, and before he knows it is completely entangled. Quickly Mr. Spider runs from his hiding place and wraps thread after thread around the poor fly so that he cannot get away. Then for a fine meal! That is another picture of Satan's way of setting traps for you and me.

There is a plant called the 'pitcher plant,' because its flowers have the form of a pitcher and hold a water-like liquid. Insects are attracted to this plant and try to get a drink of the liquid. They creep into the little pitchers, but when once they are in, they cannot get out again. There are little hairs growing downward which act as a fence to keep the insects from coming out. So they die there and are eaten by the plant.

That is just like another trap Satan sets for us. He tries to get us to tell an untruth. Then to cover up one lie we have to tell another, till soon we get in so deep we can scarcely get out again.

David knew that Satan sets such traps as these, but he found that if he prayed, God would help him to avoid them, and if he did happen to fall into them, God would help him. May we be able to say with David, "Mine eyes are ever toward the Lord, for He shall pluck my feet out of the net."

PELLETS FOR PREACHERS

A congregation is supposed to have said of its preacher, that when he went into the pulpit he preached so beautifully that he ought never to come out of it, but when he came out of it, he lived so badly he ought never to go into it.

"No man is more sorely tempted than the preacher. Satan's biggest grudge is against him. We must watch constantly against all unworthy motives and habits."

It Is Not Time To Quit

When the enemy comes in like a flood, dropping from the skies with their parachutes, forcing a trap with their mighty machines of war, threatening torture and annihilation for all who will not submit; when a fifth column of supposed friends betrays us into their hands, when an earthly king turns traitor to his country and his people—should we say, "Now is the time to quit?"

The British and French armies in Flanders, faced with that very situation, fought on; fought their way to the sea where the German air force awaited their embarkation to attack them from the skies. That situation was surely man's extremity, but man's extremity is God's opportunity, the fog and mist of the English channel enfolded those transport ships and hid them from their enemies' sight. One commanding officer is said to have remarked, "We came from the battle of Flanders, but only to go into the next battle, and then we shall be the victors."

In these awful days of world war, our missionary army has been sorely depleted, the divisions on the field seem almost in a trap with no way out, the reinforcements at home are unable to go forth to aid them, disease threatens, it is no pleasant picture. From man's viewpoint it is extremity. Shall we say, "It is time to quit?" Shall we curtail our giving, shall we slacken our praying?—No! Our God will undertake for us! Our enemy is indeed the prince of the power of the air, but our God controls the fog and the mist. We may be battle scarred and weary and worn, but in the final battle we shall be victors. Let us pray more, work more, give more. Our God has vast reserves of power—He is never caught unprepared.

Walking

More Closely

Since its beginning, the Washington, D. C. Women's Missionary Council has been experiencing closer walking and deeper fellowship with both God and fellow-Christian women. It has enjoyed many helpful and inspiring devotional meetings together with heart-searching and uplifting prayer circles. Also, through an all day missions study program, and an all day sewing bee for African medical work, the group has been cemented closer for service for the Master. The offerings have been gratifying and show that the women not only give of their tithes, but share their other income with the Lord in bringing their offerings to Him, too.

It has been decided that one day each month can be profitably spent in making baby blankets, rolling bandages, and sewing dresses from silk stockings to be used in the hospitals in the heart of Africa. Our denominational medical work is growing in this foreign enterprise, and they can use all the materials which the homeland can supply.

The devotional topics have been most interesting, educational, and great promoters of Christian growth. They are cherished, and looked forward to from month to month. Their integration and simplicity add to the doctrinal and practical knowledge of every member. Therefore, they are deeply appreciated by all.

May all the women in the Brotherhood receive the joy and devotional spirit which has been the experience of this group through serving the Christ, Whose sufficiency we need and accept daily, is our prayer.

From Juniata, Pa.

Greetings from the W.M.C. of the Juniata Brethren in Juniata, Pa:

"Grace to you and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

"Blessed be God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies, and the God of all comfort" (II Cor. 1:2,3).

We do praise the Lord for the wonderful way in which He has undertaken for us. He is indeed our Sufficiency in all things.

We have a fine council of 24 members, an increase of 6 since organization in Oct. 1939. Real spiritual fellowship has been evident in our meetings. Our public service program was given Sun. morning, April 21. The members had charge under the leadership of Mrs. Brumbaugh, the president. The program consisted of devotions, solos, both instrumental and vocal, vocal duets, chorus numbers and messages on the different phases of our missionary work.

Mrs. Pine, the pastor's wife, also has organized a Junior Council. One of their activities is making infants' clothing for the needy in Kentucky.

The Lord can do marvelous things through lives that are truly dedicated to Him, and who desire above everything else, that His name be glorified. Let each member examine herself and yield herself anew in service for Him. To God only wise, be glory through Jesus Christ forever, amen.

MRS. WILLIAM E. DIVELY, Cor. Secy.

And Now from Rittman, Ohio

Greetings in the name of our blessed Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, to our sister Women's Missionary Councils from the Rittman, Ohio W.M.C.

It is with great joy I can announce that we are moving forward in the Lord's work. Our council meetings have been very well attended and the interest especially pleasing, and the free-will offerings have been larger than when we had dues. We are not under law but under grace. Praise the Lord.

Our Council along with the Sisterhood girls held our mother-daughter banquet the evening of May 2 at the Smithville Inn. We invited the ladies from the Wooster church, who as yet are not organized, as our guests. We had a wonderful evening of Christian fellowship with 62 present. A fine program arranged by the Sisterhood girls was enjoyed by all. Mrs. John Squires, wife of the Wooster pastor, gave the address, basing her message on Ex. 14:13-16, and pointing out that there is a time to pray but there is also a time when God wants us to act.

We pray that we may all stand united with all other Councils in serving Him until He comes, and that in the year ahead we may be so yielded to His will that we may be used mightily of Him in His service.

MRS. NINA SLAYBAUGH, Cor. Secy.

Extracts from Letters from Bible Coach Workers

Having visited carefully and prayerfully both large and small towns—almost all of them having been colportered very little—and surmounting difficulties placed before us by the Roman clergy and the indifferent, we have been able to give the message of the Word of God to large groups of people. This has brought joy to our hearts, in confidence that 'work in the Lord is not in vain.'

We had some difficulty in Moldes. The priest, a jealous defender of his parish, made slanderous remarks about us, and the Catholic Society began to work actively to defeat our purpose. A woman who is active in that Society, uneducated and lacking in self-respect, attacked us in a very ill-mannered way and with foul language. A young man told us later that there had been preparations to stone the Bible Coach that night of the first meeting. Another woman, active in the Catholic Church, told us, "You and yours had taken root in Sampacho a few years ago, but by a punishment of God, that town was almost completely destroyed by earthquake. You had better get out of here, for you will not be able to accomplish anything. Catholicism is well-organized here, and you will do well to leave, for if not we will put you out if we have to do it with bricks." In that town the first weapon used against us was the old saying, "their Bible is false." In the house where we had rented a room, there was an old invalid lady, a Catholic, who was visited continually and reproached for having rented to us. The priest sent the women to do this. In spite of all opposition there were a great many Bibles sold, encouraging meetings held, and a goodly number of tracts distributed. There were also a number of inquirers.

In Washington and Paunero, the work was even more difficult. One of the colporters was even threatened with a knife.

In Moldes a school teacher bought New Testaments to give to her pupils. In Makenna, the principal of the school gave Gospels to the entire student body.

It was a joy to find the municipal and police authorities cooperating with us in a number of towns.

We need your prayers. The opportunities are great. Even in the small towns we have a daily congregation larger than that of all the mission stations on Sunday. We are daily touching lives, doing personal work, presenting the gospel to lost souls. Brethren, pray for us. In the face of great difficulties both spiritual and physical, we praise Him for His faithfulness, and we press on to greater things in His name. Pray for us that the working of the Holy Spirit may be manifested in and through each of us. Pray for the tracts distributed, for the copies of the Word, and for personal contacts made, that souls may be 'born again, and that He may be glorified in our midst.

An Announcement from our President,
Mrs. Homer A. Kent:

In the event some Council might not be using the Bible Study Leaflets for the regular meeting, secretaries are reminded to look for the July semi-annual report blank. These blanks are being included with the leaflets, which are sent out each month by our editor, Mrs. Kidder. They must be filled out and sent in by return mail in order that a fair report may be given at the National Bible Conference at Winona Lake.

QUESTION AND ANSWER DEPARTMENT

Question: Is it all right for Councils to send their offerings direct to Grace Seminary whenever the offering is so designated?

Answer: President Alva J. McClain prefers that our gifts be made all at once rather than in numerous small gifts. The Financial Secretary cannot keep her books accurately or give Councils due credit if she does not receive all of your gifts.

Question: Is there any word of encouragement concerning the gifts for Bouca station?

Answer: We are glad that $784.00 has come in designated for that purpose. You may recall from an earlier issue that Missionary Orville D. Jobson, Field Supt. in Africa, informed us that $792.00 was needed for the year. Surely God answers prayer as we are confident that the small remaining sum will yet be received.

Question: Will the W.M.C. have separate printed programs for our National Bible Conference?

Answer: Mrs. W. A. Ogden, National Vice President is chairman of the program and we are confident that we shall have a splendid Conference.

Question: Would it seem advisable to consider a home mission project in next year's program?

Answer: How glad we are for this question. The Executive Board is seeking direction in this very matter. We feel sure the Lord would have us undertake some definite work in home missions in addition to our thank offering.

Question: When do we turn in our thank offering? For what purpose is it given?

Answer: This offering is taken or sent to National Bible Conference. It is given to the Home Missions Council to be used to meet a specific need of home missions.

ROLL OF LOCAL COUNCILS

We have carefully revised this list, correcting mistakes and adding some new councils as reported. We are still sending out Devotional Topics to individuals in certain places. It may be that you have organized a council and are getting your literature in this manner, and so have neglected to send in the name of your president and her address, to the editor. If this is your case, will you not attend to it at once? We most earnestly desire to have everything in perfect shape at the National Bible Conference. That is a lot to expect for the first year, we know, but you can help us to make it come true. Thank you.

The Neglected Race for Whom Christ Died

ISRAEL IN JESUS' DAY

Complexity

The people of Israel found themselves aligned in many groups at the beginning of our era. There were the Nazairites, the Galileans, the Samaritans, Masbotheans, Hemerobaptists, Zealots, Sicarii, Herodians, Essenes, Sadducees, Scribes and Pharisees. Owing to the turbulence of the times, the people could not settle upon any one course of action. Even the Pharisees, who controlled the greater portion of the common people, seemed not able to pursue any consistent course in their attitude toward the Jewish political state of affairs. Some of these groups were political, others patriotic, and still others merely religious.

Darkness

"The Light shineth in darkness, and the darkness comprehended it not (Jn. 1:5)."
